LOCAL MAN IS INJURED TRUCK MISHAP THURS.

T. L. Kimmel, Sr. Has Pelvis Bone Fractured In Three Places

T. L. Kimmel, Sr., 52, Littlefield Church of Christ minister, is in the Littlefield hospital recovering from injuries received in a truck accident at Floydada about 6 o'clock Thursday morning.

Suffers Fractured Pelvis Bone
Mr. Kimmel, operating a kerosene transport truck for L. A. Purcell, Magnolia agent, Sudan, and enroute from Wichita Falls, sustained three fractures of the pelvis bone, when the truck left the curve just east of Floydada, smashed through a Coca Cola sign, knocked down a gas pump in front of Custer's Service station, and smashed into the front of the building.

A barrel of kerosene was thrown from the truck as it smashed into the building, smashing down on the broken off part of the gas pump and emptied its contents into the storage tank below ground.

Gas Runs Into Tank
Custer said his tank showed 100 gallons more than when he measured it the night previous to the accident.

Mr. Kimmel's watch, the crystal broken, but still running, was found on the roof of the service station.

Treated at Floydada Clinic
Immediately following the accident Mr. Kimmel was treated at the Floydada Clinic, and later on the same day was brought to the Littlefield hospital.

Wednesday Hottest Day In Several Years; 108 Reported

The temperature in Littlefield just can't get any hotter than 110, it was revealed Wednesday afternoon, as a Leader reporter and the office force at the West Texas Gas company watched the official thermometer reach the 108 mark and slowly climb to a little past that number at four o'clock. When it reaches 110, the thermometer can't go any higher.

Anyway, Wednesday was the hottest day of the year in this town. In fact, it was the hottest day in three or four years, Bob Lewis, manager of the Gas company reported.

Temperatures for the past week, as recorded at the West Texas Gas company, were as follows:

Thursday, low 68, high 102; Friday, low 66, high 104; Saturday, low 67, high 103; Sunday, low 64, high 101; Monday, low 66, high 98; Tuesday, low 66, high 97; Wednesday, low 69 and high 108.

AVOIDS PARKED CAR; CRASHES INTO CULVERT

Sam R. Rumback Dies Instantly As Result Of Chest Injuries

The entire citizenship of Littlefield was stricken with grief Saturday evening to learn of the tragic death of one of its pioneer business men, Sam R. Rumback, 56, who died instantly about 9:15 o'clock as result of injuries sustained when the car in which he was riding, crashed into a culvert about five miles west of Levelland, on the Morton highway.

Gaither Driver of Car
Reports indicate that Travis Gaither, also of Littlefield, was driver of the car, which was owned by Mr. Rumback. Mr. Gaither and Ben Addington, another occupant, and also of this city, were only slightly injured.

Mr. Rumback was riding beside Gaither and Addington was in the rear seat.

Tries to Avoid Parked Car
According to Mr. Gaither, the car suddenly approached a parked car at the side of the highway, and he swerved his car to the right to avoid hitting the parked vehicle, but hit the bridge abutment instead.

Car Rolls 120 Feet
The car is reported to have turned over several times, and to have rolled 130 feet after the impact. Mr. Rumback was thrown clear of the wreckage, and was picked up some distance from the car, and rushed to a Levelland hospital, where it was found he had died instantly from a crushed chest. The car was completely demolished.

After taking Mr. Rumback to the hospital at Levelland, the party returned to the scene of the accident, but the parked car had disappeared.

Mr. Rumback had left Littlefield about 12 o'clock noon Saturday, on a business trip. According to his daughter, Mrs. Max Wood, he planned on first going to Lubbock to take care of some business, and from there to call on stores handling his bread in several of the smaller cities and communities, including Whiteface, Morton, Sundown and others. He had been to Levelland and visited his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Rumback, and from there had attended to some business at neighboring towns. He had told his son

LETTERS SENT TO WASHINGTON BY 112 FARMERS

Pep Community Agricultural Ass'n Meets Every Last Monday Night

The Pep Community Agricultural Association of Pep, Texas, with a membership of 24, met in an open call session Monday night, June 12 and adopted a resolution requesting Congress to appropriate the necessary funds for the 1938 Parity payment without further delay and urging the payment of it as soon as possible. Jim N. Bowen was elected vice chairman and A. G. Jungman reporter at the meeting.

The necessity of the paying of the 1938, which was promised in the 1938 referendum provided Congress would appropriate funds for such payment, was fully discussed. According to Mr. Jungman, due to the drought and the present prospects for a crop in 1939, the members feel that it is really important that this money be appropriated.

The adopted resolution was signed by all farmers at the meeting, members and non-members alike. All farmers present also pledged themselves to write letters to Congressman George Mahon, Marvin Jones, chairman of the agricultural board and secretary of agriculture Wallace. They were also requested to call on friends and neighbors, explain the movement and ask them to write letters to expedite the payment. Mr. Jungman reported that by 10 a. m. Wednesday there were at least 112 letters written or promised to be written within the next two days.

The association set the last Monday night of each month as the time for the regular meeting, which will be held at the Pep school. An invitation to attend is extended to all who are interested in this phase of the agricultural situation.

MAY PLANT FEED CROP ON COTTON GOVT. ALLOTMENT

Crops So Grown Can Be Harvested For Sale Or Used On Farm

According to V. F. Jones, county agent, a large number of inquiries have been received from farmers asking what they may plant on their cotton acreage allotments in case it does not rain, and there is not enough moisture to plant cotton.

In this connection, Mr. Jones said, "they can plant any kind of feed crops that they want to. It can be harvested for sale or used on the farm, just the same as if no government program was involved. The farmer will draw all benefit payments just the same as though he planted his cotton."

Horse Living To Old Age

"Snake," 27 Year Old Grey Spanish Horse, Is Owned by C. M. Edwards—Can Catch What He Goes After and Keep Rope Plenty Tight

Horses sometimes live to a ripe old age. One outstanding example is "Snake," 27 year old grey Spanish horse owned by C. M. Edwards, who owns and operates a horse and mule sales barn a short distance west of Littlefield.

Snake had a birthday May 27, but the only fuss he made about the event was a couple of extra snorts to let his owner know that he expected to be hereabouts and very much alive for a long time.

And there's every evidence that Snake will keep his word. Teeth in Good Condition

SECOND INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

Barry Haveril leaves his Texas home to see the country, meets a man who has just been shot who turns out to be a cousin of his, Jesse Conroy. Barry helps take care of his wounds and Jesse gives Barry his gun, a very unusual one. When they part Barry leaves for home but finds the family is no longer there. When he is leaving he suddenly comes across a dead man who turns out to be his brother Robert.

He knew it was Robert the instant he glimpsed the sprawling form, even before he looked for any face, and he knew too that he was dead. So it was a burning-eyed, blanched-faced, tragic boy who burst in upon the Humphreys, saying thickly as they stared at him: "He's dead, Robert, he's dead. Somebody killed him. Who? I want to know who? You tell me, Tex Humphreys!" Molly went back with him and Tex to where the body lay, a Molly who was all melting black eyes from which the tears streamed unceasingly.

Tex sat a long while on his heels, then looked straight up into Barry's hardened face.

"He rode off this way late yesterday," he said, speaking softly and drawingly. "Somebody bush-whacked. Stood right over yander, by that big tree. Shot him clean through the head."

He got up and moved about, looking for signs. "Here's where he stood, Barry. He was afoot; didn't have any hoss. An' Robert did; he was ridin' my Coaly. My bes' hoss, my Mex saddle an' bridle—all gone! Somebody might mebbe thought he was worth killin' for that outfit; somebody afoot that wanted a hoss real bad; somebody mebbe the law was after."

"We c'n follow the tracks," said Barry. "We c'n see which way he rode off."

Tex agreed in all heartiness. They hastened back to Humphreys' ranch for horses. They put in a dogged, determined day, and in the end turned back little wiser than when they started.

That night Barry shook his head at Tex Humphreys' invitation to stay, and turned under the stars toward his own place.

He walked half the night before he rolled exhausted into his blankets and slept. When he awoke he was so stiff and sore that he could scarcely stand; he had less use for a horse than ever before, and vowed he would never fork another. In a pink dawn with a chill mountain wind blowing he breakfasted and rolled his pack and went on.

