MEN WITH EXPERIENCE ARE IN DEMAND

In view of the fact that Charley Guy, colyum hitter of the Lubbock daily newspapers, has obtained very wide and elaborate experience in janitorial activities, we extend a cordial invitation to the young gentleman to spend a week in the office of the Lamb County Leader. It would take more than a day to get the job done properly.

MORE FOOTBALL NEWS

Payne Wood, who in public life is the pro-pri-ator of the Friendly Grocery and in private life a roaring football fan, took time out in listening to the radio report of the Amarillo-Lubbock football contest, and sent a telegram, urging the Panhandle town boys to "pour it on; we are all for you."

The groceryman returned to his groceries—we mean his seat near the radio—and had just become comfortably seated when the radio announcer read the telegram and commented: "From Littlefield, way down there on the South Plains."

JOHNSON CITY, TENNESSEE, NEWSPAPERS PLEASE COPY

We once heard tell of a merchant who went to market by automobile, but came home by train, forgetting that he had made the trip marketward by car, but we never heard tell of anybody forgetting to take his gun when a hunting bound.

The first time you feel healthy, take a walk down to the Higginbotham-Bartlett emporium and ask Dick Johnson for full particulars.

Charley Harless also knows about the little incident.

You might also ask Dick to show you the fine, large red gun that was presented to him last Saturday by his brother-in-law, Charley Bartlett of Lubbock.

POST MORTEM

Dick warned us that if we told this story on him that he would chase us from the Santa Fe depot to the City Hall with a two-by-four.

Dick also said that the Lamb County Leader hasn't an editor now and that he would create just cause for filling the vacancy.

JUDGE SIKES CONTRIBUTES TO THE "WE THINK" COLYUM

Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller swooped down last Sunday on what appeared to be a crap game, arrested seven young men, and brought them to the city hall. When the officer searched the youths he failed to find any money. He couldn't understand a situation in which a crap game could be operated without money, and inquired the reason for the unusual situation. The young men explained that they were rolling for high dice.

The officer gave the young men their freedom and pondered on the

W. H. Cunningham

Rochester Resident, Buys 265 Acres

Is Secretary-Treasurer State Certified Grain Sorghum Growers

A new development for the Littlefield section is a pure seed farm, which will be established about two miles southwest of the city on land purchased from the Yellow House Land Co.

The farm, which contains 265 acres, has been purchased by W. H. Cunningham of Rochester, in Haskell county, who is secretary-treasurer of the State Certified Grain Sorghum Growers association.

The farm will be a private enterprise of Mr. Cunningham, and will be devoted to the production of certified grain sorghum seed. Mr. Cunningham will take possession January 1, and will live on the farm.

Big Asset to this Area

The fact that Mr. Cunningham will own and operate a certified seed farm in this section, and the fact that he is secretary-treasurer of the State Certified Grain Sorghum Growers association, will be a distinct asset to the Littlefield district.

The purchase of the tract of land by Mr. Cunningham for the purpose for which it is to be devoted, and the fact that a man of his experience has elected to operate a pure seed farm in this section, is a distinct tribute to the Littlefield district.

With the secretary-treasurer a resident of Littlefield, it virtually establishes Littlefield as the headquarters of the State Certified Grain Growers association.

W. H. and R. T. Badger of the Yellow House Land company are to be complimented on having performed another important service in the interests of the Littlefield district in the bringing of a pure seed farm to the Littlefield district.

Arrest Two for Alleged Violations of Liquor Laws

Two men were arrested on Phelps avenue Friday night by sheriff's department and city police, and, according to officers, have been charged with possession and transporting of liquor.

The men gave their names as J. E. and Glen Lomas, and state that they live in Hereford.

Police state that liquor in quantities of one-half gallon, one quart and eight pints were seized.

The arrests were made as the men entered an automobile, which was parked on Phelps avenue.

The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller, City Marshal W. P. McDaniel, Constable Fred Hoover, and city officers John Blair, Arthur James and C. M. Edwards.

LUBBOCK, AMARILLO GAME TODAY TO DECIDE DIST. FOOTBALL TITLE; LOCAL SUPPORT EQUALLY SPLIT

(By F. O. Boles)

Football is still maintaining a firm grip on the minds of many Littlefield fans. Approximately 75 of these football enthusiasts made a trip to Lubbock Monday to see Lubbock take a hard game from Pampa with a 7-0 score.

