

District 7-AA Teams Triumph Opponents In Friday Contests

District 7-AA showed off this week as all five of its teams triumphed over their opponents in Friday contests. Last week, however, the Wildcats, the only undefeated and untied team, barely edged out the Mustangs, 14 to 12, but in this week's game they proved to other members of the district that the Wildcat defense that is being run over. Jack Whitefaces, being hailed as one of the best players in the state and throwing one touchdown to the Cats. He did, however, score two touchdowns on runs on one and one respectively.

Defeat Whitefaces and Lobos went up to Ford Whitefaces a visit with a 19 to 0 triumph to their credit. Levelland proved that they have more than a one-man team as thought by many. The scoring was made by three backs, Harold Phelan, Lavon McAuley and Langford Sneed. Sneed, a 195-pound fullback who made all-district at tackle last year when the Lobos won the regional championship, also scored the lone Lobo extra point on a power plunge.

Win Over Phillips

The highly rated Brownfield Cubs upset all dope buckets in their 23 to 7 triumph over the Phillips Blackhawks, a power from the upper Panhandle, in their home stadium. Howard Swan and Paul Billings did most of the scoring for the Cubs. Billy Thompson, a sophomore tailback for the Cubs, showed up as the best back of the night and ran 27 yards for the Cubs (Continued on Back Page)

District 2-A Teams Very Successful End Games, Win 3, Lose 1

District 2-A did all right last week as it had victories and one defeat. Springlake member not coming out.

Mustangs bounced back last week's defeat to beat the New Deal. Gerald Allcorn, high-back, returned being injured in the game and scored one at Jerry Maynard was a plug in the Olton and scored twice and of yardage.

