Adam Johnson To Be Reinstated At Meeting, Belief

AUSTIN (AP)—A special meeting of the Texas Relief Commission, presumably to make changes in the administration personnel, has been called for next Wednesday, Jack Reed, member of the commission, said Saturday, by a majority of the commission.

Reinstatement of Adam Johnson, Austin, as state relief director, is believed to be the purpose.

Johnson was dismissed several months ago after R. L. Holliday, El Paso, a Johnson supporter, was removed from the board by Speaker Coke Stevenson and Julius Dorenfield, Jr., Amarillo, Holliday's successor, voted to discharge Johnson.

The supreme court ruled Stevenson was without power to remove Holliday, and ordered him reinstated.

Shockley Acquitted

PAMPA, (AP)—Rev. H. Shockley, former Baptist minister, to whom the State of Texas accused of fatally poisoning three relatives, was freed by a district court jury late Saturday.

Exactly one hour and fifteen minutes after it had been given the case for deliberation, the jury filed back into the courtroom and announced it had agreed on the second ballot that Shockley was innocent of the crimes alleged.

The death of W. T. Hudgins, Shockley's father-in-law and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Erwin had been laid to Shockley through means of placing poison in flour that was later made into bread.

Shockley also stands charged with attempted murder in connection with the illness of four other members of the family, but state prosecutors indicated these charges would be dropped.

Shockley was tried for slaying of Terry Erwin.

Farmers Get First Payment For Contracts

Checks On 698 Of 815 Cotton Control Contracts Received Saturday

Benefit payment checks on 698 of 815 cotton acreage reduction control contracts acted Saturday as stimulant on farmers and merchants.

So rapidly did word of reception of $62,095.23 in government checks spread that County Agent O. F. Griffin and his staff had to be reinforced and go without luncheon in order to meet the demands of the throng of farmers packing into the office.

Nothing short of a general rain could have created as much excitement among farmers as did the checks.

Distribution began at 11:30 and there was a continual line waiting long after banks had closed. More than one third of the 1012 checks for the 698 contracts was distributed within the space of four hours.

Griffin said that the checks were the first half payment for governmental rentals and represented 80,000 acres of cotton land of which 31,343 has been leased to the federal government, leaving 48,657 in cultivation of cotton.

In September, said Griffin, a similar amount will be received on the same contracts as the second half benefit payment. In December there will be a final payment of $36,201.88.

Checks arriving here Saturday were made separately to tenants and landlords and only required signing before they were distributed.

Griffin said that approximately 150 would have to be mailed to out of county landlords. One check goes to a producer in Ohio. Not included in the checks received here Saturday were 117 contracts. There are 48 of this number which have been sent back here for further explanation. Payment on these will come at a later date, Griffin disclosed.

The county agent estimated that well over $200,000 would come to Howard county in direct payments in return for participation in the cotton campaign.

May Affect NRA'S Price Control Power

Battle To Determine Industry's Right To Fix Or Refuse To Fix Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major engagement over the issue of price-fixing is to be fought out soon before the federal trade commission.

Ostensibly, the dispute involves only comparatively small interests of three rubber companies. Developments seem likely to transform it into another celebrated industrial case, which would basically affect NRA's price control powers.

Object of the battle is to determine the industry's right to fix or refuse to fix prices.

WASHINGTON BY GEORGE DUENO

Gene Howe, Texas editor and philosopher, recently brought James W. Gerard's list of America's fifty ruling men up to date and decided that Franklin D. Roosevelt was all of them at the moment.

Had Howe been picking the men in whom the public is most interested he would have had to add several names to his list.

President Roosevelt naturally inspires the most curiosity of any man in public life. His name is on every tongue. One and all want to know a hundred different things about him.

There are two other officials about whom all Washington travelers are asked, and who are most queried about in letters to the capital.

Ranking second to the president is General Hugh B. Johnson, boss of NRA. He has been so explosively colorful as to catch the public fancy.

Everyone wants to know just what kind of a man the general really is and whether this and that story about him is true.

Lucky—The third man arousing general inquisitiveness—judging from mail and reports of those who have been on tour—is Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, newly commissioned Undersecretary of Agriculture and popular choice for Number One position in the Brain Trust.

Tugwell is to a considerable degree the beneficiary of a deliberate "build-up" by forces opposing the Roosevelt administration. These anti's haven't dared yet to attack F. D. R. directly and have picked the handsome college professor as the most vulnerable epitome of all they don't like.

To mix up an expression, Tugwell has come to the fore backwards. Most of the Washington newspaper men don't like him par-

Host Of Fight Notables Included In Cast For "Prizefighter And The Lady", Baer-Carnera Cinema

Picture Made Before Historical Championship Scrap In Gotham

Myrna Loy, Max Baer, Primo Carnera, Jack Dempsey, Walter Huston and Otto Kruger comprise the distinguished group of actors and sporting personalities gathered together by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for "The Prizefighter and the Lady," a gripping story of the prize ring which starts today as the attraction at the Queen theatre.

Miss Loy, last seen in "Night Flight" and "Penthouse," has recently established herself as one of the most popular and outstanding of the screen's feminine stars. Baer, challenger-up for the heavyweight championship of the world, and generally acknowledged as the most colorful fighter in the prize ring today, makes his first screen appearance in this picture and has been called a virile exponent of the new vogue in leading men. Carnera, heavyweight champion of the world, also faces the cameras for the first time in his ten-round fight with Baer in "The Prizefighter and the Lady." The giant heavyweight's battle with his challenger before the time set for their real fight is without precedent and has aroused the interest of the entire world of sports. Their film bout is refereed by none other than the famous Dempsey.

