

Deated in Political Race Pierce Brooks Says He Will Be Peoples' Lobbyist

AS, Jan. 19.—Pierce Brooks, a Dallas businessman, and representative for lieutenant governor, surprised political circles here when he announced that he was leaving his business and would become the lobbyist. "The special interests and monopolies have their representatives at the legislative sessions; the plain people have no voice," he stated that he would be one of the hotels in Auspromised liberal pensions and I think that officials who have made these promises should see that legislation is provided to make this possible, or resign. I believe that the people of this state also want the horse racing issue out into the open and discussed, and will not stand for any 'surprise legislation,' which occurred a few years ago."

Brooks, a Dallas real estate broker, led his nearest opponent for lieutenant governor in the first democratic primary by over 60,000 votes, but was defeated by Coke Stevenson, former speaker of the house, in the second primary.

TY-NINE WOMEN AT LOCAL COMMUNITY SEWING ROOM TURN OUT 13,746 GARMENTS IN 1938

The community sewing project in Littlefield, which is under the supervision of Miss Lula Hubbard, now employs 49 women. Up until the middle of 1938 a number of girls were also employed, but they were taken off the sewing room project, and put on an N. Y. A. home training project at Tech college, Lubbock. The three girls from this city who entered Tech at that time have just completed the six months' training. "Girls from the 24 counties on the North and South Plains are eligible for this training," stated Miss Hubbard, who also stated that during 1937 the sewing room project employed only 25 women, showing

WE THINK WHAT DO YOU THINK? By. M. B. D.

LITTLEFIELD NEEDS A CITY PLANNING COMMISSION—AND THE FIRST PROJECT WHICH SHOULD BE CONSIDERED IS THE WIDENING OF LFD AND XIT DRIVES—

When Littlefield was platted, the engineers, it would appear, never even dreamed that this city would some day face traffic problems. They were men of vision, otherwise they would not have visioned a city on the prairie, serving a great and prosperous territory for miles and miles in every direction. But the vision of man changes with the rising and setting of the sun. We see our mistakes of yesterday as we travel through today; we plan for tomorrow . . . and on down through life we travel. That is progress!

Littlefield was started back in the wagon yard days . . . and in those days when gas buggies were just coming into limited use.

Today we have a traffic problem for two reasons . . . the growth of the city and surround-

INAUGURATION DRAWS RECORD AUSTIN CROWD

New Gov'r Promises People Business-Like, Economic Administration

Austin, Jan. 17.—Attended by a crowd in excess of 50,000, and to the tunes of about 50 bands, W. Lee O'Daniel rode into the gubernatorial mansion at Austin today. The demonstrations and ceremonies, which marked the induction of the new governor, eclipsed in splendour, any like event ever witnessed in the Lone Star state.

The record crowds which thronged Austin streets and the amphitheatre were in a gay, festive mood and the new governor referred to the masses as—"The Homecoming of the Plain People." In his inaugural address—Governor O'Daniel stressed the point that all his campaign promises would be fulfilled to the letter. He stated that he was dedicating himself to furthering the welfare of the "masses" and to ad-

EXHIBITION TO BE FINEST IN MANY YEARS

Sixty Boxers Will Try Out
For Golden Glove
Contest

Monday night at 7:45 at the high school gym will start the first trek of the invitation boxing tournament, sponsored by the Littlefield Athletic association, and there is bound to be a kick or two or maybe several out of the socks that are scheduled to be exchanged. The tourney will extend through Tuesday night.

Ed Seely, president of the association, reported at noon Wednesday, that at least 60 entries had been made. The tournament will be held strictly under AAU boxing rules, and O. J. "Bo" Sexton, of Lubbock, most popular and efficient ring official in West Texas, will do the refereeing and head the judges' committee.

Boxers have entered from Sudan, Whitharral and Littlefield, and about 18 heavy-hitting amateurs from Lubbock are expected to accompany Babe Richte, to the first tournament held in Littlefield since 1937.

Fights in all weight divisions are on tap, and a trophy will be awarded to the winner of each division. The climax for the winners will be the South Plains Golden Gloves tournament in Lubbock Feb 6 and 7, to which winning amateurs from preliminary matches have been invited. The state-wide climax will be in Fort Worth, starting Feb. 16.

Boxers who have signed entry blanks and who will probably furnish entertainment for fight-hungry fans, and will exhibit unusual ability, include about 12 boys from the Littlefield C. C. C. camp, who have

NEW MEMBERS INDUCTED BY ROTARY CLUB

Coach McKeever of Tech to Address Club at Today's Luncheon

Ed McKeever, line coach for Texas Tech, will be the speaker at today's luncheon of the Littlefield Rotary club. The program has been designated as "Athletic Day" and the features will pertain to the various athletic activities and sports.

Last week's meeting was attended by about 45 members and guests, this being the largest meeting of the present year. Three new members, F. Patrick, Jim Eitter and Jimmie Brittain, were inducted into membership by lecturer F. O. Boles. Mondro the mentalist, who appeared currently at the Palace theater, entertained those present with a few card tricks and a very impressive demonstration of mentalism.

Mr. Garlington, the president, expressed himself as delighted with the large attendance, and urged the members keep up the good work so that the club might once more reach its former fine attendance records.

Don Harris, chairman of the program committee, announced that his committee had prepared a tentative schedule of programs for the entire year, and that every effort would be made during 1939 to give the local club the most interesting and entertaining luncheon programs that they had ever enjoyed.

Our Biggest Job

A weekly newspaper like the Lamb County Leader, has a better opportunity and comparatively more responsibility, than even the largest Metropolitan dailies. This may sound rather far-fetched but it happens to be the simple fact. We have the opportunity to help our community in countless ways by disseminating information and news, directly helpful towards our social and civic betterment. If a home-town paper accepts its responsibility it will help any and every enterprise or activity that promotes the interests of all the people within its reader circle.

It is indeed a Great Opportunity, no matter how small the place or population. If you were to make a survey of all the Home-Town papers in the world—you would discover that all those papers which served without thought of self, were rewarded in a very material way. They grew and prospered because they had earned the greatest of newspaper assets — Community Goodwill.

A very busy year is ahead for all of us—here in Littlefield. There will be new industry, building, commerce and an increase in population. We of the Leader, shall have Fifty Wonderful Opportunities to lead the forward movement.

The reason for this editorial is—our desire to go on record, at the beginning of the year 1939, with an avowal of purpose and intentions. We mean to count the day or issue, lost when we will not have added something to the common good and progress, of all our people.

We wish each and everyone of our readers to consider The Lamb County Leader, as his or her co-workers. Your problems are our problems. The closer we work together, the easier it will be to accomplish the tasks before us.

We are ready to work with you—and for you.

We Must Defend Our Own

There are few Americans, regardless of their personal political predilections, who will not agree with the main theme of President Roosevelt's first message to the new Congress.

That is that the United States must put its armed forces into such condition that this country will be able to resist any threat to our national rights or encroachments upon our liberties by any foreign power.

