LAMB COUNTY WILL SEEK TO RAISE $450 FOR NAVY RELIEF PROGRAM

Drive To Start Apr. 19; Dr. Payne Named Chairman

State Of Texas Asked For $210,000 Toward Navy Relief

Lamb County's quota in the Texas drive for $210,000 for the Navy Relief Society was announced today as $450.00 by Dr. C. E. Payne, Lamb County Chairman.

Dr. C. E. Payne was recently named chairman of the Navy Relief Society for Lamb County by Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, Chairman of the Texas Citizens Committee of the Navy Relief Society.

Governor Coke Stevenson has proclaimed the week beginning April 19th as "Navy Appreciation Week" in Texas, and during this period the solicitation of funds will be made. A chairman has been named in every county in Texas in order that the entire state may be afforded an opportunity to contribute to this war effort.

"The Navy Relief Society" is the substitute for the head of the family when a man is in the Navy, Coast Guard or Marines and is fighting out battles on the high seas or "hotfronts", County Chairman Payne stated. "The Navy Relief" society relieves our navy men of the anxiety concerning the welfare of their loved ones at home. In contributing to this fund we are sharpening the fighting edge of the fighting men.

"Since the beginning of American Naval history, the men of our Navy have banded together to be assured that their families back home would be cared for in time of need. This is the first time these men have asked the public to assist them in their relief fund. But since Pearl Harbor the burden has been too great for them to carry alone.

"I know that the citizens of Lamb County can be counted on to gladly do their part, and I am confident that our quota shall be reached, if not exceeded, by our during Navy Appreciation Week.

Two Inches Of Moisture Falls

Ushered in by considerable sand, Littlefield and the South Plains received light showers Tuesday afternoon, which by midnight had developed into a heavy rain, which continued to fall all day Wednesday. Also about 9 A. M. considerable hail fell and about noon some snow, in large flakes was ushered in from the northwest, giving to this section the much needed moisture, for which farmers and merchants alike were greatly pleased and encouraged to receive. About two inches of precipitation had fallen by Wednesday night in the Littlefield territory. The moisture, however, is reported to be general all over the state.

Other towns reporting rain were Sudan, Amherst, Anton, Brownfield; Crosbyton, Lockney, Plainview, with the Panhandle reporting snow and sleet.

Temperatures for the past week were: Thursday 44 low, and high 85; Friday, low 51 and high 88; Saturday, low 50 and high 88; Sunday, low 58 and high 83; Monday, low 47 and high 75; Tuesday, low 42 and high 51; and Wednesday, low 32 and high 34.

Seek To Retain Part Of CCC Camp Buildings Here

Efforts are being made by the City of Littlefield, the Chamber of Commerce, and other groups, to have the permanent buildings at the Littlefield CCC camp retained on the property.

These buildings chiefly consist of a large shed and an office building which was used by the soil conservation executives when the camp was in operation.

A conference with military authorities is contemplated. The buildings would be ideal for the 4-H-FFA stock show, or other similar purpose.

The remainder of the camp is being dismantled and moved.

Nation Observes 4-H Club Week

This week, National Club Week, April 5-11, the Nation is saluting its millions and a half 4-H Club members who are doing war service on the rural front. About 75,000 of these boys and girls are Texans, according to figures from the State 4-H headquarters.

National 4-H Club Week, April 5-11, is also a good time to give recognition to the thousands of other people who are contributing to the success of the 4-H movement, in the opinion of H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

He explains that there are 2,386 men who are giving their services as adult leaders for the 1,971 boys 4-H Clubs in the state plus 2,223 women who are serving as sponsors for the 2,010 girls' clubs. "It's all volunteer work. These local leaders get no financial compensation but the satisfaction of helping build future leaders and of community service", Director Williamson explains.

4-H Work in Texas is directed by the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

1942 Wildcat Team Will Be Composed Mostly Of Inexperienced Boys

Coaches Abe Murphy and C. L. Storrs issued uniforms to some 28 hopeful gridiron aspirants Monday for the opening workout of spring training.

The entire squad is composed of inexperienced boys with the exception of two returning lettermen. Raymond Reddell, who lettered at guard last fall, has been converted to a blocking back and is the Captain elect for 1942. Jimmie Robinson, the other returning letterman, will be the Co-Captain.