The plot of the new film, based on a story by Francis Marion, depicts the career of a hard-boiled youngster who rises from the position of "bouncer" in a speakeasy to that of a fighter of championship calibre. The sensational scenes laid against the colorful sports background, the romantic interlude with the night-club entertainer and the difficulties placed in the way of the fighter by a racketeer gunman provide the elements of what is described as the most realistic and absorbing story of the prize ring ever to reach the screen.

Walter Huston plays the role of the booze-ridden, down-at-the-heel fight manager who recognizes in Baer championship material and trains him for his fights. The part, a "natural" for Huston, marks another step forward in this actor's brilliant career. Prominent roles are also filled by Otto Kruger as the racketeer, Vince Barnett, Robert McWade, Muriel Evans and Jean Howard. Scores of internationally famous ex-champions and their contemporaries appear in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature to add realism to the great prize fight sequences. Among these great fighters of yesterday are Jess Willard, James Jeffries, Frank Moran, Joe Rivers and Billy Panke. "The Prizefighter on the Lady" was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, responsible for such photoplay successes as "Tarzan, the Ape Man" and "Trader Horn."

'Operator 13' Is Thrilling Story Of Spy

Marion Davies And Gary Cooper Have Leading Roles In Film

The wealth of detail that a historical motion picture production demands to insure its authenticity is revealed in "Operator 13," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's co-starring vehicle for Marion Davies and Gary Cooper, which opens today at the Ritz Theatre.

The production is based upon the thrilling spy story, "Operator 13," the last best-seller novel written by the master story-teller Robert W. Chambers, before his death last year. The production is centered around the earlier years of the Civil War when the South seemed certain of winning the conflict and at a time, with the Confederate forces dangerously threatening Washington, D. C. when the labors of spies, both Union and Confederate, provided many of the dramatic incidents of all military history.

To film such a story called for a great labor of research and exploration into many of the historical libraries and societies of the North and South before the first foot of film could be exposed. And it befell the corps of research experts at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Research department to solve the following problems: Military telegraph forms, with the proper wording for a report of a Union defeat, were needed and found. Accurate color plates of all uniforms, both Union and Confederate, of officers, privates, color bearers, infantry and cavalry were requested and produced.

The garb of a Union civilian spy, worn by Gary Cooper, as well as his military uniforms, were correctly reproduced in the studio wardrobe department. The United States flag, with correct number of stars and the Confederate flag of 1862 were demanded and found. Original photographs of cannon and caissons of the period were needed and many of them were unearthed from ancient Southern attics.

The types of saddles and harness used by various branches of the service in both armies, were asked for and were reproduced for the picture. In addition to the material "props" collected for the picture, a huge library of every Civil War subject was collected to serve as a reference source during the production. Two holidays that are observed the world over are Christmas and New Year's.

All In A Day's Work

This may be all in a day's work for a spy but we strongly suspect that Marion Davies is working in a little pleasure in her intrigues with Gary Cooper, who stars opposite her in "Operator 13." The show, playing currently at the Ritz, is a story of the Civil War when the South threatened the nation's capital and the spying system was worked up to a keen pitch.

Barbara Stanwyck Given Better Roll As Square Shooting Lady Gambler Who Win At Two Games

Film Offers More Glamour To Characterization Than Other Shows

Barbara Stanwyck has been given an entirely different role from any which she has portrayed, in the new Warner Bros. production of "Gambling Lady," which comes to the Ritz Theatre on Friday for a two day run. In that character part is both a glamorous and a sympathetic one.

In the majority of pictures she has portrayed hard and some, what loose women such as she did "Baby Face," "Ladies They Talk About," "Illlicit" and "Ten Cents a Dance." In these she made a success by her sheer power of characterization, rather than by winning sympathy for the part.

In "Ever in My Heart" while there was nothing of the playfully about her, she was placed in a drab surroundings as also in "The Purchase Price." These were supreme characterizations but lacked the glamor of her present role. In "Gambling Lady" she is a gambler, but the square, straight-shooting poker player that ever shuffled the pasteboards.

Not only is she or the level in cards but in the game of love and life. She can take it on the chin for her husband in order to save him from the charge of murder which he gets into a mess with another woman. As the gambling lady she plays only in the fashionable night clubs frequented by millionaire men-about-town and in the brilliant Casino of Monte Carlo. Later, wedded to a wealthy society man, she is seen in the parlors of the upper world, although she is never adverse to taking a fling at the ponies or putting some society beauty over the hurdles for her jewels or what have you.

Miss Stanwyck is supported by two leading men, Joel McCrea in the role of a society man and Pat O'Brien, as a race horse gambler, both of whom are in love with her. Claire Dodd is the other woman, a homewrecker, who makes a play for Barbara's husband.

The picture is based on the thrilling story by Doris Malloy which is climaxed by a murder for which McCrea is arrested, and which he can not explain without bringing dishonor on a woman. The story also reveals the grip on city life of the gambling syndicates and the methods they employ to take cash from the suckers.

Others in the cast include C. Aubrey Smith, Philip Reed, Phillip Faversham, Robert Elliott, Willard Robertson, Arthur Vinton and Ferdinand Gottschalk. Archie Mayo directed the picture.

Merry Frinks Are Comical

Show Promises To Be One Of Most Hilarious Comedies Of Season

What promises to be one of the most hilarious comedies of the season is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Queen Theatre beginning next Wednesday, where it will appear under the title of "The Merry Frinks." Certainly the story by Gene Markay and Kathryn Seola is a most humorous tale which deals with a selfish and quarrelsome family that learns its lesson when the harassed and self-sacrificing mother gets fed up and quits them cold. Novel Theme Is Effected For Cagney

'Jimmy The Gent' Built Around New Sort Of A Racket, Heir Chasing

James Cagney's latest starring production for Warner Bros., "Jimmy the Gent," which comes to the Ritz Theatre on Tuesday, carries a theme so novel and unusual that the picture promises to be one of the laughing sensations of the screen.