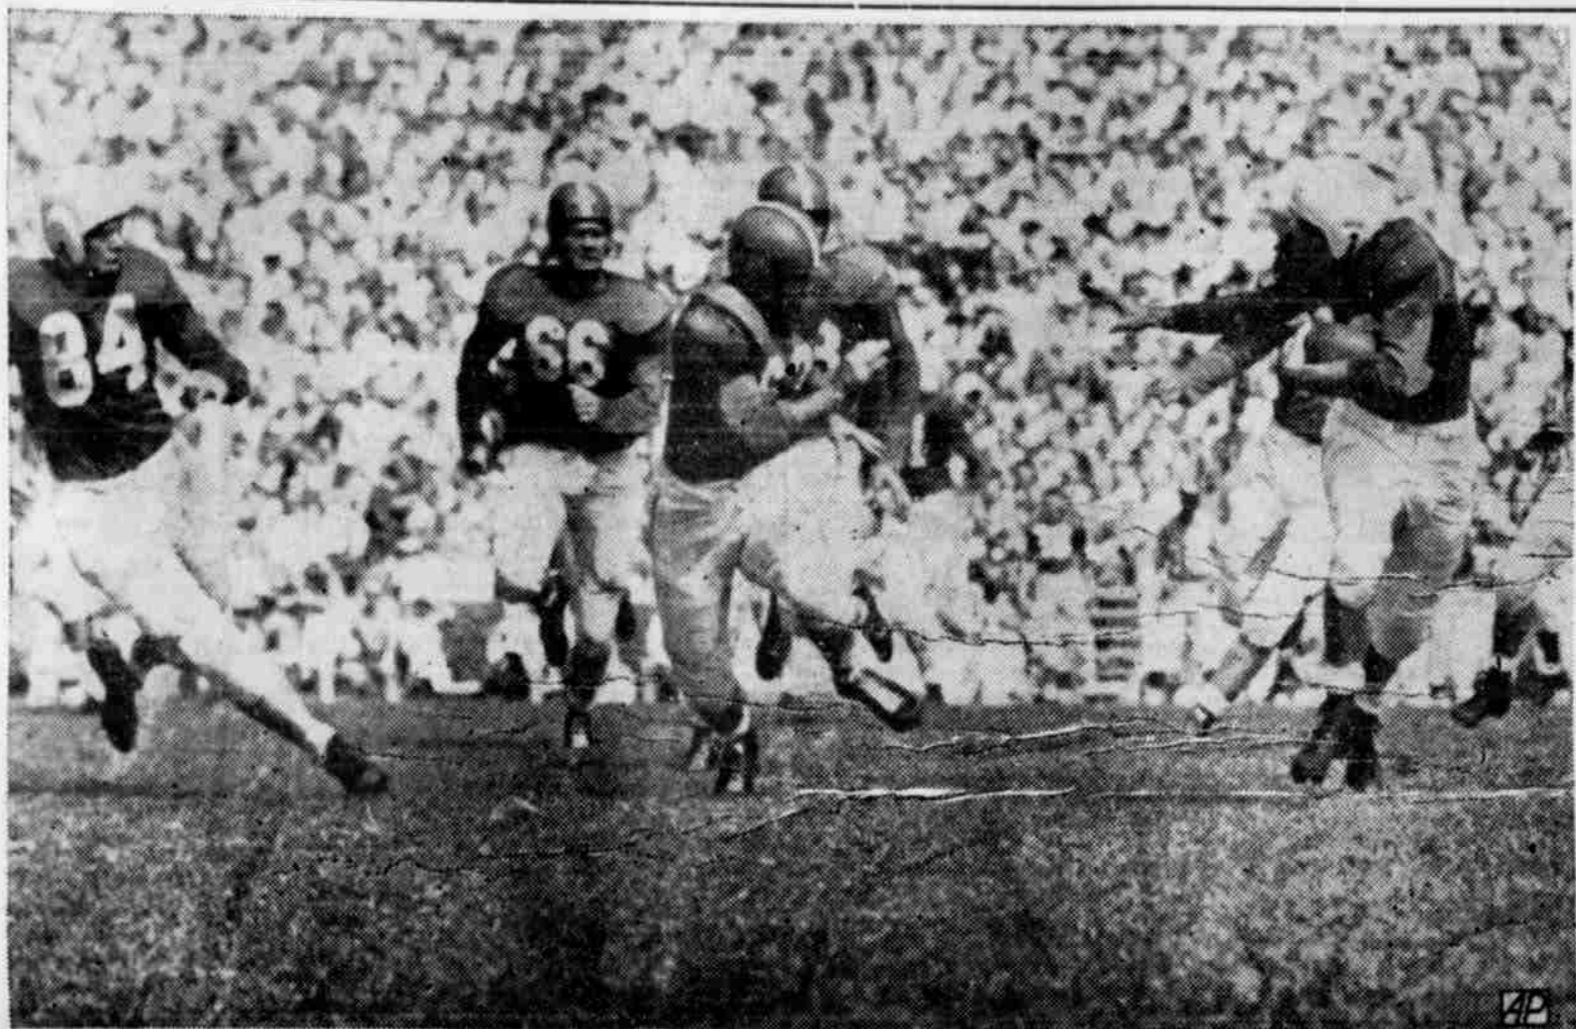

Bulldogs continued winning way as they beat the Bulldogs from Ar-Fullback A. L. Nutall scored both of Amherst's touchdowns on runs of four and five yards. A pass from Matt Wilson to Martin Harwick accounted for the extra point. Nutall has scored 10 touchdowns this year in three games and looks like an all-district back.

Dimmitt, the favorite to win the district title, slaughtered the Hale Center Owls, 54 to 0. Quarterback Douglas Dennis seems to be the main cog in Coach John Blaine's Bobcats' attack. Dimmitt tied for the district title with Sudan and Olton last year but lost a lot of regulars. They still have a good team and one of the best coaches in this part of the country.

Littlefield's up-and-coming Wildcats came from behind in the last five minutes to defeat the favored Post Antelopes, 14 to 12, in a game played in the Garza county seat Friday night.

On the very first play from scrimmage after taking Littlefield's kick-off Jack Potts tried to gain some yardage through the Wildcats' line but was thrown for a three-yard loss and hurt so bad that he had to be helped off the field. Post managed to gain only three yards in two more tries and when Kirkpatrick attempted to punt, he got only a five yard punt away because of a bad pass from center.

LITTLEFIELD SCORES

After picking up three yards on two tries, Joe Walden gained 17 yards to the Antelopes 17 on the old pitchout play. Littlefield got a 15-yard penalty back to the 32 yard line and on the next play Walden again took the pitchout and ran the distance to the doublestrip for the touchdown. M. C. Northam powered of the extra point and Littlefield was ahead 7 to 0.

Post continued to use the "T" formation in the first quarter and did not gain very many yards against the fast charging Wildcat line. The next time Littlefield got the ball they got as far as the Antelope 28 yard line before they were forced to give the ball up on downs. The first quarter ended there with the Wildcats out in front of a 7 to 0 score.

Post Uses Spread Formation

At the start of the second quarter the Antelopes began using their effective spread formation and moved the ball upfield for 72 yards for a touchdown with Kirkpatrick finally going over from the one-yard line on a quarterback sneak. It took the Antelopes 17 plays to move the ball the 72 yards and the drive was sparked by the running of the great Jack Kirkpatrick. He also attempted to kick the extra point, but never was able to get the ball off the ground as the fast charging Littlefield line came in to kill the try before the ball could get into the air.

SCORE CLOSE AT HALF

A fumble by Northam on the Cats 30-yard line a few minutes later almost gave the Antelopes another score, but the Cats stopped them there and took over on downs. They ran the ball back to the Antelopes 25-yard line before the time ran out in the first half. (Continued on Back Page)

Adjusting the Fumbles

A certain sports writer that we have the privilege of knowing and who works for a nearby daily newspaper, has picked Littlefield to lose their games this year. After they come through victorious, he has to make all kinds of excuses to run down the local Cats.

