To Open With Mammoth And Colorful Parade

With the annual Littlefield Jaycee Rodeo, now less than three weeks away, being officially set for June 12, 13 and 14, Jaycee committee meetings are now, and will continue to be almost daily affairs. For at least, the several committees, who are charged with the planning, publicizing, staging and financing of this year's rodeo, which each Jaycee member has personally pledged to make it the biggest and best ever held here.

And those committees are working hard toward the goal, which is to play host to the biggest crowd ever to assemble in Littlefield in a three-day period.

Arrangements Nearly Complete.
All arrangements are now practically completed—all that is necessary is to carry ahead the plans and programs that have been mapped.

Parade To Open Event
It has been announced that the rodeo will be officially opened with a big and colorful parade on the afternoon of June 12, preceding the first night's show. This parade arrangement has been taken over by the Lamb County Sheriff's posse, and they in turn have invited possessors from all surrounding towns, and will be host to all of them, and their wives at a big outdoor dinner party. Gene Williams heads the posse. He has announced that (Continued on back page)

During the business session the group voted to buy new uniforms for the band majorettes and the three flag twirlers. Property Owners Hearing Called For Monday By City Commission

Property owners in 35 designated units, comprising approximately 47 blocks within the city, with such property located on streets proposed to be paved, under a paving project set up in the city by ordinance, be they in favor or against the paving, will have an opportunity to be heard, when a public hearing will be held before the City Commission next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The project has been set up in 35 separate units, and the hearing will consider separately each unit of the project. If and when each unit is officially approved, the ordinance provides that assessments can be levied against the property, for the purpose of paying for the paving project costs.

In a general way, the property owners are called upon to pay nine-tenths of the total cost of the paving. The city has already entered into a contract with the T. J. Jones Construction Company to do the work on all parts of the project which are approved at next Monday's meeting.

Of special interest to Littlefield citizens, who know Dr. A. B. Haynes, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here, was the fact that he was among the graduating class, and was awarded a certificate from the college commemorating the 50th year since he graduated from Trinity University.

Spade School Consolidation Elections Are Held Saturday

law, and a majority of the voters casting ballots in both the Spade and Littlefield districts separately) must by ballot approve, if the consolidation is to become effective.

W. E. Bentley, Judge At Spade
W. E. Bentley has been named judge of the election in the Spade Independent School District, which will be held at the Spade school house, with the polls open from 8 am., to 7 p.m.

Voting At Court House
Bruce Forcher will be judge of election in the Littlefield Independent School District, and voting will take place for this district, at the Lamb county court house, with same hours provided for balloting. A heavy vote is being forecast at Spade. An election held there on a school bond issue, two weeks ago, and which was carried by a large majority, with approximately 218 votes cast, seemingly presages almost unanimous interest in the district. The vote in Littlefield is expected to be proportionately much lighter.

County Judge Otba Dent announced this week that the only requirement to cast a ballot is residence in the district in which the voter wishes to vote, and possession of a qualifying poll tax. It is not necessary for the voter to be a property-owner, or taxpayer.

Cotton Production Cost With Hoe

and hoeing rank next to harvesting as the most consuming operations in the production of cotton in some sections of Texas, almost one man hour is required to produce a bushel of cotton by chopping and hoeing. Fred Elliott, specialist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, says the use of rotary hoes will save time and increase the income from cotton.

Last year reported savings up to $100 per acre by using the rotary hoe. The rotary hoe equipped farm tractor saved from 7,000 in 1949 to almost 19,000 in 1950. Last year such equipment was used in 100,000 acres.

Elliott is a strong believer in using the rotary hoe for weed control. He is quick to point out how the rotary hoe operator is driving the tractor at a slow speed. He says the tractor should be driven at speeds up to five or six miles an hour and even faster under favorable conditions with an experienced operator.

With the wheel adjustments, he says the rotary hoe will break the surface of the soil to one-half to three-fourths of an inch deep. This breaks up the surface crust but does not break up the soil so that seedling weeds and grasses are not killed by the action of the sun and wind and have a chance to come through the ground or before their root systems become established.

