Mrs. Fred Hagerty Visits Sister Whom She Had Never Seen

Mrs. Fred (Pearl) Hagerty, 26, of 913 East 7th Street, returned to Littlefield, Monday from visiting her sister, Mrs. Ralph E. (Dorothy) Sullivan, 26, of National City, California, whom she had never seen before.

MRS. RALPH E. SULLIVAN

Mrs. Sullivan experienced a strange feeling when Mrs. Hagerty arrived at 917 V Street, National City, and greeted her sister when she opened the door with "Hello, I'm your sister."

"This happened last week-end when Mrs. Hagerty arrived in National City.

The sisters meeting was the end of an eight year search by Mrs. Hagerty, who said she and Mrs. Sullivan will now begin a search for another younger sister whom they never have seen.

"It's such a strange and wonderful feeling I don't think I can describe it," Mrs. Hagerty said. She older brother, Francis D. Backer, now 28, and Mrs. Hagerty were sent to live with different relatives in Minnesota when they were babies. Francis was reared by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Backer at Pipestone, Minnesota, and Pearl (Mrs. Hagerty) by her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawson at West Concord, Minnesota. Dorothy (Mrs. Sullivan) and the youngest sister, Norma Jean, now 23, were adopted from a Minnesota Orphanage and reared by foster parents.

MRS. FRED HAGERTY

Although Pearl and Francis kept in touch with one another, they had no contact whatsoever with their sisters, Dorothy and Norma Jean.

Francis is married and living at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Mr. and Mrs. Hagerty moved here about two and a half years ago from Dodge Center, Minnesota, and previous to leaving Minnesota, Mrs. Hagerty contacted the orphanage in an effort to find her two sisters, but there was no information available.

Until Dorothy (Mrs. Sullivan) was 21 she didn't know she was an adopted child. . . It all sounds like fiction . . . adopted and reared by Mr. and Mrs. Hoefling, who formerly lived in Minnesota, but moved to Ohio. Dorothy, on the death of her foster father, in looking through old papers and letters belonging to the deceased, found an old letter written to her foster father congratulating him on the "adoption of Dorothy". She then went to the family's lawyer and on looking over the adoption papers learned the names of her real parents, and from information obtained, started trying to find other members of her family. Spring Is Flower Time On Perfume Calendar

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Scents are a boon to the morale. Take the day an old beau chooses to renew his acquaintance, and you make an after-work dinner date with him.

It's almost sure to be the day your boss exhausts your patience, you are wearing your dowdiest garments, and you were caught in the rain on the way to work.

If you let these adverse circumstances get you down, you're sure to have a dull evening. So will the man.

But take it in your stride, make use of fragrant grooming accessories, and your confidence may be restored. Here are some suggestions for an after-work pick-me-up with desk drawer glamor aids:

1. Use brilliantine to brush highlights into your hair. Its scent will crown you with charm for the evening, especially if you go dancing.

2. Cleanse the skin of face and neck, and pat on a good refreshing astringent before you apply makeup.

3. Use an underarm deodorant. One of the scented stick kinds may be applied conveniently in your office locker room.

4. Inspect your nails and touch them up with nail polish or do a jiffy manicure.

5. Use one of the delicate skin sachets in a floral scent, ideal for spring. These are available in delightful garden scents—violet, rose and lilac. One lilac scent captures the true fragrance of the flower.

SKIN SACHET . . . A "red lilac" scent perks up the spirits for that special after-five-o'clock date.

and its delicate perfume seems to bring the May flower garden indoors.

Skin sachet may be applied to the backs of the hands, nape of the neck, behind the ears and at the elbows to surround you with a delicate aura of charm for a gala evening after a busy day. Invest in a flower and pin it to your suit or dress for another gay fillip.

Hospital Day Is Observed This Week

This week marks the yearly anniversary of celebrating hospitals. Why? We should be thankful for these institutions. They are a sign of progress in a community. The citizenry of Lamb County and surrounding territory is blessed in this regard. As a community project of far reaching advantages in the future is the Payne-Shotwell Foundation. The foundation is established to aid the sick. By its very organization of well known and respected citizens on the board the Foundation is established to offer the best in scientific medical advances as well as the arts and nursing care brought to mind by the word hospital.

These advances offered by the hospitals result in a shorter stay in numbers of hospital days. In Farm Electrification, Farm Safety, the Anderson-Clayton Scholarship, Herman H. Heep Dairy award, and Texas.

A vote will be taken as to the amount of Area I dues to be assessed for 1953-54.

An area award banquet will be held that night, and the Area I president and nominees for state and national office will be chosen.