It was almost a day's trip, north and west, to the spot where he had watched the two border crossbreeds engaged in their primitive gold-gleaning operations.

Down in the ravine he set his rifle aside, pulled off his worn boots, rolled up his overalls and went to work. He didn't have a pan as the others had, but he did have big strong capable hands. He found a sandy place between two big rocks, scooped up a lot of the wet sand and smeared it out thin and smooth on top of the flatter boulder. Then he began picking through it, disturbing particles with a horny fingernail, seeking the soft reddish pellets.

Next morning he tried higher upstream. For hours he mounted, trying in all sorts of places. Before noon he found a pothole under water at the lower end of a pool. He spent about two hours at that hole, thinking that he might as well clean it out while he was at it; he could find another next time. Then figuring that he must have about all the gold he would need for the things he wanted in town, he started back cabinward. Hardly started, he stopped and looked back, undecided. He'd want to get a lot of shells for his new six-gun, a terrible lot of 'em; he wondered whether he had gold enough.

The next morning he set out. It was a long walk to Tylersville; Jesse had told him it must be 30-40 mile.

He drew back as though afraid.

Tylersville, a ragged and crooked cow town, sprawled in what had been once known as Cottonwood Flats.

When a buckboard came dashing around a far corner in an enormous cloud of dust, he drew back against a wall as though afraid of being run down, even on a sidewalk. Then seeing it close as it shot on by, he was impressed by its elegance. Two sleek, beautiful, matched bays with floating silver manes drew it; an imposing figure of a man drove it, a handsome big blond man.

At his side was a little girl; she looked very little indeed beside the man's imposing bulk, and about all that Barry could make of her as she went past was that she too wore blue and that she had a big white hat from which blue ribbons streamed, and that she was laughing.

Men clumped along the sidewalk, most of them dusty and in high-heeled boots with dragging spurs, with big hats, the brims pushed back, and with flapping, open vests. He stopped fascinated before a window full of things to make his mouth water; some of them looked almost too pretty to eat.

Barry went in. At one side was a counter, at the other a series of small tables with low partitions jutting out from the wall to separate them. He sat down and when a waiter came said, after drawing a long breath:

"I want a hunk of chocolate cake and a hunk of the white cake that's yellow inside and some soddy water." He had disposed of perhaps half of the chocolate cake and two-thirds of the white one, when he saw the big blond man and the little girl come in; they went to a table next to his but were hidden, when they sat down, by the partition. The waiter almost ran to serve them.

Barry wolfed down the rest of his cake and caught the waiter's eye. "I didn't bring any real money along," he said, keeping his voice down. "You can take the price out of this."

He held a little pile of dust and fine grains of gold in his palm. Instinctively he refrained from showing all he had.

The waiter looked startled. "Wait a shake," he said, and departed. Barry, leaning out from his cubby-hole, saw him go out on the sidewalk and disappear; he was seeking the proprietor.

Presently a stocky, sandy haired man with slate-blue eyes and a constant blink, came and stood over Barry and peered at what was in his hand.

"Two pieces o' fancy cake an' soddy?" he said. He scooped the contents of Barry's hand into his own. "All right, buddy; we'll call it square this time," he said.

And then Barry was conscious of the big blond man, the Judge, standing up, towering over the partition. Barry looked straight into a pair of bold, very dark brown eyes.

"What is it, Al?" the Judge asked the proprietor. "Doesn't happen to be gold now, does it?"

Al whirled about. "Hello, Judge," he said. "I didn't see you and Miss Lucy."

"I reckon not." The Judge smiled after a fashion to warm a man. At least, so Barry thought. Al said hurriedly:

"I was jus' goin' to step out an' get it weighed so's I could give this young feller his change."

"Sure," smiled the Judge. "Sure." He extended his hand and Al said, "Shore, Judge," and gave him the gold. Scarcely glancing at it, the Judge returned it to Barry.

"Step right next door into the General Hardware Store," he said. "You can get it weighed there and you'll get honest weight. I'll pay for your lunch here."

"I'm obliged, Judge," said Barry, "but I like to pay my own way." The Judge laughed; Barry saw

"Didn't say," answered Barry. "Got any shells for it?"

"That gun belonged once to a killer, kid. They call him the Laredo Kid."

"What's he look like?" asked Barry.

"Never saw him, an' glad of it. You ain't him, are you?"

"No. And I guess there's other guns like this. Let's see your shells."

He holstered the six-gun; he meant to holster further discussion along with it.

Just then the Judge came in. "Hello, Digby," he said. "I told this young man you could handle his gold for him. Fix him up all right?"

"Evenin', Judge," said Digby. "Let the Judge see your gun, kid."

"He says one like this belonged to the Laredo Kid," said Barry, and held it out for the Judge to look at.

The Judge seemed interested; he handled the heavy weapon just as the storekeeper had done, then handed it back without saying anything.

"I asked him where he got it at," said Digby.

The Judge's lips, twitched into a smile. "What did he say?" he asked of Digby though he was looking straight at Barry.

"He didn't say," snorted Digby, and the Judge laughed softly. "All right, all right," muttered Digby. "Poor out your dust, young feller, an' I'll tell you how much."

This time Barry emptied his pouch on a piece of wrapping paper, making a small neat gold hill. Digby jerked up his brows but said nothing; he did look sharply at the Judge. This time it was the Judge who spoke, briskly.

"Look here young fellow, I don't know where you got that—" "It's mine all right," said Barry. To Digby he said. "Are you goin' to weigh it?"

"But I am going to tell you something." The Judge's voice was compelling and Barry looked at that pair of bold, leaf-brown eyes. "You went the right place when you showed your gold in the restaurant if you want word of it all over town inside half an hour. Well, it's your business and you look behind the ears." He turned away went out, merely saying over his shoulder from the door: "If you're in trouble it's your own doing, mine. But let me know. Just let anybody you're a friend of mine, might help."

"Who's he?" asked Barry of the storekeeper. The other stared.

"Hell, don't you know him? He's Judge Parker Blue."

"Thought so," nodded Barry. "How much in money does he weigh?"

"Four hundred fifty dollars snorted the storekeeper. "Want take it all out in ca'tridges, huh?"

"Give me the money," Barry said. "Then I'll do some buyin'."

JAYCEES AND PHILLIPS 66 LEAD IN SOFTBALL AS SEASON GETS IN SWING

Editor's Note: We regret very much that through a mechanical department error the report of softball events was omitted from last week's issue of the Lamb County Leader. As an expression of our interest in softball and our co-operation with the teams, supporters, and fans, we are publishing last week's report herewith.

MORLEY B. DRAKE
Publisher

Consider the softball season in full swing! For the past week's schedule shows that the teams in the league have learned ropes, although the batters still seem to be ahead of the pitchers rounding into form, and—while numerous errors in fielding have caused the scores to mount rather high, the teams will no doubt prove to be well-matched before the half is well on its way.

The CCC Camp team, winners of last year's league, have been playing in hard luck, losing two close games, the first to Phillips 66, and the other in a mighty slug-fest to the Wreckers.

The directors announced this week, that while the association is charging for these softball games, they would appreciate any suggestions made by the people attending on the nights the hats are worn. The support thus given will make it possible to maintain softball as a free entertainment for the public.

The directors especially ask the cooperation of all parents. Someone should see the light bulbs out of the grandstand, and several boys and young men have been climbing the fence of the high school athletic field. As no one is permitted to enter this property, the directors request that you not only warn your children, but look after them. The officials are cooperating with the directors.

The Phillips "66" and Jaycee teams are leading the league, having won two games each and lost one. Morris & Son and the CCC Camp teams are tied for the cellar.

The following article was released through the International News service June 1, from Washington:

"Texas lassies 'invaded' the national capital Thursday to serenade Vice President Garner with a song—'The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You.'"

"Colorful in their scarlet jackets, blue bandanas and skirts and wide leather belts, the 157 girls from the Thomas Jefferson High School, San Antonio, arrived here en route to the New York World's Fair, where they will perform rope tricks and give fife and drum concerts. With every one of them twirling a lariat, the girls put on a drill in the Capitol Plaza and then called on Garner.

The Vice President said: "I held hands with some of the pretty girls, but I know Mrs. Garner won't mind, because she will know it was just Texas enthusiasm as one Texan greeted another."