He reports that many farmers reduce the ground speed of the tractor because they are afraid of covering up the small cotton plants or damaging them as a result of the thoroughly torn up soil surface. Tests made by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the results of demonstrations conducted by farmers, he says, have proved that such damage will not occur if the rotary hoe is properly adjusted. The cotton seed was planted well below the regulated depth at which the picker wheels should be run and thus very little or no damage will occur.

Cross-cultivating or using a mechanical cotton chopper are two other mechanical practices which have been successfully used in some sections of the state for cutting the b-wing and chopping bill. About the latest thing for early grass and weed control in cotton is the use of special oils. These oils are more commonly known as post-emergence non-fertilized oil and dinitro. Elliott reports that research is continuing on this project but sufficient information is available to indicate that the use of post-emergence oil and pre-emergence dinitro sprays are practical weed and grass control measures in some sections of the state.

Elliott suggests that cotton producers contact the local county agent for the latest information on labor saving practices that may be used in producing cotton.

Generally speaking, each spouse has the right to control and dispose of his or her own separate property. You will recall that the separate property of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired by either after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Aside from the ordinary community estate, there is a class of property known as the wife's "special community," which includes all the income from her separate real property, and probably the interest on bonds or notes, and dividends on stocks owned in her separate right. While the husband may have similar assets, the law accords them no particular distinction from ordinary community property.

Although the history of the matter is somewhat confusing, it appears that under present day law the husband has control of ordinary community property; but control of the wife's special community property is reserved to her.

Certain restrictions are imposed upon both husband and wife in exercising such control. For instance, the husband cannot legally dispose of community property in such a way as to defraud the wife, nor can he sell the homestead without her signature and acknowledgment. And the wife's sale or mortgage of her separate real estate, stocks or bonds is not valid unless her husband joins with her in the transaction—he must sign and execute the necessary legal papers along with her.

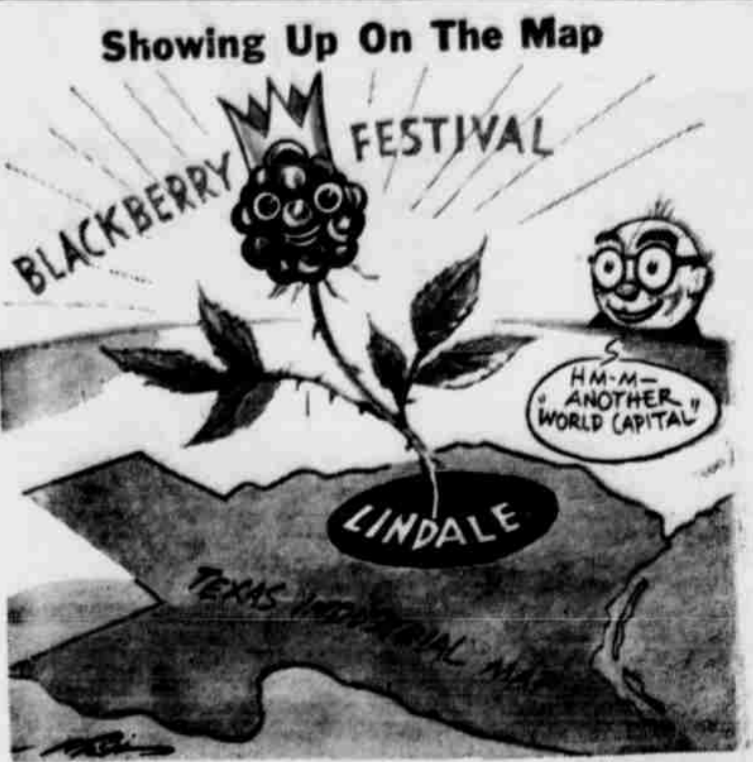

Such limitations appear to be a product of those earlier and more chivalrous days in which the shel-

Amherst School Coach Resigns

A. D. Shavor resigned recently as head coach of the Amherst High school effective at the end of the school year.

He has accepted a similar position at Seagraves High school and he and his wife and son, Danny, will move there on May 24. He will be in charge of a summer recreation program at Seagraves.

During the three years in Amherst he has been very popular with the people, both in and out of school circles. His teams have won a majority of the games played since he has been there and it is with genuine regret that the students and citizens alike see him leave.