The district championship in District No. 1, class A took an unexpected turn Thanksgiving day when the Amarillo High Sandies soundly trounced Coach W. B. Chapman's Hub-City Westerners to the tune of 25-2. This left the Pampa Harvesters, the Westerners, and the Sandies in a three-way tie for the district crown. In the toss for a bye, Amarillo won, and Monday's seven to nothing game gives Lubbock the right to tackle Amarillo Thursday afternoon at Lubbock for the district crown.

Littlefield fans are about equally divided in their support of the Westerners and Sandies. If the weather is fair, many local people will be in the Tech stands Thursday afternoon at 2:30 when the first whistle blows.

Football is a game that demands the very best of a man or boy who plays it, and the extent of a particular player's prowess may be measured by his ability to continually coordinate mind and muscle in such a way that every effort will be the best effort for the team.

Football teaches lessons of honesty, fair play, determination to surmount every obstacle, team work, loyalty, and many other things which we recognize as essential in the building of high character. It teaches the athlete that care of his body is of supreme importance if his nervous system is to have a first class "machine" to direct.

A prominent educator has recently said that football is the greatest single educational influence in America today. Practically every college and high school in the United States, today recognizes that the sport is worthy of a place in its extra curricular activities and makes provision for it.

There is nothing connected with a school which can teach loyalty as thoroughly as can the proper conduct of a football season by school authorities. What is the worth of a citizen to a town if he is not loyal to his home town institutions? Let's recognize the part football has in developing that loyalty complex.

Poultry Concern To Open Turkey Dressing Plant

Littlefield Poultry & Egg To Employ Large Number of Workmen

An important step in the progress and development of Littlefield and section is the opening by the Littlefield Poultry & Egg Co. of a turkey dressing plant at their present location in the Bellomy building.

According to Barney Wilson, manager, the latest equipment has been installed, and the plant will be in readiness to function this Friday.

Mr. Wilson further said that it would, in all probability, employ workmen, including pickers; that turkeys would be shipped out of Littlefield in refrigerator cars to northern and eastern markets, including Chicago and New York, and that this will establish Littlefield as the central shipping point between Lubbock and Clovis, N. M., as they will receive turkeys from Sudan, Amherst, Anton, Olton, Earth, Enochs, Fieldton, Whitarral, Muleshoe, and other points.

It is expected that this program will do much towards assisting the turkey raisers in this section to obtain better prices for their birds.

Also, the fact that the poultry company will employ a large number of workmen in this branch of their business, will prove a decided advantage to Littlefield.

BUILDING BOUGHT BY LOCAL POST OF AMERICAN LEGION

FORMER RAIL DEPOT TO BE USED AS LEGION HEADQUARTERS

According to R. E. Riley, commander, the American Legion Tuesday consummated a deal whereby they purchased the frame building, which was used as a depot previous to the new brick depot being constructed from the Santa Fe Railway. The plan on moving the building the latter part of this week to the location at the southwest corner of the City Park, which was donated to the local post by the City of Littlefield about a year ago. The building will be used as a meeting place, and later a community hall.

Mr. Riley reports that the deal has been financed, but that they need about $200 of the amount needed to pay for the building, and appeals to the citizenship of Littlefield to assist them by sending contributions for whatever amount they are able to give to any one of the committee appointed for that purpose. This committee is composed of the following: R. E. Riley, T. Wade Potter, Claude Clark, Bob Childress, Warren Rutledge, Van Clark and Marshall Binkley. If finances will permit, it is the plan to start immediately on improving the building.

In discussing generalities with the Leader relative to the past accomplishments and present plans of the local post of the American Legion, Mr. Riley said:

"The work of the local post has been of material help in obtaining disability allowance and compensation for about thirty-eight ex-service men in Lamb County since the first of January. We have obtained loans for about 140 men on their adjusted service certificates, besides obtaining and straightening out records for a number of men whose records were not correct. Thus far the local Post has not failed to collect on a single application made through our post officers.

"I would urge those who have not paid their membership dues for 1932 to take care of it. It will be necessary that plenty of work be done toward the collection of the other half of the adjusted service certificates. This movement will start at Washington this month, and it is imperative that all ex-service men pay their membership dues to the Legion, that we may have added weight in our efforts toward changes in legislation affecting all ex-service men, either directly or indirectly."

GIVE WEST TEXAS A FAIR DEAL!

