CCC Camp Personnel To Arrive In Big Spring July 23rd; Rush Work

Capt. Martin Here To Let Building Bids

Lumber Dealers Get Specifications; Bids To Be Opened Tuesday

Captain Tom B. Martin, of Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, arrived in Big Spring Saturday morning to make final plans for beginning of construction of the Civilian Conservation Corps camp housing units, eight in number.

Captain Martin is attached to CCC unit—Captain Martin arrived here shortly before a telegram from Major Howland, in charge of CCC camps in Texas, with headquarters in San Antonio, stated that the camp site as selected by Captain Pearce on the south side of Scenic Mountain had been approved and ordered the city to expedite installation of water facilities at the site. The telegram further stated that the personnel of the company would arrive in Big Spring July 23.

The site on Scenic Mountain was selected several days ago by Captain Pearce. The government stipulated that the city supply ample water facilities before designation of a camp could be made here. The city had previously promised this assistance.

City Manager E. V. Spence announced late Saturday afternoon that an easement had been obtained from W. F. Edwards for building of a 2-inch main from the Edwards Heights water reservoir to the site of the camp, about one-half mile. Work of laying the pipe will begin Tuesday morning, Spence said. Relief labor will be used, he said. The city will make use of salvaged pipe from the water works department.

Captain Martin called lumber dealers of the city into conference at the chamber of commerce office Saturday morning to submit specifications for the eight housing units, 20x120 feet, to be constructed for housing facilities in the camp here. Seven lumber firms were represented, including S. P. Jones Lumber company, Burton-Lingo, Mid-West Lumber company, H. H. Hardin, Wm. Cameron, Rockwell Brothers and Stahlman Lumber company. Each firm was given specification blanks for bidding purposes and they will be opened at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the room of Captain Martin at the Crawford Hotel.

Sinclair In Suit Against Cosden Corp.

Would Stop Cosden's Use Of Refining Process In Local Plant

SUPT. COAST SAYS NO BASIS FOR SUIT

Claims Local Concern Is Fully Protected In Using 'Donnelly' Patents

ABILENE—Alleging infringement of patent rights on certain refining processes, the Sinclair Refining company, in an equity suit filed in the United States district court here Friday asked an injunction to restrain the Cosden Oil corporation of Big Spring from the "use of inventions and improvements" involved in the patents cited.

Sinclair, instituting the action as a corporation with home office in New York, asked that a temporary injunction of this nature be granted pending hearing; and also asked that the Cosden company be ordered to render an accounting to the plaintiff concern on all profits earned through use of the alleged infringements and on "all damages caused the plaintiff."

The lengthy petition set out in several patent rights assertedly owned by Sinclair, gave the names of inventors of various refining processes and showed how and when Sinclair came in control of these rights. Several patents were referred to, including processes of "treatment of hydrocarbons," "production of petrol," and "treatment of hydrocarbon oils." These, the petition alleged, were being used unlawfully by the defendant company.

The Sinclair petition alleged its patents were infringed upon through employment by Cosden of the so-called "Donnelly process" or the "Donnelly still" cracking plant method.

An order restraining Cosden from use of this method was asked.

Commenting on the above suit as filed in United States district court in Abilene by Sinclair Refining company, J. W. Coast, superintendent of the Cosden Oil corporation in Big Spring, made the following statement to The Herald Saturday morning:

"The Donnelly patents used in our plant here have been given careful study, and we are thoroughly satisfied that our company is fully protected and there is absolutely no basis for a suit such as that filed by the Sinclair company."

Frisco Unions To Walk Out On Monday

National Guard Lines To Be Strengthened Along Water Front

GOVERNOR SAYS FOOD MUST MOVE

Foodstuffs Scarce In San Francisco; Supplies Congested

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vote for a general strike beginning Monday was cast by the labor committee representing all unions here late Saturday.

Approximately 65,000 men will walk out at 8 a. m. Monday. Other unions which have not cast their ballot to strike were ordered to do so immediately.

The vote by delegation was 61 in favor of going out and three against.

As the strike vote was being taken national guard lines were strengthened in the waterfront area.

The food shortage has become very acute, and the governor repeated his warning that food trucks must come in, and food will be used if the trucks are halted.

Approximately 135,000 men in the metropolitan San Francisco area will be affected directly.

FAMINE THREATENED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Against a threat of famine and disease, officials in San Francisco marshalled forces Saturday and Sunday and decided the decision of union labor which was ready to strike in mass support of its maritime members.

Head light and food supply were declared in assuming "unlimited emergency powers" granted under the city charter.

Virtually the last hope of persuading employers to arbitrate the maritime strike—the critical issue in a projected general strike—vanished as President Roosevelt's labor dispute board reported "no success" after a long meeting with employers.

Meanwhile fresh meats, fruits and vegetables were becoming scarce. Supplies intended for blockaded San Francisco, threatened with almost complete isolation should the ferry-boatmen strike, were reported congested far back into farming areas.

Canning Plant Starts Tuesday

Miss Mayne Lou Parr, supervisor of the beef canning plant being installed here, said Saturday that order had been received from Austin to start operation of the plant Tuesday.

There will be four assistant supervisors, Mrs. Creed Coffey of Big Spring, Mrs. Wiley Davis of B-S-B, Mrs. Dave Leatherwood of Elbow, and Mrs. F. C. Tate of Overton.

Miss Mary Agnes Stone of Galena will have actual charge of the plant. Tuesday will be spent in training workers and actual canning will be started Wednesday. There will be four shifts of workers with thirty-five to the shift.

Ten cattle were slaughtered Saturday, and one hundred were in here being slaughtered by Sunday. Approximately one hundred head of slaughtered cattle will be kept on hand all of the time, Miss Parr said.

Stew and hamburger meat will be canned at the plant here. The hamburger meat will be a coarsely ground product with little seasoning suitable for meat loaf.

Workers will be employed through the re-employment bureau here under Homer McNew.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Irvin of Wink are visiting Mrs. Doug. Perry and Mrs. Willard Jullivan.

Arizona Rancher Slain At Sabinal

SABINAL, (AP)—The fatal shooting of W. R. McNair, rancher from Wilcox, Arizona, at the home of Austin Lewis, his brother-in-law, twenty-five miles north of Sabinal was reported Saturday, officers were informed Lewis, armed with a pair of six-shooters, and a rifle, fled into the hill country and was trying to elude a posse. Motive of the slaying was not revealed.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE HAS BIG JOB ON HANDS AT MERTZON

CAMP LOUIS FARR, MERTZON, Texas (Special)—Does Junior worry you while he is at home? Well, one way to get out of that is to send him to a Boy Scout camp, but pity the poor camp director.

Meet Mr. A. C. Williamson, area executive of the Buffalo Trails council and also director of the area camp. Just at this particular moment he has all your worries multiplied by at least 175 heaped upon his head.

Bombarded as he is fifteen hours a day by mostly foolish questions, he manages at all times to keep that irresistible smile—banning the ordinary man would be swinging in these huge oak trees hiding the camp and muttering meaningless phrases after a couple days of his routine.