Many a Texan is smacking his lips over news from Lindale, the Blackberry Capitol of the World. This up and coming Smith County town, which has been canning and shipping blackberries since 1888, is getting ready to hold the First Annual Blackberry Festival on Friday and Saturday, May 30-31, according to Lenis W. Pierce Jr., festival chairman. Anyone who has eaten blackberries, wild or tame, will want to go to Lindale for the celebration. A bumper crop is in prospect this year and a million pounds of berries may be processed in the area this season.

The celebration at Lindale has an appetizing appeal. Before long this festival will take its place with those that have brought fame to other East Texas communities. It may be as renowned as the Rose Festival at Tyler, the Forest Festival at Lufkin, the Yamboree at Gilmer, the Tomato Festival at Jacksonville and the Watermelon Festival at Mineola.

Pretty Elizabeth Bowdoin, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowdoin, will reign as the first Blackberry Queen. She is to be crowned Friday night, May 30 at 10 o'clock, at which time the Queen and her Court, consisting of Duchesses from other East Texas cities will be presented to festival visitors in the new $75,000 high school gymnasium.

Worth Of Health Protection

is a year of health protection worth to you? Is it worth to you to have maintained a control over flies, mosquitoes, rats, and other vermin. How much is it worth to you to have child conferences and superintendents in your town? Is it worth to you to know that your children are protected and that it is fit for human consumption? Is it worth to you to have the tuberculosis chest x-ray service, the venereal disease control organization, and the health department? Is it worth to you to insure that your city water is free of contamination? Those public health workers who teach expectant mothers how to care for their new babies—what are they worth to you as an individual? Is it worth to you to have a single pack of cigarettes?

That's exactly what Texans are paying for health services today—26 cents a year per capita. And there are many other services besides those mentioned.

It isn't enough to pay for the sort of health protection State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox would like to see Texans have. Out of every tax dollar collected in this state, about one cent is spent on the protection of public health.

"Too much economy in health work is dangerous," the health official cautioned.

With the expenditure of fifty cents per capita, Texas could approach the national average in this country, Dr. Cox said. As things stand today, Texas is near the bottom among the states in the amount spent for health work.

"When you cripple a health department by fund cutting, you end up with more—rather than less—expense. Money put into public health is repaid many times over in reduced sickness and lives saved," Dr. Cox said.

IT NEVER FAILS

Smorgasbord Snacks For Parties

Simple and easily prepared party refreshments can be adapted from the popular Swedish Smorgasbord. An assortment of zesty snacks tastefully arranged for help-yourself serving with tall glasses of sparkling beer make an attractive though informal set-up.

A simplified version of the highly seasoned meat, fish, egg and cheese smorgasbord specialties can be whisked together quickly from supplies at hand. Such tasty tidbits as deviled eggs, spiced ham and pretzel stick kabobs—made simply by pressing slim pretzel sticks into cubes of spiced ham—chilled shrimp with cocktail "dunking" sauce and rarebit spread with crackers take on festive airs when arranged artistically for party serving.

Make up an extra supply of the rarebit spread to keep on hand in the refrigerator for unexpected guests. Served hot or cold to spread on crisp crackers, this cheese mixture is easy, inexpensive and has the tangy flavor of genuine Welsh rarebit.

Creamy Welsh Rarebit Spread
 1/2 lb. sharp processed cheese
 1/2 cup beer
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce dash tabasco sauce
 few grains paprika

Put whole piece of cheese and the beer in top of double boiler over boiling water. Cover and let cheese melt, stirring occasionally, until thickened and smooth—about 10 to 15 minutes. Add seasonings. Serve hot or pour into jar, cover with foil and store in refrigerator for serving cold. Will keep two to three weeks in refrigerator. Makes 1 1/4 cups of spread.

TEEN TALK

Looking for a wife? One who has all those old-fashioned qualifications—cook, seamstress and homemaker? Well, boys, don't despair. Thousands of young ladies are being trained in the gracious old art of homemaking by the Girls' Clubs of America.

As a matter of fact one of their number, pretty Barbara Faye Swanson, 19, of Jamestown, N.Y., has been elected "Young Homemaker of the Year."

