Senate State Affairs Committee Tuesday approved a $357 million tax package based mainly on controversial sales tax. The package would add to the regular tax of the Texas Legislature a 2 per cent levy on items costing more than 25 cents which would raise $100 million.

The bill was a substitute for the House's tax package, which was based on a 1 per cent sales tax on items costing more than 25 cents and was sent to the floor for a vote.

Wardlow Lane of the Senate's tax package included a 50 per cent increase of driver's license fees to raise $7.3 million, equalization of machine taxes at $10 million to raise $24,000, a 10 per cent increase of motor fuel taxes to save $6 million.

OWN and COUNTRY by Wendell Tooley

DON'T SUPPOSE I actually saw many Coloradans. I visited Colorado last week. From books of the license tags everybody was from Texas, Oklahoma, or Arkansas.

reluctantly spend our Texas money seeing beautiful attractions in Colorado. . . yet, we have here in Texas that possibly should be charmed-out-of-staters to see.

They charged us to see even falls, the cliffers house, the royal etc., Monday morning was talking with Gene, who had just been sent to the Alamo in San Antonio. He said it was all real. Looks like Texas being out charged by enterprising states.

While looking through Colorado's news- papers I picked up a story to share with you: Colorado Springs Council has made a critical decision, the Telegraph reports. There will be no more pig pens in Memorial Park.

you haven't seen a pig contest, it goes away: The grunter is red heavily all over grease (lard will do).

Pampa Takes Pony All-Stars

PAMPA - Littlefield's pony all-stars lost out in the playoffs here Monday night as Pampa slapped the visiting Lamb Countians, 8 - 3, behind the superb pitching of James Arthur.

Littlefield managed to get only five hits off the scrappy Little hurler while sixteen of the losers went down via the strikeout route.

After Pampa had taken a two-run lead in the first frame on two home runs, Ronald Sitton came back in the second frame to give Littlefield new life, and put them back in the game with a towering home run in left center.

Pampa scored two more runs in the fourth three singles.

In the fifth inning, Littlefield hurler Billy Henderson doubled to centerfield and scored on a double by Steve Lewis. Wendell Brent then singled, sending Lewis to third. James Black walked to load the bases, but Pampa's Arthur quickly took control of the situation, striking out Gary Pigg to end the inning.

Littlefield's final run came in the bottom of the seventh as Pigg socked a four-bagger with the bases empty.

Henderson was the losing pitcher and had help from Pigg in the sixth.

WSCS Hears Talks By Australian Women

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met in the church parlor last Wednesday evening for a called meeting to hear talks from three Australian ladies who were visiting here in their tour around the world.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. Jack Wartenbarger. During a brief business session, it was announced that program plans for the yearbook would be made at the regular general meeting Wednesday, August 2, in place of the scheduled program.

Mrs. Buster Owens, Jr., introduced the special guests, Miss Joyce Evans, Miss Jean Evans, and Miss Clarice Cox of Melbourne, Australia. Each is Head Mistress in the state school system there, and as such they are responsible for all preparatory first and second grade teachers in their school. They related many interesting experiences in visiting the many churches in the various countries they had visited including Hindu, Moslem, and many cathedrals throughout the world.

And they also told many of the humorous incidents of their journey. They were not sight-seeing tourist as much as they were traveling to learn and they tried to get the feel of the actual everyday life of the people of each place visited.

They were very impressed with the churches in the United States, especially such large and beautiful buildings in the smaller towns, and were amazed at the number of cars and the super highways across the country.

Valuable time may be saved during the harvest season, by checking all on-farm grain storage facilities well in advance of the day when they will be needed, says W.S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. Using leaky, run down and unclean storage buildings will increase hazards from insect and rodent damage, two factors usually responsible for the loss of quality in farm stored grain, he says.

From Your Chamber Office

By Gene Garrison

As your manager, I am extremely grateful to the Chamber for sending me to the "Organization Management Institute" in Houston, Texas. This is a course co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the University of Houston.

The purpose of the school is to assist local Chamber Managers and Trade Association Managers to improve their effectiveness and the effectiveness of their organizations.

This is my third year to attend the annual training program. This year was the best yet. This course is far more than a training program where you hear a series of stimulating speeches. Instead this is a classroom co-ordinated lecture - discussion situation. Text book lists are submitted along with specific reading assignments. The course is climaxed with a three hour test covering the lectures, reading assignments, and outlines submitted.

In my opinion, this course has been the single greatest factor in improving the quality of Chamber management; and hence, we hope, the overall effectiveness of Chambers in their communities.

