Sullivan was rearrested by Sheriff G. R. Crim and Deputy L. D. Campbell at Vernon. Officers saw Sullivan and a woman leaving a hospital in Olton Tuesday. The couple was overtaken by officers. The woman is declared to be Miss Susan, 18, of Gonzales, Texas, said to have been with the deserter when he was seriously wounded in New Mexico.

Deputy Sheriff G. R. Crim and Deputy Bob Miller left Wednesday morning for Sullivan. He is now in the county jail.

Cuban was taken to Tahoka, seat of Lynn county. She is expected to be wanted in Lynn county on two felony charges.

W. T. NOT GETTING FAIR DEAL, C. OF C. HEAD DECLARES

A letter of appreciation at the action taken by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, in demanding "hands off" Texas Tech, has been received from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

The action of the local booster organization was prompted by the recommendations of the Texas joint legislative committee on efficiency and economy, relative to state-supported colleges.

Littlefield Youth Suffers Gash In Leg In Auto Mishap

When making his route in the course of distribution of the Avalanche newspaper Sunday about twelve noon, the car in which Gilmer (Cotton) Egan and his brother, Buford, was riding, just north of Dick Biesel's home in the Southmoor addition, hit a rut in the road and skidded off the road and into a telephone pole, throwing both the boys out. Cotton suffered a gash in the left leg, just below the knee, and was taken by Bill Beisel to the home of a local doctor for treatment. He is able to attend to his duties as usual, but is walking with the aid of a cane. Buford was driving the car at the time of the accident, but escaped without injury.

Situation Is Discussed At Chamber of Commerce Meeting

At the weekly luncheon meeting of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce Tuesday many matters of vital interest to the city and to the South Plains were taken up and discussed. The recommendations of the joint legislative committee on efficiency and economy, relative to state-supported colleges, and the resolution of the Littlefield Booster organization, demanding "hands off" Texas Tech, as passed at last week's meeting, were discussed. It was decided that the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce would write the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Dr. Knapp, offering its services in any way possible, even to sending a delegation to Austin.

West Texas Discriminated Against. Dr. Ira E. Woods, president of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, declared that West Texas was very much discriminated against, both as to these recommendations, and also in regard to highways and other matters, and declared that he and the other members of the Littlefield chamber were all going to fight hard the next few years to try to get a fair deal for this section of the state. The president suggested that copies of the resolution as passed by the local organization be mailed to newspapers and chambers of commerce all over West Texas.

Jane Whicker, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Whicker, was painfully burned about the back and arms Thursday afternoon, when the back of her dress caught fire from a bathroom gas heater, burning her before her mother and guests in the Whicker home were able to extinguish the blaze. She was rushed to Dr. T. B. Duke's office for treatment, and though she has suffered considerably, is getting along as well as could be expected. Saturday last she contracted the "flu", from which she is recovering. Mrs. Whicker is also convalescing from the "flu."

Ratliff of that community, by Rev. J. F. Grizzle, pastor of the First Baptist church of Littlefield. Interment took place immediately thereafter in the Littlefield cemetery.

The youth was ill only three or four days, and underwent an appendicitis operation at a Lubbock hospital, after which pneumonia set in, causing his death at 1 a. m. Wednesday.

Deceased is a nephew of L. A. Ratliff of this city. Deceased left surviving him his parents, two brothers, A. J. and Chester, and one sister, Mrs. James Smith, all of Whitharral.

Here's Material for A Three-Act Play But Don't Suggest That L. C. Cawthon, Littlefield Plumber, Occupy the Leading Role; He Would Rather Be Fixing Broken Pipes

L. C. Cawthon, Littlefield plumber, appeared as a witness Monday morning in District Court at Olton. L. C. later strolled across the street to a cafe, ordered a cup of coffee, and was enjoying the warming beverage when two men entered the cafe, one taking his position at Cawthon's left, the other at his right. They were police officers. "You are wanted in the sheriff's office," the Littlefield plumber was informed. "Have I time to finish my coffee?" Cawthon inquired. "That will be all right," he was told. There have been plenty of jokes told about plumbers getting in time on a job by leaving needed wrenches at their shop, and the Littlefield plumber thought that the request of the officers was just another joke on a member of his calling. The three left the cafe, an officer in front of Cawthon, an officer behind him. They entered the sheriff's office. The officers questioned him as to where he was on the night of December 7—the night of the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hewitt, who reside on a farm three miles northeast of Olton. As far as Cawthon knew he had been carrying on his regular program in life. About that time Sheriff G. R.

Crim began to take a definite interest in what was going on in his office. It seemed strange to him that the Littlefield plumber should be questioned in connection with the robbery; it was apparent that officers didn't know the man they were questioning. Then the bomb exploded, and about that time Cawthon just about exploded; in fact, he was getting a little bit angry at what was taking place. Mr. Hewitt said that he identified Cawthon as one of the robbers. Enter Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller. "That man hasn't been out of Littlefield in six months," boomed the deputy sheriff. Exit the Littlefield plumber. Exit the officers of the law.

Cawthon sits down in a convenient chair in another office in the courthouse. He was a little bit warmed up about having been accused of robbery. Curtain Scene Two Mrs. Cawthon didn't think it very funny that her husband had been accused of robbery. Curtain Scene Three Cawthon occupying a stool in a Littlefield cafe Tuesday morning. ### THE COMMUNITY WEEKLY

A Tribute By Merlin Hull, Publisher Banner-Journal, Black River Falls, Wis. The weekly community paper renders a service distinctive in character. In a single issue it is a marketing place, a social center and a news broadcast.

The average publication serves local business by bringing it in contact with a clientele with a buying power of from one to five million dollars annually. It serves its readers by bringing them into contact with their marketing centers. It affords both the only common medium whereby those who buy have an enlarged opportunity. It permits the smaller business to contact a larger field, and the field to promote thrift by contact with every line.