A congressional redistricting bill was defeated at the regular session of the legislature because it provided for two new districts in West Texas, to the legislature because it provided for two new districts in West Texas, which she was entitled, and because it did not provide for a new district in East Texas to which that section was not entitled.

East Texas members of the legislature defeated the Metcalfe redistricting bill because they had the votes to do so.

While a representative redistricting bill was introduced, little effort has been made to pass it, probably because West Texas did not have sufficient strength in the legislature to get her rights.

When the next legislature meets, all other legislation should be blocked by West Texans, if that course should be necessary, until she is given just representation in that body.

The constitution provides for redistricting the state following each decennial census. The present districts are based on the 1920 census.

To show the rank injustice that is being done West Texas in the matter of representation, we call attention to the following facts and figures:

Bowie county over in northeast Texas, with a population of 48,563, according to the 1930 census, constitutes the first Representative district.

Cass county, adjoining it, with a population of 30,030, constitutes the second district; and then Bowie, Cass, and Marion constitute the third district with a flatorial Representative.

Camp and Upshur, with a combined population of 32,230, constitute the fourth district. Panola county with 24,484 people constitutes a district; so does Rusk with a population of 32,484; so also do Nacogdoches with 30,290 people; Shelby with 28,627; San Augustine and Sabine with a combined population of only 24,469. All other East Texas districts run in similar proportion.

In North Texas, Grayson county, with 65,843 people, has two Representatives; Collin, with 46,180, has one Representative, and then Collin and Grayson county an additional or flatorial Representative, giving the two counties with a combined population of 112,023 four Representatives, or one for each 28,006 population. Most other North Texas and Central Texas districts, except those containing the large cities, are represented in about the same ratio.

Now let us come to West Texas.

Our own district, composed of Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Youkum, Terry, Lynn, Gaines, and Dawson counties, has a population of 100,249, with one Representative.

The Plainview district composed of eight counties has a population of 78,758.

The Amarillo district with seven counties has a population of 71,608.

The San Angelo district with six counties has a population of 66,692.

In other West Texas districts the population is not so large but in most of them it is much larger than in other parts of the state.

Almost the same disproportion exists as to the senatorial districts.

In North Texas, the Sherman district has a population of only 131,142.

In Central Texas, the Waxahachie-Hillsboro-Cleburne district has a population of 140,084, while the Temple-Stephenville district has a population of only 120,106, and the Bastrop-Brenham district a population of only 131,595.

Now come west again.

The Lubbock district has a population of 227,500; the Amarillo district a population of 238,618; the El Paso district a population of 273,438; the Abilene district a population of 216,631; and the San Angelo district a population of 189,862.

Candidates who offer for the legislature from West Texas next year should pledge the people that they will do all in their power to procure the redistricting of this state into new Representative, Senatorial, and Congressional districts, and that they will make this a major objective.

West Texans should see to it that only able men are sent to the legislature from this section next year so that the rights of West Texas may be ably asserted and maintained.—Lynn County News.

INSURANCE

The most heavily insured in the world is Pierre S. Dupont, of Wilmington, Delaware, who carries seven million dollars of life insurance. There are fifteen men in America who carry more than five million dollars. There are 391 who have a million dollars or more of insurance.

Life insurance, on the whole, is increasing steadily. There is no other way in which the average man can leave his family an income sufficient for their needs. And in times of stress a life insurance policy on which the premiums have been paid to date is the best possible basis for a loan. With all of the business depression we have not heard of a life insurance company that has failed to meet its obligations.

NEIGHBORING TOWNS DON'T FEED THE OTHER FELLOW'S COW... The CREAM Stays WHERE THE "MILKING" IS DONE

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Excerpts from Littlefield Leader)

J. L. Hines of Morton was in Littlefield Saturday. He is a new comer to that section, having recently secured land, and is now putting up buildings and preparing to break out 600 acres of land. He came from Blum and is an old acquaintance of J. E. Brannen. Lon Fowler of Hillsboro is also another new comer to that section, now improving recently purchased land.

Engineer B. G. Garrett, of Austin, arrived in Littlefield Monday to assist County Engineer C. L. Hasie in the construction of the Hockley County highway, which will be started as soon as the weather settles sufficiently to allow road work.

This highway is seven and one half miles in length, and when completed, will furnish a through highway of excellent character between Littlefield and Lubbock.

