Interest Grows In Local Golf Course Reopened By Junior Booster Group

Since the reopening of the Littlefield Golf Course by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, there has been more interest shown than at any time in its history, and every morning and afternoon a large number of people are out there enjoying the game. Many out of town guests from our neighboring towns are coming over and it is hoped that more of them will visit us.

The course is in the best condition ever and will be constantly improved in proportion to the money received from members. No special drive has been made for members and all who are interested or have been playing, but have not yet paid their dues should see T. A. Hilburn, as the course is being run on a pay as you go basis.

A large number of new members are now playing and for the benefit of those not familiar with them, the following rules of golf etiquette are given:

- 1.—Two or more players using the same clubs have no standing on the course and should let others through.
- 2.—No one should stand close to or directly behind the ball, move or talk, when a player is making a stroke.
- 3.—The player who has the honor should be allowed to play before his opponent tees his ball.

CHARTER WILL BE PRESENTED TUES. NIGHT

Many Out-Of-Town Visitors To Attend Ceremony Here

What promises to be the largest affair of its kind ever staged in Littlefield, will be the Junior Chamber of Commerce Presentation Banquet, to be held next Tuesday night at the local Baptist church at 8:15, when 300 visitors, guests and members are expected to witness the ceremony, contingent upon the presentation of the charter of the state and national organizations, to the local chapter.

Presentation of the charter will be made by Bill Cooper, of Dallas, president of the state organization of the Texas Junior C. of C. Approximately fifty members from the newly organized Brownfield Junior Chamber of Commerce have made reservations, and invitations were sent this week to fifteen other chapters throughout the state, including Midland, Borger, Pampa, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Austin, Mineral Wells, Big Spring, Weatherford, Dallas and El Paso.

Several of the other state officials, including R. G. Hughes of Pampa, executive vice-president, are also expected to attend.

Most of the visitors will be accompanied by their wives, and for this reason, the arrangement committee hopes that there will be a large attendance of ladies of Littlefield.

Tickets are available from any member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and reservations should be made as early as possible. One of the surprises of the banquet is the novel price of 59 cents per plate, and those in charge of the program have promised some very interesting speakers, and surprise features.

At the recent state convention held in Fort Worth, the Littlefield chapter came in for a great deal of laudatory comment, it is to be hoped that these young enthusiasts

H. H. WOOTEN OF ANTON IS KILLED FRIDAY

Brother Seriously Injured; Truck Hits Culvert Near San Angelo

In an effort to save the life of W. E. Wooten, 27, Anton, hurt in a highway accident near San Angelo early Friday morning, doctors Friday afternoon removed the man's right foot at the ankle. Wooten's brother, H. H. Wooten, 25, also of Anton, was instantly killed in the mishap.

It was reported that the brothers were hauling a load of grain when their vehicle hit a concrete culvert, the heavy trailer clipping the top of the cab and severing H. H. Wooten's legs, just below the hips. Funeral arrangements were held Sunday afternoon at Anton, for H. H. Wooten, with interment in the Anton cemetery.

Survivors besides his brother in the hospital include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wooten of Valley View, near Gainesville, his wife, two children and two other brothers.

JUNIOR PLAY SHOWS TO BIG AUDIENCE

Bright Comedy Well Acted And Received Here

Playing to an audience that taxed the seating capacity of the high school auditorium the junior class presented a three-act comedy, "When Jane Takes a Hand," last Monday night, and scored a well earned triumph. The production was under the direction of Miss Sue Brannen and she was the recipient of many congratulations upon the exceptionally smooth performance which she staged.

The cast was composed of the following junior students—Billie Margaret Johnson, Velma Lee Lowe, Dora Jo Covington, Byron Lindley, Franklin Patrick, Betty Alice Thaxton, Euna Faye Foust, James Stokes, Melvin Thornton, Curtis Anderson, Thelma Crockett, Evelyn Griffin, Horace Balise.

It would be difficult to single out individual characters for special mention because all of the parts were well played. The gay comedy proved most entertaining to the

Now Is Time To Treat Sorghum Seed

According to V. R. Jones, county agent, now is the time to treat grain sorghum seed for smut. Ceresan or copper carbonate at the rate of 2 ounces to the bushel can be used with good success.

The main object in treating the seed is to get each seed covered with the dust of the material that is being used. Mix the seed and the chemical thoroughly, so that each seed has some of the chemical on it.

Reece Wilkinson of Greeley, Colorado, executive vice president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, was among the many who complimented the newly organized Junior Chamber of Commerce of Littlefield, at the state meeting in Fort Worth of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce, Frank Bartley, local president, reported.

Miss Brannen's average was 92.6 and Miss Smith's average was 92.5. Due to a typographical error in last week's issue of the Leader, the difference was made to appear as one and one-tenth points.

Torches Are Dangerous

For twenty-seven years, Karl H. Von Wiegand, has stood in back of the European and Far East firing lines, and called the score. He is recognized as Dean of political observers and foreign correspondents. When Von Wiegand sums up a situation, or makes a prediction, he is very much considered in Rome, Berlin, London and all the capitols.

In a recent article written in Paris, Von Wiegand tries to visualize Spain's political future and its influence on the Americas. He points out the racial ties between Spain and the Latin Americas, as well as the traditions and common heritages which will affect the lives of many people outside of Spain.

