The Lamb County Sheriff's posse decided at their regular Monday night that they will take charge of the parade, and have invited riding groups from several neighboring counties. V. M. (Pete) Peterson, president of the Fair association, announced at the Possee meeting that he would contribute a trophy for the best riding group, and the Possee agreed to furnish another.

City Park Beautification Work to Be Enlarged, Program Is Planned

The city beautification committee of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce will meet at 11:30 a. m. Friday at Hays Coffee Shop.

The meeting was called by J. E. Chisholm, Jr., chairman of the beautification committee.

Chief consideration of the committee will be the enlargement of the beautification program at City Park and the advancement of beautification work at the Fair grounds.

The beautification committee is tuning their program with that of the City of Littlefield, in so far as City Park is affected.

Sewer lines are being laid into the park to hook up with a lift station which will be built in the center of the park by the City of Littlefield. This station will handle sewage pumping for a portion of the west side of the city and will provide drainage for the park, most of which has been filling with water from heavy rains.

Car Parking Areas
Tentative plans provide for the sodding down of unimproved portions of the park, carrying the work toward the central and lift section of the park.

Automobiles will be permitted in only a small portion of the park. All entrances will be closed to automobile traffic except on the west side. Those entrances will give access to two parking areas a short distance inside the park.

Fair Grounds Work
An important beautification program has been started at the fair grounds. It is planned to improve all the area north of the driveway into the grounds. Sodding has been started and additional work is planned.

Mrs. McGuire Buys Gee's Beauty Shop Equipment

Mrs. Vestal Lee McGuire has purchased the Gee's Beauty Shop equipment, and moved it to the McGuire home, eight miles north on highway 51, one-half east and one-half north of Littlefield, where she invites her friends and neighbors of that area to visit her for their beauty needs.

Mrs. McGuire is an experienced operator, and before coming to Littlefield was employed in a Lubbock beauty shop.

Ed Botsford Rode for Buffalo Bill, 101 Ranch, Citizen Here Since '29

WHITE EAGLE, chief of the Ponca Indians, is shown with Ed Botsford, now a resident of Littlefield. The snapshot was made many years ago while Botsford traveled with the Miller Brothers 101 Ranch shows, performing all over the U. S. and Mexico.

IMMIGRANT ACT of the famous wild west show in which Ed Botsford, Littlefield pioneer, played an important part. The snapshot above was made when the act was performed at Kansas City about twenty-five years ago. Botsford may be seen in the foreground, sixgun in hand. He was a personal friend of Buffalo Bill and the famed Annie Oakley.

Most of us see it in the movies. Some of us read it in books. Some of us hear others tell about it. But Ed Botsford did it.

During 81 years, Botsford, a resident here since 1929, became a personal friend of Buffalo Bill, Pawnee Bill, Annie Oakley, J. Frank Dobie, Porfirio Diaz (president of Mexico), Craley Russell and even met on one occasion, the notorious "Calamity" Jane.

He rode through Lamb County when Littlefield consisted of the bald prairie. That was in 1888.

But the story really has its beginning long before that.

Born June 22, 1869, at Champaign, Illinois, Botsford spent his early life working for his uncle on a farm at Raymond, Kansas — working all day and part of the night for the tremendous salary of $10.00 per month.

Tiring of that kind of life, he wandered down into Oklahoma and began punching cattle — the occupation he would grow to love as the years rolled by. He was driving a herd of cattle when he entered Texas in 1888. Soon after he left this state he followed the trail all the way up to the Milk River country in Montana, where he remained until 1893.

While in Montana he became personally acquainted with Charlie Russell, the greatest cowboy artist who ever lived. Charlie gave him several paintings, which he, in turn, gave to other friends — among them J. Frank Dobie, famed Texas writer.

In 1893 he boarded a cattle train bound for the Windy City — Chi-ago — and stayed with it. That was the real beginning of the series of colorful experiences he was destined to know during the next forty years.