Dr. P. W. Pilans has purchased lots seven and eight in Block 36, just south of the R. L. Speight residence, and contemplates erecting a residence thereon soon.

At a meeting of the school board Wednesday night it was decided that the compulsory educational period for school attendance should begin January 1, 1924.

The football banquet last week despite the inclemency of the weather, was a huge success. It was an informal affair, given for the football boys, their lady friends and the school faculty.

Five of the football boys and a number of the faculty members were unable to attend, due to the bad weather, much to the regret of those present.

The banquet began at 8:30 p. m.

with F. D. Parnell officiating as toastmaster. "Dink" Merrell as first speaker of the evening, gave a humorous presentation of "Why People spit on me. Cap't. Sid Hopping followed with "Our team," and Fontaine Parker orated on "What I have learned in football this season." Dinner was served at the junction, and the remaining toasts came afterward.

At the beginning of this scholastic year Vocational Agriculture was added to the high school course of study. That, in itself, does not mean a great deal but the work this department is doing should mean a great deal to the community, and it is menning a great deal to the high school boys who have elected to take it this session.

Five carolads of household goods were shipped in this week by new settlers as follows: T. L. Dean, Terrell; R. L. Jones, Ballinger; W. G. Terrell, Waxahachie; C. R. Heard, Winters, and L. J. Fowler, Hillsboro.

Mr. Dean has purchased the Whicker place, south of Littlefield, and the others are moving onto recently purchased land of the Yellow House and Littlefield companies.

Sudan Growers Association is Ready to Function

The Sudan Grass Growers Association recently organized by Fred W. Mangelsdorf for the purpose of co-operatively marketing the large crop of sudan grass seed has completed financial arrangements for making advances to members, and is ready to function.

Such is the report that Mangelsdorf made to his board of directors following conferences in Fort Worth and Dallas.

"Under the arrangements completed," said Mangelsdorf, "we will immediately place in storage and hold for spring sales all seed delivered by our members to country elevators. We will pay the grower an initial advance of 75c per 100 pounds f. o. b. country points. In the spring the seed will be sold at best possible prices obtainable and additional sales dividends paid the members on the basis of quantity delivered by each member. The market position of this commodity is much more favorable within the past few weeks. Reports from all sections of the country indicate a good spring demand and we confidently expect a firm and higher market at that time. All growers who are not in immediate need of cash are advised to hold their seed for the present. Farmers who have pressing obligations to meet at once may deliver the seed to designated country elevators for the account of the Association and receive the advance money. Buying and handling arrangements are being completed with elevators. Conditions at this time appear extremely favorable for the complete financial success of the Sudan Co-operative."

Navy Airship "Los Angeles," Largest Leading Woman in Pictures, Plays Role in "Dirigible," Columbia's Aerial Epic

No matter how much the fans know about the movies, there is hardly one who could apply the answer to this: "Name the largest leading lady ever to be cast in a photoplay."

The right answer is quite simple when you have seen Columbia Pictures' epic of the air "Dirigible" which will be shown Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday, at the Palace Theater.

Food Inspector Visits Littlefield

John H. Tobin of Austin, a state food inspector, visited Littlefield this week, and made an inspection of all places in the city where food or drinks are sold. He was accompanied on the tour of inspection by City Marshal W. P. McDaniel.

Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Fay Wray enact the leading roles in this story of adventure, love and sacrifice which was written for the screen by Lieutenant Commander Frank Wead of the United States Navy.

When you take your guess about the largest leading lady, don't answer "Fay Wray." That couldn't be correct, for Fay Wray is winsome, dainty and petite. But you will be right if you say "I know! . . . the largest leading lady is the 'Los Angeles,' the mistress of all American airship!" That is the right answer!

Centuries ago, long before there were ships of the air, romantic seafaring men, voyaging far from their homes, sweethearts and wives, affectionately referred to their ship as "she." And so all types of ships are always called by the pronouns "she" or "her."

At Lakehurst, N. J., when the great "Los Angeles" was ready to be used in filming "Dirigible," the officers of the airship gave the command to take "her" out of the hangar and in a few minutes, "she" was soaring in the heavens under the command of Jack Holt.

What a leading lady the "Los Angeles" is! No other leading lady can compare with her in size. And what a huge role she plays in "Dirigible!"

The story of "Dirigible" is the story of the conquest of the South Pole by aircraft. Danger, adventure, thrilling flying—all are built around a powerful theme of romantic love. This love, Ralph Graves does not realize is his until he literally goes to the end of the earth.

