WASHINGTON By George Durno

Vanished—Some of the Republican, particularly in the North Atlantic states, are still a bit bewildered over the magnitude of the latest Democratic victory.

Pennsylvania, for example, went Republican as a result of the Battle of Gettysburg and remained so down through the years on the battle cry of high protective tariffs.

But Congress no longer regulates the tariff. That all-important function was handed over to the President and the Secretary of State.

In New England a Congressional candidate in days gone by had only to point out the dangers of giving the Democratic South control.

Now child labor is out. NRA has established definite wage minimums and differentials.

Premises of Rivers and Harbors improvements used to be a sure-fire bait for local candidates.

Since this column disclosed that New Deal master-minds were cogitating over a new public works program that might call for 25 billion dollars over a 5-year period, many inquiries have been received.

First, an immediate cash bonus payment would absorb half of the first year's allotment for public works, etc., and cripple many broad long-range plans now on the fire.

Second, New Deal economists figure that money paid to bonus-takers would go more toward paying old debts than buying new merchandise, thereby putting the money into banks rather than circulation.

And finally, of course, is the argument against special class treatment which Mr. Roosevelt voiced many years ago in dire need.

In this connection a new and insistent school of thought is seeking the President's ear on the bonus issue.

Calvin Coolidge strengthened his political position by vetoing a bonus bill back in the high days of prosperity when Uncle Sam was reducing his national debt and taxes simultaneously.

Politicians and others urging the veto were mindful of the post-war voting generation. Young men and women balloted for the first time last week who were four years old when we went into the World

City Finances In Good Shape

October Statement Made Public By City Comptroller Whitney

October financial statement for City of Big Spring reflected a sound financial condition, according to the monthly report of Herbert W. Whitney, city comptroller.

Five departments showed under runs of their budgets while four showed over runs. For the first seven months of the fiscal year, a net over run of $2,294.51 has occurred, chiefly due to added cost of administration in the water department since consumption increased so perceptibly during the year.

Water revenues for October amounted to $5,304.27, being $699.57 less than for the preceding month, but $1,094.13 more than for the same month a year ago.

Whitney noted satisfactory response to the city's quarterly payment plan, 131 having paid first quarter of their current taxes on or before October 21.

Ackerly Gets Light Shower; Varies In County; Little Hope For More

Rain, falling in this area Tuesday afternoon and night, centered its intensity in a path southwest of here, bringing as much as 2 inches to many Glassecock county ranches.

Rainfall in the city of Big Spring varied, the U. S. Weather Bureau at the airport west of here registering 1.27 inches and the U. S. Experimental Station north of the city recording .79 inches.

Vincent received even less. Overcast skies Wednesday afternoon promised slight hope to farmers and stockmen of that vicinity.

At Coahoma the rainfall during the evening was said to have averaged about half an inch.

Mrs. Steve Calverley said that the gauge at Garden City showed 1.80 inches Wednesday morning. East of Garden City a 3.50 inch rain fell. West of the town the downpour trailed off into a half inch fall.

Red Cross Roll Call Under Way

Ginnings Are Running Ahead Of 1933 Crop

Annual Red Cross roll call began here Wednesday with a full corps of workers canvassing the business district, industrial and residential sections.

Though no accurate reports could be had Wednesday afternoon, B. J. "Red" Cook, roll call chairman, said indications were that the drive was being greeted with good response.

Several had called by his office to volunteer memberships. Foran workers sent in for additional supplies, thus indicating success for the roll call in that sector.

The drive was also to have got under way at Coahoma Wednesday with A. W. Thompson in charge.

Cook said that every effort was being made to complete the drive locally by the end of this week.

He stressed the importance of each adult taking a $1 membership instead of having one membership for an entire family.

He said that roll call at Garden City would be inaugurated at a later date.

Lions Hear L. S. Miller

Club Learns First Hand Of Plans For Community Advancement

Concerted steps for community advancement were outlined to Lions Wednesday by L. S. Miller, cooperating with the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, in the organizing and effecting of the Big Spring Forward Movement.

