

Seventeen Flags Fly Over Texas During Period Of Colonization

The prevalent idea that Texas had only six flags has been knocked into a cocked hat by historians who have felt the Lone Star should have her full quota. The six flags in the Cavalcade of Texas weren't the half of it.

The result is the recent arrival of the seventeen battle flags which flew over Texas during the period of colonization and the revolution. These banners were ordered from New York by producer A. L. Vollmann, and will be carried in the presentation of Cavalcade from now till the close of the big drama December 1.

Aside from the banners of the various nations who ruled the Land of the Tejas, which include the Lions of Spain, the Fleur de Lis of France, the Eagle and Serpent of Mexico, the Lone Star of the Republic, the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy and the Stars and Stripes, Texas has had many other battle flags, brought into her borders from the states which gave her aid in her hour of need.

These include Dr. James Long's flag of 1819; the Freedonian flag of 1827; Joanna Troutman's famous Lone Star flag, which Col. Henry Ward's Georgia Battalion carried, fashioned of Joanna's white satin petticoat and centered with a blue star made from the young girl's bodice; Sarah Dodson's Lone Star flag, made for her husband with vertical bars of blue, white and red, which some historians say was at the Alamo; the radical flag of Captain Scott, blue, with a white star center and "Independence" written upon it; the Kentucky Volunteers flag; flag of Miller's Men from Tennessee; Captain Mosley Banker's Battle Flag, sometimes called the San Felipe flag; Stephen F. Austin's flag; the Naval Flag; Captain Brown's flag of Velasco; David G. Burnett's flag, a golden star centered on blue; the Gonzales "Come and Take it" flag; the flag of the New Orleans Grays, also at the Alamo; now in the National Museum, Mexico City; the Conservatives' flag, used by Mexico under the constitution of 1824, and said also to have been flown at the Alamo; the Zanesville, Ohio, flag, and the single flag flown at the Battle of San Jacinto, heroic figure of an em-battled Liberty with a bloody sword held aloft.

All these banners, with the exception of the San Jacinto flag, have been purchased by Mr. Vollmann and placed in the battle scenes of the Cavalcade of Texas. The San Jacinto flag is in the process of making. Its embattled Liberty has to be painted on to the white surface, and Cavalcade artist, Wah Chang, adopted son of Blanding Sloan, director, is at work doing the reproduction of this famous banner.

The erection above the Alamo of the Mexican flag with 1824 printed across it, is already bringing its quota of criticism from historians and Daughters of the Republic throughout the state, since no one has ever been able to agree positively concerning which banner really flew above the Alamo. No man was left to tell the correct story and the flag was either destroyed or taken away.

The belief by many is that since the martyrs in the old mission were fighting for the rights of the Constitution of 1824, the Mexican flag of that period flew over the Alamo. Others say that Sara Dodson's Lone Star flag was there and that fragments of it were destroyed in the sacked fort after the revolution had ended.

Still another school of thought insists that the blue banner of the New Orleans Grays was the Alamo flag. This contention is upheld by the fact that the New Orleans banner now lies in the National Museum at Mexico City as the flag captured when the Alamo fell.

But other historians assert that there were portions of several different companies at the Alamo, and that no one company would have permitted the flag of the other to be hoisted on the ramparts as the lone insignia. Therefore, the 1824 flag must be the correct flag for this engagement. At any rate, this is the flag which now waves above the Alamo in the Cavalcade of Texas, and let historians fall where they may.

FIFT HINNSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS: Maris Trevor is discouraged because Rod O'Rourke spends all his money developing an invention which he hopes will provide an income so that they can marry. Maris thinks they should enjoy the present rather than deny themselves for the future. She becomes uncertain of her love for Rod. Perhaps there in the outfit after the show. We don't want to give away all our ideas, or no one will take the time to come to the exposition." "It's a stunning looking gown," remarked Milly as they came alongside the office. "Still, I bet if you or I had the chance to wear it, we'd look just as well. But let me tell you, Stan's a hard baby. He hasn't any eyes now except for Rowene."

cried the girl as she left the room. She knew that only girls who had been with the concern a short time would be asked to do this work.

Hurrying from the room, Maris realized she would surely have to stay overtime. If she did, then there wouldn't likely be a chance of furthering her acquaintance with Stan. But as she ate some shrimp salad and drank a cup of coffee, a smile curved her lips. So the girls thought she looked like Rowene? Did they really mean it?

Pulling out her compact she studied her face in the mirror with a critical eye. Then she snapped it shut and slipped it into her bag and had taken out the change to pay for her lunch, she whispered to herself, "I guess they're right."

She stepped through the revolving door. A little frown creased her forehead. What good would that do her anyway, was her thought, especially if what Milly had said—that Stan was engaged to Rowene—was true?

Back at her machine once more Maris addressed the envelopes in feverish haste. She did not want to stay late. If only she could reach the sidewalk when Stan entered his smart roadster! If only something would happen so he would recognize her, and... But, there, she thought, what was the good of wishing?

Five o'clock and the sound of scraping chairs and tramping feet told of her fellow workers' release. A stack of envelopes still rested on her desk. Miss Riggs had told her they must be finished. She was thrusting one after another into her machine with impatient fingers, when she suddenly realized someone had stopped at her desk. Maris raised her startled, dark eyes and met the smiling face of Stan Fayson.

"I'm sorry if I frightened you," he said in his drawing voice. "Oh, it's all right," Maris answered. "I was so busy I didn't hear you coming." She waited expectantly to hear what he wanted.

"Well, I wonder if I might interrupt you," he continued. "You know there's more to the work connected with this exposition than I reckoned on and I'd like to get the feminine viewpoint on some of our announcements. Would you mind coming into my office for a few minutes. I shan't keep you long."