It should be remembered that Chamber and Trade Association Management has not found its way into the formal textbooks as yet. The best available material is from the field of business management. It should be readily apparent that there must be a lot of adaptation to make this material applicable. This can only be done by practice, discussion, creative thinking and hard work.

At any rate, as this type program continues to improve the ultimate beneficiaries will be the local Chambers of Commerce who insist and permit their managers to attend.

Again, I appreciate very much the Littlefield Chamber making this fine training available to me.

Kenneth Reast, Area Director for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, urges each local member to read thoroughly the current copy of WEST TEXAS TODAY.

This issue reports a thorough coverage of the annual convention; Plus, last year's Annual Report; and finally, the new Program of work, as well as a number of other splendid articles.

The West Texas Chamber is a fine organization that is doing a very effective job.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

They tell me morning, noon and night that I might as well give up - as it is inevitable that socialism will take over. But I have just begun to fight and I earnestly and sincerely pray to God to give me the wisdom to show freedom loving people that now is the time to stand up and speak up against this Godless trend endorsed by the Democratic party. Some conservative Democrats have told me they are for our principles but had rather clean up their own party. If I thought they had a "chinaman's chance" I would still be with them. Why don't they have a chance? Example: In the last Senatorial race there were approximately 70 Democrats running and only one declared himself a conservative - give him the benefit of a doubt - that leaves you with a 70 to 1 odds against you on a state level basis. Then consider the national policy makers such as Eleanor Roosevelt, Walter Reuther, President Kennedy and brother, Sam Rayburn, Vice President Johnson, Chester Bowles, Under Secretary of State, Soapy Williams (Michigan); nowhere can I find a conservative element that would have any influence in the National policy. With all due respects to my Democratic friends, they would have a better chance of making the sun rise in the West and set in the East than stopping this socialist trend in the Democratic Party.

Whereas, in the Republican Party at present we have one Congressman and one Senator, who have both demonstrated their belief in the conservative, free-enterprise system. The State Chairman and all the District Committeemen and County Chairmen are dedicated to these principles. Therefore, we have only one socialist to fight on the National Level, which everyone knows is the Rockefeller Machine. Already there is a state-mart rising in strength nationally and that is Barry Goldwater. He has proven by his record that labor cannot push him around and that big business can't buy him! He knows it is impossible to compromise with communism.

These simple facts caused me to go over to the Republican Party.

Yours truly,
R. W. Manley

Dear Wendell:

Attached is a letter we received from a lady in California. We have received a great many letters regarding our declaration during the past few days. Most of them are in agreement with our movement. Sure, we have received a few who are opposed and almost every one of them are unsigned.

I thought this was a very good letter and that you might like to print it.

Yours very truly,
Howard H. Horne

Dear Sir:

Your group should be highly commended on your stand regarding Mr. Kennedy and his vote getting tactics. We had evidence of this in L. A. during the Dem. convention.

Most Republicans feel he is in the White House because of these tactics and not by honest vote count.

Your group will be a credit to the Republican Party, I am sure.

Good luck and more power to you.

By the way, I am a devoted Catholic, but like many of our faith, I voted against Mr. Kennedy.

I also deplore his stand on many international problems.

The dog he received from Russian Mr. K. should have been named Pushover.

Sincerely,
Mrs. M. A. LaFone

Town

At a signal the animal is turned loose and so are a flock of youngsters. The one who can catch and hold the pork is declared winner. His prize is the pig.

But in the process the kids get smeared with grease, and so do many other things on the premises. And that's why Council turned down request of La Fiesta Bonita for such contest.

AD DEPARTMENT

A rancher near Lander, Wyo., has been reading the classified ads in papers in that area. His cue was the used-car dealers. So he has inserted an ad of his own. It goes:

"For sale -- 1 Holstein milk cow, black and white, $100.

"Accessories: Udder, $75; two-tone color, $50; 4 split hooves, $10 each; tail, approx. 1 1/2 feet, $5; extra stomach, $35; dual horns (optional) $15 each; total $335."

The Casper (Wyo.) Tribune-Herald reports on a sign at a bowling center there: "Interest your kids in bowling. Get them off the streets and into the alleys."

A Cortez, Colo. auto salesman drives a red Corvair company car. His wife borrows it for a shopping trip. She came home in anger. Men drivers had been honking and smiling at her all the way. Her husband solved it. On rear bumper was an orange company stencil: "I Don't Cost as Much as You Think." That's from the Durango (Colo.) Herald.

I HAVE always sorta hinted to my wife that it was just possible that men drivers were better drivers than women drivers. Being a good newspaperman's wife, she's always figured that the statistics would have to be down in black and white if such was the case.