Through it all, Williamson, or "Chief" as he is known to every scout, keeps good order and gains obedience to his commands. When he raises his hand for silence, a rushing suddenly falls over the huge, hush mess hall.

When a boy reaches the point he gives the Chief trouble and endangers the morals of the camp, the scoutmaster or leader of the particular boy is quietly asked to attend the case. The trouble is privately erased.

There are two others who have the undying devotion of the camp. Sonley Jones and Preacher Jones, chief and assistant cook, respectively, probably have as much to do as any two darkies since slavery was officially ushered out.

Sonley and Preacher rouse early every morning and manage to have enough food cooked to satisfy nearly 300 ravenous appetites. Before breakfast is over, they start work on lunch (dinner to the boys), and immediately afterwards they go about cooking supper (you may call it dinner in polite civilization).

There is the problem of cooking just enough to satisfy the hunger of the crowd and yet not enough to gorge the lads and leave some to throw away.

Sonley accomplishes this by his infallible measuring with his hands or a bucket. He wouldn't know what you meant if you suggested weighing the materials. He does his seasoning the same way. You can take the words of any one in camp if the food isn't as good as they have ever tasted, if not a little better, and the quality and balance of diet is probably better than a large majority of the boys are used to.

McCOY RISKS NECK AS RACE DRIVER

'Straightaway' Is Thriller

Tim Risks Life On Motor Track To Save Younger Brother

Tim McCoy travelled nearly 2,000 miles at a speed of over 100 miles per hour during the making of his latest Columbia action drama, "Straightaway," which is coming to the Queen Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday.

Since graduating from his western characterization, McCoy has been starring in a series of action dramas dealing with the most thrilling phases of present day life. He made "Police Car 17," in which he was starred as a radio-patrolman, and "Hold the Press," which presented him as a newspaper reporter.

In "Straightaway," he will be seen as a professional auto racing driver, the champion, who risks his life to save that of his younger brother. The picture was made almost entirely on the best known

Stars In 'Bolero'

George Raft played professional baseball five years—as outfielder for Springfield in the Eastern League—to get enough money to learn to dance. He became the highest paid hooper in Europe. That led to pictures — "Quick Millions" was the first—and Raft stole it. Within a year, he was a star. Now he comes to the Ritz theatre at his best in "Bolero."

American motor car tracks, and much of the action shows McCoy at the wheel of a racing car. Before and during the making of the picture, McCoy was trained in the science of race track driving by Ralph Hepburn, noted as a winning pilot of the speedy little cars. It was during the actual shooting of the picture that McCoy travelled his 2,000 miles at the high rate of speed.

Five New Songs In 'Strictly Dynamite'

Five new songs are introduced in "Strictly Dynamite," RKO-Radio Pictures hit comedy starring Jimmy Durante and Lupe Velez.

Durante is heard in two songs of his own composition, "Hot Patata" and "I'm Putty in Your Hands," which are said to be typical of the actor's mad brand of humor. Miss Velez sings "Oh Me, Oh My, Oh You," a ballad written by Burton Lane and Harold Adamson. Two hot rhythm numbers, "Swing it Sister" and "Money in My Clothes," are sung by the Four Mills Brothers. The first is by Lane and Adamson; the second was written by Sammy Fain and

'BOLERO' TELLS STORY BEHIND DANCER'S LIFE, RAFT IN LEADING ROLE

Picture Reveals The Long Struggle For Success By Youth Who Finally Achieves Fame

Telling the intimate story of the life of a world famous dancer, George Raft's latest starring picture for Paramount, "Bolero," comes on Tuesday and Wednesday to the Ritz theatre. The picture, directed by Wesley Ruggles, features Raft, Lombard, Sally Rand, the ex-Dancer, and Frances Drake. It reveals the long struggle for success by an ambitious youth, who finally achieves fame only by denying his emotions, by tramping on the hearts of the beautiful women who help him on his way to the top.

George Raft, who himself, was an internationally famous dancer before he came to the screen, plays the lead. In the supporting cast are the blonde beauty of Carol Lombard, as the only woman he loves, Sally Rand, whose startling fan-dance is recorded in the picture, Frances Drake, as one of his partners, and William Frawley, who plays the role of his brother-manager.

Based on Havel Music's dance numbers are woven about Maurice Ravel's world-famous "Bolero," and in one sequence Raft and Miss Lombard present the tango "Raftero," which promises to become enormously popular in ballrooms throughout the country.

"Bolero" is based on a story written by Carey Wilson and Kubeck Glasmon, and adapted by Horace Jackson, present Raft. In its opening sequences as a coal worker, who has turned dancer, and who is avid for fame and recognition of his talents.

As "Strictly Dynamite" revolves about a big shot radio comic, most of the songs will be introduced in the picture with a broadcasting background. An exception is "Oh Me, Oh My, Oh You," which Miss Velez will sing in a penthouse party scene.

Elliott Nugent directed "Strictly Dynamite," which also casts Norman Foster, William Gargan, Marian Nixon, Eugene Pallette, Sterling Holloway, Minna Gombell, Stanley Fields, Tom Kennedy and others.

'The Hell Cat' Is Booked For Ritz Screen

An Original Screen Concoction Of Comedy, Melodrama And Thrills

A trio of outstanding Hollywood luminaries, comprising Robert Armstrong, Ann Sothern and Minna Gombell, will be seen in the leading featured roles of Columbia's "The Hell Cat," which heads the new bill at the Ritz Theatre, on Thursday day.

The "Hell Cat" is an original screen concoction of comedy, melodrama and thrills from the collaborative pens of Adela Buffington and Fred Niblo, Jr. It presents a colorful treatment of the "taming of the shrew" theme in the story of a young, spiffy society debutante who sets her cap for a presumptuous young newspaperman audacious enough to sock her back when she slapped his face for attempting to take her photograph.

Robert Armstrong, whose cinema destiny seems definitely assigned to the Fourth Estate, portrays the amiable young reporter who engages in a battle of brawn and brain with his comely young foe. Among some of Armstrong's more recent screen essays are "Joe Palooka," "Melody in Spring," "Search for Beauty" and "Manhattan Love Song."

Playing opposite Armstrong in the role of the headstrong, determined deb, is Ann Sothern, who has achieved near stellar fame with her highly praised performances in "Let's Fall in Love," "Melody in Spring" and "The Party's Over." Since the young singing star made her debut in "Let's Fall in Love," she has appeared in only two straight dramatic roles—those in "The Party's Over" and the forthcoming "The Hell Cat."

Headed by Minna Gombell, popular stage and screen trouper, the large supporting cast includes such prominent personalities as Benny Baker, Lou Holtz, stage who answers to the imposing name of "Shawewski," Farnell Pratt, J. Carroll Nash, Henry Kolker, Irving Bacon and Richard Hemming.

Briefly, the story concerns the efforts of the increased deb to tame the hard-boiled, cynical newshawk. After the more obvious methods have failed, she disguises herself as a reporter from a small town and wins her way into his confidence. Together they experience a number of thrilling adventures—tracking down news stories—eluding their pursuers in an exciting sea chase of a smuggler's yacht by a Coast Guard Patrol boat.

