EXCESS COTTON SUBJECT TO PENALTY OF 7 CENTS PER POUND

Provide Penalties 50% Loan Rate On Excess Marketings

Loan Rate On Cotton Marketed In Excess Of Quota Is 60 Percent

Cotton marketed in excess of 1941 farm marketing quotas will be subject to a penalty of approximately 7 cents per pound, W. E. Bentley, chairman of the Lamb County Committee has announced.

In 1939 and 1940, W. E. Bentley, continued, the penalty for excess cotton was 3 cents per pound and in 1938 the rate was 2 cents per pound. There will not be an increase however, in the total amount of penalties due on carry-over penalty cotton marketed in excess of the 1941 quota.

The higher penalty rate will be applied on only that portion of the carry-over penalty cotton which would yield the same amount of penalties as all of the carry-over cotton would have yielded under the former rates. The remainder of the carry-over cotton then become penalty free.

"To make my point clear", Mr. Bentley said, "suppose a farmer has 700 pounds of carry-over penalty cotton from 1940. Had he marketed the cotton last year, he would have (Continued on back page)

House-To-House Canvass To Be Made Friday A. M.

Housewives Urged To Put Aluminum Donations On Porch For Boy Scouts

Littlefield and Lamb County rallied with enthusiasm in its opening thrust in the national aluminum pickup campaign the first three days of this week, as many shiny gadgets have been tossed into the collection pen on Phelps Ave., near the City Hall, here.

Plans are complete for a house-to-house canvass which will be made Friday by the Boy Scouts and Cubs, Dr., Wm. N. Orr and H. B. Wallin, chairmen of the campaign in Littlefield, reported. The boys will start collecting scraps of aluminum, and old pots and pans, about 8:30 Friday morning, and will visit each house in town.

The committee in charge of general arrangements urge that housewives have the aluminum on the porch ready for the boys to pick up. In the event there isn't a scrap of aluminum on the porch the boys have orders to knock on the door and ask for it. Sacks will be deposited on the street corners for collection, and enrollees at the CCG camp will use pickups to take the metal to a centralized lot. It will then be sent to the proper agencies to aid in the building of airplanes, battleships, guns, and other aids for national defense.

Committees were appointed, last week in various communities in the county, to supervise the aluminum drive, and the rural citizens are urged to cooperate with the program. In the event the rural people do not get their aluminum deposited before Saturday, they are urged to bring it to Littlefield to be placed in the collection pen.

Dr. Orr contributed the first oddments Tuesday in the local collection pen, including scraps from his dental office.

About The Proposed City Light Plant

HOW WILL THE CITY LIGHT PLANT BE PAID FOR?

The law provides that the revenue bonds to be issued must be paid for solely out of the revenue from the light plant. Don't let anybody tell you that any of the costs of the plant will be paid out of the taxes collected by the City. This can't be done. Article 1111 of the Revised Statutes of this State provides as follows

"No such obligation of any such systems shall ever be a debt of such city or town, but solely a charge upon the properties of the system so encumbered and shall never be reckoned in determining the power of any such city or town to issue any bonds for any purpose authorized by law."

Article 1109a, Section 3, expressly provides every contract or bond issued for the purpose of building a utility system shall contain this clause;

"The holder hereof shall never have the right to demand payment of this obligation out of any funds raised or to be raised by taxation."

Read the Election Order published in your papers and you will see that the City is following this law and that the plant will be paid for by revenue bonds only and that these bonds will be paid for out of the revenue from the light plant, and that no part shall be paid out of funds raised or to be raised by taxes.

IS A CITY LIGHT PLANT A PAYING PROPOSITION?

The City officials and the members of the citizens light plant committee have made thorough investigations and have found out that City Light Plants wherever they are located are paying propositions. We have several City Light Plants near Littlefield and we are telling you why the records of those cities show and what those in charge of city affairs will tell you.

The profits from the Brownfield plant pay the operating expenses of the city, the tax rate is 60 cents on the $100.00 valuation and the valuations are assessed way below the true values of the properties. This can be verified by contacting the City Secretary or any official of the City of Brownfield. The City of Brownfield was asked by a member of our Citizens Committee how their light plant was doing, and his answer was "our light plant is carrying the load."

In Spur they have a utility light plant in competition. In that City the operating expenses of the city are paid out of the profits from the light plant, the tax rate is 80 cents on the $100.00 valuation and the property is assessed at 65 per cent of its actual value. These tax values and rates have been lowered since the light plant has been operating the last few years. These figures can be verified by contacting the officials of Spur.