Today, I am happy to report that a study has been made in London and this Briton reports that women drivers are simply terrifying!

A Briton has been following women drivers around for three months to study female driving habits.

Denis Holmes, who writes for the London Daily Mail, told his readers after his venture into research on the highways that most women are unfit to drive.

"I state this," Holmes said, "with every fear of contradiction."

He accused women drivers of "either progressing at a snail's pace or overconfidently weaving through the traffic in slapdash fashion."

Holmes followed 110 women motorists for at least two miles each. Of these 110 unsuspecting women drivers, Holmes concluded 84 were totally unsafe, 14 were fit to be on the road but only average drivers, 8 were good and equal to any man at the wheel and 4 were outstanding and better than most men.

THE BEST is and comes from Lamb County! Our congratulations to Soil Conservationist Roland Willis who advances to area conservationist in Lubbock. Roland will be top man over 11 counties surrounding Lubbock. Lamb

Reserve Offers New Navy Plan

The Naval Reserve in Lubbock, serving the city and South Plains area, is joining its sister reserve services in this week's accelerated enlistment effort. Newest incentive for all former Navy or Naval Reserve rated men to bolster local Naval Reserve forces is an offer to enlist or reenlist them at the rate held at time of their last discharge without regard to time elapsed since last discharge. This offer applies both to Navy and Coast Guard veterans. The two local units with training programs now in effect are the Surface Division 8-87 and the Communications Security Group Division 8-13, of the U. S. Naval Reserve.

With a decided pick-up of enlistment in the Naval Reserve noted by the local Training Center staff this week, specific rates for which Naval Reserve training programs are being offered in Lubbock have become of prime interest to applicants. These include: radioman, hospitalman, electronics technician, personnelman, internal communications electrician, boatswain's mate, electrician's mate, and gunner's mate.

Lubbock's Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center furnishes information and processes reserve applicants at 8th and College Avenue on the Texas Tech campus.

Texas Tech, opening against Mississippi State in Jackson, Miss., Sept. 23, defeated the Bulldogs 27-20 there in 1953.

Manley Receives Congratulations From Senator Mundt

Bob Manley received a letter of congratulations from Senator Karl Mundt, Republican from So. Dakota last week on helping organize the Lamb County Republican Club. It is reprinted herewith:

"Dear Mr. Manley: "I thought you might like to know that the Associated Press story in today's Washington papers reporting on how 120 of your forthright, outspoken, courageous Texans walked over to the Court House and registered yourselves Republican was received in Washington."

"Actually, it created a very sizeable stir in the Senate corridors and sent real shivers of fear up and down the spinal chords of a whole host of so-called liberal Democrats in both houses of Congress."

"Congratulations, on putting your money where your mouth is! As one who has spoken to a great many Texan audiences in past decades, I was long ago convinced that Texas represents the kind of strong, sturdy, self-reliant citizens who have made America great and kept it strong. Their only weakness has been a reluctance to break with the prejudicial chains of the past and to set up an effective political party to free Texas from the shackles of partisanship. This your little band in Littlefield has most dramatically accomplished. I hope and believe there will be many citizens in communities of the South who will be inspired to follow your example."

"The enclosed copy of my newsletter which I wrote sometime ago to the home folks of South Dakota indicates how completely I associate myself with this action on your part. Sometime ago I told an audience in Charleston, South Carolina which was bitterly complaining about the integration policies of the then President Truman, as well as some of the other super state suggestions, he was recommending, that there was an easy answer to the dilemma of the South. I said "if 100 of the most substantial families of the Charleston community would unite in a march to City Hall where you would publicly register as Republican and proclaim to the nation your reasons for so doing, it might generate a movement which would either give the Democratic Party back to the South or compel it to greatly modify its programs if it expected to win another election." You good folks of Littlefield have done precisely this and I congratulate you on your initiative, your good patriotism, and your sound realization of the fact that in this Republic, we always have the kind of government which we deserve and we can always have the kind of government we want."

With best wishes, I am cordially yours, Karl E. Mundt, U.S.S.

Social Security Rules Undergo Slight Change

There was one recent change in the social security law that, while minor, directly or indirectly affects everybody under 72 receiving old-age or survivors insurance benefits. This was a change in the so-called "retirement test." This information was furnished this week by John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock Social Security Office.

Under the old law, a person could earn $1,200 and receive all of his monthly social security benefits. $1 in benefits was withheld, however, for each $2 earned from $1,200 to $1,500, and $1 for each $1 earned over $1,500. Under the new law, only $1 is withheld for each $2 earned from $1,200 to $1,700, with an additional dollar withheld to each dollar earned over $1,700.

