NO. 30

LITTLEFIELD GINS TURNING OUT $20,000 OF COTTON DAILY, WHILE ESTIMATES ARE 800 CARS GRAIN TO BE SHIPPED THIS YR.

With 10 cars of Broom Corn, 25 carloads of Sudan seed, 25 carloads of various grains, and more than 100 bales of cotton already shipped from Littlefield this season, there is the very best of reason for the general hum of industry heard in this town from early morning until late night.

Walk down the streets of Littlefield today now and they are crowded with autos, trucks and wagons. The streets are filled with fall buyers, offices of professional men have numerous customers, clients and patients sitting in their reception rooms, the ginners are running day and night and the gins are doing full work, wholesale and retail auto service places have had to put on extra help to take care of increasing business. The out in the country the rumble of the threshing machine, the groan of the broom corn baler, the whir of the corn and feed binders are the very music on the one hand, while every direction the eye beholds opening acres white with the fleecy bales and filled with the cotton picking steadily down the long rows gathering the snowy locks for the maw of the gins and the demands of the market.

As this newspaper goes to press, 25 bales of cotton have been ginned in Littlefield to date this season, every day now the local gins are sending out to the world between $5,000 and $20,000 dollars worth of required product. Judging from the appearance of cotton fields in this section, the picking and marketing is only well started.

Last year there were 16,152 bales of cotton ginned in Littlefield, and there were 43,000 bales shipped from Littlefield, Amherst and Sudan, of the 25,000 bales originated from this point. This year the Santa Fe road estimates it will ship 15,000 bales from Littlefield, 12,000 from Amherst and 12,000 from Sudan. The date in shipment is due to the fact that the acreage this year was about one-third of that planted last year, yet the general average production is considerably better, the yield is grading much higher and the crop is very much better than that raised in 1926. The acreage planted to grain in the Littlefield territory this year is estimated at 20 per cent that of last year, and the crop production is far better than the previous year. Estimates now are that there will be 800 cars of grain shipped from this point this year.

Each of the cotton ginned in this territory is baled here for compressing, and up-to-date 2,500 bales have been shipped to the gigantic squeeze of Littlefield standard and high density press, about two-thirds of which goes to members of the Cotton Press.

The crops of this section generally are late, yet the weather man has been generous in his smiles and the favorable weather has existed during the fall months for crop making and harvesting.

There were in vogue for the picking season, resulting in much bollie and grade staple, but this year the majority is being picked by the hand.

While some of the later planted cotton has not yet entirely matured, it is generally considered to be in the stage where frosts will have material depreciating effects, in fact, it is claimed by some planters that the present light frosts are of great value in cutting off the leaves and bringing a quicker maturity.

As a whole the crop situation in Littlefield and in Lamb county is viewed as the best in years, bringing an almost unprecedented wave of prosperity to the entire country.

A big free barbecue will be attended by United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield and other men of prominence will celebrate the arrival of the Rock Island road into Stinnett here November 23. This road is now being built from Amarillo to Liberal, Kansas, and reached city limits of Stinnett November 23. All towns and communities in the North Panhandle will send delegations. Excursions are also being arranged by Amarillo to Liberal, Kansas.

DEFEND THE FENDERS

Sunday was an unlucky day for car drivers in Littlefield.

The Ford roadster belonging to Clyde Speaker was hit by a Nash, doing slight damage to the back fender.

A new Chevrolet coach belonging to Loyd Robertson, of Clovis, New Mexico, was hit by a Ford, scratching and bending the front fender of the Chevrolet.

Sunday evening Carl Williams collided with the coupe belonging to Mrs. George Long. The back fenders of her car were bent, while the other car was only slightly damaged.

DUCK HUNTERS OF LFD. ARE FINDING PLENTY OF BIRDS

More guns and ammunition have been sold in Littlefield during the past two weeks than during the past two years all put together, according to local dealers in sporting goods, and it has all come about from the fact that the migration of ducks and geese from the northern climes is now on, and every Nimrod who can boast of a fowling piece of some description and the time to use it is out bagging his share of the birds.

Practically every shallow lake surrounding Littlefield has been covered with water fowl for the past month or so, some of the larger lakes actually containing more than a thousand ducks each, and even the hunters who lay no claim to expert marksmanship return late at night with their limit of game.

Due to the exceptionally mild weather of this fall and the fine fields of grain in the country these ducks are expressing a hesitancy in continuing their journey southward for the winter. With plenty of good swimming and food they are in their element as is evidenced by the fatness of the birds when placed in the skillet or roaster by the housewives.

GILLETTE BOY HIT BY A FORD TRUCK; GETS BROKEN LEG

Monday noon, while playing on the school campus near the highway, Norfleet Gillette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gillette, was knocked unconscious by a Ford truck driven by a man giving the name of Reynolds, and sustained a broken leg and other severe bruises.