The City of Lubbock has a million dollar light plant. It has all been paid for except $50,000.00. The tax rate in Lubbock is 95 cents on the $100.00 and property is assessed at 66 2-3 percent of its actual value. The Lubbock tax rate can be as high as $2.50 on the $100.00. On account of the City Light Plant this tax rate is only $1.00. Last year the City of Lubbock transferred $274,000.00 from the light fund to the City general fund.

The City of Floydada completed a light plant in 1940. Eighty per cent of the consumers are hooked up to the City Light Plant. The City is making over and above all expenses payment on the bonds, sinking fund and reserves the sum of $1500 net profits each month.

The small city of Crosbyton completed a light plant in 1940, they have 80 per cent of the consumers, and the City officials informed the citizens Light Plant Committee that they are doing fine and making good profits over and above everything.

Here are some statements made by other Cities in Texas who own their light plants:

"In 1940 our Light Plant transferred $10,650.00 to the general fund, $5,637.47 to park department, $6,794.22 to the street department and free street lights that would have cost $3,210.00 a year, if purchased from private utilities. R. E. Ward Georgetown, Texas".

"Net earnings have grown from $10,776.00 in 1920 to $96,347.00 in 1940," and the people of Bryan are thoroughly in accord with the idea of municipally owned lighting. At first there was a division of opinion especially when several companies made offers for the plant that seemed irresistible, and the last offer agreed to double the amount of any other. They were told not to make offers as the plant was not for sale. —Guy P. Bittle, Secretary Bryan, Texas".

"Please note that we made a profit of $30,500.00 during the year 1940, after paying all expenses and setting aside the revenue bond money. Note that we used $18,450.00 in our general funds to carry on the operations of the city. This in time will save the citizens much money. —T. Leo Moore Mayor, Electra, Texas."

"We own all of our utilities except the gas and there is nothing pertaining to a city that I could more strongly urge, than the city owning its own Light Plant. We earn money with it that we use for other purposes, and our tax rate is 60 cents per $100.—Clyde C. Coleman, Mayor, Brownfield Texas."

"Baird began operation September 20 1940 with no customers. Today we have 295 customers, and this months billing will be $2,500.00 of which $700.00 will be left after paying all bills salaries, bond requirements, etc.—R. C. Elliot Secretary Baird, Texas."

"We started operation of our Electric Plant one year ago this month. During this year we have made a profit of $15,000.00. Also, we are supplying three times as many street lights for a cost no greater than we paid the utilities for a few bugs they called lights.—Conrad F. Russell Mayor, Weatherford, Texas."

"Our Utilities for the year closing May 31 showed a gross income of over $261,000.00. Of this amount $80,000.00 was transferred to the general fund; thus holding taxes low. Lee Preston, Mayor, Denton, Texas."

SHOULD WE BUILD THE CITY LIGHT PLANT NOW?

The opposition tells you that the plant should not be built now, and attempts to give certain reasons why. Well, if the City had attempted ten years ago to build a City Light Plant this same opposition would have said do not build it now. And if we waited ten more years to try to build a City Light Plant the opposition will still say this is not the right time to build it. No time will ever be the right time to build the city Light Plant so far as it concerns the utility company who now enjoys and has enjoyed for so long a time a complete monopoly of electric service in Littlefield.

The opposition have suddenly become patriotic and they say that on account of the national defense we should not now build a light plant when they know as you do that President Roosevelt and the present administration in Washington has urged municipal ownership of utilities and now the President urges the doubling of power facilities all over the nation, in order to promote national defense. Why not be patriotic and build a light plant now in the city.

The opposition also tries to make you believe that material has increased in prices to such an extent that it would not be good business to build now. They are mistaken and they know it. Engines and copper wire have increased in prices so little that the increase is negligible, other material that will be used has increased very little. And the increase in material will be taken care of by the premium that the city can now secure on its revenue bonds because revenue bonds are hot and are selling good, as discussed in another paragraph. We say build now while the law is like it is and will permit a city to build a plant and pay for it out of the profits, we say build now so that we can make progress in our city affairs as soon as possible, lower light rates for the benefit of the people who need reduction now and reduce taxes for the taxpayers who need a tax reduction now.

CAN WE SELL THE BONDS?

The opposition may try to tell you that it will be hard to sell revenue bonds. Don't let anybody tell you that. Why is it that already since the order has been published in the papers that the representatives of five different bonding houses have been to see the mayor and Commissioners about buying the bonds. They all want to buy them. Revenue Bonds are the best bonds on the market today, because the owner of the bond knows he does not have to look to taxes for pay and these bond buyers know that a city light plant will pay out. Already the city has been offered substantial premiums on these bonds issued and the premium will more than take care of the slight increase in the price of material. The Government is holding down price increase and don't you forget that. These bonds can be sold in one hour for a nice premium and when the bonds are voted by the people the city will sell them to the highest bidder for cash and don't you worry the city will get a nice premium on the bonds.