The day has come when the American city is rebuilding to meet the needs of a new day, said Miller. Demands upon business for the past few years have made it imperative that business revive itself, he declared.

Big Spring is the logical center of a trade area comprising 18 counties, he asserted and as the center of the area is not availing itself of opportunities for trade extension.

With millions of visitors coming into the state for the centennial celebration in 1936, this city is in a strategical position to advertise itself, he said.

Decentralization of industry affords opportunities to this city in the advancement of an industrial program, he continued. Basic element for this and any community, he told Lions, is mutual unselfish cooperation.

Miller briefly outlined plans under several divisions of activity which are contemplated in the forward movement. "This is more than a campaign or a drive where we go out with a few cards and raise some money," he said.

He also called attention of club members to a zone meeting in Colorado Tuesday evening.

Annual ladies' night program was staged by Rotary club of Big Spring Tuesday night at the Settles ballroom, with approximately 85, including visiting Rotarians from Midland and Sweetwater and invited guests in attendance.

The banquet was begun at 7:45, after a club assembly of committee chairman had been held on the mezzanine with District Governor Thos. Taylor of Brownwood in charge.

Dr. M. H. Bennett acted as toastmaster. Following the sumptuous banquet dinner, served by the Settles Coffee shop, Toastmaster Bennett introduced President Fred Wemple of the Midland Rotary club and President James A. Davis of the Big Spring club.

The program, which was arranged by Program Chairman Ben Carter, was entered into. The first part, a splendid musical feature, which was the three vocal numbers rendered by C. A. Bulot, newcomer to Big Spring, where he is manager of the National Supply Company.

Miller was introduced by C. T. Watson who reminded the club that "cities do not happen—they are built."

The club was favored with two vocal numbers by a women's trio composed of Mrs. Willard Reed, Miss Ruby Bell and Mrs. R. E. Blount and accompanied by Mr. Jimmy Hicks.

Mr. Taylor said he was going to speak on "Things in General," but he would ramble along and would touch on almost any subject, but would occasionally get back to Rotary, which, after all was a simple thing.

 War. To them the American Legion represents a bunch of grey-heads who parade every once in a while and reminisce about a war the new voters learned of in their history books at school. Unless papa is in the breadline the bonus is so much baloney to most of them.

Horns
 Southern Democracy is going to be confronted with a delicate problem from its angle when Congress meets in January. This column has no desire to raise the race issue but merely to report the facts. They concern the impending arrival on the Washington scene of Arthur W. Mitchell, the Negro Democrat from Chicago who defeated Republican Rep. Oscar De Priest also a Negro.
 Higher-ups in Democratic National headquarters have boasted privately for months that they could pick up House seats in both Chicago and Harlem—if they chose to nominate a member of the colored race as their candidate. They invariably explained this wouldn't be done because of the Southern Democrats.

Explosion
 The question of irreducible costs enforced by wage and hour limitations ties in with the above. Some auto men privately express a strong preference for quitting business rather than assume a cost burden which would make profit prospects as remote as Mars. Labor will press hard for shorter hours and a larger wage differential between skilled and unskilled workers. If its demands are backed by the government you can look for an explosion that will dwarf Vesuvius.

Lesser
 The contest for labor leadership is becoming more acute. The Mechanics' Educational Society has made rapid strides in recent months and is about set to challenge the A. F. of L. Its threat to call a blanket strike in January if the industry doesn't come across with "thirty dollars for thirty hours" is far from idle. Insiders admit it could paralyze many plants by calling out workers on key jobs. Granting of its demands by the industry is as likely as full payment of the French debt to Uncle Sam.