After they beat the Andrew Mustangs a couple of weeks ago he claimed that our dear Coach Fikes must have hid some of the big Wildcats when he visited them in training before the season. It was then that he said the Cats would not even be considered as a power in the district race because they had only three returning lettermen.

He claimed that the Mustang backfield only averaged 127 pounds to the man in their starting lineup. Perhaps we didn't go to school long enough to learn how to add but when the smallest man in the Mustang backfield weighed 133 pounds, how can they average 127 pounds.

Last week when our Cats downed the favored Post Antelopes, 14 to 12, he wrote that time had run out and Post didn't get the chance to score when they were on the Cats three yard line. What he should have written was that the young and inexperienced Wildcats staged a goal line stand and stopped the running of a certain Mr. Kirkpatrick within the 19-yard line and once within the four yard line.

He, like most people, thought the Cats would fall apart when they got behind with only five minutes left to play. Despite two fumbles that probably cost the Wildcats another score they managed to hold on to the ball and score with only a minute to play and then stop the Antelopes from coming back, including six passes from the famous Jack Kirkpatrick.

Just because he can't guess the games right is no reason to run our Cats down. Littlefield has a team this year that has already come from behind in two games to win, but yet they say there wasn't enough time for the other team. If we remember right a game is supposed to last 48 minutes and no longer.

Let's just ignore this daily sports writer's comments and show that we think our team is just as good as any other team on the South Plains, whether certain writers think so or not.

SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

27 YEARS OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP AND PUBLIC SERVICE

You And Your Congress

Future historians, in writing about United States foreign policy, are likely to attach considerable significance to events in the Senate during the past week.

Those events produced indications of a possible revival of the bipartisan foreign policy which, first, had lost strength from the death of the late Senator Vandenberg and, second, had been all but shattered by the dismissal of General MacArthur.

The reaffirmation of this two-party policy, if it should come about, undoubtedly would provide the historians with interesting material.

First of all, the fortunes of that policy would have fallen and then risen again because of events connected with a single area of the world—the Far East.

The policy, into the support of which the late Michigan Senator led a majority of his Republican colleagues, received its worst blow when MacArthur was relieved as Far East Commander.

The criticism directed against the President by Republicans in Congress was as scathing as any that had been heard on Capitol Hill in years. One Republican Senator, Jenner of Indiana, called for impeachment of Mr. Truman. Others, including Knowland of California, demanded—and got—an investigation.

Now comes the Japanese peace treaty, adopted at San Francisco by all of the attending international delegates except those from Russia and her satellites—who weren't expected to sign it anyhow.

The treaty represents a distinct advance for the back for communism in that same area of the world. The treaty is the product of a year's effort by John Foster Dulles, Republican advisor to the State Department. The San Francisco conference, at which the treaty was approved by an overwhelming majority of delegates, was the product of the Democratic Administration. It was presided over by the chief Administration spokesman of foreign policy, Secretary of State Acheson.

Last week Senator Knowland was the first to urge the Senate to ratify the Japanese treaty and, in so doing, make it officially acceptable to the United States. Knowland was seconded by Senator Smith, Republican of New Jersey, and they both had praise for the results of the San Francisco conference.

Moreover, both Senators praised the manner in which Acheson presided over the conference and succeeded in preventing the Russian and other communist delegates from upsetting it.

Knowland had been among those Senators who voted against confirmation of Acheson as Secretary of State.

Senator Malone (R-Nev.) told the Senate that his two Republican colleagues—Knowland and Smith—were praising Acheson as a conference presiding officer and not as Secretary of State.

The basic point—so far as the future of any bipartisan foreign policy was concerned—was that a Democratic President had enlisted a Republican to work up a treaty. The Democratic Administration had succeeded in selling the treaty to other free countries, despite communist efforts at sabotage.

At the week's end there was general feeling that, when the time came, the Senate would ratify the treaty—with a bipartisan majority voting for it.

Good Health, Furthered By Dairy Foods, Hastens Progress

Greater use of milk, butter, cheese and ice cream in family meals will help the nation's school children maintain the good health needed to achieve scholastic progress. Milton Hult, president of the National Dairy Council, a non-profit, research and educational agency has declared.

"Human excellence demands healthy bodies as well as healthy minds," Mr. Hult stated, emphasizing that well-balanced meals using dairy foods can do much to improve the good health children have enjoyed while playing out of doors the past summer.

"Milk and other dairy foods generously supply the nutrients which make for better health," he asserted.

"These nutrients are calcium for strengthening bones and teeth, proteins for building muscles and body tissues and riboflavin and vitamin A for promoting health and growth."

He said that milk, butter, cheese and ice cream provide three-fourths of all the calcium, approximately one-fourth of all the proteins, nearly half of the riboflavin, and almost one-fifth of the vitamin A consumed in the American diet. In addition, they provide energy and other vitamins and minerals essential to good health.