Most Americans, too, will agree with the President when he says that means other than the use of force must be tried first in any situation which might strain international relations.

But in a world where force seems to be the principal means of making other nations agree with the ones which have the most powerful armaments, certainly the voice of America will be listened to with more respect if we put ourselves in a position where others will realize that we have necessary force to back up our words, if it comes to a showdown.

There are other means of undermining the influence of the aggressive dictatorships, and those are already in our possession.

The suggestion will doubtless be made in Congress, and will receive much public support, that commerce of any kind with any unfriendly nation should be prohibited.

Japan is almost facing ruin now by reason of the threat to her silk exports, since a new artificial silk superior to the natural product is just being put on the market in this country. If Japan could not buy American cotton and other goods that nation would be in serious difficulties indeed.

And so with Germany, Italy and other nations which are making more or less threatening gestures toward the United States.

All of them can be brought to terms by economic pressure which is well within our ability. But before we begin to put on the pressure we should be ready to resist if they choose to fight about it.

Howdy Folks:

During the past few weeks, while European nations were reaching for each others throats, the writer has been asked, quite frequently, how we manage to get any news out of Germany or Italy, where such strict censorship is being imposed upon correspondents. So—I am going to alay your doubts and fears—right now. We haven't had a bit of difficulty in getting news from the Leader's London, Paris or Berlin correspondents; it comes to us via grapevine special, by way of Spade, Olton and Pep.

Well—the Hillbilly Band leader is now settled in Austin, where he is directing the two big orchestras. He is going to get them to play that favorite composition of his, "Old Age Pensions," to the tune of Thirty-Five Millions. Of course, there do be one or two people in the state who seem to have some doubts as to whether them thar musicians will come through with all those shekels. They should not doubt this wizzard. Any man who can scratch out and pick up, a half million votes with a couple of fiddles and guitars—should have no trouble diggin' up a measerly $35,000,000. Let's not worry about it just yet—unless, you happen to be one of the old-timers who voted for him expecting to get your pension by return mail. You know how it is—it will take him a few days mebbe, to find them loose dollars, and then there's apt to be a couple of days before he actually gets hold of it so he can mail it on to you.

Just about when I was beginning to lose hope of interest in any of the cooking recipes that are published in the big town papers—Nancy Page, whose cooking articles are syndicated over a wide territory, came to my rescue, with a life-saving article about "Sauerkraut and Spareribs." I was getting good and tired (Not Fed Up) of Brussels sprouts, bisque torton, glace a la Napoleon and fillet mignons. All you can usually find in the papers or magazines is a lot of instructions on how to prepare a lot of things that you can't afford to buy, and—they wouldn't be good for you if you could afford them. Now—you take on about a quarter section of good spareribs and a small bale of kraut, and you can keep from starving to death, for a fairly long time. Brother Jones—

FIFTH INSTALLMENT SYNOPSIS

Blown, raised in a nest at the age of 18 under Marcella, in New York, about her safety, being unfamiliar with the world and has developed a woman, her mother is to get her safely out of her first hall, Mrs. Felix Kent, rich, 19 years older than she, is quickly become engaged in her apartment on the fire-escape, confides in her father and that she is Lynda Sandal, who meets Jock Ayleward, who tells his father that he means her and that she is going to marry him next week.

He took from the table drawer and handed to her the picture of his dog.

"I won't want him any more after next Wednesday."

"Why not?"

"Because, by the grace of God, before that day it won't be only Roger but you who will be forced to believe in me even if you are already Mrs. Felix Kent."

"She said, looking him in the eyes, 'I shall really be Mrs. Felix Kent. And I shall not be forced to believe in you. I've decided to make the search. I promised only on one condition . . . that you return the jewels.'"

"Lynda?"

"I shall be waiting."

"Lord! I haven't got them."

"You will find them if you look."

"You made me a promise."

"A promise to a thief?"

"Is still a promise."

"But you—have done something to me."

"I kissed you."

"You forced your kiss upon my mouth." She had begun to tremble now and her voice shook. "For that I will change my promise to a bargain."

He was driven to a desperate jeering. "So you don't trust your Knave of Diamonds?"

"Absolutely. I don't care really whether I open his safe or not. It would be considerably pleasanter for me not to open it."

Jock faltered nearer, fell on his knees before her, put his arms about her and pressed down his head against her. He said nothing.

She stood there. She did not know that she had bent down her own head until her lips had touched his hair. He looked up into her face and rose and let her go. They did not speak again.

She had entirely forgotten to change her dress. She had left her parcel in her father's room.

It was not until she was in her soft and perfumed room in her bed, smooth and cool, and had her head against her pillow that she began to think again.

Then she sat up straight from her pillow in the darkness and spoke aloud the truth:

"I love him. Why, of course . . . I love him."

A truth that did not make her situation easier.

"You're giving me everything, Felix," Jocelyn murmured late one evening, the wedding day just 52 hours ahead, "except one thing and that is what I want most."

He had been about to say good night.

"Good! Now I'm going to hear something worth while. Just ask me for something good and difficult to get."

"It's just—your confidence."

"All right. You shall have it. What do you want to know? Ask me for a secret."

"I can't ask for anything definite of course. But I do feel so outside your real life, Felix, your everyday interests, I mean."

"Oh, you're jealous of Becky Deal again, are you? Is that it?"

"In a way, I truly am. She knows you, the real Felix Kent, better than I do. She understands what you are thinking of all day when I'm not with you. I was ashamed when I was in the office."

I didn't even know at first—don't laugh at me—that you were interested in mines. She boasted—yes, she really did boast, Felix—in a careful polite sort of way, that she knew all about your affairs."

"Which she doesn't, not by a long shot."

"She said you called her your 'other safe.'"

"Well, I've got bigger and better ones whose contents are just as much Greek to Miss Rebecca Deal."

"But she can't get into them and find out for herself."

"No, she can't, darling. Do you suppose she's got the combination?"

"Oh, haan't she?"

Jocelyn whispered, "I wish—you will think I'm worse than a baby—but I do wish I could tell her that I knew that combination."

Felix threw back his head and laughed heartily and tenderly, the laughter of an indulgent elder.

"Little goose! What good would that do you?"

"No good of course. No practical good. But—spiritually—"

"Spiritually? To know the combination of an office safe?"

"Well, psychologically then. It would give me a feeling of knowing you better, of being in your confidence, of being—her voice faltered—"really your wife . . ." (And I am going to be his wife, his faithful wife who, to make amends for this one act of treachery—or is it an act of trust?—must obliterate from her mind all fanciful rebellions. So her writhing conscience justified itself.)

Felix lifted the hair from one of the delicate close-set ears and bending his mouth to it whispered, "Three-eight . . . three turns to the left . . . eight-five-two . . . two turns to the right. One-one-one-seven . . . six turns right. Six turns left. Did you get that, my sweet foolish wife?"

"Say it again, Felix."