NEW YORK
 By James McMullin
Questions
 The stage is being set in the motor industry for the most important act in the capital-labor drama you have seen in a long time. The elements of conflict—some of them mentioned before in this column—are crystallizing in a form which must lead to a decisive showdown. Well-posed New Yorkers believe the final outcome is likely to set the tempo for relations between labor and management in all industry for many years to come.
 To get the full picture it is necessary to realize there are five different questions at stake—each fundamental both to labor aspirations and to the defense of business conservatism.
 1. Will an annual wage system be forced on industry in an effort to stabilize employment?
 2. Can the principal of minimum wages and maximum hours—implying that industry's responsibility to workers ranks ahead of its duty to stockholders—be broadened and enforced permanently at the probable cost of widespread business casualties?
 3. Does the future of organized labor rest with the American Federation or will it pass into the hands of more aggressive groups?
 4. Can employer-fostered company unions survive?
 5. How far has the government the right to intervene between employer and employee?
 Add to these vital issues the fact of the company's own interests.

DEMOCRACY'S SHAME
 Fully 50,000 persons felt that they had to attend the funeral services for "Pretty Boy" Floyd. They got in everybody's way, jammed traffic in the little Oklahoma town beyond endurance, and made a of the constitutional reforms which were refused. Domergue. He is understood privately to favor a gold embargo. Watch for it—accompanied by ringing declarations for home consumption that it means protection—not abandonment of the gold standard. The effect will be to devalue the franc in foreign exchange, throw the world monetary situation into a tail-spin and probably hasten stabilization by international agreement.

Wall
 The industry's first move to check mate the annual wage proposal is a voluntary plan to space production more evenly throughout the year. This will smooth out the seasonal employment curve and it's hoped will spike the demand to guarantee jobs by law.
 But it will also make existence tougher than ever for the small independents. Under the old system—which virtually restricted current production to cars whose sale was assured the minute they came off the assembly line—only small working capital was required. The new arrangement calls for much larger amounts of liquid capital. You can level out production—but distribution will still be subject to seasonal whims of purchasers. This means that manufacturers must be in a position to carry large inventories of finished cars during months of slack selling.
 Ford and General Motors and Chrysler can manage it but some of the little fellows might be driven to the wall—which wouldn't help employment.

Low Kodrick
Takes O'Shea
 Double Main Event For Friday Of This Week
 Low Kodrick, the "little giant from Austria," battered the tough Irishman, Eddie O'Shea, into submission Tuesday night.
 After fifty minutes of intense wrestling Low forced O'Shea to pat the mat with a short arm scissor. Eddie proved to the fans that he could "take" the rough stuff as well as give it. He fought desperately, but he got out of the start hold but was so paralyzed after the fall that he could not return to the ring.
 Blondy Chrane, the youthful Abilene grappler, wore Ken Gaston down and took him with two straight falls.
 The first came in fourteen minutes with a rocking chair split, and the second fall in thirteen minutes with an airplane spin.
 There was also a good preliminary three round boxing exhibition. Wrestling night has been changed to Friday, and will start this Saturday with a double main event. Low Kodrick will try Jimmy Murphy, the wild Irishman from Detroit, and Blondy Chrane will meet Eddie O'Shea.
 On the semi-final will be Ace Abbell and Will Perry.

Revs. Bickley And Crawford Attending Abilene Conference
 Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Bickley and Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Crawford left for Abilene Wednesday morning, where they will attend sessions of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference convening in that city.
 Rev. Bickley said he expected the report of condition of the First Methodist church here would rank among the best in the conference. "Our benevolence claims have been paid in full and all indebtedness against the church has been paid in full. There have been 150 additions to the church this year, which I think will be the best report of any of the churches in this district. I want to compliment the Women's Missionary society of the church for its active work throughout the year, as well as the young people's work. Much credit for the success of our church this year must go to the chairman of the board of stewards, S. P. Jones, Miss Nell Hatch, general superintendent of the Sunday school, and Mrs. C. C. Carter, president of Missionary, as well as the officers, teachers and members of the board of stewards."
 Announcement of pastoral assignments will be made Sunday night.