According to eye witnesses the lad, while playing stepped off the curb in front of the approaching truck. The driver attempted to stop his car, but the fender struck the lad, knocking him down. The driver stopped his car, and returning rendered such aid as he could. The lad was taken to the home of a local physician where treatment was promptly given, and consciousness soon returned.

The father and mother were both in Haskell at the time of the accident and knew nothing of it until returning to Littlefield about midnight Monday.

THE TELEPHONE, NOW CONSIDERED A BUSINESS NECESSITY HAS MANY DRAWBACKS IN THE INTEREST OF SOCIETY

The telephone is probably the greatest time-saver ever invented. It has come to be hailed as a business necessity, tho you want to cuss the hello girl because of bad service and the management of the corporation for lack of manifested loyalty to the home town in which his concern operates, and generally at the highest rates it is possible for him to obtain.

Yet, notwithstanding the time-saving feature of the telephone and the business necessity claimed for it, the telephone is not without its hindrances in a social way. People who have phones nowadays do not do much visiting. It's so much easier to "just use the phone." Congratulations, sympathy and much of the general run of community gossip are transmitted over the telephone. The telephone has done away with many of the social amenities that used to brighten human lives, filling the void with a far more expensive and less agreeable form of entertainment.

Before the days of the popular priced automobile, Sunday visiting was quite common among friends and neighbors. Most folks kept "open house" and nearly every one had company or was company. Today it is quite different. In order to get folks to your home you must invite them over the telephone, and to be sure of a reception at the home of your friend you must first give them warning of your intended visit over the telephone. The system robs social calls of the informality and spontaneity that were once their principal charm.

Shopping is no longer a social function as it once was. The convenience of the telephone keeps women at home, often bored and fretful, at the same time adding cost to their monthly bills. Shopping in the days before the telephone was a happy diversion. At the stores friends and acquaintances used to meet to exhibit their new hats and gowns, exchange compliments and have friendly chats on a wide variety of subjects. But not so now since the telephone came into vogue.

There were 69,738 marriages performed in Texas in 1925 as against 71,992 in 1924, showing a decrease of 2,254. Figures for 1926 will not be compiled until about December 1, 1927.

Texas ships to New York every year more than 7,000,000 pounds of dressed poultry, and to Chicago more than 2,000,000 pounds.

EPISCOPAL SERVICES HERE

Rev. L. G. Williams, rector of the Episcopal church, Lubbock, will be in Littlefield next Sunday night, holding services at the Presbyterian church. He will bring with him a part of his trained vested choir. The public generally is cordially invited to attend this service.

WHAT IS DOING IN WEST TEXAS

By West Texas Chamber of Commerce

Ovalo.—A harmonica band has been organized here and will feature community entertainment programs.

Shallowater.—This farming community of some 250 people claims the ginning record for the plains country this season. One thousand four hundred bales have been ginned here, more than any other town on the plains.

Burburnett.—Formal opening of the new Inter-State Free bridge across Red river, between Texas and Oklahoma, was celebrated here November 5. Officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce participated in the affair. The bridge was erected at a cost of $380,000.

Pampa.—Work on the railway from Pampa to Cheyenne, Oklahoma is expected to start early in 1928. The line was offered through a proposal made by Frank Kell, Wichita Falls capitalist and president of the Clinton & Oklahoma Western railroad.

Hamlin.—Hamlin now has four rural mail routes which cover an area of 228.59 miles.

Quanah.—Quanah was the scene of one of the most unique city celebrations ever held in this section November 4 and 5 when a tribe of Comanche Indians came from their Oklahoma reservation to re-bless Quanah, which was named in honor of their chief's father, Quannah Parker. President R. W. Haynis of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was initiated into the tribe and made a white chief. Manager Homer D. Wade and Publicity Manager E. H. Whitehead were also in attendance at the Harvest Moon Fete.

HENDRICKS AND KEITHLEY BUY "M" SYSTEM OF JONES

Through a transaction closed Saturday afternoon, A. C. Hendricks and J. W. Keithley have purchased the two "M" System stores of Jones Bros. and located in Littlefield, taking charge of the business Tuesday morning.

Both these gentlemen come from Lubbock, and as business men, are well known in Littlefield. Mr. Keithley will have active management of the two stores. At the No. 1 store Travis Jones and Payne Wood will continue to dispense groceries, while at the No. 2 store H. M. and J. C. Snowden will remain as salesmen.

Jones Bros. will devote their entire time to the selling of automobiles, they having recently acquired the Oakland-Pontiac agency.

NORET BROS. BUY ROBERTSON STOCK HDW. AND SUPPLIES

Noret Bros., of Lamesa, this week purchased the J. F. Robertson stock of hardware, located in the Replin building, placing J. D. McElhannon, of Borger, in charge of the business. It is their intention to considerably enlarge the business until they have a complete line of shelf and heavy hardware in the Littlefield store.