Albert Rogell directed "The Hell Cat," termed to achieve success. When he discovers that the public does not watch him but focuses its attention on the beautiful women with whom he dances, he discards one after another of his dancing partners, as each outlives her ability to attract notice.

When he meets Carol Lombard his plans are defeated by love. The tragic intervention of the World War, and its effects upon him and his ambition, lead to a dramatic ending.

Durante Seen In Comic Role

'Strictly Dynamite' At Queen Theater For Two Days

Crowding more entertainment into each one of its reels than most pictures do in their entire footage, "Strictly Dynamite," new RKO-Radio Picture at the Queen Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, is a real explosive package of uproarious comedy, human interest, romance and song hits.

Jimmy "Schoozie" Durante and Lupe Velez head the cast, with Norman Foster, William Gargan, Marian Nixon and the Four Mills Brothers. "Strictly Dynamite" focuses the laughter spotlight on radio broadcasting and its big shot comic exponent, Moxie Slaight. Moxie is looking for a new gag writer, George Ross, a fast-talking agent, sells him on Nick Montgomery, who came to New York from the sticks to write the great American poem. George represents Nick as strictly dynamite and expert in the psychology of humor. Moxie suffers from a Pagliacci complex, goes big for the psychology angle and signs the boy at a large salary.

Vera, Moxie's temperamental broadcasting partner, goes as big for Nick's good looks as Moxie did for his psychology. While Nick rides to fame and fortune with Moxie's reputation and the aid of old joke books, Vera loses her seven wiles on him. Prosperity and Vera go to Nick's head. He loses his clients and is about to lose his wife to George when events take a surprising turn. The climax is a splitting as Moxie faces the microphone to recite Nick's poetic chef-d'oeuvre in one of the most hilariously comedy sequences ever seen on the motion picture canvas.

Durante never has been so screamingly funny as he is in Moxie. His antics, and peculiar dialect mark him as the ace comic in the entertainment world. Miss Velez is perfect with her pimento coquetry. Foster as Nick, Miss Nixon as his wife and Gargan as George give expert portrayals. In lesser roles, Eugene Pallette, Sterling Holloway, Stanley Fields, Tom Kennedy, Minna Gombell, Jackie Seay and Francis Farmer are splendid.

Musical highlights include: Durante's renditions of his own "I'm Putty in Your Hands" and "Hot Patata." Elliott Nugent directed. To Miss "Strictly Dynamite" is to pass up one of the brightest stars in the entertainment sky this year!

A Stirring Scene In Picture

Picturesque settings of the utmost variety are a feature of "Little Man, What Now?" Frank Borzage's romantic Universal drama which comes to the Ritz Theatre today and Monday. The action of the entire picture takes place in Germany, and the unusual architecture of many of the buildings is said to lend a very definite charm to the story.

"STAND UP AND CHEER!" TO HAVE PREMIERE HERE SOON

Warner Baxter At Head Of Imposing Cast Of The Screen's Most Lavish Work Of Entertainment

COME ON CLOTHES!

Enough cloth to clothe all the inhabitants of a good-sized town! Such is the quota of costume material assigned for use in Fox Film's elaborate extravaganza, "Stand Up and Cheer!" coming on Friday to the Ritz Theatre.

With a cast reaching well into the thousands, and with a number of costume changes for each one of these, the clothing of the year's most lavish production achieves mountain magnitude. The men's outfits alone number 1,438. There are 475 dresses, 2,580 dancing costumes and 100 riding habits. Shoes used number 7,231 pairs, and at the other extreme there are 3,100 hats. Five hundred pairs of silk opera hose, 1,700 miles of thread, 16 dolls and dresses and eight ostrich boas, each fifteen feet long, are a few more of the items.

There are 99 different styles and 211 different designs. It took 30 dressmakers six weeks of steady work, to make the dresses alone!

Minna Gombell, As Comedienne, Joins Picture-Snatchers

There is a certain coterie of actors and actresses in Hollywood who are notorious thieves. Minna Gombell is one of them.

But, before you draw any hasty conclusions, let us add that they are not the sort of thieves that would attract public attention. They are picture snatchers. Usually they are comics and they are a part of the existence of every star. They appear in a cast in what is presumably a secondary part and when the picture is released they grab a good deal of the glory.

Minna Gombell, though not a star, has given some good accounts of herself in films like "Bad Girl," "Dance Team," "Bachelor's Reunion" and such pictures that she has taken a place in the front rank of picture snatchers.

Miss Gombell, as a hard-boiled newspaper sub-editor, has one of those made-to-order parts in "The Hell Cat," which is coming to the Ritz Theatre Thursday.

Robert Armstrong and Ann Sothern are featured.

Books of the prehistoric Maya empire of Central America were written in hieroglyphics, painted in colors on parchment made from the leaves of the century plant.

Roy Conners, second baseman for the University of Alabama, made only two errors in 67 chances and batted .415 in the first 12 games this season.

Roy Henshaw, Los Angeles south-paw pitcher obtained from the Chicago Cubs, is the smallest on the squad. He is five feet one inch tall.

Young Couple Struggles For Bare Living

Married Without Funds, Youngsters Fight Against Heavy Odds

The improvidence of youth, and the struggle of a young couple against dire poverty, form the basis for the story of "Little Man, What Now!" Frank Borzage's Universal drama which comes to the Ritz Theatre on Sunday and Monday starring Margaret Sullivan who is supported by Douglass Montgomery.

Married almost entirely without savings, the youngsters struggle along on the bare pittance which the boy earns as a clerk only to have their income cease entirely when he loses his job. Many disheartening adventures ensue, but finally the young husband obtains another clerkship in a department store, and his future looks brighter in spite of his niggardly salary.

Things Look Brighter On the first pay day, however, he spends almost his entire month's wages on a single beautiful dressing table for his wife, simply because she has admired it in a furniture store window, and they again find themselves without funds. Approaching motherhood confronts the young wife, but months before the happy event the husband again loses his position.

Happiness Ahead But Hans and Lammechen, in spite of their worries, lose neither hope nor happiness. They are young—and they have each other. And eventually they come upon a solution of their problems. The new deed is coming their way, too. In theme and treatment, "Little Man, What Now?" is said to be strongly reminiscent of "Seventh Heaven," Borzage's production of the silent days which still remains one of the outstanding classics of the screen. Appearing in support of Miss Sullivan and Montgomery are many such popular players as Alan Hale, Hedda Hopper, George Meeker, Mae Marsh, DeWitt Jennings, Sarah Padden, Fred Kohler and Muriel Kirkland.

University of Kansas athletes have won 20 Big Six conference championships in eight different sports in the past 10 years.

Baseball Is On The Up In Fort Worth

Old Saying Is 'As Fort Worth Goes So Goes The Texas League'

FORT WORTH, (UP)—Baseball is on the "up" in Fort Worth where it has undergone a Van Winkle-like slumber of four years.

It is an old saying in the Texas League that "as Fort Worth goes, so goes the league." If that still be true, then baseball should be on the climb throughout the circuit.