Recent research showed that teen-agers can utilize enormous quantities of calcium from milk, he pointed out. In this research, scientists carried on calcium balance studies with high school students during summer vacations. They recommended that adolescents consume at least one and one-half quarts of milk.

Tyler Supplies Two-thirds of Rose Bushes Sold in United States

TYLER (AP)—Tyler's famous rose industry depends upon a tiny bud the size of a pea.

Were it not for this bud, the roses would be ugly, dwarfed blooms.

Also to be credited is the rose budder, a highly skilled specialist. It is he who inserts the buds of fine roses in the hardy "peasant" root stock—plants which otherwise would bear only ugly flowers.

The highly intricate operation, making it possible to grow fine roses on hardy but unlovely root stock, brings good money for the budders.

The budders usually work in teams of from three to five men. They are paid from $7.50 to $12 per thousand plants budded. Many have developed their art to such perfection they can bud between 3,000 and 5,000 plants a day.

The first man in the team is the "doodler" who goes in advance of the budder clearing the sandy loam away from the main stem. The budder has a knife with a fine edge at one end and a kind of quill at the other. He cuts a vertical slit about an inch long just above the roots of the peasant stock. At the top of this slit he makes a smaller cross slit, forming a T. He then pushes the loosened bark away with his quill and inserts a single bud from a fine rose plant.

Another man then ties the bud in place with a piece of special rubber which rots quickly and falls off.

The new bud stays dormant for several months. But the following spring the top of each bush is cut to within an inch of the inserted bud. The result is a strong, well-to as "hammock reading." I am a detective story fan, and most of my stock of books were adorned with guns, daggers, nooses and other weapons of a lethal nature.

I have returned from vacation with my pile of books, sampled but mostly unread. The exteriors of the volumes are a mess, however, for although I failed to get in the anticipated number of hours in the hammock, I found that a book is one of the handiest pieces of vacation equipment in the world. No vacationist should venture abroad without one.

A book frequently serves as a tray. It can be used to carry glasses, bottles of sun-tan oil, cigarettes and lighters. On uneven ground it can be pressed into service as a fairly comfortable pillow while sunbathing. Its pages serve as a handy file for pieces of paper bearing names, addresses and telephone numbers of new acquaintances you promise to look up—and rarely do—upon return to the city. It serves, in all but extreme cases, to discourage conversation or to terminate a particularly boring one. Most people, for some reason or another, are loathe to disturb a person apparently absorbed in a book.

On the other hand, my recent experiences have indicated that the joys of hammock reading are vastly overrated. I found hammocks and swings to be exceedingly uncomfortable spots for relaxation. Their gentle motion had the effect of making me seasick. I also found that there was a sinister plot which caused the sun to find a way to send a brilliant shaft of light on my page no matter how carefully I rigged my resting place.

Finally, I wish to register a strong complaint about the way people are writing detective stories these days. I'm old-fashioned about whodunits. I like a story where there is one—or a dozen—homicides and I like to work with the smart detective as he finds out the nasty culprit. Nowadays I keep running into "novels of suspense" where they tell you right out in the first chapter who knocked off whom, and the rest of the book is devoted to watching the authorities each up with the insane killer. Detective story reading is sort of like playing a game, and you don't want to get all mixed up emotionally with the protagonists. Nowadays so well that the characters are real they are not only writing the things people, but they've taken to knocking off pleasant, well-intentioned souls. My rules say that the only people who should get killed are the bad hombres or the nasty dames.

I was so disappointed in my mysteries that I contemplated moving into the honest-to-goodness novel reading. I fared no better. There wasn't a pleasant, inoffensive bit of light reading in the batch. Our modern writers seem very concerned with important things. In a couple of the books, man was fighting the sea. In others, man was fighting a war. In the one romance in the lot, the hero was in love with his father's wife. Everyone was concerned with his soul and his existence, and most of the characters either needed—or had—the service of a competent psychiatrist.

Teen Talk

BY VIVIAN BROWN

There comes a time in a young girl's life when she is invited to her first formal dance. If her favorite mode of dress is jeans and sportswear, suddenly she'll feel like Cinderella. But unlike her storybook counterpart, she has no fairy godmother to arrange her big evening without a hitch. So what happens Mary goes into a tizzy.

Here are some hints that may help all the Little Marys who are awaiting or have received that big invitation to a formal dance:

1. It isn't a good idea to refuse dates for the big dance on the gamble that, if you wait until the last minute, the number one boy on your list will ask you. Some girls do this, only to find themselves with no date at all. And don't be huffy if a boy asks you after having been refused by another girl.

After all, there are lots of attractive girls around.

Forum Meets Thursday Night

Members of the Forum met last Thursday night for the first business meeting of the new club year, at the home of Mrs. Billie Patterson.