Again Maris smiled, suddenly glad she had had to work late. And as she walked with Stan along the corridor, her eyes were sparkling. He was—well, "charming" was the only word that described him. No wonder Rowene was quite set up about her engagement. No wonder she liked to show off to her friends.

"Won't you sit her?" he asked as they entered his office, and he indicated a chair beside his desk. "Now, I'm going to read this announcement. It's only a short one, and I want you to tell me exactly what you think of it. Remember, in this business we are catering to the women of the country and I'm afraid we men don't always get our ideas across."

For a moment or two Maris listened as Stan read what he had written. He had a pleasant voice, the slight drawl acquired doubtless from his mother, who was a Southerner, and it fascinated her. Then, suddenly, as he stopped, she realized she'd never given a thought to what he had read. So when he said, "Now let me have your opinion," the color flamed into her cheeks. "Would you mind reading it again before I give my—my verdict?" she stammered. "Of course not, but I hope it will be favorable." Maris surprised a look of real interest in his eyes. Intent on the message, Maris got all the import of his announcement and instantly saw a weak point. However, when he looked at her, she wondered if, although he had asked her, she dared criticize it. As though he read the turmoil in her mind he said quickly, "What's wrong?" "Oh, I think it's splendid, except don't you think it would be better to change the last paragraph to something like this," And picking up a sheet of paper from the desk, she wrote her suggestion. Reading it carefully, he looked up suddenly and his brown eyes flickered with amusement. "You win," he said. "I felt there was something

Six Texas Flags? Here Are Ten More.

Many believe that Texas had only six flags flown over her borders in the four centuries of her history, but in reality there were battle flags from seventeen different states flown during the Texas Revolution, Jan. Fortune, author of Cavalade at Texas, has gotten together all these historic banners for use in the Cavalade at the Texas Centennial Exposition. These include flags from Ohio, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina, Alabama, and some half dozen flags fashioned by Texas men and women patriots. Ten of the flags are shown above held by actors on the Cavalade set.

This car is Old Enough to Vote. It's gone more than 300,000 miles, still carries the family where the family wants to go, and this year, its owner confides, it's old enough to vote. With all the pride a father takes in his first-born, W. H. Graham, pictured here at the wheel, drove his 1915 Model T Ford to Dallas and the Texas Centennial Exposition. Others in the picture are Mrs. Graham, and in the rear seat, Eugene, 12; Eugene, 8; and Evelyn, 10. Graham's father bought the car in Corsell county, Texas.

Plans Underway To Take School Children To Texas Centennial

Plans to take as many as possible of the 1,500,000 school children living in Texas to the Centennial Exposition at Dallas before its close on November 29th have passed the Southwest's first World's Fair tentative stage. Support for the idea is widespread and enthusiastic. Educational headquarters will be in the State Building; in that building, too, will be located a special exhibit of the State Department of Education; this is in addition to the twenty-four district exhibits to be set up there. Special programs planned for the benefit of the visiting school children will be given in the auditorium. Supervised tours will be made by the young visitors. Exhibits already have been classified according to the five main curriculum divisions; this will result in the students gaining the greatest possible benefits from the tours and accompanying lectures.

From Randsburg, Calif. to Death Valley the car followed a one-time prospectors' trail—now a wash or dry creek bed for 112 miles, making necessary seven hours of driving time in low and second gears. FORTY-THREE STATES ARE REPRESENTED. FORT WORTH, Sept. 30—Wanted—Citizens from five more states to register at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial. Forty-three States are represented on the West Texas Chamber of Commerce register. Utah, Nevada, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are the unrepresented States though their citizens may have attended Billy Rose's production without writing in the W. T. C. C. book. JUDGES FROM 9 STATES. FORT WORTH, Sept. 30—Judges charged with the responsibility of selecting the winners of the $75,000 in premium money offered by the Frontier Centennial Livestock Show at Fort Worth, October 3-11, will come from nine states and the District of Columbia.

Murals Portray Texas Life

Expressive of the four sections of Texas, their bountiful natural resources and historical background are the elaborate murals which adorn the walls of the $1,200,000 Hall of State, the dominating building of the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas. At the top a section of one of the giant murals found in the great hall portray two of Texas' foremost natural resources, oil and cotton. On the extreme left may be seen the prow of a sea-going freighter, representing the vast shipping industry of East Texas and the lower Gulf Coast. In the center mural, which hangs in the North Texas room, Old Man Texas is the predominant figure. The lower is unmistakably typical of the hearty West. The paintings adorning the walls of the Texas Building's great hall are reputed to be the largest in the world. They portray the story of Texas, both in the days of the republic and after statehood. Although opened but a few weeks ago, the magnificent Hall of State has won a place as one of the nation's foremost memorial edifices.

wrong here, but I couldn't place it. Now maybe you will—"

But the continued ringing of the telephone made him stop in the middle of his sentence. Then as Maris glanced across at him she saw a sudden change in his face.

He said to the person on the wire, "Perfectly all right, Rowene. Yes, you know I'd love to do that for you. I may be a little late; still working over the exposition stuff. Yes, darling, good-by."

Slightly flustered he turned again to the folder on his desk. "This is what I'd like you to look over, but it's a shame to keep you here. Suppose you take it with you, and let me know about it in the morning." He handed a paper to her.

A change seemed to have come over him; the gay spirit of camaraderie was forgotten. Once more he was a business man, his interest solely on future profits, and feeling as though a shower of cold water had suddenly splashed her, Maris left the room. She'd been silly to think he'd been interested in her. Probably he'd forgotten he'd spoken to her the other evening. Maybe Patsy was right. Maybe there was a dividing line between such men as Stan and girls like her, and she'd been foolish enough to think that was just talk. Nevertheless, as she left the room, Stan's friendliness won her again. He exclaimed, "It's been ever so good of you to help me. I certainly appreciate it. You'll let me know about the other tomorrow."