Socially it serves to bring people into closer acquaintance and better understanding of common aims, purposes and accomplishment. It molds character in community life, develops confidence in local institutions and makes more effective the work of moral and educational agencies. It supplements the pulpit in character building and promotes the cause of the school.

Its news is of the activities of people who know their town and know each other. The information it furnishes has human interest as its basis and better community life in its portrayal of common events. It limits scandal by dwarfing its significance. It emphasizes moral worth by recording and commending honest achievement. It publishes the good, that good may come of it. It minimizes evil by giving it scant or no attention. It promotes worthy ambition, adds hope and cheer to the lives of many and makes for the better things of life.

The weekly newspaper serves those who have faith in themselves and their neighbors, those who believe in their state and their nation, those who have pride in their citizenship, and those whose sincere purpose is the fundamental support of all our institutions. It has no substitute. It stands alone in a great work. It can have no successor other than better weekly newspapers, with stronger powers for accomplishment, high ideals and even firmer convictions.

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Excerpts from Lamb Co. Leader)

That definite steps towards the securing of a water works system for Littlefield have been taken, is the substance of a statement made this week to a Leader representative by City Manager, Max L. McClure.

Mr. McClure advises that the City Commissioners have closed a contract with the J. Edgar Hannold Bonding company of Oklahoma City to furnish the proper proceedings for the city water system.

The Cole addition to Littlefield, consisting of 60 acres, and lying just north of the Santa Fe railroad track is being opened and thrown on the market for sale this week. The addition is being put on by Thompson Land company, under the direction of R. E. Cole, who recently came here from Kileen, Texas.

A. H. McGavock of Lockney has accepted a position with the Littlefield State Bank and moved his family here.

Miss Vernele Clark and E. B. Dromgoole, were married Saturday, at Clovis, N. M. They left Monday for their home at Mart, Texas.

J. E. Fletcher of Eric, Okla. this week purchased the A. E. White property next to the Houke Grocery and now occupied by the Sanitary Barber Shop.

H. L. Tomlinson of Falls County has purchased the stock and farming implements of G. M. Hurley and rented his farm for the coming year. Mr. Hurley is building near the city square and will move to town in the near future.

J. H. Pope this week purchased the City Tailor Shop from the Joplin Brothers. Mr. Pope hails from Lamesa, where he has been in the same kind of business.

W. L. Allen is this week erecting a building 200x150 feet on the lots formerly occupied by the Higginbotham-Bartlett lumber company.

G. S. Glenn, formerly of Lawton, Okla., has established an office with the Higginbotham-Bartlett Company. Mr. Glenn is an architect of no mean ability.

Declare Fee System Must Be Abolished

(Special To The Leader)

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 21.—Like a cancerous growth which must be uprooted before the patient is cured, the fee system must be abolished as a method of paying public officers in Texas, the Senate Fee Investigating committee will report to the next legislature.

of $633,082 in the demands upon the State Treasury, and if outstanding "receivable accounts" are collected, this will be increased to $945,625.

The committee added, however, that complete abolition of the fee system as a basis of compensation to public officials seemed the only way to stop the drain on the State Treasury which reached its height during the worst years of the depression when every taxpayer was pressed for money to meet his taxes.

Members of the committee are: Senators J. W. E. H. Beck, of DeKalb, Chairman; Carl C. Hardin, of Stephenville, vice-chairman; Joe Moore of Greenville; Tom DeBerry of Bogata; and George C. Purl, of Dallas.

PART OF ROUTE OF NORTH-SOUTH ROAD ANNOUNCED

CHANNING, HEREFORD, VEGA, DIMMITT TO BE SERVED

"A north and south Highway, which has long been sought by citizens of Dimmitt, was made possible last week when the Texas Highway Commission announced Friday that it had designated a Highway from Channing to Dimmitt, via. Vega and Hereford," says the Castro County News, published at Dimmitt.

"This proposed highway," the News continues, "will run north from Dimmitt through Deaf Smith, Oldham and Hartley counties, giving this tier of counties a northern outlet to the Colorado to Gulf highway."

"For a long time the designation of this route has hung in the balance, movements having been underway for it to pass through other points in the western tier of counties. However, the recent action of the Highway Commission assured it for this section, provided the counties named furnish the right-of-way."

"The building of the highway is contingent upon each county providing a 100-foot right-of-way, and some minor requirements will also be made, but after such requirements have been met the State will take over its maintenance.

"It is probable that a southern extension of this highway will be granted in the future, the course it will take depending upon the activity and co-operation of towns to the south in securing it. A suggested route for its extension is through Littlefield in Lamb county, Levelland in Hockley county, to Brownfield in Terry county, and these towns are now putting forth strenuous efforts to secure it.

"For the present, however, Dimmitt is rejoicing over the designation to extend to this point, and appreciates the action of the Texas Highway Commission in making this artery of commerce possible.

"It is expected that the counties affected by the new designation will with state extension services in development of a stronger agricultural program, according to Dan H. Otis, director of agricultural work for the American Bankers association.

"The only states that do not have close cooperation between the banker groups and the extension service are the New England states," Mr. Otis said in discussing his work. "There are about 40 states that are more or less active, with an agricultural program."

"We have 2,600 counties with key bankers. There are over 3,600 counties but not all of these interested in agriculture. There are many with mining or large industrial programs."

Texas not only has the largest area but it has the largest program of agricultural work for its banker's association. The state has 254 counties and in practically every one there is a key banker who works with the extension service, either the county agent or the state work at College Station.

"Georgia is following the Texas plan," Mr. Otis explained. There are a number of states that more or less follow it.

RECIPES

The following recipes have been received by the Lamb County Leader from Miss Ruby Mashburn, home demonstration agent:

Turnip Sauerkraut

Mrs. W. A. Schrier of the Sand Hill Club has used the following recipe and found it to be very good, also adds the variety of dishes that she serves her family.