During the business session the group voted to enter a float in the Lamb County Fair, and the following committee was appointed: Mesdames Marjorie Richie, chairman,

2. The first rule of good taste in dress is to aim for simplicity. Build your formal date appearance on your own personality and looks. If you must borrow a gown, don't wear it because it is the only one available. If it doesn't flatter you, chances are you'll be uncomfortable and unhappy in it. Borrow one that is becoming or skip the party. Any young girl on her first formal date should have her own evening gown, even if she must borrow from future allowances, and make one herself.

3. Go light on jewelry. A single strand of pearls is ideal for the teen-ager. Gold jewelry shouldn't be worn with evening clothes. If you haven't an appropriate necklace, buy a little seed-pearl heart (perhaps in the ten-cent store), hang it on ribbon or velvet, tie it around your neck with a small bow.

4. If you are planning to wear highheels for the first time, wear them around the house for an hour or so before you go out. Practice going up and down stairs in them. If you are wearing a long full skirt to the party, be sure to gather it in your hand and raise it slightly when descending stairs to avoid tripping. If you are very tall and your date is short, wear low-heeled or ballet slipper if possible. It might make him feel more comfortable.

5. The boy probably will bring you a corsage. Don't make the mistake of pinning it on upside down. Flowers are worn the way they grow—flowers up and stems down. Sometimes even florists will pin a corsage to your gown upside down.

6. You shouldn't expect to get all the compliments. It is a nice idea to tell the boy how handsome he looks in his formal clothes. After all, it might be his first big date too.

Twenty-Two Types of Services Are Removed From Price Control

Twenty two different types of services, which have little effect on the cost of living or which cannot practically be controlled, have been removed from price control, the Lubbock district Office of Price Stabilization announced this week.

Among services exempted are those of real estate brokers, agents and appraisers, labor relations and public relations counsellors and advertising agencies, according to the district price executive, Ter Gehring.

Gehring estimated several hundred such firms are in operation in the Lubbock district which includes Lamb County, along with 68 other Fair West Texas Counties.

The new regulation, however, points out specifically that watch and clock repair services remain under price control.

Barbers and beauticians, which already had been exempted by Congressional action, are included in the new regulation listing the exemptions. Among other exemptions are claims adjusters; dues and assessments of clubs and associations organized and operated exclusively for social, recreational and other non-profit purposes; justices of the peace; services of mortgage brokers or mortgagees in connection with negotiation, placement and securing of mortgages; newspaper carrier hand delivery services; notaries public; commissions paid to distributors of petroleum products on consignment; process servers; services supplied directly by federal, state, territorial or municipal governments or their agents; ticker services; and tree surgery services.

The exemption concerning municipal services does not apply to sales or services supplied in a private capacity by sub-contractors, lessees, licensees or concessionaires.

District price executives also reminded sellers of toys, games, Christmas decorations, lace and yarns they must file supplementary pricing charts by September 29 if they otherwise are operating under Ceiling Price Regulation 7 or if these are new categories to their business. This supplementary chart must be filed with the Lubbock District Office of Price Stabilization, 1202 Texas Avenue, Lubbock, Texas.

FANS GO WILD

The score at halftime was Littlefield 7, Post 6. Littlefield again had to kickoff to the Antelopes at the start of the third quarter. The Antelopes took the ball and started using the spread formation again. This time the Cats were wise and stopped everything that Post threw at them. Finally Kirkpatrick punted 49 yards and the ball went out on the Cats three yard line.

ANTELOPES SCORE

They started moving the ball with Northam hitting the line in the middle and Walden going around them. Walden was the most successful and with the help of Northam moved the ball to the Post 28-yard line before they had to give the ball up on downs. Kirkpatrick threw two incomplete passes and then he mixed up the Cats defense when he started back to pass but ran the ball back 72 yards for a touchdown. Again the center failed to get the ball back to Kirkpatrick so that he could kick the extra point but the Antelopes were ahead 12 to 7.

The Cats almost blew their chance of victory when Rhoten fumbled a few minutes later on his own 15 yard line. Again the Cats line rose up and set the Antelopes back 5 yards in their four attempts before they had to give up the ball. This is where the third quarter ended and Wildcat fans began to get worried.

The Cats moved the ball out to the 35 yard line, but there Joe Walden fumbled and again the Antelopes recovered. However, the Antelopes stuck to ground in order to try and kill time and keep the Wildcats from getting the ball and gained only one yard in four tries and had to give the ball up on downs.

CATS SCORE

Littlefield looked like they were on their way to a touchdown as Walden and Northam started bawling away furiously at the Antelopes line and moved the ball to the Post 31-yard line before they also lost the ball on downs. However, one play later Jackie Beckner recovered a Post fumble on the 30 yard line that gave the Cats another chance and this time they didn't stop for anything. Walden finally went over from the six yard line on a fourth down for the touchdown. The fans went wild as Northam went over for the extra point to put Littlefield ahead 14 to 12 with only about two minutes left to play.