"DIXIE BLACKBIRDS" READY FOR PERFORMANCE AT CITY AUDITORIUM FRIDAY NIGHT

The members of the Kappa Phi Omega announced at their regular meeting at the Crawford Hotel Tuesday night that their big-time minstrel show would be ready for a finished and polished performance by Friday night, November 16, at the city auditorium.
 A costume trunk arrived in Big Spring from the Wayne P. Sewell Theatrical company the first of the week and it contained 360 pieces of colorful minstrel costumes. The Kappa Phi Omega promises to transport their audience to the land of the old plantation in the first act, and they will be entertained by jokes, buck, and wing dancing and beautiful song numbers such as "Underneath the Cotton Moon", "Darktown Wedding Day", "The Mammy Song" and a song and dance number by the entire circle and eight lovely girls in colorful evening dresses, entitled "Down Where The Sunflowers Grow."
 "The Dark Triangle" promises to be the hit of the evening. This skit gives the inside dope on a negative divorce case. Talented Martin McCuskey as "Mandy", a high-stepping "yaller gal" who goes to "Attorney Alexander Butler" (Miller Harris) not only to obtain a divorce from her old fashioned husband, Elmo Martin, but also to secure a new one. This scene is brought to a tuneful close by the "Old Fashioned Papa" chorus, danced by eight of Big Spring's most talented young ladies.

 The bureau added feeding is still expected to be "somewhat smaller" than last season.
 Shipments of feeder lambs into the corn belt last month was described as twenty per cent larger than the same month of last year.

Among the many pretty autumn parties this week was that given by Mrs. M. K. House at the Settles Hotel when she entertained members and substitutes of the Tuesday Luncheon Club.
 A Thanksgiving motif heralded the approaching holidays, by the use of candy grains of corn for plate favors and an ivory bowl filled with mistletoe. Pumpkin seed-pads and fruit taffies also carried out the motif.
 After the luncheon the guests went to the clubroom for contract bridge. Mrs. Phillips scored high.
 Present were: Mmes. Ira Thurman, W. W. Inkman, Shine Phillips, J. Y. Robb, Fred Keating, C. S. Blomfield and Tom Helton. Mrs. Helton will be the next hostess.

Dr. Ed Calloway Dies In Midland

MIDLAND—Death shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday morning ended the medical and surgical career of Dr. Ed Calloway, 65, described by the hundreds who knew him as one of the most "amazing paradoxes of his profession."
 Dr. Calloway probably administered more "charity cases" during the approximately 35 years his hospital stood on North Main street than any other West Texas doctor. It was a familiar statement of his friends that "Money to Dr. Calloway was simply a means to an end." Tales were told over the years about his having treated hebs of families without charge and supplying dependents at the same time with necessities.
 Dr. Calloway, whose death resulted directly from a paralytic stroke suffered recently, had been in declining health since an automobile accident about five years ago. One of his arms was pinned under the machine and his surgical skill was hampered to some degree from that time to his death.

Mrs. Noel Lawson Entertains Club

Mrs. Noel T. Lawson gave the members of the Petroleum Bridge Club a pretty fall party Tuesday afternoon when she entertained in the clubroom of the Settles.
 Leaf taffies, bowls of chrysanthemums and the refreshment plate were emblematic of the autumn season. Three nice gifts of china were presented the prize-winners: Mrs. McDonald received a sandwich plate for club high score, Mrs. Terry a fruit bowl for visitors high and Mrs. Faw a cake plate and lifter for high cut.
 Those enjoying this pretty party were: Mmes. W. D. McDonald, J. L. Terry, H. E. Faw, Roy Cobbs, H. L. Carpenter, Joe Ernest, Harry Lester, Steve Ford, R. F. Schell, G. H. Wood, V. H. Fiewelton, Geo. Wilke, Albert M. Fisher, Emil Fahrkamp, R. C. Strain and W. S. Goldman.

 The convention, to be held in Galveston this year, will be addressed by several outstanding educators and is being heralded as one of the most important conventions ever staged by the teachers.

 Mrs. Pauline C. Brigham, county superintendent, said Wednesday that several rural school teachers were planning on going to Galveston and urged that trustees allow these teachers to attend.
 She said that teachers from Big Spring, Midway, Moore, Highway, and Forsan had planned on going to the convention. Miss Anna Martin, county superintendent-elect, will attend the sessions.
 City schools and many of the rural schools will dismiss school for the Thanksgiving holidays November 28. The convention convenes Nov. 29.