Youth Marches On With New Farming Methods

What does it mean to a community for one farm family to avoid going on relief? No one can give an exact answer to that question. However, it challenges our serious thought.

We all know the family is better off to remain on the farm, but what of their neighborhood? Isn't it benefitted too? Anything that helps the individual also helps the community. But there is something that goes a lot deeper than that.

We usually think of the rehabilitated farm family in terms of the father and the mother. We congratulate them on their self-attained comeback—and such congratulations are decidedly in order. There is a tendency, however, to forget what it all means to those farm boys and girls in the family. Perhaps it really means more to them than to the parents.

According to a recent publication of the National Youth Administration, the rural districts are put to considerable expense in rearing and educating the boys and girls who later go to the city. This publication indicates that the country district spends more than $2,000 apiece on those boys and girls. If they were in the city from the time they were day-old infants, the city would have to spend the $2,000 apiece on them for food, shelter and schooling to bring them up to working age. Dr. E. O. Baker of the Department of Agriculture, says the pamphlet, estimates that the movement of population from country to city from 1920 to 1930 carried to the cities human values that had cost over twelve billion dollars in private and public cash spent by rural districts.

Another fact pointed out is that these young people carry with them certain property rights, chiefly inheritance rights. They are often the children who inherit the old farm, and if they sell or rent that farm to some citizen of the district or neighborhood, more rural cash goes to city people.

Not long ago the National Youth Administration conducted a survey in which thousands of farm youths were asked the question: "Do you want to live on a farm?" Hardly one in ten said he wanted to farm.

Yet when the question was asked differently, the answers were quite different. They were asked: "Suppose you could have a chance to learn scientific methods for a year. And then suppose you could lease a farm with proper stock and equipment for two or three years to see if you could make a go of it—and have a chance to buy the farm on easy terms without having to pay an unreasonable rate of interest. How would you feel about farming then?"

More than half the boys answered that they would much prefer farming. Most of us realize what the average farm boy and farm girl must face. Many of them have seen their parents go broke on farms that had previously produced good livings. They have listened to parents or grandparents tell about settling the new country. Right on top of these stories our young people are reminded that they are too late—there is no new geographical frontier to go to.

They are also reminded that the soil is washing or wearing away, and that erosion control is absolutely necessary. It is apparent to the young folks of our farms that something must be done to build back the fertility of the soil.

The fact that farming, if it is profitable, is attractive to the youth of today gives us much to think about. The Farm Security Administration in making up the farm and home plans, which are the basis for all loans, attempts to find some profitable employment for every member of the family every day in the year.

It is teaching them, in their own homes, some of the essential technical processes necessary to modern-day farming.

The Farm Security Administration

Texas Cowboy Reunion At Stamford July 3 To Feature Fiddlers Contest

Several fiddlers already are preparing to compete in the annual old fiddlers contest at Stamford, which will be held here July 5 as part of the program of the Texas Cowboy Reunion which meets July 3, 4 and 5. The contest is limited to musicians 50 years of age or over and music must be of the "break-down" variety.

The contest will be held this year for the first time at the cowboy bunkhouse on the Reunion grounds instead of at the downtown auditorium. It is the Reunion's biggest free attraction. Beginning at 8:30 a. m., it usually lasts until noon.

Prizes totalling $32.50 will be awarded, first prize being $15, second $10, third $5 and fourth $2.50. No entry fee is charged. Each contestant is allowed to play two tunes of his own selection. He may play alone or select a second, but only one accompanist is allowed. Jim Stoll of Stamford is chairman of the committee in charge of the contest.

Among the fiddlers who already have notified Mr. Stoll that they will compete this year are G. A. Ward, Weinert, age 65; Aut Dial, Stamford, 67; Sam Meadows, Lueders, 59; Alva Anderson, Stamford, 66; and Ike Evans, Denton.

The honoree and her husband were both present at the shower, which was followed by a picnic.

tion is not an answer to all problems of rural youth. But its work with the parents is one move toward stopping the drain on rural resources which every year's migration of young people to the city makes.

CCC Softball Teams Clash In Lubbock Saturday

The Littlefield CCC softball team trampled hard on the Lubbock CCC's Saturday night, when they came home with a score of 14 to 1. This is the first time the local CCC team has played the Lubbock camp team in several years.

Most of the boys who played from the local camp are those playing in the Littlefield softball league games. And, although they have lost two and won two games, so far, in the local league, they are still striving for the lead. They won the tournament last year.

Ropesville And Sudan Lead In Amateur League

Ropesville and Sudan retained their 100 per cent standing in the South Plains Amateur Baseball League Sunday by defeating Dimmitt and Amherst respectively, while Littlefield toppled Muleshoe from the perfect column.

Sudan and Amherst furnished a big crowd of fans a 11 inning thriller. The Reds went into the last of the ninth with a three-run lead, but the Sluggers staged a hitting spree then with two men already out to tie the count. Ernest Minyard, who pitched for Sudan and struck out 15 men, held the Reds scoreless in the tenth and eleventh, while Sudan got to George Harmon, Amherst relief pitcher, in the last of the eleventh for a run to win the game. This was Amherst's first defeat in the league, as they had defeated Littlefield the week before.

Running a close second to the Sudan game, was the one between Muleshoe and Littlefield. Although Muleshoe had a three run lead when the Littlefield lads went to bat in the last of the ninth, the Wildcats won by staging a four run rally. This was Muleshoe's first defeat of the season.

Whiteface came back Sunday after a taste of defeat the week before at Ropesville to defeat a stubborn Morton club 7-4.

Ropesville continued to pace the league with a decisive victory over the Dimmitt lads with a score of 13-3.

Sudan and Ropesville are in the number one slot, while Amherst, Muleshoe, Littlefield and Whiteface are on the 500 mark. Dimmitt and Morton are in the cellar, having lost their first two games.

Next Sunday, June 18, Sudan plays at Muleshoe, Whiteface at Amherst, Littlefield at Ropesville and Dimmitt at Morton.

Sunday, June 25, Ropesville plays at Sudan, Muleshoe at Whiteface, Amherst at Dimmitt and Morton at Littlefield.

Muleshoe Man Is Held in Lubbock Jail On Rape Charge

A. W. Coker, about 45, manager of a wholesale oil company at Muleshoe was held in Lubbock county jail Wednesday under a charge of attempted rape of a 13 year old Muleshoe girl.

He was spirited to Lubbock by M. G. Baas, Muleshoe deputy sheriff, and J. C. Buchanan, office deputy of Muleshoe, after he had been shot, suffering a flesh wound in the left thigh.

Deputy Baas reported that the complaint was sworn by L. R. Bartley, night watchman who is said to have fired one of the three shots snapped at Coker, when he and his brother, Constable J. I. Bartley, attempted to arrest Coker at Coker's office.

It was reported that the girl who will be complaining witness had gone to the Coker residence to visit Coker's daughter. Coker was the only person there, the account continued. He allegedly attempted criminal assault on the girl, but she escaped without being injured, and ran to the residence of neighbors.

Constable Bartley and Night Watchman Bartley went to Coker's office. Coker is reported to have seen them and ran. Shots sounded and Coker is alleged to have fallen only to get up and continue his flight. Coker was arrested in a barn several blocks away.

Teachers Are Named To Fill Vacancies Here

In a call meeting of the Littlefield school board Thursday night, several teachers were elected to teach during the 1939-1940 term to fill vacancies. Bob Harlow of Brownwood, was named assistant coach and will teach in the high school. Mr. Harlow has a degree from the Howard Payne College in Brownwood, and for the past two years has been coach in the Tahoka school.

Others elected were Miss Ida Lee Rollins of Whitharral, who is a graduate of Texas Tech, and who has been teaching at Whitharral the past five years; Miss Anna Mae Flesher of Stamford, who has a degree from the West Texas State College in Canyon, and who has been teaching at Hart for the past two years; and Miss Ellereus Vause, who received her degree in May from the Texas State College for women in Denton.

The Littlefield Yellow Jackets, local colored baseball team, will play its first home games of the season at the local ball park Sunday and Monday afternoons, June 18-19.

The first game of the two days series is scheduled with Muleshoe Sunday afternoon at 2:30. On Monday, in celebration of Emancipation Day, a double-header will be played with teams from Plainview, Brownfield and Littlefield participating. Littlefield will play Brownfield in the first game with Plainview contesting the winner in the second game.