In Chicago he became associated with the Buffalo Bill show and traveled with it through all the United States for the next 17 years. He worked as rider, actor, Indian caretaker and master of the arena. He had a way with Indians. Knew them. Knew how to treat them and how to make them perform. That payed off.

LAST DUTY

(A Short Story)
By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

WHEN Aaron Howard and Jill Damon were married they went to live on the ranch on Grand Wash that Aaron had inherited from his father. Both loved the place, for the West was their native land. They were supremely happy. Two years after their marriage a son, Phil, was born, and 18 months later a second son came. They named him Roger.

The children, as is so often the case, did not detract from the affection between Aaron and Jill. Theirs was a love that went deeper. If anything, they came to depend more on each other for comfort and understanding. Aaron's only request of life, and Jill's, too, was that they could die together, that one would not be left behind to carry on without the help of the other.

But this was not to be. Phil was 22 and Roger 16 when Jill contracted pneumonia. A week later she died.

Aaron kept on, finding an outlet as much as possible for his natural affectionate nature in his sons. He dedicated the remainder of his life to their upbringing, yet never feeling quite free of the emptiness the ache that ached in his heart for Jill.

When Phil was 24 he fell in love with a neighboring rancher's daughter named Janice Aaron. Unhappily Janice had already won the affections of her father's foreman, Jed Potter. Jed was older than Phil, a headstrong, ill-tempered youth, resentful of young Phil Howard's greater resources and better prospects.

Aaron, now past middle age, watching developments in the wisdom of his years, saw storm clouds appearing on his son's horizon. Yet he withheld the advice which perhaps should have been given. He thought of his own courtship of Jill. He, like Phil, would never have let a rival discourage him in his endeavor to win her affections.

Neither Aaron nor any one foresaw the tragedy which took place. Roger came galloping into the ranch house one morning with the news, Aaron saw the wild insanity in his younger son's eyes, yet even then the announcement was a terrific shock.

"Phil's dead," Roger said hollowly. "He was shot by Jed Potter. Potter was drunk and Jed came into the Red Dog and Jed made some slurring remark about Janice and Phil slapped his face. Jed had a gun and Phil was unarmed, but Jed shot him just the same."

As Roger talked he was buckling on the belt and six-shooter that he usually wore when on the range. Aaron came toward him quickly. He felt numb all over. He knew what Roger had in mind.

Aaron knew then how he had failed Jill. One of her boys dead; the other about to commit a crime that would bring him to the same end. The old man's heart felt like lead, yet through his misery he saw the determination in Roger's face and knew that nothing would deter the boy until his brother's killing had been avenged.

"All right, boy," he said quietly. "I understand. We'll go together." And Aaron went and got his own gun and followed his son down to the corral.

They were up and off at dawn. Toward late afternoon they crossed a trail and followed it. They entered a ravine and presently Aaron pointed to a spiral of smoke above the trees. Roger's mouth set grimly. He swung to the ground. Aaron did likewise. They crept up a rise and parted some bushes and saw Jed Potter hovering over a fire. Side by side they crept down the slope and suddenly stepped through some shrubbery and confronted Jed Potter 15 feet away. Roger was in the lead, Aaron behind and to the right.

Jed Potter looked at them and fear leaped into his eyes. He started to speak, checked himself. Roger's hand was on his gun. There was no alternative. Jed went for his own gun and died in his tracks, his weapon half-drawn, a bullet through his heart.

Old Aaron entered the sheriff's office alone and told his story.

... And so while Roger slept that night I loaded his .45 with blanks. We shot at Jed together. You'll find that the bullet that killed him was from my old .44. Roger doesn't know it's that way. He thinks he killed Jed. He's back at the ranch, waiting for you, sheriff. You needn't tell him how it happened; just say there's no way of proving he's the murderer. I want the boy to live. I want something left behind on this earth that's clean and fine and honest—like Jill."

"Wait a minute," said the sheriff. "I don't get it Aaron—" He started forward, but Aaron's old .44 had performed its second duty within 12 hours, and Aaron lay on the floor with blood on his shirt and a smile on his lips—as if at last he felt he had done what Jill would have wanted, and was once more with her.

