CROWD OF 2000 SEES CEREMONY AT SEELY FIELD

Mahon, Nelson Speaks Before Throng; Parade Feature Of Gala Program

With an estimated crowd of 2,000 persons present to witness the ceremonies, Seely athletic field and stadium were officially dedicated here last Friday night.

In spite of intermittent showers throughout the evening, a record throng jammed the gates to hear Congressman George Mahon and Senator G. H. Nelson speak at the dedication services.

Nelson Speaks
Commending the city on its fine stadium, Senator Nelson, who appeared first on the speaking program, outlined the development of sport from the early Roman games to the present high level of sports. Senator Nelson pointed out that countries promoting clean sports competition are less prone to indulge in war. This is especially true of England and the United States, he said.

Commends Citizens
Congratulating Littlefield on the fine stadium and field, Congressman Mahon, who spoke briefly, said the project was worth the time and effort of local citizens.

Opening the ceremonies was a parade of all high school, grade school and grammar school students led by a lad on stilts representing the high school Press club.

Children Sing
Requiring 15 minutes to pass the stadium, the parade stood in formation on the opposite side of the football field where the students, led by Morgan Layfield, sang "The Eyes of Texas."

A giant L. H. S. formed by the marchers in the center of the gridiron concluded the parade.

Following the parade, A. B. Sanders, superintendent of schools and master of ceremonies, introduced the members of the local school board.

Seely Speaks
Giving a rising vote of appreciation when introduced by Sanders, Ed Seely, president of the athletic council and for whom the field was named, said: "This is the proudest moment of my life. I thank you"

THREE INCHES OF RAIN FALL HERE SINCE SATURDAY

Past Week's Slow Soaking Rains Benefit Feed Crops Greatly

The sun broke through scattered clouds Tuesday for the first time in almost a week of cloudy, rainy weather, in Littlefield and territory.

According to L. C. Cawthorn, official Weather Reporter for this section, a total of three and three-one-hundredths inches fell in Littlefield since Saturday last.

Other communities and cities in this section up to Wednesday had received the following moisture for the past week: Pep—6 inches; Fieldton—2 1-2 inches; Spade, Valleyview, Enochs, and Morton 3 inches; Olton between 4 and 5 inches; Amherst between 3 and 4 inches; and Sudan 4 inches.

For the month of September Littlefield received a total of 4 14-100 inches of moisture, as follows:

Sept. 2 57-100ths of an inch
Sept. 3 25-100ths
Sept. 12 14-100ths
Sept. 13 12-100ths
Sept. 16 8-100ths
Sept. 19 1 38-100ths inches
Sept. 20 26-100ths
Sept. 21 1 26-100ths
Sept. 22 8-100ths

The rain in this section fell slowly, soaking into the soil. Cars were getting stuck in the mud on city streets, and wreckers were called for assistance in many cases the first part of this week.

Olton and south of there had heavier precipitation than around Littlefield, Western Hale county, around Cotton Center, had some of the heaviest rains on the plains. More than 14 inches of rain had fallen there in September.

Rain was general over the entire plains section. Moisture in good quantities was reported from the New Mexico line to beyond Dallas, and from Canyon to south of San Angelo, where 1500 were declared homeless from floods, and heavy property loss reported.

Santa Fe dispatches reported: Canyon 2 inches; Happy 2 1-2 inches; Kress 3 inches; Plainview 5 inches; Abernathy 4 inches; Muleshoe 2 inches; Anton and Shallowater 3 inches; Lockney 5 inches; Levelland and Lehman 3 inches; Idalou, Lorenz, and Ralls 6 inches; Ropesville and Meadow 5 inches; Brownfield 6

Letters Through the Sky for 25 Years

NEW YORK . . . On September 23, 1911, flyer Earl Ovington, recently deceased, took off from a small field at Garden City, Long Island, and flew 10 miles to Mineola, L. I., where he dumped a 50 pound sack of mail overhead from his tiny Blériot monoplane, the field being too rough to land. Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock sponsored that flight. This year, Garden City and Mineola are observing the quarter of a century anniversary by having The American Airline's flagship, a giant Douglas 21 passenger craft, fly the same course, carrying passengers and 2700 pounds of mail and express matter.