This means that under the new law a person eligible for social security benefits may earn up to $1,700 and have fewer deductions from his benefits than under the old law. Of course, for each $1 earned over $1,700, $1 is withheld in benefits.

An important part of this change, too, is that it applies to earnings for this year. People who are receiving benefits and earning $1,500 or more may get more information about this by inquiring at the Lubbock Social Security Office, at 1616 19th Street. There is no change in the provision that, regardless of how much a beneficiary earns in a year, he will get a benefit check for any month in which he is over 72, or in which he neither earns more than $100 in wages nor performs substantial services in self-employment.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. --Sore windows already are featuring school clothes, and mothers across Texas are budgeting money for new blue jeans and calico dresses.

But money with which to open schools is not yet in sight.

No one seriously doubts that new taxes will be voted and new appropriations made before current appropriations run out August 31.

Gov. Price Daniel has asked the Legislature to provide $350,000,000 in new revenue to get the state out of the hole and cover future needs. Even in "good time," raising this much money is a staggering problem. It will mean passing taxes to which a good portion of the Legislature--and possibly the governor--are bitterly opposed.

It could not be done--except that in a few weeks those blue jean and calico-clad youngsters must go to school.

SENATE WORKS ON TAX--Senate's unenthusiastic attitude toward the House-passed tax bill may foreshadow another end-of-the-session deadlock between the two houses.

Even if all senators heartily approved the House bill, they would still have to expand it. State Comptroller Robert Calvert, whose word is final on revenue forecasts, estimates the House bill will raise only $254,000,000. This is over $100,000,000 short of anticipated need. At the time it was passed, House sponsors thought it would bring in about $328,000,000.

House measure would raise money from these sources:

1. A 2 per cent sales tax on all power-driven objects, construction materials, utility services and on other items costing more than $5. (Bulk of expected revenue would be from this provision.)

2. A minimum levy of one cent per thousand cubic feet of natural gas. Holders of dedicated reserve contracts would be liable for paying the difference between present gas production taxes and this minimum requirement.

3. A one-third increase in drivers' license fees.

4. A revision in the corporation franchise tax formula to get more taxes from out-of-state corporations operating in Texas.

5. A one per cent transfer ($12,000,000) from the Permanent School Fund to the Available School Fund.

6. A bookkeeping change to transfer to the schools in August the portion of gasoline tax money that is slated for school purposes.

BUDGET IN CONFERENCE--House and Senate general appropriations bills, each calling for spending in the neighborhood of $2,500,000,000, are in the hands of a joint conference committee.

House bill calls for $15,000,000 more than the Senate version. In addition to what it already had passed, the House instructed its conference committee to hold fast on provisions for a 40-hour week for state employees. Money already was in the House bill to put state hospital employees on a 40-hour week. To this, the House added in its committee instructions, a 40-hour week for prison system and Department of Public Safety employees.

House conferees are Reps. James Cotten of Weatherford, B.H. Dewey of Bryan, J.W. Buchanan of Dumas, Malcolm McGregor of El Paso and Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline.

Senate committee members are Senators Ray Roberts of McKinney, A.M. Aiken Jr. of Paris, Crawford Martin of Hillsboro, Wardlow Lane of Center and Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo.

GOVERNOR OPENS GATES--Just when legislators thought they were going into the stretch on the drive to solve fiscal problems, the governor opened the session to bills on 21 additional subjects. Only subjects listed by the governor may be considered in a special session.

Daniel opened the door to legislation on unemployment compensation, law enforcement and traffic safety, the election code, Sunday closing laws, municipal annexation and some 15 other subjects.

Not included in the list were three bone-in-the-throat issues left over from the regular session: small loan regulation, changes in the auto insurance plan and ceding part of Padre Island to the federal government for a park.

Some legislators protested that the avalanche of bills resulting from the governor's broadened call would make it harder than ever to pass a tax program.

COST-CUTTING PLAN--In view of the House's money-finding problems, Rep. Charles Ballman introduced a measure designed to lop $97,000,000 off the state's revenue needs for the next two years.

Ballman is chairman of the House revenue and taxation committee. He termed his bill an "economy" measure. But many of its provisions, which are likely to arouse opposition, call for getting more money rather than spending less. Among the bill's provisions:

combine the Game and Fish Commission and the State Parks Board; raise tuition for state-supported colleges; pay county superintendents from county, rather than state, funds; finance the Department of Public Safety from state highway funds and put DPS-collected funds into the general fund.

