You and Your Congress

This week has been the most important so far in this session of Congress.

Some decisions have been made, more are reaching the voting stage, for others, the die has been cast.

Four issues stand head and shoulder above the rest—taxes, troops-to-Europe, universal military training and inflation.

It now seems that the forthcoming tax bill will not be as large as once expected. Two months ago, the Administration asked for $75.3 billion to balance the budget. Secretary Snyder said that only $70 billion of that amount should be enacted immediately.

This week, the House Ways and Means Committee recalled the Secretary to find out where he proposed to find the remaining $5.3 billion.

Much to everyone's surprise, Mr. Snyder said that the second part of the package was not new necessary. His reason was the unexpected improvement of $5.7 billion in the government's fiscal position for the prospect that revenues would be at least $13 billion higher than expected over the next 12 months.

Greatly relieved, the Fays and Means Committee went behind closed doors to decide what to do. Some members predicted that their final product would call for no more than $7 billion in new taxes.

And, should Congress show a decided inclination to start cutting federal expenditures, the bill might call for even less than that.

After three months of debate, the Senate finally has passed an advisory resolution approving the sending to Europe of four new divisions of troops. Significantly, however, the Senate added a rider which says that the President must obtain "Senatorial approval" if more than four are dispatched.

Basically, the resolution is a middle-of-the-road compromise. One school of thought had insisted that Congress need not be consulted if the President wants to implement the 7th Atlantic Pact by sending troops to Europe. The other side took the position that the President should not be permitted to take any such action without its approval. In the long days of voting in the Senate, there were many close decisions on various amendments. But when the final roll was called, the vote was 85 to 21.

Although the Senate passed a bill approving both Universal Military Training and Service for youths when they become 18, this Postwar-sponsored program still has a long way to go.

The Representatives, freed from an Eastern recess at home, debated the civil proposition vigorously all this week. (Voting will start next week.) Considerable opposition was building up to the CMT phase of the legislation.

The pending legislation closely resembles the Senate measure, except that it would reduce the induction age to 18 1/2.

The stage is being set for a battle over the Congress over methods of coping with inflation.

Charles E. Wilson, Director of Defense Mobilization, and Eric Johnston, Economic Stabilization Administrator, have been reviewing the inflation situation both publicly and privately. They have agreed that economic stabilization is not getting very far, but they have hopes for the future.

President Truman will use these reports on the situation by both Wilson and Johnston as a basis for recommendations to Congress for continuation—and possible revision—of the Defense Production Act, the most important parts of which expire on June 30. These sections provide the legislative basis for price and wage controls, credit controls and settlement of labor disputes.

Although Congress has almost three months in which to act, that really is not too much time. The big controversy will develop over whether any change should be made in the price ceiling provisions. At issue is whether Congress will continue to insist that food prices not be frozen if the return to the farmer is less than parity. Cellulose may not be imposed on some food prices for that very reason.

SCHOOL DAYS

By DWI

THEM WAS THE HAPPY DAYS

May—Jury Service Month

May was officially designated as Jury Service Month in a proclamation issued today by Governor Allan Shivers.

Secretary of State John Ben Sheppard announced plans for observing the event. Sheppard, who is chairman of the American Citizenship Committee of the State Bar of Texas, revealed the statewide program as a joint project of the bar and Texas newspapers publishers, represented by the Texas Press Association, of which Frederick I. Massengill, Jr., publisher of the Terrell Daily Tribune, is president.

The governor's proclamation followed the passage of a joint resolution by both houses of the Texas Legislature, which stresses the importance of the right to trial by jury and dependence of this right upon willing service as jurors by all eligible citizens.

"The primary objective of the event," Sheppard stated, "is to give new life to the jury service system so that our democratic process of free courts will survive."

General objectives are: (1) that no Texas will ask to be excused from jury service during the month of May; (2) to make a study of the types of individuals seeking to be excused; (3) to urge employers to insist that their employees accept jury service, and to pay them while serving; (4) to urge lawyers to insist that their clients accept jury service; (5) to find new and better ways to encourage eligible jurors to serve; (6) to make the public conscious of the fact that seeking to be excused from jury service will, in time, cause them to lose that right.