WILDCATS ROUND INTO SHAPE FOR BROWNFIELD TUSSLE HERE OCT. 2

With a week's lay-off in view, Coach J. D. Sanders, local football mentor, is sending his Wildcats through a series of stiff workouts in preparation for their first real test of the football season when they tangle with Brownfield on the local gridiron Oct. 2.

With his line already weakened by early season injuries, Coach Sanders is working with new material in an effort to strengthen the Wildcats' forward wall.

Hall Rowe, 160-pound tackle, will be out of the Littlefield line up for some time, probably the remainder of the season, because of a knee injury sustained in the last few minutes of play in the Tahoka game here last Friday.

Brownfield will present a formidable aggregation this year with a goodly number of lettermen returning to the squad.

With an experienced and heavy outfit, Brownfield is gunning for the top rug in the southern half of the 3-B division. Littlefield, with similar designs on the northern half honors, will meet its first real test against the southern aggregation. Contrary to local rumors, the Brownfield-Littlefield tilt will be played at Seely field Oct. 2, not Sept. 25 as was previously announced on the season schedule.

There will be no grade school games here this Friday.

MORTON MAN DIES IN ABILENE HOSPITAL

MORTON, Sept. 17—A former Morton man, Mr. Howard Jones, age 39, died at an Abilene hospital Friday afternoon, September 11, after an illness caused by an infection in his foot.

While in Morton, Mr. Jones suffered a great deal with his foot. It was some kind of bone infection, the report stated.

Mr. Jones was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Denham, the former Mrs. Mamie E. Jones, who reside a few miles east of here on the paved highway.

Parents of the deceased with their family attended the funeral here.

LAST RITES FOR ANTON RESIDENT THURSDAY LAST

Dies Suddenly As Result Of Heart Attack Day Previous

Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the First Baptist church, Anton, for Mrs. Edilee Houck, aged 22, wife of Travis Houck of Anton, who passed away the day previous at noon, following a heart attack, believed caused from Asthma.

Rev. Channing, Church of Christ pastor, officiated at the services, assisted by Bro. McCormick of Littlefield, and Rev. Collins, pastor of the Primitive Baptist Church, Anton. Burial in charge of Burleson Funeral Home, took place in the Anton cemetery.

Deceased had lived in Littlefield and Anton nearly her entire life, and had attended Littlefield schools.

She is survived by her husband, Travis Houck; and two children, Bobbie Jo aged 4 and a young son, 2 months old; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sherley of Anton; three brothers, Evert of Memphis; Buddy of Amherst; and Edward of Anton; and a sister, Evaline of Anton.

The insufficiency of the church to accommodate the large crowd that gathered for the services, and the elaborate floral offering indicated the very great regard with which the family was held.

LARGE ARRAY OF EXHIBITS BEING ARRANGED FOR

First County Fair To Be Held Here Promises To Be Great Success

Plans are well underway to make the first County Fair to be held in Littlefield an outstanding success.

It is expected that practically all the communities and towns in the county will have exhibits at the Fair. The various Home Demonstration clubs, 4-H Girls and Boys' clubs, vocational agriculture students, private individuals, as well as a number of business establishments, including car dealers, utility companies, drug stores, and others have expressed a desire to place an exhibit in the fair building.

Many of the Civic clubs are also expected to take booths at the Fair.

Plans are being discussed by the members of the B. & P. W. Club to arrange for a booth, which would serve as a lounging or rest room for visitors to the Fair, where women, especially with small children might rest, while their child or children slept. There is believed to be a need for such a booth, and if arrangements can be made it is the plan of the Business Women to arrange for such accommodation for the visitors.

According to W. H. Cunningham, member of the local Farm Committee sheep should have been included in the livestock exhibits in the Fair premium list.

The Western State Shows have been secured to play here during the Fair. This carnival has 12 rides and 35 concessions, and is the largest single carnival showing, according to Joe Hale, Secretary Manager of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Lamb County Exhibit To Be Placed At South Plains Fair

A Lamb County exhibit to be placed at the Lubbock South Plains Fair next week is being assembled by Donald Turner, County Agent, assisted by D. F. Pounds.

Make-Believe Bride

THIRD INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS: Maris Trevor is discouraged because Rod O'Rourke spends all his money developing an invention which he hopes will provide an income so that they can marry. Maris thinks they should enjoy the present rather than deny themselves for the future. She becomes uncertain of her love for Rod. Perhaps there would be more happiness with someone else.