If we were asked to cite a shining example of a Fine Journalist, we would promptly name Von Wiegand who has walked with dignity and calmness, through paths strewn with intrigue, feuds, corruption and the blood of innocent millions. Through it all he has never lost his balance, nor has he wavered from his mission as an observer and news gatherer.

At times when everyone was more or less under suspicion — Von Wiegand has retained the respect of rulers, cabinets, and the people whom he gathers the news for.

We do not know of a single key-man in Europe, who is in a better position to render real service than is this well informed news gatherer. He should be able, and no doubt will — give us, an accurate and unbiased account of conditions and developments.

Perhaps — it would be best for us to receive our impressions through the experienced and far-seeing eyes of such men as Von Wiegand, rather than to absorb a lot of propoganda emanating from self-concerned sources.

These are dangerous days, when it behooves all of us, to be most careful in arriving at conclusions. We must watch our sources of information and be very slow to spread gossip, rumors and incendiary news matter.

A Century And A Half

The New York World's Fair, which opened on April 30, commemorates the 150th anniversary of the inauguration of the first President, George Washington, who took the oath of office on the balcony of Federal Hall, at what is now the corner of Wall and Nassau streets, New York City.

Many people have doubtless wondered how the capital of the new nation was located in New York, in the first place, why it remained there so short a time, and how it came to be moved to the brand-new city of Washington.

The new government was the successor to the inefficient Continental Congress, which had been knocked about from pillar to post from the beginning of the Revolution, finally meeting in New York from 1785 on. So although the Constitution of the new government had been drafted in Philadelphia, the President and Congress elected under it had to go to New York to take over from the old government.

The Constitution provided that the first Congress should determine upon a permanent location for the capital of the new nation. New York wanted to be it, but it was a small city, much smaller than Philadelphia.

The Southern members of the first Congress wanted the capital in their territory. So they agreed to give the nation ten miles square on the Potomac, in exchange for their support of Alexander Hamilton's plan for funding the national debt. Congress voted to move the capital to Philadelphia for ten years and then to the new city.

New York has got along pretty well without being the capital of the nation. Indeed, it probably has got along better than it would have done if its interests had been centered on politics. It had 15,000 population when George Washington was inaugurated. Now it has seven and a half million people and is the largest and wealthiest city in the world.

Instead of depending on government New York has grown without the aid of government; indeed, the city contributes to government far more in proportion to its numbers than any other part of the nation.

SCHOOL DAYS

PRAIRIE WEEDS

Gathered by OLE DRIFTER

Howdy Folks:

Since the re-organization of the Littlefield Golf club, there have been many strange exhibitions of this thing called "Golf." Old-time domino hunters and fishermen have started in pursuit of the elusive golf, and the Duggan prairie is daily being levelled by the stamping and tramping of these unique golfers. Last week, Lon Smith and J. H. Barnett staged a thrilling debut on the links. Lon made the nine-hole course in a mere 76, while Barnett got around with 60 odd swings of the stick. These figures may not be accurate because the players failed to take an adding machine along. That wasn't the only thing they forgot to take with them; they also failed to tote a can opener. It appears that during the chase the harmless little golf took refuge inside some empty tin cans. Mr. Smith tried to coax it out with a spoon; a driver; a putter, and a slicer. Too late — they realized that the Littlefield course was blazing the sports trails with a brand new type of hazard — tin cans. I have no connection with the F. B. I. or any other detective bureau — so — did not make any effort to find out what kind of tin cans they be.

Brother Ripley, the great discoverer of oddities and curiosities, presented us with that cannibal chief-ton who had — among other articles of diet, consumed 18 of his wives. He printed a picture of the wife-eating bogo — too. Has sort of a far-away, introspective look that you find on folks that engage in endurance contests. Or — should I have said "Non-Endurance."

Now that Harvard and other institutions of higher learning, have set a diet pace, in the matter of gulping goldfish and angle worms; it was natural to expect that other embryo philosophers and scientists, would follow suit. Word comes from Idaho that a high school student won a bet by swallowing a bottle of ink. Last reports from the interior have it that dark forebodings are being recorded.

member as chief of the Los Angeles police force. He had spent most of the years of his life as a policeman and law enforcement officer. As soon as he was retired — he did the thing that he had been dreaming of through all the years on duty; he shipped as a deckhand on a 200-ton clipper in the tuna fishing trade. They sailed the Mexican and Central American coast covering about 9,000 miles. He returned to Los Angeles the other day — 20 pounds lighter but supremely happy. I certainly envy Mr. Andrews the opportunity to do the thing that he had wanted to do all through life. Wonder how many of us will be able to say — at certain time, "Well, I did it."

Last week, a 24-year-old waiter from one of the New York hotels, won a trophy for being Gotham's fastest waiter. In a spirited race over two New York blocks, Henry Alzapiedi carried a tray holding a chafing dish, a glass, and a bottle of champagne, in record time, spilling nary a drop or a bean. I hope that the boys and gals at the South Plains cafes, will take this to heart and put a little speed behind them thar hot cakes.

You remember the guy who dressed himself up in a suit of dynamite bombs and threatened to let go if they didn't hand over the bank's cash. He got away with $4,800 and not a trace of him until his frau came into court the other day and asked for a divorce. It seems that being the wife of a "human bomb" isn't all that its blown up to be.