Announce Cut in County Tax Rate

Announcement has been made of the reduction of the county tax rate from 85 to 80 cents per hundred valuation, by the County Commissioners in regular session recently.

The reduction was made possible by elimination of a special five-cent road bond assessment that was in effect last year, a county-wide levy on a 1936 road bond issue. County Judge Otha Dent explained that there is sufficient money in the sinking fund to service this issue for the next two years.

The 1950 80-cent tax rate is broken down as follows: General fund, 25 cents; courthouse and jail, 25 cents; jury fund, 15; and road and bridge fund, 15.

The state tax rate for the county is 72 cents and the county-wide same as last year. These added precinct levy is 15 cents, both the to the 80-cent county rate brings the total to $1.67 per hundred valuation.

The four road district levies will remain the same as last year, when a 25 per cent reduction was made. The assessments are as follows: Road district 1-A (two issues) 30 and 50 cents; District 3, 75 cents; District 4, 81; and District 6, 60 cents.

Classes will meet from early morning till late at night on the Baylor University campus this fall.

Better Buy Buick!

YOU CAN SEE here how smart it is —don't have to be told that it's the most quickly identified car on the road today.

You probably know that the engine under that broad bonnet is a Fireball straight-eight valve-in-head engine and a lively stepper in any company.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT—This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

You can check the abundance of its room by the simple expedient of taking the family and trying out its spaciousness at the nearest Buick dealer's—and a very few minutes on the open road will satisfy you that all-coil springing, low-pressure tires and Buick's torque-tube drive really do produce a ride that is matchless for its soft comfort.

BUT RIGHT NOW, it may be that the money angle is the thing uppermost in your mind, and on that we'd like to make two points:

All our records go to show that this is the most economical Buick ever built. It is easy on gas, on oil, on tires, on upkeep.

And if you choose it with Dynaflo

Drive,* it immediately eliminates all chance of friction-clutch repair and replacement—not to mention greatly reducing rear-axle and transmission maintenance.

Best of all, your initial outlay is a highly favorable one—whatever Buick you buy. For these brawny straight-eights—built rugged and solid for durable service—are priced at a level that makes them a standout buy in any price class.

Convicts Tell Their Own Story

We here in the "free world" may think we know what goes on in the minds and souls of the men whose freedom is gone. But we don't. Only those who have felt the sting of punishment inflicted by a society in which they did not adapt themselves can understand what prison life means. And they alone can express their understanding — emphasize enough the necessity for adapting themselves for life on the "outside."

For that reason we — sitting way out here on the free South Plains — leave the telling of the forthcoming Prison Rodeo at Huntsville to the men who will make the rodeo, the convicts themselves.

The following quotations are from the inmate-printed and inmate-edited Echo, published at Huntsville. The beauty of the language therein shows what these men might have done — and may still do in the "free world."

"Something in the make-up of these same inmates, many of whom could not pass the challenge presented by the rules and laws laid down by society, cannot resist the challenge presented by the horse or bull that that can't be ridden. That is the same something that makes the show great. At the same time makes possible numerous benefits and activities to make the time spent in prison more bearable and at the same time beneficial to most of them."

"Net proceeds from this 19th Annual Prison Rodeo will go to the inmates Educational and Recreational fund, known as the E&R, as it has in years past. Of the $26,000 net profit realized on the 1949 show, $17,856.51 was credited for educational work thus making possible a school system which includes compulsory classes for illiterates, higher grades for those who wish to attend, and correspondence courses from leading national schools. Books, magazines and newspapers are thus provided for the library. Another $15,000 went to recreation sides such as motion pictures, baseball and other sports equipment. For the religious needs of inmates $2,500 a year is spent on chaplain travel to the various units of the system."