Carefully she fixed herself before the mirror. Then quickly picking up her gloves and bag, she hurried down the passage to the elevator. Maybe Stanley would still be in the hall. Maybe his snappy sport roadster would be at the curb.

But as she stepped from the elevator, Rod O'Rourke came swiftly to her side.

"Say, honey, I guess I was a fool leaving you like that yesterday," he said. "Tell me you still love me, Maris darling," he added impulsively as he drew her away from the throngs that were sweeping along the halls. Maris' eyebrows drew swiftly together. Why had Rod appeared just when there was a chance that she might see Stanley? And yet how her heart had leaped when she caught sight of him, looking so else last night." Again his blue eyes flashed at her.

"Don't be too sure," she answered, but in her smiling reply he failed to read a warning.

"Och, mavourneen, now don't be getting me all excited again. But

"But now, Honey, I guess there's only one thing to do—tell me you'll marry me."

eagerly for her! She knew in spite of any vagrant thoughts about Stanley that she still loved Rod. Well, there was no use making a scene, so quickly banishing her frown, she smiled and said, "Oh Rod, what a scare you gave me! I thought something terrible had happened when I saw you standing there."

"Well, mavourneen, I've been having a terrible time thinking maybe I'd lost you."

"You couldn't do that so easily," answered Maris, while she glanced swiftly about the wide halls of the office building. But Stanley Fayson was nowhere to be seen.

"Oh, Maris, darling, you've made me so happy!" Rod's blue eyes glowed as they rested on the girl at his side.

"Don't look at me like that," she whispered. "People will think you crazy!" But even though she took a step away from his side, her heart was fluttering because she realized that Rod was so handsome. No wonder the girls hurrying past turned to look at him, envy in their eyes.

"I don't care if they do, sweetheart, I'm so happy. Let's go somewhere and have dinner and then take in a show or something," he begged, falling into step with her when they joined the multitude hurrying from the building.

"Oh, but, Rod, I'm afraid I can't," Maris explained, suddenly remembering that she was going to discipline the man she loved. It would never do, she knew, to give in the moment he started to make up.

"You can't shake me as easily as that," declared Rod, his blue eyes smiling into hers as he laid his hand lightly on her arm. Then, stooping down, he whispered softly in her ear. "You really don't want to, do you, sweetheart?"

"Oh, Rod, you're impossible!" And Maris raised her dark eyes to his, feeling strangely satisfied that she should yield so readily to his mastery. There was a smile on her face. It was out of the question to get annoyed with Rod—his Irish good-nature laughed off all rebuffs. Even his temper, about which Patsy had warned her, was, she believed, non-existent. She had never seen the smile fade altogether from his eyes, nor his lips tighten in a ruthless line—as they could do—when he uncovered some monkey-business in the course of his work!

"There, honey, I guess you were just stringing me about someone up to the apartment and have me fix something? Pat made a grand dinner for you last night, with chocolate cake and—"

"Not tonight, honey," he interrupted. "I want you all to myself." "Well, that's strange, isn't it?" she banded, suddenly noticing a serious look in Rod's eyes.

Ignoring her remark, he said, "Let's step into the subway. I know a pretty decent place uptown. It's quiet and the food's good."

"No orchestra?" questioned Maris, disappointment in her voice.

"Nothing like that," he answered. "Did you want to dance?"

"Did I?" she asked. "Oh, Rod, don't you know I love it? Couldn't we go somewhere else?"

Rod seemed to be seeing things for a moment, then he said, "Maybe, but let's eat here, at least." Before Maris realized it, he had piloted her down the subway stairs, shielding her against the seething masses of humanity that swayed like a smelly barrage against them as they struggled to get into the train.

"There, that's over," Rod remarked, one arm hanging to a strap and the other around Maris, his elbow jutting outward as though to protect her from the swaying creatures who were jammed around them.

"That's the only thing that makes me feel I'd be glad to leave New York," she said. Then she remembered, and a swift flush deepened the color in her cheeks. Rod would love to hear that for he was crazy to live in the country. Well, she had said it was the only thing she'd be glad to leave New York for, but that was a trifle compared with all she would miss—the movies, the stores, the cute apartments! Rod smiled. "The only thing?" he questioned. "I'd give up everything just to get away from this city. Well, I reckon it won't see me much longer."