Spent a delightful day — last week, visiting Tech at Lubbock. Aside from the fine buildings and equipment — I was most impressed by the fact that during the entire time that I was with students and faculty members, I never heard a single mention of either profits or gain. It was to find folks who had to to interest them both and material benefits. So Long. DAVE

FIFTH INSTALLMENT SYNOPSIS

The wealthy foster parents, the Wetherill both die she better telling that she has adopted her own parents couldn't support both of them and her real name is Dorothy Gay. She found herself a little nervous about Betty.

But Betty came, and her aito was deep and sweet.

Then they went home with the memory of the little chapel in its gala greenery, and the sweet songs, the tender looks on faces, the Christian testimonies with which the meeting had closed, all a holy beautiful ending to a day that had been wonderful from start to finish.

Marjorie lay awake for a long time and thought it over, step by step, thrilling anew at the memory. There was just one part she forgot to review, and that was the interlude in which Evan Brower figured.

And not the least among her memories was that of Gideon Reaver.

Betty lay beside her, eyes staring wide ahead at the blank wall of the room in the darkness. Betty was thinking of the look on the doctor's face when he had said, "Something real about this place!" Wondering about the doctor, thinking of all the fun he had made for them during the afternoon and evening. Contrasting it with a few experiences in her meager past that she had called "good times."

asked. "It's been nearly 10 days since I asked you to marry me. You've had plenty of time to think it over."

"No," she said firmly. "I haven't."

"I'm not sure, but when I come home I can talk with you about it. I shall know then what I am going to do."

She laid the box down definitely.

He looked at her as if she were crazy.

I've had other things to think about and settle. They had to come first before anything.

"Well, haven't you got them all settled?"

A gleam of something like joy flitted across her face, but she shook her head.

"Not all, yet."

"How long will it take?" here was a trace of anger in his voice.

back with finality.

"But I love you, Marjorie!"

She studied him rather hopelessly for a minute and then she said:

"If you truly love me won't you prove it to me by putting that ring back in your pocket and just sitting there and talking to me in a pleasant natural way as you always have done, without any perplexing questions or anything? Just let's talk!"

He looked at her keenly for a minute and then he said quietly, with an inscrutable mask on his face:

"Very well. What shall I talk about?" She knew by his tone that he was angry, but she could not help it.

"Oh anything! Suppose I ask you a question. It's something I've been wondering. Evan, you were brought up a good deal as I was, you're in the same church, and active in it. What do you believe about being saved?"

He looked at her as if she had suddenly gone crazy.

"Saved?" he said. "What in the world do you mean?"

"Why saved from your sins. Fit to go to heaven, you know, when you die."

His face softened and he spoke to her as if she were a sick person, or a very young child.

"My dear! I am afraid the long strain of nursing Mrs. Wetherill, and then seeing her die, has been too much for your nerves."

"Oh, no," said Marjorie, looking up brightly, "you don't understand me. I'm not in the least morbid. In a way I'm happier than I ever was in my life before, because I've found that I have a Savior from sin."

He studied her face with vexed unresponsive eyes a moment and then he said coldly:

"So, that's the line of your new laughed Marjorie firmly. "I'm not going back yet. I finished my visit. But I'll be at 11 if you like. Thank you for the orchids. So nice to think of me. Oh—" as she opened the door smartly, "coming again, isn't it? How Christmas always has twice as much snow sometime as the day! Well, good night. Ready at 11."

They started in to sing again, singing a lot of sweet old Christmas songs they all knew.

After 8 Gideon rose.

"I've got to tear myself away," he said. "I have a service at home here originally to get ready for it, but I haven't the heart to go apart on Christmas night. It would be great to have the song repeated, and if the doctor come too he and Ted would do the trio!"

"I wasn't going to ask us! No, the heart to tear us away! He's fixed it all up for us the program!" laughed the doctor. "But friend, you're going to surprise of your life. We're course, aren't we, Betty?"

Said Betty both eagerness and drawl fighting for mastery in her eyes.

He passed her brother as he was going down the stairs, a kind of hush in his tread.

"Betty going?" she whispered in a hush.

"I don't dare ask," he grinned. "Leave it to Doc. Perhaps he'll get the trick!"

Betty was flying as fast as she could to get ready. Here was to go out with a good-looking young man and wear her coat and her new gray hat. Betty was not the one to turn down, even if it was just a service in a little old deacon's common consent the doctor with Betty.

There was a beautiful service. There was singing and prayer, wonderful prayer from both ministers and people. There was a heart-to-heart talk from Gideon Reaver home the fact to each soul that the Lord Jesus was who suffered and died just for

The next morning Marjorie became aware of something strained in the atmosphere that hadn't been there the day before.

Finally she said to Betty, "Have I done something wrong?"

"Oh, mercy, no!" said Betty sharply. "It's just seeing that high-and-mighty friend of yours, I suppose. Have you known him long?"

"You mean Evan Brower? Oh, yes, I've known him practically all my life."

"He means to take you home with him," said Betty. "Excuse me for listening. You'll go, too. I can see that! And if you do it'll be goodbye sister, all right! Are you engaged?"

"Mercy no!" said Marjorie. "Where did you get that idea?"

"Out of his masterful manner. If you aren't, you probably will be by the time lunch is over. You ought to have told us about him before you let us all get to caring about you. It wasn't fair, after all these years without you."

"Betty!" Marjorie whirled about toward her sister.

"What in the name of peace is the matter with you, Betty?" Marjorie said, half ready to cry, "there wasn't anything to tell. He's just a friend of the family and there's nothing at all between us. I'm not engaged to anybody, and don't mean to be for some time, if I ever am."