Fans are turning out as they have not done since 1930 when a surprise Cat team copped the flag and the Dixie series. Fans are talking baseball, something that has been lacking for four years.

May Be Out Of "Red" Moreover, it appears that if the Cats can hold up the club may finish out of the "red" this year, another thing that has not happened for years.

Last year the club finished in receivership and for several months it was uncertain whether it would even be in the league this year.

Unless a terrible slump hits the team or injuries take away some of the stars, Del Pratt's combination appears almost certain of getting in the play-off.

A good left-handed pitcher virtually would assure the club of landing in the first division and Pratt is looking for one. All his regulars are right handers, and although they have been doing well, a southpaw would be a big asset.

Even a consistent relief hurler, capable of going five innings effectively, would take a load of worry off Manager Pratt's shoulders.

TEXAS TOPICS

By Raymond Brooks

Rapid opening of public works employment has injected an issue in the political campaign and started counter-charges of exploiting the former relief-roll people who paid poll taxes this year.

The agitation started when absentee voting became legal, and playing to and exploiting the relief work voters, and the negro vote was at once charged.

It was said that thousands of men on the relief rolls have applied for jobs on the new public works projects all over the state, and that "inside" politics from some source formerly identified with the widespread payment of the poll taxes of men or relief, is sending these workers in steady streams to vote absentee ballots on the pretext of being called away to the public works employment before July 28.

The absentee voting pretext also was being used to get negroes' votes recorded, and affording opportunity to challenge these ballots, it was said at Austin.

Absentee balloting in a volume of 200 votes a day at Austin in the two ways, personally at the county clerk's office, and through the mails—brought a sharp encounter here between individual supporters of Sen. Tom Connally and of Cong. Joe Bailey for the senate.

Each side claimed the other was "herding" absentee voters through the mill.

Adequate support and maintenance of a continued relief program has been made a chief plank in the platforms of C. C. McDonald and Clint Small for governor. Other candidates also promise adequate relief.

Last year, friends of the Ferguson administration repeatedly were credited with efforts to build a political machine out of the relief set-up, from top to bottom, and that poll tax payers among relief or old civil works employees were being encouraged to qualify as voters under the theory that by so doing they were insuring their jobs.

In Washington where it is still springtime, they had difficulty in realizing that some Texas counties are already ginning 1000 bales of new-crop cotton.

So the lower Rio Grande Valley counties had a lot of trouble in getting speedy cotton in Washington under the Bankhead law to let them proceed with the ginning and shipping of cotton. Ten thousand bale tags had been received up to the first of this week, when the first adequate shipment of 400,000 arrived to start off the state's two million-plus-bale crop ginning.

Internal Revenue Collr. Frank Scofield at Austin pushed up the approval of ginners' bonds and the issuance of bale tags to the limit, and by mid-week will have most of the gins in the extreme southern part of the state in position to comply with the Bankhead law.

The federal cotton control law is an evidence of a remarkable change in attitude and response of Texas people in two years—a change that has permeated nearly all the people of the nation.

An attempt of the state to control cotton over-production became a bitter political issue. It was fought out in the legislature in a strenuous session. Legislators, farmers, professional savors of the country and others were greatly exercised. The state's attempt to help itself by patting a crop control bill on oil control, created a furor.

But now, when a greatly more drastic federal law cuts across the state, there is general acceptance of it, quiescent apathy toward it by farmers, business, legislators and the public. Even those in the industry seemed too indifferent to prepare themselves for complying with the red tape of the federal law.

Many such fundamental changes take place without commotion, and in an atmosphere of indifference and placid acceptance, neither those who consider it beneficial nor those regarding it as detrimental taking the trouble to agitate the question at the time.

Relief Dir. Adam Johnson, for the first time in the relief administration, recently encountered the situation that called on his spending more than half his time signing hundreds of small checks every day. The volume of separate disbursements had grown greatly. When Johnson returned to office, banks were notified to honor only his signature, out of the relief office, he learned from Gov. Ferguson, who has charge of depositing all the money received from the federal government in Texas banks.

Now he has a ruling that a bonded deputy may sign the checks. This, he said, will speed many phases of the relief administration work, and incidentally get the money to the needy people two or three days earlier in every case.

Surplus 8-Cent Airmail Stamps To Be Redeemed

Postmaster Nat Shick of Big Spring has received the following bulletin from the postoffice department regarding the redemption of surplus 8-cent air mail stamps and stamped envelopes:

"The attention of postmasters and employees of the postal service was called by notices in the Postal Bulletin of June 18 and June 25 to the reduction in the air mail postage rate from 8 cents to 6 cents, effective July 1, 1934, and to the issuance of new air mail stamps and stamped envelopes in the 8-cent denomination to conform thereto.

"In response to inquiries now being received concerning the disposition of stocks of these stamps and stamped envelopes remaining on hand when the new rate became effective, postmasters are advised that surplus 8-cent airmail stamps in the hands of local patrons may be accepted for redemption at full value in exchange for 6-cent airmail stamps or stamped envelopes, such exchange to be at the full rate on all 8-cent airmail envelopes returned not later than Aug. 15, 1934. Postmasters will allow postage value only on 8-cent air mail envelopes returned for redemption after Aug. 15, 1934."

Two Meetings Set To Hear Of Pension Plan

Two more meetings, at which the Townsend Old Age Revolving pension plan will be explained are planned here by W. W. Casteel, voluntary publicist. So far as is now planned, these meetings will be the last here.

A meeting, at which ladies are especially urged to be present, will be held on the shady side of the courthouse at 5 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 14, Monday evening, at 8:30, the court house lawn will be the scene of the last of the meetings. At that time Mr. Casteel hopes to draw a record crowd, and promises to go into every important phase of the proposal. Since the plan effects those of every age, he urges the attendance of young people especially.

"Some Like It Hot . . . Some Like It Cold . . ."

Whether you like your weather hot or cold—you have to take it the way it's dished out by old man nature! Take it, and like it! If you don't like it, here's one way you can get away from the extreme heat encountered on terra firma—hop an airplane and get up to the cool regions lying lazily above the turbulent heat waves which dance dizzily round our bothered brows.

Reports of passengers aboard American Airlines sleeper planes which nightly fly in and out of this city, indicate emphatically that "sleeping up stairs" is just what the doctor ordered. Soft, warm woolen blankets are still much in vogue and not once has a single passenger complained about being too hot. If we are to believe the words of the charming young stewardesses who watch over those who sleep while they fly.

Temperatures both day and night at altitudes of from five to eight thousand feet above sea level, reveal that no one can wall about the heat aloft. Nothing over 72 degrees is encountered until the sleeper plane prepares to land and then, while on the ground, the thoughtful airline provides air conditioners which retain the cool temperatures in the cabins, affording comfortable sleeping conditions for the travelers.

"Some like it hot . . ." but for us—we'll choose the cool upper air every time, especially while the weather man continues to report, "Fair and warmer tonight and tomorrow."

And Now He Can Wear Boots with Western Dress!

MIDLAND—Has Bruce Frazier the right to wear a ten-gallon hat? Friends of the cattlemen, oilman and secretary of the Midland Production Loan company were divided on the question until Frazier drifted up to the group.