INSURANCE HIKE STUDIED--Lawmakers, though they cannot legislate on insurance in this session, are giving the new, higher auto insurance rates a thorough going over.

Conflict began when the State Board of Insurance instituted insurance premiums based on driving records in January, 1950. Many legislators protested effects of the plan during the regular session. Then during the summer the Board ordered an across-the-board increase in auto insurance rates, averaging about 15 per cent.

Both House and Senate set up special committees to investigate possible increase. A representative of the Board told the House committee that drivers' rates, actually, had not increased during World War II when drivers knew they wrecked a car they were walking for the State Supreme Court announced that its decision was current and customary August 1, 1951, during the recess.

Advance Plang Of On Farm Grain Storaluable

Advanced planning in checking "on-farm" grain storage may save valuable time during harvest, says W.S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. Leaky, run down, and unclean storage buildings will increase hazards from insect and rodent damage, the two factors usually responsible for the loss of quality in farm storage.

A good storage unit should meet certain standards. The roof should be weather tight, the walls should be strong, sound, and rain proof. Any potential water leaks should be patched and caulked to prevent the entry of moisture from the outside. Cover the openings in the walls and gable ends of the buildings with screen wire to keep out rats and birds, and use 1/4 inch mesh wire around the tops of wooden bins. Cotton Dominates South Plains Income Picture

BY W. R. Kimbrough County Agent Cotton is king on High Plains farms. Eighty Four per cent of cash receipts on High Plains irrigated cotton farms were from cotton lint and seed in 1960. The average net income per farm is estimated at $14,844 for 1960, the second highest on record. It is 38 per cent higher than 1947-1949, and only exceeded by the 1958 return.

Some of the reasons for the higher income in 1960 are: 1. Net farm production was 7 per cent higher than in 1959. 2. Cotton yields were about 13 pounds more per acre. 3. An increase in the size of the farms. The near-record net income was achieved despite the fact that prices received by farmers were down 2 percent from 1959. Those products which sold for lower prices were lint cotton, cattle and grain sorghum. Cottonseed and hog prices were slightly higher.

Prices paid for goods and services were higher in 1960. But, due to exceptionally good management by the farm operators, they were able to hold operating expenses to a level slightly lower than 1959. Things contributing to this were: 1. Lower irrigation costs. 2. Hired labor cost was lower. This was due to more mechanical harvesting. Man labor requirements were about 8 percent higher due to increased chopping and hoe bill. Some of the expense items which increased were poison costs, due to weather conditions and insects, ginning, power and machinery. The net farm income of $14,844 in 1960 compares with prior years as follows: $13,291 in 1959; $18,188 in 1958; $11,199 in 1957 and $10,761 in 1947-49.

The return for the net farm income on the investment was just over 13 percent. When a charge for capital is made, the labor management return for operator and family labor is $7,714, 6.8% of the capital investment.

The total capital investment on these irrigated farms was $113,900. Gross farm income for 1960 was $29,889 and operating expenses were $15,045. The return per hour to operator and family labor was $2.98. This is based on the 2,590 hours spent by the families in operating the farm.

The returns in 1960 indicate that High Plains cotton farmers study their business and have a continuous management program.

USDA Suggests Turkey As Star Of Meals

Turkeys star in summer meals as well as in autumn meals because marketings are as large this August as around Thanksgiving in yesteryears.

This is pointed out by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in announcing that turkeys top the list of August plentiful foods prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

With turkey marketings running a fourth or more larger than last August, prices hover near a record low, making turkey a bargain meat.

Local supplies of peaches, cantaloupes and watermelons as well as many summer vegetables are generous enough to rate USDA's plentiful tag this month.

Shipments of eating plums from California are running much larger than usual for this season.

Other foods in better than normal August supply include eggs and shrimp, fresh, frozen and canned.

After checking local and national food stocks, USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service compiles this monthly plentiful foods list to help farmers market more of their produce through normal trade channels, and to help consumers make better use of America's agricultural abundance.

Electric Camp Attended By Area 4-H'ers

One phase of 4-H Club work is an annual Electric Camping trip to the mountains sponsored by the Southwestern Public Service in cooperation with the Extension Service.

Four boys and four girls two adult leaders and extension agents from 12 counties in the district are participating in a week's outing at Scott Abel 4-H Camp near Cloudcroft July 31 through August 4.

The groups will be working on wiring, lighting, meter reading, cost of appliances and 4-H records. Other phases will be recreation, hiking. Some 140 people left by chartered bus Monday morning from Lubbock.