Makes Milk Fight

SYRACUSE, N. Y. . . . In a state-wide fight for a flat price of $3 per 100 pounds of milk and elimination of price classifications, Stanley Piseck (above), President of the N. Y. State Milk Producers, waged the battle for dairymen seeking more profitable prices.

Maybe Rowene had said something to him that had made him seem to freeze up after he spoke with her, thought Maris. She shrugged her shoulders as she closed her desk. Stan was still in his office. It looked as though he was going to stay all night. Slipping the sheet he had given her into a folder, she put it in the drawer of her desk. Tomorrow she would come down early. Tomorrow she would give him the criticism he had requested.

Going toward the subway, she had a queer, cut-off sort of feeling, as though she didn't belong anywhere or to anyone. A loneliness she had never known before swept over her. If only she could meet Rod he'd drive away her blues.

Then she remembered that she had practically driven Rod from her side.

Well, Maybe she'd call him. And as she was jostled by the crowds and realized how insignificant a speck she was in Manhattan, she longed for the comfort of Rod's strong arm. But like a flash she realized he was already on his way to Cleveland. Somehow, when he had talked with her about this chance that had come to him, she had not paid much attention to what he was saying, for her thoughts were with Stan.

Even as she was rocked back and forth in the subway as the express took the curves at high speed, Maris was wondering whether she had made a mistake about Rod, whether she should have followed the dictates of her heart instead of building gay air castles in which a dark-eyed, debonair young man played a leading role.

But when she got uptown and left the subway, things seemed to take on a different complexion. Stan had really been quite nice to her. Of course he was engaged to Rowene and it would hardly be the thing to be making a big fuss over any other girl. Especially as Rowene was going to wear the Fyson crepe wedding gown at the exposition. She'd have a chance to talk with him tomorrow. A smile curved her lips and her big brown eyes sparkled mischievously. Wouldn't Milly feel left out when she saw her enter Stan's office and talk with him as though they'd been college pals!

Now she was glad that he had a glass-encased office instead of solid oak or mahogany. This would give the girls something to think about. Milly always acted as though she were the whole show. Yes, this would surely knock some of the brag out of her.

As she neared the apartment, her steps took on greater speed. She hadn't seen Patsy last night or this morning, but she'd be in now. This was her time off. Not even stopping to get her key, Maris rapped out a light tattoo with her knuckles on the door.

But there was no response. The smile vanished from her face as she rummaged in her bag for the key. Surely nothing had happened to Pat! When she opened the door she went straight to the dining room table, for a sheet of paper was lying in the middle of it, held down by a bowl of Chrysanthemums.

Picking it up, she read, "Jimmy and I have gone to the movies—the early show—so call up Rod and we'll have a little party when we get in. Don't look in the ice-box. It's surprise, Pat."

Maris gave a short, mirthless laugh. Then Patsy must have deecided that they had made up. Well, maybe just as well to leave her in ignorance. She was glad he was out of town. It might save some embarrassing moments. Pat was a dear, but sometimes — well, sometimes Maris wished she would not be so concerned with what she felt was her welfare.

Cawthon Begins 7th Year As Head Of Texas Tech Athletics

LUBBOCK, Tex., Sept. 21 (Special)—if looks mean anything, Texas Tech is going to be represented in the varsity pigskin wars this season by a powerful organization.

Beginning with the brand new 15,000 capacity stadium, yet to be formally opened, and winding up with the brightly colored hosiery of the athletes, the entire Tech set-up is a fashion plate of modern football.

The human element? That looks good, too. In fact, that is the best looking part of the whole structure to one who considers football first, color and comfort second.

Careful fans and coaches, however, are keeping their fingers crossed when they think of the win and lose columns until they see the Red Raiders go over the top and into the fire of a couple of Fort Worth teams.

First of these, Coach Byron Rhome's Texas Wesleyan college Rams, came calling on the Reds Saturday night in the inaugural game of the season. A week later Coach Pete Cawthon's defenders will attempt to stand off the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, Sugar Bowl champs of 1935, in the first big test of a tough schedule. After Tech camp.

To launch his seventh year as head of the Texas Tech's athletic department, Cawthon has an array of manpower, talent, weight and balance that compares favorably with his fine teams of 1932 and '33, when Tech won 19 games and lost 3.

Fifteen lettermen, 14 experienced squadmen, a dozen healthy sophomores and eight junior college transfers make up the training squad at present.

There are lettermen for every position, squadmen and sophomores to challenge them. There are no "first stringers" to be announced until the first two games are played.

Assisting Head Coach Cawthon with the backs this year are two of his former stars, Ed McKeever, quarterback and Harold Crites, full-back and halfback, of the great 1933 club. A graduate tackle of last year, Bert Williams, is assistant to Berl Huffman on the freshman side of the fence.

Drills have been stiff, and in secret, this week as the Matadors prepare for the invasion of the Wesleyan Rams. They're not talking about the Horned Frogs this week, but there is a lot of chatter regarding Rhome's Rams.

OLTON WOMAN SUFFERS BROKEN LEG IN CAR CRASH

Mrs. Quay Cypert of Olton suffered a broken leg recently in a car wreck in the south part of Plainview on the Lubbock highway. Mr. Cypert who was driving, had some ribs torn loose and also received a slight scalp wound. Mrs. Cypert's left limb was broken just above the ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crawford who were accompanying the Cyperts to Lubbock, received minor hurts and scratches, including a sprained foot for Mrs. Crawford.

A passerby picked up the wreck victims almost immediately after the accident and took them to the Plainview sanitarium for first aid and medical attention.

Mr. Cypert was traveling about 30 miles an hour when a car is said to have slowed down in front of him causing him to leave the pavement or crash into the other car. Putting on the brakes the car skidded crashing into an abutment of a concrete bridge.