"I run 110 head to the section on a three and a quarter section pasture near the Big Spring airport," he said, "some of the stock calves, however. And out of 52 cows run on the place, 50 of them calved this spring."

That settled the matter, and his friends say a pair of cowboy boots would go well with the ten-gallon hat.

AMARILLO TO STAGE HORSE SHOW AUGUST 6th AND 7th

AMARILLO—A colorful and brilliant horse show, which will be a social highlight in the Southwest, will be sponsored by the Tri-State Fair association in Amarillo the nights of August 6 and 7. Amarillo has had other horse shows, but none has been on the scale proposed for this year's Tri-State. Horses from half a dozen cities in three states already have been entered in the various classes, and within the next ten days scores of the finest thoroughbreds the southwest affords are expected to have their names on the entry list.

Cash prizes will be given in every event, and in addition, handsome loving cups and ribbons will be presented. In the stake events, elaborate and costly trophies will be offered in addition to the cash awards. There will be 22 classes, covering all sorts of exhibition riding. All entries should be in the secretary's office by July 25. There will be no entry fee except in stake classes.

Mason King, show manager, announces that box stalls will be available at nominal rental, and a training ring will be provided beginning July 27 for exhibitors.

The show will be held at the Tri-State fair grounds just east of Amarillo where a successful horse meet recently was concluded. The plant is complete in every detail, with ample room for floodlighted show ring and excellent grandstand facilities. The show is "open to the world" and visitors from all over the Southwest are expected to attend.

The fair association has issued its rules and its rules and regulations. Judges who have worked in the National and Royal shows will be in charge. The managing directors of the show are Wilbur C. Hawk, general manager of the Amarillo News-Globe and president of the Tri-State fair association; O. L. Taylor, secretary and general manager of the fair; Mason King, show manager; and Mrs. Ned O. Miller, show secretary. All communications relative to the show should be addressed to Mrs. Miller, 204 Oliver-Eagle building, Amarillo.

CLYDE E. THOMAS SEEKS DISTRICT JUDGE OFFICE

Clyde E. Thomas' announcement, by way of his name appearing in the candidates' column of this paper, has been running for some time, though the usual writ-up accompanying the announcement has not yet appeared, till today, in these columns.

Judge Thomas was prosecuting attorney for two terms, some years ago, and was mayor of the town of Big Spring, having been elected for two terms; he has practiced law continuously for 30 years, and has had a great deal of experience in the trial courts, and in the appellate courts, including the supreme court of Texas, as well as the federal appellate courts.

Candidate For District Judge

Big Spring Attorney, in Race For Judge Of 10th District

He was the old-time newspaperman! In the forceful language of latter-day youth, I was "sticking around" when Jordan came to Big Spring, some thirty years ago. From that day on, it was interesting to watch him work. He was too quiet—with due respect to good, strong vocal cords—to attract attention to himself, too modest, to grandstand a single one of the hundreds of selfless deeds that counted in the progress of Big Spring, Howard county, and her people.

Tom Jordan, Who Is Seeking County Clerk's Office, Has Given 25 Years Of Service To This City And County

An Interested Friend Writes How This Old-Time Newspaperman Gave To The Town What Money Can't Buy!

Some weeks ago this writer's attention was called to the candidacy of Tom E. Jordan, who wants to serve Big Spring and Howard county as county clerk, and immediately my mind was sent along the back-track of yesterdays, not to speculate as to whether or not this aspirant to political confidence was worthy—nobody is going to question that—but to sun up an approximate amount that would compensate the unrequited debt that this good citizen has unconsciously piled up against Big Spring and Howard county—and all adjacent West Texas, for that matter—during more than a quarter of a century of service. You, reader, would make a bad guess if you figured that dollars and cents counted. They don't buy what Tom has given.

It is interesting to speculate upon the influence stimulated buying of life insurance will have on the American people's future—particularly if other depressions occur. During the past four trying years life insurance savings have been the sole means of support for a legion of people—they have prevented want and distress and actual starvation. When other investments, that once seemed solid as rocks, shrunk to a fraction of former value, life insurance remained generally sound. In the America of tomorrow, a much higher percentage of our people will have this great protector at their back and call in times of adversity and need.

SMALL BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Clinton Charles Small, Potter county's entry in the gubernatorial part in organizing. He had to relinquish the office nine years later when he moved over to Wheeler county.

Upon graduation from high school, he was born 48 years ago at Collinsville, Alabama. The third of eight children and the first of three boys, he came with his family at the age of three to Collinsworth county in 1880.

His father, Judge E. H. Small, who today is something of a patriarch in the eastern Panhandle, examining his resources when he arrived in his new land, found himself worth exactly $28.

Young Clint went to school in one of those Panhandle dugouts, used now only when citizens flee from an approaching West Texas cyclone.

Judge Small had filed on land in Collinsworth county and as time went on, he began to prosper. He was elected county judge, the first ever to hold the office in the county which he took a leading school, Clint Small entered Trinity University at Waxahatchee. The Smalla belong to the Presbyterian church. After a year there, he went to the University of Texas, from which he graduated with a law degree in 1911.

Adam Rosson of Milford, roommate of Small during his years at the university, said of him recently: "He was serious minded, sober and industrious. He studied hard and made good grades. His classmates admired him because he had a pleasant personality and because he was an apt student of law. He had the knack of seeing a thing quickly and of forming accurate snap judgments."

"He had a falling, though, that I couldn't correct. That was his habit of getting up in the morning, cutting off the alarm clock and climbing back into bed. I used to nag, threaten, cajole, but it did no good."

After leaving the university, Small went back to Wellington to begin his mature life. His neighbors first elected him city attorney. Later, they named him county attorney, then county judge and

Midland Colts Score Heavy 19 To 4 Win Over Oilers

Ponies Chalk Thirteen Runs Before Oilers

Refiners Use Four Pitchers—All Hit Freely By Midlanders

By HANK HART
While both the Cosden Oilers and Midlanders were hitting freely, the Colts seemed the master on the bases Friday and defeated the Howard county lads by the top heavy score of 19-4. The game was played at Midland.

The Colts crossed the plate 13 times before the Oilers reached pay dirt.

Bailey White and Bill Wallace led the batting parade for the victors, coming through with three hits apiece while Madison, Terrasas, and Patton garnered two apiece for the Cosdenites.

Four pitchers paraded to the mound for the Cosdenites and each were hit freely.

Miller Harris finished for the Refiners and seemed to have the Colts "buffeted" with his razzle-dazzle ball. Only five runs crossed the plate during his one inning stay on the mound.

The Colts crossed the plate in every inning except the fifth and sixth.

The Oilers opened their scoring in the seventh when Baber walked, Patton singled, and Bette sacrificed toward into a threatening position. Madison sent both runners across with a bingle into the outfield.