But as Maris started to question him, the car came to a sudden stop, and again there was a mad rush for the doors. Rod suddenly saw two empty seats and dragged her to them.

"This is better," he said, "if these greasy old workmen don't fall in our laps." Right in front of them stood a couple of swarthy-skinned men, with mud-stained clothes. They looked as though they had been working in the subway or digging some cellar.

Maris and Rod got out at the next station. Now, beyond a few casual remarks as they passed various landmarks, Rod said little to Maris. For her part, something seemed to warn her that she had better not refer to Rod's rather cryptic remark about the city not seeing him very much longer.

But after they entered the "Hid-resorts, to gather interesting facts about travel—then puts them together in a style that has made his radio lectures universally popular.

During his Sunday, September 27, broadcast Wells will take his radio public on a "magic carpet" tour through Shenandoah National Park, the Finger Lakes region of New York state, through the Middle West, into the Black Hills of South Dakota, to Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City and through the Rocky Mountains—but will pause in his journey to devote a major portion of his program to the Texas Centennial, Dallas, and the Frontier Centennial, Fort Worth—the two outstanding amusement centers in America at present.

Local listeners who wish to tune in on Carveth Wells Sunday, September 27, may do so by dialing station KGNC, Amarillo, at 1:30 P. M. Sunday, September 27.

COTTON STALK GROWN ON V. K.
McCASKILL FARM BEARS 205
MATURED BOLES; ON DISPLAY HERE

J. C. Beckham of 7 1/2 miles west of Littlefield brought to the Leader office Saturday a large stalk of cotton grown on the V. K. McCaskill farm, bearing 205 matured bolls.

This farm is located one mile south of Sunnydale, on the Pep Highway.

The stalk is large and healthy being 3 1/2 feet tall and about five feet square, and grown on dry land without irrigation.

Mr. Beckham, who says this is the most productive stalk he has ever seen grown on the place, has 145 acres in cotton, 40 of which is excellent, and the balance thinner.

Mr. Beckham, who grew this crop from his bonus check, is very proud of his excellent yield, and claims that he has 40 acres of the best cotton in this part of the country.

"The rain," said Mr. Beckham, "that is falling now is doing no harm. It will cause lots of stub to go ahead and mature. It is helping the feed a lot, and is worth lots of money to this country."

The stalk of cotton brought to town by Mr. Beckham is on display at the Leader office.

Constitution After 150 Years

The United States Constitution Sesqui-Centennial Commission, under the leadership of Sol Bloom, representative in Congress from New York City, has plans underway for a nation-wide celebration of the 150th anniversary of the presentation of the constitution to the states for ratification on September 17, 1787. On September 17, next year, the constitution will be 150 years old.

Congress appropriated $250,000 in 1935 for the commission to use in arousing public interest in the historic document. Through state commissions, educational institutions and libraries the commissions are establishing contacts with millions of students of college, high schools and grade schools who will compete for local and national prizes and honors. Orations and essays on the constitution will be judged by local and state committees and the national contestants will go to Washington to compete for the first prize, which will be handed to the winner by the President of the United States.

Full-sized facsimiles of the original draft of the constitution will be distributed to state capitols, libraries and educational institutions; a series of commemorative postage stamps will be issued and an exhibition of historical paintings and portraits of the signers of the Constitution will be assembled in Washington.

In our opinion this effort to revive interest in and the study of the Constitution of the United States is very timely. All over the world peoples of entire nations are being deprived of their ancient liberties. A widespread understanding of the peculiar liberties which we of America enjoy under our Constitution, which has been described as the greatest document ever forged by the mind of man cannot fail to be helpful.

Designed in sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 5 5/8 yards of 39 inch material for the jacket, lower waist portions and skirt and 1 3/4 yards for the upper waist portions. To line jacket requires 2 1/2 yards 39 inches wide.

Slenderizing Jacket Ensemble

Pattern 8817: This jacket frock is the ideal style of ensemble for the woman that needs a bit of slenderizing assistance from her frock. The jacket hangs loosely and drapes effectively at the waist to indicate trimness there. Short shoulders tucks help to knit their breadth and at the same time give a well-fitting contour. The short-sleeved frock is in itself youthful looking with its shortwaist details plus a raised waist line to give the illusion of longer more slender and lithesome lines.