1935, the average stay was 14 days, today, 1953, the average stay is 3 days for obstetrical (baby) cases, thus at the same time reducing the actual cost. However any housewife knows the basket of groceries that cost $10 in 1935 now cost $20 in 1953. The Department of Labor Statistics reveal that medical care cost 4 cents out of the yearly income dollar in 1935 and is still 4 cents in 1953. Hospitals have been the foundation for these savings in economy as well as in lives.

The Foundation in Littlefield has education as another objective. This has been advanced further this past year. First: A donated plastic replica of a skeleton by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hilburn and Dr. and Mrs. I. T. Shotwell, Jr., M. D. The skeleton is not only valuable for teaching, but in explaining many diseased processes, as well as fractures, to the patients for a better understanding of their problems. The second advance in the educational program is the teaching of Vocational Nurses.

The Payne-Shotwell Foundation has qualified and received certificates to have a training program for a Vocational Nurses' School. The entire staff teaches women aged 18 to 50 years with a sophomore or 10th grade high school education or its equivalent, who desire to learn and at the same time earn. The course of instruction, as prescribed by the Board of Licensure of Vocational Nurses, consists of 240 hours of lectures in Anatomy, Physiology, Nutrition, Internal Diseases, Surgical Techni-

SPECIAL PRAYERS FOR NEW QUEEN

LONDON (AP)—Women's church organizations throughout Britain are offering special prayers for Queen Elizabeth, to be crowned June 2.

One of the newly-authorized prayers reads: Almighty God, give to Elizabeth our Queen and to us her people wisdom and strength that together we may serve Thee and help each other all the days of our life."

The idea grew from the Queen's broadcast last Christmas when she said: "I want to ask you all to pray for me that God may give me wisdom and strength that I may faithfully serve Him and you all the days of my life."

CORONATION PROGRAMS
LONDON (AP)—Thousands of British Boy Scouts will sell an approved 32-page souvenir program of Queen Elizabeth's June 2 coronation. The profits go to a trust set up in 1935 for the silver jubilee of King George V's reign to foster the welfare of young people.

Coach of State Is Ready for Queen

THE ROYAL BUGGY—Ancient and imposing, gilt and crimson coach of state.

By ALVIN STEINKOPF
AP Newsfeatures
—LONDON—"Well, the buggy is ready. Let the coronation start", said craftsmen on completion of a three-year job of refurbishing the British coach of state in which Queen Elizabeth will ride to Westminster Abbey on June 2.
The principal task was peeling off and replacing paintings on eight panels. It was carried out by 62-year-old William Drown, picture restorer, who said it was the most difficult job of his career.

The general public was unaware that the showiest of the royal coaches was being repaired. The work was undertaken on orders of the late King George VI, who did not realize at the time how soon his eldest daughter would be needing the coach.
The vehicle, made for George III, is almost 200 years old. It is 24 feet long, more than eight feet wide, and weighs four tons. It is drawn on ceremonial occasions by eight horses.

The gilt and crimson coach is elaborately carved. Four golden t-tions, demigods of the sea, support the body. The eight panels, painted by the Italian artist Giovanni Cipriani, depict many mythological characters and insignia of the royal house.

The panels, some curved, were originally walnut wood. They were replaced completely by plywood treated to stand up to moisture and heat.

Peeling the thin layer of Cipriani's paint and transferring it to the new plywood was the most delicate task, and Craftsman Drown confessed that often his heart was in his throat. But the job was accomplished, hairline cracks obliterated and the varnish of earlier restorers removed. Sky backgrounds which had turned green with age, again, their original blue, and the restoration brought out delicate pastel shades which recent generations of Englishmen were not able to appreciate.

The coach, when first delivered to George III, cost 7,518 pounds four shillings three and a half pence, which in those days was about $38,000.

Senate Votes to Honor Nation's Pledge

The U. S. Senate—in fact, Congress as a whole—has voted to redeem a broken promise. For Texas, that is the central meaning of the 56-to-35 vote in the Senate to renounce federal claim to the offshore lands within the historic borders of the states. It was a repudiation of the federal seizure of those lands in complete violation of the government's pledge to Texas when it entered the Union 108 years ago.

The Senate action, following similar earlier action by the house, can be reduced to those simple terms insofar as Texans are concerned. Both houses of Congress have voted to stand by the contract which called for Texas, as a state, to retain all the public lands it owned as a republic, including the submerged lands to a distance of 10 1/2 miles from shore.