Chapter 24 CLEVER FOE

Marian couldn't think clearly. She was too tired, too sick at heart. She heard the purr of a motor, caught the flash of headlights on the windows and, turning over, nestled her head into the pillow and feigned sleep. Lon was moodily silent the next morning. He kissed her lightly and went off to work with scarcely a word. Marian did not go to the hilltop, but she didn't need to see the car she heard coming to know to whom it belonged. Only one car had such her detective friend. Perhaps in this was the evidence she needed to convince Lon to McSwain's part in the Sacramento trip. She dispatched Waki to look over the ground and see what was needed to beautify them, while she hurried into the house.

Two pages of closely typed words confronted her. Dear Marian: Sorry to send you this report but it is the best I could do. I'm afraid McSwain's too clever a man for a girl like you to fight single-handed. I'd advise you to talk to your father as soon as possible. "Now about the telegrams. I an asthmatic cough, Waki's. "Missa Casad say come up fix him garden," Waki explained. "Alla same come after say not come alla same say come. I here." Marian gave an unnecessarily brilliant smile in response. Interpreted, Waki's message meant that last night Lon had driven down to do as she asked and she was free of the Hondon gardener. "Alla same come in postman," Waki was saying, working meanwhile to extract a letter from the inside of his sweater. "Come me like you say. See Missa O. K. Waki." Marian nearly snatched the envelope from his hand. The letter, relayed through the only person she could trust, was from John King, started here, learning the telegram had actually been sent from Sacramento. The wording follows: To Lionel Casad, Construction Office East Brazos High school. Lon dear please go to safety deposit box find letter written by Cliff to Silver Hondon stop address and mail to me Congressional Hotel, Sacramento stop send air-mail special delivery stop vitally urgent, Marian.

"Alla same come in postman," Waki was saying.

Marian leaned back in the chair, Clever, how clever. Of course McSwain, knowing it was coming and having arranged to have Lon leave his car at home for her to use in leaving town, was ready to take aim to the bank. She was willing to wager that he had also accompanied Lon to the vault and ascertained not only that he had found the right letter, but that he did not have time to read it. McSwain had risked nothing. He was able to gauge Lon's lack of knowledge of the letter, by his attitude towards him. It had never changed from respectful admiration. She turned back to the report: My operative in Sacramento checked with Telegraph Office there, learned that Messenger 305 had brought it in and talked to the boy. He said he was hauled from an automobile at the curb. A lady with red hair and Again Marian said the letter aside. She had worn a tan and white sports suit. Lon's car had a silver V hood trim and that there was a police dog in the car. They made proof that she did not need it impossible.

INDICTED

She read on: I checked the first message. The relay mentioned by the operator who talked to you, was included in the message. It came from a pay station at the main stage depot. I checked two other calls from that same depot into the city. They were received at this end at a pay station in the Union Depot.

So there you are and where are you? You spoke of paying me as soon as you were in touch with your father. Forget it. You've given me enough free publicity in the past to more than pay for this. Besides I'm interested, and with your permission I'll watch this end. I'll communicate with you through Mister Waki. Hoping to be of more assistance in the future, I am,

John King. Marian folded the letter and put it back in its envelope. She called Waki in, asked him to take the letter home and put it in a safe place, and then turned halfheartedly to a pretense of interest in her garden.

They passed like long grey ribbons slowly rolled into a spool. Monotonous days devoid of any high lights. Lon was sullen. He would come in, touch her cheek with his lips, clean up for dinner, and with the newspaper folded to the sports page, go on with his meal without a word to her. Dinner over she would retire to the seclusion of a book, and read until long after the sun had set.

Even the weather became grey. Mt. Diablo disappeared behind a gauze veil, only the pinnacle piercing the fog. The wind blew and dust from the valley swirled about the house. Down in the orchard the pickers were shaking the trees, the fruit falling with soft plops into the muslin spread beneath, to be packed in trays and rushed to the drier.