"This show has to be seen to be appreciated. At the Dallas presentation of the Prison Rodeo in June, this writer overheard one of the "free world" cowboys talking to one of the inmate contestants. The Grand Entree had just been completed and he was asking for an explanation of the first event which is called, "The Mad Scramble." The inmate told him that it was just a simple little event. Ten riders would come out of the chutes at the same time on ten wild brahman bulls, and the one that rode down the arena and across the finish line first would be declared the winner. Without further ado, this "free world" cowboy started running down the line telling his running mates to get of the fence and out of the arena because those crazy fools were going to turn ten riders and ten bulls loose at the very same time and that this was no safe place to be. And that, folks, is just the beginning of some twenty odd events loaded with thrills, chills and spills for both contestants and spectators alike."

"We boast and rightly so, that we have not only the toughest riders, but the toughest and toughest bunch of stock that could possibly be gathered together anywhere. All of the stock belongs to the System, and for many months out of the year they do nothing but roam the open range. They may not even see a man from one rodeo till the next. When the meeting does occur, you can be assured that it is not a jorum one, and the only thing they have on their mind is getting that man off

HIGH, WIDE AND HANDSOME — Action like this can be expected when wild stock and outlaw riders tangle in the 19th annual Texas Prison Rodeo to be held October 1, 8, 15, 22, 29th, at Prison Stadium in Huntsville, Texas.

GOREE GIRLS' STRING BAND — The popular "Goree Girls" String Band" will be one of the featured musical attractions of the 19th Annual Texas Prison Rodeo, to be held in Prison Stadium at Huntsville, Texas, each Sunday in October.

their backs and "join" back to whor they come from." And in the case of the Brahman bulls, they like to leave little souvenirs such as broken arms and legs to remember them by. Sentimental creatures, huh?"

"Throughout the show, between convict events, there are some of the country's top professional acts which are interspersed for variety and spice. You'd probably have to see a dozen different free world shows to get half the entertainment and variety that you can get in two hours on a Sunday afternoon in Huntsville. From the very first event, "The Mad Scramble," which is often termed the most dangerous event in rodeo circles to "The Wild Chariot Race," which closes the show, there is never a dull moment. Music is provided almost constantly, before, during and after the show by three different musical organizations of the System. The Texas Prison Military Band, The Goree Girls String Band, and the Prison Stringsters, will join together to keep your feet tapping from the time you get within sight of the arena until you are ready to leave."

"Perhaps you folks "out there" wonder what we inmates of the Texas Prison System think of "our" rodeo, and what it feels like to look upon the huge throngs attending the biggest show of its kind in the world."

"Well, dear readers, we have infinite pride in the show, and practically live for it the year round. The boys participating take good physical care of themselves especially "round rodeo time. All inmates look to the rodeo as though it is a world series, or the Army-Navy game."

"As for you, "out there" it gives us just a little nostalgia for the things that used to be, and for some, the things that are to be. But in all we see the color of the crowd, the gaiety of its laughter, and the rousing applause you give the performers. Just to see you in the stands revives in us, the knowledge that the world is still good to some. Your faces, your clothes, the way you talk and walk, bring memories that bless and burn of family and loved ones."

"So that is how we feel, and may you be in the stands to witness the greatest show on earth, with us — and may the good Lord take a likin' to you."

Come and see it for yourself! There's Nothing Else Like It! It's the Southwest's Most Famous Show!

Little Otter's Lemonade Stand

By FAITH HELEN FAUST

Little Otter sat thinking in the sun. He lived in a burrow by the pond in a big forest. He was thinking how he would be able to get some money to buy a notebook for school.

He could get one, a red one, for $3.50. That was a lot of money.

Suddenly, Little Otter jumped up and shouted, "I've got it! I've got it! I'm going to make a lemonade stand!"

Little Otter raced into the house. He got 25c that he had saved and then he ran to the lumber yard. He got 10c worth of scrap lumber and 10c worth of lemons.

When Little Otter came home he got his hammer and some of his father's nails.

Little Otter soon had his lemonade stand built and his lemonade ready. He went into the house for some glasses.

Pottay Beaver was a jealous beaver. He put some hot pepper in Little Otter's lemonade. Little Otter saw him do it and poured it away.

"A-a-a phooie," thought Pottay as he went away and didn't return to bother Little Otter.

