ARRIVAL OF YOUR CHICKS

Remove the chicks from box carefully, one or two at a time, and before placing them under the hover, stick the beak of each chick in lukewarm Kome-Glo water. Simply remove the chill from the water and add one tablespoonful of Kome-Glo to the gallon of water.

The first step is very important as most of the difficulties of young chicks are caused by intestinal disorders that frequently cannot be avoided. Kome-Glo, a mild laxative, is an aid to proper elimination, also causes chicks to consume more water which alone is important. We lay particular stress on Kome-Glo because of the unusual success shown by its use in extensive comparative tests on baby chicks. A dollar bottle will be sufficient for 250 chicks for about 3 weeks. If you have not provided Kome-Glo for your chicks, don't take a chance. Keep in all drinking water for 2 weeks, then every other day until the chicks are six weeks old. After that just twice a week.

Two Farmers—

ker, and John Hemmingway, were returning to their homes near O'Donnell from Lamesa Friday afternoon via the brakes route which took them north through Indian canyon. When they reached the caprock, their car failed to negotiate the steep incline, requiring the men to push. Becoming exhausted and chilled, they abandoned the car and started north, traveling in twos.

Each man lived in a separate home, and Hubert Walker and Hemmingway pressed on ahead, soon losing sight of the other two, and finally found refuge, after great difficulty. They were not alarmed greatly about the probable fate of the others.

When the others failed to appear, searching parties were organized but had difficulty finding the bodies in the deep snow.

Searchers on horseback located the victims a half mile from safety of a ranch house. Finis Glethorn and Jack Smith of the Hominy community found the bodies, which were taken to Higginbotham Funeral home in Lamesa by a truck owned by County Judge C. C. Nunnally of Gail whose farm is located near the tragedy scene.

The funeral home reported Monday that interment took place in Plainview cemetery, eight miles southeast of O'Donnell, Tuesday.

Mr. Walker is survived by his wife and nine children, including three sets of twins, and Mr. Martin is survived by his wife and parents. Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of Hominy community. Walker was a brother-in-law of Jay Moore of Slide community.

Concert At Night

The clinic will open at 9 a. m. at the Littlefield High school, and will progress throughout the day concluding with a concert at night.

mates in Austin, will mean the same savings for policy-holders that they enjoyed last year.

Estimates for several other towns of the area also were announced by the commissioner in Austin. They were:

Twenty-five per cent credits—Levelland, Lockney, Lorenzo, Morton, and Muleshoe.

Twenty per cent—Lubbock.
Fifteen per cent—Matador.
Ten per cent—Meadow.

Stars Entertain—

entertained the group by a flute solo, accompanied on the piano by Miss Fern Holland. The response was given by the Worshipful Master, Mr. Howard.

The program also included a questionnaire on George Washington, led by Oscar Wilemon.

Presented With Bible

Mr. and Mrs. George Staggers, who recently observed their 46th wedding anniversary, and who have been members of the Eastern Star of long standing, (Mr. Staggers also being a Mason) in recognition and appreciation of their service, were presented with a Bible Monday evening, which was a pleasant surprise. Pat Boone, in a very fitting manner, made the presentation.

Bingo Closes Program

Jake Hopping favored the gathering with a song, which was followed by bingo, participated in by a large number, which closed the program for the evening.

About 60 Masons were present to enjoy the hospitality of the Stars.

Six Inches Snow—

Lubbock reported a 12-inch fall. The snow in Littlefield section is estimated at giving the territory equal to 3-4 inch of moisture.

All highways over the South Plains were closed to traffic Friday night and Saturday morning by the highway patrol, who issued warning over the radio of the hazard in attempting to travel same. The east bus from Clovis Friday night, on getting this far, two hours late, was ordered to remain here over night. The first highway to be open was the Clovis-Lubbock highway. Lubbock-Levelland route was so blocked that highway trucks paroled it Saturday night. It was opened late Sunday.

Friday Lubbock residents housed about 125 school children left there when buses were unable to traverse regular routes.

A message was broadcast from KFYO to inform parents the method to be undertaken in returning the children to their homes.

Two hundred students of the New Deal rural high school at Monroe spent the night in the school building, while 25 slept at Fortenberry's residences.

Concern felt for parents stranded on highways between Lubbock and Levelland and Plainview led to special trains in each of these directions. With 150 persons aboard the Levelland special bogged down on the return trip, and the train originally scheduled to leave for Plainview went to the rescue, bearing among others, 20 Lubbock CCC boys armed with shovels.

At Dickens drifts were said to be 20 feet deep.

The roads in this section Monday still being impassable, and buses being unable to get through, it was considered best to close the Littlefield school for Tuesday and Wednesday. The only rural children attending the local schools Monday were those whom their parents brought to school.

Three buses of the Tahoka school district, loaded with pupils, were located when the storm, at times reaching gale velocity, descended.

A half dozen or so other buses earlier had been found and the news established that students were safe.