This concern also operates hardware stores at O'Donnel, Edcough, Melisco, Lamesa and Borger.

AT WHITHARRAL SINGING

Many Littlefield people attended the singing convention at Whitharral, Sunday.

J. E. Brannen reports an extra large crowd and plenty of good singing.

Loyd E. and Earl Robertson, formerly of Littlefield, now of Clovis, New Mexico, John F. Taylor, of Clovis, took leading parts on the program L. M. Brooks, of Lubbock, and Zed Robertson, Walter and Clyde Burleson of Littlefield, also, took a part.

The quartets from Lubbock, Morton, Littlefield, Clovis, New Mexico, and Luma Chapel were enjoyed.

The state of Texas has a very small bonded indebtedness and all of it is owned and held by the permanent funds of the public schools and state institutions. At the close of the last fiscal year the total of this debt was $4,000,000.

LFD. POPULATION INCREASES 400 IN PAST MONTH-HALF

That Littlefield is growing more rapidly than many of the surrounding towns in this section of the South Plains, is the consensus of opinion expressed by various citizens the past week, city officials declaring the city population has increased about 400 during the past 45 days.

It is a known fact that every available house in the city is now occupied by one or more families, and the demand for houses being greater than the supply keeps many people from moving here who might otherwise become Littlefield citizens.

Enquiry at the Municipal Waterworks office reveals the fact that while during the summer months there were between 40 and 50 idle water connections in the city, these are now all in use and 30 additional connections have been made during the past 40 days.

The immediately surrounding country is likewise receiving an influx of population, many people moving in this fall to possess the lands bought by them during the past year or so.

An enrollment of 1045 pupils in the Littlefield schools reflects the fact that the general population of this community is rapidly increasing.

Witnessing business streets crowded with traffic every day, big wagons piled high with cotton awaiting service at the gins, and trucks heavily laden with lumber for new buildings in town and country recalls to the older residents the recurrence of the halcyon days a few years ago when this town jumped from a population of 250 to 2,500 within 18 months time.

FIRE CHIEF SAYS THE STREETS WILL HAVE TO BE OPENED

Monday afternoon the Fire Department responded to a call turned in from the home of W. P. McDaniel, residing in the Vivian Walden property, in Southmoor addition.

It is stated that the fire originated from children playing with matches around a gasoline tank in the yard, and, aside from considerable fright, no material damage was done.

The fire chief Arnold calls attention to the fact that when the fire alarm is sounded pedestrians and autosists must clear the streets instead of getting in the way of the fire engine and ladder truck, and unless this law is complied with in the future there is going to be a general wholesale arresting and fining take place in an effort to give free access of the Department to fire calls.

"It is but natural," said Chief Arnold, "that everyone should be interested in a conflagration, but in the interest of the owner whose property is endangered, and of the Department who is doing its best to save that property from fire, we must insist that the streets be promptly cleared of traffic when the siren sounds."

TWO ARRESTED BY OFFICERS SAT'DAY ON LIQUOR CHARGE

G. H. Bullard was arrested Saturday morning by Sheriff Len Irvin and Deputy Walraven, at his home in Littlefield, on a charge of possession and transporting intoxicating liquor. He gave bond in the sum of $500 to appear before the grand jury.

According to Irvin, his home was searched and about one-half gallon of whiskey located.

Bob Miller, who drove up to the Bullard home while officers were making the arrest, was also arrested and put under similar bond for grand jury appearance. It was stated by Irvin that some empty bottles once containing liquor were found in Miller's car when searched.

L. B. Berry last week shipped in a car of household goods from Lamesa, and moving onto his 354 acre farm of Yellow House land southeast of Whitharral.

Walter L. Young, recently from Coleman county, is putting a set of improvements on his land adjoining the Hodges brick school house, southeast of Littlefield.

WILDCATS vs AMHERST
 The Littlefield Wildcats played Amherst team in football at the ball park last Friday afternoon.
 It seemed that neither team had the advantage, except Littlefield was much better on receiving passes. Lawrence Thornton caught one pass and made the run for a touchdown in the third quarter, with standing score of six to three in favor of the Wildcats.
 Burness Lowmore was the outstanding player during the game. Although he was the smallest man on the team, he was hard to stop and his vicious tackles and hard fighting made for him a name in the annals of local football history.