The boys are small and inexperienced, but they had plenty of spirit in the initial workout. With this willingness to work hard they will develop into plenty of trouble for their opponents by next fall.

Most of the spring training will be devoted to the fundamentals of the game; namely, blocking and tackling.

Next year's Wildcat schedule has been almost completed and is as follows:

- Sept. 18 Hereford — Here
- Sept. 25 Floydada — There
- Oct. 2 Morton — Here
- Oct. 9 — Open
- Oct. 16 Olton — There
- Oct. 23 Sudan — There
- Oct. 30 — Open
- Nov. 6 Muleshoe — There
- Nov. 13 Levelland — Here

Conference Games A game will be scheduled later for October 30, to be played in Littlefield, to fill out the schedule.

Last year's District 5A composed of 14 teams has been made into two separate districts. District 5A is now composed of Littlefield, Olton, Sudan, Muleshoe, and Levelland.

Restrictions On Sugar Beet Planting

In a statement issued by F. Bain, Secretary Lamb County FFA, word has been received from the county office to the effect that acreage restrictions would be in effect for the planting of sugar beets in 1942.

Further states that payments made to sugar beet growers for sugar commercially recovered from the sugar beets marketed for sugar, provided they meet the various conditions of the contract. Among these conditions are: non-employment of children; payment of fair and reasonable wages to persons employed in the production, cultivation or harvesting of sugar beets; payment of processors who as producers wish to qualify for conditional payments, and the carrying out of soil-building practices.

Since sugar beet growing in Northern Texas is still in the development stage, care must be taken in the selection of lands, giving full weight to the available equipment and the ability of growers to handle a crop of beets. However, since there has been a revision of 1942 production goals for essential agricultural products, it is hoped that the 1942 production of sugar beets in Northern Texas will be greatly increased over the 1941 production and it appears at this time that it will be possible to secure contracts (Continued on Back Page)

40-Mile-An-Hour Patriotism

One of the greatest evidences of most people's desire to co-operate with the war program is the voluntary enforcement of the 40-mile-an-hour speed limit requested by President Roosevelt.

Although the President has to wait for state legislature to put through laws in most states to provide such a limit, the people seem to have taken it upon themselves to refrain from mirror shows that there isn't a cop within miles.

Anyone motoring today on our big highways, built for safe speeding, will testify that 40 miles an hour has recently been accepted as a limit by practically all patriotic Americans. It has become a new rule of the road which we all respect more than we did the speed limitations enforced by the police.

The great majority of motorists have for years thought nothing of breaking speed laws. Many of us have felt that we knew what speed was safe under varying conditions and considered the laws to be made for the other fellow. If sighted a cop we recalled the laws and acted accordingly. Otherwise, we used our own judgement about speed.

But now most of us have a better reason than the cop nuisance for watching our speedometers. We realize that speeding has become unpatriotic and we not only keep the pressure off the gas but we show our resentment when anyone passes us at a speed exceeding the 40-mile limit.

Motorists have always enjoyed glaring at one another for behavior on the road which seemed reckless or which interfered with our own driving freedom.

But now we have a new and more compelling glare to turn on the driver who persists in speeding—a glare that clearly says: "You're a traitor to your country." And that's the glare that gets them—it's the one which will quickly put an end to the speeding problem for the duration of the war.

Conservation And Farm Production

More positive conservation is necessary if American farmers are to reach their production goals this year and meet the greater demands which will be made of them in future years.

That's what Fred Wallace, national chief of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency, this week told AAA committeemen in a letter pointing out that if it had not been for the conservation work of recent years, agriculture would not even have "an outside chance of reaching 1942 production goals".

Wallace said that American agriculture, aided by a running start, would be able to carry out its war production task by a gigantic effort to do two things: (1) Use every method of adjustment to get the right amount of each product, without waste; (2) Use every method of conservation to increase yields this year and build up the soil for bigger output next year.

"This means making the best possible use of our land in producing the food needed to win the war and write the peace", he wrote. "Every conservation measure we know about must be used to make every acre count in producing this year's record output and in building soil fertility for even greater production next year and for the duration. Agriculture must be prepared for a long war".