He repeated it and she, in her brain of a schoolgirl, conned it over and over, sick with her own deception. To be so in a man's arms and to cajole his secrets from him for what might be . . . no, she trusted him. "It is to prove my confidence in him . . ." This conscience must be silenced! It is only to prove his honor in such a fashion that he may never know it has been questioned; to rid myself of this—other . . . this Other . . . forever and forever—and forever."

Next day she wrote a line to Jock:

"I must believe you have not been able to return the jewels. If I succeed in arranging matters as I hope, I'll come to you tonight about 11 o'clock. I shall have to ask your help."

This she mailed with her own hand. Pleading weariness, she asked Felix to stay away that evening and to her relief he decided that he would take advantage of this dismissal for one of his flying business trips.

"I'll take the evening express and get back in time to make all our preparations, darling." He gave her an address to wire or to telephone to if she should need him and kissed her fondly. This was at 8 o'clock in the afternoon.

At half-past 10 Jocelyn got up and locked her door. Outside the night was thick. Fog horns croaked from the river.

She took her disguise from its hiding place and dressed herself. She ran her fingers through her hair. For this one last time she must wear the dangerous semblance of that "conspicuous young woman."

It was nearly 11 o'clock when she reached the foot of the fire escape.

As she stepped briskly out along the street past the awning of the apartment house, she thought that a man emerged from the alley she had just left and walked, not very rapidly, behind her.

She had to wait 10 minutes for a vacant taxicab. On the opposite corner a man seemed to be waiting. She signalled and got her cab, climbed into it. Looking back she saw that the other foot passenger was frantically signaling.

She dismissed her driver at the door of Nick's front residence. Another taxi swooped to a stop at the corner of that street and its fare dismantled.

She went into the unlocked door of the tenement, ran up the stairs of the tenement, ran up the stairs and entered Nick's room. Jock room.

"Speak low," said Lynda. "Is Nick here?"

"No, I took him to a hospital for treatment. He'll be able to get out in a few days."

"I'm glad he isn't here. I've been followed. A man's across this alley in a doorway. My mother has engaged a private detective to find out who took her jewels. He must have seen me come out. Jock, what shall we do? If we go out together now we'll both be arrested."

Jock said, "There's another way out."

"Won't they be watching it?"

"Probably. You left a dress here. Why not change?"

"Wouldn't it be better for me to put on some of Nick's clothes? They'll be looking for a woman."

"Good thought. You could wear them pretty well." His eyes impersonally measured her.

He took her into the bedroom, tumbled a suit from the closet to the bed, got a shirt, a tie and a soft hat and left her.

The clothes weren't such a bad fit. The felt hat, because of her thick hair, was a tight squeeze but she pulled it down. When she came out Jock smiled at her appearance.

"You'll do, I guess, on a foggy night. Where are we going when we leave here?"

"Have you one of those small searchlights, Jock?"

"An electric torch? Sure thing."

"Then take it. We're going to Felix's office downtown."

Three blocks away from the tall narrow tenement they took a taxicab.

She said to herself, "After this ride I shall never be alone with him again. And I love him. And I have never given him a word of kindness. He will remember me only as one of many wounds. And the longing to speak softly to him took possession of her almost irresistibly."

It was more difficult than Jocelyn had foreseen, to locate the spot they wanted. But finally they found

At the foot of the fire escape they stood together looking up.

"You must wait here, Jock; I know just where the safe stands. I have memorized the combination. Let me have your torch."

"I must go up with you. You don't imagine that I'd let you take this chance alone?"

"You have to. If I am caught, I've only to let them know who I am in order to be released. But if you are found in there . . ."

She took the light from him and felt the ice of his fingers.

"Keep the light low, Lynda. Be careful."

"I will. You'll watch down here. If—if I should find any papers I'll throw them down to you and as soon as you can get them, go. Don't wait for me. I may not come down this way. I may wait and tell the night watchman that I had a wager some silly society girl's explanation. That would give you more time. If I find no papers, as of course I won't, I will come down and join you."

She had started her dizzy climb. She found the window open. It moved up silently and she let herself down upon the office floor. She went softly over to the safe. The electric torch, as she pressed it, gave out a round white spot which startled her with its precise revelation of the glittering knob of the safe.

She repeated to herself: "Three-eight . . . three turns to the left. Eight-five-two. Two turns to the right. One-one-one-seven. Six turns

The small compartments were labeled, not with letters or numbers, but with hieroglyphics which meant nothing. She took out bundles of papers and stealthily examined them. Bundle after bundle, with names and titles utterly unknown, contracts, letters, signed papers she took them out, returned them.

"Aigernon Talley, Lost Valley Mine."

She thought she had imagined the words but her eyes had really picked them off a folded stiff sheet. She began now to shake.

"I agree to give your engineer the kind of look-in you suggest, provided you come across with the million." Her sick eyes ran down the page. She saw his name, "Jock Ayleward." Another letter: "I've got him where we want him. It

Aldridge's Market Installs Modern Market Fixtures

Entire Store Remodeled; More Improvements to be Made

W. J. Aldridge has installed a streamlined refrigeration and display case, in the meat department of his popular market. It is a "Southern Beauty" market fixture made by the Warren Company of Atlanta, Ga. This is the first case of this type to be installed in Littlefield and has already attracted a lot of attention and favorable comment. One of the very practical features of this cabinet is a large separate compartment for the conditioning and display of poultry and sea foods. Several months ago Mr. Aldridge completed his California type vegetable conditioner and extending the floor space of his store; all of the fixtures have been refinished in white enamel. It is Mr. Aldridge's intention to keep on adding improvements and have his market second to none in appearance and service facilities.

Local Cagers Keep Record Up in Games Tuesday Night

When it comes to winning basketball games, the Littlefield Kitties just can't be beat. They made their usual score of 40 again Tuesday night, when they played the Sudan girls on the local court. They just don't waste any time in winning over their opponents, and they held the visitors to a 40 to 16 count. Mollie Carter kept up her record as being high point player, having 24 points to her credit for the locals. Margaret Hunter and Anna Lee Nickelson tied for Amherst's high players, with 8 scores each.

Tuesday night was the local cagers' lucky night. Four games were played during the evening, and the boys won their three games, one with the Amherst quintet, 27 to 16; Olton and Littlefield's second string, 16 to 6; and the Olton and Littlefield first teams, 24 to 8.

The Kitties have lost only one game this season, last week at the Witharral tournament, but they intend to keep up their good record in the tournament at Sudan this week-end.

The boys are presenting a little ruzzle-dazzle of their own, and they are planning to give stiff competition to their opponents in the Sudan tournament also.

The cost of the World war has been estimated by a large American banking house at about $277,000,000.

Pep Paragraphs COMMUNITY CLUB OF BIG SERVICE TO PEP AREA

Organization Has Been Actively Serving Community in Many Ways Since 1927; Dance Announced For January 27.