"Oh, yes?" said Betty again incredulously. "Well, wait till you come back—if you come back!"

Suddenly Marjorie rushed at her sister, half laughing, half crying, and gave her a loving shaking.

"There!" she said breathlessly. "Stop this! I'm not going away with him. I wouldn't think of such a thing."

Then a taxi drew up and she was gone.

Down in the city Marjorie had troubles of her own. It was Evan Brower's idea of a good time to make Marjorie suffer plenty for having gone off without leaving her address.

So Marjorie was seated at a sumptuously appointed table in one of the most exclusive hotels in the city, with a stern companion who lectured her as if she were a haughty little girl.

At last she looked up and smiled.

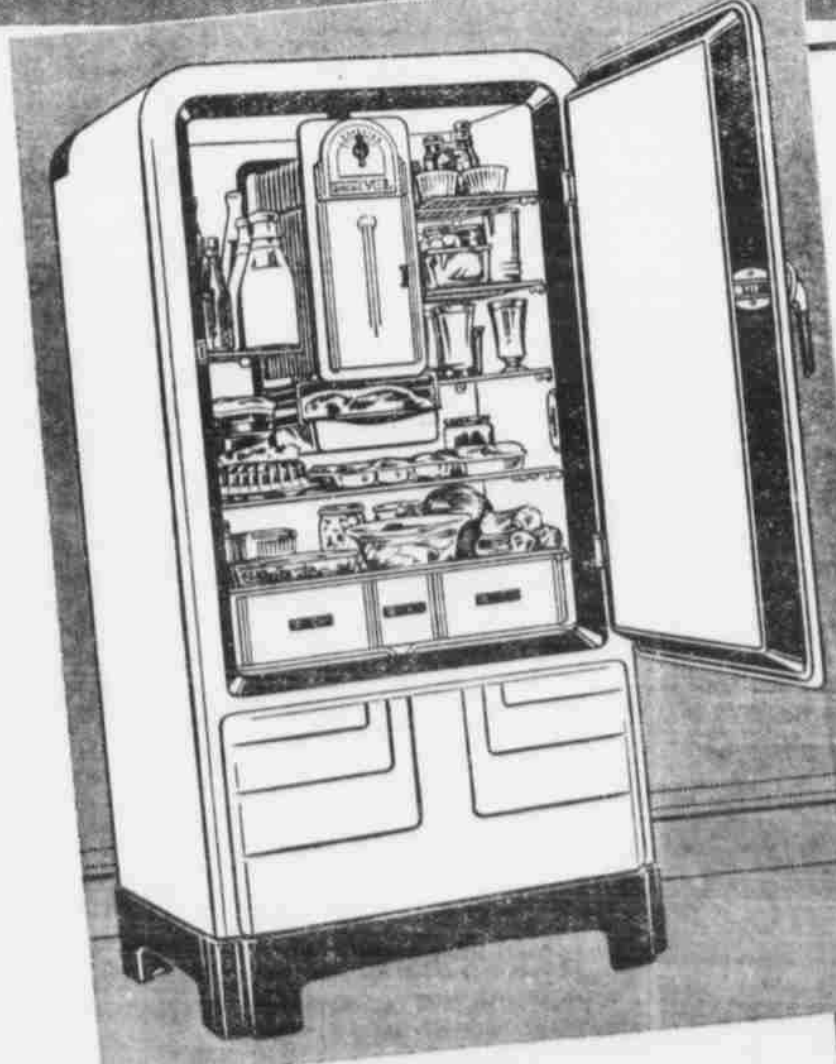

"Now, Evan, don't you think we'd better talk about you awhile?" she suggested. "And how in the world did you get away from your family Christmas party? I'm afraid you hurt your mother's feelings terribly."

That was an unfortunate thought. She saw it at once. Evan stiffened immediately.

"I came away. I had to. I felt that you needed my protection and I had something to say to you."

He put his hand in his pocket and

Night Lighting Turns World's Fair Into Magic City As New Light Sources are Called Into Play

REACHING into General Electric's research laboratories for the light sources of tomorrow, lighting designers of the New York World's Fair have created a 1,216 1/2 acre mural of luminous form and color with nuances as delicate as any ever put on canvas with a painter's brush.

In creating this gigantic work of art, Bassett Jones, lighting consultant to the Fair's Board of Design, and Morgan, Hamel & Engelken, lighting consultants to the Fair's Construction Department, have relied heavily upon the new fluorescent lamp, which uses chemical powders to convert invisible ultraviolet radiation into light of soft, pastel tints unlike those produced by tungsten lamps. New types of mercury-vapor bulbs, never before used, and ingeniously employed in spotlighting and floodlighting, create effects that are breath-taking in their sheer splendor and loveliness.

No attempt has been made to light the entire exterior of any building except the Perisphere. Rather, light sources are worked into the major architectural and decorative elements of the designs. The result is a glowing pattern of beauty that transforms the exposition at night into a brilliant panorama entirely different from its daytime appearance.