 This was termed the best game of this season.
 Littlefield will probably play Idalou here next Friday at 2:30 p. m.
PROCLAMATION OF THE PRESIDENT, THANKSGIVING
 Washington, Oct. 26.—Declaring that the nation has passed through a year of domestic successes and tranquility marked with friendly relations with other countries of the world, President Coolidge called upon the people to set aside Thursday, November 23, as Thanksgiving Day on which they might consider the "manifold blessings which have come to them."
 While the country has enjoyed material success, he said, there has also been an advance in "wisdom and spiritual understanding" and an increased desire for "the things that minister to the mind and soul."
 Recalling that disaster has visited some states during the year, Mr. Coolidge declared that in continuing to remember those in affliction the country should rejoice in its power to extend a helping hand.
 The text of the proclamation follows:
 "By the President of the United States:
 "Under the guidance and watchful care of a divine and beneficent Providence this country has been carried safely through another year. Almighty God has continued to bestow upon us the light of his countenance and we have prospered. Not only have we enjoyed material success but we have advanced in wisdom and in spiritual understanding. The products of our fields and our factories and of our manifold activities have been maintained on a higher level. We have gained in knowledge of the higher value of life. There has been advancement in our physical well being. We have increased our desire for the things that minister to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life.
 "We have had the blessings of peace and of honorable and friendly relations with our sister nations throughout the world. Disaster visiting certain of our states have touched the heart of a sympathetic nation, which has responded generously out of its abundance. In continuing to remember those in affliction we should rejoice in our ability to give them relief.
 "Now that these twelve months are drawing to a close, it is fitting that as a nation, and as individuals, in accordance with time honored sacred customs, we should consider the manifold blessings granted to us. While in gratitude we rejoice, we should humbly pray that we may be worthy of a continuation of divine favor.
 "Therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do set apart and designate Thursday the 24th day of November, next as a day of thanksgiving and prayer and recommend and urge that on that day our people lay aside their usual tasks and by the family fireside and in their accustomed places of public worship give thanks to Him who holds all in the hollow of His hand.
 "In witness, whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.
 "Done at the city of Washington

this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven.
 —CALVIN COOLIDGE.
 "By the President."
HOGS FOR SALE
 I have in Littlefield about 200 head of hogs, consisting of good feeding shoats and good sows. These are good blooded hogs and are being sold right.—J. T. Harris, Jr., at J. T. Harris Lumber Yard, Littlefield. 29-3tc
Evergreens for Grounds
 One of the most delicately graceful of the evergreens is the Carolina hemlock, and for the small house the Sargent's weeping hemlock, with broad flat top and pendant foliage, should be used as specimen plants where much inferior materials are now used. For some places firs and spruces may be too large, but the best fir, the Nikko silver fir, is a magnificent specimen of evergreen.
 For spruces most builders want Colorado blue spruce. It is a beautiful little tree and easily grown. There are one or two pines suitable for the small place, especially the Swiss stone pine, a compact, roundish little tree. The knee pine, dwarf and flat topped, is also fine for the small place.
Value of Shade Trees
 The agents of "progress" will argue that there is no difference between the shade cast by a brick wall and that cast by a living, growing tree. But there is a vast difference, as science has demonstrated. One average tree in a single season throws into the air through its leaves 500 barrels of water. Shade from a tree, therefore, is always cool and moist, and that from a brick wall is only a scant measure of protection from the sun. Yes, indeed; trees are worth preserving.—Buffalo News.

SPRAY FRUIT TO CONTROL PESTS

The peach grower who wishes to produce fruit of quality will spray his fruit to control the curculio or peach worm which causes heavy damage in all peach-growing sections.

The curculio is a beetle which passes the winter as an adult and emerges in the spring before the fruit is set," says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at the North Carolina State College. "Just after the petals fall, the curculio lays its eggs in the young peach. The larva or worm spends about twenty days feeding in the peach, leaves the fruit and enters the soil where it changes to the pupa stage in earthen cells from one to three inches below the surface of the soil. In about ten days, this pupa emerges as an adult and is soon ready to lay eggs again."

To control this pest, Mr. Brannon advises a first application of dust or spray, when about 75 per cent of the flower petals have fallen. The spray recommended is one pound of arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of water plus lime water from three pounds of stone lime. As a dust, use 5 per cent of lead arsenate and 95 per cent of lime. The second application is applied when the calyxes or shucks are shedding, or when the small peaches are exposed, using the same material.

The third application is made four weeks before each variety is due to ripen. As a spray, Mr. Brannon recommends the material as given in the first and second applications, using the self-bolled lime-sulphur (8-8-50) for diseases. The dry mixed lime-sulphur may be used in place of the self-bolled lime-sulphur, using the following dust: 80 per cent sulphur, 5 per cent lead arsenate and 15 per cent lime.

ONE 1¢ SALE

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenzo Dental Creme is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price. This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, knowing the goods will please you.

Destroy Curculio With Spray of Lead Arsenate

If the unsightly blemishes made by the apple curculio are to be avoided, a spray of one and a half pounds of powdered lead arsenate to fifty gallons of water must be applied one week after the petal-fall spray has been applied, says A. Freeman Mason, extension specialist in fruit growing, New Jersey State College of Agriculture, New Brunswick. Twelve and one-half pounds of dry-mix sulphur lime should be added to this to hold later scab infections in check, and if aphid or leaf hoppers are present, three-fourths pint of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate should be added in order to kill as many apple pests as possible in one application.