Most of the children on one bus had been distributed to homes before the bus stalled. Drivers of the other two found accommodations for the children in farm homes along routes when they recognized futility of trying to go farther.

Wilson school district northeast of Tahoka dismissed at noon Friday because of weather, and all buses stalled. Most were able to make their way back to Wilson community, where students spent the night.

Similar experiences were reported for two buses in the New Home community, 12 miles west of Wilson.

Approximately 125 children residing in rural areas and who attend Lubbock schools were taken to their homes Saturday afternoon by National Guard trucks after having been guests in Lubbock homes Friday night, said A. C. Jackson, business manager of schools.

Some remained in Lubbock Friday night because roads to their homes were blocked, he said.

Jackson related that within 10 minutes after the broadcast over KFYO Friday night saying accommodations were needed for stranded children, the hospitality of many more homes than could be used was offered.

With the same energy with which reports were checked by press and radio, the general South Plains public dug itself out of the snow.

Persons on horses or on foot went to nearest telephones, sometimes miles, to ask for information about relatives who had been caught away from home by the storm. Those in Lubbock and unable to return to their homes asked KFYO to broadcast reassurances to their relatives. Hundreds of such messages were broadcast.

Two special trains were run Friday night for the relief of persons struck with their cars on the Seagraves branch of the Santa Fe railroad, and from Lubbock toward Plainview.

Approximately 375 persons were taken from highways and taken into Lubbock, where they had to spend the night in hotel lobbies and whatever other place they could find. Hotels were filled, and no rooms were available.

The aggregate number of persons rescued was guesswork, however. Officials of the Santa Fe reported 375 marooned were removed by the specials and a regular train.

One of the trains reported taking aboard 130 persons, including two infants. Another special of two passenger coaches pushed by a locomotive itself became stalled in five feet of snow near Hurlwood west of Lubbock and another locomotive was required to complete the rescue.

The train, after its return to Lubbock, reversed and made the round trip between Lubbock and Plainview, picking up 10 stranded motorists. The regular Santa Fe passenger train into Lubbock at 10 o'clock Friday night brought 75 weather victims to safety.

Signals had been broadcast over KFYO, to motorists stalled on highways adjacent to railway tracks to flash their headlights when a train approached. Members of the train crews were instructed to stop upon observation of such signals.

Other participants in rescue efforts were truck crews of the state highway department, the state highway patrol, local school authorities and officers throughout the area, as well as scores of other groups traveling on horses, in trucks, in tractors and on foot.

Buses of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma coaches started regular schedules on three routes Sunday morning, said company officials. Buses ran Saturday night from Clovis and Sweetwater and another left Lubbock for Sweetwater.

Reports received here said Amarillo, which had reported five snow plows stuck in drifts, had extricated some of them and that it was plowing open its roads.

From Tahoka, messages Saturday night clarified the story of the missing school buses. Coach Leo Jackson, one of the drivers, stuck four miles northeast of Tahoka, with 35 students. He walked to a telephone and called for help.

V. D. Armstrong's bus was halted six miles northwest with 30 students. They and approximately 25 students in a bus stalled six miles east of Tahoka and one mile north of Grassland happened to be near farm houses, and students found lodging.

Sam Price, deputy sheriff of Tahoka, went on horse six miles to the Armstrong bus, carrying food.

Bill King, driver of one bus, turned back and the students slept in a jury room in the Tahoka courthouse, said another report.

Reports early Saturday afternoon indicated that 180 pieces of road equipment had been pressed into service clearing highways. Engineer Garrett ordered that all highways be barricaded and persons warned against driving them.

"Every car trying to go around the barricades is making conditions more hazardous every hour," he said in a KFYO broadcast.

All join in singing praises for the highway patrol, CCC, railway officials, and others for the splendid cooperation in rescue work, and notifying families of whereabouts of relatives stranded in Lubbock and elsewhere.

The much needed moisture which this section has received not only offers assurance of good cotton and feed crops this year, but is generally conceded to be beneficial to the wheat planted in the fall.

Temperatures for the past week were as follows:

Thursday, low 32, high 62; Friday, low 28, high 42; Saturday, low 26, high 42; Sunday, low 19, high 46; Monday, low 24, high 38; Tuesday, low 23, high 48; Wednesday, low 23, high 62.

Fosh Phipps, student at Tech College, spent the past week end with his mother, Mrs. Jannie Phipps.

Mrs. Simon D. Hay of Sudan was a visitor in Littlefield Tuesday.

WE'RE GLAD WE'RE AMERICANS BECAUSE...

We are fortunate, indeed, we Americans, to live in a Land of Liberty, Justice, Tolerance, and Peace. It may have taken these times of strife and unrest in most of the supposedly civilized nations of the world to make a great many of us realize how truly fortunate we are, but all of us do count our blessings now, and rightly so. That's why Piggy Wiggly considers itself most fortunate of all, because we are proud to be Americans... to call you friends, neighbors. Not only is it a privilege to serve you, it is a very wonderful pleasure, as well. In turn, we believe you find it a pleasure to shop the Piggy Wiggly Way, for that is the American Way. ## Sails For Europe On Peace Mission Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles sailed for Europe Saturday on an "exploration" tour designed to show what possibilities there are for peace.