OLTON SCHOOL OPENS FOR FALL SESSION

The Olton Public schools opened for the 1936-37 term with an increase in enrollment over last year. Twelve ex-seniors have entered for commercial courses, such as bookkeeping, typing and shorthand.

The enrollment at the end of the school week was as follows:

Grammar school, 514 last year 506.
High school, 178; last year 181.
Total, this year, 692; last year, 687.

Grand total, including ex-seniors this year 704.

More than 500 pupils are given transportation. The twelve school owned buses bring approximately 460 daily, while the Valleyview bus brings about 45, daily.

The interest in all phases of school work is very gratifying. The outlook is for a most successful year.

The new $120,000 grammar school building is now practically completed.

Conoco Report Increased Sales On Auto Trailers

Current heavy sales of auto trailers foreshadow increased expenditures by motorists on long trips, edging travel closer to the status of America's leading industry, Joe H. Thompson, travel expert of the Continental Oil Company, declared today.

Thompson said the unexpected "trailer factor" necessitates upward revision of tourist business estimates for this and subsequent years. Last spring Thompson estimated $4,000,000,000 would be spent during 1936 by approximately 10,000,000,000 touring parties on trips averaging 3,500 miles.

"With orders to trailer manufacturers indicating a volume of 200,000 units a year, and with something over 250,000 trailers already on the road, on long if not permanent trips, we can safely add another $200,000,000 to the 1936 estimate," Thompson said.

Whether time will prove the accuracy of Roger Babson's recent pronouncement that 65,000,000 persons, or half the population of the country, will be living in trailers within twenty years is "hard to tell now," Thompson said, adding:

"I didn't know we had that many potential permanent tourists in our midst, but we may have. I think it is significant that the trailer business will be only six years old next year, when it expects to be producing 200,000 units, whereas the automobile industry was twelve years old before it attained this volume.

"It is also tremendously significant that there is a market for 200,000 trailers annually, while in 1935, the last period for which figure are available, less than 100,000 new homes were built," the Conoco Travel Bureau head declared.

WE MISS THEM

By Rev. Willis J. Ray, Pastor First Baptist Church

One of the saddest consequences of the past depression is not the loss of fortunes, homes, positions, sad as that is; but the saddest fact is the loss of morale, the loss of courage, the loss of loyalty to the church and love for God. It has often happened that the first thing men have done, when they lost their money, was to quit going to church. They tell us they do not have clothing, they cannot help support the church, they are embarrassed because they cannot do as they formerly did. We would not deny these things, which are doubtless true, at least in many cases; but there is another truth we must not forget. They need God now more than before; they must face God some day and give an account of these passing years; they used to show the church that they can give something besides their money. They practically say by dropping out, "I will be good, faithful and dependable so long as God prospers me, but if he ever fails to give me what I want, I'll quit Him." If our loyalty is no deeper than our prosperity then we need to have a stronger grip on the better, nobler, and eternal things of life. It is a mistaken idea that people must dress in finery before they are welcome to church; this is a lie from the devil and how glad he is to have people believe it.

The word of God says, "Be sure your sins will find you out." And again, "The way of the transgressor is hard." You may make excuses and for the time being ignore God but remember my friend there is a hard row ahead when the reaping time comes. The greatest and basest men of all ages have found time to worship God and thus they live on for good after they are called from the walks of life. We want you to know that as a minister of the gospel and as pastor of the First Baptist church that we are interested in you, in your temporal welfare and in your spiritual salvation and happiness.

Home Demonstration Notes

By Miss Bernice Westbrook

A Beautiful Yard For $5.80

"All this improvement cost only $5.80 in money," stated Mrs. C. A. Thomas, Yard Improvement Demonstrator, for the Westbrook Home Demonstration Club.

Five dollars and thirty cents of this money was spent for foundation plantings around the house and cement which they had on hand used in making a flag stone walk was valued at $1.50.

Besides building the walk and putting out foundation plantings, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas sodded their entire yard both front and back from a small spot of Bermuda that they had growing in their yard. Mr. Thomas moved several trees from the front to the side and back. Three large althea bushes were moved from the front yard to the side and back for screen plantings. "I just don't know what I'd take for my yard," says Mrs. Thomas.

SPRING CUTTINGS BLOOMING NOW

Two vitex bushes that are now in full bloom in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Barton, Yard Demonstrator for the Springlake Home Demonstration club, were two small timbs made into cuttings last spring.

Mrs. Barton got 8 vitex cuttings from Mrs. M. M. Packard early last spring and buried them upside down just as she would grape cuttings. She left them there several weeks and when she dug them up to set in the nursery row everyone was putting out roots. She set them out and they all grew until the sand killed 6 of them. The other two are one and two feet high and in full bloom at this time. Mrs. Barton feels that with a little protection from the sand all of them would have done as well.

ENTERTAINING IN THE YARD

"You should have seen my back yard with the lights turned on it the other night," says Mrs. I. V. Fent, Yard demonstrator for the Sandhill Home Demonstration Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Fent have sodded their back yard with native grass, and have put out several poplars for screen plantings, made an annual flower bed in the back yard which is now in full bloom, and put out their back foundation plantings as well as their front ones. These together with the friendly Chinese Elm Tree already growing in the back yard make an ideal setting for a lawn party.

DETROIT PURCHASES 500 FORD V-8 BUSES

DEARBORN, Mich., Sept. 5—A single order for 500 Ford V-8 metropolitan buses has been placed with the Ford Motor Company by the municipally-owned Detroit Street Railway. This is believed to be the largest single order for buses ever placed in the United States.

Deliveries are to commence within 90 days. It is expected that the last of the 500 units will be turned over to the railway company by next spring.

The buses are of a new type with 25-passenger capacity. The design was developed by the Ford Motor Company in collaboration with engineers of the Detroit Street Railway. Their aim was to provide a modern unit for low-cost, high-speed operation in heavy urban traffic.