The turnips should be of the purple top variety and in perfect condition. They should be young and tender as well as sweet and juicy. The turnips may be shredded or ground and mixed with salt at the rate of 4 ounces (8 tablespoons) salt to 10 pounds turnips. Pack into wooden or stone container and sprinkle top with salt. Then weight down with a suitable cover and weight. If the turnips are of prime quality there should be enough juice to cover in about 24 hours. From 15 to 20 days will be required for the fermentation to be complete, which should be carried out at room temperature. The jar should then be stored in a cool place of the fermented kraut placed in glass jars and stored. The product should be kept submerged in brine to prevent discoloring and drying.

Grainola

Missouri's Home Prepared Ready-to-Eat Cereal.

- 3 cups rolled oats.
- 3 cups corn meal.
- 3 cups whole wheat flour.
- 2 cups white flour.
- 2 tablespoons salt.
- 4 tablespoons sugar.
- 1 to 2 quarts whole milk.

Mix the dry ingredients to make stiff dough. Roll into a thin sheet like pie crust and prick. Bake in hot oven until golden brown. Grind up and serve with sugar and cream. Makes 2 to 3 quarts.

College Honors 4-H Girl

The Missouri College of Agriculture has made an award of a richly bred Holstein heifer calf to a 4-H girl in Bates county. She is Leola Hammer, and she is given the calf for having made the best record among all the dairy calf club members in the state. That means that she raised at least one dairy calf, showed it at one or more fairs with success, kept records on every item of expense and income on it, and perhaps won a place on a demonstration or dairy judging team. She may have done all these, and even more, for it takes such records to win a state honor these days.

If this heifer calf turns out as well as it should and her new owner continues in dairy work the way some other 4-H girls have she may only have started on the road to fame and fortune. Few club members are so fortunate in getting dairy calves of the ancestry this one has. And it is only possible for the Missouri college to be able to offer such stock through the generosity of a leading breeder of the state in giving the college a herd on which he had spent much money and time to build up. This is the late F. W. A. Vesper's herd, which numbers about 50 animals. No doubt many other club members will be awarded calves from this celebrated herd as the years go on.

Leola's prize calf comes from parentage with known records. Its sire is parent of heifers which have made high records at the pail. Three yielded an average of 16,697 pounds of milk containing 521 pounds of butterfat within a year. They did this as 2-year olds. This is two to three times the production of the general run of cows of that age. These records were supervised by the college dairy fieldmen, so they are accurate. The calf's mother gave 12,045 pounds of milk containing 391 pounds of butterfat as a 2-year old. Among the immediate ancestors are animals which have as good or better records. So Leola has a heifer with great possibilities. And all because she went in for 4-H training and stuck to it.

Texas Farmers Receive More For Certain Products
 Prices paid to Texas farmers on November 15 were higher than those paid to United States farmers as a whole for seven agricultural products out of the 25 commodities included in a study conducted by Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, head of the department of agricultural economics at Texas Technological College. Texas prices were lower than the average for 18 of the 25 products.

Commodities which were higher in price than the United States average include hogs, sheep, wool, corn, potatoes, and apples. Prices which were lower include wheat, cotton, hay, beef, cows, horses, mules, chickens, turkeys, eggs and butter.

Classified according to groups and compared to pre-war prices, grains were the lowest on November 15 and poultry products were the highest. On November 15, farmers received 34 per cent as much for grains as they did in 1910 to 1914. For poultry products they received 114 per cent of the 1910 to 1914 price. Other groups compared to pre-war were fruits and vegetables, 57 per cent; meat animals, 57 per cent; dairy products, 80 per cent; cotton, 47 per cent.

The above figures are increasingly significant when compared to prices paid by farmers. The last complete figures for this class are for September, and show that prices paid for maintenance of the farm family were 190 per cent of the 1910 to 1914 average. Prices of commodities used in farm production were 166 per cent of the pre-war average. Prices for machinery were 149 per cent and prices of building material were 126 per cent.

Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt

A most recent informal picture of Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, wife of the President-elect, who on March 4, 1933 becomes the "First Lady" of the land. Mrs. Roosevelt put to rest all rumors that she would carry on her outside activities after the President-elect takes office, but instead will devote her time to hostess duties at the White House.

"The Purchase Price" To Be Presented At Palace Friday Night

Barbara Stanwyck, one of the finest dramatic artists on the screen, comes to the Palace Theatre Friday night in her latest Warner Bros. picture, "The Purchase Price," a picture adapted from Arthur Stringer's great novel, "The Mud Lark."

In "The Purchase Price," Miss Stanwyck portrays a night club singer who becomes a "picture bride." Her adventures make a thrilling and exciting story, it is said, which culminates in a series of swift moving adventures including a realistic fire, during the filming of which Miss Stanwyck was burned.

Her role as the "torch singer" gives Miss Stanwyck an entirely new characterization, enhanced by her lovely singing voice which records beautifully. She is surrounded by a capable and well chosen cast, headed by George Brent, the new screen sensation who plays opposite Miss Stanwyck in the finest role of his career.

Brent is the young Irish actor, it will be remembered, who played so brilliantly in "So Big" with Miss Stanwyck, and who was seen to such advantage in Ruth Chatterman's latest picture, "The Rich are always with Us."

His role in "The Purchase Price" is easily his best characterization on the screen and comparable only to some of the early Thomas Meighan characterizations, with which that great screen star won fame and the affection of movie lovers everywhere.