The skirt has the further slenderizing effect of a wide front panel. Kick pleats provide ample room for action. Material suggestions: Sheer jersey, small figured silk prints, or flat crepe.

For PATTERN, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired), your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE to Patricia Dow, Lamb County Leader Pattern Dept., 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

New Furniture For Littlefield High School

My! How they shine. What? Don't ask that! Haven't you seen the furniture in the Littlefield High School since it has been improved? It looks like new.

It is grand to sit in one of the chairs or desks. They shine so that a girl can almost powder her nose by them.

They make the rooms look different—A room that one would like to enter, a room where one would like to sit, and a room where one enjoys studying in.

Students, friends, we appreciate the school board doing this very much, don't we? It took a lot of money to do this too. The question arises, are we going to keep them like they are now?

Assembly Announcement

According to an announcement in assembly Thursday, September the seventeenth, students who have enrolled in Littlefield High School and have been transferred from some other school and have not had their credits transferred must do so immediately.

many of the men around. Somewhat corner of the room, Maris had a swift presentment as Rod looked at her that something momentous was about to happen. This thought was swiftly dispelled, however, when he took up the menu and said, "Well, Maris, what will you have?"

"I don't know. What's good here? When did you find this place? I've never been here before." A sudden twinge of jealousy shot through her. It was an adorable place, with a rafted ceiling, and fixtures that suggested an old English inn with its jugs of frothing ale, and, in winter, a roaring fire on the hearth. Yet with it all there was an air about it that suggested it was a place where many important affairs had been settled—and not merely between men, for there was a hint of romance in the atmosphere.

Even as she waited for Rod's answer, she found herself wondering if he'd often been here before and who his companion had been. As she glanced across the table at him, she realized once more what a presentable man he was, with that virile air about him, that fine clear look in his eyes—so different from so many men—and found a table in a seclusion he always seemed to speak of the great outdoors, of clean living and wholesome thinking, as if he had some purpose in life instead of merely gratifying all his desires.

Raising his head, his eyes met hers. "Oh, Charley Grant brought me here so we could talk about the gadget undisturbed. They don't hurry you. If you want to, you can spend the whole evening at one of the tables without a single black look from any of the waitresses or manager."

"Well, that's rather nice when you've business to discuss."

"It sure is." A twinkle danced in Rod's blue eyes. "But you haven't decided what you want. What do you say to some real English beefsteak pie and a nice mug of ale?"

"Oh, but I'm not terribly hungry, Rod. I don't believe I could tackle that."

"Sure you can, I wish you'd try it. It's the finest thing they have here, and I bet you'll eat every particle. What say, sweetheart?"

"All right. It does look rather good," and Maris glanced with appraising eyes at one that a waitress was just bringing in.

"Good, Maris, you'll say you never tasted better." Giving the order, Rod laid the menu to one side. Then, gazing across the table, he said, "Say, honey, I've just been thinking I've had a darned lot of gall making you ride in Dulcine all this time, but you won't have to much longer. Looks as though the gadget's going to pay all right, and then—"

Just at that moment the waitress appeared with their order and Rod said no more. Then as she left the table Maris cried excitedly, "You've sold it, Rod! It's really a success?" Her dark eyes were sparkling.

"No, sweetheart, not yet, but I'm going out of town tomorrow—to Cleveland—where they're going to give it a try-out. Then, if everything's okay, won't we celebrate! But now, let's eat. I'm hungry as a hawk. You little witch, you had me so worried. I was right off my eats."

"Go on, Rod, I'd like to see the girl who'd bring you to that state." But deep in Maris' heart she felt a thrill of pride in her power over this handsome man who sat across the table from her.

That was the one thing in which Stanley disappointed her—he was only a little over five-four, and in spite of all his fine clothes, he would never have the presence of Rod.