In their last game in April, the Yellow Jackets scored a decisive victory over the Clovis, N. M. team winning 17 to 2.

Manager J. W. Dodson announced that Edgar Toliver and P. J. Wilson would be the Littlefield batteries for the opening game.

Oklahoma Flats Take Doubleheader Sunday Afternoon

The Oklahoma Flats baseball team charged two victories Sunday in a double-header, witnessed by one of the largest crowds of fans ever to assemble in that community.

It took nine innings for the Oklahoma Flats boys to score a 14-3 game with Whitharral, but the fans were held spell-bound in the close setto with Claueen, when the vamping pitchers battle broke in the seventh inning with a score of 2 to 1.

Manager C. L. Pryor reported that another double-header was scheduled for this Sunday afternoon, and more fans are expected to be on hand to see the brand of baseball that is generally played by teams in mid-season, rather than among the season's first.

The players on the Oklahoma Flats team are: F. Angelin—2nd base; J. Vaughn—catcher; Frank Eudy—short stop; Amos—1st base; G. Harlar—left field; Townsend—3rd base; D. Vaughn—centerfield; C. Waters—right field; Paul Waters—pitcher, relieved by Spurgeon.

Scoring four runs in the last of the ninth inning, the Littlefield Cats overcame a fast Muleshoe team to win 13 to 12 in the Cats' local appearance of the season.

A brisk wind made fielding arduous and both teams scored at will. Littlefield had the lead throughout the game except in ninth inning when Muleshoe scored four times to take a three run lead but as previously mentioned didn't effect the Cats. They scored right back and scored four to tie.

A brief of the ninth inning rising by the Cats: Wilson, first doubled to right, Burleson was by a pitched ball, Dur Howell singled to right scoring Wilson. Burleson went to third. Howell second and then big J. D. Sanders doubled to left scoring Burleson and Howell with the tying run. Everyone thought that the game was over at this point the official score keeper erred the score and Sanders had to back to second base and start ball game over as the score tied. Guthrie was the next batter and he popped out for the first of the inning, Letsinger then singled to center scoring Sanders the winning run.

The fans got quite a kick out of Manager Dewey Walker's maneuvering of his pitchers. In the ninth inning Walker waved A. C. main to the showers after he had nailed him for his second run of the day and sent in Turner a big southpaw. Turner didn't so well with the right hand hit so Manager Walker called Dur Howell in from center field to pitch the right hand batters and Turner to centerfield. Then the boys came up that hit the south side of the plate to would come back to the pitcher mound and Howell would go to centerfield.

Littlefield goes to Ropesville but they will be back home 25 to play the fast Morton. A nice crowd witnessed the last Sunday but it is hoped a larger crowd will be on hand to welcome the Cats back home.

CCC Softball Teams Clash In Lubbock Saturday

The Littlefield CCC softball team trampled hard on the Lubbock CCC's Saturday night, when they came home with a score of 11 to 1. This is the first time the local CCC team has played the Lubbock camp team in several years.

Most of the boys who played from the local camp are those playing in the Littlefield softball league games. And, although they have lost two and won two games, so far, in the local league, they are still striving for the lead. They won the tournament last year.

Ropesville And Sudan Lead In Amateur League

Ropesville and Sudan retained their 100 per cent standing in the South Plains Amateur Baseball League Sunday by defeating Dimmitt and Amherst respectively, while Littlefield toppled Muleshoe from the perfect column.

Sudan and Amherst furnished a big crowd of fans a 11 inning thriller. The Reds went into the last of the ninth with a three-run lead, but the Stingers staged a hitting spree then with two men already out to tie the count. Ernest Minyard, who pitched for Sudan and struck out 15 men, held the Reds scoreless in the tenth and eleventh, while Sudan got to George Harmon, Amherst relief pitcher, in the last of the eleventh for a run to win the game. This was Amherst's first defeat in the league, as they had defeated Littlefield the week before.

Running a close second to the Sudan game, was the one between Muleshoe and Littlefield. Although Muleshoe had a three run lead when the Littlefield lads went to bat in the last of the ninth, the Wildcats won by staging a four run rally. This was Muleshoe's first defeat of the season.

Whiteface came back Sunday after a taste of defeat the week before at Ropesville to defeat a stubborn Morton club 7-4.

Ropesville continued to pace the league with a decisive victory over the Dimmitt lads with a score of 13-3.

Sudan and Ropesville are in the number one slot, while Amherst, Muleshoe, Littlefield and Whiteface are on the 500 mark. Dimmitt and Morton are in the cellar, having lost their first two games.

Next Sunday, June 18, Sudan plays at Muleshoe, Whiteface at Amherst, Littlefield at Ropesville and Dimmitt at Morton.

Sunday, June 25, Ropesville plays at Sudan, Muleshoe at Whiteface, Amherst at Dimmitt and Morton at Littlefield.

Muleshoe Man Is Held in Lubbock Jail On Rape Charge

A. W. Coker, about 45, manager of a wholesale oil company at Muleshoe was held in Lubbock county jail Wednesday under a charge of attempted rape of a 13 year old Muleshoe girl.

He was spirited to Lubbock by M. G. Bass, Muleshoe deputy sheriff, and J. C. Bucanan, office deputy of Muleshoe, after he had been shot, suffering a flesh wound in the left thigh.

Deputy Bass reported that the complaint was sworn by L. R. Bartley, night watchman who is said to have fired one of the three shots snapped at Coker, when he and his brother, Constable J. I. Bartley, attempted to arrest Coker at Coker's office.

It was reported that the girl who will be complaining witness had gone to the Coker residence to visit Coker's daughter. Coker was the only person there, the account continued. He allegedly attempted criminal assault on the girl, but she escaped without being injured, and ran to the residence of neighbors.

Constable Bartley and Night Watchman Bartley went to Coker's office. Coker is reported to have seen them and ran. Shots sounded and Coker is alleged to have fallen only to get up and continue his flight. Coker was arrested in a barn several blocks away.

Oklahoma Flats Take Doubleheader Sunday Afternoon

The Oklahoma Flats baseball team charged two victories Sunday in a double-header, witnessed by one of the largest crowds of fans ever to assemble in that community.

It took nine innings for the Oklahoma Flats boys to score a 14-3 game with Whitharral, but the fans were held spell-bound in the close setto with Clauene, when the vamping pitchers battle broke in the seventh inning with a score of 2 to 1.

Manager C. L. Pryor reported that another double-header was scheduled for this Sunday afternoon, and more fans are expected to be on hand to see the brand of baseball that is generally played by teams in mid-season, rather than among the season's first.

MAN ACQUIRES 34,600 TONS TOPSOIL THROUGH SOIL CONSERVATION PRACTICE

"There is such a thing as a legal steal," says W. E. Connell, manager of the Soil Conservation Service project at Dalhart.

In support of this opinion, Connell cites the experience of John Casey, who is cooperating in the demonstration of erosion control practices on his farm 10 miles northeast of Dalhart.

"Within one year Casey has 'stolen' 34,600 tons of topsoil from adjacent fields," Connell says. "This soil has been evenly distributed over Casey's field, yet no one has raised any objection. In fact, Casey is much more likely to be praised than condemned for this 'steal,' for by removing this vast amount of soil from the air he doubtless has spared other farmers additional work in leveling hummocks or fence-row drifts on their lands."

Casey gained this soil for his land by the comparatively simple process of planting 120 acres to broom corn and leaving an adequate stubble during the "blow season" this spring, Connell explained. The wind moved this immense amount of soil off neighboring fields where soil conservation practices are not being followed, and the moving particles were caught by the erosion-resisting broom corn stubble on Casey's land, thereby adding an average of 1.7 inches of rich topsoil to his field, engineering measurements made by service technicians show.

"It is an established fact that wind erosion tends to transfer soil from an area of low plant density to one of high density," according to the project manager. "This process," he explained, "accounts for the gain of soil by the densely-planted broom corn field at the expense of surrounding fields where poor stands of vegetation were evident."

Two years ago this same field was planted in strip-crop pattern, 12 rows of corn being alternated with 24 rows of broom corn. The following year, measurements to determine the extent of erosion showed that the strips planted to corn had lost an average of five inches of topsoil, all of which apparently had been caught and held by the strips of densely-growing broom corn.