Little Otter worked for a week. He earned $3.40. All together from his allowance he had $3.90. Enough to buy a notebook and a pen! Little Otter was very happy and whenever he needed money he opened his lemonade stand again and everyone said he had good lemonade.

Information For Veterans

Q—As a Public Law 16 on-the-job trainee, I am required to submit a report of my earnings to the VA. In that report, am I supposed to include disability compensation pay I receive from VA?

A—No. You are required to report only earnings from productive labor.

Q—Is there any limit on the size of a GI home loan?

A—There's no limit on the size of the loan itself. The limit is on the amount which VA will guarantee or insure. For loans granted after April 20, 1950, VA guarantees 60 per cent of the loan, up to a maximum of $7,500.

Q—I am a widow receiving death pension for myself and my daughter. My daughter will be 18 this month, and is attending business school. Will I continue to receive a pension for her while she is in school?

A—Yes. So long as she is in an approved school, she will continue to receive pension — but not after she reaches her 21st birthday.

Q—May I receive both disability compensation and state benefits for old age?

A—Yes. VA has no restriction, so far as compensation is concerned.

Q—Is there a time limit within which I must file a request for a review of the character of my discharge from the Army?

A—Your application must be filed within 15 years after date of discharge or 15 years after June 22, 1944, whichever is the later.

Walters Rites Are Conducted After Death Caused by Plane Crash Burns

Joe Walters, 38, Littlefield citizen for 22 years, died at 2:30 a.m. Saturday in Payne-Shotwell hospital from injuries received when his crop-dusting Piper Cub plane crashed and burned shortly before noon Friday on the Y. T. Tomlinson farm, three and one-half miles east of Littlefield.

Graveside services were held Sunday at 3 p.m. for the popular Littlefield business man, who was a member of one of the county's pioneer families and was well-known throughout the area. John B. Freeman, elder of the Church of Christ at Lubbock officiated at the ceremony. Burial was under the direction of Hammons Funeral Home.

Born at Hagerman, New Mexico, in 1912, Walters lived there until he reached the age of 16 and moved with his family to Littlefield. He attended school here and has been associated with Walters Drug store since 1928. During the recent war he served as a flight instructor and was later assigned to the Transport Command. He is a graduate of the Texas School of Pharmacy. Prominent in Littlefield affairs, he was active in the aeronautical development of the county. He is a past president of the chamber of commerce and was secretary of the Rotary club at the time of his death.

Walters' death came as a shock to many citizens of the county, who remembered him as a quiet man, honest, sincere and hard-working.

He had been dusting crops with his brother, Edgar, who was in another plane. He had completed one round was coming in for the next when the plane struck an REA service line, caught fire and crashed.

His mother died August 1 of this year. Survivors, besides his brother, Edgar, include his wife, Mrs. Joe Walters; his father, Oscar of Abilene; a son, Joe A.; four sisters, Miss Bessie Walters and Mrs. Roxie Moore, both of Abilene, and Mrs. Guy West and Mrs. Elan Gage, both of California.

New Drive-In Theater to Be Built Immediately South of Littlefield

Littlefield's second drive-in theater will go into construction immediately by the Chesher interests of Littlefield, and will open on or about November 15 of this year, it was announced by Bill Chesher.

The new project will be located approximately one mile south of Littlefield on Highway 51. The Cheshers have purchased eight acres on the east side of Highway 51 from Alvin Spencer. The acreage is south and east of Spencer Grocery and Market.

Notice to Subscribers

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram has advised the Lamb County Leader that they will accept subscriptions or renewals to the Star-Telegram at bargain rates for a period of sixty days, notwithstanding the fact that newsprint is already scarce and hard to get.

This is especially good news in view of the fact that they do not know the outcome of the Korean war, or the increase in cost of production that may come as a result of it. However, it is not expected that these bargain rates will be extended past that period, so it will be wise to renew your subscription to the Star-Telegram now and take advantage of these bargain rates.