Lyle Talbot, a comparative newcomer to the screen plays the role of

Installment

Pauline, sentimental, and loving love, believed that their bliss would continue unchanged the years. On her wedding day she awakens with a conviction that maybe love is a thought buried in her closet, the night before, Barbara, who had died, but now divorced, life which some of her did not understand. Barbara and Barbara is a semi-personal dislike by both, after Pauline's wedding. Barbara confesses to Pauline that there is a man she really likes and she refuses to tell his name. She insists Dennis drive her to the station. Irritated, Dennis, who is a doctor, and they are in a car. Barbara escapes injury but Dennis is broken. As he returns home he learns who the man Barbara loves. It's him. Barbara returns to stay with Pauline, but on one pretext or another she fails to visit Dennis with any regularity. Pauline is only too ready to help Dennis. This headache fitted in nicely with the scheme of things. It seemed to Pauline when, about half-past ten, she peeped into Barbara's room and found her still fast asleep. She was all ready to meet Dennis when the doctors were bringing him in his car, a man named Pauline, with whom Dennis had had a great friendship. — as she wandered about, unable to settle to anything. The little maid came to her breathlessly. "Oh, please, madam, the fruit hasn't come for dinner, and it's early closing day. What shall we do?" — Mistress and maid stared at each other aghast; then Pauline said firmly: "I'll go round to the shop myself. There's plenty of time before the master comes." She went on her errand with cheerful readiness, almost running down the garden path. It was the slamming of that gate that woke Barbara; she started up, grim, but he gave his coat to the maid and followed Barbara into the drawing room. When he was safely ensconced in the armchair he looked up at her. "You came off better than I did," he said. "Is that wrist a memento?" "Yes, but only a sprain." Barbara waved her bandaged wrist in the air to show what little damage had been done. "Will you have some tea, or shall we wait for Pauline?" "How long will she be?" "Not long. I think she has gone to the shops for something they forgot to send." "Why didn't you go with her?"

"Was it a dream that she had kissed him and implored him to speak to her? Looking at her now, he was sure it must have been."

conscious of having overslept, and glanced at the clock beside her bed—half-past three! "Heavens! What waste of lifetime!" She bathed hurriedly, dressed and went downstairs; her headache had not gone, and she felt a little heavy and depressed.

The little maid heard her in the hall and came from the kitchen. "Can I get you anything, madam?" Mrs. O'Hara said I was to go up presently and see if you were awake. "I'll have some tea, please." Barbara was at the door of the drawing room. "Why, what lovely flowers!" she said. "Are we expected visitors?"

The maid giggled. "The master, madam! He's coming home! It was to be a surprise, and—oh, dear, I believe there he is, and the mistress is out! Oh, dear, what will she say, not being here to meet him! It's long before his time, too."

She heard Dennis' voice and the pleasant voice of another man. "No, I won't come in, thanks. You've seen enough of me during the last month. Some other time. Don't overlook it, now—good-bye."

A moment, and Dennis was in the hall. He did not look ill except that he was thinner and walked with a stick. The little maid was greeting him excitedly. "I do hope you're better, sir. It's nice to see you home, I'm sure."

"Thanks." Barbara waited for him to ask for Pauline. But he did not—he came across the hall unassisted, slowly and with some difficulty; then he saw her. Barbara went forward coolly. "Welcome home," she said. She gave him her hand. "Pauline will be disappointed. She has just run out for a moment. Oughtn't you to sit down? There's a fire in the drawing room."

"Thanks," Dennis' voice was rather

"What do you mean?" "Only that as you refused so steadily to come and see me all these weeks I thought I should probably find you had run away."

Barbara laughed lightly. "You should have done, if you had come tomorrow, as you originally intended."

"You did not want to meet me?" "Oh, no. I merely had a previous engagement."

Dennis' eyes darkened. He had thought about this woman more than he cared to remember during the past tedious weeks and he had looked forward to seeing her with a queer sort of pleasurable anticipation.

Was it in a dream that she had kissed him and implored him to speak to her? Looking at her now he was sure it must have been.

But the memory of her lips on his was real enough.

Dennis looked at Barbara's lips, artificially reddened, and felt ashamed. Thank God, Pauline never made her face up—no rouged cheeks and darkened eyes. Almost angrily he contrasted the two women. Pauline with her simplicity and her whole-hearted devotion to himself, her interest and happiness in the small things of life, her pride in her home, her loyalty and sweetness—and then Barbara Stark!

A woman of the world, spoiled and insincere, a poseuse who had been taught by an unhappy experience, no doubt brought about by herself, that life was a bitter jest and that faithfulness and loyalty were nonexistent. And yet once—just for a moment—he had seen a glimpse of the real woman hidden beneath all the veneer of artificiality; or had that been the sham and this the real woman who stood before him now, cool, unruffled, almost insolent in her self-possession.

"Oh, my dear—Dennis—Dennis—speak to me!" Perhaps he had dreamed those words, perhaps they had been the conjuring of a semiconscious mind, founded on the thing that Pauline had told him—"She does love someone—frightfully!"

Was he the poor devil, then—or the lucky man? It all depended so much upon which way one looked at the question.

Dennis O'Hara sighed restlessly and shifted his stiff leg. He wished with all his heart that Barbara had gone away before he came home. She was an irritating, disturbing influence. "Oh, Dennis—darling!" Pauline burst into the room like a whirlwind and flung herself on her knees beside him. "And I wasn't here to meet you! Oh, what a shame! Does your leg hurt very much? Oh, it is lovely to see you back home." Her arms were around his neck, and she was kissing him rapturously; even his coat came in for a share of attention.

"Steady—my dear child!" Dennis glanced over his wife's head to where Barbara stood, but she had calmly turned and walked out of the room. He gently put his wife from him. "You'll have the maid in the room in a minute," he protested.

She sat back on her heels and looked at him with dancing eyes. "Aren't you glad to be home? Isn't it wonderful? Oh, Dennis, I could go mad with joy."

"I shouldn't do that, if I were you," he said comically. He took her hand and pressed it. "Of course I'm glad to be home. Stornaway brought me in his car. I asked him to come in, but he wouldn't come."

"Wise man! I suppose he guessed we should like to be alone, as it's so long since you were here."

Dennis dragged himself to his feet. "Confound my leg! Wonder how long it will be before I can walk decently. By the way, Mrs. Stark tells me she is clearing off to-morrow."

"Yes. I wanted her to stay, but perhaps it's as well—I shall have you all to myself." She snatched his hand and kissed it.

"Baby!" Dennis said, smiling. "And what about tea?" "It's coming now. I'll go and see."

Pauline rushed away, and Dennis limped over to the window and looked out into the garden.

Very tidy and neat, very suburban, he thought, and wondered why it had never struck him in that light before. Life was inclined to be humdrum—at least his life was!