The shrewd, 47-year-old career diplomat, sailing in the Italian liner as the personal emissary of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, carried no plans for proposals.

He is to talk "in strictest confidence" with the heads of the warring nations and of the outstanding non-belligerent power—Italy.

Welles made it clear that he is going to do far more listening than talking.

Although Washington has stressed that he has no authority to make commitments, the enormous ramifications of the peace which ultimately must be re-established in Europe are the crux of Welles' confidential mission. The government is convinced that it must play an important role in framing the peace.

Acreage Allotment For Sugar Beets In Area Sought

For Purpose Of Attracting Sugar Refineries Into State

Hope that acreage allotment for sugar beets in Texas might be granted by the government so sugar refineries would feel justified in coming into the state, was expressed by H. M. Bainer, general agricultural agent for the Santa Fe, in his announcement of final results of sugar beet production on the South Plains for the last year.

Acres harvested last season totaled 1,018, tons harvested numbered 1,036 and sugar content averaged 17.84 per cent.

Summary of the results of the 1939 season, the third of experimental growth of sugar beets in the Shallowater area of northwest Texas, follows below, with the grower, number of acres harvested and percentage sugar content listed in that order:

M. C. Bierman, Anton, 2 acres, 9.9 tons, 15.56 per cent sugar; R. O. Mayes, Anton, 5 acres, 63.5 tons, 17.88 per cent sugar; E. B. Teague, Anton, 2 acres, 16.63 tons, 15.1 per cent sugar; C. A. Bourlon, Roundup, 2 acres, 35 tons, 17.48 per cent; R. C. Hopping, Roundup, 5 acres, 33.57 tons, 18.17 per cent; J. B. Haire, Bainer, 4 acres, 40.24 tons, 17.17 per cent.

Bainer's statement lists all the best growers in this area, but only growers around Anton are listed above.

Nearly half of the beets were grown in 36 inch rows, with the remainder in 20 inch rows. The yields were 7.71 tons per acre in the 36 inch rows and 12.93 in the 20 inch rows. The lowest per acre yield was 3.43 tons and highest yield was 17.58 tons, the average on Bourlon's acreage.

FASHION for today BY PATRICIA DOW

BASQUE FROCK

There will be no daily what-to-wear tussle for the mother who fashions this cleverly-designed basque frock (Pattern 8474) for her fast-growing daughter. The problem is likely to be getting her to stop wearing it long enough to be cleaned!

The flared skirt, the puffed sleeves, and the high neckline, finished with a little tailored collar, minimize the tendency to thinness which most growing young ladies have to contend with, and the pointed basque waistline has a smart, grown-up look they all love.

Pattern No. 8474 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/8 yards of 39-inch fabric, plus 3-8 yard contrast for the collar and cuffs.

Pattern 8639—Just see what a lot of fashion you can get in this one simple pattern (8639) which provides you with a lovely, jabot-trimmed blouse, and a tailored blouse with standing collar and bow, as well as the very full and swingy skirt!

Your choice of materials for this fashion is practically endless—wool crepe, flannel and flat crepe are all nice for the skirt. Satin, silk crepe, linen, georgette and chiffon are a few of the fabrics in which the blouses make up beautifully.

Pattern 8639 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20.

It was the first moment that Stanley and his father had been alone, but there was more suspicion than sympathy in the stare that Bradish bent on his son.

Stanley looked sulky. "I've told you I was riding horseback in this infernal desolation, and some sniper tried to pick me off."

"Don't talk bosh with me! You were probably meddling around with some girl. One more affair of that kind and I'll cut off your allowance. You must think I'm asleep."

"Far from it," Stanley drawled it out with the slightly patronizing air that his father particularly hated. "But I'm not exactly unconscious myself. And something seems to tell me that Matt Blair's ore samples weren't quite so—er—harmless as they were assayed."

Bradish's eyes bored into the insolent weakness of his son's face. "Well?" he snapped. "What of it?"

"Oh nothing," Stanley was bland. "I just thought I'd remind you that I have some business acumen myself. How about a half interest, giving you a first option on buying me out? You know," he added, "I might have advised Virginia not to sell, and managed my wife's interests myself."

Bradish regarded his son with a heavy stare.

"Trying to buck the old man, are you?" he demanded. "Bigger men than you have tried that, and most of 'em are in the bread lines or adding up columns of other people's assets."

Stanley looked annoyed. "Hollister bucked you pretty successfully until I took him in hand," he hinted sulkily, but got no further.

"What's that out there?" his father demanded abruptly.

Stanley went to the window. "The gentleman himself," he murmured maliciously. "That's your amiable friend, Mr. Lee Hollister. I wonder what he's up to now?"