The curculio is a small snout beetle which feeds on young apples, and on the stone fruits. The small, round puncture made by it when feeding, or the crescent-shaped puncture in which an egg is deposited rapidly increases in size as the fruit develops. These wounds make light brown, slightly raised warts about the size of a finger nail on the mature fruit. In addition to this, a large amount of fruit in which eggs have been deposited will drop off, owing to the feeding of the maggots that have hatched from the eggs.

In orchards where russeting of the fruit or burning of the foliage has not been serious, commercial concentrated lime-sulphur at the rate of four quarts to forty gallons of water may be used in place of the dry-mix sulphur lime.

Horticultural Notes

A few fruit tree diseases require a strong spray.

For an abundance of fruit on small trees, the Compass cherry should not be overlooked.

Many mature fruit trees are carrying too much wood. The best way to prune to remedy this is a distributed thinning of the smaller branches all through the tree.

Give the trees the benefit of the doubt. A light crop will look larger as the fruit develops, and quality will largely offset quantity. Work for the sake of future crops if the present one is light.

Ordinarily one can cut red raspberries back low enough so that the cane will support the crop, but with so tall a growth a trellis is needed to keep them from bending over and resting on the ground.

If a crop of fruit is set in the orchard, work to protect it from its enemies should be started at once. This, of course, involves spraying, but one of the worst enemies of the fruit crop is dry weather.

Perhaps the most important spray for the old orchard is the one which aids in controlling scales, scab, aphids and mites. For this purpose the lime-sulphur solution is most popular.

Many orchardists apply from five to seven or eight summer sprays at intervals of about two weeks apart, in order to prevent the development of apple blight and bitter rot, and late injury by the codling moth, lesser apple worm, plum curculio, and other injurious pests.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Render therefore to all their dues.—Romans 13-7.

A tender conscience is a stronger obligation than prison.—Thomas Fuller.

VOTE FOR PAVING

☐ The proposition of paving Main street, to be voted on next Tuesday, should receive the unqualified favorable and unanimous support of the loyal property-owners and voters of Littlefield.

It is a civic movement which means much toward the enhanced beauty and comforts of the city. An attractive principal business thoroughfare always appeals to prospective residents. It betokens the thrift, progress, prosperity and pride of the people. Merely as an advertisement of the character of people who now reside here, it will be well worth its cost.

From an economic standpoint the paving is advisable. Engineers have stated that the amount expended by the city in attempting to keep Main street in condition for six years would be sufficient to pave it. Merchants residing on Main street have declared that the cost of paving would more than offset the cost of labor required in keeping their stocks clean from the dust of the street. From every standpoint of argument this measure should go over favorably by a large majority.

Every resident property owner on Main street has given his written signature of favorableness. The members of the Chamber of Commerce are backing the movement. All the city officials are in favor of it. Let's see that it wins out next Tuesday in unanimous style.

Naturally the fellow who drops a penny in the slot has the right of weigh.

PICK IT UP

As he pilots his car over streets and along rural highways almost every motorist occasionally encounters broken glass, or some other obstruction in his path. But seldom is he thoughtful enough to park his car long enough to scrape up the broken glass and toss it where it cannot cause damage. Yet this is the very thing he should do.

Broken glass is not only destructive to tires, but it can easily cause a bad accident. When a motorist going at a good clip, sees glass on the road ahead he swerves his car to one side or another to avoid it. And that may mean swerving into the path of a machine coming from the opposite direction. More than one serious accident has occurred in this way, and more are going to occur in the future.

It takes but a few moments at best to stop, to get out of the car and dispose of the fragments of glass. And it may be the means of saving a deplorable accident. Think it over the next time you encounter broken glass when out driving.

After all is said and done about the only woman who ever scolds her husband is a widow.

REACHING THE FARMER

☐ There was a convention of manufacturers in New York a few days ago and during its session much time was devoted to a discussion of how to "reach" the farmer. In other words, it was pointed out that last year American manufacturers and stores spent $850,000,000 to reach the city buyers and only $30,000,000 to reach the farmers. This, it was argued at the convention, is all out of proportion. The farmer is not being "reached." The buying field is only being covered around the edges.

The farmer is not different from anyone else in his desires, nor in his needs. He is human, and he is susceptible to the same sales argument that sells goods to the city man. The trouble seems to be that those who would sell to him have a poor idea of how to reach him. They find it easier to advertise to the city dweller, so they spend their money in that direction and let their richest market—the rural districts—go uncultivated.