Those attending from Lamb County are: Sheryl Stevens, James Pitts, Johnnie West and adult leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Haley, Pleasant Valley; Nancy Williams, Linda Williams, Sudan; Don Curtis, Olton; Diane Phillips, Richard Kimbrough, Littlefield and County Agents, W. R. Kimbrough and Mrs. Lady Clare Phillips.

Sheep Industry Boon To Texas

Sheep and lamb slaughter is becoming a more important item in Texas each year. In 1950, only 4 percent of the U. S. commercial slaughter could be accounted for by Texas, but by 1960 this figure had increased to 8 percent of the total, says Ed Uvacek, extension livestock marketing specialist.

Continuing this trend, federally inspected slaughter of sheep and lamb during the first half of 1961 has far exceeded slaughter for the same period of 1960. The principal gain occurred in the South Central region, which includes Texas. During the first quarter of 1961 the South Central region showed a 33 per cent increase over the first quarter of 1960, while the U. S. as a whole showed only a 10 per cent increase. Heavy slaughter during these months was also evident in the Mountain and West North Central areas of the country, continues Uvacek. Forecasts indicate slaughter will continue close to last year's levels for the rest of the year. South Central slaughter, however, will probably drop lower during the July - September quarter.

Since 1957, January inventories of sheep and lambs on Texas farms have increased 37 per cent and now total 6.2 million head. This increase represents a reversal of the trend started in the mid 1940's when there was a nationwide shift out of the sheep business.

This year, Texas sheep received the highest condition rating ever for a July 1. The Western Range states showed sheep conditions averaging the same as last year's level, and slightly better than last month.

With a reasonably strong slaughter yet to come and an already depressed market, the outlook is for seasonally lower prices into the fall with some possible improvement late in the year, says Uvacek. Live lamb prices will probably be slightly below the corresponding year's levels in the fall and feeder prices are also expected to be forced down by these low slaughter lamb prices.

NEW FLAX Foundation seed for Caldwell, a new cold-hardy, high-yielding winter flax, have been released to Texas seed producers. This new variety is the highest yielding winter-type flax that can be grown in Texas and may eventually replace much of the spring-type now grown in the State. A limited amount of certified seed will be available for farm planting this fall.

It's The Law

Witnesses Vital Part Of U.S. Court System

By far the most vital people in our system of justice are witnesses. Everyone else in a trial exists to hear what they have to say.

Our courts need witnesses. A jury to find the facts. The judge to apply the law. The lawyer to tell his client's story.

Chances are you worry about stepping up, taking an oath, and telling your story in court.

On some rare occasions you could be called upon to testify about something affecting your own standing in the community.

As a witness you too may have the right, for example, not to testify against yourself in somebody else's lawsuit or crime trial.

If you are ever in such a bind, consult a lawyer of your own choice on what to do. The lawyer who called you to testify has a sworn duty to protect his client, not you. But your lawyer is sworn to keep what you tell him secret and to advise you in your own interests within the law.

About Your Health

Wise lawyers tell their clients to testify about their health. Various educated guesses as to the number of undiscovered diabetics in the United States place the figure somewhere between one and two million. Undoubtedly a fair proportion of them are Texans.

Diabetes is a systemic metabolic disease in which the body loses its ability to use sugar normally. It can develop at any age, but most new victims are 50 or older.

Normally, the gland called the pancreas produces a secretion called insulin which is released into the blood. In the presence of insulin, sugar in the blood is burned, especially by muscular activity. Any excess of sugar in the presence of a normal amount of insulin is stored temporarily, mostly in the liver, and released into the blood stream as needed.

This is the normal pattern. But in a person suffering with diabetes the pancreas fails to produce sufficient insulin. And when starches are eaten and absorbed as sugar, the body is unable to control the sugar normally by storing it in the liver or to burn it efficiently in muscular exercise. Result: the sugar content of blood increases abnormally.

Because a diabetic is unable to burn sugar efficiently for energy, he becomes weak and tired, hungry and undernourished.

When blood sugar gets too high, the kidneys -- in an effort to lower it -- removes some of the sugar by excreting it in the urine. This makes the body dry and creates thirst.

Proof of the hereditary nature of diabetes is the fact that surveys of diabetic children show 80 per cent are from families with a history of diabetes. Recent studies have shown that both mothers and babies weighing 10-12 pounds at birth have a pronounced tendency to develop diabetes in later life.

Overeating and lack of muscular exercise tend to promote obesity which in turn create a tendency toward diabetes. It has been shown that 20 fat persons develop the disease for every thin one who does. Moral: don't overeat, don't get overweight, but do get plenty of exercise.