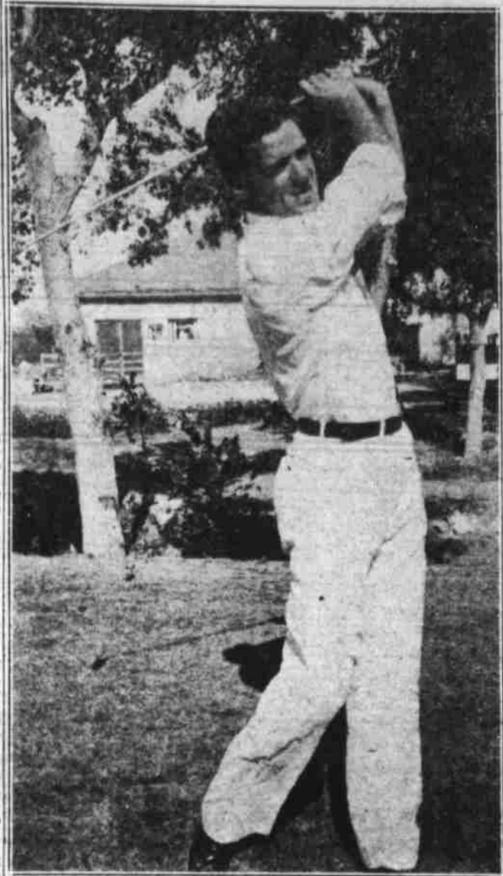

Miller Harris, evidently forgetting himself, turned the game into football in the late innings when he made a flying tackle for a runner after the ball had bounced into the garden.

Cosden Leads In Forsan League

FORSAN (Spl.)—The Cosden Pipeliners, who had a 500 percentage after their second league game with the Moody team, emerged victor Friday to gain the lead of the Oilfield league, defeating the Schermerhorn Pumpers 8 to 4 in a fast game.

Hammer, the Pumper manager, had hard luck from the start. His team was greatly weakened by the loss of Burress, fast pitcher, who will play with either Chalk or Cosden. Hammer tried the box himself for the first two innings. Eight runs and nine hits were chalked against him.

Alexander took over pitching duties in the third and put a spin on the ball that baffled the Pipeliner batsmen.

Both teams tightened up after the third inning and it was a case of three up and three down with the exception of the sixth when Denver, the Pumper's right-fielder, socked a three bager and scored on an error.

SPORT LINES

By TOM BEASLEY
There has been no let-down here in interest in soft ball. Instead, the crowds are continually growing, and as many as five hundred spectators per night witnessed games played on the City Park diamond last week. In order to handle the crowds more efficiently, and to keep spectators from crowding around the base lines where they are in danger of being injured, league officials are contemplating erecting a fence from third base around to first. Also, some thought has been given to building small bleacher seats.

The league has paid off all of its debts and has approximately $40 in the treasury, President Jess Hall said. However, there seems little possibility that the league funds will grow very fast, as collections have been very slim. Enough is taken in just about every night to pay the umpire. Just a dollar or two out of a crowd of about five hundred is mighty poor collecting.

A highly successful Valley-wide soft ball tournament has just recently been held at Brownsville, and a record-breaking crowd of 2,500 rabid fans attended the games. Such a tournament could be easily held here but it would take a little money and a lot of cooperation.

McCamey is the latest West Texas town to become soft ball addicted. A large number of towns nearer here than McCamey have teams playing on schedule, and there would be little trouble in staging a big tourney here that would draw wide attention. The diamond in the park is in fair shape and is being improved all along, and the lighting is as good as could be had.

Doc Lee Rogers, one of the Kiwanian players has fixed several balls especially for night playing. The balls were lacquered white, and show up fine in the dark but the paint job won't last but one game. And too, the paint tends to make the ball about as hard as a rock.

The Herald Type Lice may play one of the fast Midland soft ball teams here some time during the week, the game to be returned a few days later. Midland has been playing soft ball for several years, and was one of the first towns in the state to take the sport up.

The Kiwanians have signed several new players, mostly young fellows. The Settles team, with a slightly bolstered line-up, has been tossing the favorites for one loop after another. Lions have the distinction of being the only team in Wallace, p 6 2 3 0 1 0

My Fords Have All Been Honest Cars

Figures from Ford V-8 owners show 272,815,970 miles of steady running, without a penny for repairs

The true story of motor-car value is written on the road. There a car reveals its character. There it shows what it can do. Figures from 34,954 Ford V-8 owners show a total of 272,815,970 miles without a penny for repairs. Their letters are further proof of Ford V-8 economy and dependability. "I transport school children," writes a Ford owner in Minnesota, "and see plenty of tough going. In three years and eight months I have never missed a trip nor have I been late. My Fords have all been honest cars." Another Ford V-8 owner writes: "A friend of mine was planning on buying a new car but was considering another make. To prove to him the economy of the Ford V-8 we made a 59-mile run. The gas used was exactly three gallons, measured for the run. It is needless to tell you that my friend now owns a V-8." A salesman writes: "I drive about 1500 miles a month. I have not spent five dollars for repairs on the five Ford cars I have used. In more than 100,000 miles I have had no motor trouble." A police officer writes: "To date I have operated my Ford V-8 for seven months and have driven 15,000 miles—most of which was done at speeds up to 88 miles per hour. I have not paid out one penny for repairs or replacements of any kind." A business man writes: "I am interested in a corporation operating eleven cars in the same price range as the Ford. Five are Fords and six are other makes. "Our experience over a two-year period shows that the Ford is the most economical car to operate and it is our intention to replace the six other cars with Fords. "I have had better results and been better satisfied with my Fords than with cars costing much more." No words of ours about the Ford V-8 could be half so convincing as these letters from owners showing what the car is doing in actual service. We invite you to drive it and let it tell you its own story of performance, comfort, safety and economy. FORD MOTOR COMPANY TUNE IN FORD DEALERS' RADIO PROGRAM. Waco Paper's Account Of Rites Given

The following account of the wedding of Mrs. Dorothy Levering and Joe Ray Lawrence which took place Wednesday evening in Waco, is taken from the Waco News-Tribune:

In a ceremony witnessed only by immediate relatives and closest friends, Mrs. Dorothy Levering became the bride of Joe Ray Lawrence of Big Spring at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Moor, Crawford apartments, Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. Dr. Gaston Hartfield, pastor of Austin Avenue Methodist church, performed the ceremony before an altar of palms, gladioli and daisies, on either side of which burned white tapers in candelabra.

Piano selections preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Fred Smith played a group of piano selections, including "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs-Bond, "At Dawning" by Cadman, and Liszt's "Dream of Love." For the processional Mrs. Smith played "Lohengrin's Wedding March," by Wagner, and during the ceremony she played Schumann's "Traumerl."

The bride wore a pink organza frock cut in princess lines with square neck and ruffled skirt. To accent the old-fashioned motif, she carried a nosegay of pink roses and valley lilies and wore a bandeau of pink rosebuds in her hair. For something old and something new, she wore the extra lace handkerchief that her mother and sister, Mrs. F. G. Moor, Mrs. Rex Rader of Craig, Colo., and Mrs. Burdall Light of Cincinnati, carried in their weddings.

Bride Attended by Sister

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Rex Rader of Craig, Colo., as matron of honor. She wore a frock of yellow organza, fashioned princess style, with drop shoulders, and carried a nosegay of yellow roses. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Robertson Lawrence of Tulsa, Okla., as best man.