Outside in the hall he heard Pauline's happy laugh, and he checked his wandering thoughts with a firm hand. "Ungrateful devil!" he apostrophized himself and turned to greet her as she came in. What more could one desire in a wife? She was loving and pretty and charming, and yet—

"Doughnuts for tea!" she said gaily. "You see I remembered how fond you are of them."

Dennis allowed her to install him in a corner of the couch, submitting with a good grace to be kissed before she gave him his tea.

"Where's Barbara?" he asked. "She's just coming in. I think she thought we might like to have a little while alone," Pauline said.

"Oh!" Dennis frowned. He wished he could cure Pauline of her sentiment.

Barbara came into the room. "Do I intrude? I'm just dying for tea. No, please don't get up, Mr. O'Hara."

"Why don't you call him Dennis?" Pauline asked. "Mr. O'hara" seems so silly and formal." "Well, if he doesn't mind," Barbara said with a charming smile. "Delighted," Dennis mumbled. "No doughnuts for me," Barbara said. "I have to consider my figure." "Barbie! when you're as slim as a willow," Pauline protested. "Oh, dear—what is it?"—for the little maid had appeared at the door. "Very well, I'll come."

She put down her cup and left the room. "Domestic cares, you see!" she said archly to Dennis.

There was a little silence when she had gone. Dennis spoke suddenly. "Are you really afraid that one doughnut will spoil your figure?"

Barbara laughed. "Not one, but one might be the thin end of the wedge to other things that would."

He frowned. "Such nonsense! You've got a beautiful figure."

What the devil had made him say that? "I beg your pardon," he muttered sullenly.

"Not at all." Barbara's voice was quite serene. "It's a great achievement to have extracted a compliment from you."

"The truth is not a compliment." "I think it is from you."

"Many thanks," Dennis said grimly. "By the way, I feel that I ought to apologize for smacking you up."

"Smashing yourself up, you mean." "Well, you hurt your wrist. Is it better?"

"Nearly well, thanks. I've had massage. It's been a very small inconvenience. I'm an idle person, you see, with nothing to do."

"Better for you if you had." She looked at him with wide eyes. "Oh, why?" she asked. "He met her gaze squarely. "It would keep you out of mischief."

CHURCHES

THE METHODIST CHURCH Sunday, December 25th

Sunday School at 9:45 a. m. Remember this is Christmas Day, and let's not forget Him at 9:45 and be at Sunday school.

Preaching at 11:00 a. m. Subject, "Jesus Christ—Who is He?" Text, Isaiah, 9-6. May we not also worship Him at this hour as they did on that great and joyous event in Bethlehem the land of Judah?

Preaching at 7:15 p. m. Come and worship with us. P. H. Gates, Pastor.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES

Midnight Services at the Sacred Heart church will be conducted on Christmas Eve night. They will consist of High Mass, appropriate sermon and Christmas carols. The time is very fitting to inaugurate the precise Christmas season according to the words, "while all things were in quiet silence, and the night was in the midst of her course"—"the Lord hath made known his salvation." During the day similar solemn services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. As ever, our church is open to visitors, and every Christian is invited to befriend himself by taking advantage of the graces proper to this holy season.

Rev. Charles J. Dvorak, Pastor.

Christmas Services at Pep.

Christmas services at Pep will be conducted in St. Philip Neri's church Christmas morning at eight o'clock. During the High Mass the choir will be directed by Mr. James Lynch, an able organist.

Everyone within the striking distance of the church is cordially invited by the pastor, Rev. Charles J. Dvorak.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH Sunday, December 25

The Presbyterian Sunday School have called off the pageant, "White Gifts for the King," which they planned for Friday evening, December 23, on account of so many of those on the program being ill.

A program and Christmas Tree will be held at the church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, when members are asked to bring their white gifts, which will be put on the tree, and given to the needy of the city. The program will consist of songs and readings.

The public is cordially invited to be present.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH CHRISTMAS

Saturday night, December 24, we will have an old time Christmas tree at the church and we invite everyone to attend. Santa will be there to help make the occasion worth while. Drop him a line and see that a present is on the tree for the kiddies, big kiddies, little kiddies, old kiddies and young kiddies.

Sunday will be a full day at the church. Beginning Sunday morning with the Sunday school we will study "God's Gift to Men." Then at 11:00 o'clock we will enjoy a program of gospel music, followed by a sermon. The morning subject will be "God's Unspeakable Gift to the Lost World."

The B. T. S. will meet just a little early and finish their work by seven o'clock if possible. Following the B. T. S. we are to have a program by the Young People directed by Mrs. J. M. Stokes and Mrs. Pat Boone.

This will give us a busy day, but if you will give us your help it will be a profitable day. Every Baptist should be in their place Sunday morning both for Sunday school and the preaching service, not alone as a duty but as a priceless privilege. We invite the public to worship with us. Let's all come together Christmas morning and get better acquainted with Him who paid the price for our redemption.

For a long time there has been a dream of a Sunday school class of one hundred men. That class is in the making and all we can say to the fellow who said it can't be done is, come and see. They are meeting in the Main auditorium of the First Baptist church. No, not a hundred yet, but watch us grow to that number soon.

JOE F. GRIZZLE, Pastor

Former Cowboy, Relative of Local Man, "Riding the Range" Rounding Up Dollars to Save His Banks

Just recently J. I. Wingfield, jeweler here, discovered that George Wingfield, at one time cowpuncher, and later possessor of $100,000,000 fortune, who is now making a last ditch fight to save his chain of twelve banks, is a distant cousin of his.

It happened that a relative of Mr. Wingfield, who lives at Muskogee, Oklahoma, attended a funeral of a connection of his at Antlers, Oklahoma, and through the conversation which took place there George Wingfield was traced up to a cousin of Mr. Wingfield of this city.

It is claimed that 70 per cent of the bank deposits in Nevada are tied up in George Wingfield's twelve banks.