Americans Have "Tremendous Curiosity," Says Turk Farm Official Visiting Here

Americans are "friendly, fine fellows, often resemble Turkish people," and "have a "tremendous curiosity."

This is the impression left so far on Bay Nuret Madran of Izmir, Turkey, official of the Turkish Department of Agriculture, who is visiting in Lamb County this week studying American farming methods and the extension work of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

He is in the U. S. with a group of 28 employees of the Turkish Minister of Agriculture. The group was sent here under the ECA program to study the USDA methods of transmitting agricultural information to farmers.

Bay (Mister to you) Madran, a short man with dark hair and brown eyes, studied English in high school 15 years ago and had never practiced speaking the language until his arrival in the U. S. March 10 of this year. In an interview this week he "talked Turkish" in fluent English.

Bay Madran, who will remain in 1951, is being entertained by County Agent Dave Eaton during his stay in Lamb County. He will be in Texas until November 21, when he will attend the National Congress of 4-H Clubs at Chicago. After the Congress, he will go on to South Carolina for further study of American agriculture. Since his arrival in the U. S., and before coming to Texas, Madran observed farming methods and farmer education in Arkansas.

Madran, who says America is a "nice country," only wishes his family were with him. "A man gets homesick," he added.

A native of Izmir on the Aegean Sea in Western Turkey, Madran graduated from high school in 1934 and from the agricultural college at Ankara, the Turkish capital, in 1940. He held a position similar to that of county agent for a number of years. Before coming to America he was associated with a cotton sub-experiment station at Manisa.

Turkey, he says, is very westernized; a young republic, established in 1923. Farms there are small, carrying from 10 to 20 acres apiece. The farmers live in small villages and go out each day to till the soil.

The Turkish official reports that the teaching of modern farming methods to Turkish farmers is difficult because of illiteracy and the universal tendency of all farmers to reject "new-fangled" ideas.

County Agent Eaton, who was present at the interview with Madran, said, "That's nothing new. Farmers everywhere like to do their jobs the way they always have done them."

Many farmers in Turkey refuse to use steel plows, because they fear it would disturb the land. They prefer the ancient wooden plows, which stir the soil but do not turn it over completely.

There is very little mechanized farm equipment, Madran says, probably around 1,000 only slightly more than owned by Lamb County farmers. All mechanical implements are imported from the United States and other foreign countries, and the cost is "terrific." Horses, mules and oxen are used to cultivate the soil.

Small grains are the principal crops of Turkey. They include wheat, barley and oats. Other products are cotton, flax, corn, poppies, legumes, potatoes, olives, figs, grapes and citrus fruit.

The Turkish government expects in a short time to be able to install enough of modern farming information and methods into "Turk farms and farmers to improve the agricultural status of the country. The Marshall aid program has been especially beneficial for Turkey, the official said. It has speeded development to a great extent, building roads and bringing in new equipment.

Madran says he knew a little about American farming before coming here. However, he could not help feeling surprise for the great progress he observed in agriculture methods here. He had never seen a mechanical cotton picker, a sod-delivery rake nor several types of plows.

He expects to be assigned to the Turkish extension service on his return to his native land, but is not certain. "I am a government worker," he said. "And we never know our next job."

County Agent Eaton asked him if he had trouble reading menus. He replied that he did, adding that he simply ordered and waited to be surprised by what was served him.

All-in-all, he said Americans have a "friendly feeling" for stranger. They like jokes and are curious. "I feel very much at home," he concluded.

Former Students Tell What Distributive Education Means

By Bettye Ann Franz
During my senior year in high school I took Distributive Education which has helped me in several ways. After the second week of school I was placed in the ready-to-wear department at the J. C. Penney Co. store where I am employed at the present time.

Distributive Education enables a student to go to school and at the same time hold down a part time position of employment. The salary the student makes helps he or she meet the many expenses which arise during the school year. The course also gives a student experience in the selling field and will be a great asset to him when he finishes school and begins to look for a permanent position. It may be that through the course his training works into becoming his permanent work.