Again Rod spoke. "It's the truth I'm telling you, dearest. I thought I'd lost you, that maybe I'd never hold you in my arms again. You don't know what a wretched night I put in. But now, honey, I guess there's only one thing to do—tell me you'll marry me, Maris darling; that you'll be mine. A swift tumult rose in Maris' heart. This was her first proposal. But why had Rod chosen to ask her at the dinner table? All her life she had dreamed of this wonderful moment, when the man she loved would ask her to marry him, would take her in his arms. . . His lips would meet hers and the age-old question would once again be settled. For even if she could not answer in so many words, with her lips on his, and her head pillowed on his heart, he would surely know her answer.

But even as something urged her to say, "Yes," a shadowy form rose like a silhouette in her memory—a slender, dark-eyed young man. He was not particularly impressive from a physical standpoint, but he had money, limitless money behind him, and social position.

Yet as thoughts of Stanley Fayson flashed before her, Pat's words of warning came swiftly to her mind. Well, she didn't need any advice—she could take care of herself. But as she raised her eyes to Rod's she whispered, "Please, Rod, don't ask me that here." There was a little quaver in her voice.

"But you haven't said, 'No' he cried triumphantly, as he slipped his firm hand across the table and imprisoned her fingers.

"And I haven't said, 'Yes' she answered, as she withdrew her hand from his clasp. "Let's eat now." CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH John W. Hendrix, Pastor

Church school opens at 9:45 a. m., and it is expected that it opens at that exact time. It has been thought best after the first song to close the chapel till after devotional exercises, that is, for the present, it will serve to remind us of a very bad habit—being late.

An increased interest has been manifested in the hours of public worship. Last sabbath morning, tho it rained some, the church was well filled with worshippers. Were you among them. The choir is having regular rehearsals on Wednesday evening and will ably assist in the worship hours.

Subject morning hour, "Where are the Nine?" You remember the incident as found in Luke 17: 11-19. Are you one of the nine? Come and let's examine our records together.

Subject for evening hour, Hinderance to Hearing." We will find out how one of the great men gained his hearing. A great physician healed his dumb ear. Do we hear everything about us, what per cent of hearing do we possess? Young people's service at 7:30 p.m. Hi-League ----- 7:30 p. m. Intermediates ----- 7:30 p. m. This is a fine menu. Try it out.

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The prophet David exclaimed when he had been delivered from his enemies, "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name." We are made to pause and meditate, and to make the same exclamation from our heart when we think of the excellent rain, the splendid prospects for a good harvest, and the escape from the devastating storm of the east and the destructive floods of our neighbors on the south.

The Sunday School attendance was off four last Sunday having 238 present in time to be counted. A good number came in for the preaching hour and even though the weather was inclement the main part of the auditorium was filled with people who came together to worship God.

The Sunday evening congregation was rather small with only 61 in B. T. U. Some of the local people could not come out because of the stormy weather and yet we had visitors in our services from Canada.

and earnestness and we ask for her a faithful support of the ladies of the church in this mission work.

Mrs. S. R. Walters of Mangum, Okla. united with our church at the morning services. Mr. Walters came about a month ago and has established a business in the Hammons building selling electrical appliances. They have two small children who joined the Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Tisdal recently of Petersburg, who have just moved to our city were in the services. Mr. Tisdal has just taken over the Maytag agency and is selling radios in connection. It is hoped that our citizens will be friendly and make these new-comers feel at home.

B. T. U. has been changed from 7:30 to 7:00 o'clock each Sunday evening. Miss Patty Hopping is the director and you are asked to put B. T. U. in your evening worship. Rev. Grizzle of Portales will fill the pulpit at both services Sunday. Be sure to hear him. We are expecting 275 in the morning worship next Sunday.

The pastor left Monday for a two weeks meeting in Portales with Rev. Grizzle and the First Church of that city.

Willis J. Ray, Pastor.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NEWS

The Ladies Aid will meet today in the basement of the School. Mrs. B. Birkelbach will be hostess. Among other things arrangements will be made to serve the visitors attending the circuit meeting held at the local Lutheran church on October sixth. At this meeting which will be presided over by Rev. Birnbaum of Vernon, Texas, visitor of the circuit, a finance man as well as the pastor of each congregation and mission place will be present.

Last week the pastor and Mr. Paul Manthey, member of the school Board of our parochial school drove to Vernon and later to Wichita Falls to discuss the matter of procuring a parochial school teacher for our school. The matter will be definitely settled this week yet.