Interiors of the Fair's buildings reflect new advances in the art and science of illumination. Utilizing the new light sources which produce abundant illumination more economically than yesterday's lamps, architects and lighting engineers have produced a variety of effects that suggest radically new applications for the lighting of to-

OLTON HOME RUINED BY EXPLOSION

None Injured By Explosion Which Wrecks House

What might have been a tragedy was in reality a miracle, when the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Crisp, living one mile southwest of Olton, was totally wrecked by an explosion early last Thursday morning. Mr. Crisp arose early in the morning and went to the barn where he completed his chores, before starting back to the house. Just before he opened the back door, the walls were torn from the house and the porch was set over about a foot from its original position. The window facings on the outside were blown off, and the panes were not broken. One wall was left hanging at the top. Mr. Crisp was not injured.

Mrs. Crisp and three children were still in bed in another part of the house but they only received a shock it was reported, and none of the furniture was broken in that room. A table with two kerosene lamps on it in the kitchen, where the blast originated, remained as if nothing had happened.

Reports are that the explosion was caused from one of the stoves, but it was not known whether it was the heater with an oil burner or the gasoline cook stove. The house and furnishings were partially covered by insurance.

family, is it? They are fanatics!" She sprang up as if he had struck her, and her eyes grew suddenly alien.

"No, Evan, you are mistaken! My family are not fanatics. But I heard this in a sermon, and then I read it in the Bible. It is there quite plainly if you will hunt for it."

She was speaking almost haughtily, as if he were a stranger. Then she glanced down at her watch.

"And now if you will excuse me I will take a taxi back home."

She flashed a distant little smile at him and walked out of the dining room.

He followed her, of course, instantly, his face baughty and indignant, but he summoned a taxi and put her in.

"You are very headstrong!" he said as he gave her hand a cold hard grip. "I didn't dream you had it in you to be so hard. When are you planning to return?"

"I'm not hard, Evan, really. Only you've said some things that were rather difficult to bear. But we'll talk about that when I get home. I shall probably come a few days after New Year's."

He watched her gravely as the taxi took her away into the light falling snow, his own face stern, reproachful.

There was an alert strained something in the atmosphere when Marjorie got back to her father's house that melted at once under her smiles and her obvious gladness to be with them once more.

"Didn't we have a good time yesterday?" Marjorie said to Betty, thinking aloud.

"We all did, but I can't see where the good time came in for you," said Betty sourly.

"Oh, my dear!" said Marjorie twinkling. "I had the best time of my life seeing you all open your

That evening after the children were put to bed they all gathered in the little parlor again, with the soft lights of the Christmas tree glowing, and talked.

"Marjorie," said her father, "your mother and I have been talking things over and we feel that there is grave danger, in our love for you, and our logging to have you always with us, that we shall be unfair to you. Since seeing the young man who called upon you last evening we realize more than ever that there are others whom you have known far longer than you have known us, who perhaps have a prior claim upon you."

High School Band Makes Tour Of County Friday

Thirty-five members of the Littlefield high school band, Morgan Layfield, director, and at least ten local business men made the annual tour of Lamb county Friday, and the band presented concerts in each of the seven other schools during the day.

The group enjoyed lunch in Olten, and at three o'clock they were in Amherst where the band played in the new gymnasium, which has been recently completed, and dedication services were held Friday.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NEWS

W. J. Luecke, Pastor

Next Sunday we will hold our annual confirmation reunion service. All those confirmed here at Littlefield are requested to bring their confirmation certificates along to this service. It will begin at 11 o'clock in the morning. Other services begin at the usual hour. The German service at 9:30 a. m., the night service at 8 p. m. Sunday school and Bible class at 10:30. Kindly bring your bibles.

The ladies aid will meet for an all day quilting on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. All are requested to come.

It was gratifying to note the number present last Sunday afternoon when the report on the Syn-dical District convention was made. The pastor also presented the problem of the missions of the church in foreign lands, as well as the circumstances which the Board of Higher Education of Synod is trying to change to a more unified and accredited system.

Do you have any spiritual problem which you cannot solve? Have you as yet found no church home? Are you drifting with the indifferent world instead of walking the way of life? The Lutheran church through its pastor will gladly assist you in any way possible.

Next Sunday morning the preacher will speak on the subject: "What Shall We Seek In This Life?" Every person, whether a Christian or not, is interested in the matter of finding out the right thing to seek while he lives this life. We see many different things or goals sought by different people; some of them are obviously wrong, some of them seem to be all right. The question will be answered solely in the fear of God and by His word. Do you not want to know the answer? Sunday evening the sermon will be: "The Conversion of a Statesman." The text is Acts 8:26-39. Friends, the best way to learn what conversion is and to know whether you are saved is to study the cases of conversion in the Bible. In that way we find just what the Lord requires, because such conversions were under the directions of inspired men of God. The authority for our religious experiences is not from our feelings; it should be from the infallible word of God.

We sincerely invite you to be with us and meditate on the most important thing that can engage your attention—the conversion of your soul.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD CHURCH

A revival is in progress at the local Assembly of God Church, and will continue through Sunday, May 14. We have Rev. Jed Stevens of Holdenville, Oklahoma, for the evangelist. We cordially invite you to come each night at 8 o'clock. Lots of good singing and preaching. Pastor G. W. Pitts.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

We regret that the attendance at the services last Sunday was below normal, but we rejoice that the interest and spirit was good. Four additions to the church, two by letter and two by baptism. We welcome these heartily into our church family.

The text from Johns Gospel, 21: 21, "Follow Thou Me," will be used both in the morning and evening services Sunday. Come, bring a neighbor, a friend, the visitor you have with you Sunday.

Roy Shahan, Pastor.