The picture is based on the hilarious comedy romance by Laird Doyle and Ray Nazarro and concerns a couple of heir chasers who are rivals both in business and in love. Their efforts to dig up heirs, money or otherwise, to vast estates in order to collect fortunes for which there are not claimants, are as funny as they are revealing of their unscrupulousness.

Cagney, as the tough mug racketeer, and Alan Dinehart, a polished grafter who steals the baby's candy while he sips tea and talks of ethics, leave no stone unturned in their efforts to discredit each other in order to win the lovely Bette Davis, who has the role of an investigator entirely innocent of the two men's methods of her boss, Dinehart.

It is not until the smashing climax in which Cagney huris his rival off a steamship after a hotly royal that Bette's eyes are opened to the perfidy of her luxury-loving boss. Alice White as a 'tumb and somewhat mushy cutie' together with Allen Jenkins, her lover and right hand man to Cagney, have been placed in roles that should add considerable to the fun of the piece.

Cagney is said to have put over on his director and Warner executives a specially designed bait, with cards showing beneath, that is a laugh just in itself. It is claimed that Cagney deliberately sets out to make his tough mug characterizations humorously funny, and judging from his past performances this can be readily credited.

While the star is said to pull his usual amount of rough stuff he is also called upon to take it, for, according to the story, Bette Davis lands on him plenty before she finally falls for his blandishments.

There is a well balanced cast, others in more important parts including Arthur Hoff, Philip Reed, Hobart Cavanaugh, Mayo Methot, Ralph Harold, Phil Faversham and Nora Lane. Michael Curiz directed from the screen play by Bertram Milhauser.

There is an unusually strong cast of comedy characters in the picture, although several of the members play their parts straight. In fact the Frinks are said to be anything but merry themselves. It is the comical situations into which they are plunged by their obstreperousness that makes merry for the spectator.

Aline MacMahon one of the most versatile actresses of both stage and screen, has the leading role of "Mum" Frink, who tries to keep her family happy, and finally gives up in disgust only to find that she can not resist her play without her worthless husband and children.

Guy Kibbee has the role of Uncle Newt, who drops in on a family not overburdened with money, and implants himself as a free boarder with an extraordinary appetite. With Hugh Herbert as the shiftless but good natured husband and Allen Jenkins, the Bolshevik, who forms one of the best comedy teams imaginable.

Helen Lowell, the famous stage star, has the part of Grandma Frink, who scolds everyone and criticizes everything, including the Scotch which she swipes from her son's pants pocket. Joan Wheeler, also recently from Broadway, plays the part of the selfish daughter who thinks she has a voice and must be temperamental, while Frankie Darro is another son with an ambition to become a prize fighter.

There is a large and talented supporting cast which includes Ivan Lebedeff, Harold Huber, Louise Beavers, Mabel Turner, Harry C. Hardley, James Bush, Charles Coleman and Joan Sheklar.

Markay and Seola adapted their own story for the screen and Alfred E. Green directed it.

Consolidation Of Adjacent Common School Districts Is Considered By 3 Communities

Meetings looking toward consolidation of three adjacent common school districts into one strong district were held at Moore, Fairview and Highway the past week.

The move, apparently gaining favor as a result of the meetings, was at highest pitch in Fairview where more than the required number of qualified voters signed a petition asking for consolidation election.

Moore, where only passive interest was manifested, turned out almost no mass for the meeting. Highway also furnished a good audience for discussions on the proposed election for consolidation.

Those who spoke in the three meetings favored combining of the districts as means of improving schooling facilities. They pointed out that consolidation would in no wise increase tax rates since the statutes of the consolidated district would be the same as that of a common school district.

Fire Burns Grass On Five Sections In Pecos County

burned off about five sections of grass at the Jones place on the Pecos river, fifteen miles southwest of Barstow in Reeves county. H. F. Anthony of Pecos controls the land burned.

Mr. Anthony hurried twenty men to the fire and fought it for 24 hours before bringing it under control, and then only when a sudden change of wind carried the flames back over an area already burned.

This is the second fire in that section recently and ranchmen are going to be compelled to keep fishermen off their holdings unless more care for the prevention of fires is used. Grass is very scarce now and the ranchmen can ill afford it destruction by careless fishermen.

Panhandle Derby Day At Amarillo Monday, June 25 To Close 9-Day Session Of Tri-State Race Meet

AMARILLO.—Practically all of the Panhandle will be "off to the races" here Monday, June 25. It will be Panhandle Derby Day, ending the nine-day Tri-State racing meet.

There will be hands from at least six Panhandle cities and as an added feature there will be a Candidates Race.

Senator Clint Small, Panhandle candidate for governor, Walter Woodward, Coleman, candidate for attorney-general; Lon Smith, candidate for re-election as a member of the railroad commission, Joe Moore of Greenville, candidate for Lieutenant Governor and other names have been named from Amarillo.

The quality of its management is unexcelled—during the trying years of depression hardly an important stock company has experienced the slightest financial difficulty. As in the past, it continues to be the bulwark of industry—the agency which makes possible the building of homes and factories, the extension of credit, the normal routine of commerce and trade.

The fire insurance industry has reason to be proud of its record. And so has the general public, which reaps the benefits.