I am planning to attend business college the first of September and at the same time work part time. I believe my past experience as a Distributive Education student will help me in obtaining a position that I will enjoy.

I think any student that likes the selling field or plans to study any business should enroll as a Distributive Education student for the coming year.

Janet Brooks Dempsey
I took Distributive Education my senior year. I think that it helped me in many ways that my other courses did not.

We had a privilege that other classes, did not. We could go to school in the mornings and work at a training station in the afternoon and get two credits for the course.

We had a wonderful Distributive Education Club with our class. I was the D. E. sweetheart.

At the time school started I was employed at Perry Brothers Variety Store, but after school was out for the past summer I started to work at the J. C. Penney Company as a window decorator.

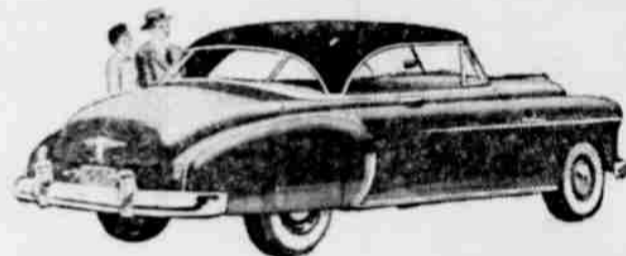

I like it very much, and I think Distributive Education was what helped me attain the advance and promotion in my work.

EMMANUEL LUTHERAN CLASS STUDING THE CREATION

Whether man is the result of the accidental working of slime and ooze over a period of millions of years or whether he is the result of the creation of an almighty God is the subject occupying the attention of the members of Emmanuel Lutheran's Bible Class every Sunday morning at 10 a.m. in the church sanctuary at 417 West Third.

The creation account, as recorded in Genesis 1 of the Bible, has been studied and now the attention is being directed to the theory or theories of evolution. The class is under the direction of the Rev. H. A. Heckman, pastor of Littlefield's Emmanuel Lutheran Church, 417 West Third.

Littlefield High School Students Elect 1950 Class and Council Officers

Students of Littlefield High school, including all four classes, last Wednesday exercised their democratic right to vote when they elected class officers and a student council composed of representatives of every class.

Four presidents, Senior Bobby Cox, Junior Freddie Howard, Sophomore Jackie Beckner and Freshman Bob Hoover, were elected and will also serve as ex-officio members of the Student Council, with the exception of Bobby Cox, who is vice president of the body. Senior Vice President Robert Rutledge will serve in Cox' place as ex-officio member from the senior class.

Jackie McCandles is president of the council. Other officers include the secretary, Imae Hall, Treasurer Barbara Ferguson and Publicity Director Earline Hofack.

Other officers of the Senior class include Secretary Mary Jane Coen, Treasurer Earline Hofack and Student Council Representatives Eldon Gohlke and Betty Jo Davis.

Besides President Freddie Howard the Junior class also elected Freddy Briggs, vice-president, Secretary-Treasurer Joe Pickrel, Parliamentarian Robert Hill and Student Council Representatives Pepper Briggs and Alberta Miller.

Elected in the sophomore class, besides President Beckner, are Vice President Sue Carol Henry, Secretary M. C. Northam, Treasurer Gary Pass, and Representatives to the Student Council, Wanda Harold and Bill McCary.

Freshman vice president is Ben Porcher. For secretary-treasurer the Freshman class elected Wanda Webb, Donnie Walker and Donna White were chosen representatives to the student council.

night of the fair. Exhibition dances by the experts and participation dances by all who wish will be held every night on the fairgrounds. Ross was also named to take charge of a project to raise money for prizes to be awarded the builders of the most beautiful float in the parade.

The parade expected to be the finest ever to march through Littlefield, will begin at 2 p.m. Friday. Prizes totaling $175 will be awarded owners of the winning floats. First prize is $100, second, $50, and third, $25.

A fiddlers contest will be held the first night of the fair.

An Indian dance by a group of Boy Scouts has been scheduled for Friday night. Also on Friday night Walter Martin will be featured in a performance with his trick pony, Sonny.