Methodist Young People To Present Play Sunday Night

Ten characters make up the cast of this program, which will be well-worth a large attendance. It is directed by Miss Johnnie Pace.

AUSTIN COLLINS' NEW HOME COMPLETED; MOVE IN MONDAY

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Collins, 8 1/2 miles northeast of Littlefield has just been completed, and the owners moved in Monday.

The residence contains 4 rooms and bath.

The house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Collins was brought to Littlefield, and placed on a lot also owned by Mr. Collins, and will be used as rent property.

MRS. NINA YOUNG TO BE HOSTESS TO AMERICAN HOME ECONOMICS ASSOCIATION IN SAN ANTONIO JUNE 18TH TO 24TH

Mrs. Nina Young, home-making instructor in the Littlefield high school, has been invited to be one of the hostesses at the American home economics association meet in San Antonio, convening from June 18 to 24. There will be forty hostesses from Texas schools, who will assist the San Antonio teachers in the entertainment.

This is the first time the association has convened in Texas, and elaborate plans are underway for giving guests from all over the United States the southern hospitality that only Texans can give. The program will include a tour of the Alamo city, and will be concluded with a typical Chuck Wagon supper, when the hostesses will be dressed as western cowgirls, to create the atmosphere of the "good old days."

Miss Ovel Lytle, who also teaches home-making in the local high school, will attend the association with Mrs. Young.

My disease resistant milo will make 12 to 67 bushels per acre more than just ordinary milo. Cunningham Seed Store.

HOME-MAKING CLUB HAVE DELIGHTFUL "COME AS YOU ARE" BREAKFAST

Sleepy eyes, pajamas, and flowered robes were seen early Saturday morning, when Misses Doris Allen and Mary Neal Weatherly were hostesses to a "Come-As-You-Are" breakfast at the home of Miss Allen's aunt, Mrs. T. S. Sales, on East Eighth street.

Sponsored by the Home-Making club of the Littlefield high school, clever invitations were sent last week, stating that someone would call for their guests at an early morning hour. A quarter was charged if they did not dress, with a nickel extra, if they stopped to powder their nose.

Approximately 80 young women called during the morning for joyed coffee, or hot doughnuts and fruit.

Bowls of tulips in each of the rooms added to the beauty of the early spring morning.

Mrs. Nina Young and Mrs. Lytle are instructors of the Home-Making classes at the high school.

Proceeds amounted to more than $10, which will be used to defray the expenses of the luncheon who left Wednesday for the Home-Making rally at Galveston.

LITTLEFIELD TO BE REPRESENTED AT TEXAS C. OF C. CONVENTION

Littlefield will be well represented at the 21st annual convention of the Texas Chamber of Commerce at Abilene, May 15-17, during the "completion stage."

Representatives from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are commencing plans to present a detailed business program featuring notable speakers and discussing vital West Texas topics and planning plenty of entertainment for convention visitors.

Representing Unemployed Resources and Unemployed Workers is one of the convention, as is the nation's first lady, Franklin D. Roosevelt, when she will be the WTCC Resource and Institute last March. The convention also will feature studies and water conservation and other projects being shown by WTCC in participating in all convention activities already is pointing toward a record convention attendance, officials believe.

Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and former president of the University of Texas; M. L. Wilson, Undersecretary of Agriculture; and Col. Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, head the list of speakers.

One of the highlights of the convention will come at 5 p. m. Tuesday when the mammoth "West Texas March of Conservation and Industrial Development" is staged. The event will climax the first annual WTCC Soil and Water Utilization contest, dramatizing the results and accomplishments in this activity.

Convention entertainment features will include two night shows presenting pretty West Texas girls competing for the title, "Miss West Texas," and acts by leading West Texas entertainers; two dances Monday night; two dances Tuesday night; a big outdoor talent show Monday afternoon; a "Hospitality Hour" radio program; contests, and other events.

First session of the convention work committee with I. E. Birdwell, Wichita Falls, WTCC second vice president, as chairman, will be held at 9 a. m. Monday. The elections committee with J. M. Wilson, Floydada, as chairman, will hold its first session at the same time.

WTCC directors will meet at luncheons Monday and Tuesday and at breakfast Wednesday to hear reports and act on other business. President H. S. Hilburn, Plainview, will preside.

Principal feature on the Monday afternoon program will be the transportation conference at 2 p. m. at which Col. Thompson will speak on "Grass Roots and Freight Rates." C. A. Studer, Canadian, will report on organization plans for the WTCC—sponsored Freight Rate Equality Federation, and A. F. Ashford, San Angelo, will report on proposed by-laws for the Federation. B. Resgan,

Big Spring, chairman of the WTCC traffic board, will preside

First general assembly program of the convention will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday with Dr. Splawn as principal speaker and with President Hilburn presiding.

The annual luncheon for Chamber of Commerce presidents and secretaries and West Texas newspapermen will be held Tuesday. The program will be an open forum on "Let's Talk West Texas." Prominent newspapermen and C. of C. executives will speak. Max Bentley, Abilene WTCC editorial board chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Undersecretary Wilson will speak at a group conference on agriculture and conservation at 2 p. m. Tuesday. H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas Extension Service; Walter S. Pope, Abilene; and A. H. Demko, Stephenville, will be other speakers. Clifford B. Jones, president of Texas Technological College and chairman of the WTCC agricultural board, will preside.