Last year the field was planted entirely to broom corn, Connell reports. At the end of the growing season, the severely-eroded areas where corn had been grown the previous year were prominent because of the stunted growth of the crop. On the areas where broom corn had been grown the previous year and upon which soil had been gained, there were excellent stands, it was reported. The large amount of soil gained since last fall should result in better crops this year, Casey believes.

"Broom corn has been found to be one of the best, if not the best, of all row crops adapted to this area for holding soil in place," Connell says.

"This crop covers a surface area which offers great resistance to the wind and thus reduces its velocity. However, other thickly-planted sorghums should be of similar efficiency in conserving the soil," he says.

Sam P. Harben of Richardson, secretary of the Texas Press association for 30 years, was elected to that position over Douglas Ben, Matador by a vote of 64 to 13 at the closing session Saturday.

Walter Buckner, publisher of the San Marcos Record, was advanced from the vice presidency to the presidency in accordance with long established custom. He succeeds Deskins Wells of Wellington.

Charles K. Devall, publisher of the Kilgore Herald and of the Mt. Vernon Optic-Herald, a director, was chosen vice president, and unless there should be a complete reversal of precedent, will be elected president next year.

James F. Donahue of the Tyler Courier-News and Pat Holt of the Gatesville Messenger were elected executive committee members, succeeding M. S. Sellers of Rising Star and Ross Woodall of Huntsville, whose terms expired.

Bids for the 1940 convention were received, but the choice will not be made until the executive committee meets, probably in October.

Bids for the 1940 convention were received, but the choice will not be made until the executive committee meets, probably in October.

Although the choice this year will follow custom, O. C. Harrison, publisher of the Seymour Banner, announced that he will seek an amendment to the association constitution so as to provide that each convention will select the next convention city. Such amendments must be submitted in a fixed manner requiring that at least 3 days notice shall be given.

One among the 10 resolutions adopted "deplored the present tendencies of our Legislature toward class legislation which is not only inimical to the arts, professions and business, but is a distinct tendency toward the suppression of the freedom of the press."

Three brief talks on the closing program were: "Use Local Features But Give Local News First," by Eddie Warren, publisher of the Post Dispatch; "How to Develop an Interesting Woman's Page," by Miss Laura Lane, now of the Vernon Record, but who is to become assistant editor of the extension service news at College Station July 1; and "Headaches of a Sports Writer and His Page," by Collier Parrish, sport editor of The Avalanche-Journal.

The main features of the Thursday's program were: invocation by Dr. Jack M. Lewis; addresses by Mayor Carl E. Slaton, Cecil Horne, Tech College; Herb Hiburn, Plainview; Jimmie Donahue, Tyler; President Deskins Wells, Wellington; Lynn Landrum, Dallas; Clyde Warwick, Canyon; T. B. The Market Basket

By OLETA COLE

Home Supervisor for Farm Security Administration in Lamb and Cochran Counties.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Hens probably would cackle more loudly—and the cows give three cheering moos if they could read the egg and butter statistics of the United States. For the totals show that, so far this year, butter supplies of the nation have been much more plentiful than usual. And poultry flocks the country over have been setting new egg-laying records.

Since a "pound of butter" and a "dozen eggs" are leading items on many a marketing list, the present large supplies and low prices of both make headline food news.

Eggs are rated as one of the protective foods needed in every diet. Nutrition specialists count them among the best of the body builders, and for that reason recommend that, when eggs are cheap and plentiful, use at least one a day may be used to advantage by every member of the family. Of course, this includes the many eggs used in cooking.

In any red call of food values, eggs answer "present" to proteins of excellent quality—important mineral—and to at least five of the vitamins in varying amounts. Eggs, especially the yolks, are an outstanding source of iron—a mineral in which many diets are low. They also are rich in calcium and phosphorus.

Vitamins that occur in eggs are vitamins A, B, D, G, and the pellagra-preventing factor. All of the vitamin A and D value of eggs is in the yolk—the amount of each present depending upon the diet of the hen. Contrary to some impressions, color of the yolk is not a reliable indication of its food value because pale and more deeply-colored yolks may be equally good sources of important vitamins and minerals.

Consumers looking for good eggs on the market do well to place more stress on the way an egg has been handled than on its age or on the color of its shell. An egg left in a warm nest all day, then kept in a warm place at night will be less fresh at 24 hours than an older egg that has kept cool.

Color of shell has nothing to do with either egg quality or food value. Some breeds of hens lay eggs with dark brown shells because they deposit more pigment in the shells. More significant than whether or not an egg is brown or pale is the condition of the shell. For immediate use, eggs with cracked or thin, defective shells may be satisfactory. But those that are to be kept for any time should be free of these imperfections, because such eggs deteriorate rapidly.

In many stores, eggs graded by either local, State, or Federal graders are available. These grades are not uniform from State to State, although more and more concerns are adopting those set up by the United States Department of Agriculture.

When eggs are brought home from the store they should go into the refrigerator—but not necessarily in the coldest spot. They should not be put near highly-scented foods because they absorb odors and flavors. If shells are spoiled, wipe them with a rough dry cloth or a metal sponge. But do not wash them, because water removes the "bloom" of the egg that forms a natural seal for the pores of the shell.

In cooking eggs, can be used in a variety of ways because of their versatile protein. They may be used for leavening, thickening, or clarifying cloudy soups. They are used to bind foods together in croquettes—to "stabilize" the oil in a mayonnaise dressing.

In warm weather, when meals are lighter, egg souffles or omelets make excellent main dishes. Eggs Benedict, hard-cooked eggs in tomato or curry sauce, and baked eggs in tomato cups are some other main-dish possibilities. Hard-cooked eggs are used freely in the summertime for salads and sandwiches. Fluffy angel cakes, custards, and ice creams are a few of the desserts that make use of eggs.

In egg cooking, the secret of success is "always cook slowly at moderate even heat." High temperatures shrink the protein and make the eggs tough. Use a double boiler for most egg dishes cooked atop the stove. For an omelet use a smooth heavy pan and very low heat.

Many frozen dishes, especially those made in a mechanical refrigerator without stirring, call for beaten egg whites. The tiny bubbles of beaten white prevent the ice crystals from getting together to form large, icy masses that make the ice cream grainy.

Every meal—to make it satisfactory should have in it some kind of fat so that it will "stay by." Butter is an excellent fat food. It also contains vitamin A and some vitamin D. It's distinctive flavor makes it a desirable spread. It is commonly used as a shortening agent, and to season many vegetables.

Butter, like eggs, should be kept in the refrigerator. It needs to go into the coldest spot—away from foods with strong flavors or odors.

Since 1923, there has been a legal standard of identity for butter that enters into interstate commerce in the United States. This standard

Have You Seen These Dogs?

Owners Inform Leader That Two Fox Hounds and Chow Are Missing; Rewards Are Offered For Return of Animals

Lost, strayed or stolen! Several parties in this section have reported to the Leader recently that their dogs are missing from their homes, and enlist the help of this newspaper to find the lost canines.

Since there is nothing we would rather do than help someone find their pet pup, we will give a full description of two dogs which we learned Saturday had been missing for about two weeks, and the management of this newspaper will appreciate any assistance whatever extended towards the owners in finding these animals.

Owners Will Pay Rewards Too, each of the parties are offering rewards, $5 or thereabouts, for the return of their dogs, so all you have to do is be observant, you boys and girls who are on vacation with nothing much to do and you may make yourselves a five-spot.

Ray Johnson of one and a half miles east of Hart Camp, reports his 3-year-old black, white and tan female fox hound, which he describes as being of medium size, short chop mouth, and answering to name of Beas, has been missing since about

May 26. This dog was formerly owned by Mr. Johnson's brother, S. P. Johnson, of Liberty Hill, and was only in this section about a month when she disappeared. Mr. Johnson will gladly pay $5 for the return of, or information as to whereabouts of this dog. His address is Star Route 2, Littlefield.

J. W. Stovall of four miles north of Fieldton, reports that on May 29 his white and red spotted female fox hound, which answers to name of "Rose" disappeared, and has not returned.

Mr. Stovall also offers a good reward to anyone either bringing the dog home, or advising him of whereabouts, in order that he may secure the return himself. His address is Star Route 2, Littlefield.