An interesting account of Mr. Wingfield's activities are reported in a clipping taken from a Nevada paper, which is published herewith:

"While several Nevada communities face a second bankless month, a former cow-puncher ranges the state trying to get depositors to join him in a fighting effort to save his 12 banks.

"He is George Wingfield. He once rode the range as a cow-puncher. He rose to be a possessor of a fortune once rumored as high as $100,000,000. He became the biggest banker, the political "big shot" of the state.

"He saw his 12 banks' capital and surplus of $2,000,000 wiped out, and $6,000,000 in mortgages on cattle and sheep, farm lands, and real estate frozen so stiff as to be no assets at all. They were non-cashable assets, and as such were worth little to a bank. He saw his banks closed by Governor Baizar to give him a chance to save them. He saw only one way out, that of getting depositors to allot part of their deposits to buying of new capital stock.

"Then the depositors saw the former cowboy standing before their meeting.

"Boys," he said, "as far as ready money goes, I'm broke. Everything I have is in the closed banks. I want to work the problem out to protect the depositors. I'm not looking for sympathy. I borrowed a thousand dollars today from my friend, Jim McKay, at the Bank club, to pay the taxes on my home, and I want you to know that my losses in these banks constitute practically everything I have, I'm not trying to save anything for myself first. If there is anything left after the depositors are taken care of, that will be mine. I'm laying everything on the line, even to my shoes, and I want your help.

"That's how George Wingfield, ex-cowboy and miner, is appealing to depositors in his effort to save his banks. Advances of some $130,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation during October had failed to save them. Until January 1 they will remain closed, not in receivership, but not doing business, a unique banking holiday. During the breathing spell, the ex-cowboy fights on, while 70 per cent of the deposits in the state are tied up tight in his banks.

"George Wingfield was riding the range in Oregon 27 years ago. He obtained an interest in a mining lease in Goldfield, and cleared hundreds of thousands in a few months.

"Accustomed to the free life of the range, he tossed money into the development of the livestock industry, whose declining prices absorbed both his own capital and that of his banks. He was Republican national committeeman for 16 years, became a member of the board of regents at the state university. His daughter was presented at the Court.

"Now he is riding the range again, rounding up stockholders instead of steers, and dollars instead of dogies, of St. James."

Billie—Say, maw, much'm I worth? Mother—Why, you're worth a million to me, my dear boy.

Billie—Well, then, could you advance me a quarter?

Grocer—Now that you've inherited a little money I hope you'll pay me what you owe me.

Owen Mutch—Let's see, your name is Zimzimpur, isn't it? Sorry, old man, but I'm paying off all my creditors in alphabetical order.

larger and lower Fisher bodies with new Fisher "no-draft" ventilation, shatterproof glass in windshield and ventilators, cushion-balanced motor mounting, improved free wheeling plus synchro-mesh transmission with silent second gear, and a "starterator" for simplified starting are all listed as new standard features included in the price list.

Continual leadership of that company which led the industry in four out of the past six years, and which has just completed its year of greatest comparative success in the industry.

Twenty manufacturing and assembly plants operated in the United States, many other affiliated plants and several hundred thousand people are at work again as a result of the company's embarking on its program at this time.

New Car is Chevrolet Six

While retaining the six cylinder motor in all its fundamentals, which has proved so reliable in the hands of 3,500,000 owners since its debut in 1928, Chevrolet engineers list many major developments of minor refinements in the 1933 models, making the most radically changed and improved cars since the first Chevrolet six.

Wheelbase has been extended to 110 inches. The engine, which operates even more economically than the 1932 power plant, has been stepped up in horsepower to 65 mainly through lengthening the stroke, offering a present displacement of 206.8 cubic inches, and delivering a top speed of well over 70 miles per hour.

In appearance the car differs radically from any previous Chevrolet model, the "aer-stream" styling representing a medium between conventional streamlining and modified "tear drop" design. The motif of the new leaning V-Type radiator is carried out through slanting hood doors, and sharply slanted windshield pillars on to the rear end, where an extension of the rear body panel sweeps outward and downward, screening the gasoline tank, and the axle and under carriage of the car.

Starting Button Eliminated

The starting button has been eliminated, and a "Starterator" added, by means of which the motor starter is engaged simply by depressing the accelerator pedal. This is provided with an automatic cut-out, so that with the motor operating the pedal performs only as an accelerator. This feature is said to add greatly to the facility of driving, especially in cases where the motor may stall in heavy traffic. The motor may be restarted without moving the foot from the accelerator, the hands from the steering wheel or the eyes from the road ahead.

Another important new device for furthering economy is the addition of an octane selector, added, because various types of gasoline differ widely in octane content. The new Chevrolet selector enables the driver to get the highest possible operating efficiency out of all grades of gasoline.

Outstanding among the new features is the "cushion-balanced motor mounting, or "sta-namic balancer," as engineers designate it. The latter name comes from the fact that the new mountings effectively dampen out all vibrations set up by both static and dynamic residual forces.

Sub Frame is New Feature.

An important new engineering feature is the Chevrolet sub frame. The new engine rests entirely on this sub-frame, with four points of support, and the whole of its weight is carried on two lateral supports, so located that the motor is balanced on its center of gravity. This method anchors the engine to the frame at its point of minimum movement, as against the practice of attaching it at front and rear, where greatest movement occurs, and where very soft rubber has to be used in order to control the excessive movement at these two extreme points.

The new bodies, coupled with the over-all appearance of the car, emphasize at a glance the radical departure from the conventional of even only two

The closed body the exclusive notion feature, which permits of greater air access without drafts and prevents rain or snow from entering the body. Windows are longer and lower, affording better visibility. A broad moulding marks the bodies just below the window line of various models.

The new radiator, of the popular "V" type, slopes sharply to the rear and accentuates the impression of speed imparted by the new styling. The radiator shell, instead of being chrome plated, harmonizes with the hood color, giving the appearance of greater length to the hood. Vertical ribs in the radiator grille also accentuate height in the proportions of the radiator.