Purchase of the large fleet of the new type buses was determined upon by the management of the railway company after exhaustive tests over the past two years of 311 Ford V-8 buses on the heaviest traffic routes serving the Detroit metropolitan area. At present the original fleet of Ford V-8 buses is piling up mileage at the rate of more than 1,000,000 miles a month. The first bus of the fleet already has traveled more than 120,000 miles.

Chevrolet Production Total 87,673 Units For Month Of August

Chevrolet production for the month of August in the United States alone totalled 87,673 units, the third-highest August figure since the all-time record for that month, established in 1928, it has been announced. This does not include passenger cars and trucks built for export and in Canada.

The month saw the completion of Chevrolet's 12,000,000th car, which came off the assembly line at Flint on August 5, eight months and one day after production of the 11,000,000th, and which, with Harry Hartz, well-known racing driver, at the wheel, is now en route to the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas.

Must Plow Up All Cotton Grown To Reduce Boll Weevils

"To reduce the number of boll weevils in the cotton fields next year every farmer should plow up all cotton grown as soon as cotton picking is complete," says R. R. Reppert, Extension entomologist.

"Cotton boll weevils feed only on green cotton and develop only in green cotton squares or bolls. Killing cotton growth early thus removes the food of the weevil. If the growth is entirely killed as early as two weeks before frosts, practically all weevils will starve before going into winter quarters.

"Absolute lack of food for only a short period during the active season, that is previous to killing frosts, will cause death from starvation. If allowed to reach the dormant state, weevils can live several months without food, and it is these overwintering weevils that breed and supply the next season's hordes," he added.

"A total destruction of the plant substances is not necessary nor desirable," Reppert warned. "All our soils need this organic material returned for continued profitable production. It is enough in the matter of weevil control that the plant merely be killed.

"Often a plow set shallow to clip the tap roots just below the surface of the soil is a successful practice. Merely chopping or clipping the stalks will not answer, because the stumps will throw out new growth ideal for weevil food," he concluded.