Conservation practices increase yields per acre by adding plant food to the land, by preserving fertilizers, by holding water in the soil, by preventing the rich earth from being dried up by the sun, blown away by the wind, or washed by rains into ditches and rivers and into the sea, he continued.

Reminding farmers of the havoc created during the last war by recklessly plowing up additional acres, Wallace said: "This time we cannot possibly get the needed production simply through a plow-up spree".

CHAPTER XII

SYNOPSIS

Leonard Borland's protests bank account is ample, though his pretty, opera-struck wife Doris is her "career," interrupted by marriage at 19 and the birth of two children. Borland knows her avowedly to help out the family outgrowth. Hugo Lorentz, her teacher, says around irritates him. Cecil, an opera singer, knows Doris Lorentz. She discovers Borland's baritone voice, tells him Hugo Lorentz is in love with Doris that tortures every man she gets in touch with. He ought to wake up by giving a recital. "Go get by a triumph," she advises. Cecil pays for lessons—kisses, but declares he loves Doris. On tour, wires him and she makes up singing as Logan Bennett in up-coming operas. She gets him an opera ticket. Again he makes good and telling him she loves him, says he can now bring Doris to his movie audience gives Doris the broken-spirited, she says she's broken. She tells Leonard she loves him. She learns about Cecil at Gwendolyn's cocktail party, decides it's business that kept him out of the scene and Gwendolyn, to matters over, laughingly suggests Leonard sing. He does and she is furious—he is so good. She him from home and drains their bank account. He accepts an offering with the Hippodrome opera company. He is at the theater now, singing his role in "Rigoletto," isn't the same without Cecil.

on earth. The Gilda came running on, then, and we did the duet, and the curtain came down.

Did I get that call? I'm telling you I did.

I went to my dressing-room, walked around, and was so excited I couldn't even sit down. I wanted to go out there and do it all over again. It didn't seem two minutes before they called me, and I went down for the last act.

The Gilda and I did the stuff that starts it, and then went off, and Parma had it to himself for the "La Donna e Mobile." I think I've given you the idea by now that that dumb Italian is a pretty good tenor. He knocked them over with it, and by the time the Maddalena came on, and the Gilda and I went out again for the quartet, we were in the home stretch of one of those performances you read about. So the quartet started.

Well, you've heard the "Rigoletto" quartet a thousand times, but don't let anybody tell you it's a pushover. The first part goes a mile a minute, the second part slower than hell, and if there's one thing harder to sing than a fast allegro it's a slow andante, and three times out of five something happens, and many times as you've heard it you haven't often heard it right. But we were right.

Parma started it like a breeze, and the Maddalena was right on top of him, and the Gilda and I were right on top of her, and we closed out the allegro with all four cylinders clicking and the show doing seventy. Parma laid it down nice on the andante, and we were right with him, and we brought it home just right. We were right on the end of the stick. Well, that stopped the show too. They clapped, and cheered, and clapped some more, and Schultz threw the stick on me to go on, and a fat chance I could. We had to give them some more. So after about a minute, Schultz played the cue for the andante, and Parma started again.

He started, and the Maddalena came in, and the Gilda came in, and I came in. It seemed to me we got in there with it awful quick, but I was so excited by that time I hardly knew where I was, and I didn't pay much attention to it. And then all of a sudden I had this awful feeling that something was wrong.

I want you to get it straight now, what happened. The andante is the same old tune, "Bella figlia dell' amore," that you've heard all your life and could whistle in your sleep. The tenor sings it through once, then he goes up to a high B flat, holds it, comes down again, and sings it over again. The second time he sings it, the contralto comes in, then the soprano, then the baritone, and they're off into the real quartet. Well, our contralto, the Maddalena, was an old-time operatic hack that had sung it a thousand times, but something got into her, and instead of waiting for Parma to finish that strain once, she came in like she would on the repeat. And she pulled the Gilda in. And the Gilda pulled me in.