Chow Pup Missing A chow pup, four months old, tan and brown, with four white feet, had on green harness when he left home, has been missing since May 27 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Tremain here.

Finder will receive reward by the return of this pet, or notifying Mr. Tremain at the Littlefield Truck & Tractor as to whereabouts.

was established by Congress and is enforced by the Food and Drug Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. According to this Federal law, butter must be made exclusively from milk or cream and contain not less than 80 percent by weight of milk fat.

Each year the amount of butter that has been graded for quality increases on the market. Topnotch butter that has been given a score of 93 or 92 by State-Federal graders carries with it a certificate of quality—giving its score and the date of grading.

A good dish making use of both eggs and butter is Eggs Benedict. Toast slices of bread, or split and toast English muffins. Place on each piece of toast a thin slice of cooked ham or crisp cooked bacon, and on top of this a poached egg. Cover with hot Hollandaise sauce and serve at once.

Offers Reward For Return Of Purse Left In Postoffice Monday

Mrs. Ora Wood, investigator for Texas old age assistance, was unfortunate enough to thoughtlessly leave her blue leather purse lying on the desk in the postoffice Monday. When she returned no trace of the purse could be found.

The purse contained $15 in cash, some letters, and membership cards to Texas Conference of Social Workers.

Mrs. Wood is investigator for Texas old age assistance, with headquarters at the City Hall, Littlefield, and can be reached over phone 142. She will appreciate it very much if the party finding the purse will return it, and will be glad to give a liberal reward to the finder.

Use the Want Ads. They pay.

RES. ROOSEVELT AND NEW YORK MAYOR INVITED TO DALHART XIT REUNION AUG. 7-8

Dalhart, Texas, June 8. (Special) Completely outfitted as a Western band, Billy Cotton, 10 years old, at Dalhart Sunday morning, June 8, to present personally to President Roosevelt in Washington, and LaGuardia in New York City, steers on which are decorated with the Fourth annual XIT Reunion in Dalhart, Aug. 7 and 8. His parents accompanied him.

The invitations are on snow white paper, cut to duplicate a steer hide out three and a half feet long and two feet wide. Lettering is in black. Each hide is suspended at the top from an Indian arrow shaft, each end of which is laced by two thongs a genuine Panhandle at arrowhead.

The miniature counterpart of a Longhorn steer's head is placed at the top of each invitation. The lower left hand corner is surrounded by two slender leather thongs, the Great Seal of the XIT, a facsimile of a cowchip on which is imposed a map of Texas carved in fine letters this wording: "The wind pumps the water, the cows chop the wood." The thongs were designed and executed by Bobby Dycke, cowboy artist of Dalhart.

Signed by Albert Law, chairman of the XIT invitation committee, the station to President Roosevelt is: Mr. President: Each August the XIT Reunion Dalhart honors pioneers, particularly of the XIT ranch which, in 1880's built the present Texas capitol.

"Pioneers, you know, are simply men and women who think and look ahead and have the courage of their convictions."

"So, while you were not pounding a cayuse across the Western badlands in the 1880's, or fanning a six gun on the law and order frontier, we feel, nevertheless, that you are a kindred spirit, and we want you with us Aug. 7 and 8. Your presence will honor not only us, but the Old West. We'll brand 'FDR' on any hoss you pick."

Because Mayor LaGuardia was reared almost entirely in the West, much of his boyhood and youth being spent at old Fort Whipple, U. S. army post near Prescott, Ariz., his invitation opens with the words: "Pardner, we're wanting you back in the Old West where you once lived."

"We want to insist on you comin'. You'll honor us mightily if you are among those who pull the latch-string next Aug. 7 and 8 at the Annual XIT Reunion in Dalhart, an event that's dedicated to the West and the men and women who love it."

"You'll find your saddie and chaps at the XIT corral and you can pick your hoss when you get here."

Highways Claim More Lives Than Urban Streets

Austin. — The open road, of which the poets like to sing, sheds its romantic lustre in the light of cold statistics, state police decided recently as they finished a monthly chapter in their own story of death on the highway.

For highways and country roads claimed almost twice as many lives as did urban streets, a survey of April traffic accidents revealed.

As compared with 37 lives taken in city traffic, designated highways claimed 52 motorist and pedestrians and country roads took an added 10. The April traffic toll was officially set at 100, a number which includes belated reports on one death chargeable to February and seven deaths chargeable to March. Preliminary figures had indicated only 90 instead of 92 were actually killed in April traffic.

Three-fourths of the dead were persons in the so-called "prime of life," between adolescence and old age. Only six children of five years old and under, only eight were between 6 and 17. But 25 were young people between 18 and 25, another 25 between 26 and 40, and still another 25 were between 41 and 64.

Twenty-four of the dead were pedestrians.

There were 1,167 accidents in all, and 1,123 persons injured.

Mrs. Roebuck Sells 278 Early Fryers This Year

"So far I have sold 278 early fryers at 35 cents apiece," Mrs. W. O. Roebuck told the home demonstration agent last week. Mrs. Roebuck bought 818 baby chicks this spring and she feels that this is a profitable way of making money and utilizing home grown feeds. Mr. and Mrs. Roebuck are whole farm demonstrators.

Health Officer Predicts Texans Will Live Quieter

Austin, Texas, June 8. — That Texas is headed for an era of quiet, more mature living, is the prediction of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

The basis of this prediction is the declining birth rate and the increasing life span of the average Texan.

While the population may continue to increase until 1955, as government census experts predict, the percentage of youth is decreasing. By 1975 today's total American population over 65 years will have trebled their number from seven and a half million to twenty-two and a half million.

Two reasons for this change in the age ratio are smaller families and stricter immigration laws.

Third and most important reason is the longer average life expectancy due to increasingly wide-spread use of medical and public health knowledge, which reduces mortality, particularly in childhood and allows the average person to live a longer span of life. For instance, a baby born in 1789 lived on the average until he was 35 years old. A baby born in 1900 had a life expectancy of 48 years. A baby born in 1935 could normally expect to be 61 years old.

Repercussions to this change in our population from youth to middle age will be gradual. Both young and old will do less productive labor, while the middle aged do more. Fewer schools will be needed. Golf and other mild games will gain favor. Travel will be more popular as more people will have leisure. The jitterbug era of dancing will fade. The population will tend to decentralize as older people move to quiet suburbs or the country.

In the long run, America and Texas will undoubtedly benefit in the advent of experience and seasoned judgements in government and business.

When our population becomes more or less static, our scale of living will automatically rise, and the science of medicine and public health will have much to do with this change toward a longer and better life for more and more people.

AMENDED NATIONAL HOUSING ACT CONTINUES HOME FINANCING PROGRAM

The amended National Housing act, signed by the president on June 3, is designed to continue, with modifications, the liberalized home financing program begun in February last year under the National Housing act amendments of 1938, stated Wm. H. Clark, Jr., state director, today.

He said, "It's enactment should give renewed assurance to the residential construction industry, to home financing institutions, and to individual home buyers and builders who may have been holding up plans because of uncertainty regarding the future of the FHA. In other words, they may go forward with confidence that virtually all the financing facilities available to them in the past year will still be at their disposal."

As the Senate Banking and Currency committee pointed out in its report recommending passage of the amended act: "Such continuance directly concerns the orderly progress of recovery and employment and the opportunity of American families to obtain better living standards."

Principal features of the amended land-grant colleges.

It will be Henson's job to coordinate, with the advice and guidance of the Southern Great Plains Advisory Committee, the agricultural programs of the Department of Agriculture with those of the state colleges, state conservation boards, and other agencies working in the Plains region of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and New Mexico.

Henson is a native of Kansas and a graduate of Oklahoma A. and M. College. He served for a while as a county agent in Oklahoma, resigning to take graduate work at Iowa State College. He remained at Iowa State as a professor of agronomy until he entered the service of the Department of Agricultural Adjustment Administration. At the time of his appointment he was assistant director of the tenant purchase division of the Farm Security Administration.

"DODGE CITY" TO BE FEATURED AT PALACE SATURDAY MIDNIGHT, SUNDAY-MONDAY

A picture crammed full of thrills and action and filmed in beautiful technicolor is titled "Dodge City," which will be seen at the Palace Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday.