"Humph! Looks like a competent young devil," Bradish stared after him with interest. "I was a fool not to get him on my side," he reflected. "Maybe I'll do it yet. Rides like an Indian and has as cool an eye as I ever looked at. Bet he can handle men. I'll get him. I'll have him on my payroll inside of two weeks."

Lee had been looking for Virginia, going first to make his inquiries of the friendly Ling, but Virginia was not there. She had slipped out without a word to anyone, wanting only to get away from the house and everyone in it. High up on Monument Rock where they had carried her father to look down forever on the Valley of the Sun, she sat in a disconsolate little huddle, her chin in her hand, staring out at the rugged country he had loved. Hot tears came into her eyes. She laid her cheek against the rough rock. "I had to do it! I had to! You understand, don't you?"

Quiet and solitude were around her. Far above, a hawk wheeled in smooth curves, watching for prey. Back of her was a grassy flat where a few pines whispered. A squirrel whisked up a tree; a darting wren scolded.

Virginia jumped up quickly. The girl from the sheep ranch stood a short distance away, leaning against the rough trunk of a pine.

"You wish to see me?" asked Virginia.

"But why do you hate me?" I hate you because he thinks all ways of you and never of me. I hate you because you throw heem away like the soiled rag, like a poison snake, because you see heem touch me."

Virginia listened, astonished and a little angry. The last words caught her attention sharply: "What are you talking about? What have you been doing?" (To Be Continued)

New Frame Garden Built By Mr. And Mrs. Edgar Barton

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Barton have completed a new frame garden, five feet by 25 feet. Mr. Barton is installing sub-irrigation by using tin cans. The cans are placed about 10 inches below the surface and covered with paper. Half an old inner tube is slipped over the can at the end, making a convenient way to keep this closed when not irrigating so the cans will not become stopped up with sand. They plan to grow radishes, tendergreens, spinach, lettuce, onions, and other vegetables. The garden will have a covering of wall canvas which will permit the sunshine to enter and will at the same time protect the garden from wind and sand.

The cost of State government Texas in 1924 was $50,519. By 1938 it had more than tripled being $157,747,878.

SNOOPER SAYS ...

Freeman Palmer, outstanding educator was once when she was always so happy. In reply she said: "I have three very simple rules: Commit something to memory; something good. It needn't be a poem or a prayer—just a pretty bit of a poem or a prayer."
 Look for something pretty every day, and don't skip a day's work.
 Do something for somebody every day.
 In your mind, don't skip a day, all there is to it. Simple, it works."
 Thought sure spring was here when we saw a robin in the yard at the house, and the little girl playing marbles on vacant ground on Friday, the worst snow-blasted blizzard the South Plains had in years, arrived. Farmers' section were snowbound, and we were stopped.
 I didn't feel out of the church Sunday, with my hat on. No one seemed to care to dress in new clothes.
 The irrepressible "Lion of the South" recently lay dying in Washington, the statesmen of the world, who had been his associate for a third of a century.
 A voice which so long had been heard through the corridors of the United States was only for "Mary."
 "Mary" was the wife of his young son. It was "Mary" who had been by his side, spurring him to greater success in his field of statesmanship. It was "Mary" who had been the self-sacrificing wife in the end.
 There ever been the wives and the men who have given their lives as they have to war. It has been these "Marys" who have smiled through tears of farewell as their men go away to begin his career. It has been these "Marys" who in childhood have inculcated the high ideals of living and the importance of a Christian civilization in the little minds of their young.

Every boy in the vision of his "Mary" is destined to be president. They don't reach that goal, but when they reach the estate of honorable manhood and serve their country in war and peace they are the bulwark of civilization, and all the praise goes to the "Marys."

Someone we've missed lately at church and on the streets, is Mrs. Van Clark, who is recuperating from illness. She visited in the home of her friend, Mrs. O. K. Howe, at Memphis last week. We'll be glad when her smile greets us again.

Won't someone please tell me what is to become of a person whose dreams are continued from night to night? The past three nights my dreams have been along the same trend of thought, a continuation, so what is the meaning of this? Haven't been able to find anything about it in astrology books!

Jerold Jones, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jones, has a very interesting hobby of making pictures with his own photographer's camera, and developing them in a dark room at home. He took a very good picture of the horrible wreck on highway 7 a week ago Sunday night. The picture was snapped a few minutes after the ambulances left the scene.

Pictures of a local veterinarian, Dr. F. B. Watts, are in a circular distributed by Brittain Pharmacy, from the Globe Laboratories in Fort Worth. Dr. Watts worked in the laboratories before coming to Littlefield about January 1.

Dr. Watts is the young man who smokes extra-long cigarettes. Says every time he starts to smoke an ordinary cigarette now, he feels as if he was smoking a "snipe."

Well, now they are laying it on to women. This surplus cotton, etc. They say if women should cover their legs from the knees down, it would take up the surplus, and such things as, "a happy farmer is the one who has a fat wife." For it takes more cotton to dress her, than he can raise more. So . . . . women either bring happiness or sorrow to the farmer!