Numerous requests have been received for some general information on the Pep Community Club. One of the executives of the club has furnished the following information:

"Mrs. W. P. Lupton, who was principal of the Pep school in 1927, is the originator of the club, and, as best I know, the first meeting was held on the first Friday of March, 1927, at which time Mrs. Lupton was elected as chairman of the club. A committee was appointed to draft some by-laws and constitution, which are still in effect with a few minor changes.

The club meets each first Friday in the Pep school auditorium. Its elective officers are a chairman, a vice chairman, a secretary-treasurer, and a reporter, which are elected annually at the March meeting.

The chairman appoints a program and a social committee, each of three members and which serve for three months, when other committees are appointed. He also appoints other committees for special duties as new business demands.

"The membership fee of the club is 10 cents per year for grownups, and children under 16 automatically become social members when their parents join, but have no vote.

"The club has continued to function ever since its organization, and takes the place of the P. T. A. and all other community activities, even including our farm programs, and we are very thankful to the county agents, D. W. Shirrell and Harvey Pool of Levelland, who have numerous times met with us and explained the different changes in the program.

"After a brief business meeting of which the secretary keeps minutes, there usually is a nice program arranged by the committee in charge, which generally consists of a play or two by the school children, home talent by some grownups, or perhaps some readings, singing, or what not. The band never fails to respond with a musical program since they have gotten underway. The band was also prompted by the Community club and is sponsored by it.

"After the program, the social committee serves the refreshments. Each family is requested to bring some eats, sandwiches, cake or a pie, and the club furnishes the coffee, or other drinks as the committee chooses to use, and which are most fitting for the season. We never fail to enjoy a fine social evening, and at the same time get acquainted a little better with our neighbors.

"The club extends a hearty welcome to everyone, and solicits your support in our program. We especially invite you musicians, singers, speakers, or what have you to entertain with, to come over, and help us with our programs. Remember we meet every first Friday.

Dr. Cobb practiced here from 1927 to 1933, leaving Littlefield at that time. After having been absent for five years he returned in January of last year, and has maintained an office in the First National bank building since.

In commenting on his change of location Dr. Cobb said that the new suite he now occupies affords him much more space, and is more convenient to his patients. He also plans on adding additional new equipment in the near future.

Polar Bear 'Cub' Gets Chilly Initiation

One swallow does not a summer make—but one icy dip completes each winter for members of the Flint (Michigan) Polar Bear Club, whose members annually cut through the ice of Potter Lake for their January swim. Miss Beth Rocksfall, newly pledged member of the Polar Bears, confessed she was thankful for her heated Chevrolet, which she ducked right back into after the dip. LITTLEFIELD GIRLS WIN OVER SNYDER; BOYS LOSE TO CROSBYTON

A debate group from the Littlefield schools attended the Lubbock invitation tournament Saturday, Jan. 14.

In the boys team were: Odell Pumphrey and Bill Davis. In the girls team were: Edith Vandergriff and Dora Jo Covington.

Debaters were round robin-girls and boys alternating, judging and debating.

Approximately 25 teams from this section were represented.

Littlefield girls won over Snyder in first debate, losing to Lubbock A, tournament winner in second debating. Local boys lost to Crosbyton in first debate and continued to consolation.

The subject for debate this year is resolved: "That Texas Should Adopt a Uniform Retail Sales Tax."

A group journeyed to Sudan Wednesday night and participated in a matched debate with that city. It was a no decision debate. The boys going from Littlefield were: Avery Sullivan and Bill Davis; and girls making the trip were Dora Jo Covington, Edith Vandergriff, Happy Dow and Velma Lee Lowe.

Heart of the North at Ritz Theatre Saturday Midnight

High adventure along one of the world's last frontiers is thrillingly depicted in "Heart of the North," the Warner Bros. picturization in technicolor of a tale of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police which comes to the Ritz Theatre next Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday.

Authentic in every detail, the picture "debunks" many a widespread misconception of the operations and daily existence of the Canadian "Mounties," but the actuality, as vividly portrayed in "Heart of the North," turns out to be even more thrilling and certainly more interesting than the popular delusions.

Babies and Thrills—Black Cats—Friday, the 13th—Going Places

FRIDAY, THE 13TH, LUCKY OR UNLUCKY? OPINION IS DIVIDED

By MORLEY B. DRAKE

Babies and Thrills
Gordon Renfro, 3, son of Mrs. Raymond Renfro, is inspiration for this "Babies and Thrills" business.

They don't know much about babies, but we would have an awful lot of time if one should happen to be entrusted to our care.

Black Cats
We are superstitious! We have always endeavored to avoid a black cat passing in front of us. And we never, never walk under ladders.

Going Places
Improvement of Highway 51 through Littlefield and south to the Hockley county line will change the map of Littlefield.

that we didn't see the cat any more. We figured that we had hit a GREAT BIG BLACK CAT, and out of curiosity we turned the car around and looked in every direction for the said cat; in fact, we got out of the car and looked around a little, but we couldn't find the cat.

Friday, the 13th
We haven't made up our mind on this Friday, the 13th, business. Some say that Friday, the 13th, is lucky; some people want to hide in a cellar on that day to keep out of all possible danger.

Black Cats
We are superstitious! We have always endeavored to avoid a black cat passing in front of us. And we never, never walk under ladders.

Black Cats
We are superstitious! We have always endeavored to avoid a black cat passing in front of us. And we never, never walk under ladders.

Going Places
Improvement of Highway 51 through Littlefield and south to the Hockley county line will change the map of Littlefield.

from the city limits to the Hockley county line the right-of-way will be 120 feet wide. Through the co-operation of property owners, the right-of-way cost the City of Littlefield only $2,200. Such economical acquiring of property calls for a big round of applause for the city commissioners. Property owners are entitled to enthusiastic commendation for their whole-hearted co-operation in the interests of civic progress.

Starting with a "Y" at Highway 7 between the Texas Motor & Fuel and Hood's Tourist Camp, the new right-of-way will be south through Reed avenue to Ninth street, then in a southwesterly direction through the College addition, entering the Levelland road (Highway 51) in front of the CCC camp.

All details of the right-of-way through Littlefield have been worked out. The only difficulty encountered was the obtaining of a right-of-way over four lots in the College addition, the ownership of which could not be learned. A special board consisting of S. J. Farquhar, J. W. Keithley and J. E. Brannen fixed the damage to the unknown owners and regular condemnation proceedings are underway.

Improvement of Highway 51 will be a state project, and contracts for the completed project, including paving, are expected to be awarded in the very near future.

County Judge Stanley A. Doas is completing the obtaining of the right-of-way through Lamb county.

Improvement of Highway 51 will be a big boost for Littlefield. But here's something to think about:

WE'LL ALL FEEL SO PECULIAR IN TRAVELING OVER HIGHWAY 51; WE'LL ALL GO ABOUT HALF NUTS IN LOOKING FOR THE BUMPS AND THE RUTS OF HIGHWAY 51 OF OTHER DAYS.

Eighteen months of searching for a permanent president for The University of Texas were ended recently when the University's Board of Regents announced the election of Dr. Homer Price Rainey, 42-year-old director of the American Youth Commission, American Council on Education, in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Rainey, a native Texan and one-time member of the University faculty, is a former president of Bucknell University and Franklin College (Indiana), and is author of two books on youth and education.