Makes the Telephone A household— A business Necessity

Surprisingly Low Rates After 7 o'clock Each evening

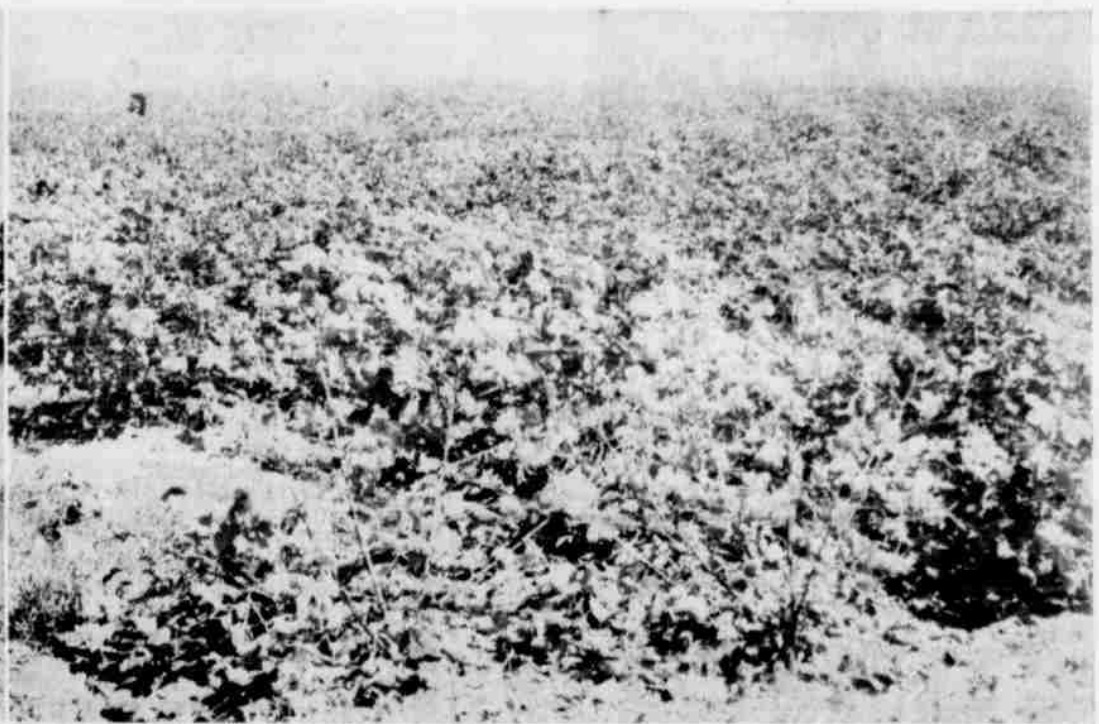

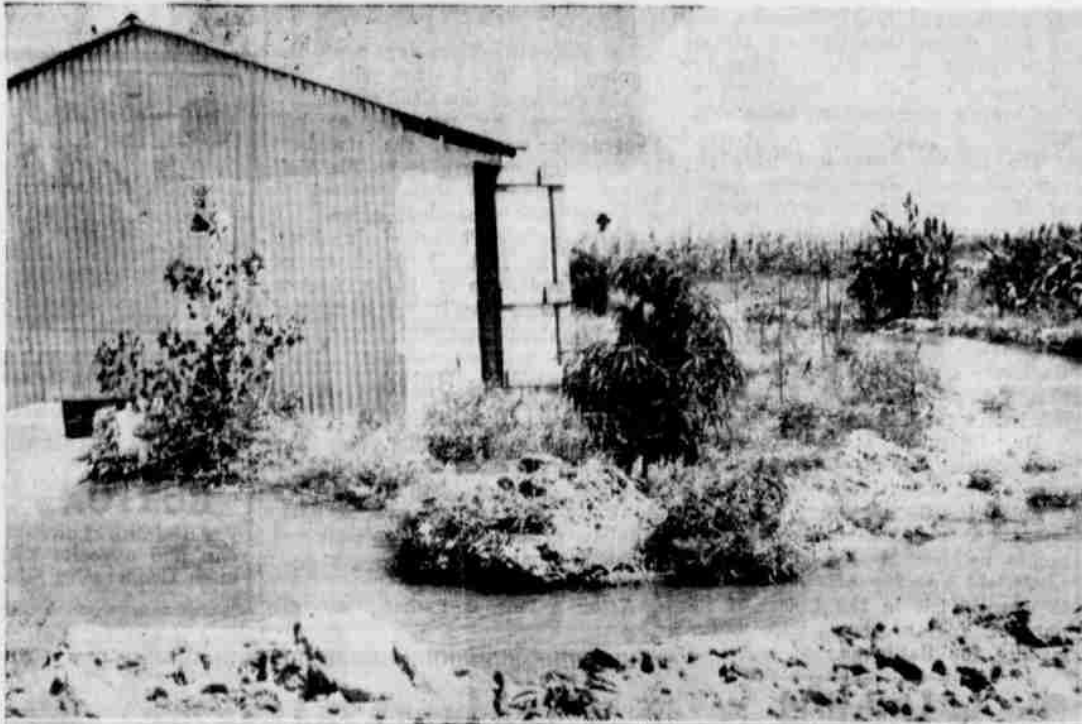

You are familiar, of course, with the services of a fine department store. You know the convenience of shopping for many different commodities under one roof, of knowing that the facilities of a vast organization lie behind each purchase. You enjoy the same extra service, the attentions that cost you nothing, but which make shopping so pleasant a procedure.

The telephone is like your favorite store in many respects. The housewife can transact the majority of her household duties, whether it be a call to the grocery store or advice from her physician, through the handy medium of a telephone in the home. The business man too, finds the telephone a dependable instrument to complete commercial and financial transactions easily and swiftly. And what could be more convenient than the telephone for social calls to friends and relatives?

The picture in the upper left hand corner shows the well in operation flowing through the corn crop. The cotton crop (shown in upper right) grown from pedigreed seed is expected to produce from one and a half to two bales an acre. Shown in the lower left hand corner is the bumper corn large heads can be seen on the Gohoma sorghum shown in the lower right hand photo.

Three Principal Crops To Produce Better Than Average Yield

Growing crops at low cost by deep-well irrigation is being carried out by L. T. Green, Littlefield resident, who has 275 acres of land on one of his farms a mile west of Hart Camp producing better than average agricultural products.

Mr. Green, who moved to Littlefield from Levelland last year, began operations on his land near Hart Camp with the installation of a Byron-Jackson pump January last. After listing the land, he started irrigation in March on 275 acres of the half section he is working.

Three Principal Crops
Corn, Gohoma sorghum and cotton are three of the principal crops raised this year that are expected to produce better than average yield. The corn, irrigated three times this season—once before planting, again shortly after planting and when in silk—is expected to produce as high as 50 bushels an acre.

COUNTY FAIR OPENING THIS THURSDAY

Estimates on the cotton yield at Mr. Green's farm have been as high as a bale and a half to two bales to the acre.

The heads on the sorghum are above average.

From One Well
Commenting on his fine crop and equipment, Mr. Green said: "All of this was done from one well. At no time did the well seem to be effected. There was a draw-down but no let-up in the water supply.

"Most people who see these pictures and read this article will be most interested in the capital outlay and the cost of operation. No doubt you are aware of the fact that those things depend quite a lot on what you do about the matter or whether you turn it over to someone else and pay him to do it for you."

Low Cost Equipment
Included in the low-cost equipment on the farm is the 12-inch K-type Byron-Jackson pump with a capacity of 1,000 gallons of water a minute and pulled by a Ford V-8 motor. Total cost of the equipment has been estimated at $1800.

"Considering that you get water at a depth of 75 feet and your well uses 16 inch casing at a depth of 150 to 175 feet—if you have good walls there is no use casing above the water line," said Mr. Green. "The cost of operating my well, including gas and oil, was about $300," Mr. Green said.

Four Types Cotton
Mr. Green, who uses only pedigreed cotton seed on his farm, planted four types—Georgia half and half, Georgia Hi-bred, Clayton-Anderson's Paymaster and half and half seed from Vernon.

Owner of several farms in Lamb county, Mr. Green moved here last year for the purpose of developing his farms. In addition to his term as teacher at Levelland, he formerly was superintendent of schools at Slaton.

Teacher's Theories
A firm believer in irrigation, Mr. Green in commenting on his crop said: "Having taught school for so long and taking into consideration the fact that a school teacher's knowledge is mostly made up of theories that are not workable, I would not venture a guess as to the yield of any of the crop."

HORSE RACING TO BE FEATURE AT COUNTY FAIR
Other Attractions To Be Carnival, Wrestling Match Football Game
The gates will swing open Thursday morning to an outstanding three day exposition and the first Lamb County Fair to be held in Littlefield.

Plans were completed Wednesday for one of the most outstanding programs of an affair of this kind ever to be held in this section, which include horse racing, Carnival, midway attractions, exceptional livestock, vocational agriculture, Farm and Home Demonstration exhibits, as well as displays of merchandise by local drygoods, drug stores and other business establishments.

An interesting feature will be the horse races, for which it is planned to bring the finest race horses. This will include high bred animals from the Norfleet Ranch in Hale County, Amherst, etc. and including those entered in the Lubbock-South Plains Fair. It is expected that horse racing will be in progress each day.

Another event which will contribute to the success of the Fair will be the Western States Carnival underway since Monday on the softball grounds. This company is one of the largest ever to show in these parts. It will present two big circus acts for free entertainment every night. On the midway there will be 10 of the newest riding devices, 12 side shows of highest type.

A free wrestling match each evening will also furnish entertainment at the Fair.