You remember what I told you about speed? Up there you've got no time to think. You hear your cue, and you come in, and heaven help you if you miss the boat. So there was Parma and there was the orchestra in one place in the score, and there were the Maddalena, the Gilda, and me in another place in the score, and there was Schultz, trying like a wild man to straighten it out. Not a whisper from the audience, you understand. So long as you keep going and do your best they'll give you a break, and even if you crack up and have to start over they'll give you a break—so long as you do your best. They all want to laugh, but they won't—so long as you keep your head down and sock.

But I didn't know then what was wrong. All I knew was that it was getting sourer by the second, and I started looking around for help. That was all they needed—that one little flash of the white feather—and they let out a roar.

You can think of a lot of things in one beat of music. It flashed through my head and I had heard the bird at last. It flashed through my head, in some kind of a dumb way, why I had heard it. I turned around and faced them. I must have looked sore. They roared again.

That whole big theater then was spinning around for me then like a cage with a squirrel in it, and me the squirrel. I had to know where I was at. I looked over, and tried to see Parma. And then, brother, and then once more, I committed the cardinal sin of all grand opera. I forgot to watch the conductor. I didn't know that he had killed his orchestra, killed his singers, brought the whole thing to a stop, and was wigwagging Parma to start it over. And here I came, bellowing out with my part:

"Faci, e mia sara la cura, La vendetta d'affrettari!"

They howled. They let out a shriek you could hear in Harlem. Someone yelled "Bravo!" A hundred yelled "Bravo!" A million yelled "Bravo!" hell.

I ran . . . Next thing I knew I was by a stairway, holding on to the iron railing, almost twisting it out by the roots trying to keep myself from flying into a million pieces. The Gilda was beside me, yelling at me at the top of her lungs, and don't think a coloratura soprano can't put on a nice job of plain and fancy cussing when she gets sore. The stagehands were standing around, looking at me as though I was some leper that they didn't dare touch. Outside, Schultz was playing the introduction to the stuff between the contralto and the bass. He had had to skip five whole pages. I just stood there, twisting at those iron bars.

Somewhere off, I heard the fire door slam, and next thing I knew, Cecil was there, her eyes big as saucers with horror. She grabbed hold of me.

"You go out there and finish this show, or I'll—"

"I can't!"

"You've got to! You've simply got to. You went yellow! You went yellow out there, and you've got to go back and lick them! You've got to!"

"Let me alone!"

"But what are they going to do? You can't let them down like that!"

"I don't care what they do!"

"Leonard, listen to me. They're out there. They're all out there—she, and your two kids—and you've got to finish it. You've just got to do it!"

"I won't! I'll never go out there—"

They were playing my cue. She took hold of me, tried to pull me away from the stairs, tried to throw me on stage by main force. I hung on. I hung on to that iron like it was a life raft. The bass started singing my part. She looked at me and bit her lip. I saw two tears jump out of her eyes and rdn down her face. She turned around and left me.

I got to my dressing-room, locked the door, and then I cracked. No iron bars there to hold on to. I clenched my teeth, my fists, my toes, and it was no good. Here they came, those awful hysterical sobs I had heard coming out of Doris that day, and the more I fought them back, the worse they got. I knew the truth then, knew why Cecil had laughed at me that night in Rochester, why Horn had been so doubtful about me, and all the rest of it. I was no trouper, and they knew it. I had smoke, and nothing else. But you can't lick that racket with smoke. You've got to care about it; you can't get by on a little voice and a little music. You've got to dig up the heart to take it when it's tough, and the only way you can find the heart is to love it. I was just another Doris. I had everything but what it takes.

TEXAS FARMERS TO RE-SUBMIT BOND PROPOSAL

Plans for circulating a petition to submit to the commissioners court at its next regular meeting, petitioning that body to re-submit Sudan's road bond election to the voters of Road District 4, were underway at Sudan following a decision of district court last week, invalidating the election last November 4, in which Road District 4 sought to vote $145,000 in road bonds for the construction of approximately 30 miles of hard surfaced lateral roads in the district, according to announcement made by the road committee. The issue lost in the court road test by a two-vote margin.

Legality of the election last November, in which the proposal carried by a vote of 239 for to 114 against, had been contested by opponents of the issue. A two thirds majority was necessary for the proposal to carry.

The proposal as voted last November called for the construction of a road running south of Sudan approximately eight miles, through the community of Beck.

A road running west from Sudan, approximately five miles, to the west boundary of Lamb county.