Twelfth University president in the 55 years of its history, he will replace in June John W. Calhoun, acting president since the death of Dr. Harry Yandell Benedict in 1937. WPA TRUCK TURNS OVER INTO LAKE; MEN TREATED FOR INJURY, SHOCK

Friday the 13th proved very unlucky for the crew of WPA men who are employed on the highway No. 51 project.

Truck Turns Over
When enroute to their work Friday morning, about 7:30 o'clock, and when at a point where the road jogs east from Herring's gin, and across a small lake the WPA truck, which was covered by a canvas tarp, and in which were riding between 40 and 50 men, hit a soft shoulder on the road, and turned off the highway onto its side into the lake.

Reports were to the effect that a passing automobile blinded the view of the truck driver.

Show Presence of Mind
Presence of mind on the part of the men was stated to be the only thing that saved a number of them from drowning or dying from exposure.

Cut Canvass and Get Out
Those in the front of the truck began at once to cut the canvass, and then to tear it open to allow them to crawl out of the ice water. Men working on the Seismograph crew of oil workers are said to have carried those exposed to either their homes or the hospital.

5 Admitted to Hospital
W. J. Boykin, W. W. Isbell and Otis Collins, and two colored men, Neil Ward and Lee Jefferson, were admitted to the Littlefield hospital suffering from injury, nerve shock and exposure.

Others were treated at the hospital and returned to their homes, while many were also given medical attention at their homes for colds, resulting from the exposure in the icy water and the trip back to Littlefield.

In an interview with Mr. Boykin at the Littlefield hospital Saturday, he stated that the benches in the truck turned over on them; that he was at the back end of the truck, and it "knocked him out" for a few minutes; that when he came to him-

Pneumonia Was Feared
Mr. Boykin stated that although he felt some better his chest and a shoulder were still very sore, and according to hospital authorities, those admitted from the truck accident all had fever, and were being watched carefully for fear of pneumonia developing.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

W. J. Luecke, pastor.

Emmanuel Lutheran congregation, in a meeting held last Sunday afternoon, decided to join with its sister congregations of the Missouri Synod in a continent-wide celebration of the centennial of the landing of the Saxon emigrants in 1839. These Lutherans came to America in five boats seeking the religious freedom guaranteed by the constitution of the United States. These naturally were not the first Lutherans to settle in America, for many came over during the period of the original settlement. However the coming of these Saxon emigrants marked a turning point in American Lutheranism. They were the means of gathering many scattered congregations under one heading, as well as by their organization becoming a bulwark in the Lutheran church against the inroads of anti-fundamental teachings.

Three services will be held during the year. The first on Jan. 29, which will be more of an historical character. The second on May 14, the third on Sept. 3. These last two services will have more of a mission and thanksgiving character. Speakers from neighboring congregations will fill the pulpits for these services. A motion picture depicting the historical landing and subsequent settlement in Missouri will be shown here sometime in spring. The centennial committee of the congregation is composed of Mr. L. Horriberger, Mr. H. Timian, and Mr. J. Bohot.

Congregational Officers Elected

The following officers of the congregation were elected for the ensuing year: Mr. E. Will, elder; Mr. J. Stockinger, chairman; Mr. E. Hill, treasurer; Mr. E. Brandt, secretary; Mr. J. Wuehrich, school board member replacing Mr. A. O. Lueck; Mr. C. Brandt, finance board replacing Mr. H. Himian; Mr. B. D. Birkelbach was chosen as delegate to the convention of the Texas district to be held in Houston soon after Easter. Mr. Thomas Mauk was received as voting member.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

T. M. Cummings, minister.

Bible study, 9:45 a. m. each Sunday; worship, 10:45 a. m.; young people's Bible class, 6:45 p. m.; gospel preaching, 7:15 p. m.

Sermon subjects next Sunday: "John's Threefold Conception of Christianity" (morning); "Is the Church That Christ Built on Earth Today?" (evening).

Teh morning sermon is based on John's statement in Rev. 1:9. We believe that it will both instruct and stimulate Christians. It will present of the non-Christian three major facts regarding Christianity that he must know and accept before he can become a successful Christian.

The evening sermon is designated to answer a most important and timely question. With all the religious confusion and contradiction of today, one needs to know whether the true church exists, and if it does exist how he may identify it. We are referring to the church (not churches) that Christ had in mind when he said (Matt. 16:18) "I will build my church." Even if you feel confident that you have this question settled, you should hear this scriptural discussion. It is possible for any of us to be deceived about religious matters, as we sometimes are in other things.

We invite you to be with us for these services. The Sunday evening service is usually over by 8:20. Why not spend this hour showing your respect to your Creator? If the Lord happens to return to earth on Lord's day, Sunday, where would you prefer that he find you—in

COMPLETES 8TH YEAR OF CLUB WORK IN LAMB

Women During Year Plant 1,649 Nursery Shrubs

1938, which completes eighth year of club work in county, the Women's Home demonstration clubs carried two demonstrations, yard improvement and home food supply. The girls' clubs worked on clothing, green, leafy and yellow vege-the third year of yard improvement. Mrs. Ruth Evans Perry, demonstration agent, reports club women this year have planted 1,649 nursery shrubs, 240 wind breaks, 6,534 trees including 124 roses. There are all living now. There were 572 plants rooted from cuttings, 31 lawns sodded, 18 yards sodded for others by club members and 31 were given some assistance. Fifty members improved outside of sodding. Thirty pieces of play equipment was installed and three outdoor living areas were completed. Twenty-nine lawns and five drives were made.

1938 the women worked on vegetable cookery phase of home food supply, and in order to have a better supply of fresh vegetables to cook, 96 frame gardens were planted under the direction of Mrs. Perry. As help still continued in the orchard, the garden, and pantry, the club members planted 3,292 fruit trees and vines cut, 18,795 containers canned fruit, vegetables and meat, 2,690 pounds of vegetables brined, 897 pounds of preserves, jams and jellies, 23,805 pounds of fruit and vegetables stored fresh, 5,684 pounds dried vegetables stored and 395 pounds of meat cured. Men recipe files were started, 22 clubs organized and three cellars were added.

In the second year of the clothing demonstration the 4-H club girls completed 119 sewing boxes, 169 dresses, 140 slips and 122 school dresses. They mended 397 garments, closets were built and eight repaired and 38 hat racks provided, in order to give better storage space. In order to grow the leafy green and yellow vegetables the agent had the girls plan and plant 46 home gardens. The girls grew 169 pounds of these. The clubs visited that vegetables were prepared 677 times during the year by club members. The 3-H clubs also visited 3,580 quarts of vegetables stored, 252 quarts vegetables stored, 380 pounds of fruit and vegetables stored fresh.

In November Mrs. Perry gave demonstrations to the 4-H clubs on making cuttings of shrubs. Yard improvement will be carried in part of the clothing demonstration in 1939.