The only person who could lose on this proposition is the person who buys the bonds and if the moneyed men who deal in bonds are willing to put their money into it they know as a matter of fact from experience that a City Light Plant will pay.

Our City Commissioners, elected to represent Us, Unqualifiedly recommended this project. Lets Support Them 100 Per Cent

Miss Ferguson And Jess Wright, Jr., Wed Saturday Evening

The marriage of Miss Lillian Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ferguson and Jess Wright, Jr., of Levelland was solemnized at 7 o'clock Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. P.

N. Allen, Baptist pastor at Anton, officiating with the single ring ceremony.

Vows were exchanged before a background of greenery and tall baskets of gladiolas and dahlias.

Mrs. Earl Hobbs offered Mendocinn's bridal chorus as the processional and she played "At Dawn" during the ceremony. Miss Barbara Wright, of Anton, sister of the groom, sang "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hobbs.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a powder blue crepe dress with navy accessories. Her corsage was a white gladiola, and for "something old and borrowed" she wore a string of pearls belonging to the bridegroom's mother.

Miss Fredda Mae Tension of Anton was the bride's only attendant. She wore a light blue dress with white and blue accessories. Her corsage was a pink gladiola.

Allan Smith of Lubbock was best man.

At the informal reception which followed the ceremony, the bride's table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. The bride cut the first slice of cake, and refreshments were served by Miss Barbara Wright, and Miss Patricia Ferguson, sister to the bride.

The couple left immediately after the reception for Levelland where they are residing. Mr. Wright is employed in the Hockley county agent's office.

Others attending the wedding and reception were the groom's parents of near Anton, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Houston of Anton, and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Houston of Anton, Mrs. F. N. Allen and Troy Dennison of Anton, Earl Hobbs, Miss Barbara Ferguson, sister to the bride, and her brothers, Roy and H. L. Ferguson.

An informal reception was held honoring the couple Sunday afternoon at the home of the groom's parents. Ice cream and cake was served. Members of the families attended.

YOUTH BEAUTY SALON

NORMA RUTH HARVEY

To The Taxpaying Voters-- of the City of Littlefield

There can be only two good reasons for the voting of revenue bonds to build a municipal light plant. The first is whether the building of the municipal light plant would reduce taxes and the second is whether it would bring about any material reduction in our electric light rates.

If the municipal plant will not be able to do either of these things, then the only persons who will benefit by it are the bond men and the engine salesmen, and there is no business justification for the City issuing these bonds and building the municipal plant.

We, the undersigned voters, citizens and tax-payers of the City of Littlefield, who are opposed to the voting of these revenue bonds and the building of the municipal light plant, are convinced that the building of the municipal light plant cannot result in a decrease in either our tax rate or in our electric rates.

Article 1113 of Vernon-Sayles Revised Civil Statutes, which regulates the use that the City may make of income from its municipal light plant, where it is built with revenue bonds, Provides:

"NO PART OF THE INCOME OF ANY SUCH SYSTEM SHALL EVER BE USED TO PAY ANY OTHER DEBT, EXPENSE OR OBLIGATION OF SUCH CITY OR TOWN UNTIL THE INDEBTEDNESS (THE REVENUE BONDS) SO SECURED SHALL HAVE BEEN FINALLY PAID".

Under this provision of the statute, until the light plant revenue bonds which, according to the election order, are to run for twenty years, are fully paid, the City cannot use any part of the income of the light plant system to pay any other debt, expense or obligation of the City.

The City's present tax rate is $1.50 per $100.00 valuation. In March of 1939, when the city issued $300,000.00 of refunding bonds to take up its outstanding tax bonds, the City Council passed an ordinance levying a tax of $1.25 per $100.00 valuation to pay these refunding bonds. That portion of the taxes cannot be reduced until the tax bonds are paid. The other 25c of the $1.50 rate is and has been used to pay the running expense of the City.

Since Article 1113 forbids the City to use any of the income from the electric light plant to pay any other debt, obligation or expense of the City until the light plant bonds are paid, how can the City reduce the tax rate in any amount until these light plant bonds are paid?

Under Article 1113, if the light plant makes any profits, they must be used to pay off the light plant revenue bonds and cannot be used for any other purpose. Our observation of other towns which have built municipal light plants with revenue bonds, demonstrates that these revenue bonds are never paid off before their twenty year maturity.

Do not be deceived by promises that the light plant will reduce our tax rate, because the law forbids the use of the light plant income to pay any debt, obligation or expense of the City until the light plant revenue bonds are paid.

In the next issue of this paper, we will answer the question as to whether the building of the municipal light plant will bring about any material reduction in our electric light rates.