A battle royal among a group of local Negroes is planned for Saturday night. Slated to be one of the most entertaining events of the entire affair, the Negroes will be gathered together in a boxing ring, and the last man left standing will be awarded first prize. Second prize will be given to the Negro who puts up the best fight, even though he may have been knocked before the affair is terminated.

The grounds of the exhibit area at the fair have been expanded and now occupy one building more than the exhibit last year. In the September fair they will occupy two buildings. The additional building was provided when a new structure was put up for livestock exhibitions.

All members of the association are working hard to make this the greatest fair ever held in Lamb County. Peterson said. Not many people will miss the event. It was predicted. And those who fail to come may wish they had done so.

awarded for second and third prizes.

The same committees in the Garden Department, with Mrs. George White again General Chairman, are working on the Flower show. The following rules and schedule are submitted for the information of the public, with the suggestion that each person entering a display, carefully study them before the opening day of the show.

Rules and Regulations

1. Entries will be received from 9:00 a.m. September 28th until 12 time after 12:00 noon on Saturday, soon and may be removed any September 30th.

2. An exhibitor will have only one entry in each class.

3. The exhibitor may replace any wilted material. Prize winners on cut flowers are requested to replenish exhibits as needed.

4. An exhibitor must be an amateur who raises and cultivates flowers purely for pleasure and ornament.

5. A "specimen" is one to three flowers.

6. The exhibitor will furnish materials for arrangements, and clear glass containers for the specimens, such as fruit jars, coke bottles, etc. It is suggested that owner's name be pasted on bottom of valuable containers for arrangements.

7. Entries in horticultural division must be grown by exhibitor.

8. House plants must have been in exhibitor's possession for at least three months.

9. Judging will be in the afternoon of September 28 by point score method. Judges decision will be final.

10. During judging, only judges, clerks, and show officials will be permitted on the floor.

11. Exhibitor will check off classes he wishes to enter and label his exhibits accordingly, being sure name of specimen is correct. Entry cards may be obtained at the office of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce or from entry clerks at the exhibit hall.

12. All entries brought in after the hours specified above, or otherwise disqualified because of breach of rules, will be accepted for display separately, but not for competition.

Ed Botsford—

He was with the show when it played at Madison Square Garden in New York. He rode "Immigrant" acts in Kansas City, St. Louis and many more of America's largest cities.

Annie Oakley and her husband, Frank, became Botsford's personal friends. He recalls that Frank, despite popular opinion nowadays, was a poor shot and was employed only to load the great Annie's guns.

In a little shelf in his grocery store out on the Muleshoe highway he keeps a bundle of photographs, many of which show him riding, talking and joking with the great Buffalo Bill Cody.

In 1910 he left the Buffalo Bill show and joined Miller rothers' 101 Ranch Show. He spent the winter of 1910 with the troupe in Mexico City, after having performed in Laredo, Monterrey, San Luis Potosi and Saltillo, Mexico in those days lolled beneath the sunshine and enjoyed life under roly-poly dictator Porfirio Diaz, who was "dethroned" by revolution 2 years later. Diaz invited the Miller brothers and Botsford into his home at El Castillo de Chapultepec, showed them the castle and its magnificent grounds and served them a delicious dinner. Bill Pickett, Negro bulldogger—the first man in the world ever to bulldog a steer—caused a general sensation throughout the city.

In 1929 Botsford took time out from the show, left his family in Oklahoma and came down to Littlefield. He constructed a building here, stocked it and opened a grocery store. Later he added a group of tourist cabins. Then he moved his entire family to Littlefield. The family consisted of Mrs. Botsford and four daughters.

In the fall of the year he returned to the show, leaving his wife and daughters in charge of the holding in Littlefield. He continued his part-time work with the show until 1933, a year before it folded.

When he remembers those far-away years, his blue eyes twinkle from a face still ruddy, shaded by the brim of a cowboy Stetson. His stories are interrupted, now and then, by grocery store customers. But most of them become more interested in the tales of the past than in groceries and stay to listen.