The farmer does his buying largely through local channels. Practically all of those with whom we are in touch around Littlefield prefer to trade at home, and yet if they are not solicited by advertisers it is but natural that they are going to turn to the man who does want their trade badly enough to advertise for it. The manufacturers are commencing to realize that if they are to reach the farmer they must do it through the local newspapers—not magazines. So the convention went on record as favoring a greater expenditure in the future in weekly papers.

And there seems to be a pretty good hint to our local merchants in the adoption of such a resolution.

There was a time when a bow-legged girl could keep at least one secret, but fashions in skirts have now robbed her of a chance to keep that one.

THE NEWEST FAKE

☐ If you get a postcard from a firm or individual notifying you that they have a newspaper clipping mentioning your name, and that you will be interested in it don't bite. It's only the latest scheme to separate you from a dime or a quarter. These people write all over the country for sample copies of newspapers. From them they clip their items, and without stating what paper the clipping is from they offer to mail it to you on receipt of a certain sum. Curiosity leads hundreds to answer, and when the clipping comes they find, nine times out of ten, that it was clipped from their home-town paper and they had read it before. The mails are being worked to a standstill by these sharpers with this new form of graft. Don't let your curiosity get the better of you, but toss the offer away and save your dimes and quarters.

As a general thing the man who saves up for a rainy day winds up by investing in a sedan.

GIVE THIS A THOUGHT

☐ Property along main-traveled highways around Littlefield is undoubtedly worth more now than it was when the same roads could be traveled by horse drawn vehicles. And yet, living on a main motor road has its drawbacks.

Live stock and poultry losses have to be reckoned with, and if you will take note of the number of small animals you see killed along these highways you will realize that, taken as a whole, the loss in this country each year is enormous. Much of this slaughter is unavoidable, of course, but a lot of it can be prevented. Every thoughtful motorist gives the animal a chance to get out of the way. Only the careless disregard chickens, dogs, cats or pigs that may stroll in the path of danger.

No one is expected to jeopardize his life to save the animal, but we do believe that a little more care will reduce this annual slaughter and leave not only the owner of the animals

Dr. Frank Crane Says

DON'T WORRY ABOUT OUR SPORT URGE

Many say that the country has gone "football crazy."

They point out the fact that Rome's downfall was preceded by the gift to the people of games and bread.

The parallel between the bloody amusements of ancient times, however, and the football of today is not very close.

Football is a clean sport and the more energy people put out in sport of this strenuous kind the less energy they will be disposed to spend in war.

Football calls for the last ounce of physical strength, together with intellectual alertness.

Last year there was an attendance of 7,500 at the game between Stanford and Southern California. Fifty-five thousand saw the Harvard play, 70,000 watched Ohio State and about 75,000 seats were sold for the U. S. C.-Notre Dame game in Los Angeles. Many applicants were rejected for lack of space.

The attendance of large groups at football games is a good omen and those that gather from this that the country is going to the dogs is mistaken.

but the drivers of the cars the better for it.

THE FASTEST EVER

☐ Racing for the Schneider cup a few weeks ago Lieut. Webster maintained an average speed of 4.7 miles a minute. This is far from being as swift as light, but it is the fastest man ever traveled before, and Littlefield people who once marveled at express trains capable of making sixty miles in sixty minutes must now be prepared for most anything in the way of speed.

Walking fast, a man can never cover a city block in one minute. Webster could make it in one second. It took Lindbergh 33 1/2 hours to fly from New York to Paris. Webster, if his plane could stand it and his own endurance hold out, could make the same run in 12 3/4 hours. He could eat breakfast in Boston and supper in San Francisco.

But no such trips are likely in our day. No plane could stand such a terrific strain for so long a time, and no man living has the required strength and stamina to make such a trip. Webster's new speed record only shows what may be accomplished some of these days. Outside of that his record of 4.7 miles a minute doesn't mean anything.

This Week's Poem

A TONSILECTOMY

He marched into the operating room,
This pink pajamaed little lad,
The doctors teased and jollied him
And then when the breathing was bad
"Isn't recess the best part of school?"
The doctor queried as the little boy lay
And floated into space. This for answer—
"Yea, boy, I should say!"
Then, when he tossed in misery
And fought away from the pain,
His mother's anguished question was,
"Will he be alright again?"
The nurse, in her pink and white loveliness,
And answered very tenderly,
Kissed the freckled cheek so gray.
"Yea boy, I should say."

LITTLE LEADERS

The only time a day a Littlefield boy isn't wearing out his shoes is when he is eating.

If some of the Littlefield citizens want to get a real shock, let them try stepping on a cat in the dark.

About the only time some Littlefield men are really contented with their lots is when they're buried on them.

No, it's not because there is so much cotton around Littlefield that some of our farmers are spitting cotton.

We've noticed that in this age of shieks and jazz very few Littlefield mothers have the nerve to name their daughter "Prudence."