HOW TO PLEASURE THE BURGLAR

While everyone else on vacation, the burglar has his busiest season. L. A. Sawyer, burglary expert of the National Bureau of Criminality and Surety Underwriters, says there are certain signs that always gladden his heart.

He likes to see an accumulation of milk bottles and newspapers at doors, and always is pleased to note that mail boxes are full to running over with letters and circulars.

He approves of windows that have shades pulled down.

He becomes much more confident when he sees the garage door open, and notes that the car is gone.

The burglar, continues Mr. Sawyer, is delighted to find doors fastened with fragile locks that give way to the slightest pressure. He has praise for the householder who depends upon simple catches for windows which are accessible from the ground, the roof, fire-escape or from broad copings along which he can climb. He does not like such things as thumb screw catches which hold the window firm, he can not get at them with a jimmy.

Inside the house the burglar likes to find that the housewife has placed ed all of her silver in a compartment of the sideboard. He likes to find the furs in a moth bag with opera cloaks and special dinner gowns.

If there is one thing that adds zest to the search of the visitor it is the practice of some housewives in hiding jewelry and money under carpets, rugs, in carelessly hung clothing, or in mattresses, pillows or the davenport. It is a game to him and he knows all the plays. It does not take long for him to win.

What the burglar does not like, Mr. Sawyer concludes is to find strong locks on doors, special protection on windows, extra catches on dumbwaiters and after entering, to discover that all the movable valuables have been stored elsewhere.

TWO-BILLION-FIVE-HUNDRED-MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF PURCHASING POWER

In a recent editorial, the American Builder points to the need for stimulating home-building as an aid to general recovery. Sixty per cent of all urban homes in the country need extensive repairs. Fifty per cent still lack such essentials to civilized living as piped hot water, inside flush toilets, and central heating systems. Twenty per cent are badly overcrowded, due to the doubling up of families. And in rural areas the condition of the average home is still worse as far as comforts and conveniences are concerned.

It is reliably estimated that the present housing need totals about 800,000 units. If they could be built and cost but $3,000 each, a very modest estimate even at present low construction costs, close to $2,500,000,000 of new purchasing power would be released to find its way through a hundred industries and trades, and into the pockets of a legion of workers, storekeepers, farmers and persons in all callings. On the average, about $2,000,000,000 of chat—eighty per cent—would go to labor.

It is a significant sign that executives in all lines of industry are continually stressing the need for stimulating home-building, as well as other types of construction. Nothing would do more to speed recovery, "Build ourselves into prosperity" is an excellent slogan to remember.

DEMOCRACY IN THE LEGION

A little more than a year ago there was a mild flurry when New York's Willard Straight Post of the American Legion adopted a resolution opposing immediate payment of the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates.

The legion as a whole was for it, and had adopted an order prohibiting any post from making public contrary opinions. When the Straight post did so, it was suspended by the national organization. It went to court.

Now the appellate division of New York's supreme court has upheld the Straight post, directing the national legion to restore it to good standing. Justice Albert Cohn, in his decision said in part that the legion's action had been "contrary to law, unsound in principle, and out of harmony with the noble ideals for which this fine organization was founded."

It is likely that most legionnaires now that the smoke has cleared away, will agree with Justice Cohn, and welcome back the Willard Straight Post with open arms. The bond between men who bore arms together is stronger than any small disagreement over a national policy.

A MERITED TRIBUTE

A philosopher has said, "He whom one age stones, another enthrones." While it may be exaggeration to apply the maxim to the case in mind, it warms the hearts of that generation which stole with trepidation into the attic to reveal in the dime novel exploits of Deadwood Dick to learn that recognition has come at last to the favorite author of their youth.

A bronze-plated cobblestone monument will be reared at Deadwood, S. D., to the memory of Deadwood Dick Clark, Indian scout, frontiersman and hero of dime novels.

The Deadwood Dick thrillers were not literature, it is true. There may have been justice in the parental threat to apply the rod to the luckless youngsters caught reading them.

But memory of them comes back for a moment like a fresh, clean breeze as one turns in disgust from the mass of drivel and worse that masquerades today as literature among our more "advanced" readers.

And Deadwood Dick fans of another day silently cheer those who have remembered across the years to pay tribute to the hero who thrilled them as he triumphed over his foes.

YOU PAY A SALES TAX

In a recent referendum the voters of the state of Oregon decisively defeated a proposal for a general sales tax.

By doing that, the Oregon siccatorate followed an example that has been set by the people of a number of other states and communities.

However, if the voters think that they have eliminated the sales tax, they are badly mistaken. They are paying a sales tax now. They have been paying one in the past. They will pay one in the future.

The corner grocery where you buy your food pays taxes. The concerns which produce his stock likewise pay taxes—heavy ones. Those taxes are necessarily passed on to the consumer as part of the selling price.