Winners in the Soil and Water contest will be announced. Three West Texas counties with best records in conservation for 1938 will receive $1,000 in cash prizes, $500 for first, $300 for second and $200 for third. The prizes will be awarded by the West Texas Utilities company.

West Texas bands entered in the contest for selection of the official "WTCC band" will take part in the "March of Conservation" and will be judged at that time.

Record number of entries is expected in this year's "My Home Town" speaking contest with Judge C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, as chairman.

All convention awards will be presented at the final general assembly at 10 a. m. Wednesday. The 1940 convention city will be selected and new officers will be installed.

The two leading bidders for the next convention at this time are Big Spring and Mineral Wells. Other cities may throw their hats in the ring at convention time.

Farmers Purchase Portable Equipment With Security Loans

Dallas, April 29.—Henhouses that collapse, fences that roll up into a ball and gardens that can be loaded on a truck are examples of the portable equipment being bought by tenant farmers with Farm Security administration loans this year, says C. M. Evans, regional director.

The fences are electric and consist of one, sometimes two, wires strung on wooden stakes light enough to be picked up and moved easily. The wire is charged with a weak electric current derived from a wind charger, an automobile battery, or in some cases from ordinary line current strapped down to a safe power. Costs range from a few dollars for a short home-made set up to $25 for a commercial product for immediate use.

A portable henhouse differs from the ordinary poultry shelter only in detail of construction. These details permit the owner to dismantle the structure and re-assemble it in some other spot. The average cost for one hundred birds is less than $100.

Frame gardens are the least expensive major improvement sponsored by FSA. They consist of a frame extending twelve to eighteen inches above the soil. A sub-irrigation system of tile or tin cans usually is included. The frame is four or five feet wide and as long as desired. Such a garden twenty feet long is expected to supply vegetables for the family table the year round. Many such gardens are being built by FSA borrowers of stone, logs or other material on the place and will remain as permanent improvements. But if the money for materials is advanced by the Farm Security administration, the garden will be carried along with the tenant when he moves, the regional director said.

"Such devices have been developed by necessity," Evans explained. "Few tenant farms have the improvements needed for any pattern of farm management except one-crop cotton." The basis of all FSA loans is a farm and home plus which requires at least one source of cash income besides cotton. In order to find that income, FSA borrowers must have better improvements on their farms.

"Under the terms of a long-time lease sponsored by FSA, such improvements can be made cooperatively by owner and tenant, but this lease is not applicable in all cases. The next best plan is improvements that the tenant can take with him when he moves.

Great Britain Announce Adoption Of Conscription

In a supreme effort to demonstrate its determination to resist any attempt at general domination, the British Government has announced its decision to adopt peace-time conscription for the first time since the 17th century rule of Oliver Cromwell.

As his government majority cheered and the labor opposition jeered, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons the government had decided to ask powers to summon all youths in their 21st year for six months military training.

Also there was presented to Parliament a motion expressing approval of the government's decision "to introduce as soon as possible a system of compulsory military training as announced April 26." The labor opposition announced it would fight both the motion and the subsequent bill.

Chamberlain estimated that about 310,000 men yearly would be involved, but this figure would be reduced "very considerably" by deductions. These deductions were said in unofficial sources to include exempted for physical disability and of persons now occupied in armaments or other defense industries.

One estimate was that the first class to be called upon passage of the conscription bill which seemed assured despite labor opposition, would number 200,000 men.

His reasons for making Britain the latest and last of the major powers in Europe to adopt conscription before a war, Chamberlain said, were for defense, to assure ability to effect pledges to protect independence of Poland, Rumania and Greece, and because.

"Despite the immense efforts this country already has made by way of rearmament, nothing would so impress the world with the determination of this country to offer firm resistance to any attempt at general domination."

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be sagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, putting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

The program for Sunday night and for commencement, which will be held Monday night, May 22, will be announced next week, Mr. Hemphill said. However, one of the outstanding features will be the selections by the choir, composed of thirty girls in the high school choral club and music classes, directed by Mrs. E. B. Hobbs. Vestments are being made in the home-making classes, and will be worn by the girls. The vestments are included in the school property, and Mr. Hemphill stated that they will probably be used again next year.

This is the first time local choral clubs have been a part of the graduation exercises, but it is believed that the scene will be most effective.

Rejects President's Peace Friday

Friday rejected President's peace message, denouncing Danzig and the announced treaties with Great Britain.

He declined to give any excuse to anybody except to those whose security and whose responsibility," he said. "I have pledged to 31 nations, and I have appealed in a most eloquent manner."

He said that the most eloquent career, and possibly the most portentous, was his addressing his Nazi over the problems and taunted Mr. Roosevelt with a sharp-tongued comment on America's role in the world.

His demand for the return of Danzig, Hitler compared the present position to that of 1918 before he dismembered the German republic.

He said the German-Polish treaty on the ground that it violated it by entering into a "secret" pact with Britain. He said the German-British treaty was having a "secret" pact with Britain because of Britain's "policy."

He said he softened the demand by offering to negotiate, and he repeated Germany's desire for a "secret" pact with Britain. He said he softened the demand by offering to negotiate, and he repeated Germany's desire for a "secret" pact with Britain.

Making Buddy Poppies

Disabled ex-service men, hospital patients, are busily engaged in making the Buddy Poppies for the annual national Sale of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which is held during the week of Memorial Day. The entire proceeds of the Sale are devoted to relief work. The national total of Buddy Poppies is approximately 6,000,000.