A road running northeast, then north, from Sudan, approximately 12 miles, intersecting U. S. highway 70.

A road running east from Sudan for four miles.

SHIPS MAY WIN THE WAR

THE giant keel assembly of a 10,000-ton cargo vessel takes shape in a West Coast Canadian shipyard. When completed, this ship will be capable of carrying the following cargo in ONE voyage: Enough flour, cheese, bacon, ham, canned and dried fruits to feed 225,000 persons in Britain for a week; 2,150 tons of steel bars and slabs; enough Bren gun carriers, trucks and motorcycles to motorize an infantry battalion; enough bombs to load 950 medium bombers or 225 heavy bombers; enough lumber and plywood, wall-board and nails to build 90 four-room cottages; two complete bombers stowed on the after deck, and enough aluminum in the hold to build 310 medium bombers or 640 fighter planes in England. Canada's production of these ships now almost equals that of British shipyards.

Anti-Aircraft Guns in Mass Production

Mounts and carriages by the score for Bofors 40-mm. anti-aircraft guns roll along to the final assembly at a large rubber company's new war plant at Akron, Ohio. Only a year ago this concern received the first blueprints for the weapon. Since then the blueprints have been translated into the finished product now in mass production. In the background is one of the new type barrage balloons also in mass production here.

Nobody Hurt

Marines' New Pack

Rear view of the new pack developed for the U. S. marines and now in mass production. The pack is designed as an all-purpose carrier, easily adaptable to varying conditions of service ashore or afloat. It is lighter and more convenient than the old pack.

Ready for Jerry

Armored cars, equipped with anti-aircraft machine guns, halt at side of road somewhere in England during maneuvers that keep the garrison army on its toes. These cars are used for advance reconnaissance work. They are not as maneuverable as the U. S. Jeep car.

Saved From Sea

Here is the mess boy, Billy Wright, 16, and the captain, Arthur Svensen, of a 5,000-ton Norwegian tanker which was torpedoed in the Caribbean. The entire crew of 41 men were rescued after being spotted by a U. S. plane. The attacking sub was believed to be Italian.

Boys and Girls 4-H Club Activities

Sales of swine brought Texas 4-H Club boys $120,699.31 in 1941--enough to build five light tanks for the army, according to reports to the A. and M. College Extension Service. During National 4-H Club Week boys and girls will mobilize their membership and resources to increase food production even more in 1942. A picture of Olaf Kunkle of Young County typifies 4-H Club work in swine.

Texas' 75,000 4-H Club boys and girls, with a million and a half of their fellowmembers throughout the United States, are doing their part to shield the nation from hunger in war and peace time. Mobilizing its ranks and resources during National 4-H Club Week, April 5-11, the 4-H army is pledging an all-time high in food production for 1942, according to state club agents Onah Jacks and L. L. Johnson of the A. and M. College Extension Service. This birds-eye view of Texas farm and ranch youth was made during the last 4-H Club Short Course.

Poultry flocks with productive capacity sufficient to provide every man in Uncle Sam's army with more than one egg a day for six weeks are owned and tended by Texas' 38,371 4-H Club girls. One of the club girls will join in observance of National 4-H Club Week, April 5-11, is Rose Josephine Armbruster of the Turnersville 4-H Club, Travis County, shown with her purebred poultry flock.

THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON March 11, 1942

TO THE 4-H CLUB MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES:

In an hour when our nation needs the active support of every group of its people, it is gratifying to learn that the 4-H Clubs will hold a National Mobilization Week, to rally the million and a half members and spur them to greater efforts in the cause of freedom. It is to be hoped that the National 4-H Mobilization Week also will bring more rural young people into active participation in the useful work in which 4-H Club members engage.

Your activities in producing, preserving, and preparing food; in making clothing; and your other practical experiences in farming and homemaking have prepared you for many tasks important in peacetime and indispensable in wartime. No other group of rural young people anywhere else in the world has so much worth depending, or is better prepared to help defend what it has.

Your 4-H Club pledge embodies the obligation which rests upon every Club member as a young citizen. Repeat it, study it, make it part of your very being. Let your head, heart, hands, and health truly be dedicated to your country, which needs them now as never before.