Respectfully submitted by the undersigned tax-paying voters of Littlefield, Texas.

Production Credit Official Attends Two Day Meeting

M. E. Snyder, Secretary-Treasurer of the Plainview Production Credit Association, has just returned to Plainview from Amarillo where he attended a two-day conference of production credit association directors. Directors of this association who attended the conference are: I. F. Willman of Muleshoe, R. A. Axtell, Springlake and D. T. Northcutt, Silverton. Other members of the Board who were unable to attend the meeting are C. W. Smiley of Littlefield who is President, and J. E. Rigler, Plainview.

"Under the nation's defense program, production credit associations have an increased responsibility to agriculture," Mr. Snyder said. "It is their responsibility at this time to continue to make available convenient, rapid low-cost credit service in meeting the sound needs of their farmer and stockmen members for funds to finance crop and livestock operations. At the same time, they must keep in mind the necessity of preserving the soundness of the system if it is to continue to serve in bad times as well as good, and their membership necessarily be restricted to operators who have a sound basis for credit without abnormally high prices."

Mr. Snyder said it was reported that the 36 associations serving Texas during the past seven and a half years have gone through a formative period in which they have built up strong reserves for added safety. "These cooperative associations have now a total combined capital and surplus of about $8,250,000, about 40 percent of which is made up of stock owned by farmers and ranchmen and surplus the associations have earned since organization.

"The membership in Texas has increased from 14,292 a year ago to 18,328 at the end of May and the total amount of credit outstanding

"The whole idea behind the setting up of these associations was that farmers need a dependable source of credit that will not dry up in hard times and that fits farm and livestock credit needs—whether times are good or bad."

"Livestock conditions generally were reported good over the 43 Northwest Texas Counties reported, Snyder said. It was brought out at the conference that many farmers and stockmen were taking advantage of the high livestock prices and reducing their debts. "A good 'live-at-home' program is very important on any farm and it is a public necessity" declared Mr. Snyder.

Directors and secretary-treasurers of 14 Canadian, Amarillo, Memphis, Lubbock and Plainview Production Credit Associations also attended the conference at Amarillo.

To The Voters On The Light Plant Issue:

One of the purposes in proposing to build a City Light Plant, of course, is to get light and power at lower rates, and if the light plant is built the City will make a substantial and material reduction in the rates for light and power below the present rates existing in the City today. We furthermore state that in addition to the protection afforded by the law, it is our intention to write into the contract for the construction of the plant and sale of the bonds that the City will have the right after the expenses of operation and current bonds are paid and sinking fund is set up and proper reserves are provided for, to use the balance remaining any year of the light plant funds for other legitimate purposes, for paying on the city debts, lowering taxes, and other necessary improvements.

The bonds can easily be sold on that basis because we have commitments to that effect.

A. B. Chapman Attends Lions International

A. B. Chapman, past President of the Littlefield Lions Club, left Wednesday to represent the local group at the Lions international, which opened at New Orleans, La. Monday morning, and will continue throughout today (Thursday).

Earl Wilson is President of the local group, and was elected a delegate to attend this meeting, but owing to illness was unable to attend. Mr. Wilson has been confined in the Payne-Shotwell Hospital for the past ten days suffering from Typhus fever.

Before returning home Friday, Mr. Chapman will visit his father, E. S. Chapman, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Chapman, at Temple.

Registration Totals 34,530 In Texas

Total Selective Service registrations in Texas on July 1 was 34,530, General J. Watt Page, State Director, announced recently following tabulation of reports received from the State's 351 local boards.

As in the first registration last fall, Harris County led with 2,759 registrants. Dallas County was second with 2,415.

General Page said that 34,126 of the new registrants are young men who have reached the age of twenty-one since the first registration day on October 16, 1940.

General Page pointed out that the 21-year-olds who registered on July 1 will not be placed ahead or after the older registrants on their local boards, but they will be integrated proportionately. For example, he said, if there should happen to be ten new registrants in any area and 100 old registrants awaiting call, one new registrant would be placed after each group of 10 old registrants.

The order in which the new registrants will be integrated with the old ones will be determined by a national lottery to be held in Washington, D. C., on July 17, General Page said.

Future Farmers To Meet Friday Night

Members of the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America are urged to attend a meeting Friday night at 8:15 o'clock at the high school, according to T. J. Jones, local vocational agriculture instructor.

The group will make plans for the FFA district encampment, which will be held the first week in August at Ceta Canyon.

"Moon Over Miami" Starring Don Ameche And Betty Grable Comes To Palace

Miami, the glamour city of the South, with its swaying palms, gleaming-white beaches, and incredibly blue lagoons, provides the background for the music, laughter and romance of the year's most elaborate Technicolor musical. Appropriately titled "Moon Over Miami", the 20th Century-Fox hit teams Don Ameche and Betty Grable for the second time. The romantic duo of "Down Argentine Way" shares top featured billing with Robert Cummings.