The Antelopes didn't give up, however, and started using their very effective spread formation again and with the help of a pass interference called against the Wildcats moved the ball down to the Cats 19-yard line in five plays. There the Cats were penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness to the four yard line and it looked like Post was going to score again. Co-Captains Joe Walden and Freddy Howard rallied their Cats together there for a do or die stand and Kirkpatrick was stopped for

Olton Mustangs Get New Football Helmets

Glen Exter of Olton drove down to Lubbock to pick up some new football helmets ordered by the school board. Only nine were available but others were ordered to be delivered as quickly as possible.

The new helmets are believed to be an improvement over the old ones in that they are supposed to give more protection to the player's head.

The helmets now in use were purchased new for the season, but were unsatisfactory.

The Sudan Hornets who would have been playing in District 2-A if they had not been suspended, defeated a team from Whitesboro, 46 to 6. Whitesboro was also suspended and the game will be returned when the Hornets journey to Whitesboro later this year.

one yard gain as the final whistle sounded.

LOCAL FANS GO WILD

Littlefield fans went wild with joy and ran on to the field to greet the victorious Cats as the whistle sounded and didn't even notice that Freddy Howard was hurt on the last play as he had stopped the great Kirkpatrick from scoring and was running all around him as he lay on the ground. Finally, however, with some help from his faithful teammates Howard was helped to the dressing room where he recovered. Both Howard and another tackle, Cam Jordan, had played an important part in the game along with all the other Cats. Northam and Walden ran the ball every play except four and deserve great credit for their undying sportsmanship.

Northam ran with the ball 25 times and gained 78 yards for an average of three and a third yards per carry. Walden, the star of the night, ran 28 times and gained 214 yards. He also gained 20 yards through the air on two passes for a total of 234 yards for the night and an average of about 7 1/2 yards per carry. Jackie Beckner ran twice for four yards for an average of two per try. R. L. Rhoten ran once but failed to gain.

Crosbyton is Outclassed

The Muleshoe Mules trounced a completely outclassed Crosbyton team, 29 to 0, in the Chiefs home town. Fullback Bobby Seid scored three of the Mules touchdowns on runs of 4, 57 and 2 to lead the lads from District 7-AA to victory.

Fumbles Costly

The Morton Indians barely edged the Class B Whiteface Steers, 16 to 6, at Morton. Lanar Burns, a three-year letterman for the Indians, led the Indians in their offensive lineup, but the game was practically given to the Indians by Whiteface's fumbles. Morton now has two losses and one victory to their credit.

Games This Week

Games this week will find the Leveiland Loboes journeying to Post to meet the pass-minded Antelopes in one of the top games of the area. Both Pecos and Seminole made touchdowns against the Loboes in the air and it is expected that Jack Kirkpatrick can do the same. Brownfield will journey to Snyder in another non-conference tussle. Morton will go to Sundown to play the Roughnecks of Class A. Muleshoe will have their hands full as they will play host to the Tulla Hornets. Littlefield will take on the Slaton Tigers here in Seely Stadium. The Tigers have virtually the same team that almost upset the Wildcats last year. They have not done so good this year, but are expected to go all out to try and tame the Wildcats.

Water Conservation Meeting Thursday Night at Edmonson

whatever on our water situation out here."

Old Law Cited
Tarwater explained that the old law, passed in 1925, was written to apply to small districts where water and facilities were owned entirely by the district.

"Such a situation is the exact opposite to what we have here on the Plains," Tarwater continued, "where the farmers themselves have provided the irrigation system at a cost of many millions of dollars."

"In the new underground water law, the authors did not write any administrative provisions into it, but provided that all administrative provisions in the old surface water law applicable to the district set up under the new law would apply here."

The rugged, individualistic pioneer farmer and former legislator declared, "We have an underground water conservation law without adequate and practical administrative provisions."

Point is Disputed
H. S. Hilburn, Plainview publisher and land owner, took issue with the proposition that all counties had adequate representation, and produced maps to show the divisions were made.

He pointed out that under the law some land owners who reside out of the precincts where their property lies would be ineligible to vote. He expressed the opinion that part of the money to be raised in taxes would go to pay people who have done preliminary work in formation of the district.

Ralph Block, farmer near Edmonson, in the course of discussion of a question he had put to McFarland as to possibility under the law that his irrigation pump could be stopped, declared, "Nobody's going to cut my well off, I think it's time we stood up for our rights."

Won't Stop Pumps
McFarland expressed the assurance that there was no provision in the law for stopping a farmer's irrigation pump.

Fritz Struve of Abernath speaking eloquently in favor of the proposed district, said his interpretation of the law was that it could not prevent a farmer's drilling a well near another well if the farmer had no alternative as to the new well's site.

"We are going to have to have some kind of water conservation or we on the Plains are ruined," Struve declared. "I grant the law is not perfect but it is something to start from and the bad points can be weeded out. Let's beat them to the draw and not let the government get control of our water, our economy's life blood," Struve pleaded.