Cotton Essential To War Effort

No doubt about it—
CERESAN
PAYS!

There's everything to gain, and nothing to lose, when you plant CERESAN-treated cottonseed! CERESAN generally reduces seed rotting, sore-shin and certain other surface seed-borne diseases; commonly gives stronger stands; usually increases yields, often 10 to 25%. Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station, Stillwater, quotes progressive planters as reporting that treated seed often "pays for itself by allowing lower seeding rates, by simplifying the planting operations, and by improving the regularity and quality of the stand." CERESAN costs little, is easily applied. Get it from your dealer to treat your own seed, or buy seed marked with the Ceresan Certificate Tag.

TREAT OTHER SEEDS, TOO!
Use Semesan Jr. for corn; New Improved Ceresan for small grains; Semesan for vegetables; Semesan Bel for potatoes.

In Feller's Shoes out the cotton belt were urged to plant the full allotment of 27,400,000 acres for 1942 was no April Fool's yarn that there is a pressing need for every inch of staple, every pound of linters, every drop of oil and every cake of meal that they produced.

Cotton fiber probably is more essential to the successful prosecution of the war than rubber, tin or any other materials of which shortages exists or threatened, according to experts at the A & M. College of Texas.

The United Nations look to agriculture of the United States for food and clothing and no other crop is so important to the war effort as cotton.

There is no "dangerous surplus" of lint cotton today. Of 23,000,000 bales on hand, domestic consumption will take 13,000,000 leaving 10,000,000 bales in the carry-over August 1, 1942. Government frozen stocks account for 4,000,000 bales of this carry-over, leaving 6,000,000 bales.

In addition to low quality of much of the 1941 crop, 2,500,000 bales are tied up in normal mill stocks. Therefore the available stock of free cotton from which mills can make selections may not exceed 3,500,000 bales.

Consumption at the rate of 1,000,000 bales per month after August 1 might exhaust this carry-over by December 1, 1942.

Importance of cotton linters in war time has resulted in War Department designation as one of the most important materials for smokeless powder and other types of explosives. Mills now cut 170 to 200 pounds of linters off a ton of cottonseed, but there are not enough tons of seed to meet the needs of the armies and navies of the United Nations.

The Cotton seed is one of the most important sources of fats and oils essential to winning the war, because more are needed to increase the caloric value of food consumed by fighting men and civilians engaged in strenuous labors. More paint and varnish oils are needed, special lubricants are necessary, soap-making and glycerine plants require them.

Cottonseed meal is a universally used protein concentrate for livestock feed and the United Nations must have more meat, milk and poultry products than this nation ever before has produced.

If the millions of Texas cattle, sheep and workstock were fed as they should be fed, they would consume 1,963,000 tons of cottonseed meal and cake annually—the total present output of the entire United States.

These facts clearly point out the urgent necessity for planting the full allotment of cotton acreage allowed under the law in order to safeguard against a shortage of so important a crop as cotton, which is vital to the nation's war effort.

SAVING PAPER MORE NECESSARY THAN EVER

COLLEGE STATION, April 4,—(A&MC) — Saving paper probably never has been more necessary than it is now, for the country needs large supplies for packaging war materials—to wrap shells, protect airplane parts, wrap army supplies and food sent abroad.

Louise Bryant, A & M College Extension Service specialist in home management, explains that old newspapers, magazines, cartons and boxes are all used to make pasteboard. She suggests keeping papers in neat piles with cartons and cardboard boxes flattened out. This waste paper can be sold or given to some charitable organization to sell.

"You can save paper by using it economically, too," the specialist says. She suggests having several articles wrapped together when this is practical, using your own bags or boxes for shopping or carrying clothing to and from the cleaners, taking a market basket or a big cloth shopping bag to the grocery store. Homemakers easily can make a big shopping bag of any clean strong washable cloth, she says. The material need not be new.

Small size paper bags should be used over and over as long as they are clean.

Until the war emergency, smart housewives substituted paper for cloth wherever they could to save washing. Now they need to help the country by using fabrics, glass or china instead of paper napkins, paper towels, picnic plates and and cups. This means omre washing, of course, but in war time everyone is willing to do a little extra work, Miss Bryant says.