About the hardest work some Littlefield fellows do is along about the first of the year when they change the license plates on their car.

ond gear and in appearance is a smaller edition of the Lincoln. It has a wheelbase of 105 inches and the bodies will be much lower and roomier. An average size man can almost look over the top of the car, which has the same flowing lines characteristic of the Lincoln and other large cars.

The crown fenders are wider and heavier and there will be five wire wheels.

"The radiator is rounded and nicked, like a Lincoln, and is decorated with a new name plate. Within a blue outlined circle is the white name "Ford," written in the familiar Ford script. A new design radiator cap is topped by a quail, which was chosen to symbolize the fast getaway of the new car. Nickered bullet-type lamps are standard.

"A variety of tones of gray, green and blue, with some two-tone effects, is offered in the new Ford. Upholstery is marked by beauty and serviceability, said Mr. Arnett.

The new motor is of a much faster type than the old, he declared. The bore has been decreased slightly and the stroke lengthened, he said he had been informed. The engine easily develops thirty-five horsepower. Use of counterbalancers and an increase in the number of bearings on the crankshaft were said to have practically eliminated vibration.

"Four-wheel mechanical brakes are standard equipment, with an emergency brake at the left side of the drivers seat. The gear shift is standard and the steering gear has been changed to the indirect type. Cooling is by a water pump and ignition by storage battery, as on most standard cars, the magneto having been discontinued.

Change of drive from torque rod to tubular shaft is reported. The rear axle is said to be semifloating.

Two bumpers are standard equipment on the cars. A speedometer, oil gauge and ammeter were said to be members of the dash assembly, while a foot feed and a motor-driven horn are standard equipment.

Heroic Roman Figure

Cincinnatus was one of the favorite early heroes of the Roman republic. In the year 460 B. C. he was elected consul, the chief executive officer of Rome. Two years later, in time of great national danger, he was chosen dictator or supreme commander to lead the army against the nation of Gauls, or modern France, that was threatening Italy. The messenger sent to tell him of his elevation to the dictatorship found him plowing on his little farm. He put on his toga, the robe of a Roman citizen, to listen to the reading of his commission, and then he went to Rome and took command. He decisively defeated the enemy, and 16 days later he was at home again at work on his farm.

He Wasn't a Bigot

Like Sir James Percy, the Irishman who never forgets a good story that he hears, and later gives it an extra twist of interest through the glow of his own personality, Sir James Taggart, ex-lord provost of Aberdeen, is among the recognized story-tellers of the country. He is telling just now of a certain man of the 'kirk' who was found lying drunk not far from his door by a Roman Catholic priest. The priest picked him up and helped him to his home. As he felt for the latch of his door, the intoxicated one turned to the priestly helper and looked hard at him. "Oh, aye," he said, "I ken ye fine!—the Catholic priest. Never mind, me; I'm no' bigoted." — London Sketch.

Considering Its High Resale Value The PONTIAC SIX Actually Costs You Less To Own and Drive

Even if the Pontiac Six did not command the high resale prices that it does, it would still enjoy the reputation of being a "wonderful buy" . . . for it is the only car combining the advantages of superior six-cylinder performance and the luxuries of a Fisher body at a price of $745 . . . But with a high resale price which reduces the net cost of ownership, a Pontiac Six is actually more economical to own and drive . . . This is a direct result of definite planning to design a low-price six that would win approval on the sound principles of genuine, long lived, inexpensive owner satisfaction . . . That is why used car buyers are willing to pay more for the Pontiac Six when the original owner is ready to replace it . . . Come in—get a ride—and let us give you the facts.

New lower prices on all body types (Effective July 15th): Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster $745; Sport Cabriolet, $795; Landau Sedan, $845; De Luxe Landau Sedan, $935. PEOPLE OF ALL NATIONS, TONGUES AND CLIMES CONSTANTLY LOOKING FOR A BETTER COUNTRY IN WHICH TO LIVE

People of all nations are constantly looking for a better country in which to live. The ancient patriarch, Abraham, seems to have started the idea of moving, so far as history is concerned, tho there is strong belief that ever since humanity has inhabited the globe it has been on the move, constantly looking for a more desirable place of habitation.

Abraham struck his tent on the Mesopotamian plains and journeyed toward the rich valley of the River Jordan. Moses, with his Hebrew slaves, moved north from Egypt, the Babylonian exiles also found a better country by the moving and discovery process. The same was true with the founders of the American colonies. They migrated to where they could build up a country such as they foresaw in their dreams. If they did not at first find it they moved on. From the Atlantic shore westward the land was peopled by pioneers who looked for a better country beyond the western horizon.

But since the Creator went out of the land-making business several hundred years ago, and there is no likelihood of another crop of land being made, it is now up to the nomadically inclined, yet home loving folks of earth, to pick out the best of what now is for their future home.