Assistance was given to four home farms demonstrators by the agent and she aided in forming three community organizations where local problems could be discussed and ways planned to meet these problems. These also afford recreation for the communities.

wasn't such easy doing either. He's a shrewd chap and knows his job. But I kept him away from a shaft and let him go over—"
It was true. Felix Kent had made that murderous bargain. Felix Kent had baited a trap for an unsuspecting friend, a boy he'd played with. Felix had paid a million dollars for a worthless mine in order to sell that same mine to his townspeople for two million. Felix Kent had sent his scapegoat, an innocent man, to prison. The proof lay in her two cold hands.
It would mean, for Kent, destruction. By her treachery. And he had chosen her to be his wife.
She must either put the papers back and be silent for all her life, loyal to a knave, or she must stand up now and go over to that window and then down to the honorable man who waited at the bottom of the wall.

As she leaned out she heard a sound behind her terribly close.
With no further hesitation she threw the heavy bundle of letters in their band down to Jock Ayleward.
"Get out. Be quick," she called urgently. She had swung her leg over the sill when heavy hands clutched at her and pulled her back and a weight crashed down upon her blinded head.

The room where Lynda Sandal sat waiting for the arrival of Jocelyn Harlowe's fiance was neither comfortable nor luxurious. It was on the contrary incredibly grimy, dingy, depressing and suggestive of down trodden, guilty and hunted lives. Three men were in attendance upon her. They ringed her like a wolf pack and like a wolf pack they snapped and snarled.
She still wore Nick's shabby suit but her collar had been torn open. "I won't tell you anything," Jock must be given his chance, her will doggedly repeated.
A voice in the room beyond her torture chamber put a question sharply and Jocelyn opened her strange and lovely eyes to their best width while the color swept across her face.
That was Felix Kent. She forgot her attendant inquisitors. She sat up straight, commanding the cruel, bewildered throbbing of her head, and, as the door opened, she rose slowly to her feet.
Because of her guarded and secluded life, Jocelyn had had even fewer opportunities than most people for seeing the faces of her intimates as they looked to other eyes than her own. In the first unrecognizing moments, Felix now showed tenacity of a lover with indulgent her a face she did not know. It smile and incandescent eyes.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH MEN FORM CLUB

Social Organization Fifty Strong, Result of Invitation Dinner Monday

At the invitation of the officers of the Presbyterian church, about 50 men gathered in the basement of the church last Monday night, and organized a social club which about 40 of those present joined as members of the permanent club.

A ranch style dinner was prepared by four famous culinary artists, George L. White, Jim Etter, Gus Shaw and Phelps Walker. Rev. W. Donald Harris, pastor of the church, acted as toastmaster, and explained the object of the proposed club. Before proceeding with the details of organization—a quartette composed of E. O. Melver, L. B. Cogdill, Jack Norman and Art Muller, accompanied by Miss Maxine Cash, rendered several popular songs.

E. O. Melver was elected as president. Jimmy Brittain and Gus Shaw were chosen vice presidents and Dave Schein was named secretary. It was decided to have an informal meeting every month. The four cooks were named as captains of groups and the membership was divided into four teams. Each team will in turn act as hosts to the entire membership. There will be no membership dues and the only financial obligation of the members will be to share in the costs of the dinner every fourth month.

The gathering was a most enjoyable one and quite a number of those present expressed themselves as delighted with the opportunity to meet socially and know their fellow townsmen better.

The next meeting and dinner will be held during the latter part of February with Phelps Walker's group acting as hosts.

Pneumonia Fatal to Mrs. J. G. Little; Passes Away Sunday

Mrs. J. G. Little, wife of Dr. Little, formerly of Littlefield but later of Andrews, passed away Sunday as a result of pneumonia, from which she had been suffering for about 10 days.

The remains, accompanied by Dr. Little, were taken by train to Galveston, Texas, where burial took place Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Little is survived by her husband and son, aged 10 months.

Dr. and Mrs. Little were residents of Littlefield, leaving here about five years ago for Andrews, where they have since made their home.

We Think—ing territory . . . the universal use of automobiles and trucks. City planning is vision in action . . . the carrying out of projects in the immediate and future interests of the orderly development of a city.

Drive through XIT and LFD drives on most any day, and particularly on a Saturday, and you will agree that both streets are entirely too narrow. With cars and trucks parked on both sides of the streets two cars must maneuver through the traffic in meeting and passing. Such a condition is dangerous and is not in the interests of the progress of our city.

One of the reasons for the increased traffic on XIT and LFD drives is the increased traffic on Phelps avenue. Cars turn out of Phelps avenue into cross streets and go through the business section by using either XIT or LFD drives.

Widening of Phelps avenue would not be necessary or proper procedure at this or any time within the vision of those now living and active in the development of our city. But LFD and XIT drives should be widened while the projects can be carried out at a small fraction of the outlay which would be necessary a few years hence.

There are an increasing number of business buildings fronting on these two thoroughfares; in fact, there have been several additions in the past year. But the development of XIT and LFD drives consist largely of the backs of store buildings which face on Phelps avenue. New buildings have been built from street to street, other buildings have been enlarged and extended to XIT and LFD drives, but the majority of the buildings fronting on Phelps avenue only extend back approximately 80 feet. This leaves vacant space at the rear of most of the stores. The day is coming when these stores will be extended from street to street, or other structures will be built at the rear of these buildings.

With new development for XIT and LFD drives, the cost of a widening project will increase. In any widening project owners must be paid damages. AND IT IS MUCH CHEAPER TO BUY VACANT LAND THAN IT IS TO PURCHASE LAND AND A PORTION OF A BUILDING. That is why we say widen XIT and LFD drives while the cost is only a very small fraction of what it will be a very short time in the future.

BUT THE FIRST THING WHICH SHOULD BE DONE IS TO ESTABLISH A PROGRESSIVE, ACTIVE CITY PLANNING COMMISSION TO WORK IN CO-OPERATION WITH THE CITIZENSHIP AND THE LITTLEFIELD CITY COMMISSION.

Think it over! Say what you think about such a program! Be for it or against it! But please say something!

amount of around $300,000, which cover the old bonds, plus overdue interest owing by the city.

Indebtedness Extended 30 Years
Under the new plan the indebtedness is extended for a term of 31 years from 1940 to 1971, with interest payable semi-annually.

C. M. Smith of Plainview, representing the Brown-Crummer investment company, Wichita, Kan., who are arranging the refunding of the city's indebtedness, met Tuesday with the city commissioners and City Secretary W. G. Street, and presented a detailed schedule of the refunding program.

The first group of new bonds will become due in 1940 and others every year until 1971.

These matters were discussed at a recent meeting of the Sudan Chamber of Commerce, and were scheduled for further discussion at last night's meeting of the chamber when officers were elected for the coming year.

Divided into Classes

Miss Hubbard, on the establishment of the project in Littlefield, had an assistant supervisor, but under the present plan she has no assistant, but states that the group of women workers are divided into classes, such as cutters, floor ladies, clerks, checkers, etc., and that when assistance is needed in these various kinds of work, that those classed as such help in that branch of the project.