Building Navy Boats Bottoms Up

Above you see one phase in the assembly of U. S. submarines built by the Dravo corporation of Pittsburgh, Pa. The 1700-tonners are built upside down, sections being welded in that position. The sections are then braced and turned right side up. The bow and stern above is being turned over, preparatory to being joined to the station at left. Below: A wash drawing showing sub-chamber assembly just to the left of the indoor barge assembly shop at the Dravo yard.

AS NOT HEARD FROM SON SINCE DECEMBER LAST

Mrs. J. P. Barker of 3 1/2 miles west of Spade Community was the Leader office Saturday, and stated that she had not heard from her son, Russell P. Barker, who is serving in the Marines, since Dec. 1st, when she received a telegram from him from Manila. The letter she received from her son in September last.

Mr. Barker was in Shanghai for a year.

Mrs. Barker is naturally very anxious to hear from her son.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each and everyone who have been so nice to us since our home was destroyed by fire.

We thank you for so many nice and useful gifts, and because you have made it possible for us to start back to housekeeping, and our family doesn't have to be divided.

We hope that you will never have to witness this again, and if any of you do, it will be our pleasure to do all that we can to help you.

We thank you again and may God's blessings be upon you all.

Your friends,
Mr. and Mrs. Amos Sedgwick and daughter.

SUPPLEMENT

A wool school will be held at Texas Tech next Saturday, April 11, starting at 10:00 o'clock a. m. for farmers of the South Plains area who are interested in sheep and wool information.

Quite a few farmers of Lamb County are interested in more information on sheep and wool and

'First Captain'

Cadet Carl C. Hinkle of Goodlettsville, Tenn., whose title of first captain makes him the highest ranking cadet in the United States Military Academy, stands beside the first captains plaque at West Point. Here are listed all the past first captains, among them being John J. Pershing, 1885-86; and Douglas MacArthur, 1902-03.

Notes From County Agent

The production of food is one of the most important contributions that the farmers of Lamb County can make to the war effort. Every individual has a responsibility in this war and the farmers responsibility is to produce food.

There should be some planning done on food production. First, every farm should produce as much of the food that is required by that farm family as possible and then produce a surplus to sell, if we have a market for it.

There is no point in producing a lot of food stuffs that are not needed for home use and for which there is no local market, that would amount to waste, and waste of all kinds is to be avoided at this time.

Let's produce all of the food that we can that our family needs and market the rest if we have a market. If that plan will be carried out throughout the country the United States will produce more food products than we have ever produced before.

Did you ever know of a farmer who wanted his cows to produce lots of milk and instead of seeing how much feed he could make the cows eat, tried to see how little amount of feed he could get by with?

Some have overlooked the fact that a cow is made to handle large amounts of roughages such as hay, pasture and silage. Use that type of feed for the cow and don't go very heavy into the grain sacks. Sack feeds cost lots of money and should only be used as a supplement to our home grown roughage feeds.

Practically all farm herds can increase production by giving a little more attention to feeding practices. If you have more cows than you can take care of properly, sell some of them off and take better care of what you have, it will pay off in the long run.

It will not be very long before some of you will be thinking about planting some sorghum crops. Be sure and treat the seed for smut before planting. It cost very little and does not take much time.

There are several materials that can be used for treating seed, Ceresan, Copper Carbonate, and ordinary dusting sulphur. If Ceresan is used follow the directions on the can for the proper amount. If copper carbonate or dusting sulphur is used, use two ounces to the bushel of seed and mix until each seed has a coating of the powder on it. The important thing in treating seed is to be sure that the dust and seeds are thoroughly mixed.

Planting seeds of all kind is scarce and high in price this year. If you have to buy seed, buy them from some reputable established seedman and not from the "fly-by-night" peddler who drives up to your front door with some tempting bargains. Know about what you are getting before you buy.

When a Child Needs a Laxative!

Your child should like this tasty liquid laxative and you should like the gentle way it usually wakes up a youngster's lazy intestines when given by the simple directions.

SYRUP OF BLACK-DRAUGHT contains the same principal ingredient which has enabled its older brother BLACK-DRAUGHT to give so many users such satisfying relief for so many years!