Marian made futile gestures to fill the day, canned fruit, pickled walnuts, made more jam than the two of them would use in a lifetime. And she read, read all of the books she had been wanting to read, trying to find momentary release from her worries.

By Friday she was ready to declare a truce. She felt that even the presence of the Hondon gardener was preferable to this misunderstanding with Lon which persisted like the dull ache of a wound. She made a few overtures that evening only to be met with monosyllabic answers from Lon.

The next morning, gloomy with a storm brooding in the hills, he stopped at the door. "I'll probably be late tonight," he said, "don't wait dinner for me. I'll eat with the boys—we're having a little get-together."

Annual Reunion Dinner For T. C. U. Ex-Lettermen

PORT WORTH (Sp.)—The annual reunion dinner of ex-lettermen of Texas Christian University will be held at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, Nov. 16, on the eve of the Homecoming T. C. U.-Texas football game, according to announcement by Mack Clark, track coach at the school.

The varsity and freshman football squads will be guests at the dinner, which will be a stag affair. Ex-lettermen will also be allowed to bring as many male guests as they wish, Clark said.

The program will be informal, with talks from prominent visitors and entertainment from a local radio station.

Albino Deer Killed RALEIGH, N. C. (UP)—An albino deer has been killed in Northampton county, and presented to the state museum. The 170-pound buck is only the second of his species ever to be received at the museum.

ARE YOU GETTING THE MOST OUT OF SCHOOL LIFE?

Are you getting the most out of your school? That is a question that confronts most of us. You ask what there is to get out of school.

First and most important of all is the courses that you are taking. A student that gets all he can from his studies will benefit much more than one who "just gets by."

Second item a student should get out of school life is a worth-while participation in extra-curricular activities. In Big Spring high school there are many activities for the average student to take part in.

Third thing that kept up and never would give a student in B. S. H. S. a well rounded education not only in his or her studies but in his social and civic life.

At last a District championship is within the Steer's grasp. For years the Steers have struggled along, losing a game, then winning one, but never victorious in all conference games, as probably they will be this year.

The Steers, if victorious against McCamey and Colorado are to play El Paso, and the location has not yet been decided. The Steers will be dogged slightly over El Paso and if they win will go into the quarter-finals against some team such as Amarillo, Ranger or Pampa.

Vicious Plot To Defeat The Ends Of Justice Revealed

The truth's out: the true story has been revealed about how the toughies in Junior high used to escape punishment.

It seems that many moons ago when Master John Strippling was office boy, a certain boy was ushered into Mr. Reed's office for the mere offense of turning on the water in the basement.

Seventeen Years Ago In B.S.H.S.

Seventeen years ago the Freshman class of the Big Spring High school published its annual class edition of the monthly magazine, La Reata, and dedicated "this issue of the La Reata" to the faithful citizens and taxpayers who by their cooperation have given us this magnificent high school building.

Under the heading "Activities" a report of an assembly was given in which the principal, then M. H. Braher, gave, on Wednesday Jan. 24, 1917, a short lecture, which was enjoyed by all the students.

The General Science 1A class is now studying Textiles and Clothing. An experiment conducted last week on "Why Does the Wind Chill?" served as a basis for a thoughtful discussion on the types of clothing needed during the various seasons of the year.

The Spanish class were guests of the first year classes in the showing over the Delnesscope in the southern part of the Delnesscope in the Moorish buildings especially the Alhambra.

The first year class in foods have devised a means of maintaining law and order in the laboratory. They have elected an officer to enforce the list of laws decided upon in class. They believe that with this new order of management they can have better working conditions and a more attractive department.

The second period English 2B class named Morris Burns, Billy Danner, and Ralph Cathey as committee chairmen to plan the celebration for "Good Book Week."

The Clothing 1 classes have completed their first garment. Each girl is to grade her own garment in class Thursday. They are now beginning their home projects.

Atkins, Conley Room Leaders

Miss Atkins and Mr. Conley's home rooms made the highest average in attendance for September. Mr. Conley's room also made the highest average for the month of October.