In discussing "Jury Service Month," Sheppard said, "Apathy and unwillingness to serve on a jury are a real detriment to our free court system. A man who tries to be excused from serving on another's jury is in measure denying him the right to trial by jury."

adopt the policy of ordering the meal and letting the lady eat it or leave it. Fair enough say the girls who understand the shrinking dollar is a problem.

Blind dates get a bit of advice, too. If a boy doesn't want to date a strange girl because he doesn't want to throw his money away on a date who might not appeal to him, he can take a cue from the girls. Why not, they ask, make the first date an ice-cream soda affair. It gives you a chance to find out if you like the girl before you spend a month's allowance on her. After you get a chance to know one another then you can decide whether you want to break the piggy bank for a big date.

All of this is very timely advice judging by the numbers of letters written by girls complaining about their dates thoughtlessness and rudeness. Sometimes a boy is just plain rude when he meets his blind date and decides she doesn't measure up to his usual standards. The first date "on a shoestring" would eliminate that crushed feeling the boy has when he sees his wallet emptied for theatre tickets, dinner and dancing for a strange girl whom he never wants to see again.

As for giving the girls notice of a date, that is the least a fellow can do, although most of them are pretty darn inconsiderate. The Majority of girls get an inferiority complex when called the last minute for a date. They'd love to accept, particularly if it is a nice boy. But it puts them on the spot. Has he tried everyone else before calling and should she encourage him in spite of the fact that he is thoughtless in calling her so late? Then again, if she turns him down, will he call again?

It is unfair to put girls on the spot this way. But if girls would make a pact to stand together on this and other issues involving dating, boys might get the pitch. The trouble is there always are a couple of girls who spoil it for the rest of a group.

The sooner girls get back to the old-fashioned school of letting the boys pursue them, the better. The way matters stand today young romances think nothing of calling a girl the last minute, making a date with her, and then breaking it when something better comes

Farmers Are Warned Against Selling Cottonseed to Out of Area Buyers

Cotton seed buyers from Oklahoma and Central Texas are scouring the South Plains for planting seed, said K. N. Clapp, Lubbock cotton authority with Anderson-Clayton and Company.

He warns farmers and holders of seed against selling to out-of-state and out-of-territory buyers. "We are going to need all the seed we have right here," he said. "If someone has some seed to sell or has to sell, they should sell to someone here on the South Plains."

Klapp estimates there is enough seed on the South Plains for nearly three plantings. Farmers have 2 1/2 plantings on hand and oil mills have enough seed for about a fourth of a planting.

"They figure we average two plantings a year before we get a rough year we'll need more than two plantings."

Much of the locally produced seed is showing a low germination percentage. This further increases the need for additional seed.

Klapp expects many dryland farmers will plant in late April if they have planting moisture. This is earlier than the planting date recommended by the Lubbock experiment station, but Clapp said, "If a dryland farmer has planting moisture then you cannot blame him for planting because he is afraid he will lose his moisture if he doesn't."

Don Jones, superintendent of the experiment station, believes the optimum planting time is from May 15 to 20. Many farmers will begin planting earlier in May and usually there is some planting as late as June 20.

Cattle 'Burp' Better With Dry Roughage

You can't "burp" a bull by slinging him over your shoulder the way mothers and sometimes even fathers, get gas off the stomach of children.

Lush legume pastures frequently cause bloating of cattle and sheep. Losses can be severe. Scour and poor feed use often occur when pasture forage is young and "washy." You can prevent both losses by using good management and feeding practices.

Dry roughage, such as cottonseed hulls or hay, helps to prevent bloat and furnishes dry matter needed to control scours. North Carolina State College Veterinarian C. D. Grinnell recommends cottonseed hulls treated with molasses. Molasses increases consumption of the hulls. Adding cottonseed meal to the hulls does the same thing.

Dry roughage causes the cow or sheep to belch or "burp" as the gas is formed in the paunch. Most authorities believe this belching is caused by the rough edges of the roughage tickling the stomach lining. Dry roughage also absorbs some of the moisture and helps to hold "washy" green forage in the digestive tract until it can be digested and absorbed.

Avoid starting legume grazing when the forage is wet with dew or rain. Moisture tends to increase the occurrence of bloat. Usually, it is best to start grazing legumes about mid-day.

Don't turn hungry cattle or sheep on young legume pasture.

NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENT—Rev. John A. Guinn (above) will be inaugurated as president of the Texas State College for Women in Denton, Texas, April 27. More than 2,500 special invitations have been sent to noted educators for the ceremony. (AP Photo)

Fill them first with dry roughage. If they are well filled, you probably won't have trouble with bloat. But, it is desirable to watch them carefully and take them off the legume pasture after an hour or two the first day.

Put the animals back on the legumes the second day after again filling with dry roughage. Most feeders find it best to let them stay on the pasture at all times after this breaking in period. If they are removed from the legume pasture for several days, it is necessary to use the same caution in starting them on the pasture again.

Many cattle and sheep producers like to self-feed dry roughage to animals on excellent improved pastures. They will not eat much of the dry roughage but will consume enough to provide the needed dry bulk. Mixing cottonseed meal or molasses with the hulls or ground hay increases consumption. Ten to twenty pounds of meal may be mixed each hundred pounds of hulls.

L. T. Lewis of Roswell, New Mexico produced fast gains with ewes and lambs grazing irrigated alfalfa. He kept a mixture of 80 per cent cottonseed hulls and 20 per cent cottonseed meal available to the sheep at all times. No serious bloat occurred.

W. B. Price of Lubbock, Texas used irrigated pasture and self-fed meal and hulls to produce an average daily gain of two pounds on steers during a nine month grazing period. Bloating or scouring steers don't make two pounds daily gains.

Self-feeding the roughage on pasture saves labor and insures consumption of the roughage when it is needed most. However, some prefer to hand-feed in order to maintain a daily check on the animals and regulate consumption at the desired amount. When hand-fed, cattle need five to ten pounds of hulls, daily. Sheep need one-half to one pound of dry roughage when forage is young and when forage is young and

Mrs. Viggo prepared a chili supper, which was enjoyed by the group.

"washy." As forage becomes older, dry roughage feeding may be reduced. Some animals are chronic bloaters on almost any feed. Bloat may be reduced in most such cases by tying a stick loosely in the animal's mouth. As the animal works to get the stick out of the mouth, belching is started. Veterinarians will prescribe medicines to be used in cases of severe bloat. Also, it is desirable to keep a trocar or knife convenient to stick animals which cannot be saved by other methods.

Israel Faces Sulphur Shortage

TEL AVIV—(P)—Israel's sulphur crisis has been worsened recently due to a cutback in U. S. exports. In an attempt to ease the shortage, a Haifa chemical company is considering the production of sulphuric acid from iron pyrites, found in Cyprus, North Africa and Spain.

Israel needs sulphuric acid to produce fertilizer and for the manufacture of many other industrial products. Government authorities find some consolation in the fact that about 2,500 tons of Dead Potash for fertilizer can soon be turned over to Israeli farmers.

Sick Japanese Sailor Interred

SINGAPORE—(P)—The first Japanese to come ashore in Singapore since the war did so because he was sick. A Japanese sailor, 19-year-old Yoji Toyama, was taken off the 6,343-ton Japanese freighter Tatumiya Maru.

Toyama suffered an acute appendicitis attack. Even though he was sick, he had to be treated as an enemy as no peace treaty has been signed with Japan. Now this Japanese sailor will have to remain in Outram Road prison, until he is repatriated on one of the Japs by Singapore.

JURY SERVICE EXCUSES NIXED—Jury Service Month will be co-sponsored, in May, by the Texas Press Association and the American Citizenship Committee of the State Bar of Texas. Discussing the project with Fred Massengill, Jr., Terrell Tribune publisher and president of the press association, are Ernest John Ben Shepperd, right. Shepperd is chairman of the American Citizenship committee and Sanders is chairman of the bar's Jury Service Month sub-committee. Prime objective of the program is that no Texan will ask to be excused from jury service during the month of May. The press association and the bar are inviting churches and civic organizations to participate, by urging their members to take renewed interest in preserving our system of free courts by willingly accepting jury service. Many civic clubs will have Jury Service Month programs with lawyers as speakers.

Another Sudan Club, the 1835 Study Club won first place in Senior Division for Club Reports.

Amherst Junior Study Club won second place in the Junior Reports Division, and 2nd place for Yearbook, which was prepared by the Junior Club.