In line with increased performance of the engine, both front and rear brakes are redesigned and enlarged to provide increased deceleration.

I am glad of this opportunity to greet you atuletide and wish for all a Very Merry Christmas and the Happiest of Happy New Years.

CHEVROLET PRESENTS A NEW SIX

Longer • Larger • Faster • Smoother • New in Styling • More Economical • And Featuring Fisher No-Draft Ventilation

THIS is Chevrolet Week throughout America. And the new car that millions have been watching and waiting for—the latest product of the world's leading builder of automobiles—is now on display: the New Chevrolet Six—at a new scale of low prices. Front, side, rear—inside, outside—everything about this new car is advanced, improved, exciting. Longer wheelbase makes it the biggest automobile in today's low-price field. The latest principle of car design, "Aer-Stream" styling, gives it a totally different, ultra-modern appearance. The new Fisher bodies are larger, wider—faultlessly streamlined—swung lower to the road—and offer the first basic improvement in travel comfort in over ten years: Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. Chevrolet performance in every gear is faster, flashier, more brilliant. The time-proved six-cylinder engine is more powerful as well as more economical. Improved Free Wheeling is combined with a "silent second" Synchro-Mesh gear-shift. Chevrolet engineers have developed a remarkable new invention that wins a complete victory over vibration: The Cushion-Balanced Engine Mounting. And as far as prices are concerned, several models now sell at the lowest figures in Chevrolet history. Chevrolet is able to do all this because Chevrolet has the advantage of being the world's largest builder of cars for 4 out of the past 6 years. Chevrolet builds cars in greater volume—buys materials in greater quantities—does everything on a bigger, more economical scale. Hence, Chevrolet is in a position to provide a better car at a better price than could possibly issue from any other source. The leader can accomplish what others dare not try!

The Brooklyn movie fan who wants to rush a hand-painted mustache out to Clark Gable, can now avail himself of the new overnight air express service between New York and Los Angeles.

Leaving at the close of the business day from Newark Airport, the planes arrive on the Pacific coast by breakfast time in the morning.

Windowless planes carrying a half-ton of securities, checks, and perishable freight inaugurated the two way eighteen-hour schedule on December 12. The Air Express Corporation, to insure this extraordinarily fast schedule for package transport, has signed a contract with the Phillips Petroleum company for its entire requirement of 80 Octane aviation gasoline and lubricating oils.

Mercy Hospital Slaton, Observes Third Anniversary

On the eve of Thanksgiving, 1929, Mercy Hospital was dedicated. Ever since the Old Man Depression has been with us, but despite the depression Mercy Hospital is proud of its record of service. Over a thousand patients have been treated at Mercy Hospital since it opened its doors. Our motto is the motto of Christ, "when you do it to one of these my little ones, you do it to Me." This was the motto of the Sisters of Mercy in the battlefields during the Civil War. It is still their motto. We don't like to see anybody sick, but if sickness should come to you or your friends Mercy Hospital is the place where you will receive the best care and nursing. All our nurses are graduate nurses. We use no practical nurses. We have no student nurses. The sick need the best nurses. On our hospital staff we have some of the most competent surgeons and physicians in West Texas. Our staff is an open staff; hence any doctor of good repute in the State of Texas may practice in Mercy Hospital. This gives the patient every advantage. He selects his own doctor. In Mercy Hospital no "splitting of fees" is tolerated. This protects the patient from unnecessary expenses. The Sisters of Mercy are ever mindful of the fact that they have willingly dedicated themselves to the Service of the Master Christ and have tried at all times to be most reasonable in their charges, hence they try to keep hospital bills as low physical and moral requirements are very high. Many applicants are eliminated at the preliminary examination. Only men who are able bodied, strong, active and free from disease; unmarried and of good reputation; a citizen of the United States or with first papers; between 18 and 35 years of age for a first enlistment and able to speak, read and write the English language will be accepted.

President Hoover meant when he suggested that the European debts to this country might be settled in the currencies of the debtor nations, clearing up that point so that any layman can comprehend the subject. Briefly, Mr. Huntington-Wilson argues that the alarmingly low price levels of wheat and cotton, and all other farm products, are now being caused by the high value of the American dollar as compared with the low values of other countries.

The book has been written after consultation with many of the leading experts on finance in both Occidental and Oriental countries, among them being Mr. Rene Leon, widely regarded as the leading foreign exchange and metallic money expert in this country.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL ECHOES

By Mary Healy and Kathryn Jones

Last Friday afternoon there was a very interesting program given of which Mrs. Riley was in charge. Hall Rowe gave imitations of animals. There was a play given by Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Riley and Miss Jones called "Milk, Eggs and Toast." A negro piece was given by Bessie Sharp. A song was sung by Anna Brandt's little niece.

The play, "Romance of the Plains" was given by the seventh grade boys. Frances Barton played a piece on the piano called "Paradise." Ada Belle Mason sang "But We Just Couldn't Say Good-bye," with music furnished by Helen Rumbaek. H. C. Pumphrey played "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain." Maurine Iron and Dorothy Dalton danced. Also Maurine gave a reading. Mary Healy gave "An Auto Ride." and Kathryn Jones gave "A Coquette Conquered."

The program was enjoyed by all. Several children have returned back to school after being sick with the flu, while others recently have just begun, and others are still having it.

CHICAGO . . . . . next year

My Chicago friends are beginning to get excited about the "Century of Progress Exposition" which is to be held in the city by Lake Michigan next year. The municipality of Chicago is in serious financial stress, but there is still an awful lot of money in Chicago, and probably the most intense public spirit that exists in any large city in America.

Many years ago Chicago adopted the motto "I will." That is still the Chicago spirit. Regardless of hard times the leaders in Chicago's civic life who set out to build the world's greatest fair for 1933 have succeeded in raising the necessary millions, and from what I am beginning to hear about it I get the impression it will be the most wonderful showing of the resources, the peoples, the art and the scientific and technical development of the whole world that has ever been brought together.

At least, that is what my Chicago friends say that it will be, and I have never known Chicago to fail when it really set out to do something.