Through the ages, women have inspired song writers, and those songs named for women that we could think of right this minute, are:

"Sweet Genevieve," "Josephine," "Marie," "Sweet Adeline," "My Margarita," "Blue Eyed Sally," "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "Nellie Gray," "Rosalie," "Clemantine," "Oh Susannah," "Mary Ann," "Little Liza Jane," "Carina," "Mary Had A Little Lamb," "Annie's Cousin Fannie," "To Mary—With Love," "Fair Rosemary," "Juanita," "Annie Laurie," "Sweet Lucy Brown," "Emmalina," "Barbara Allen," "Betsy," "Lola," "Katie," "Rosetta," "Kansas City Kitty," "Sweet Georgia Brown," "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean," and the one entitled "MARGIE."

Dora Jo Covington Wins Nomination For Pilgrimage

Dora Jo Covington was selected Littlefield's representative from the senior class, recently for the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage to Washington, D. C.

The three girls who received the most votes were Billye Margaret Johnson, Velma Lee Lowe, and Dora Jo Covington. Other girls that were nominated were Evelyn Griffin, Christine Carpenter, Lois Cunningham and Irene Weschke.

The juniors and seniors selected three girls, and the faculty chose one girl whom they thought worthy of the trip. The winner's name will be sent to the Deputy State Superintendent of this district. One girl from each supervisory district will be chosen. The final winner, and two alternates will be selected by the lot under the supervision of the state superintendent, who will send their name to the state chairman of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The winning "pilgrim" will be the guest of the National Daughters of the American Revolution, in Washington from Friday, April 12, 1940, to Tuesday, April 16, 1940, in personal care of D.A.R. chaperones at the same hotels with other states pilgrimages.

Little Lois Ann Gladstone Suffers Burns Friday

Lois Ann Goldstone, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Goldstone of this city, was treated Friday by Dr. I. T. Shotwell for burns on her back, which she suffered when she backed against a gas heater at her home in the McKnight Apartments.

The child was just recovering from the chicken pox when she got burned. However, she is reported to be getting along nicely.

Fifty Farmers Plow Jennings Farm Of 187 Acres In 3 Hours

Plowing 187 acres in three hours is the record made by 50 farmers with 26 tractors when they gathered Tuesday of last week at the farm of Vern Jennings, three miles west and half mile south of Amherst.

This kind deed was carried out as a courtesy and assistance to Mr. Jennings, whose daughter, Ruth, 17, was seriously injured in a car wreck on Highway 7 west of town the Sunday evening previous. Mr. Jennings has been staying in town most of the time at the bedside of his daughter, and did not know the plowing was being done, so it was a pleasant surprise when he was informed of the kindness of his neighbors.

Assisting in the work were; Edd Scovajso, Raymond Cantrell, E. E. Alexander, Luther Caraway, A. O. Dickson, W. H. Masten, Troy Lance, John Harlan, J. C. McQuiver, E. W. Baccus, Jack Yarbrough, Ed. Ross, M. D. Abbott, J. B. Pryor, Henry Fisher, Henry Mins, Jim Bradley, E. J. Batson, Glen Peoples, P. W. Carraway, Willie Lide, Fred Roberts, Harvey Messamore, Bill Humphreys, B. W. Harris, and Earl Miller.

The True Strength
To have a strong people we must have a well instructed people. This has been fully realized in all ages of the world. The leaders of ancient Israel knew this and made provision for the teaching of the people.

It is well for a nation to have its strong, unassailable fortresses, its well garrisoned towns, its frontier streams, mountains, or precipitous rock. But the strength of a nation does not reside in these; it lies in the intelligence, the vigor, the courage, the patriotism of its people. All material munitions will fail to keep out the enemy when the people are corrupted and enfeebled . . . nothing enduring can be built out of ignorance.

Knowledge is power. All power needs to be rightly guided; misguided it is the source of the greatest evil.

It is, therefore, important that the people be instructed in the truth. . . . It is here that the school becomes a vital power. It seeks to give a young man or a young woman not simply a chest of tools but a spiritual power that shall enable them to use the chest of tools to the best possible advantage. The sound basis of true character is the education that rests upon Christian faith.—Author Unknown.

When nations kill off their best minds and leaders and advocate children being born out of wedlock, promising that the nation will rear them, and many other basic wrongs that are being practiced today by some nations—their ends are not far away.

Next Sunday is Missionary day and all services conforming to this outline. We call the people of the church to attend the workers school at Sudan February 25 to March 1. A course on Worship and Christian Education in Your Church are offered. Any one sixteen years old or above may enroll. There are no exams and no fees, each participating church will be expected to pay a small fee for school expenses.

On February 27 Bishop Holt and others will be in a meeting at Littlefield. This is open to all.

he said: "In spite of dire poverty the Indians love to come in great throngs to church services, assemblies and institutes, often travelling from 200 to 300 miles and many still coming to "meeting day" in wagons. Their churches are old, weather-beaten, one room frame buildings, surrounded usually by camp houses for the Indians love to camp for the week end services. Franching is often done in an open brush harbor tabernacle."