There was considerable discussion of the frequently mentioned possibility that there will be some kind of government control of Plains underground water if the proposed district is not made to function.

"Just A Threat"
Melvin Glantz, irrigation farmer in the west part of Hale county, told the meeting, "I think this talk about government control is just a threat they are holding over the irrigation farmers. I don't think it can be done."

A Mr. Aiken, Hereford attorney, made an impressive address in defense of the proposed district. Aiken declared, "Had someone asked me before it happened if the Supreme court would uphold registration of Herman Sweatt in the University of Texas or rule that Texas' tidelands don't belong to this state, but to the federal government, I would have said it was impossible. But you all know what happened in those instances. The government can take charge of your underground water."

LATE PUBLISHER HON. ED HOWARD—The late Ed Howard, pioneer Texas publisher, was honored in Austin when Gov. Allan Shivers presented a portrait of him to the University of Texas. The portrait will hang in the library of the new journalism building. Howard was from Wichita Falls. The ceremonies were a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Rhea Howard, son and daughter-in-law of Howard. They had been invited to call on the governor. Left to right, above, are Paul Thompson, chairman of the School of Journalism; T. S. Painter, university president; Gov. ## Large Vote Expected In Special Election Called for November 13

Texans voting on five constitutional amendments at a special election Nov. 13 are expected to be attracted in large numbers by two top drawing cards—proposals affecting old age pensioners and veterans.

However, it was anticipated that virtually all of the proposed amendments will come under heavy fire between now and election day.

Artillery already has been rolled out against the old age assistance plan to boost the state's ceiling on welfare payments from $35,000,000 yearly to $42,000,000.

Opposition has been leveled principally at provisions removing the Texan citizenship requirement to receive old age assistance, aid to needy blind or needy and dependent children, thus making aliens eligible.

The East Texas Chamber of Commerce has announced opposition to the amendment, and the organization's general manager, Hubert Harrison, was quoted as saying it "would attract every tramp and derelict in the county" to Texas.

Strong support was rallied behind a plan to boost the veterans land program from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000 and allow quadrupling the amount of bonds issued by the state to finance purchases of farm and ranch lands.

The proposal, backed by veterans organizations, has the added appeal of including Korean war veterans. The present program is open only to veterans of World War II.

However, some opposition was expected to be lined up against a plan to permit investment of the University of Texas' permanent fund up to 50 per cent in common stocks.

Substantial opposition also was anticipated against a proposed amendment to allow an increase in taxation of from three cents per $100 valuation to 50 cents for support of rural fire prevention districts.

The fifth amendment would authorize creation of a retirement and disability pension system for county employees.

In addition, voters in 11 districts will elect state representatives to replace members who have resigned. Gov. Allan Shivers has promised to call a special legislative session if the welfare amendment is approved.

Observers believed that, conceivably, the vote could approach that cast in a special election in August, 1935—when the state adopted its old age assistance program. A vote of more than 550,000 was recorded then.

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

The Greeks had a word for "diet," a word that meant a way of living. Today diet is too often taken to mean only a reducing diet, a curtailed intake of food. Food, any routine of food intake, should be a way of living. Planning your food intake along the basis of the seven essential groups of food would be considered a diet. That is THE diet, the way of living. If you follow the medically acceptable way of reducing, your diet will consist of restrictions placed upon the eating of some of those seven basic foods but will still include all of them.

That is the program behind the 1500 calorie diet, which is interpreted in dollars and cents as a $1.50 calorie budget.

That budget has been broken down thusly:

Milk and milk products, 33 cents; bread, 20 cents; butter, 17 cents; meats, 47 cents; potato, 10 cents; vegetables, 5 cents; and fruits, 18 cents.

Since most of you eat your food at three meals a day, you may want to see how the diet is broken down into those three meals. It would look like this:

Breakfast—fruit or juice, bacon and egg, buttered toast, and coffee or milk.

Lunch or supper—soup, salad, meat, bread and butter, dessert, and coffee, tea or milk.

Dinner—meat and potato, vegetable, salad or dessert, bread and butter, and coffee, tea or milk.

To get more into the details of each meal, you first eliminate the cost of milk and milk products (33 cents for the equivalent of a pint of whole milk), the bread (20 cents for three slices a day), and the butter (17 cents for five teaspoons per day). You are going to spread those three items over the three meals at a cost of 70 cents, leaving you 80 cents to reckon with on the formulation of the other items in the meals.

For the example here, that 80 cents will be broken down into 20 cents for breakfast, 20 cents for lunch or supper, and 40 cents for dinner. And here's how it goes:

Breakfast—bacon and egg, 17 cents. You have 3 cents left for your fruit so you select a juice glass of tomato juice for 2 cents, half a grapefruit for 3 cents, one-fourth small cantaloupe for 3 cents, or some such "cheap" fruit which will allow you to stay within your budget of 20 cents. Your buttered toast and milk have already been deducted from the cost. If you wish, you can make milk toast out of that bread and milk allowance, of course; it takes just a little imagination to give you variety in your meals.