A football game between Littlefield ex-students and Wayland College Thursday afternoon at the High School stadium will also furnish entertainment to fair visitors.

An Amateur entertainment contest will be conducted on the grounds by B. E. Needles organization, and $25.00 in prizes given away.

Officials of the Fair have been working hard in preparing platforms and booths for agricultural and educational exhibits, which were completed Tuesday evening.

A meeting of the superintendents of all divisions was held in the Fair building Monday night, when a selection of the booths was made, and spaces blocked off.

Jess Elms is in charge of the livestock, and will furnish all information necessary to exhibitors.

Hogs and sheep will be exhibited and judged Thursday, Cattle Friday, and horses and mules Saturday.

The Fair Committee is very appreciative at being allowed to hold the exposition in the large Union Compress & Warehouse building, furnishing 43,000 square feet. The commercial booths at the Fair are being blocked off in 400 sq. feet each, affording plenty of space.

PERSONS WITHOUT VISIBLE MEANS OF SUPPORT TO BE ARRESTED

As a result of the recent Kersey robbery and other petty thieving taking place, Mayor L. R. Crockett has given instructions to city officers to investigate any strangers hanging about the streets apparently without any occupation, and in cases where they do not give proper account of themselves, or go to work a reasonable time after arriving here, to arrest them on vagrancy charges.

The City takes the position that farmers are now needing help in the gathering of their crops, and that there is plenty of work, and no one need remain idle if they apply to the Reemployment office at the City Hall, Littlefield.

City officers have also the cooperation of the Sheriff's department in the apprehension of any transients who may linger here with the idea in mind of petty stealing or robbery.

WILDCATS TROUNCE BROWNFIELD 12 TO 0 FOR THIRD VICTORY OF SEASON; FEATURE PASS ATTACK

Littlefield Scores In Second And Third Quarters Of Game

Increasing their winning streak to three games in a row, Littlefield's Wildcats defeated the Brownfield high school gridder 12 to 0 in a non-conference football tilt under the lights at Seely field here last Friday night.

A costly Brownfield fumble in the early minutes of play led to Littlefield's first touchdown. After receiving the kickoff from Littlefield, Brownfield fumbled on an attempted spin-back with the Wildcats recovering deep in enemy territory. A bullet pass from Neely to Smith resulted in the first Littlefield touchdown.

Another fumble in the second period cost Brownfield the second touchdown.

Battling on their own two yard line following a fumble punt, Brownfield kicked to the 25-yard line. Opening with a powerful aerial attack Littlefield on a pass from Neely to McKnight advanced to the 10-yard line. A second pass Neely to Lee resulted in the final touchdown of the game.

From the starting whistle to the closing gun, the air was filled with pigskin as both resorted to a passing attack to gain yardage.

The game, played under ideal conditions with a cool southerly breeze blowing over the field, was marred by frequent fumbles by both elevens.

Injuries in the second and third quarters weakened Littlefield's backfield. H. W. Bradley, quarterback was taken from the game in the second period when he suffered an arm injury. J. New, Wildcat half back, was the second man to leave the game because of injuries in the third period.

Outweighed nearly 11 pounds to the man, Littlefield was forced to take to the air to gain yardage. Line and power plays were ineffective against the crack Brownfield defense.

Brownfield's offense, ineffective only because of numerous fumbles, displayed an array of brilliant power plays, trick lateral passes and a strong aerial attack.

K. Hill, 146-pound Brownfield end, gave the Wildcats a bad few minutes of play when he intercepted a pass on the Littlefield 45-yard line and romped to the 18-yard line before being hauled down.

Littlefield recovered the ball on a fumble on the next play and closed the tilt with a series of heaves in mid field.

SLATON PROVES CHAMPIONSHIP BY DOWNING TAHOKA 77 TO 0 IN TILT

SLATON—The Slaton high school Tigers proved that their 1935 championship was no fluke by burying the Tahoka Bulldogs 77 to 0 in their first conference game here last Friday night.

With his reserves playing the "B" team of Ralls at Ralls, Coach Stump Hamilton had few replacements for his first stringers and made but four substitutions. The Tahoka team was no match for the defending district title holders.

Friendship Grid Team Downs Cooper, 31-0

WOLFFORTH—Friendship opened its class C conference race here last Friday afternoon with a 31 to 0 victory over the Cooper school team. Quarterback Jones led the attack with several long runs and two touchdowns. Friendship talked in the first, second and fourth periods.

Wildcats To Tangle With Slaton Friday

With three victories already chalked up for the season, Littlefield's Wildcats will carry their grid war afire this week when they tangle with Slaton on the Slaton gridiron Friday.

Already showing championship calibre, the Wildcats, thirsting for new blood will use everything in the book to mark up a fourth win and keep their record clean against the Slaton eleven.

Slaton, however, bids fair to hand the Wildcats their first set-back of the season boasting a 34 to 0 win over Spur last Friday.

The Slaton tussel will mark the last pre-conference tilt of the season for the Wildcats.

Hobbs Eleven Win Grid Tilt 30 to 0 Over Levelland

HOBBS, N. M.—Hobbs' powerful grid team came back in the second half here last Friday night to run over the Levelland high school eleven 31 to 6 after being held scoreless for two periods.

Crawford scored for Levelland in the second quarter when he spun over guard on a quick opening play. The try for extra point failed.

Early in the third quarter Jack Roberts, Hobbs halfback, raced around the Levelland end for 65 yards and a touchdown. Another touchdown was made a few minutes later when Roberts carried the ball into scoring distance on three long runs.

Meadow Upsets Anton 14 to 0 In Grid Tilt

ANTON—Anton's Bulldogs, with four wins already chalked up this season, were defeated 14 to 6 by the Meadow high school gridder here last Friday afternoon.