PEP PARAGRAPHS

Cold and wet weather continued throughout the entire week. The sun shone very little, and there wasn't any cotton picked. Cotton suffered considerable damages and that which is on the ground is now almost a total loss.

Mr. E. B. Hoelscher and family of Falls County are staying with Herman Greener's, and have been picking cotton for him. Mr. Hoelscher and Mr. Greener are former schoolmates.

There will be a box supper at the Pep school auditorium Thursday night, December 10. Proceeds of same will be used for school athletics and music. They extend a cordial invitation to all and ask the ladies to bring boxes, and the lady bringing the prettiest box will be awarded a prize. Come and help us make it a success.

Mr. James J. Lynch, one of the teachers in the Pep High school, and also a musician of much skill, is starting an orchestra. This community has longed for a musical organization for a number of years, and we wish him the best of success. Anyone interested and wishing to assist or join this organization will please let his wishes be known to Mr. Lynch, and if you have an instrument that you are not using or wishing to use, then let him make use of same.

Miss Eyizabeth Lupton, principal of the school, and her sister Jean spent Saturday and Sunday with homefolks at Shallowater. They also took Thanksgiving turkey dinner with Heinen's in Littlefield.

There were quite a number of young folks from Littlefield and other places at the Thanksgiving dance at Pep.

Acting on a motion by R. E. McCaskill, the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce has voted to take such action as is necessary in order to have cotton pickers in this section earlier next fall than has been the case in the past.

Such action was deemed advisable in order to start harvesting the cotton crop earlier, and thus save thousands of dollars to the farmers of Lamb county.

The necessity for such action was brought to the attention of the chamber by M. J. Carnahan, who lives nine miles northeast of Littlefield.

The necessity for the earlier harvesting of the cotton crop was also discussed before the chamber by J. S. Hilliard.

Farm Publication Field Editor Praises South Plains Area

WRITER CREDITS LAMB COUNTY WITH LEAD IN HOG INDUSTRY; SAYS PLAINS GETTING DOWN TO BALANCED FARMING

T. C. Richardson, Field editor of the Farm and Ranch, in an article in the publication under the caption, "Where the Buffalo Roamed," describes the rapid growth made by the South Plains area during the past few years of agricultural development which followed the passing of the buffalo.

In Mr. Richardson's article is found a complete history of the South Plains, discussing how the penetrating of the railroads accelerated its growth; and how pioneering farm methods have profitably given way to new labor saving mechanical devices.

Following is Mr. Richardson's complete article as appeared in a recent edition of the Farm and Ranch:

West Texas is a big country. It is composed of several distinct geographical and topographical units, each with its peculiarities of soil and climate, and with its own diversities of natural advantages and disadvantages. Occupying a large place both geographically and economically is the region called by common consent "The South Plains." Roughly speaking it comprises all or parts of about 20 counties lying from Palodura creek and cañon southward from the Caprick westward into New Mexico. It averages about 100 miles wide in Texas, and is approximately 200 miles from north to south, having about half the area of the State of Ohio.

This grass empire was not penetrated by rail facilities until a little more than twenty years ago. The Texas and Pacific to the south is fifty years old, while the Santa Fe and the Denver, which cut across the Plains to the north, were built in the latter '80's. Cattle filled this domain almost from the time the Comanches were subdued and before the buffalo were all killed. Fortunes were made and lost in the cattle business, but they were precarious to the fortune that came to those who secured these level plains lands thirty to fifty years ago, and found a sale for them in recent years at ten to fifty times their original cost.

The first farming on the South Plains is only half a century old, and the despised "nesters" were few and far between until the railroads came. By that time, however, settlements here and there along the eastern tire of Plains counties had become demonstrations for those who came afterward. Cotton crept westward and northward until today it elbows wheat along the high level divide between the Tierra Blanca and Catfish creek—head draws respectively of the Red and Brazos rivers. Wheat, corn and sorghum came with the first settlers, none of whom could have foreseen the day when this region would produce a quarter of a million bales of cotton (1930, with larger prospects this year), wheat by the train load, and feed crops by the millions of bushels.

soon as they were adapted to all-round farm work, and on these level fields they found conditions ideal for spreading cultivation to four and six rows. Bonanza farming was the natural sequence.