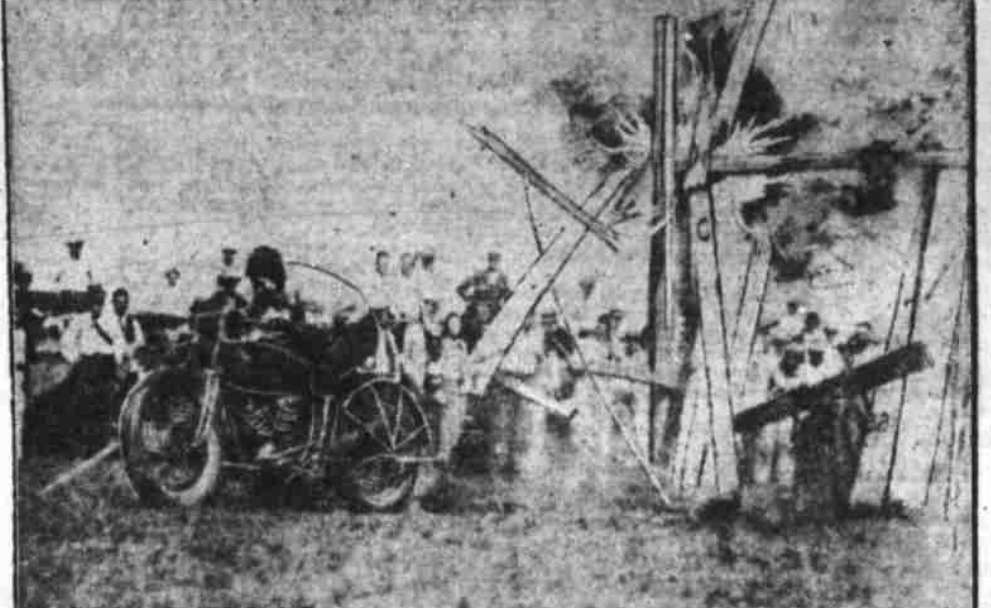

That is true of everything you buy—gasoline or entertainment or food or clothes. Part of every dollar you spend goes for taxes—and the proportion mounts constantly. The fact that the tax isn't apparent means nothing—an indirect tax can be every bit as expensive as a direct one.

The great lesson the people of the United States must learn is that no one can escape taxes—and that exorbitant cost of government threatens our jobs, our savings, our property. When that fact is really implanted in the public mind, there may be a campaign for tax reduction that will get results.

A GREAT RECORD

In his recent annual address, the President of the National Board of Fire Underwriters said: "Stock company fire insurance is the foundation stone of the entire financial and economic structure. Its efficient functioning and solvency are of immediate and vital concern to every citizen of the country, be he rich or poor; and if there were any failure, or even apprehension of failure, the need for prompt and sweeping governmental action for the purpose of putting fire insurance upon a sound basis would be even more imperative than it has been in the case of... other essential instrumentalities of our national life. It is, however, a fact of impressive significance that since the depression began there has been no suggestion that powers of government should be used to repair defects of the stock fire insurance system... By common consent, even among radical theorists, it has for generations past so done its work and so demonstrated its economic adequacy and social value that only harm could result from further governmental interference..."

No industry has done more that is beneficial to the public at large.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 23
ANOKI

"Andrews, fingerprints do not lie."

"These must, I tell you, I knew nothing about it. Besides, I was at the Austerlitz last night. You know that."

"Sure, I know it. You've got an ironed shirt. Quite true, but there was more than one in this plot."

"When I got to the Austerlitz, why were you so nervous, Andrews? I hadn't yet told my news, but you were already upset, jumpy. Why were you so agitated when I insisted on rousing your master? Why all this, if you knew nothing about what had happened?"

Once again the man exhibited all the signs of an intense inward struggle to repress an emotional strain. By sheer force of will Andrews pulled himself together. "I had strict orders not to disturb Mr. Dufresne on any account." He faltered on, "You see, sir, I knew he was intoxicated and didn't want a stranger to see him in that condition."

"You're lying, Andrews. There's something else. Mr. Dufresne was more than half drunk when I left him the first time."

Sergeant Harper spoke out of the certitude of his conviction. The butler's words were plausible, yet but there was that indefinable something in his tone that convinced the detective that Andrews was uneasy at mention of the Austerlitz surprise visit.

"Furthermore," Harper continued "some one spied on us while we were searching the cellar this morning. The result was the hiding of the gun that had been in Mr. Dufresne's room. Those are overt acts and some one is going to answer for them."

Andrews's eyes glinted as he squared his shoulders and faced the detective squarely. "If you think I am guilty, I'd prefer that you repeat those charges before Mr. Dufresne," he challenged.

"That's not a bad idea," Harper snapped and strode over to the ball. Dufresne made a prompt appearance.

The detective repeated the account of his discovery and placed both letter and goblet before the dapper man, silent and attentive until Harper had finished.

Then Dufresne pushed the exhibits aside without a glance. "I'm not surprised that you've come to some such idiotic conclusion," he said. "There is no question as to Andrews' loyalty. I would as soon accuse myself." He put his hand on the old man's shoulder with a gesture of affection.

Harper's anger mounted, too.

'Super' Tourney

GUS MORELAND

When Gus Moreland of Dallas starts after his third straight Trans-Mississippi golfing crown June 25 he will find what is expected to be the toughest field in the tourney's history challenging him at the Brook Hollow club. A record breaking crowd of nearly 400 golfers, including many of the country's most consistent sub-par shooters, will play in the tourney, planned as a tribute to the two-time winner and Walker cupper.

the break-fast-room and betook himself to the cellar. Two square rubbish boxes stood under the stairs.

One contained crumpled paper bags, discarded advertising matter and waste paper of various sorts. Scattered here and there among these were slips from the pad Mrs. Dufresne used for writing out questions and answers since her surgical wrappings had enforced muteness.

There were about a dozen in all and Harper quickly gathered them, not stopping to read them there. He had snapped off his light and was about to ascend when he heard footsteps on the stairs and placid-faced John Whitmore appeared, carrying an armload of empty boxes.

"Whitmore," Harper began, "have you the time to do a little job for me?"

The handy man nodded eagerly, delighted to have a finger in this most superlative of thrillers.

The detective lowered his voice to the proper conspiratorial pitch. "I want you to go to all the rooms upstairs, empty the waste-baskets, and bring direct to me what you find in them."

"But I emptied them all first thing this morning," Whitmore whispered.

Harper nodded. "I know you did, but do it again. That includes Mrs. Dufresne's room. Act very casual about it, so no one will suspect anything. Understand?"