In addition to its effect in restoring the bordering sealands to state ownership, however, the action has some important implications. It confirms state ownership not only of the coastal lands but of soil under all inland waterways—bays, harbors, inlets, lakes and rivers. It also sets aside the doctrine enunciated by the Supreme Court that because the federal government must defend such lands it also must own them. That is a doctrine which casts a cloud over state or private ownership of any property. The vote in Congress thus is important to all the states.

Senate approval of the state ownership bill does not constitute final action on the legislation. It was passed in slightly different form by the House, and the two versions must be made to agree before the legislation can be sent to the White House for presidential approval. That no doubt will be promptly done. And it is gratifying to know that when it reaches the White House the measure will face a president who recognizes the justice and equity of the states' claim to lands which have been theirs since the beginning of statehood. Twice before such legislation has been passed by Congress, only to be met by a presidential veto.

This time the state ownership bill has been subjected to the longest and most bitter attack that opponents could marshal against it. By a peculiar perversion of the facts, it has been denounced as gigantic "giveaway" by Congress and a "grab" by the coastal states of an immensely valuable national asset. Immensely valuable the offshore lands may be, although from the standpoint of oil production their value remains more potential than actual. But whatever their value, the offshore lands will remain just as much a national asset in the hands of the states, and the oil they yield will be available to the federal government just as readily, as if they were federally owned.

To say that the states are guilty of a "grab" because they have tried to hold onto their own property is as absurd as to say a man is a thief because he tried to regain possessions stolen from him. Opponents of the state ownership bill likewise have done themselves no credit by seeking to obscure the fact that the area to be returned to the states is only a small part of the offshore lands. The remaining much larger and potentially richer area the federal government is free to bring under its control and management as Congress sees fit, and revenues from these lands can be used for whatever purpose is advantageous to the nation.

Texas throughout the fight against expropriation of its lands has stood on principle. If the matter had been one of money, the state probably could have gained by a trade in the early stages of the controversy. But Texas has taken the stand that contracts unwarranted federal encroachment upon the rights new doctrine altering the settled American concept of states and individuals should be resisted, that a property ownership should be fought, and above all, that the heritage of Texas school children which the offshore lands represented should be preserved. A happy issue to the battle waged for principle, if not yet realized, is now in sight.

REMEMBER

The following were news in Littlefield as recorded in the Lamb County Leader of May 3, 1953:

General drenching rains moved across the South Plains from the northwest again last night, over one inch falling in Littlefield, Sudan, Amberst, Muleshoe and Tahoka. Santa Fe telegraph lines were also down in Littlefield and vicinity, as a result of the severe electrical storm.

The representatives of the local high school have just returned from the state clothing contest in Austin with the laurels of state championship added to their achievement for the year. The team consisted of Winifred Mae Crow, Urylene Foust, Blanche Crockett, and Mary Edith Robinson. These girls won a total of 25 points for the championship of the state. Winifred Mae Crow won first in "selecting children's play clothes" for ten of the points; and Blanche Crockett won second in "school girls' dress contest" for the other ten points. The girls brought back an electric Singer, cabinet machine, as an award.

Two Littlefield concerns announced this week that they will occupy new locations.

Garland and Smith Auto Supply have purchased from J. L. Ivey the building which is occupied by John H. Arnett Motor Company, and will occupy the property within a short time.

Mr. Arnett announced that his concern will move to a new brick building on Phelps Avenue, in the very near future.

Backfire from a tractor operating the feed grinder at the J. T. Bellomy Feed & Grist Mill is believed to have caused the fire, which broke out Saturday afternoon about four o'clock, and caused damage of about $3,500 to the buildings and the loss of about $600 worth of feed, including ground and mill feed and heads.

Joe Blackwell was feeding the mill when the flames burst forth, exploding the gasoline tank, and throwing fire in all directions.

The feed grinding machine was completely destroyed; considerable damage was done to the office, and also to the grist mill. Fifteen hundred empty sacks were burned and a quantity of feed.

In his spirit of appreciation and gratitude for the splendid work rendered by the fire department, Mr. Bellomy presented the fire department with a check for $50.00.

Mrs. Arbie Joplin, Mrs. Pat Boone, Mrs. E. C. Sellers, Mrs. Jimmy Singer, Mrs. Harry Wiseman, Mrs. J. R. Coen and Mrs. T. P. Write were guests of the Lubbock Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star at a special memorial service Tuesday evening.

A "Duggan for Congress" club was organized Wednesday evening of last week at Hart's Camp, composed of about 35 people of the community.

H. G. Moore, superintendent of Hart's Camp school, was elected president, and W. C. Squires, president of the school board, was elected corresponding secretary.