13,746 Garments Made

In an interview Monday, Miss Hubbard stated that during the year 1938 26,083 1-4 yards of material were used by the local sewing project, making up 13,746 garments, an average of 1.90 yards to the garment.

Garments made included the following:

Boys' garments made — 2,222;
girls' garments made — 3,200; infants' garments made — 3,473;

ministering the government of the state in an economical, business like manner.

"No man," he said, "could be more void of selfish motives or political ambitions than I. I come to you untarnished politically, and by the grace of God, I hope to remain forever in that category." Governor O'Daniel took the oath of office immediately after Coke R. Stevenson of Junction, was sworn in as lieutenant governor. Chief Justice Cureton administered the oath of office to the new executive. In a firm voice Governor O'Daniel repeated the words of the oath—"I, W. Lee O'Daniel, do swear that I will faithfully execute the duties of the office of governor of Texas." He completed the oath at precisely 12:35 p. m. and the salute from national guard cannon mingled with the roaring cheers of the multitude.

Receptions were staged all over the capitol city, and boisterous crowds filled the streets until the wee small hours of the night. After the inaugural reception the O'Daniels retired to their new home at the gubernatorial mansion. Mrs. Allred had left a hot dinner for the incoming occupants of the mansion. Ex-Governor and Mrs. Allred left for their new home in Houston.

FARMALL Leads the Field with New Row-Crop Tool Combination

McCormick-Deering Farmall 20 or Farmall 30 (with power-lift attachment)—
No. 10 Tool Bar Middle Buster—Tool Bar Sweep Equipment—
No. 10-30 Tool Bar Planter—and Farmall Cultivators.

With a McCormick-Deering Farmall 20 or Farmall 30 and this new combination of equipment you can handle every field operation except picking and harvesting. You can quickly rig the Farmall for middle busting (2 furrows), running three middles, planting (2 or 4 rows), loose-ground listing (2 or 4 rows), relisting, or basin listing.

The basic implements carry a heavy square steel tool bar on which buster bottoms, sweeps, and planting units may be arranged for working in rows 38, or 40 inches apart. It is a simple matter to make equipment changes or adjustments to meet seasonal requirements.

These new implements can be used with any Farmall 20 or Farmall 30 which is equipped with power lift. Similar tool bar implements are available for use with the Farmall 12.

We can't tell you all about this system of row-crop farming in our limited space here, but we'll go into every detail with you if you drop in at the store or give us a call on the phone.

More Quail Needed In Lamb County Says Fieldton Farmer

"Let's raise more quail in 1934," C. L. Cook, progressive farmer of the Fieldton community, stated in an article written to the Leader this week, in reference to the wild game preservation meetings held in Lamb county recently.

Mr. Cook stated that he had raised an average of 35 quails each year for the past five years, and the birds will locate on any farm if given any care and protection and provide some threshed grain for them in the snow, and other bad weather. The quail become very gentle and in the spring they very often stay in the same nests with chickens.

Quail are known to be among the best insect destroyers, and Mr. Cook believes that Lamb county farmers will do well to encourage the increase of these valuable birds.

"Blue or Mexican quail are the more commonly known birds in West Texas. One pair of quail will raise 10 to 15 birds each season, and in a short number of years, the farmers of this section would have a bunch of quail that would certainly assist them in getting rid of

Watch Your Kidneys!
 Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

TWO INDUSTRIAL PLANTS NOW IN PROSPECT HERE

DELEGATES TO CHEMURGIC MEETING BRING BACK NEWS OF DISCOVERY THAT WILL BENEFIT LOCAL FARMERS

PRODUCTION OF "AGROL" AND A NEW INSULATION MATERIAL WILL BE STUDIED BY LOCAL MEN

Member of Commerce Representatives Learn of New Uses For Cotton Burrs and Gypsum—Also Get Information on Grain Bi-Products

By David Schein

Information gathered at recent chemurgic congress in Lubbock, prospects have brightened not only for a similar meeting near Littlefield, but also for possible promotion of a new product from cotton burrs and gypsum.

Delegates Enthusiastic

H. Cunningham who with Bowling and County Agent Turner, attended the meeting returned last Thursday after a trip to Abilene to confer with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The trip of these delegates was sponsored and financed by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce. The men never lost track of the main objective—to secure for Littlefield and Lamb county all the information and facts pertaining to new industries available for this section. They made a wonderful job of it—and returned with even more practical working material, than they had dared hope for.

Agrol Fuel Plant

Primarily — they went for the purpose of contacting Dr. Leo M. Christianson, the inventor of Agrol, a fuel alcohol produced from grain sorghum. Dr. Christianson agreed to come to Littlefield at any convenient time, in the near future, when the people of this section would be ready to stage an educational exhibit and meeting pertinent to needs of the South Plains. Several executives of the federal farm securities board at Washington, were among the interested attendants at the Gladewater congress. They assured those present, that the farm securities board stood ready to help financially in the establishment and promotion of any industrial plants that would help solve the farmers' marketing problems in Texas. The financial setup for an Agrol plant in West Texas was discussed by the Littlefield delegation with the federal men.

Dr. Barnard Will Help

Dr. Harry Everett Barnard, of Columbus, Ohio, who is director of research for the national farm chemurgic council of New York City, was the principal speaker at Gladewater. Dr. Barnard also promised the Littlefield delegates to assist at a West Texas conference.

A better idea of the importance of the farm chemurgic movement may be gathered from Dr. Barnard's address at the southern states industrial council, which was held in Atlanta last November. Dr. Barnard said—in part, the following:

"I don't know how many of you realize the fact that 25 per cent of all the labor that is at work today is working on a job that didn't exist at the close of the war. It is working on a brand new job that came out of the research laboratory. It is doing something that nobody had ever heard of before 1918; but many farmers are still talking about farming in the same words that they might have used 100 years ago. They talk about growing crops of corn for feed and food for animals and talk about crops of cotton to spin and weave in the textile mills. The chemists back of the chemurgic movement do not think of corn as a feed for animals. They think of the 30 pounds of starch in every bushel of corn as a chemical raw material. The chemurgic movement organized four years ago or less, is tremendously impressed by the rapid progress that it is making in sending men into research laboratories to help solve the farmer's problems."

Farmers' Salvation

Space does not permit a detail list of the industries that have already sprung from the discoveries and research work of these chemists; neither is it possible to enumerate even a part of the countless bi-products of agriculture now being manufactured and profitably marketed as a result of the labors of these scientific men.

There is no longer any doubt in the minds of practical thinking men as to the future course that agriculturists will pursue; in their progress towards a dependable solution of their major problems. They will join hands with science and industry, and operate their farms—not as a hit-or-miss venture; but as a well defined business, independent of federal charity and support.