Coming to the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, and continuing through Sunday and Monday, "Moon Over Miami" is the gay, tune-filled tale of two sisters, Betty Grable and Carole Landis, and their aunt Charlotte Greenwood, who invest their $5,000 inheritance in the hope of realizing big dividends. It's an original sort of investment—a holiday fling complete with expensive clothes and a luxurious suite at a swanky Miami Beach hotel. The expected dividends,—a millionaire husband for Betty.

Betty poses as an heiress, Carole as her secretary, and Charlotte as her personal maid. The threesome is more than successful when Betty hooks not one but two millionaires, Don Ameche and Robert Cummings—So she thinks. Don, the one she falls for, turns out to be a play-boy fortune hunter bent on the same mission.

She then kids herself into believing that she loves Bob, a bona-fide millionaire. But before they can marry, Don turns up—and the stage is set for a finale which is refreshingly different.

Not only does "Moon Over Miami" boast of a star-studded cast which includes Jack Haley and Cobina Wright, Jr., but there are in addition eight hit tunes by master tunesmiths Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger. You are sure to come out whistling one of these smash hits: "Kindergarden Conga", "Hurrah For Today", "Miami", "I've Got You All To Myself", "Loveliness and Love", "You Started Something", "Is That Good", and "Solitary Seminole."

To top these off are spectacular dance routines directed by Hermes Pan, who also appears in the "Kindergarden Conga" number with Betty Grable. An unusual dance, the "Seminole Legend", features Jack Cole, one of the nation's finest interpretive dancers, and his company of sixty. The Condos Brothers, the sensational New York specialty team, do a whirlwind routine with Betty.

The screen play for "Moon Over Miami" which was directed by Walter Lang and produced by Harry Joe Brown, was written by Vincent Lawrence and Brown Holmes. It was adapted by George Seaton and Lynn Starling from the play by Stephen Powys.

Splendid progress is being made on the Amherst Cooperative hospital under construction at that city.

The first unit, representing an investment of about $15,000, is expected to be completed in about a months time.

As soon as the first unit is completed, it is expected that the workmen will stay on the job, and construction will start at once on the second story.

Dr. E. O. McDaniel, who will be in charge of the new hospital, has offices in the Harmon Drug Store, and is already serving the membership under the hospital plan.

THE PASSING OF THE Boomtown

Oil boomtowns exist today only in the movies. The old-time "gusher" wells are gone forever.

In the early days, as long as oil flowed, the boomtowns flourished. But soon the wells failed and the booms collapsed, carrying with them the income and security of those who had depended on them.

Today, through a sound program of conserving oil and gas, hundreds of Texas communities are enjoying a permanent type of petroleum development. Furthermore, because of conservation, we have the largest oil reserves in the world, one of our greatest assets for National Defense.

Oil now builds stable communities. It provides assured tax revenues and greater ultimate tax returns than were ever possible in boomtown days. And every citizen benefits from the income oil creates.

Conservation not only protects Texas oil resources. It also assures for many years the prosperity which oil brings to every community where it is found.

A DOG'S LIFE

The pulse of a nation beat in sympathy when newspapers carried the story of "Rowdy" the white and tan fox terrier, consigned to death, by his late mistress, Mrs. Clara Edgerton. She stipulated in her will that her pet be "painlessly" executed, so he would not be lonely and friendless.

Instantly there was a deluge of letters from all over the country protesting against the dog's legacy of death. Americans who read callously of the thousands killed in traffic accidents every year, who take the news of war death with routine reactions, quickly formed a "Rowdy Defense Committee". Thousands offered him a good home. And so "Rowdy" is now mascot for the Hamilton Field army camp in California.

The case of "Rowdy" may well symbolize the readiness of Americans to defend the principals of free life and their sympathy for the underdog. Let the dictators beware!

The Nation Needs Aluminum

The Nation is appealing to all its citizens for their active assistance for the first time since President Roosevelt's declaration of a full national emergency May 27, 1941.

The National movement for defense aluminum collection started in Lamb County Monday, and will continue through Saturday, July 26. Judge Doss was recently appointed to head the Lamb County campaign by Gov. O'Daniel. The local committee named to take care of the collection of aluminum here are A. B. Chapman and Dr. Wm. N. Orr. Other committees have been named in the various cities and communities in the County.

The Nation needs aluminum for planes and other vital items in its defense program more rapidly than existing facilities can produce it. Additional facilities are being constructed as quickly as possible. In the meantime, the people of the nation can help by donating all used aluminumware that can be spared from their households without being replaced. No individual or group or corporation will make any profit out of this transaction. The entire proceeds of the sale will be used for civilian defense.