While in Littlefield, Rev. Butterfield visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Reid and other long-time friends.

who remained in the hospital, is serious, but not critical.

The automobile, in which the two men were riding, and a Gulf oil truck, reported driven by G. E. Bentz of Littlefield, and owned by L. C. Grissom, are reported to be badly wrecked.

Mr. Bentz was also treated at the Littlefield Hospital for cuts and bruises, but was able to go home, where he was confined a couple of days.

Local Doctor—

Mr. Steffy called the hospital to that effect, Dr. I. T. Shotwell and A. B. Chapman of the CCC camp, started driving toward Spade to see if they could locate Dr. Payne.

Shotwell Car in Snowbank
Dr. Shotwell's car stuck in a snowbank, and from 2 o'clock until daylight, they waited, wondering what had happened to Dr. Payne.

When it became light enough to see, they realized that they were not far from the Vann residence. Dr. Shotwell immediately called the hospital staff, who contacted the CCC Camp. Twenty husky boys from the camp, armed with shovels, spades, hoes and other paraphernalia went to his rescue, in a camp truck.

At 9:30 a call came to the hospital that his car was out of the ditch, and he started on to find Dr. Payne.

Five Cars Stick In Snow

A few miles farther east, Dr. Payne had stuck, having never reached the Steffy residence. Four or five other cars were also stuck, including the one occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Steffy, who were trying to reach his mother's bedside.

Before Dr. Shotwell reached Dr. Payne, a tractor had come to Dr. Payne's rescue. He reached the Steffy residence at 9:30 Saturday morning. Mrs. Steffy was given medical attention. Her condition is reported to be fine at this time.

Dr. Payne took a dose of his own medicine. He went to bed to recuperate.

Marooned In Lubbock

Mrs. Floyd Coffman and son, Edwin, and Mrs. Roy Heard were marooned in Lubbock Friday night. They had started to Goree and Seymour to visit relatives over the week end. They were glad to get back to Littlefield Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Y. Onstott left Lubbock early Friday morning on a bus, starting to Dallas to visit a brother, who was critically ill in a hospital there. The bus stuck a few miles from Lubbock, and it was late Friday afternoon before the travelers were able to return to Lubbock. Mrs. Onstott suffered a slight cold from the exposure. She returned to Littlefield Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Connell, who reside on the J. W. Hopping farm, in the Fieldton community, sent an S.O.S. call to their daughter, Mrs. Hopping, Saturday morning for groceries and other supplies, as they were snowbound. Mrs. Hopping and two children drove as far as the road north of the farm, then had to walk up the hill to take the supplies to her parents. She still isn't sure whether she arrived at the house with all the bundles in her arms, after the tumble she took in a snowbank that came to her neck!

Dick Edwards was among the many farmers who were "bound to stay in town" Friday night, after the snow started piling so high. Rather than attempt to walk home, after seeing the impossibility of driving his car, he stayed at a store in Southmoor.

Mr. and Mrs. John Porcher and son, George, arrived in Littlefield Sunday afternoon, after being snowbound in Plainview since Friday night. They had been to Amarillo on business. Mr. Porcher reported it cost plenty of money to stay at the Hilton Hotel that length of time, but George got his money's worth, riding the elevators.

Dale Jones, transport driver for Phillips 66 in Littlefield, was snowbound in Lubbock, and L. H. Hulse, another transport driver for Phillips 66, stayed in Wolfforth until Saturday afternoon. They came to Littlefield via train, going back for their trucks Sunday.

G. M. Vann, commissioner of Precinct No. 3, reported that most of the county road machinery was in operation the first two days this week, clearing roads in the Fieldton and Spade communities. Seems

The Spirit of the West—

The spirit of the West lives! And no where will you find it more pronounced than in the rural communities.

When trouble or tragedy swoops down on a household, the entire community seeks in every way possible to offer neighborly comfort and assistance; no effort, no personal sacrifice is too great; neighbors go hand in hand through the shadows.

Contrast such a fine spirit with that in many other parts of the country, and particularly in the large cities. In the metropolitan areas neighbors are such in name only; they don't know each other; they do not enjoy even a speaking acquaintance.

Can you wonder that the West grips folks, holds them?

Some say that the West is passing. But let us hope that changing conditions will never erase the old spirit, the spirit that continues to exist today, the kindness in the heart that guides men to assemble and plow a neighbor's land or harvest his crop when trouble or tragedy strike.

Open discord now exists in two of the state's numerous three-member boards. How long it will be before there are public breaks on other boards is keeping the capitol on tip-toe.

First public outburst was an angry interchange between Chairman Harry Know, Jr., of the state board of control and member Tom Deberry, over the procedure at the board hearing on complaints about San Antonio state hospital.