Hitler rejected the request of President Roosevelt for a 10 year, and if possible, a 25 year non-aggression pledge covering 31 nations, in return for a world conference on disarmament and trade. He offered instead to negotiate treaties with any of the nations which would offer suitable terms.

Hitler taunted the president with such statements as: "I have led Germany out of chaos and have increased production . . . I have done all this without bloodshed, Mr. Roosevelt . . . You and I, Mr. President, came to power at the same time and you had resources at your disposal, Mr. President, which excelled ours a hundred times . . . I am sure that you have found it so easy to solve all your problems that now you turn to the world at large. I work on a smaller scale, I have no confine myself to the destinies of the nation of which I am the head."

Disclosing that he had demanded the return of Danzig and the privilege of building a strategic road across the Polish corridor to connect Germany proper with East Prussia, Hitler said: "Danzig must be returned to Germany. The Polish borders must be rectified. The Polish government has declined my suggestions. Like Czechoslovakia, Poland now stands under the pressure of the international war mongers. Rather than accept the generous German offer of a 25 year pact, they prefer to arm against any imagined danger. Danzig is German and will never be Polish."

He disclosed that Poland, rejecting his demands, had said it would consider only the question of substituting some sort of neutral regime for Danzig and that, as regards the strategic road, Poland would consider only giving Germany facilities for transit of traffic—on roads to which Poland retained title—through the corridor.

Hitler offered, if Poland accepted German demands, to recognize all Polish economic rights in Danzig, to ensure for Poland a free harbor in Danzig, to accept the present German-Polish boundary and regard it as final, to conclude a 25 year non-aggression pact, and to enter a joint German-Polish-Hungarian guarantee of the independence of the Slovak state, thus in practice preventing any effort to seize it.

Hitler, whose entire political ideology has been based on German friendship with Great Britain, said solemnly in discussing present relations: "Lasting friendship between Germany and Britain is impossible if the parties fail to recognize not only Britain's interests but also Germany's right to live."

Germany, he commented, would find a secure way to maintain its independence and its dignity with the help of its allies.

He promised that the German nation might be reassured.

"It has the strongest army and the strongest air fleet," he said.

"Italy has the greatest understanding for Germany. Nobody should be surprised that we have the same feelings for Italy."

Then, discussing Britain, he said: "The English consider war inevitable."

Scout Executive Delivers Message At Local Church

George Holland, Field Scout Executive, of Plainview occupied the pulpit at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Don Harris.

Mr. Holland is reported to have delivered a splendid message, which was enjoyed and appreciated by the congregation.

Special music and anthem were rendered during the service.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE TO APPEAR IN "THE LITTLE PRINCESS" AT PALACE THEATRE

In answer to thousands of requests from her fans Darryl F. Zanuck presents Shirley Temple in Technicolor in "The Little Princess," 20th Century-Fox's screen version of the famous classic, which opens at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

The most impressive cast ever assembled for a Shirley Temple production supports the dimpled star in bringing the immortal story to life on the screen, headed by Richard Greene and Anita Louise and including Ian Hunter, Cesar Romero, Arthur Treacher, Mary Nash, Sybil Jason, Miles Mander and Marcia Mae Jones.

"The Little Princess," which, according to advance reports, has been acclaimed not only Shirley's finest picture, but one of the truly great films of all time, was directed by Walter Lang from a screen play by Ethel Hill and Walter Ferris. Gene Markey was associate producer.

Set in one of the most colorful periods of English history, when Queen Victoria's reign was drawing to a close, the beloved Frances Hodgson Burnett story casts Shirley as what the dimpled star herself describes as a "backwards Cinderella."

When her devoted and wealthy father, an officer in the Grenadiers, goes off to fight in the Boer War, he leaves the happy child at Miss Minchin's Exclusive School For Girls. Later, when he is reported dead—a bankrupt—the cruel Miss Minchin takes away all of Shirley's pretty clothes and turns her into a pathetic little slavey.

Pres. Roosevelt Signs $549,000,000 War Appropriation Bill

With a speed which surprised the capital, President Roosevelt signed into law the $549,000,000 war department appropriation bill, and immediately thereafter the army high command placed a record-breaking order for 571 warplanes at a cost of more than $50,000,000.

Moreover, Secretary of War Woodring, declaring that he wanted to assure the American people as to the "readiness and adequacy" of the army, disclosed steps to weed out the over-aged and physically unfit among the service's 12,500 officers.

These developments occurred on the same day that Great Britain announced conscription, and two days before Chancellor Hitler's scheduled speech replying to President Roosevelt's recent request for peace guarantees.

Appointments To Be Made Among Honor Graduates In Army

Fort Sam Houston, Texas, April 29.—The War Department has announced that a number of appointments as second lieutenant in the Regular Army, less the Air Corps, will be made in the near future from honor graduates of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Appointments will be confined to honor graduates in the senior Reserve Officers' Training Corps division of institutions, other than medical, that offer a college degree upon satisfactory completion of four years' college work, and to honor Reserve Officers' Training Corps graduates of Class MI institutions. However, honor graduates of Class MI institutions to be eligible must belong to the graduating class of a senior college or university and have been selected by the president of the institution as an honor graduate for scholastic excellence. A board of Regular Army officers will be appointed to examine the candidates and recommend selections for appointment. It is contemplated that this board will visit certain institutions at the earliest practicable date for the purpose of examining applicants.