In these times of national emergency conservation of all vital national resources needed for defense purposes is essential. If we will all take an inventory for the old pieces of aluminum we have about our premises, gather it together, no doubt there are not many households but what can contribute some of this much needed product to our government to aid in the defense program in which all of us are proud to assist. There may be later appeals for help in other forms after this one, but a wholehearted popular response by the American people to this first general appeal from their Government cannot fail to impress the enemies of democracy.

TEXAS LEADS

Every native of the Great State of Texas may be justly proud of this great land, from its very colorful history to its bountiful resources.

A bulletin recently issued by the State Department of Agriculture revealed that Texas leads the nation in—

Oil, Gas, Wool, Roses, Sheep, Goats, hides, cotton, mohair, pecans, onions, mutton, Helium, Spinich, Turkeys, Sulphur, Highways, pipe Lines, Beef cattle, cotton seed, Carbon Black, Lead in Farm, Sorghum Grains, Railroad Mileage, Number of farms, Mineral production, acres of cultivated land and number of domestic animals.

Incidentally, this is the first time a hole-in-one has ever been made on the local golf course.

Vernon Eagan recently made a hole-in-one while playing at the Meadowbrook Golf course in Lubbock, so—Windy just couldn't let him get ahead.

Mr. Watkins was playing with Eagan, L. C. Hewitt, and J. H. Barnett, when he made his second hole-in-one.

The play will not be recognized, as the local golf club is not a member of the National Professional Player's Association.

Watkins is the manager of the West Texas Cotton Oil Company, and was recently elected vice-president of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Watkins used to play golf, and usually gave "Windy a run for his money" when she played.

This story comes from Atlanta, Ga. . . . "Fulton county officials are about convinced that they will have to be more emphatic with their Sunday school lessons for caddies at the county golf course.

"Recently they began holding classes at the club house with the club officials acting as teachers. Shortly after the classes started, two automobiles parked near the club house were entered and several objects stolen.

"Now the teachers are trying to weed out the good pupils and the bad ones."

Miss Katherine Lewis, eight-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. (Bob) Lewis, Jr., left Friday for a month's visit with her grandmother, Mrs. R. W. Lewis, Sr., and other relatives in Independence, Kansas.

Accompanied to Clovis, N. M. by her parents, Katherine boarded the streamlined Scout train, fast train on the Santa Fe, for her first train ride. She was met in Wellington, Kansas by her grandmother.

Mrs. Bob Lewis didn't much like the idea of the long train ride for her daughter, alone, but after investigations proved that a hostess was employed on the Scout train, and, after Mr. Lewis had approved, and Katherine had begged for the trip, for weeks, her mother finally gave her consent.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will go to Independence, Kansas, for Katherine in about a month.

Mayor Homer Hall asks that local citizens cut the weeds around their homes this year, and it will be greatly appreciated by the City if civic organizations, or individuals can provide for the cutting of weeds on the vacant lots.

This town is getting "weedy", and in former years the City has paid for the labor for the cutting of the weeds, but this year, this labor has already been used in other civic projects.

Lloyd Chapman, who is a corporal in the United Marines, stationed at the guard base in San Diego, Cal., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Chapman, here Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Chapman was hunting a deserter from the Marines, and stopped here for a short visit. He plans to return about August 1 for a 30-day leave of absence.

He has been in the Marines the past four years, and for the past three and one-half years, he has been stationed in China. He returned to the states about June 1. This is the first time his parents had seen him in five years.

It has not cost a cent for repairs in more than twelve years continuous operation. It's tiny flame is scarcely larger than the pilot light on range or water heater so we have figured that the cost of operation has never exceeded 2c per day even during the hottest months when so many ice cubes are needed. Not only do we have plenty of cubes and space for ice cream, but vegetables are kept crisp and fresh and there is steady, constant refrigeration at a temperature under 40° for milk, butter, and meat—foods that must have just that to be safe for human consumption." —MRS. The ROAD to BAGDAD

by GEORGE GIBBS

CHAPTER IX

SYNOPSIS
 Beautiful Camilla Dean is touring Egypt and Palestine with a party of Americans. On the voyage she has many admirers, among them a wealthy Arab, Joseph Asad, in reality Hassan Khan, leader of fanatical Arabs in Palestine. She meets also the English-bred American, Ronald Barker, known as El Kerk, mysterious leader of tribes opposed to Hassan. Camilla accepts the attentions of Asad to obtain information which she may be in danger if she continues her tour through Syria, but she decides to go, relying on the protection of Sim McManus, a genial American, also in love with her. Kitty Trimble has been carrying on a flirtation with Mahmoud Daoud, one of Barker's enemies and she tells Camilla that Mahmoud has just been arrested. The group crossed the border into Syria.