"Oh, yes, sir," Whitmore responded with alacrity. "I'll go right away."

Harper followed him upstairs and was walking through the dark-paneled hall when he saw that familiar figure in the huge fur coat making toward the front door. "My I have a word with you, Doctor!" he called and Dr. Ulrich swung around.

"How is Mrs. Dufresne today?" Harper asked.

"Doing well enough," Ulrich responded rather curtly.

"When will she be able to talk? I have some questions to ask her."

"She is not to talk for several days, at least. That is final. If you questions can't wait, I'll arrange an interview. She can write out the answer for you, but I insist on being present."

"Thanks, but I prefer to hear the answers from her own lips."

"Well, then, you'll have to wait," Ulrich snapped, his waxed moustache bristling and his black eyes glaring behind his gold-rimmed glasses.

Harper watched his brusque departure from the vestibule, curious to know the reason for the big doctor's animosity. He returned to the breakfast-room and set down to study the salvaged slips that bore Sylvia Dufresne's writing. There was absolutely nothing to be gleaned from the contents themselves and the detective could see no points of similarity between Mrs. Dufresne's swiftly paced and essentially feminine style and the broad incisive strokes of the anonymous penman. The longer he pored over the letters the former became his conviction that a man had written them.

There was something about the sequence of events that baffled penetration.

TICKS FOUND IN EAR OF MAN WHO HEARD BUZZING

LOMETA—Alfred Saegert, who manages the S. J. Smith farm and ranch north of town, heard a peculiar buzzing sound the other day. This being the rattlesnake season, he investigated thoroughly, but found no reptile—and still the buzzing persisted. So he decided to go to one of the hospitals at Temple for a thorough examination, where they removed a tick from the eardrum of each ear. Mr. Saegert still has the two ticks in captivity, but this time in a glass vial. He does not propagate, at least in the open.

ticularly because of his aloof manner. Under ordinary circumstances he would be the beneficiary of very little publicity.

Johnson makes news with almost every breath. His threats, bluffs and actual deeds—coupled with his picturesque language on the speaking platform and over the radio—have whetted the public imagination for full details.

In this respect he is apart from Tugwell as the poles. It took Dr. Wirt and "Cotton Ed" Smith, plus the forces behind them, to really make the professor a national figure.

Tugwell acquitted himself admirably in the opinion of most observers the day his fitness for office was questioned by certain members of the senate. He got a big break from the inept performance of his inquisitors. Had he stumbled at all the headlines would have read differently because Tugwell treats most reporters like backward students in his old classes at Columbia.

Much ado has been made over the palatial quarters of Comrade Alexander Troyanovsky, new ambassador from Russia. He reopened the magnificently appointed house used by envoys of the old Czarist regime and has been entertaining lavishly.

New summer is here. Diplomatic row has made it a practice for voters to establish hot weather embassies and legations at the sea-

Mexican 'Shoplifter' Captured Underneath Residence At 605 Lancaster St. By City Officers

Henry Balbuena, Mexican youth, who said he was registered at the transient bureau, after having come to Big Spring three days ago from Los Angeles, was in the city jail Saturday night, after being captured by City Officers, Coffey, Thornton, Choate and Bethel, aided by several others, facing a charge of theft of goods from J. C. Penney company. The robbery occurred about 6 p. m.

Balbuena was seen by Mrs. Anna Cravens of the clerical staff of the Penney company store to have taken three suits of ladies' pajamas and crum them underneath his overalls. Mrs. Cravens, seeing the Mexican was going to leave the store, asked him if he was going to pay for the goods he had under his overalls. The Mexican was reported to have slapped Mrs. Cravens' hand and made a hurried exit. Winston Mammel another member of the clerical force in the store, gave chase. He was aided by "Bullie" Smith and Dub Rankin, who were near the store when the chase began.

The Mexican was chased south on Main and into Fifth street. At this point the Mexican jumped on the side of a car driven by J. E. Bridges, 106 West Eighteenth street and ordered Bridges to "step on it." Bridges said the Mexican pointed at him with what looked like a pistol underneath the coat. Bridges said he attempted to turn down Runnels toward the business district, but the Mexican grabbed the steering wheel and turned up Runnels and ordered Bridges out of the car at the point of the supposed pistol.

Balbuena took the wheel and turned west on Sixth street. By this time officers and others had joined in the chase, and the Mexican, evidently sensing his ultimate capture, abandoned the car on Sixth street near Lancaster, ran across the street and crawled underneath the residence of Pete Vanderpeit, 605 Lancaster, where officers later captured him and brought him to the city jail. The clothing articles were returned to the J. C. Penney store.

At the city jail Saturday night Balbuena told a Herald reporter that another man had told him to wait outside the store and he would bring out some clothes for him to take underneath his overalls, and that he would meet him down the street. Officers discredited this story and employes of the store were almost positive that Balbuena was the man who took the clothing inside the store.

Asked how he got the idea of faking a gun underneath his shirt, the Mexican replied: "I read about that in a detective magazine."

Chief Thornton said when he ordered the Mexican to come out from under the house on Lancaster the Mexican replied: "Me come out! Me come out!"

shore or in the mountains, according to taste.

The Soviet ambassador's friends on the Russian steps would die of envy if they could see the summer estate he has just leased in the Blue Ridge mountains about 55 miles from Washington.

It is a 475-acre affair built originally by the late Frank C. Carpenter, the travel writer, located several miles from Bluemont, Va., at a 1,500-foot elevation overlooking the Shenandoah Valley.