Crop and Livestock Combination
But all this time there were those who settled down to making homes on their farms. No visions of quick and easy wealth won them to gamble all on cotton or wheat. The famous red catclaw land, like all other land, requires rotation, and the grain sorghums, which reach their highest development here, offer an admirable combination with cotton and by their residues help to control the blowing of the soil, in the same way that fibrous rooted crops and crop residues reduce water erosion in rolling lands. Either, or both, wind erosion or water erosion follow continuous cotton cropping as irrevocably as the sparks fly upward. On the whole the South Plains has learned this lesson before serious damage was done.

The great crops of sorghum grains form one of the major exports, but it was recognized some years ago that its best utilization is not the cash market, but farm feeding of livestock. Dairy cattle in fifteen plains counties numbered 16,000 in 1920, but in 1930 the census showed more than 56,000 in the same counties. Bailey county has an average of more than three cows per farm, while Lubbock, Hale, Lamb and Floyd range from 8,874 down to 5,959 dairy cattle each. Lynn, Terry and Crosby each have more than 4,000, and Cochran, which was only ranch land in 1920, with seven milk cows, now has 754.

among the first to bring cattle here. Yet white men had known the Llano Estacado for three centuries before it was found that water lies only a few feet away—straight downward, almost all over the country. It is said that the perishing soldiers of Soldier Mound passed where they could have dug ten feet and found water. The cattlemen found this great sheet of underground water and proved the habitability of the country for the farmers who have succeeded them.

Thirty-five years ago the State offered its remaining lands in this section to settlers at $1 per acre, and the first wave of immigration was on. The pioneering of the covered wagon folk, sometimes living in dugouts or sod houses burning mesquite roots or "Paririe Coal"; and traveling a hundred miles or more to railroad markets, marked the South Plains for the plow, and the great conquest began with the coming of the rails. From 1910 to the present (except during the World War) rail extension and sod breaking have extended to every county. All the great ranches have yielded part or all of their lands to cultivation at prices far beyond their fondest dreams. Yet at the going prices for land, men sometimes paid for their farms with one or two crops during the years of high-priced cotton. The new immigration poured in on rubber tires rather than in covered wagons, and having thrown away their Georgia stocks, quickly adopted two-row implements as standard equipment for South Plains farms. Tractors leaped into popularity as

The Hale County Dairy Association is several years old, and owns a $40,000 creamery at Plainview, which turns out about 500,000 pounds of butter fat a year. A cheese factory at Abernathy, which had a struggle to market its products at first, now handle around 4,000 pounds of milk a day and finds a ready market for its output. A cheese specialist from the Department of Agriculture showed the way. Ralls also has a cooperative creamery with a capacity of about 2,000 pounds of butter a day, but its present volume is slightly less than half that. Other local creameries and cream stations of the large centers cover the territory and offer ready outlet for all butter fat. Much of it goes out of the state to Trinidad, Colorado, and to Beatrice, Nebraska.

An important factor in dairy development which covers the entire plains area is the Master Dairy contest which has been conducted by the Amarillo Globe for three years past, in cooperation with the A. & M. Col-

"Where Cleaning is"

PRAISES SOUTH PLAINS

J. E. Rigler of Hale county is one of the master dairy farmers, and we found a crew filling a big pit silo with a combination of corn, Kaffir and sweet sorghum. Mrs. Rigler, an important member of the farm, stated that they find a ready sale for about 200 pounds of home butter per week from twenty-two cows. The milking barn is concrete floored and equipped with a milking machine. The herd is T-B tested and individual cow records are kept. They pin their faith to home grown rations of alfalfa, silage, oats, wheat, barley, with small grain pasturage in winter and Sudan grass in summer.

R. L. May of Lamb county says "skim milk is my main product and the cream is a side line." May keeps five to ten brood sows from which he gets two litters a year, and the skim milk does yeoman duty in the pig pen and the poultry yard. May milks nine cows and has a good bull from the Shelton herd. He has recently dug and filled a trench silo, and has a fine stack of soy bean hay, of which he was the first grower in the county. Now numerous others are growing this excellent legume, and P. E. Boesen, who had fifty acres this year, says he will plant an entire labor (177 acres) next year. Mr. Boesen feeds the hay to beef cattle.