Next came an outburst at last week's meeting of the state liquor control board. Tired of sitting silent while the board's minister-chairman made statements that they construed to be a reflection on the board, both other members of the board turned on Dr. W. D. Bradford and soundly lectured him for his course. Over his vote they ordered an investigation of complaints they said came from disgruntled former employees.

Because of the death of the late Chairman Claude Teer, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel has appointed a majority of the present members of the board of control. He named one member of the liquor control board and will not have a majority on that board unless he is re-elected for a second term.

On the board of control both of Governor O'Daniel's appointees have voted against Tom Deberry, who was appointed by Former Governor James V. Allred. On the liquor board both members appointed by former Governor Allred have voted against O'Daniel's appointee.

On the state safety commission which directs the state police department, two of the present members were appointed before Governor O'Daniel took office. His lone appointment on that board was made recently. His choice was Judge Edwin Lacy of Longview.

State Life Insurance Commissioner Walter Woodward was named on the Board of Insurance Commissioners by Governor O'Daniel and is serving peacefully with two commissioners appointed by Governor Allred—R. G. Water, casualty commissioner, and Marvin Hall, Fire insurance commissioner.

Chairman Brady P. Gentry of the State highway commission is also serving without friction with two of Governor Allred's appointees, Harry Hines and Robert Lee Bobbitt.

The other important three-member board is the railroad commission. All its members are elected by the people. The governor can appoint a member only in case of a vacancy between elections. Two members of that board are considering a race for governor.

Governor O'Daniel is keeping out of the political contest in the state between Roosevelt and Garner supporters. He has declined to make an expression on a third term for the president. He has declined, also,

SYNOPSIS CHAPTER X

Lee Hollister returns unexpectedly from a trip abroad to find Blair, his foster father and owner of the Circle V ranch, dead in his own hand. The ranch is going to rain and Matt's daughter Virginia, now owner of the ranch, living in New York with the others, her aunt and uncle. Her father wants her to sell the ranch to Milton Bradish, one time Matt's associate. Lee persuades Virginia to return to the ranch. Her aunt follows her, accompanied by Stanley, of Milton Bradish. Stanley tries to discredit Lee in Virginia's eyes, evening Josefa Ramirez, who is jealous of Lee's interest in Virginia, dances for Lee and throws herself into his arms just as Virginia rides past with Stanley. Stanley visits Josefa, and is shot from the side of a rock on the hillside Francisco watched his flight with a grunt of contempt. "I think you not fool 'round here no more," he said calmly, and went back to his sheep. He had protected the honor of his house efficiently and in his own way. Stanley drew in his sweating horse only when he came in view of the Circle V ranch house. Virginia, sitting at Matt's desk, heard her aunt's terrified scream. "Stanley, what has happened? Virginia!"

Fear gripped her. She ran. Stanley was just coming in. Blood stained his shirt on the shoulder. "Whoever plugged ye must've been considerable higher up than you was," he said innocently. "Did ye get a chance at him?"

"I don't go around armed," he said curtly, "and he took good care not to show himself. I was on my way here, just entering the mouth of Turkey Gulch."

Mrs. Archer shot a triumphant glance at her niece; Virginia looked steadily down at the wound she was gazing. Curly's brick red face was as nearly expressionless as a human face can be. The mouth of Turkey

Virginia saw him go without making any attempt to see her again. der, blood was crusted on the fingers of one hand, where he had pressed them against the wound to staunch the flow. "Stanley! What is the matter?"

"Oh, nothing to be frightened about." He smiled pallidly. "Somebody winged me. Just a pleasant little attention."

Mrs. Archer moaned, but Virginia was very quiet. She was as pale as Stanley now, but her voice was steady and cool.

"Sit down here in this big chair. Curly, please help me." They worked quickly. A call to Ling brought warm water, iodine and bandages, and Curly's strong fingers made short work of the stained shirt.

Curly squinted at the wound ju-

Gulch was in a direct downward line from Lee Hollister's cabin.

"We should have a doctor, Curly. Will you get him?" That was the only comment Virginia made.

"I'll go and bring him," suggested Curly obligingly. Mrs. Archer followed him with a nervous backward glance at Virginia as she left the room.

"Stanley, how did it happen?" Virginia's low voiced question came the moment they were alone.

"Why, just as I told you, Vee."

"But you suspect someone," she persisted. "Who is it?"

"No one that I would care to accuse," he answered evasively.

She ignored his light tone, but she could not ignore the implication back of it. "But I'm sure that no one here would do such a thing."

"No one?" he queried ironically. She frowned. "If you mean Lee Hollister, he would never fight that way, from ambush."

"Oh, I'm not accusing him." He raised cynical brows that did accuse.

Out on the veranda Curly took some hastily written messages from Mrs. Archer and started back to the corral with Stanley's waiting horse.

"He's a liar," reflected Curly dispassionately. "I've been plugged myself, and I'll bet two dollars Mex that he carried that cat scratch from a blame' sght further than Turkey Gulch."