However, the instinct for a better country is now days considerably augmented by the further instinct of many humans who seek to cultivate this inherent desire and augment it by real estate advertisements and other alluring publicity of new and better countries untried by the many yet well proven by the few.

True, there are many, who, realizing there is little new country to explore, conquer and settle, have decided the best way to live in a better country is to improve conditions within the geographical lines of the country in which they now live. This is much less alluring and spectacular, yet it often obtains desired results. Going out to discover a new country, overcoming its native obstacles, subduing its wildness, developing its crudeness and enhancing its rural beauty is much more adventurous than to stay at home and create or improve one. Yet, after the pioneer has passed beyond the last frontier, the better social order, the nobler political ideal, the worthier religious organization, the greater business concern must be builded by the people who are there to stay. In this constructive follow-up work there is little of the thrill of adventure, yet much of real satisfaction and sincere pleasure of accomplishment for community good.

No matter whether a country be new or old, its concrete and symmetrical development is essential to the general welfare of its citizens. Patriotism and religion are vital factors in human welfare and can not be neglected in either case. They are just as essential as adventure. The building of a better country, dedicated to the ideals of righteousness, justice and peace, while less alluring than the work of the pioneer, yet it is an inspiring work that must not be overlooked.

After all its glory for a few of the advance guard that pioneering in a new country gives its greatest thrills and experiences. It does not take many folks to subdue the average new country of today. They soon sap it of its crudeness, soon overcome its roughness, soon clear its forests or beautify its barrenness with oasis-like spots of loveliness and prosperity, soon unlock its treasure house of riches and make known to the world at large its potential possibilities, thus beckoning still stronger to the mighty hordes of hungry homeseekers who are looking for a spot of earth they may well call their own.

Such is the Littlefield country on the South Plains. It is a pre-eminently a better country. Not because the real estate men have said so; but rather because its pioneer citizens have proven it so. The real estate men have merely gathered this authentic information from its new farmers, business and professional men, investors at large and citizens in general. And, with all this, there is still plenty of pioneering to be done—enough to quicken the blood, stir the pulse and arouse the enthusiasm of the average person of the twentieth century. Some of the native roughness have been smoothed out, some of the jagged corners have been knocked off, but the real mantle of civilization with its attenuating polish and lustre has not yet been fully applied.

Here is the "better country" where humanity may have its cravings satisfied to the fullest degree. Here they may appease all the lust and yearning of their pioneer blood in conquering and subduing, molding and embellishing, developing and beautifying, winning for themselves and their families a home of peace, pleasure and prosperity, and at the same time become pioneers in the nobler accomplishments of life that look towards nobler citizenship, a more exalted community, a more prosperous section, socially, commercially and morally.

In the days of Abraham and Moses religion and patriotism were practically identical, and business was very akin to both of them. Today each is well separated but co-operative in its action, and, as this wonderful new and better country is gradually developed in a like manner will become the ideals and interests of its thrifty citizens.

It is this double allurements, therefore, that is attracting to this section the exceptional quality of citizenship of which it boasts. Here come the people of dual ideals: Looking for a physical home, but also for a spiritual home; desiring a spot of earth where they may adequately satisfy the corporal cravings, but also an environment where they may cultivate the inner and higher faculties of life. It is here, in this virgin country, with its already proven assets and its unlimited opportunities that the requirements of life and living are adequately met in lavish manner, and from out its prodigious abundance the cornucopia of nature pours in to the lap of its citizens a plethora of favors, physical, mental and spiritual—sufficient to satisfy the kings and queens of earth, such as they really are.

Thus, in following the sunset beyond the smoke of the last cabin and by loyal devotion to the principals that have thus far guided the pioneers of equity and righteousness, and which are now being wrought out in new areas occupied by trade and traffic this "better country" is being established upon a firm basis of a glorious past heritage and a wonderful future, the fullness of which none of its citizens are sanguine enough to predict.

AN AUTOMOBILE OUT OF ORDER

—Is taken to a mechanic, not to apply more power or to take out some part, but to adjust what is wrong so that the power mechanism can exert its influence and make the most remote wheels run correctly. Now, the human body may be likened to a delicate piece of machinery, run by the motor power—the brain, sending out its mental impulses to all parts of the body thru the nerves, or as they might be called, the wires. Any irregularity in the workings of the body is caused by the failure of the nerves to perform their functions. Will the cutting out of or irritating, that part which fails to receive vitality from the brain, remedy the trouble? No. The rational way would be to hunt up the place where the flow of vitality is checked and again open the channels of life. Nature would then take care of the rest.

A Chiropractor, trained at a reputable Chiropractic school is equipped to do this. He spends three years in close and diligent study, mastering the many delicate mechanisms of the human body. Our office is established to give the sick and ailing this kind of service.