Meadow scored in the second and third quarters. Anton's lone touchdown came in the final period on a pass from Jones to Tucker. Both teams made five first downs.

Local All-Star Eleven To Meet Wayland College in Grid Tilt

Littlefield's All-Stars—the greatest aggregation of former high school football players ever assembled here—will tangle with the Wayland college eleven of Plainview in what promises to be the grid classic of the South Plains at Seely Field Thursday night.

The game, scheduled to get underway at 7:30 p. m., will be one of the highlights of the Lamb County Fair which will be held in Littlefield October 8, 9, and 10.

Beginning their workouts last Monday evening, the local All-Star aggregation under the tutelage of W. B. Sanders, Littlefield high school football mentor, gives promise of presenting a surprisingly strong eleven.

With a lineup boasting plenty of material for the end positions, the local squad will take to the air with a passing attack that bids fair to culminate in the scoring column.

Accompanying the aerial barrage will be a power-house drive using single and double wing back plays.

While little is known of the strength of the Wayland eleven, the Plainview school, if past records can be relied upon, will come with a strong club.

Making no predictions, but sounding a note of warning, Troy Houston, All-Star fullback, said:

"I think our club will make a good showing against Wayland—and if they're not careful, we will make a few touchdowns against them.

The admission charge of 25 cents to be made for the game will be used to help defray expenses of the fair, officials of the athletic council said. Officials are considering allowing school children to view the game free of charge, but no definite announcement was forthcoming late Tuesday night.

LOCAL GROCER ROBBED OF $130 SATURDAY NIGHT

B. Kersey Taken Into County At Point Of Gun And Held Up

B. Kersey, owner and manager of the Kersey Food Store, Littlefield, was waylaid and robbed of $130.00 cash Saturday night after closing his grocery establishment.

Mr. Kersey, after checking up his cash about 11:30 o'clock and locking the establishment, made an effort to start his car parked on the vacant lot north of the store. Finding the car would not start he became suspicious and got out and ran towards Phelps Avenue, getting nearly to the sidewalk, when he was overtaken by a man who hit him on the head, and throwing a coat over his head, at the same time, thrusting a gun in his ribs, forced him into the robber's car parked on the east side of NIT Drive.

Mr. Kersey said one man sat in the back seat with him, keeping a gun thrust at his side, still keeping the coat over his head, while another drove the car, going out about six miles northwest of Littlefield. On the trip there was very little talking done, and when Mr. Kersey requested that they take his money and let him out of the car, the man beside him cursed him, pressed the gun up," that he was "running the show".

Finally, Mr. Kersey stated they stopped the car, ordered him out, searched him, still holding the coat over his head, took his money, returning to him checks which were in the roll with the cash and after tying his hands behind his back with his own belt, they ordered him to "walk ahead and not look back."

Mr. Kersey said he walked on until he was out of range of pistol shot, and looking back saw a man still standing at the rear of the car, and that all he could discern was that the man wore well shined shoes, and nicely pressed trousers. After walking about a quarter of a mile Kersey reached the home of Jim Melton, who cut the belt holding his hands behind his back, and brought him to town, where he got in touch with deputy Sheriff Sam Hutson, A. A. Anderson, city marshal and constable L. A. Ratliff, who went out to the scene of the robbery. Tracks on the road indicated that the car turned back in the vicinity of Amberst to Highway No. 7, and towards Littlefield.

Mr. Kersey was not certain whether there were two or three men participating in the robbery, as he said it was carried out in a professional way in that very little conversation took place, and when the man who held him at the point of the revolver spoke he changed his voice. He described the man as tall in as much as he was able to hold the coat over his head with no effort, and believed he was of light build.

LARGE QUANTITY SURPLUS FEED LISTED TO DATE

Report 27,000 Car Loads From Texas Recorded With Agency

More than 250,000 car lots of surplus hay and other roughages have been listed to date with the Federal Livestock Feed Agency, according to Donald Turner, County Agricultural Agent. This is in excess of the 1934 figures which show the greatest listings for any one month to be 162,000 car lots.

The livestock feed agency reports that 27,000 of these car loads came from Texas.

The agency points out that the winter livestock feeding program will soon get under way in most sections of the drought area. An effort is being made to keep the listings of roughage up to date so that inquiries for feed may be taken care of as rapidly as possible.

Lamb county farmers having surplus feed which they want to dispose of in this way are requested to immediately advise the Livestock agency at 755 Livestock Exchange Building, Kansas City, Missouri.

LITTLEFIELD, TEXAS

This picture is of Littlefield in 1921, and presents the entire city at that time with the exception of a few residences, a hotel, the coal chutes and depot.

Compare the Littlefield of 15 years ago with the modern city of today with its large business section, large and attractive residential districts, new and modern buildings and paved streets.

Natural gas service was brought to Littlefield in 1930, after our company had carried out an extensive construction program to serve a rapidly developing city. Ever since we have kept pace with, and anticipated the growth of Littlefield, extending some lines and constructing others.

For gas service to be satisfactory, it must be ready to do your instant bidding any hour of the day or night, whether the temperature is anywhere above or below zero. Good gas service must continue year after year, no matter how much Littlefield may grow.

The West Texas Gas Co. can be depended on to always render to Littlefield, in its rapid growth, a gas service that is entirely satisfactory.

Spade Wallops Whitharral Three Games Straight

On Friday evening, October 2, Spade sent three teams to Whitharral for a try-out in basketball. First and seconds from the boys' squad and the first line of girls represented the school.
The second string of boys got going for a slow tussle which netted the Spade delegation a 13 to 3 victory. Then came the closest game of the season; the Whitharral girls held the Spade Loopers to a 26 to 21 score. The game was definitely Spade's from the first; however, the Whitharral girls caught a rally at the last quarter to bring them along in hailing distance of the visitors.

The last game was another easy victory for the Spade Longhorns, the final whistle coming on a score of 36 to 10.