A sumptuous stone building with all modern improvements serves as the master house. Another attractive structure is a library with additional guest rooms above. The third main building was set up as a children's house but serves admirably for the playtime of adults. A tennis court, barn, garage, caretaker's lodge and similar supplementary features complete the mountain layout.

But the most impressive to the visitor is the gigantic swimming pool, built above ground. It is a very large tank made of field stone and cement. Constructed on a hillside, one end may be entered from the ground. Unique ladders permit access at the far end.

Camp-Site—
Mrs. Frances Carter Huntington, half beneficiary of her father's estate did not stop with leasing the Carpenter place to Troyanovsky. Having plans of her own she undertook to give the Blue Ridge a real diplomatic rendezvous.

While she and her husband, William Huntington, another socially prominent writer, are touring Europe in quest of material, their own attractive place on the adjacent Mount Weather is being occupied for the summer by Herr Rudolf Leitner, Counselor of the German Embassy, and his Frau-lein.

A spot on Mount Weather was picked out by Calvin Coolidge as a summer camp-site for his successors. He had congress appropriate $68,000 to improve and modernize the buildings of an abandoned station of the U. S. Weather Bureau. Mr. Hoover did not care for the site, returned the $68,000 to the treasury and built his own camp on the Rapidan.

Cinema—
As soon as the Darrow Board finally turns in its legions you may expect a radical revamping of the movie code.

FAMOUS TORTURE CAR COMING

Here is the famous Torture Car operated by the Magnolia Petroleum Company without radiator and without water to demonstrate the superior qualities of Mobilgas and Mobiloil. The car will stop over here en route from Hawaii to the Atlantic Coast.

Without radiator—without water, a Magnolia Torture Tour car, en route from the Hawaiian Islands to the Atlantic Coast, is expected to arrive in Big Spring for a stop-over, Wednesday, June 27 with A. L. Rogers, local agent for the Magnolia Petroleum company. The local visit is a part of a tour thru Magnolia Island to demonstrate the superior qualities of Mobilgas and Mobiloil.

Residents of this city will have an opportunity to witness the most brutal punishment ever devised for an automobile engine when the Torture Car arrives, the Magnolia agent said. Stripping the engine entirely of its cooling system was selected as the most grueling test which could be made to demonstrate the efficiency of Mobilgas and Mobiloil in the torrid heat of midsummer.

Administrator Sol Rosenblatt. Blue Eagle headquarters met this onslaught valiantly, denying everything. But there is reason to expect that an important revision of the code authority set-up will be ordered soon. The theatre owners as well as the independent producers have been squawking about lack of representation. Rosenblatt will hold his job as long as Johnson does, according to the informed at NRA.

Radical—
Secretaryicles was principal speaker at the recent graduation exercises at Northwestern University.

Washington hears that a large section of the faculty complained about a man with such "radical" views doing the honors. But the invitation was already extended.

Notes—
Congress has paved the way for a splendid memorial to Thomas Jefferson to be set up at Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues at the foot of the Capitol. Regulation of securities because of its far-reaching control of corporation is given first place in the list of acts of congress. Senator Borah will make up on the stump for his silence in congress.

Washington president before FDR would have dared to leave Washington with so many critical problems pending. He just laughs and goes ahead. House Republicans are not satisfied with the leadership they had during this session. New members say they were snubbed.

NEW YORK
BY JAME McMULLIN

Utilities—
The Knoxville wrangle between TVA and Tennessee Public Service sounds like the trumpet of Armageddon to utility leaders.

Bitter is a pale word to describe their feelings. They claim that government camouflage about TVA as a yardstick to measure utility rates is torn away at last and TVA is revealed as a gun at their temple.

Breath—
Tomopotch legal talent doesn't believe the customary defense about confiscation without due process of law will work. TVA isn't going to seize the property. Instead it made an offer to purchase—which the Tennessee company was at liberty to accept or reject. It's hard to twist that into confiscation, though the lawyers will have a good game try.

Note that TVA was cagey enough to pick on an operating unit wholly owned by a holding company. No individual stockholder will be hit directly. That means one large corporate opponent for the small ones who might arouse sympathy. Tennessee Public Service is a relatively small concern and loss of its income won't damage National Power and Light irreparably. But the principle involved may be a matter of life or death to the holding group.

Epitaph—
New York comments that Mayor LaGuardia's decision to get rid of the city's official celebrity-greeting ship Mascot must have wrenched tears from Grover Whalen. Many's the time he's made the headlines from her decks.

The Mascot's fame derives from Rodman Wasmaker's desire for the limelight. Whalen induced him to remodel the ship shortly after becoming Chairman of Mayor Hylan's committee for the reception of distinguished guests. The remodeling was a gift but the city has had to shell out $25,000 a year for the Mascot's upkeep ever since and the new mayor couldn't see the point.

Sidelights—
Suggested epitaph for the Macomb: "In memory of the publicity methods of yesteryear, by the taxpayers of New York."

mind still clouded by drugs and the shock of her fantastic experience, Mrs. Sibyl Fidanca, 39, radio singer and wife of a Panama canal zone business man, who said she was kidnaped last Saturday from her home in San Jose, Calif., reached here Friday at the home of an El Paso deputy sheriff, while her son, Jack, hurried to El Paso from San Jose by plane.

Tells Story at Hotel
Both Sheriff Chris P. Fox of El Paso and J. A. Street, department of justice agent, expressed conviction that the woman is Mrs. Fidanca.

Ray Arnold, clerk at the Hotel McCoy, here, where Mrs. Fidanca registered last Wednesday night, called officers Friday after she related her story to him.

"People really wouldn't recognize me unless I smiled," she explained, referring to her large front teeth as a mark of identification. "The kidnappers dyed my hair from black to red and I look haggard. I've been through a lot. I can laugh now, but several days ago, I couldn't."