After a moment of hesitation Mr. Abayad unlocked a cabinet and brought out an oblong ebony box inlaid with silver.

"Thank you, Mr. Abayad. I will look at some other things if you will show them to me."
 She tried to get a glimpse of the inscription on the container in which he put the oblong box, but it was written in Arabic.
 That was the end of her pilgrimage which had seemed to promise so much and had achieved so little.

Camilla and Josie had seen the great Mosque of Omayyad, the tomb of Saladin, and had driven along the Barada River in state, turning at last into the Boulevard Djermal Pasha where their car stopped before an impressive building of white stone.

"You are very welcome to my poor house, mesdemoiselles," Arif had said as they dismounted. "It gives me great pleasure to entertain you in accordance with the customs of my country. But, if you are not happy to sit on divans and cushions in the eastern fashion, you may have sofas and chairs that have been made in Paris . . ."

It was a palace that one might have expected to find on the Champs-Elysees, its furnishings redolent of the late Empire. They had been served by men in conventional black who moved silently with huge platters of food, speaking not at all. Hassan did not appear until the coffee was served.

Now that the ice was broken it seemed that Camilla's doubts as to the visits had been unnecessary, for Arif had treated them with the utmost consideration and it was difficult for Camilla to believe that he was anything but a typical boulevardier, with a taste for sound wine, good tobacco, and a glance for the ladies. Josie, who had gone Turkish for the moment, sat with Arif cross-legged on cushions and smoked cigarettes made in Beirut especially to Arif's order for his lady friends, while Camilla and Hassan had gone out on the terrace to look at the stars.

They had emerged from the atmosphere of rich food, spices, sandalwood, and the smell of latakia in the desert air, that smelled of sand, baked earth, and the odor of almond blossoms. In the moonlight the domes of the mosques were globules of mother-of-pearl, the minarets, spindles of glass. The river flowed silently between its retaining walls not far away and the sounds of voices, the tinkle of the bells on the little trams, the wail of a distant orchestra playing jazz translated into French, all mingled to make the scene different from anything Camilla could remember. But of course it was Hassan, leaning against the balustrade beside her, who suddenly typified the East as no other person had done, though she couldn't quite eliminate the idea of the Hollywood villain that she had once associated with him.

It was the first moment they had been alone since leaving Jerusalem, a moment that she had wished for and dreaded. She knew that Hassan was on his guard against her and that she would have to play her game more skillfully than before. He did not talk of his own household, nor of his own house which was not far away, but began speaking at once of his father. He was very wealthy. He liked Camilla and would like very much for Hassan to marry her.

"Well," he said, "what have you to say?"
 She felt that evading him was of little use. "What do you want me to say?"
 Hassan frowned at the patch of moonlight now dimpling the river.

"I don't think it matters a great deal what you say now," he muttered. "It's what you do that matters. It's what you do that matters. My father has shown you his hospitality. I wanted you to see how we live here in Damascus. My own house is not far away. Very soon Arif goes to Paris to live permanently and I will look after all his affairs and then this house will be mine. Do you like it? Is there anything more that I can give you?"