MONEY . . . . . and prices

Thirty years ago W. J. Bryan nearly captured the Presidency with his economic theory that farmers would get more for their products if there was more money in circulation. In a new book published by the Century Company of New York, F. M. Huntington-Wilson, who was Under-Secretary of State in the Wilson Administration, handles the same theme, although along different lines. The book is called, "Money and the Price Level."

The author points out exactly what

A. H. McFarland Spends Week Here

A. H. McFarland, at one time resident of this section but recently of Drummond, Okla., returned to his home Friday after spending a week here visiting friends and looking after business interests.

Mr. McFarland claims the distinction of building one of the first barns in this section, having purchased in 1916 440 acres on Oklahoma avenue, a mile east of town, and improving the land with outbuildings. There was already a house on the property, according to Mr. McFarland. This is the property now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Reid.

Mr. McFarland worked the land until 1920, when he moved to Drummond, Okla., but makes annual trips to Littlefield, admitting he would like to be back here. He is wheat and stockfarming three miles from Drummond, owning 150 head of cattle and sheep.

He was accompanied here by Charlie Thompson of Gage, Oklahoma, a prospect, who was looking over this section.

Stephenville Farmer Moves To Hart's Camp Community

R. R. Fulfer of near Stephenville, in Erath county, purchased 320 acres with improvements in the Hart's Camp community, and about a month ago moved his family to the Plains. Mr. Fulfer visited the Leader office and subscribed for the paper.

as regards the facilities for agricultural education.

The resolution also called upon the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and Chambers of Commerce throughout West Texas to take similar action.

The report of the Texas legislative committee declares that all technical courses, including equipment, should be removed from Texas Tech to the A. & M. college.

The Letter

The letter received from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce reads as follows:

"Mr. Morley B. Drake, Editor, Lamb County Leader, Littlefield, Texas.

"Dear Mr. Drake: I have just noticed in the Lamb County Leader of December 15, the resolution which your Chamber of Commerce has passed in connection with the recommendation of the legislative committee in regard to institutions of higher education in West Texas and particularly the Texas Technological College here at Lubbock.

"I notice that you made the motion introducing this resolution and I want to express to you, both personally and on behalf of this section and the Tech, our very deep and sincere appreciation for the action you have taken.

"Allow me to say at this time that we do very, very much appreciate the action of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce in passing this resolution and to say that, in our opinion, it is now up to West Texas to stand shoulder to shoulder and fight for our rights.

"A little later we will furnish you facts, figures, data and information that we hope will enable you to back up this resolution in a very definite and concrete way, for it is our opinion that the time has come for West Texas to demand proper recognition and credit as well as equity and justice from the State, and certainly the recommendation in regard to the Tech and other West Texas schools is not fair, equitable or just.

"We could give you dozens of illustrations where West Texas has been legislated against, ignored and, we could almost say, sneered at by other parts of the State.

"It has been our opinion that West Texas should work with every other section of the State and every other section of the State should work with West Texas, all for the good of the State as a whole, but it seems that other sections absolutely will not accept this policy or ideal, and if they won't, we do not know anything to do but for every community in West Texas to join hands and demand what is right and equitable and fair for West Texas.

"Your resolution has done this. You can take the lead in this matter much better than we can. You have already started the ball to rolling with the resolution you passed and which also called upon West Texas Chambers of Commerce to take similar action to that of your organization, but we would like to suggest that you follow this up and address a letter to every Chamber of Commerce and every newspaper in West Texas, urging them to take similar action.

"Again thanking you for the resolution you passed and for the progressive and broad visioned motives back of same, I am

"Sincerely yours, A. B. Davis,

"Lubbock Chamber of Commerce." (Editors Note: Copies of the resolution are being mailed to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Chambers of Commerce throughout West Texas, and to newspapers in this section of the state.)

ANTON BAND MAY GO TO WORLD FAIR

Plans are underway by directors and officials of the Anton Gypsy band, official W. T. C. C. musical organization, to send the aggregation to the Chicago World's fair in 1933. J. W. Thornhill, Lubbock, and Jimmie Ellis, are directors.

Season's Greetings

If it were possible for me to step into the homes and business places of Littlefield and Lamb county and extend you the right hand of friendship, I'd be glad to do it this Christmas Season. For the spirit of Christmas is the spirit of friendship.

I want you to know that I appreciate most sincerely your friendship and the splendid volume of business which you have extended me.

I am always at your service. Sincerely, J. T. BELLOMY

LITTLEFIELD KITTIES WIN OVER SPADE; BOYS LOSE TO SPADE, SHALLOWATER

The Littlefield High School Kitties were successful Saturday night in giving the Spade girls a beating that they will not forget. Although the score was a close one, it did not represent the game in the least, the Littlefield girls taking a lead in the first few minutes of play and keeping the lead throughout the game.

All the girls of the home sextet played a good game of basketball, but the goal throwing of Minnie Bell Cobb was what made it possible for the Littlefield girls to keep the game at their command throughout the playing periods.

At the end of the game, the score was: Littlefield, 29; Spade, 28.

The lineup for the Littlefield team was: Forwards, M. B. Cobb, Opal Carpenter, Jewel Byers and Ora Carpenter. Guards, Lucille Hall, Helen Rumback, Hazel Hobson, and Zora Mae Morgan.

The Littlefield High School boys basketball team played Spade boys

MAX E. TOUCHON TRUCK LINE

A Christmas Gift To Those Who Owe Me Money

Realizing the economic stress of the present times and knowing the impossibility of people paying their honest debts, I have owing to me on notes and open accounts some three thousand dollars, which I wish to present to my customers under the following conditions:

Any individual who owes me money on notes or open account and who is now unemployed or without funds can, by calling at my office, receive the notes or accounts marked paid in full with no strings attached other than that I shall receive some of their cash business in the future.

I am making this offer in good faith and feel that no one who is able to pay will take an unfair advantage.

Yours for a Merry Christmas and a Better and Happier New Year.