Following these are Miss Nell Brown's with an average of 95.95, Miss Currie's, 95.19; Miss Butler's and Mrs. Low's, tied, 95%; Miss Young's and Mrs. Bumpass home rooms, tied, with an average of 94%; Mr. Brown's, Miss Jordan's and Mr. Coffey's rooms percentage of attendance was 92.5%. Miss Johnson had 91.7%. Mr. Gardner's had an average of 91% and Mr. Houston's, 90.1%. Miss Black's and Mrs. Brown's had an average of 90%. Mr. Matthew's 87%, and Miss Ramsey's with 86%.

New Board Member

Dr. M. H. Bennet, succeeded Jim Winslow on Nov. 9, as a member of the Big Spring Independent District school board.

Classroom Notes

The chemistry class has been studying in considerable detail the most abundant chemical compound in the world, water. Its many uses as a solvent and as a part of other chemical combinations have made it an interesting week's study.

Home Economics Club Organizes

The Home Economics club met last week in Room 305, for the first time this year. The purpose of the meeting was to nominate officers and to make plans for the following semester.

Biology Books Received Here

Work books have been received by the Biology classes. They are a combination of laboratory manuals and work books. The one selected was "Problem Solving in Biology" published by Lyons and Carnahan of Dallas.

Bats Routed From Building Walls

Hydrogen sulphide was used by Seth Parsons, science instructor, to exterminate the bats in between the walls of the laboratory.

New Members For Economics Club

The Home Economics club met Tuesday morning the first period and took in some new members. They decided to elect a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, a reporter and a social committee.

Birds Nest In Building

When the birds are seen flying south each fall the question of where they are going often arises. Their general flight direction is southward, but at which of the more southern points do they stop?

The Spanish people have an expression quite fitting to answer this question. It is "Quien sabe?"—Who knows?

When the noon hour comes for the pupils of the Big Spring High school, or any other school, a great rush of them is seen to emerge suddenly from every portal of the building—a rapid flow of pushing bodies—then, a few stragglers, and soon no sign of life is left within the building.

All of this is also applicable to the evening time when school is released for the day. Small groups of these students may gather at night for some meeting or entertainment, however, the majority do not see one another from one day to the next.

The American Mercury for November contains many interesting articles. The article "What Happens in a Strike" is of special interest.

The Literary Spectator

By Eddy Rave Lees

The American Mercury for November contains many interesting articles. The article "What Happens in a Strike" is of special interest.

A strike by a number of persons not only affects them, but America as a whole. It is a crisis with all and prophetic of a future. The elements in crises are the same.

Some strikes are caused by unjust wages and too long working hours. In these instances the laborer is justified in his demands, for "every man is born free and equal" and for one man to slave for another is indeed an injustice.

These are the causes of strikes, according to the American Mercury, the types, and some insights as to many moves the Federal government has made toward the control of labor.

School District Redeeming Bonds

All holders of Big Spring Independent School Maintenance warrants are asked to call by the West Texas National Bank (or First National bank) immediately with their warrants for a redemption, according to W. C. Blankenship, supt. of schools.

PENNANTS ARE WON in December

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of four articles on Tom Yawkey's efforts to buy the Boston Red Sox back to the heights in the American league.

By JAMES B. RESTON (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK (AP)—In the evening of his baseball days, Tyrus Raymond Cobb started one of the game's most famous friendships. He introduced Eddie Collins to Tom Yawkey.

Yawkey laughed. "I don't think you can get him," he said. "My second choice would be just as hard, too," Collins contended. "Who is it?"

Joe Cronin; but Clark Griffith would never let him go. So no one was more surprised than Collins when Yawkey took him at his word and swung the deal, which involved approximately $175,000 in baseball money.

The Cochrane miracle of 1934 in Detroit proved to Yawkey the difference between a good manager and a great manager, and had a great deal to do with the Cronin deal. Neither Collins or Yawkey claims to be dissatisfied with the way Buckey Harris managed the club this season.

So though the buying policy of Yawkey has brought no pennants to Boston as yet, it has been successful enough to convince him that pennants are won in December.