Realizing the tremendous importance of the Gladewater meeting—farmers, bankers, scientists and government representatives swarmed to the little East Texas town which was the scene of the history making gathering. The startling disclosures made at this instructive meeting will be visualized in the complete agricultural setup not only of the south but of the entire nation.

Inventor-Chemist

Dr. C. G. Rook, chemist for the Petrotex Chemical company, of Gladewater, was the moving spirit responsible for this great get-together of chemists, farmers, industrialists and capital. Dr. Rook has perfected among other things, an insulation and fire-proofing material that is produced from cotton burrs sprayed with mineral gypsum. This product attracted the attention of the Littlefield delegates. They immediately went into conference

With Dr. Rook, and the following self-explanatory letter was received by Mr. Cunningham:

Gladewater, Texas
Jan. 12, 1939

Mr. W. H. Cunningham
Littlefield, Texas.

Dear Sir:

There have been some steps taken toward the establishing of an industry for making the insulating material that we have developed here, and the opinion so far is to ultimately install regional plants rather than have one large central one. The potential volume of raw products available will of course be a big guiding factor for regions selected.

I appreciate your individual interest and as soon as concrete data can be formed you will be advised of such. In the meantime you may have some ideas that might be valuable in assembling necessary data for designing an organization of this type. Your suggestions would be appreciated.

Very Truly Yours,
(Signed) C. G. Rook

A SIMILAR LETTER WAS RECEIVED BY JOHN I. BOWLING.

Raw Products

The main reason for Littlefield's strong interest in this particular product lies in the fact that there is a limitless supply of gypsum in this vicinity; two lakes covering about 6,000 acres of gypsum deposits are situated on the George L. White ranch 12 miles from Littlefield. The cotton burrs and stalk used in the product can be had in any quantity, just for the hauling. Dr. Rook advised Mr. Cunningham that he was paying at the rate of $2 per ton for the burrs alone.

Going Right Ahead

This enterprise will not be allowed to fade away or become entangled in red tape; neither will the citizens of Littlefield permit the industry to be grabbed up by other towns. This is the logical location for this plant and the promotion will be pushed forward with all possible speed compatible with safety.

Arrangements are being made for a preliminary meeting of civic, industrial and agricultural leaders of this area. They will get together in the next few days and formulate ways and means to assure this great advantage for Littlefield and Lamb county.

Agronomist Stresses Importance of Good Cotton Seed

Cotton farmers must do everything possible to get the utmost return from their 1939 crop, E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A. and M. college extension service, said in listing points that would help to increase income.

The biggest gain, Miller believes, can be made through improvements in quality. He urged community, county, and area organization along the one-variety line. "This is important not only because quality and uniformity will bring in more cash per acre, but we need improvement if we are to develop our cotton markets and meet foreign competition," he pointed out.

Soil and water conservation will bring results, the agronomist stated, and quoted increased annual net returns of $6.51 an acre obtained at the Spur agricultural experiment substation from terraced land farmed with the rows running down hill in a 12 year test.

"It is good crop insurance to treat cottonseed with 2 per cent cerasan at the rate of three ounces per bushel," Miller said. Increases in yield through this practice were 25 per cent at college station, 15 per cent at Temple, 9 per cent in the Brazos Bottom, and 4 per cent at Lubbock, recent experiment tests show.

Commercial fertilizer and manure on sandy loam soils have proved profitable, and he urged farmers to consult county agricultural agents for local recommendations as to amounts to use.

"Insect control is going to be important in 1939, and no farmer should forget proper seedbed preparations and cultivation," Miller concluded.

Wrong Size Lamp Bulbs Are MISFITS Too!

IT'S TRUE! You can strain your eyes without even knowing it, when you try to read or work in light too dim for easy seeing. Consequently, children and grown-ups not only strain their eyes but use up valuable energy if lamp bulbs are too small.

For quick, easy reading and sewing without that "tired feeling" try this simple rule: Look at the bulb or bulbs of your reading lamp and be sure that the total wattage exceeds 100 watts.

So that you may have a lamp for every purpose, a special carton of one 40-watt, two 60-watt, one 75-watt, one 100-watt and one 150-watt is offered for only 95c. Or any carton of six 100-watt, or any standard size smaller, for only 90c. All Mazda lamp purchases may be added to next month's service bill.

"The Devil's Host"

Dave Schein to Present
Thrilling Mystery Melo-Drama on Monday,
February 20

David Schein, the director of the Littlefield Little Theater, announces the completion of the cast for the second performance of the season, which is to be "The Devil's Host," a three-act mystery melodrama by Carl Glick. This production will be staged at the high school auditorium on the night of Monday, Feb. 20.

The sponsors for this gala performance will be the Rotary club of Littlefield, and the proceeds are to be added to the club's fund for the Boy Scouts hut. In addition to directing the production Mr. Schein will play the leading part of Mr. Duvall. The cast will include the following well-known Littlefield amateurs, George Webster, W. Donald Harris, J. A. VonLankin, E. A. Biles, Carrol Blacklock, Bill Chesher, Frank Selfridge, Vernon Eagan, Miss Johnny Pace, Miss Hazel Shore and Miss Maxine Cash.

The setting is a luxurious penthouse apartment in New York City and special scenery will be constructed for this production. Arrangements have already been made for special costuming, elaborate properties and other details essential to a high class production.

The first performance of the season was given on Dec. 5. It consisted of three one-act plays and they were much enjoyed by the audience which consisted of about 350 people. The third play of the series will be Jerome K. Jerome's classic drama, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," which was made famous by that great English actor, the late Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson. It will be presented during the early part of April under the sponsorship of the Littlefield Parent-Teachers association.

Miss Oppenheimer to Review "Rebecca" at Plainview January 23

Littlefield women who are interested in current literature well presented will be given an opportunity to hear the "dean" of southern book reviewers in the person of Miss Evelyn Oppenheimer of Dallas, who will review "Rebecca" by Daphne Du Maurier in Plainview on the afternoon of Monday, Jan. 23, at 3:30 o'clock at the Wayland college auditorium. The review is being sponsored by the Plainview senior high school P. T. A., and tickets may be purchased from Mrs. A. E. Boyd, Mrs. H. G. Stinnett or Mrs. Meade F. Griffin, all of Plainview, or Mrs. T. Wade Potter, Littlefield. Tickets are 50 and 25 cents.

In presenting Miss Oppenheimer, the Plainview organization feels that it is offering book-lovers of this entire section the privilege of hearing one of the outstanding literary authorities of the southwest. Miss Oppenheimer is an artist in handling her subject matter, and will bring to her audience a swift, comprehensive and sympathetic review of her subject matter. In selecting "Rebecca" as the book to be reviewed, the committee feels that it selected a book that is at this time one of the literary sensations of the season, a book that is a keen and inspired study of the conflicting emotions of individuals, a book unique in style and in presentation of subject matter, a book that, presented in Miss Oppenheimer's inimitable style, will keep an audience tense and alert from the opening sentence to the closing words.

Anyone interested in procuring tickets is asked to make reservations at once, as ticket sales are going fast, and only a limited number of seats are available.