She said she was abducted by a man and woman who called at her home in San Jose June 19. She said she was forced to swallow and smell drugs and that her mind "went blank." She said she believed she came to El Paso by bus, but wasn't certain.

Examination by a county jail matron Friday afternoon showed that her body bore scars on the abdomen and back which San Jose police had listed as marks of identification. Later, she talked by long-distance telephone with her son, Jack, 20, in San Jose, and his recognition of her voice was considered by officers here to have removed the last doubt of her identification.

Clint Small

The remainder of next week will contain campaign days than Senator Small has yet seen, during his present campaign for the governorship. After speaking at Big Spring Wednesday night, he will make seven appearances Thursday. Friday's schedule calls for a tour through Albany at 10 a. m., Throckmorton at 11:15, Seymour at 2:30, Monday at 4:30, and Haskell at 8 p. m.

Senator Small was happy here over the way voters received him in the sawmill towns of Southeast Texas. "I think I have a splendid chance to lead the ticket in that section of the state, Houston, Beaumont, and Port Arthur, with all their surrounding territory, have been mighty good to me on this trip and I'll have lots of votes from there in this primary," Small declared.

Candidates' Speeches Take Sharper Note As Time For July 28th Primaries Draws Near

Knott residents heard the pleas of candidates Friday night in the second group political meeting within the week.
Tuesday the candidates had moved on Gay Hill.
Speeches continued to strike a sharper note and deal more pointedly with personalities and issues as time of the July 28 primary moved a notch closer.
Saturday afternoon there was to have been a district attorney's speaking in Stanton, but Saturday noon there was some doubt that the meeting would be held.

Speaking Dates For District Candidates Only Announced

The three candidates for District Attorney, Cecil Collins and Frank Stubbeman, and the three candidates for District Judge, C. L. Klapproth, Clyde E. Thomas and Paul Moss, have arranged for the following speaking dates:
Stanton, July 7th, Saturday, (Dist. Atty. only),
Odessa, July 12th, Thursday,

Payment Of Bollworm Claims Strikes Hitch In Austin

Payment of pink bollworm claims struck a major hitch in Austin the latter part of the week when the claims board presented regulations to the state comptroller for issuance of warrants.
The comptroller balked at issuing warrants in payment of claims where the tenant and landlord were involved and where only one—either the tenant or landlord, had signed the affidavit.
It was the opinion of the comptroller that he could legally only issue the warrant in payment of claims to the one who signed.
A conference between members of the claims board and the comptroller was held and the matter taken to the attorney general's office.

Air Circus Director

REG ROBBINS
Noted Fort Worth flier, who established an endurance record in that city several years ago, is directing the air circus at the Wilson farm 5 miles southwest of the city beginning at 2:15 this afternoon under auspices of the Buffalo Trails Boy Scout council. Robbins has a corps of aviators who have been staging thrilling stunts throughout Texas this year.

A written opinion from the attorney general was demanded by the comptroller and may not be forthcoming for several days.
Fred W. Davis, chairman of the claims board, dispatched a strong letter to the attorney general, expressing his belief that all points of legislation concerning the reimbursements had been met and urged payment of warrants without further delay.
The board delivered firm regulations to the comptroller last week and was in a position to have delivered regulations to the comptroller for payment on all Howard county claims not later than Tuesday.

Two Negroes Taken Here

Officers Return Prisoners To Henderson To Face Charges Of Robbery

Special Ranger George Mullins and a Henderson county deputy were given custody of Henry Johnson and Lennie Miles, negroes, Saturday morning.

SCOUT NEWS

Scouts today are as much interested in the airshow staged by Reg Robbins and his troupe as anything else. It is appearing here under the auspices of the local district of the council. Unfortunately it comes on the same date as the final outdoor session for scouts. Scouts planned to go to a new location for their last outdoor camp. They planned to leave in a group Saturday afternoon because it is almost impossible to tell anyone where the spot is. Suffice it to say it is in the canyon pasture of the Hardy Morgan place and offers an almost unbelievably shady retreat. The hot weather, or something, has the best of scouts when it comes to matters of advancement. The other night when a board of review was scheduled at the First Baptist church, only three scouts with tests to be checked appeared. They were examined but it was such a poor showing that a Court of Honor planned for Friday evening had to be cancelled. Moreover, all the scouts coming before the board were from one troop. Two were examined for second class and one satisfied requirements for a life badge. Interest, a little low for awhile, is picking up as time for annual summer camp nears. The number planning to go seems to be on the upsurge hereabouts. Troop No. 3 will have about ten camping, according to present indications. Troop No. 5 has tentative promises from more than fifteen. Other troops have not reported. As has been said in the past, the camp this year will be held at Mertzon, twenty-two miles west of San Angelo. The campsite is the one used by the Concho Valley camp and has a beautiful, spacious building for headquarters. There is an abundance of shade and a clear, deep swimming hole. The fees will be the same as last year, except there will be no cut for the two week period. That, apparently, is not dampening the ardor of scouts for the two weeks idea. Troop No. 5 is going down for the first week. Many of the bunch will stay two weeks. Troop No. 7, sending probably not more than three boys, may be under the supervision of No. 5 scoutmaster. SNAP JUDGMENTS don't go here!

"Hard boiled"? No. Too conservative? Not that, either. We just recognize a dual obligation—to accept and safeguard deposits and extend large credit lines year after year to sound business and responsible customers. Snap judgments don't go here. The character of every person applying for a loan is thoroughly analyzed. And then that application must be passed by the Executive Board—thereby making your protection complete.