Following the ceremony, guests were entertained with a reception at the Moor home. Mrs. William V. Carroll presided at the table, which was centered with a bowl of daisies. The individual wedding cakes were iced in pink and green to accent the chosen color scheme. Mrs. Carroll was assisted in serving by Mrs. Jack Walker, Mrs. Charles Anderson, Miss Margaret Fain and Miss Louise Durham.

Guests From Out of Town

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were the bridegroom's mother and brother, Mrs. James F.

BABES IN THE WOODS

WE NEVER grow so old that we do not recall our childhood concern as we thought of what might have happened to the two story-book children who wandered aimlessly into the forest and became lost.

We never grow so wise that we can walk blindly into the marts of trade and straightway find the shoes, car, ham, cleaner, rug, antiseptic or what-not that best fits our individual need, fancy or pocketbook.

Without a dependable buying guide we are all Babes in the Woods . . . lost when it comes to judging qualities, values or styles. "Know the reputation of the store," is one rule. "Know the reputation of the product and its manufacturer," is another. The two together make wise selection doubly certain.

You can form a very reliable estimate of the stores which advertise consistently. So also of manufacturers.

Only sound merchandise, attractively priced, can continue to repay the retailer or the manufacturer for his advertising outlay. If he can risk the money it costs him to tell you about his goods, you can be reasonably sure that your path through the woods will lead to the best values for your buying dollars.

SPITE MARRIAGE

by Katherine Howard Taylor

Chapter Seven
MARSHA PERTURBED
 Bob murmured, "Thanks awfully as he settled by her."
 "And you can hold my hand," Marsha added.
 He took it and for some moments he sat staring down at it; and again she had the curious and new impulse to tease that had lately disconcerted her.
 Suddenly he held her hand against his cheek. "I love you very much, Marsha," he said in a whisper. "What are you going to do about it? I know I'm not—half the man you should have but—his voice thickened—"if caring counts sort; as her aunt had put it that day, "equally depraved." He attracted her strangely, but she did not want to be made miserable by attraction, to feel through it her cheapness, to remember through it her many compromises.

 She rose, "We'll go somewhere and dance!" she said quickly. "This doesn't do! One thinks, and then—come on! I'm not domestic!"
 He had risen slowly and as a man

"But I don't know whether it loses," she answered coolly as she drew her hand away.
 "I don't mean to bother you," he said.
 "Then don't dear," she answered lightly.
 He was staring down on her as he did so often; adoringly, yet reproachfully.
 "You won't like it much where I'm stationed in Mexico," he confessed, "and I can't go back without you."
 "You seem quite certain, Bob—His chin squared; he frowned.
 "I'm not," he said, "and I wish I were a better liar. I try to act certain, feeling that perhaps that's the way to win. I've heard so from other men—but right in the midst of it I know I can't cheat you. You see?"
 "I do, my dear!" she assured him. She wished he were Geoffrey, her

"It would kill me to hurt you," does who would rather not rise. "And you wanted to play much-room and to talk about our souls," she accused.
 "No," he contradicted. "I wanted to talk about myself, and of how lonely I'd been, and of how I dream now, that I'll never be lonely again. I had a real dream last night. In it I was coming back to the shack down near Alres Calientes and you were on the porch waiting. As I turned into the gulch.
 "I saw you through a gap in the trees, you held out your arms. I've never, never had, awake, the event of that moment. I ran the rest of the way."
 He broke off abruptly. She stared up at him, who beneath tan was flushed.
 "You'll never know," he said after a long silence, "now I care for you. For there would be no way of showing you. But all life—if I had the chance, I would try to prove."
 Once more he broke off abruptly. "I've bored you," he said, a little stiffness in his voice. "Forgive me—"

GOEBBELS FLAYS FOREIGN PRESS

...not set was read to the press of Europe, especially that of France and England, by Paul Joseph Goebbels (above), Nazi minister of propaganda, in an address in which he said "lies, slander and misrepresentation of the true facts" were included in reports sent out of Hitler's suppression of the recent "second revolution" in Germany (Associated Press Photo) very good woman who would not be afraid of domestic evenings and of what silence might bring forth.

 "Are you tired?" he asked anxiously.
 "I don't think so."
 "You are unusually silent, Marsha."
 "If you want me to chatter sweetly, nothing'll do."
 He interrupted. "I want you to do, while with me, exactly what you want to do, Marsha."
 She moved suddenly to rest her cheek against his muscular upper arm. She heard him draw a sharp breath. "It means nothing," she explained, "but you said I was to do as I wanted to do."
 "It means more than you think," he said. "I know it does, if my arms mean rest to you." His voice trembled broke. He moved, slipped breathlessly. "Dearest, tell me, I didn't frighten you? It would kill me to hurt you in any way."

 He seemed quite himself, dancing. "Please be brotherly," she had begged, "the other—rather bore me!"
 His arm that encircled her did not once tighten, although his effort to keep it from doing so more than once made him flush darkly and the veins on his forehead thickened. But he seemed quite himself and brotherly, and Marsha told him at two that she had had an enchanting evening.
 For once in her life, Marsha felt a slight sense of escape at returning to her aunt's straight-lined, prim house. She felt with Bob as an actress might feel who had been playing opposite her had dropped times, and suddenly found the man playing opposite her had dropped several cues in a row.
 She did not sleep soon. She lay thinking of Geoffrey Taretton who never dreamed asleep or awake and who knew her measure and whom, in her way, she loved. She would feel better after an evening or two with him. And meantime, she hoped she would not really hurt Bob Powers.

The tapir has its own way of crossing streams. It simply walks into the water, continues walking along the bottom no matter how deep and then walks up the other side.

WHAT THE CENTENNIAL WILL MEAN TO TEXAS

By LILLIAN KRAUSE
 (An inspiring and informative article on "What the Centennial Will Mean to Texas," written by Miss Lillian Krause of Brown, Texas, former student of journalism at The University of Texas, won the first prize of $15 offered by the Texas Women's Press association, the award being announced at the recent annual convention of the association at Houston. The article is of particular interest to the people of the State at this time.)

A century of independence, progress, freedom—the fruits of our forefathers' building—will characterize this one-hundredth anniversary observance, the Texas Centennial celebration in 1936, as authorized by the passage of the centennial amendment by the voters of Texas.

All color and drama of Texas history will be relieved in grateful reverence; all the inspiring opportunities of the present will be spread before the eyes of visitors; and all the possibilities and promises of the future will be visualized by the progress of the past decades.

Texas with its vast domain, its great diversity of agriculture, live stock, mineral, forestry, and manufacturing interest is potentially the greatest of all the states. Railway and air lines spread out from centrally located Texas like a fan to every part of our great country. Our sister states who find Texas ports the nearest and most convenient for their use, feel a just pride in Texas, as her ports are their ports and for many other reasons of profitable interchange of business.