Lunch or supper—fish, frankfurter or cold cut or any of the "10-cent" meats. Some "3 cent" vegetable or a combination of vegetables in a 3-cent salad. That makes 13 cents, leaving you 7 cents of that 20-cent meal for fruit or dessert. If that doesn't sound like enough food, you are permitted any clear soup or broth, consommé or bouillon at any meal at no cost of your calories. Neither coffee nor tea cost anything, of course, though milk or cream in either one would come off your milk allowance, and you are urged to use saccharin to

LUTHERAN HOUR TO OPEN NINETEENTH SEASON OF BROADCASTING SEPT. 30

Returning to the air for its nineteenth season, the International Lutheran Hour begins Sunday, September 30, in an old setting but with a new speaker. The Chicago Stadium, seating 25,000, has witnessed five similar Lutheran Hour rallies. Now, permanent speaker for the world's most wide-spread broadcast will be Rev. Armin C. Oldsen, formerly Professor of Religion at Valparaiso University in Valparaiso, Indiana.

Rev. Oldsen has served the Lutheran church in San Antonio, Texas, Lakewood, Ohio, and Valparaiso, Indiana. He has also co-edited books as well as other church publications. One of his greatest interests is the American home.

The International Lutheran Hour continues to report marvelous reception of the Gospel behind the Iron Curtain. The Lutheran Hour, dedicated for 19 seasons to proclaiming the Gospel of Jesus, has been chosen by the Armed Forces Radio Service for presentation to the men and women of the Armed Forces throughout the world.

This mighty Crusade for Christ may be heard locally every Sunday at 8:30 p.m. over KVOV, for the spiritual growth and thrill of the people of this community and others.

sweeten instead of sugar. Every once in a while you might want to save up your milk points for the day for this meal and stir in 21 cents on a half-cup of plain ice cream; those 7 fruit cents would look awfully good sitting on top of that dish of ice cream.

Dinner—meat (20 cents), potato (10 cents), vegetable (2 cents), fruit as salad or dessert (3 cents). Meat includes meats, fish, poultry and eggs, of course, and you can work practically any meat into that 20-cent allotment though the size of that piece of meat will vary. Instead of potatoes, you may help yourself to the potato substitutes such as noodles, macaroni, spaghetti, rice, corn or shelled beans. That meal would be a good place for one of the leafy vegetables or a lettuce bed for your fruit salad.

You can have plenty of good food on such a diet as this. You can achieve a new awareness of the real value of food to replace that gay but haphazard approach to mealtime in years past. And dieting can be healthful and fun; if it isn't, don't pursue such a diet at the expense of your sense of well-being and pleasant disposition.

David L. Kennedy, 81-year-old retired farmer, died at 10:15 a.m. Saturday at the Olton hospital.

Kennedy died, presumably of heart disease, several hours after he arrived by bus in Olton from Dallas where he had visited the past several days. He was taken to the hospital from the bus station at 6 p.m. Friday.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Olton First Methodist church. Rev. Aubrey White, the pastor, officiated and burial took place in Olton cemetery under direction of the Roy G. Wood funeral home.

Kennedy went to Olton five years ago from Oregon. He had no immediate survivors although a nephew, L. B. Kennedy; a niece, Mrs. R. H. McAfee and a grand niece, Mrs. Wilma Emberton, live in Olton.

Encourage Your Tyke To Draw
By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Junior has been busy an hour with crayons and paper. Now he proudly shows you his "picture." What do you do?

Do you scream "whats that?"

If you do, you are wrong, advises Kelly Fearing, University of Texas assistant professor of art. He suggests you let the child tell you about his picture.

It may look like a snakepit to you, but Junior says it's "Daddy, coming home from work."

"A child works in symbols," Fearing explains. "Scribbles on a page are meaningful to him. When you see what he sees, you know what he is thinking about."

Let Junior Do It

Don't judge a child's art by adult standards, he says. And, above all, don't try to show him how to draw. Your work probably is no better than his, Fearing wagers, and may be worse: it suffers from your inhibitions and preconceived notions of what the picture OUGHT to look like.

There's been too much "copy work" in art, Fearing says, such things as having children fill in colors in pictures drawn by others. This ties the youngster down to adult standards, he points out, and keeps him from learning to develop his own.

"We punish a child if he copies spelling or arithmetic," Fearing notes. "But if he copies someone else's picture, nothing is thought of it."

All children have an intuitive sense of design, says Fearing. It is lost when they begin to be realistic. Don't criticize your child's work because it isn't realistic.

When a child begins to see that his pictures don't look just right he will ask for help. Even before that, you will be able to note his developing sense of observation in his spontaneous and free drawing, says the art teacher.

Meanwhile, the youngster's originality has been stimulated, and he has gained muscular, coordination. In this way, Fearing explains, art helps children to grow.