The doctor came and went, pronouncing Stanley's injury only a flesh wound that might be painful for a few days, but was not dangerous.

Virginia wandered restlessly from room to room. It was all maddening and impossible. Only one thing stood out definitely. A guest in her house had been the victim of a cowardly attack from ambush, almost within the limits of her own land. That could not be passed in silence.

Footsteps on the veranda caught her attention. She went to the door.

"Good evening," said Lee. "I hear Bradish has met with an accident."

"I should scarcely call it that." Virginia chilled instantly under this casual reference.

"Stanley was shot in the back this afternoon by some contemptible assassin who hadn't the courage to let himself be seen. He is a guest in my house and a friend, and I shall expect every man connected with the Circle V or interested in it to make it his business to find the man who did it."

His steady eyes were on her, unsmilingly. "Men don't usually ask women to fight their battles for them," he commented. "He hasn't asked anything!" she flamed back at him. "Hope you find your man," he said politely. "Is Bradish in? I'd like to see him. Alone, please." Stanley looked up sharply at the tall figure in the door. "How d'you do," he said languidly. "Looking for Miss Blair? She just stepped out." "No, I'm looking for you. I hear that you're spreading the report that some friend of mine tried to kill you in my interest. You happen to know that it's a lie. In the first place, I wouldn't take the trouble to have you killed. In the second place, I don't hand over dirty work to other people, and in the third place, my friends don't miss." The curt contempt of it brought a dull red to Stanley's face. "Look here," he began angrily, but the sardonic voice went on. "If any friend of mine winged you like that, he wasn't trying to commit murder. He was posting a warning, and I advise you to take it. Whatever you were up to when that thing happened, don't do it again." Without waiting for any reply he turned to go, not by the way he had come, but by another door. From the veranda Virginia saw him go without making any attempt to see her again. She went slowly into the house to meet her aunt. "I thought I heard voices," Mrs. Archer glanced nervously past her niece. "You really ought not to leave that door open, Virginia. You don't know who may be out there in the dark." "There is no one out there. It's perfectly safe." "Safe!" Mrs. Archer cried hysterically. "How can you say such a thing when Stanley has been nearly murdered! I shall not feel safe for one minute until we get away from here. I have telegraphed to your uncle and Mr. Bradish—" "Oh, darling! Without even telling me." Mrs. Archer flushed guiltily. "Why not?" she demanded with injured dignity. "One might almost think that you were trying to shield this criminal." She shot an indignant glance at her niece and then broke into hysterical sobs. "Oh, I can't stand it any longer! I've been worried to death for weeks, ever since that insolent, lawless man came east and persuaded you to come back here. He's at the bottom of all this: I know it." "Aunt Adele, please. That isn't so." "It's true, Virginia. And you just keep on, dropping money into this bottomless pit to satisfy the greed of that man, instead of taking the wonderful price Mr. Bradish has offered you just out of friendship and sentiment for the place!" On and on and on. Accusations, pleas, babbling, hysterical reproaches. Virginia closed her eyes. "You needn't worry any more," she said wearily. "I wrote to Mr. Bradish some days ago that I was ready to sell. I'll keep my word." A second telegram a few days later announced the hour of Milton Bradish's arrival. Virginia went to meet him, and he greeted her genially. "How d'you do? Has that boy of mine been making trouble for you up here? I'll take him in hand. By the way, just drive around to Gideon Morse's office first, will you? He has something there that we'll both want to see." She drove him there. Half an hour later, when they left Saunders, Bradish was in an expensively contented frame of mind. Virginia was unusually quiet, with steady eyes fixed ahead of her. "Well, what have you been up to?" (Continued on Page 6)

Clever Dog Owned By Spade Section Resident

By MORLEY B. DRAKE

We are crazy about dogs. Any dog, of high or low station, receives our attention; pet him and we talk to him. One of our greatest ambitions is to train a dog to do a variety of things. We have been told that to successfully train a dog, the trainer must possess more brains than the dog. That seems to let us out in the way.

Our latest thrill in dogdom is "Teddy," a combination Pekingese Poodle, one year old, who is better than the boys who write dictionaries.

At two weeks old "Teddy" was a dog; at 52 weeks . . . well, I doubt if there has ever been a dog in the United States worth a penny to buy him.

Owned By Spade Woman "Teddy" is owned by Mrs. Esther Spade, who has trained him into one of the smartest dogs we have ever had the privilege of knowing. And that takes in plenty of territory, because we never miss a show in which dogs are featured. "Teddy" is an exceedingly popular dog. While he is owned by Mrs. Spade, her brother-in-law, Charles Spade, believes there is no dog in the world who is quite as smart as "Teddy" and he claims part of the credit for training him.

"Teddy" Handles Easy Even some dogs who are "professional" and have been trained by professional dog trainers do not handle easily; they are uncertain in their work, and they do not handle to the complete satisfaction of the owner or the audience. "Teddy" handles easy and seems to be a trick dog. Certain types of dogs train and (Continued On Page Five)