Decades by decade, the events of the historical progress of Texas will be depicted at the centennial celebration, as effectively as turning the pages of a great book reflects the honest recording through word and picture, of contemporary life during some period of a nation's rise, in all its varied reality. The Texas Centennial will act as a barometer for the true feeling of the State of Texas, its hopes and dreams, its actualities and realities. With sweeping strokes the panorama of the years will be telescoped in all its rich colorful history, to portray the Empire of the Southwest—Texas. It will represent a testimonial, not only of the gradual evolution of Texas but also of the greater State of Texas.

The Texas Centennial which will take place in 1936, is a great national anniversary of an event, second in importance only to the Declaration of Independence of the thirteen English colonies which took place more than a half-century earlier. In the history of national expansion it takes rank with the Louisiana Purchase of 1803. From the Texas Declaration of Independence the historian looks backward over 40 years of national expansion along Moses Austin's line of march from Virginia to Texas, and forward to the occupation and development of the great stretch of wilderness between the Mississippi River and the Pacific Coast.

Time marches on and within a decade and a half Stephen F. Austin, under successive contract, brought into his father's colony approximately 1,300 families, while his example attracted other empresarios to the region, whose efforts aided in its redemption from a wilderness. He lived to see his colony take its place among the nations of the world, a free and independent republic, and died dreaming that the United States was lending its recognition to the new born nation. The Austins, father and son, had within a half century moved the North American frontier from western Virginia to the Colorado River in Texas.

It was but natural that the people of Texas, having come from the United States, should look upon reunion with their kindred as their political and social goal. In 1846, they voluntarily replaced the Stars and Stripes of the United States of America for the Lone Star of the Republic of Texas. Mexico, repudiating Santa Anna's agreement, had never recognized Texas' independence. War was inevitable. A victorious American invasion brought Mexico to an agreement in the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo which signed to the United States a territory equal, approximately to one-fourth the present area.

No other one state of the Union can claim such a part in shaping our national history. A new flag has flown over Texas soil—eight different times, representing six different nations. The first nation to fly a flag in Texas was Spain. Then the royal flag of France was planted in Texas by La Salle. Spain, however, again became sole possessor when La Salle was killed and his colony wiped out by the Indians. Then Mexico won its independence from Spain and another flag went up. The flags of the Republic of Texas, the United States, the South Confederacy and again

SPAIN PLANS NEW SEA PORTS

Spain is planning to build $130,000,000 worth of fortifications on the Balearic Islands—Majorca, Minorca and Ibiza—in the Mediterranean. Officials contend the encircling of these islands is a peaceful measure, since they are strategic points in the Mediterranean and should be kept neutral. Modern defensive armaments would be established, including huge railway guns similar to the one shown below the map. It is an American gun located in the Canal Zone. (Associated Press Photos)

The United States followed closely one after the other.

Other sections of our country have celebrated great anniversaries appropriately with exhibitions as at Philadelphia, New Orleans, California and elsewhere. The centennial of the Louisiana Purchase in 1903 was celebrated by the entire nation in the World's Fair at St. Louis. The Chicago "Century of Progress" was already an assured success a year in advance of its opening and it requires no prophet to see that its second year is destined to be as great as the first year. The California Legislature appropriated a million dollars for the recent Olympic games and this was paid back with a million profits to the state treasury. Certainly Texas can do well whatever it undertakes. The rich and varied history of Texas with its boundless economic wealth is even greater challenge to the imagination of its people of a celebration that will express to the world the peculiar genius of the southwest. It is the opportunity of a century for Texas. There is not the slightest doubt that the large bonus offered by the several cities for the exhibition, which with the profit to Texas from additional sale of gasoline to tourist visitors, sale of space to exhibitors, and concessionaires, and gate receipts will return to the State treasury every dollar advanced to the enterprise in the State by visitors. Not only from the United States, but from all over the world, people will through the borders of Texas to share a pride in our advancement.

Not only will they see the glories of our illustrious past, but the progressive activity of the present. Showing the world the real greatness of Texas will be the greatest of all its profits and enduring benefits. The centennial celebration will mean the correction of false impression of Texas and to invite an interested world to see its great opportunities.

One who is trained can see more to the square mile in Texas than an any other part of the world. The unsurpassed scenery in Texas includes plains and prairies, mountains and plateaus, escarpments and canyons, spring river and salt flats, and the belted coastal plains, as well as the magnificent valley lowlands and the deep, winding gorges of the Pecos and the Chiseling rivers. Texas is the meeting point or junction some of two great physiographic subdivisions of the continent.

A brief impression of each region is included, from forestry and timber in East Texas, to the fruit and vegetable gardens of the valley of the Rio Grande and Winter Garden. There are cattle, grazing live stock and agriculture in the Northwest; sulphur and rice in the southwest lowlands, with pecans, citrus fruit, commerce, industry, big ranches and a host of other equally fascinating activities and places, all testimony to the infinite variety of the empire of pines and palms.

One can not talk of Texas; it must be experienced. The Texas Centennial is an open invitation to the world to come to Texas to see for itself what this great empire does and has to offer. It suggests rich, health-giving sunlight coming from a canopy of rich blue—the sky of this great land between the Mississippi and the Rio Grande beckoning the world to its romantic life with a feeling of grandeur, of great expanses—freedom, and, as yet to be, fully developed natural resources.

By the observance of the one-hundredth anniversary, Texas will be able to reconstruct the past and so arrive at a surer interpretation and a more appreciative understanding of the land that provides us with our daily bread, as well as our homes, our cities, our highways, our libraries, our schools; of the land and its resources which provide the promise of bringing to the people of the State increased opportunities and consequently a higher and better standard of living.

The greatest contributions that most centennials have made to the future have been in the construction of museums. This is what the Texas American Legion Centennial Committee is planning to do for Texas. The proposed method to secure the money for the construction of the museum is by selling centennial half dollars. On May 28, 1933, the last day that the House of Representatives was in session in Washington, a bill was passed authorizing the coinage of 1,500,000 half dollars to be used in this work. Incidentally, the pen with which the President signed the bill will be Exhibit No. 1 in the new museum.

Recent responses to a call for donations of Texas writings to the library of The University of Texas has increased the Texas collection, which is a division of the University library. Composed of books, pamphlets, manuscripts and newspapers, the collection offers perhaps the widest variety of source material available on Texas history. And it is a source which should logically outdistance all others since it is in the University that most of the research on Texas history and related subjects is being conducted. The preservation of the traditions of Texas and making the people conscious of their environment is advocated as the aim of commemorating the Texas Centennial. The energy of those who respond with additional material to produce a Texas collection which will present to the world a unified, composite whole, dedicated to the general progressive welfare of Texas today and especially tomorrow, will be a motivating force of the Texas Centennial celebration.

That Texas in 1936 will put on the most progressive and helpful show with advanced ideas which will commensurate with our great achievements of the past and hopes for the future, is inevitable. With the abiding faith of every Texan, a centennial, that will rival the foremost of such events ever held and quicken the step of progress for the future should be our goal.

The State of Texas of today is greater than the State of the past, but it is not as great as the State of the future. To record the events of the past is our pleasure; to forecast the dreams of the future is our pride. Hence the Texas Centennial is intended as the open doorway through which all are invited to see everything that Texas is.