Tonight the young people will meet in the school basement. Mr. Henry Ogerly, Miss Ruby and Elsa Ogerly will be host and hostesses. The Radio broadcast on Radio Week will be discussed. It is hoped all will be present.

FOR BAD FEELING Due to Constipation

Get rid of constipation by taking Black-Draught as soon as you notice the bowel activity has slowed up or you begin to feel sluggish. Thousands prefer Black-Draught for the washing relief it has brought them. Mrs. Ray Mullins, of Lufe, Ark., writes: "My husband and I both take Ford's Black-Draught and find it splendid for constipation, biliousness and the disagreeable, aching, tired feeling that comes from this condition." With reference to Syrup of Black-Draught, which this mother gives her children, she says: "They like the taste and it gave such good results."

HARLEY SADLER SHOWS COMING TO LITTLEFIELD OCTOBER 1

What would the reader do if he were brought face to face with a man who had an arm reach of fourteen feet, whose fingers were ten inches long with a hook at the end of each finger, whose face is flat and resembles an aged man; whose body weighs three hundred pounds is covered with a coat of brown fur. Most any one would be scared stiff, to use slang, to meet such a human animal—but all who attend the Harley Sadler Circus when it exhibits in Littlefield Thursday October 1 can be face to face with just such a beast.

John Ringling, acknowledged circus king, paid over twenty thousand dollars for an animal such as described above about twenty years ago, and after exhibiting it in this country for six months, the beast died. Since then there has not been another such freak animal in America, not even in the metropolitan zoos or parks.

The owner of Harley Sadler Circus sent their own agents abroad in search of an animal that could be featured. A posse of fifteen men surrounded and captured this animal in the island of Sumatra but not before there was a fierce struggle in which one man lost an arm and afterwards died of blood poisoning. The technical name for this unusual animal is Maues Kuit. This beast is worth a small fortune but the Harley Sadler circus prefers to keep it, knowing it to be the only one of its kind on American soil.

After looking at the animal one is almost impelled to accept the Darwin theory that man is a descendent from the ape family. One of many interesting little details is the fact that every finger and every toe on this animal has a nail the same as a human, with the exception of the great toe of each foot which does not have a nail. Also he is strictly off the meat diet, living on fruits and vegetables.

Some circuses feature the "cat animals" but the Harley Sadler Circus has found that the average human is deeply interested in the numerous kinds of the monkey and ape, gorilla families.

To Be Connected With San Francisco Cal., Exposition

E. M. Botsford of Littlefield, who is in charge of a large number of Indians, composed of several tribes, who take part in the Last Frontier at the Fort Worth Centennial, has announced that the Hopi Troup will return to Keams, Northern Arizona, and the Navahoes to their homes at Ganada, Arizona, October 1, and that the Sioux Indians will remain in Fort Worth until Nov. 30.

Mr. Botsford plans on going to San Francisco in April of next year, when he will take with him 100 Indians, including Sioux, Navajo and Hopi troops, and take part in the exhibition.

the territory allow pupils credit for attending.

Studies in art, music, horticulture, agriculture, livestock, poultry and the many, many more on the grounds will be presented forcefully.

The opening day was dedicated in part to Amarillo schools and Friday is Rural School Day.

Despite the drought agriculture and horticulture exhibits will be larger than they were last year.

Breeders from Baker, Oregon, Lawrence, Kansas, Victoria, Illinois, Parshall, Colorado, Oklahoma City, Eldorado, Kansas, Prentice, Illinois, Kansas City, Missouri, and Inghram, Illinois, will have entries in the livestock division.

These herds will go from Amarillo to the national show in Fort Worth.

By Friday of this week—the day the Tri-State Fair's fall racing meet starts—the United Shows of America will occupy a 1,500-foot front along the amusement zone. The huge carnival company will come direct from Detroit on a 44-car special train.

"From the time the fair opens until it closes the gates will remain wide open. There will be no charge for general admission and all the exhibits will be open free of cost to the public at all times," said Mr. Howe, who explained it was one of the many policies inaugurated by the late Wilbur C. Hawk that is being carried out at this year's exposition.

Salvation Army To Texas Flood Areas

Six members of Salvation Army in west Texas departed last Friday evening for San Angelo where they will be engaged in flood relief work.

Meanwhile the Rev. J. N. Churchill of Crauthersville, Mo., father of Capt. John G. Churchill of Littlefield, has been preaching at revival services every night during the past week.