She was picked for the title as candidate from her local girls' club—one of the 42 girls' clubs which participated in the contest at the behest of the American Mothers Committee of the Golden Rule Foundation who decided to select the country's outstanding young homemaker this year for the first time.

The group believes that since today's teenagers are tomorrow's mothers, they should be encouraged to have incentive in home activities now.

Barbara is a good example of what the girls' clubs are trying to accomplish. She cooks, sews, makes her own party dresses and blouses, and believes it or not, she enjoys washing dishes! Says Barbara:

"Dish washing doesn't need to be a hard job—one of the things you learn at the club. We don't even try to take shortcuts to dishwashing. Sometimes the long way around is more fun. We sing songs and tell stories as we dry the dishes, and it doesn't seem like so much of a chore."

Members of the Girls' Clubs of America, says Barbara, probably do have an advantage when it comes to dates, because they can entertain their dates with some pretty fine cooking. Says she:

"I've learned one thing—boys like meat and potatoes. Fill them

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Cargile Jr. and daughter of Amherst left Thursday for Fort Worth, where they attended the graduation exercises of her sister, Sue Braun, who graduated from City and County Hospital School of Nursing in Fort Worth, Friday evening.

up on those and they'll be happy. Hamburgers, hot dogs and potato salad are other favorites. The best of all is to let a boy raid the icebox. He'll enjoy that better than any fancy dish.

Barbara's current beau, whom she describes as "6 feet 3 inches tall, blond, blue-eyed and handsome," is positively embarrassed because everyone is referring to him now as the "boyfriend of the young homemaker," says Barbara.

He is the athletic type who enjoys sports, particularly baseball, she says, and she endorses his selection of pastimes. Her first few minutes in New York were spent writing "Chuck" a letter.

Barbara's mother has been family breadwinner since Barbara was nine, which leaves some of the responsibility to the young homemaker. Her mother leaves home about 6:30 a.m. to go to a local tool company where she works, and Barbara supervises the activities of younger sister Sandra, whom she describes as a "little wild" and interested in "different" amusements such as tap dancing and baton twirling. Barbara's hobbies include debating, collecting records and miniature dog curios.

Sister Sandra is a member of the Girls' Club, also, which takes girls from 5 to 16. It is said to be the only organization in the world with a daily leisure time program for girls.

Blue-eyed Barbara, who is 5'6" tall with curly light-brown hair and a pretty figure, won a scholarship of $200 for any college of her choice and a complete outfit and luggage given by Jamestown's leading department store as a result of winning the contest.

She has a good sense of humor, reserving most of her chuckles for suggestions intimating that homemaking is hard work. Barbara doesn't think so. She explains:

"Of course anything seems difficult if you build obstacles and keep thinking of the tasks as big problems. But if you take the attitude that housework can be fun, you'll never mind it."

See what we mean, boys—

Margie Gregg and Frank Poyner Exchange Wedding Vows Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Gregg are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margie to Frank Poyner, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Poyner of Lubbock, which took place Tuesday night, May 20, at 8:30 o'clock, at Highway Church of Christ in Littlefield.

John R. Freeman, minister of 17th and Avenue "N" Church of Christ Lubbock who officiated at the wedding of the bride's parents, nearly 20 years ago, performed the ceremony Tuesday night.

Wedding vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with a jade tree, flanked by candelabra, and baskets of pink gladioli.

Hansy and Marlin Poyner, brothers of the groom lighted the white tapers.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a nub-lined suit, and white accessories, including a white lace hat. Her corsage was of white rosebuds and feverfew.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. R. W. Poyner Jr., of Lubbock, who wore a navy suit with pink accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

R. W. Poyner Jr., of Lubbock, brother of the groom served as best man. Ushers were F. T. Black of Lubbock, and Olan Mahaffey of Hart Camp.

The bride's mother wore a black and white crepe dress, with black accessories, and wore a corsage of red rosebuds. Mrs. Poyner, mother of the groom was attired in a black crepe dress and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents at 702 E. 12th street. The bride's table, laid with a lace cloth was centered with an arrangement of yellow and blue iris. The two tiered wedding cake, was decorated with blue roses. Baskets of pink gladioli formed a background for the table. Assisting in the house party at the reception were the bride's aunt, Misses Ora Garrett of Lubbock, Minnie Faye Weasche, Patricia Byrn, and Reba Kirby, and Mrs. Roy Wells, a cousin of the bride.