Many Satisfied Poultry Raisers

We found J. F. Wagley of Castro county loading hogs for market, while in the pasture nearby nearly 100 white-face calves were being creep-fed in a self-feeder. Mr. Wagley raises both calves and hogs, and uses oats, barley and wheat as a grain ration. Jim Bagwell, in the same county, keeps about four brood sows, sells cream, and feeds the skim milk to pigs and hens. "Our 400 hens fed themselves and the family when eggs were eight cents a dozen," declared Mrs. Bagwell. They are still young people but have just completed a modern home with a basement well stocked with canned food. "Jim farmed 'big' one year," smiled Mrs. Bagwell, "but he says 'never again.'" They have practically grown up on the Plains and came here from Floyd county.

An idea of the magnitude of the poultry industry may be had from the fact that Lubbock dealers handled 2,237,000 head of chickens and turkeys in 1929. These figures are from data presented before the Interstate Commerce Commission by A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock chamber of commerce. Doubtless this year's volume will be even greater.

A Great Swine Center

Lamb county leads the Plains in hogs, with 8,000 head. Sixteen South Plains counties have 55,000 head, making this one of the greatest swine centers in the State. Swisher county, says County Agent Martin, has twenty-eight 4-H club boys who are raising at least one litter of pigs. This

An Uuholy Alliance

"Organized crime is always the result of an unholy alliance between the political powers and the criminals.

"It is a question whether the criminals employ the officials or the officials employ the criminals.

"You can always know absolutely that you are living in a corrupt community if slot machines are permitted, if violations of the Prohibition Act are open, and if gambling places and vice resorts are notorious.

"The decent citizens in any community are in the majority, if only they can be aroused.

"The income-tax laws are a backhanded method of getting at gangsters to punish them for crimes which primarily are within the jurisdiction of the state and county officers.

"It makes little difference in my mind for what particular crime they are jailed, just so long as they are jailed.

The law as it stands is everywhere more powerful than crime can ever hope to be. But the law can never be more powerful than the citizens, by their votes, will it to be."

GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON, U. S. Attorney, Northern District of Illinois. (The first man to successfully prosecute Al Capone, gangster, Chicago).

I submit the above, and heartily endorse its contents, as applying to Lamb County, or any other community, as well as Chicago.

I have worked night and day to keep Lamb County clean. I appeal to every man and woman to help me make Lamb County a better place to live in.

Last year, when I announced for the Sheriff's office, I promised you that I would endeavor to enforce the law, especially the Prohibition Law. As above stated, the law is no more powerful than the citizens will it to be. Since in office I have received numerous unsigned letters reporting violations of the law. I sincerely appreciate all information and must have the co-operation of every good citizen to successfully enforce the law; but most of these anonymous letters are not definite enough to be of much value. I would appreciate people coming to me personally on all such matters or writing more definite information; all information given to the Sheriff's Department is strictly confidential.

Let us all work to keep this county clean. I thank you.

C. R. CRIM, Sheriff.

(Paid Statement)

county had six self-feeders in demonstrations last year and now 80 farmers are using this modern feeding equipment. Its adoption means not only better but cheaper hog feeding, and indicates a greater stability for the industry. Alfalfa along the "draws" on subirrigated land is extensively used to grow fat on the pigs, which are then finished on a grain ration with protein supplement in self-feeders. It is impossible to lose money in the hog business when thus raised and fed on home-grown feed. Bailey county claims the highest hog population per farm (4 1-7) which is nearly three times the state average. Hog killing and meat curing demonstrations are already scheduled in several counties, and there will be plenty of side mat and ham gravy in the South Plains this winter.

This section, where feed grains are grown so cheaply and plentifully, may well become one of the best hog producing sections of the United States. It has the choice of three markets of easy accessibility, and has a distinct advantage over other swine producing sections in reaching the Pacific Coast market. The Panhandle-Plains country as a whole may readily command the good Pacific markets and leave the more competitive markets eastward to nearby producers.

Cattle feeding, of which more will be said later, will increase the pork production also if standard feeding practices are generally followed, and more swine breeding will be necessary if supplies are to be had without importing pigs from feeder markets.

Townpeople are finding it to their advantage to furnish canning supplies for farm folks "on the halves," and in Shackelford county a number of city folks assured themselves a supply of good old home-cured meat this winter by furnishing farmers with bred gilts, each to be paid for by a 200-pound porker this winter.

The South Plains is potentially one of the greatest farming areas in the country, and with the boom days behind, it seems to be developing an agriculture that will stand up through the generations.