Mrs. E. J. Stone of Sudan and Mrs. Lee Foster of Canyon, divided prize honors for the composition of a song dedicated to Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, State Federation president.

All of the prizes were announced at an Awards Luncheon, which was the concluding feature of the District Convention.

The Littlefield Club also received a certificate, for their showing of a 100 per cent subscription to the magazine "The Texas Clubwoman."

The convention was one of the most successful in the history of this District, with 558 registered during the 3-day meeting.

In commenting upon the convention, Mrs. L. L. Messingill, who will succeed to the presidency of the Littlefield Club, stated that the entire convention was a big success, but outstanding program events in her opinion, were the address to the club women made by M. K. Weltzel, of Austin, who chose as his subject "Texas Tidelands," and "Just Grand" was the words she employed in commenting upon the talk given by Mrs. Jefferson D. Atwood of Roswell, New Mexico, chairman of the Western Youth Conservation Board, with her chosen subject: "Youth in Today's World."

A beautiful lace tablecloth was on display that was admired by all. It was created by the daughters of the President of the District, Mrs. James A. Allen, which will be gifted to the State Club House at Austin. The lace alone is valued at $180.00.

gin plant, then through the Moss Dual Lint cleaner which he invented. The result was almost a "miracle." The cotton came out soft and fluffy and free from dirt and trash.

Moss did not invent the cotton cleaner by accident. He started working on the idea in May, 1950, and spent most of the past summer in Amite, La., in the Gullet Gin Machinery manufacturing plant, where he built the cleaner.

Ginners are amazed at the improvement made in the sample of cotton. Jack Dempsey, owner of gins in Lockney and Woodrow, declared, "the fibre is not injured and the cleaner is automatic."

The Moss cleaner removes very little cotton from the bale being processed, while present type cleaners remove 20 to 50 pounds per bale, it is declared.

At present he is confronted with priorities in materials with which to build his cleaners. He has had offers from large gin machinery companies but plans to build and market the cleaners himself.

Important Message To Ice Users
New Ice Delivery Plan . . .
Ice Service Reorganized

In an effort to give better service to the most customers, we have organized a scheduled, basic, ice delivery service. We no longer use the ice window cards, but instead use a route book which contains a list of all customers and the time in which they are to receive ice. New customers are added in their proper place.

BASIC RULES NECESSARY

We must have certain basic rules in order that we may serve everyone fairly. We cannot make special deliveries for two reasons. It would interrupt our schedule, and would incur extra expense, in the amount that it would make the sale highly unprofitable. Any delivery other than at the regular delivery time would be considered "Special". Exceptions to this rule may be made only in the case of very urgent need.

50 POUNDS MINIMUM

There will be a minimum of 50 pounds required on crushed ice deliveries. A minimum of 25 pounds of solid ice deliveries except in the case of regular water cooler customers who must purchase a coupon book, or pay 15 cents for 12½ pounds. Coupon books will be sold only in the amounts of ice required in delivery.

WE WILL DO OUR UTMOST TO WORK OUT ANY INDIVIDUAL PROBLEM IN ICE SERVICE

BASIC ROUTES WORKED OUT

The following basic routes have been worked out on the theory that they will meet the requirements of the majority of customers:

- First Morning Business Run—All business places open before 7:30 o'clock;
- Residence—Every other day alternately, West Side and East Side. Between 9 a. m. and noon.
- Evening Business Run—Starts about 3:30 p. m. and is service for business places requiring ice twice daily, or afternoons only.

MUST CALL PLANT EARLY

Customers requiring ice at infrequent intervals will be required to call the plant in time for the driver to load the extra ice before leaving on the scheduled delivery. This rule also applies to once a day customers who occasionally require ice at the other delivery time.

WE AIM TO PLEASE

The problems of ice service are many. It is our aim to please everyone as nearly as possible. If you have an individual problem or feel that your ice service is not what you expect, please call the manager and discuss the problem with him.

FAST SERVICE ON CRUSHED ICE

We have plenty of regular ice paper bags in 12½ and 25 pound sizes for crushed ice at the dock. Your own container will be necessary for larger amounts. There will usually be ice crushed and waiting in the paper bags. If not only about 15 seconds are required to crush a bag of ice.

Please Drive In on the East Side of the Retail Dock