Headed by a stellar cast including such stars as Errol Flynn, Olivia DeHavilland, Ann Sheridan, Bruce Cabot, Frank McHugh and Alan Hale, this is the story of Dodge City in the early days—a story of the roaring mile that made the whole world gasp.

This uproaring eye-filling spectacle tells the story of the early history of Kansas and especially Dodge City—where Boot Hill became the nation's most famous repository for the guys who were slow on the draw. More than 100 such unfortunate Gentry were lowered into Kansas sod between 1873-1874.

This was the place where lovely Dora Hand, the opera singer was killed. She was the first female in Dodge City to be found murdered in her bed. Where the Red Lights were first used, but not as a stop signal. Where the term "stinker" originated to describe an unattractive individual. It was first applied to buffalo hunters who dealt in weeks old carcasses.

FRIGIDAIRE FEATURES NEW TYPE OF REFRIGERATION KNOWN AS "COLD WALL," GARLAND-WHITE AUTO SUPPLY DEALERS

One of the first concerns of a bride when she starts out as a homemaker is the subject of food. Recipe books usually are indispensable to her for preparation of many dishes with which she is unfamiliar, but safe preservation of food is a matter on which, heretofore, less explicit instruction has been available. Fortunately, however, for June brides this year, an entirely new principle in electric refrigeration greatly simplifies the food keeping problem.

With this new type of refrigerator, which combines the advantages of two distinct forms of refrigeration in one cabinet, foods which will not dry out and those which are susceptible to loss of moisture are divided into their respective classifications and are kept in perfect condition in the type of cold that best preserves their original condition.

"This new type of electric refrigerator is known as the 'Cold Wall,' and it is radically different from any automatic refrigerator yet developed," says B. D. Garland of Garland-White Auto Supply, local dealer for Frigidaire products. "While women who have been keeping house know the difficulties involved in always covering foods which depend on moisture content for their flavor, color and appearance, new brides, and other women, will never be faced with this problem if they take advantage of the 'Cold Wall' type of automatic refrigeration."

According to Mr. Garland, the "Cold Wall" has an upper compartment in which the freezer is located. Here such items as milk, beverages, canned goods, and other foods in containers, may be stored conveniently and safely. This section provides the same type of refrigeration as is found in the conventional electric refrigerator.

But, Mr. Garland adds, the lower compartment offers the exclusive and outstanding advantage of uniform cold temperatures without moisture-robbing air circulation. This means, he declares, that foods such as vegetables, fruits sliced meats, left-overs, and others, may be stored without being covered and will keep for many days beyond the time usually considered safe in the conventional refrigerator.

"The 'Cold Wall' operates with no mechanism other than the regular 'meter-miser.' Cooling coils concealed in the sides, back and bottom of the cabinet contain a special refrigerant that removes heat before it penetrates the walls of the cabinet. A heavy glass shelf, called the "dew fresh" seal, divides the two compartments and prevents air circulation, which would transfer moisture to the freezer. Humidity in the lower section is maintained at a level between 85 and 90 per cent, which means that food moisture is held intact, without loss, even though foods are stored without being covered.

A round table discussion was held, during which fifteen members of the local organization declared that the Chamber of Commerce was the most important organization in the city. Supt. F. A. Hemphill started the discussion, suggesting that "we take another look at the word, cooperation, and look into the future with a better understanding."

District Attorney Herbert Martin suggested that the little things, such as more trees and a larger beautification program, combined with the bigger things, would make the town grow.

W. H. Cunningham, a leader in agriculture, remarked that the name could be changed to the Chamber of Agriculture, for "without agriculture—no commerce."

Pat Boone, ex-mayor, and Homer Hall, present mayor, greeted the group.

Many other business and professional men expressed their ideas concerning the organization.

Good natured fun was enjoyed by more than sixty persons.

The meal was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church.

M. D. Fanning, E. Powell, Mr. McWhorter, Bill Clark, David Schein and J. Sam Lewis all of Lubbock attended.

Mr. Fanning is assistant manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

of his body. If the same holds true in horseflesh Snake, judging by his excellent teeth, should be milling around a corral when some of these year old colts are looking for a soft spot on which to lay down and die.

Keeps Teeth "Floated"

Mr. Edwards explained that he had always kept Snake's teeth "floated."

This editor immediately figured that if "floated" teeth could keep a 27-year-old "horse" stepping like a colt, then that said editor had arrived at the solution of a problem: More and sustained action in his paint horse, "Pal."

Well, "Pal" had his teeth "floated."

Now you can look for a balloon ascension most any day.

Of Noble Ancestry

But, seriously, folks, Snake comes from an "old Spanish family" of horses. His mother and father were in a herd of horses brought out of old Mexico into Jones county by the Swenson Bros. Mr. Edwards bought the mother and on a day in spring Mr. and Mrs. Edwards found Snake down in the pasture. Snake's father lived to be 29 years old and his mother gave up this world at 25.

Snake has always lived right and has been well fed and properly looked after, and he shouldn't have much difficulty in living for some time yet. Of course, Snake got a good break when he came to this world in Mr. Edwards' pasture. Mr. Edwards is a veterinarian of renown. Snake is a straight saddle horse and at his ripe old age can still catch what he goes after and keep a rope plenty tight.

he would return to Levelland later, and was returning there when the accident happened.

Hammons Funeral Home ambulance was taken to Levelland and returned the body to Littlefield.

Services Tuesday

Funeral services were conducted at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, by Rev. Don Harris, pastor, when one of the largest crowds to attend such a gathering, were present to pay their last respects to the deceased.

Interment, in charge of Hammons, took place in the Littlefield cemetery.

Pallbearers were Judge S. A. Doss, Walter LeMond, Clyde Willis, Mancel Hall, Jimmie Houk, Bill Thomas, John Porcher and Joe Gehrick, while honorary pallbearers were J. S. Hilliard, T. S. Sales, Guy Willis, J. B. Stevens, L. H. Houston, E. A. Bills, Dr. C. E. Payne, Earl Wilson and E. C. Cundiff.

Flower Bearers Aux. Members

Flower bearers were members of the Presbyterian Auxiliary, as follows, Mesdames H. W. Wiseman, G. M. Shaw, Ira Woods, J. S. Hilliard, Warren Rutledge, Oscar Wilmon, Charlie Barber, Selma Yohner, John Blair, J. T. Street, E. A. Bills, Neal A. Douglass and J. C. Whicker and Misses Laura Virginia Bills and Erna Douglass.

Mr. Rumback was born Oct. 27, 1882, and was a resident of Chicago for many years, where he was foreman of the Ward Baking company, and later operated his own bakery in that city for about three years. He and Mrs. Rumback were married in Chicago, where both their children were born. From Chicago they moved to Pueblo, Colo., where they made their home for a short time, following which they located in Texas, operating bakeries at Graham, Banger, and other nearby smaller cities, until May, 1924, when Mr. Rumback moved his family to Littlefield and established the Home Bakery, which he has continued to operate.

Mr. Rumback was a faithful and kind husband, and a loving, indulgent and generous father. He was a friend to everyone, and will be sorely missed by his large circle of friends, who will remember him for his witty expressions and cheerfulness to those with whom he came in contact in his everyday life.

Surviving are his wife, a son, William R. Rumback of Levelland, and a daughter, Mrs. Max G. Wood of Littlefield.

His Majesty's Orderly Needs No Compass

Officials Attend Farm Security Meet in Lubbock

Euel Liner, supervisor for the Farm Security Administrations in Lamb county, Doyle Ranson, and Miss Oleta Cole, Home Supervisor, attended the Texas state meeting of Region 12 of the Farm Security Administration, held in Lubbock Thursday, Friday and Satur- day.

Termed as the most successful seasons, plans and problems were discussed, and a very interesting trip was made to the Ropesville community project, where the men visited seven farms to inspect ac- complishments and to look over livestock and machinery. The women visited many other homes, inspect- ing farm gardens and pantries.

Stricken in Chicken Lot A short time before she was stricken she had talked to a couple of neighbors over the fence at the rear of her home, and later one of them noticed she had fallen in the chicken lot, and went over to find she had suffered a stroke. Mrs. Black had since been confined to her bed.

Mrs. Black was born in Navarro county, Texas, and was the mother of nine children, six of whom are living.