Perhaps that's why it usually gives a child such refreshing relief when the familiar symptoms indicate a laxative is needed.

SYRUP OF BLACK-DRAUGHT comes in 2 sizes. The introductory size is 25c; the economy size is 50c.

"It would save us money if it cost twice as much"

... that's what one big tractor farmer says about Veedol!

It's only natural to try to save money on tractor oil. Yet, 9 times out of 10, the few cents saved per gallon on ordinary oil becomes many dollars lost per season in extra fuel and oil consumption . . . and unlooked-for expensive repairs.

SAVES .. In Any Tractor 10 Days or 10 Years Old

You can expect extra hours of safe lubrication from 150-Hour Veedol! In a gasoline driven engine, count on 150 hours of service before you drain. In a distillate burning engine, Veedol delivers 2 to 3 times more service than you get from cheap oil.

low cost."

The Housekeeping Aide W.P.A. Project of Littlefield, since it was reorganized on February 9, 1941, has completed a total of 29,924 man hours of work. Of this number, 18,868 have been spent at the project headquarters in supervised training; 6,726 have been spent in the homes of families doing general housework, caring for infants and small children, cooking, laundrying, sewing, mending giving sick folks simple home care following instructions of doctors or registered nurses, gardening, papering, reupholstering, or helping with various types of home improvements; 246 hours have been spent by workers on route when transferred from one home to another; and 2,782 hours have been spent by the foreman in clerical or supervisory work and project improvement.

During the first three months of this year the project helped eighty-three different families, or a total of 372 individuals. During this period some form of predominating illness has been the predominate cause of the need for the help in those homes. Fourteen different confinement cases were serviced during these three months. Work of various kinds was done in twenty-three different homes because the homemaker was unable to do her own work with such ailments as influenza, heart attack, pneumonia, female trouble, partial paralysis, sore hands, colds, etc. Temporary assistance was rendered in nine different homes because of old age or chronic conditions. Twelve homes were helped primarily because some member of the family besides the mother was sick with such ailments as measles, chicken pox, influenza, pneumonia, colds, jaundice, etc. Twenty-five homes were helped for various other reasons, though many of the calls for other reasons and some of the calls because of illness had to be rejected at times because of a scarcity of workers.

An informational assistance course with eight women enrolled, which will be trained in adequate ways of preparing commodities or inexpensive nutritious dishes of various types, will be conducted beginning about May 1. Mrs. Katie Greene, County Welfare Worker will determine who shall be enrolled in this class.

Marriage Of Miss Hale And James Smith Announced

Mrs. Joe Trammell of Whitharrel received word Friday of the marriage of her sister, Miss Mary Winford Hale of Anton, to James Smith of San Diego, California in Yuma, Arizona, Saturday, March 21, at 2:30 p. m. at Cupid's Corner, by the pastor of the Methodist Church at Yuma, Rev. Wm. A. Everest, in a single ring ceremony.

The groom is the son of Charley Smith of Whitharrel and is a member of the 1938 graduating class of the Whitharrel schools. Wheat Farmers To Vote
On Referendum May 2

Uncle Sam has his hands full and should not have to worry about a problem farmers can decide for themselves, J. F. Chafin, chairman, Lamb County AAA committee, pointed out today.

Solution of the problem is marketing quotas which will be decided at community ballot boxes, Saturday, May 2, when wheat farmers vote in a national referendum.

"We must produce the feed and food it will take to help whip international gangsterism instead of spending time, labor and money raising crops we don't need," the chairman said in explaining that a 2 year supply of wheat is in sight and the United Nations are in desperate need of meat, milk, vegetables, fats and oils.

"Just as there must be more 'business as usual', there must be 'more farming as usual'. Wheat is no exception and we must fit it into our war program", he continued.

Wheat marketing quotas, which divide a limited market equally among all wheat producers, give farmers opportunity to continue as masters of their own wheat production and reserves.

Also at stake in the referendum is the 85-percent of parity program which is one of the principal reasons for present fair prices of wheat, the chairman said and added that with abnormal supplies, wheat quotas are essential to maintenance of fair prices.

"We've done a good job of producing wheat, we have adequate reserves, and we're getting a fair price. Wheat marketing quotas is just another method we have of