You can judge your own disposition toward diabetes. Are you overweight? Do you overeat? Is there diabetes in your family? Were you a "heavy" baby at birth? Do you have any of these symptoms: persistent hunger or thirst, loss of weight or strength, excessive urination? If so, you're a fair candidate for diabetes and ought to promptly consult your fam-witnesses to obey twelve rules:

1. Go to the place (say, the scene of an accident). Check your memory before you go to court. People forget and get caught up on details. But if you check what you saw and heard you are on solid ground.

2. Visit a court. Hear how other witnesses testify. It will help you see your role on the witness stand.

3. Wear clean, conservative clothes.

4. Don't memorize your story word for word. That is the surest way to sound bad. But think of what you saw and heard.

5. Listen to the questions you are asked with care and answer thoughtfully.

6. Give a simple, direct answer in your own words. Don't be rushed.

7. If you err--and people often do--correct yourself at once. If you can't remember some detail, say so. Don't bluff.

8. Tell the truth. Don't figure which side you may help. Don't identify yourself with either side.

9. Stop when the judge breaks in, and don't try to sneak an answer in before he can stop you. What you might say could end in a "mistrial."

10. Keep cool and don't sass back.

11. If they ask you: Certainly, you have talked to other people -- the lawyer, for example; and yes, you may be reimbursed for certain of your expenses incurred in attending the trial.

12. Remember, without witnesses our law would fail to do justice. If you are called, be a good witness.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the state Bar of Texas, is written to inform--not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Our Contemporaries Are Saying

WHAT COST THOU, COFFEE TIME?

We might have known! With so many electronic computing machines on the scene, one of them just had to come up with something on that great American custom, the coffee break. What really surprises us is that the computers didn't get around to the coffee break even before they made a name for themselves in last November's presidential election.

Somehow, the coffee break has become established as one of the original American heritages, a hallowed right which is due and accepted by employer and employee alike.

It doesn't hurt the employer, or at least it didn't until one of those know-it-all computing machines came along and figured the cost.

This coffee break is taken as an opportunity to break the monotony of the job, to exchange gossip and swap tall stories with the fellow employees, make plans for the evening and weekend, and simply to take it easy from 10 to 30 minutes of time.

The computing machine figures it out this way (only the language is the writer's - the figures are those of the Machine):

Suppose that you take 30 minutes for coffee. Of course, you start out with the to-be-commended intention of taking only 15 minutes, but by the time you wash your hands, get to the door, wait for your friends, walk to the cafe or drug store, get served, drink the brew, finish the conversation, stop at the cashier's desk and saunter back to work you have gone through 30 minutes at least.

Say you are paid $1.50 per hour, a conservative figure. If you take off a half hour in the morning and another in the afternoon, you have used up $7.50 for a five-day week. If you work Saturday, add another $1.50 to make it an even $9. This is the wages for which you are not working.

Now, to carry on with the Machine's figures. You do this 20 times a month at $1.50 per hour and you come up with $30 that you get as a bonus from the payroll department.

This amount times 12 months equals a yearly stipend of $360, which represents, conservatively, the cost of coffee time for one person.

But that isn't all. You spend 10 cents for a cup of coffee, or 20 cents a day. That makes a $4 guzzling charge for the month. At the end of the year, this amounts to $48 that you can add to the $360 in lost time.

Suppose you work for 20 years and retire. Holy Mackerell - $7,200 is what the boss paid you for drinking coffee, and you plunked down $900 to pay for the juice of the bean.

Just a minute, fellows. Let us finish this line and turn off the computing machine and we'll be right with you. Who's buying today, anyway? (Post Dispatch).

Like a lot of other people, we suppose, we viewed the words of President Kennedy's talk on Tuesday night with mixed emotions.

On the one hand, we agree with most Americans that if ever we're to hold the containment line against Communism, it must be in Berlin. You can back-pedal again, but eventually, there will come a time and place in which you either stand firm or tuck the tail between the legs and run... and Berlin is that place.

We fiddle-footed and talked during the Armistice on North Korea and while we talked the Russians kept gobbling up the territory under discussion. In Laos the situation was the same. While we talked at the conference table the Russians were moving in and taking over. If we let that happen in Berlin we might as well withdraw from all our commitments around the world and shrink back to within our own continental borders.

We believe most Americans want this nation to stand firm and solid in the Berlin situation... it has been a key in our foreign policy for 16 years.

But on the other hand, we also believe the American people have become so immune to cold war crises, that it will be difficult if not impossible to get them stirred up about the Berlin situation.