From that day on, Collins visited Yawkey every time the A's were playing in Yankee stadium, and often accompanied him in the off-season to Yawkey's hunting lodge in Georgetown, S. C.

The scene of this conversation was the same park in which Yawkey had watched his first game of baseball—Navin Field, Detroit. The time, during the last world series, and the first question, asked by Yawkey was:

"Well, you do want to be your 1935 manager?" "Mickey Cochrane, of course," replied Collins.

Sophs Make Good As Southwest Gridders

HOUSTON (UP)—The lads rated as Sophomores in the Southwest Conference have made good on the gridiron this season. The Rice Institute Owls and the University of Texas Longhorns particularly have been blessed with good fortunes.

Then, to surprise the coaches, John Frankie, San Benito, came through from the start and of late Primo Miller of San Antonio began to develop to where he was considered the equal of any tackle on the squad.

Frank Steen of Dallas, considered one of the greatest end prospects in the conference, whose brilliant defensive play in the Rice-Texas game, has been outstanding.

Southern Methodist University started with two lettermen for every job, but Scottino, former Dallas high star, appeared to have won a regular berth from Bill Stamps, who was all-state Corralcreek high.

Texas Christian University has uncovered probably the finest friends welcome them back to residence.

Frogs Must Win Conference Battle

FORT WORTH (Spl.)—"We win from Texas Saturday or else we are out of the championship race!" That's what the T.C.U. football players are telling each other this week, and Horned Frog followers are depending upon that situation to aid their team to score a victory over the biting Texas Longhorns here next Saturday afternoon.

The Frogs are the only eleven left that has a probable chance of being the pace-setting Rice Owls. And the loss of any one of their three remaining conference tilts would eliminate the Frogs.

Coaches Meyer and Wolf are preparing their squad for the hardest contest of the season from the incoming Steers. T.C.U.'s 30-to-0 defeat of Texas last year is not going to make this year's affair any easier for the Christians.

The day will be Homecoming for T. C. U. and the record crowd of the season is expected to attend the game. After Texas, the Frogs have but one more home engagement, a post-season intercollegiate contest with Santa Clara here Dec. 8.

With the exception of L. D. Meyer, sophomore end, who received a broken hand in the Loyola game, the Frogs expect to be in tip-top condition.

Sophomore back in the conference in Sam Baugh, 189 pounds from Sweetwater. He is said to be able to hit a penny 30 yards away from any angle with his passes.

Baylor's only boast is Lucy Reynolds, who was all-state at Waco and Lloyd Russell, fleet back from Dallas.

Junior Hi Broncos Defeat Colorado

The Junior High Broncos, steadily gaining respect among junior teams of West Texas, managed to get their offense steamed up in the fourth quarter Tuesday and eked out a 13-12 victory over the Colorado Junior Wolves.

Johnny McGee, who scored both touchdowns, provided the margin of victory when he found a hole in the visitor's line and smashed through for victory.

The Wolves appeared well on their way to honors when they steam-rolled their way to a touchdown in the first period and returned the opening kickoff of the second half for some 60 yards into pay territory, but failed to stop the versatile attack of the locals in the fourth quarter.

Passing and plunging their way down the field, the Bass lads went across as the fourth quarter opened and wasted little time in scoring again once their strong secondary started clicking.

"TINY" GODWIN

The playing of Manuel "Tiny" Godwin, 230-pound junior tackle, has been one of the reasons for the strength of the T.C.U. forward wall this season.

Change now to the proper grade of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. You'll get: 1. Positive Starting. These new lighter grades permit your motor to reach higher "cranking speed." You save your battery. You choke less—waste no gasoline. 2. Definitely more miles per gallon of gasoline. These lighter grade oils flow freely and minimize friction. 3. Utmost Motor Protection. Other oils drain away, leaving parts unprotected when you start. Only Conoco Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming the "Hidden Quart that Never Drains Away." Every part is fully oiled from the first turn of the motor. It cuts down starting wear—saves repair bills! Conoco dealers and stations have new Winter Grades, namely, 10W and 20W—heavier grades, too—in refinery-sealed cans and in bulk.