Resident for Many Years Mrs. Black was a resident of Amherst for a number of years, and a member of the Methodist church, a devoted christian, and a loving wife and good mother. She was highly veteemed by all who knew her, and will be solely missed by her family and many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Castle are planning on going to O'Donnel Sun- day for a few days visit with her sister, Mrs. George Foster, and other relatives.

ANNUAL FARMERS SHORT COURSE WILL BE STAGED AT A. AND M. JULY 5-14

A preview of the program for the annual Texas A. and M. College Farmers' Short Course plus the interest expressed by farm and ranch families, has led H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas Ex- tension Service, to predict that the 1939 session will be one of the most successful in recent years.

As in 1938, the current meeting will be divided into two sections— one on July 5, 6, and 7 for 4-H club boys and girls, and a second one on July 12, 13, and 14 for ad- ults. Division of the Short Course allows the institution to provide suf- ficient accommodations for the crowds.

The 4-H club program will consist of selection of outstanding club members, talks by representatives to the recent National 4-H Club En- campment at Washington, D. C., so- cial activities, and will be climaxed by the colorful ceremony of the gold star awards to the 100 boys and 100 girls selected for this hon- or.

The theme of the adult program will be land use planning, with farm people taking the major part. Guest speakers will be headlined by A. F. Lever of South Carolina, former congressman who was joint au- thor of the Smith-Lever bill on which extension work is based. Wal- ter Jenkins of Houston will again lead the group singing.

Father's Day

Next Sunday, June 18, will be Father's Day. Fathers are fortunate men. Sons and daughters... are fortunate whose fathers have not passed on.

With one or more sons, and probably a daughter or two, fathers, if they plan and direct their lives as befits a father, can get so much out of life that is denied those who do not have the responsibilities of a parent.

Fathers who shirk their duty and leave the upbringing of the family chiefly with the mother are simply inviting grief. Their children grow away from them. Such fathers simply become the "old man" who raises his head once in awhile, fades out of picture except for "bringing home the bacon."

Sons and daughters who get that peculiar slant on life which causes them to feel justified in "running their own show" without parental counsel are simply courting trouble for themselves.

This father, son and daughter business, operating under normal and proper momentum, is simply a partnership in which each partner should strive to be considerate one toward the other in making life so sweet that those sour things which are bound to shove their ugliness forward pass over with little quickening of the pulse among any member of the family.

"Honor thy father," trust and cooperate with him, try to make life such that the sunshine of his smile will radiate throughout the household.

If God be with you everything which is impossible becomes possible. —German Proverb.

They Missed Something

We wish King George and Queen Elizabeth could have seen Texas. If they had visited the Lone Star state they would have carried back to England with them a picture in their minds of that great vastness, that multiplicity of activity, ideals and dreams which makes Texas great and the United States the most spectacular achievement under the shining sun.

The northern states, and particularly the New England states, do not offer the complete picture of the United States. Those states are small, most of them highly developed, and their activities and outlook on life have been handed down from generation to generation.

But Texas is new... almost too new to be properly understood by a King and Queen who, since babyhood, have been surrounded by an atmosphere of old palaces, the pomp of parliament, the dignity of No. 10 Downing Street... and what have you.

The vastness of the state would have been staggering to Their Majesties; they would have found it difficult to understand the great distance from the Gulf of Mexico to the Big Bend country; the miles of travel necessary in traversing the state north and south. And the very newness and volume of development would have caused them to ponder on the contrast between Texas and the home land.

Texans would have entertained them in quite a different manner than the northern states; it would just have to be that way or Texas wouldn't be Texas. In fact, we think that Their Majesties would have had a "vacation" in Texas in place of a great round of stately functions that featured the northern reception.

King George and Queen Elizabeth didn't see the United States when they didn't see Texas. They missed the main attraction in a great show.

It is in man and not in his circumstances that the secret of his destiny resides.—Carlyle.

SPRING STYLES

MARGIE Goes Snooping

For many years girls and women have been wearing clothes similar to men's apparel, but not until this season have the boys and men started dressing for the street and sport in clothes that look similar to those of the ladies. Can't help but wonder if they aren't wearing their pajamas, but guess they are slack suits that have taken on that feminine look. Who asked my opinion anyway? But don't be surprised if you see a man, who is supposed to be a man, knitting during his spare time, and in a few years we will accept it. Dr. Ira E. Woods in town early Monday morning, "fussing" because he can't sleep after six o'clock in the morning. Some people have a half day's work done by that time every day. Doctor!... Miss Orel Lytle and her sister, Helen, will leave Friday for Los Angeles where Orel will attend the University of California the next two months... Western hospitality was at its best Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when Texas editors and their wives met in Lubbock for the 60th annual Texas Press Association convention.

In Memory Of Father

Dear Father we are thankful for the example you set. Your influence in our lives we'll never forget. You too, was always so loving and kind. No Better Father on earth we could find.

Your desire for our good we never could see. When to you we often offered a plea. We could never see, neither understand. Why we should always obey your Command.

But now we can see also understand. Why should have obeyed your command. Forgive and still love us, we know you will. Because we want you to know we love you still.

Again if we were in our childhood and lived with you. With joy we would ever be obedient and true. Since we can't we only hope we will meet above. Where all will be peace, Joy and Love.

Editor's Note: The above poem was brought to the editor of the Leader by Mrs. Jim Patterson, who lives 12 miles southwest of Muleshoe. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson formerly lived a short distance southwest of Littlefield. Mrs. Patterson said that she did not know the name of the author of the poem, but it was published in a Big Spring newspaper about six or eight years ago. We appreciate very much Mrs. Patterson's courtesy in bringing in this poem.

New Postoffice At Brownfield Dedicated Thurs.

Postmaster and Mrs. W. D. T. Storey attended the dedication ceremonies of the new postoffice at Brownfield Thursday night. Ambrose O'Connell, second assistant postmaster general, was the speaker for the occasion. He disclosed the saving of nearly one-third in the estimated cost of the new Brownfield postoffice building. "It is a rare incident indeed, when the public does not demand that all of the allotment be spent," he told his audience. "The building which this building stands for 000, the contract was $46,000, nearly $53,000 including lot, the allotment was $75,000. James Harley Dallas is poster at Brownfield. More than 100 guests attended the dinner and dedication service.

Fourth Annual XIT Reunion At Dalhart August 7 And 8

Dalhart, Tex., June 14.—(Special) Cattle and commission men, feeders, breeders and livestock dealers who attend the Fourth Annual XIT Reunion in Dalhart August 7 and 8 will be accorded a special reception and have a special headquarters, announces John Colquitt, chairman of the General XIT Committee.

The committee to welcome and entertain all visitors identified with the cattle industry is headed by Cecil C. Jones of the Capitol Freehold Land Trust in Dalhart which has charge of the remaining lands of the noted XIT ranch. Serving with him is Orville H. Finch, widely known Southwestern rancher and former mayor of Dalhart; and H. Coon, member of the internationally-known firm of Coon & Culbertson.

"Personal invitations will be sent to all men whose names and addresses are known," Jones said. "However, we want those names we do not happen to know that there is a personal invitation and welcome awaiting them and that the latching hangs on the outside.

"This is just a big party for the cattle men," Jones continued. "They are going to be invited to do just what they want to—sit in the headquarters and swap yarns, discuss problems of the industry or visit neighboring country and ranches in cars that will be provided. We're going to concentrate on showing our visitors a good time."

Little Miss Polly Lou Potter, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Wade Potter, had her tonsils and adenoids removed Sunday, June 4 at the Payne-Shotwell hospital. She was taken to her home Sunday afternoon, and is getting along nicely.

Large Numbers Of Buyers Drive Home Cars From Factory

Scarcely a day passes that several buyers of new Pontiac cars do not arrive at the factory administration building from faraway points to drive home in their new cars. Records show that more than 10,800 owners made the trip to the plant for that purpose during 1937 and 1938.

Wilemon Pontiac company are local dealers for the Pontiac.

By far the largest percentage of owners continue to come from the Pacific Coast States and the Gulf States, California alone representing 60 per cent of the total for the two years. Atlantic states also are well represented.

Through the General Motors Overseas Division many buyers come from foreign lands to take delivery of their Pontiac cars and to see America before they return home. A few of the countries represented in recent months include Manila, the Island of Guam, Hawaii, Ancon, Brazil, Argentine and Capetown.