After the reception the couple left on a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M. They returned home Thursday afternoon, and left Friday for Grand Prairie, where the groom, who is a Church of Christ Evangelist, will hold a two weeks revival service.

Mrs. Poyner is a member of the 1952 graduating class of Littlefield High school.

Meat Loaf Takes Spring Style

Diced cooked ham and grated American cheese molded with unflavored gelatin hearten the dinner at a spring day meal. This main course loaf extends a last portion of ham to family size portions. It has interesting texture, too, because the meat and cheese are skillfully blended by the gelatine with crisp celery and sweet pickle, another example of gel-cookery. Parsley potatoes and asparagus complete this dinner with the seasonal compliments of spring.

Molded Ham And Cheese Loaf

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 1/2 cup cold water
 1/4 cup hot water
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup vinegar
 1/4 cup diced celery
 1/4 cup diced sweet pickle
 1 cup grated American cheese
 1 cup diced cooked ham

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add hot water and salt and stir until dissolved. Add vinegar. Chill until the mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Mix in celery and pickle; divide mixture into two parts; to one add the grated cheese, to the other the diced ham. Turn ham mixture into loaf pan and chill until almost firm; add cheese mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens and serve with tomato wedges. YIELD: 6 servings.

Tourists Wonder

Tourists look at them and wonder what they are. So far as known here, no book ever had been published telling the story of these flowering plants. Now the Woman's Club of Havana, a non-profit organization composed largely of women from the United States, has published such a book. It is called "Flowering Plants from Cuban Gardens." The volume contains 124 drawings, with explanatory text in English and Spanish. The book was written and illustrated by members of the Garden Section of the Woman's Club. Some of them had been gathering material since the garden group was formed in 1939.

Common in Tropics

Some of the flowering trees described in the book are familiar to everyone who has visited tropical areas. There is the royal poinciana, 40 to 50 feet high, which spreads its branches in the form of a huge lacy umbrella, adorned by brilliant scarlet flowers.

Among the better known shrubs are the poinsettia, which a South Carolina diplomat named J. R. Poinsett found in Mexico many years ago, and made famous. Now it has become popular in the United States as a Christmas flower and pot plant. In Cuba, the poinsettia reaches heights of about 10 to 15 feet.

The night blooming cereus is a source of astonishment. In the summer months, it blooms around 8 p.m.

Flower Trembles

When the bloom begins to open, it trembles noticeably at times. Then, slowly, the flower begins to appear. The flower is a foot long, waxy, and funnel-shaped. The blossom closes about 10 a.m. the next day, never to reopen again.

The shaving brush tree has buds that look like big cigars. The flower is in the shape of a brush. It blooms just at nightfall for four to

High School Wildcat Band Enjoy Picnic

Littlefield High School Wildcat Band members and several members of the Band Parents Club, with Don Hayes, band director spent a most enjoyable afternoon and evening, Thursday, when the entire group held a picnic at Mackenzie State Park, Lubbock.

The group left the band hall at 3 p.m., making the trip in several private cars. A picnic supper, games and swimming was enjoyed.

six weeks in February and March.

Fence posts are no problem in Cuba. Cuttings of live fence post several feet long and 2 inches thick may be set out in one season, and become living fence posts the next. The posts bloom in January and February.

The posts grow 10 to 15 feet tall. The tree is widely used for shade and its hard, beautifully marbled wood is used in furniture manufacture.

Vine Traps Flies

A vine that traps flies and forces them to distribute its pollen is the rooster plant. Its 7-inch flowers, light green and purple, look like little roosters. The plant has a faint fetid odor which attracts flies.

The fly follows his nose into a v-shaped lip, lined with stiff hairs, and finds himself trapped. There the fly buzzes about in a frenzy, gets himself well powdered with pollen.

Then nature performs a strange trick. The stiff hairs collapse, and the fly finds a way out.

Budget Stretcher—New Ice Cream Balls

Sugar-crisped Ice Cream Balls—a glamorous dessert for a May Shower (for the June bride, of course), for that special Spring luncheon party, or as a quick-and-easy finishing touch to any festive meal.