Included among those to go to San Angelo were Capt. Churchill, Capt. Trummel of Littlefield, Capt. Guy Hepler of Plainview, Lieut. Williams of Lubbock, Cadet Boley of Lubbock and the Salvation Army captain of Big Springs.

MAN ARRESTED IN DENVER WILL BE INVESTIGATED IN CONNECTION WITH SUDAN FIRST NATIONAL BANK ROBBERY

A man arrested in Denver, and wanted at Lovington, New Mexico, will be investigated in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank, Sudan, in which $2,200 was taken.

Announcement of the arrest was made Wednesday by Sheriff F. A. Loyd, who has spent the greater part of his time on the case since the robbery of the bank several weeks ago by a lone bandit.

Sheriff Loyd said that he understood that the man arrested at Denver was wanted in the New Mexico city on a swindling charge.

His description tallies with that of the man sought in the Sudan bank robbery, according to the sheriff.

Arrested by the Denver police department, the man will be brought to the New Mexico city by Federal authorities. He probably will be viewed by those who witnessed the bank robbery to determine whether or not he is the man wanted in the case.

The car said to have figured in the bank robbery was found at Monahans, Texas, by Sheriff Loyd.

At Coleman the treacherous Colorado river, rose to the highest flood stage on record. Lives and property were menaced in its wild sweep through several hundred miles of the richest farming country in Texas.

Hundreds of farm families in the inundated river bottom fled for their lives and only the daring rescue work of boatmen saved some from death in the muddy current which spread widely over thousands of acres of fertile land.

The turbid Conococho river, which caused millions of dollars' damage to San Angelo in the most disastrous rise in its history, was dumping a mass of flood water into the Colorado. Virtually the entire area drained by the Colorado and its tributaries had been drenched by torrential rain, reaching from 16 to 20 inches in some sections.

There was no way of determining the extent of damage but the loss of crops, livestock, homes and bridges and highways was certain to amount into many millions of dollars along the Colorado. Thousands of acres of cotton and corn land were under water, communications to dozens of little towns in the river valley were disrupted and highways were blocked.

Force of the flood had extended downstream several hundred miles to Columbus, washing out two spans of the bridge at Garwood, covering the highway and adjacent farm land. The Garwood levee threatened to break.

Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times checked over the damage in his city and expressed his belief it might amount to nearly $5,000,000. Other estimates had placed the loss at $1,500,000 or $2,000,000.

It was through the efforts of Mr. Seely, second president of the athletic council and ardent sports fan, and his co-workers that the field and stadium were completed.

 The stadium and field are considered the most outstanding Class B athletic equipment in Texas. Improvements on the new field and stadium, which were constructed at a cost of $9,000, were partially carried out as a WPA project.

Besides Mr. Seely, members of the athletic council are Ernest Cundiff, P. S. Hanks, W. H. Madden, Carl Arnold, Ben Lyman and E. S. Rowe.

"Private Number" Coming To Palace Saturday Midnight

What is being acclaimed the screen's "perfect love-team" comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday, in the Fox picture "Private Number." Handsome Robert Taylor and lovely Loretta Young are co-starred and the combination is said to be the outstanding film romantic union since Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell were first cast together.

Romance, in fact, is the keynote of "Private Number", although comedy, drama and suspense are also interwoven in the plot.

Robert Taylor falls in love with his mother's personal maid while on a summer vacation in Maine. The girl is convinced that nothing permanent can possibly come of such a social mixture but she loves Taylor so much that she accedes to his wishes and marries him.

Taylor wants to inform his family immediately but Loretta persuades him that it will be better to wait until he completes his college course. Loretta stays on in her position and Taylor returns to school.

PRACTICE GAME WILL BE HELD AT SEELY FIELD THURSDAY P. M.

J. D. Sanders, local high school football mentor, will give the third-string Wildcats a workout in a practice game with Anton's second team in a football game to be held at Seely field here Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

With no conference games scheduled here this week, Thursday's game will be a "filler" for local football fans as well as giving Coach Sanders an opportunity to see his shock troops in action.

Little can be gleaned from the Anton camp as to their grid strength. However, the tilt gives promise of producing some fast football.

An admission of 10 cents will be made at the gate.