"I—It is all very flattering," she said slowly, trying to analyze her repugnance to that other house and its occupants. "But I don't want magnificence like that—I wouldn't know what to do with it."
 "Of course you understand that I am asking you to marry me. It is not the first time. But you haven't answered definitely yet. That was, of course, on account of Ronald Barker. You tried to hide your feelings from me—"
 "Ronald Barker and I have quarreled. I have no expectation of seeing him again."
 "Interesting, if true."
 "You don't believe me?"
 "I've believed you once or twice and found that you'd betrayed me. You're very clever. So clever that I'm sure you might be useful to me."
 "How?"
 "In deceiving my enemies—as you've deceived me. I have many of them. They will keep you busy."
 "I'd rather be busy in other ways."
 "Such as helping Ronald Barker take away the lands of my people."
 "No, I'm not in favor of that. Neither am I in favor of the murderous methods your people are using to gain their ends."
 "Would you want me to stand by and see them shot down by the British soldiers without raising a hand to defend them? You saw the tomb of the great Saladin today—the man whose green turban drove the Christians out of Palestine—and you have seen what we have become—a nation of weaklings without a leader."
 "And you would like to revive the Holy Wars—to be their leader like Saladin?"
 "God knows I would—like Saladin, just like Saladin. I would like you to help me to bring peace."
 "But with a sword?"
 "Yes, if necessary."
 "And drive all foreigners out of Palestine and Syria—put all Christians to death, perhaps." She laughed. "This is a strange way to make love to a Christian woman, Hassan Isar."
 "At least I'm honest." He laughed. "But I'm no Saladin. Like my own people I've grown weak with easy living. I've fallen in love with an unbeliever. I wouldn't kill her except with kindness."
 He was very much in earnest and his deep voice was suddenly vibrant with emotion. Something could be done with a passion like this and yet she felt singularly helpless. It was too great an undertaking he asked of her. "I—I'm sorry, Hassan," was all that she could say.
 "You mean," he asked, "that you refuse me?"
 She made no reply.
 "It's a showdown this time, Camilla," Hassan said.
 "I'm sorry," she repeated frowning, "but I can't marry you, Hassan."
 He straightened and faced her. His fists were clenched and she thought for a moment that he was going to strike her. The dominant passion was anger and she saw that he was struggling for self-control. With an effort he subdued his voice. "Hospitality is a sacred duty here in my country," he said. "You are safe with me. You have done our friendship a great wrong by deceiving me. You think you are deceiving me again." He laughed. "You'll never deceive me again. I've let you carry on, hoping I might win in spite of you—that I could bribe you with luxury, with the promises of power. I ought to have known you weren't to be bought even if I told you what you came here to do and out. You'll never get what you came here for, you'll never find out where Osman Khalil is hidden. Never."
 She laid her fingers on his arm, trying to speak, but no words would come. The situation was too momentous for the ordinary phrases or gestures. She was sick of equivocations. She would not lie to him now even if she thought she could deceive him. "I—I'm sorry, Hassan," was all she could say.
 (TO BE CONTINUED)

They drove over the flank of a hill covered with anemones and entered the Oasis of Damascus at nightfall to the accompaniment of rushing water from the streams along the roadside that came from the melting snows of Mount Hermon, past the barracks of soldiers, and were suddenly in a city of surfaced roads, tinkling little French trams, electric lights, and handsome buildings which bore the unmistakable French imprint. Then to a public square and a modern hotel where French and English were spoken and well-trained servants carried their luggage to their rooms.

Here Hassan left the party to go to his father's house in the boulevard not far away.

Camilla awoke to the call of the muezzin from a near-by minaret and resolved at once that she would give the entire morning to the satisfaction of that curiosity. After coffee she went down to the bazaar which she needed. The proprietor of the bazaar was a young Armenian named Kevorkian and she permitted him to charge her high price, while she used arts she had found effective with young men of his sort in gaining his confidence.

No, he had not seen Osman Khalil, but he knew that he had been in Damascus several weeks ago, for there had been a demonstration of the Faithful in front of the palace of Arif-el-Arif where the descendant of the Prophet had spent a few days. This was interesting information to Camilla. No one knew where Osman had gone, but it was said that he had gone to Bagdad where he would be concealed until the hue and cry in Jerusalem had subsided.

Then Camilla asked him, "What does Osman Khalil do while he was in Damascus?"
 "He was very quiet, staying in the palace of Arif-el-Arif, only appearing for a moment on the terrace to greet the crowd that had gathered in the boulevard."
 "Did he go into the bazaars?"
 "I don't know—wait a moment."
 Kevorkian shook his head slowly and then quickly looked up at her. The idea had just popped into his mind. He had heard last week from a man who made his bracelets and candelabra, about a golden perfume bottle for which Abayad, the antique dealer, had made the case. It was the sheik's habit to present valuable gifts to his distinguished guests. Perhaps . . . it was just chance. If Mr. Abayad would show her the perfume bottle she would induce him to talk about it. Of course that might not help her, but anything was worth trying.

She bought the gold compact Kevorkian offered and had it sent to her room. Then, without leaving word with any of her party as to where she was going, took a taxi to the address Kevorkian gave her. It was near the lower end of Bright Street, a ramshackle building of frame, wandering drunkenly over almost an entire block.

Mr. Abayad, with an exaggerated perfection of precise diction, showed her around the place which was a museum of interesting pieces, chateaus, candelabra, brassware, some of them frankly manufactured for sale to tourists, and some, precious family pieces which were not for sale.

After a moment of hesitation Mr. Abayad unlocked a cabinet and brought out an oblong ebony box inlaid with silver, containing a curious golden scent bottle in its silk-lined interior.

She gazed at it, entranced. "I would like, perhaps, to have a copy made for me if it would not cost too much."
 "Of course, madame, I have other bottles, but none like this." Abayad put the object back in its case. "I am sorry, but this copy may not be reproduced. It was sent away today."
 "Where does it go?" she asked.
 "Abayad closed the lid of the cabinet and locked it. "I regret I cannot tell you," he said, "but you could now, and put the scent bottle in the cabinet from which he took it. It was clear that the conversation about it was concluded."