Refreshing as Spring itself and just as appealing are these balls of ice cream, rolled in sugar-crisped wheat cereal and coconut—then topped with a rich, smooth chocolate sauce. Whether the ice cream is home-made or bought at the corner store, all you will need is one pint to serve five, since the toppings will make it go farther.

Another nice thing about this party dessert is that it requires so little advance preparation. You can toast the coconut and make the sauce the day before. The ice cream will keep in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator until you are ready for it. Then, when dessert time arrives, refrigerate until you are ready for it. Then, when dessert time arrives, refrigerate until you are ready for it. Then, when dessert time arrives, refrigerate until you are ready for it. Then, when dessert time arrives, refrigerate until you are ready for it.

Sugar-crisped Ice Cream Balls
 1 cup candy-coated puffed wheat cereal
 1/4 cup coconut, toasted
 1 pint vanilla ice cream
 Chocolate sauce

Combine cereal and toasted coconut in small bowl. Shape ice cream into balls and roll in cereal and coconut mixture. Place one ball in each serving dish. Serve at once with chocolate sauce. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

The signal light for the purely mechanical functions of the body is located in the medulla oblongata, the stalk of the brain; as it turns into the spinal column high in the neck. Lots of wires feed into the signal light and lots of wires feed out of it, but the center of the light is there in the medulla.

Three areas called vital centers are the most vital part of the brain. Without them there cannot be even the most elementary function of the body because they control the beating function of the heart, the inhaling and exhaling of respiration, and the contraction and dilatation of the blood vessels. They set the signal for the ins and outs, the gives and takes of the body, the motions that start up other motions that keep life in the body.

These nerve centers in the medulla may be considered the ignition of the body and since your body keeps functioning all the time, this ignition is always "on." There are other nerve centers in the medulla, too, such as the signals for vomiting, sneezing, coughing, hiccupping and swallowing.

On top of the medulla, separated from it by a thin piece of "skin," is the big stalk of the brain, called the pons. If the medulla can be considered as the roots of a tree, the pons would be the trunk, and the cerebrum would be the branches and leaves. A slight offshoot of the main tree lies just to the back of the head, behind the medulla and under the cerebrum—this is the cerebellum.

The cranial nerves loop from the outside (the eyes, ears, and nose), into the middle of the tree, and stir it up like a breeze, creating ideas, impulses and motions of the cerebrum. Then those leaves and branches of the cerebrum absorb some of the "atmosphere" of the breeze and feed it into the tree trunk, the pons, and on into the roots, the medulla.

The cerebellum, back behind the medulla, is thought to be more of a regulator of muscular action than anything else; when any group of muscles starts getting out of control, the cerebellum is thought to serve as a "brake" for that action, and when any group starts slowing down too much, the cerebellum is believed to be the area which may step things up a bit. Action of the body is believed to originate in the cerebrum, the tree-top of the brain, but the control of that action is believed to originate in the cerebellum, the offshoot of the main tree. When the cerebrum sends messages to the roots of the brain, the medulla, the messages are switched over to the spinal column, which controls the actions of the body. This "switch" is a literal transaction. The nerve centers from the right side of the brain are twisted around there in the medulla and become part of the left side of the spinal column, and the opposite is true of the left-sided cranial nerves. The medulla is where the transition takes place whereby the right side of the brain controls the left side of the body and the left side of the brain controls the right side of the body.

And while messages from the brain are being sent down into the spinal column, quicker than you can say "Jack Robinson," the body is also sending messages from the spinal column up to the roots, trunk and tree-top.

In the bloodstream, the vessels that carry blood away from the heart are called arteries and the vessels that carry blood to the heart are called veins. In the nervous system, the tracts that carry nerve impulses away from the brain are called efferent nerves and the tracts that carry nerve impulses to the brain are called afferent nerves.

Tangy Molded Salad

Cool looking and pretty as can be, with the sparkle of gelatin and ginger ale, is this molded salad. So many combinations of fruits and vegetables can be used in molded salads that they can be served often and each time the flavor will be different. Gelatin salads provide an excellent way to use small quantities of left over fruits, juices and vegetables, too.