The immunity has been developing for years. Ever since the end of World War II, we have been hammered at and warned about, cautioned against, and conjoined for one crisis after another... and often times, during the past, we, as a taxpayer and voter, have been tricked into buying something "in the interest of the cold war' that had little if anything to do with fighting the cold war.

In other words, the government has cried "wolf" so many times in past years in order to further its own aims, that it is now hard to convince the average American that the nation is in peril.

Personally, if three and a half billion dollars is what the government needs to bone up our armed forces so that we can back up what we say in Berlin, then that is the amount Congress should provide.

Our chief worry--and we believe the chief concern of most of us--is the costs involved in the "related" factors of an emergency mobilization.

Every pet project pusher in Washington will now start pushing his project in the "national interest of the Berlin crisis."

We can see how the proponents of federal aid to education will now declare to Congress that emergency funds should be voted immediately for our big and little schools to help out "in the Berlin situation." Because of the immediate crisis, forests will have to be conserved, water should be stored behind newer and bigger dams, more generating plants should be built with federal funds, more transmission lines will be needed, the peanut growers will have to be subsidized to produce bigger and better peanuts for the Berlin effort and naturally the government will have to erect newer and better and more modern plants to can those marvelous C-rations.

In the name of "emergency" and "crisis" the floodgate will open and federal spending on every level will jump by leaps and bounds... so we imagine that when the president talks about 3 1/2 billion, he's talking about the cheapest part of the new cold war situation.

It's kinda sad, we believe, to think that a nation like America has to pull itself up, launch an emergency campaign and spend billions of dollars just to show its opponent it actually means no when it says no.

We can remember a few years back--prior to peace conference parleys and summit meetings--when the whole world understood explicitly what this nation meant when we said "No!"

But we suppose that it is only fitting and proper in these days of dollar diplomacy to have to use dollars to make ourselves understood.

President Kennedy cannot be blamed for the Berlin crisis--it's been around since Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill had those little fireside chats. JFK and his cohorts can assume the full responsibility for that Cuban deal but as far as Berlin, we all must bear the burden.

We can well sympathize with the president and we're mighty glad that it is his decision to decide whether we actually mean no or not in Berlin. (Andrews County News)

Small Business Does

Big Job On Bond

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Small business does a big job for the U. S. Savings Bond Payroll Savings Plan, according to the Treasury Department.

In a public service newspaper ad released today as part of the Bond program's 20th anniversary observance, the Treasury saluted the thousands of smaller employers who have taken initiative in installing and promoting this automatic thrift plan for their employee's benefit, often without professional help.

Official estimates indicate that 45,000 companies offer the plan. These include most of America's largest corporations, but also many companies, in all types of business, which employ fewer than 100 employees. In many cases the plan has been offered continuously since 1941.

In a statement acknowledging the Treasury's tribute, Cortland St. Paul, Minnesota, executive chairman of the Small Business Committee, said: "Small companies count for a large percentage of the 8 million roll Savers who save million dollars' worth a year. S. Savings Bonds are a source of pride for every employee who saves. We are proud to be part of a plan that is helping to keep our country strong and free."

education bills are said to be dead for this session. But the conservative victory is hollow. It's a discouraging victory, anyway you look at it.

The Rules Committee of the House killed the bill 8 to 7. That's pretty slim. But the deciding vote to kill was cast by a Roman Catholic Democrat on the committee who wanted Catholic schools to share in the gravy. The bills applied only to public schools.

That ought to be the stand of Protestant and Catholic alike. Tax money from Washington to support parochial schools is unjustified because:

1. No citizen should be compelled to support any part of a church's activities.

2. It is unconstitutional; it breaks the wall of separation of church and state.

3. It eventually would tempt all churches to march on Washington for more money--which, in turn, would give the government an excuse for aiding and controlling every denomination in America. The church would be in government, and the government would be in the church.

Not all Catholics feel like the gentleman from New York.

A substantial number are opposed to federal aid to education in any form, on the grounds that it will be federal control of education from kindergarten to college. Local people will have no voice in what their children are taught, how their minds are shaped, what their destinies will be.

No parent should want that, Catholic or Protestant. So, let's not shout. The federal education-aiders have lost a battle but not the war. They will be back.

They will return with bills for public schools and parochial schools, bills to pay teachers, buy textbooks, endow scholarships, construct buildings--and, most important, bills so written that a simple rider can be attached giving Washington supreme power to dictate courses of instruction, teacher assignment and other essentials.

When that happens, you, as parents, can kiss your children goodbye. They won't belong to you. Their training--physical, mental and spiritual--will belong to the aiders. (Dallas Morning News.)