The addition of pale dry ginger ale gives gelatin salads an unusual flavor and tang that makes them "different" and appealing to the appetite. A gelatin fruit salad can double as dessert, if you serve it with whipped cream.

Cherry-Banana Salad.
 1/2 cup pitted canned black cherries
 1 package raspberry gelatin
 1/4 cup hot cherry juice
 1 1/2 cups pale dry ginger ale
 1/2 cup orange juice
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1/2 cup sliced bananas

Drain cherries, reserve juice. Dissolve gelatin in hot cherry juice. Add pale dry ginger ale, orange juice and lemon juice. Chill until syrupy. Fold in cherries and bananas. Pour into mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until set. Unmold on bed of watercress or crisp greens. Garnish with whole cherries. Serve with mayonnaise or cream dressing. Salad may be served as a dessert with whipped cream.

ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING

The car that wears its own Sun Glasses

2-Door, 6-passenger Super Riviera.

You find this "eye shade" band of darker color only on the genuine "Easy-Eye Glass" pioneered by Buick, and all glass used in Buicks is ripple-free, ground and polished plate safety glass.

YOU may have to look twice to see it—but a lot of the new Buicks have a soft blue-green tone in all glass areas—plus a slightly darker band which shades down from the top of the windshield.

And you have no idea what comfort all this adds to hot-weather driving.

Its name is "Easy-Eye Glass"—which tells only half the story. While it filters out 18% of the glare (and tones down the dazzle of oncoming headlights at night)—it also cuts down sun-heat as much as 50%.

So it's the best cure we know for hot laps in summer driving, when the sun beats down on the windshield.

Maybe you'd like to try this out before you buy your next car.

And while you're trying it out—you can also discover how it feels to boss around a Fireball 8 Engine, that puts its own exclusive added wallop into a high-compression valve-in-head power plant.

You can sample the sure-footed way a Buick settles into a curve—the way the front wheels seem to seek their course automatically—the smooth surge and falterless ease with which Dynaflo Drive* feeds the power—the level confidence of Buick's million dollar ride.

You can get an idea also of the room, the comfort, the smartness, the thrill that your dollars buy in this brilliant performer.

So why not arrange for a demonstration soon?

Phillips 66 To Build Modern New Station On South Phelps Avenue

Work is scheduled to begin about June 1 on construction of a complete new filling station for Phillips 66, located on the site of the present Phillips 66 service station on South Phelps Avenue, directly across the street from Britain Pharmacy, according to W. E. Heathman, Phillips wholesale agent.

The complete lot which runs back to Littlefield Drive will be used for station operation. Scheduled in the building will include a complete washing and greasing unit, restrooms, and a large office and storage space. Six electric pumps will be installed, to afford fast and convenient service for patrons.

The present station, which has been operated as a Phillips station continuously for the past 30 years, is probably one of the oldest established service stations in the city. It is now owned and operated by Harry Williams.

Jaycee Rodeo

(Continued from Page 1) Numerous bands have also been invited, and that they are now lining up float entries, with prizes to be awarded for the best floats and trophies for bands and poses entered.

Rodeo—both senior and junior, and selection of the tiny cowboy and cowgirl, are other pre-rodeo highlights which are attracting more than normal attention, and the winners will be judged and announced in ample time, so that the winners can be ready to lead or ride in the parade. The Littlefield Roping Club is handling this phase of the rodeo.

Dancing To Be Featured

This year's rodeo in addition to providing the best rodeo entertainment in rodeoland, is not neglecting another always popular rodeo days attraction—namely dancing. Arrangements have been made for big dances each of the three nights, and the Coca Cola warehouse adjacent to the rodeo grounds has been leased for the dance and dancers. Special dance music will be provided by the LaVista dance band of Clovis. R. E. Mitchell is head committeeman in charge of this feature.

Whiskers are becoming a common sight on local streets the past few days, and despite the lack of rain, those whiskers are flourishing. Also flourishing is the Jaycee treasury, through the sale of anti-whisker permits at $2 each from ordinary business men, but if they happen to be Jaycees, it's higher—$5 or a self-evident crop of whiskers, not to be removed until the night of Saturday, June 14. Jaycees however, do get one break. The club voted free rodeo grounds admission to all Jaycee members and their wives.