The plans for the club are to devise projects through which Senator Duggan's legislative activities may become known and recognized for their worth.

MOTHER SHIPTON'S PROPHECY

Mother Shipton, author of the following prophetic poem, was born in Norfolk, England, and died in Clifton, Yorkshire, 1449 A. D., forty-three years before Columbus discovered America. How many of her prophecies have come true can be checked by the most casual reader. How many are yet to come mains for the future to disclose:

A WOMAN'S PROPHECY

A carriage without horses shall go,
Disaster fill the world with woe;
In London Primrose Hill shall be
Its center hold a Bishop's See,
Around the world men's thoughts shall fly,
Quick as the twinkling of an eye.

And waters shall great wonder do—
How strange, and yet it shall come true,
Then upside down the world shall be,
And gold found at the foot of tree;
Thro' towering hills proud man shall ride,
Nor horse nor ass move by his side.

Beneath the waters men shall walk;
Shall ride, shall sleep, and even talk;
And in the air men shall be seen,
In white, in black, as well as green.
A great man then shall come and go,
For prophecy declares it so.

In water iron then shall float
As easy as a wooden boat.
Gold shall be found in stream or stone
In land that is as yet unknown.
Water and fire shall wonders do,
And England shall admit a Jew.

The Jew that once was held in scorn,
Shall of a Christian then be born.
A house of glass shall come to pass
In England—but alas! alas!
A war will follow with the work
Where dwells the pagan and the Turk.

The States will lock in fierce strife,
And seek to take each other's life;
When North shall thus divide the South
The eagle builds in lion's mouth,
Then tax and blood and cruel war
Shall come to every humble door.

Three times shall sunny, lovely France
Be held to play a bloody dance;
Before the people shall be free

Three tyrant rules shall she see;
Three rulers, in succession be,
Each sprung from different dynasty.

Then when the fiercest fight is done,
England and France shall be as one.
The British olive next shall twine
In marriage with the German vine,
Men walk beneath and over the streams—
Fulfilled shall be our strangest dreams.

All England's son shall plow the land,
Shall off be seen with book in hand,
The poor shall now most wisdom know,
And water, wind, where corn did grow;
Great houses stand in far-flung vale,
All covered o'er with snow and hail.

And now a word in uncouth rhyme,
Of what shall be in future time:
For in those wondrous far-off days
The women shall adopt a craze
To dress like men and trousers wear,
And cut off their lovely locks of hair.

They'll ride astride with brazen brow,
As witches on a broomstick now,
Then love shall die and marriage cease,
And nations wane as babies decrease,
The wives shall fondle cats and dogs,
And men live much the same as hogs.

In nineteen hundred twenty-six
Build houses light of straw and sticks,
For then shall mighty wars be planned,
And fire and sword shall sweep the land.
But those who live the century through,
In fear and trembling this will do.

Flee to the mountains and the dens,
To boggs and forests and wild fens—
For storms shall rage and oceans roar
When Gabriel stands on the sea and shore;
And as he blows his wondrous horn,
Old worlds shall die and new be born.

HOMEOWNER'S LIABILITY EXPLAINED

Can a homeowner be held responsible for accidents that happen to other people while they are on his property? Lawyers say it is difficult to state a hard and fast rule about liability for such accidents because the facts differ so much from case to case. However, some conclusions can be drawn by noting how the courts have decided in specific cases which have been brought before them.

A postman delivering mail slipped on a child's roller skate one morning. He sued the homeowner for damages. The court held that the delivery of mail is for the benefit of the homeowner and that he must take care to remove any conditions on his property which would make delivery of the mail dangerous.

Then there was the case of the meter-reader who slipped and fell on the basement steps and the courts held the owner responsible because the steps were defective.

On the other hand a guest sued her host because she slipped and fell when she stepped on some beans strewn about the owner's living room. The host's children had been playing with bean-shooters on the day she chose to visit. The court held in this case that the host was not liable for her injury.

Similar cases where social calls resulted in disaster involved a guest slipping on a small scatter rug, and another overnight guest who slipped and fell in a shower. Both cases were decided in favor of the homemakers—not the visitors.

From these cases it may be seen that the law is usually more strict about accidents befalling tradesmen and others who enter your premises in the line of duty, so to speak—postmen, laundrymen, meter-readers, delivery boys and the like—then it is in the cases of those who enter your home for purely social reasons.

This does not mean that the owner is absolved of all liability for injury to his guests if he knows a dangerous condition exists, he has a duty to correct it and he can be held liable for accidents which might occur if he doesn't. For example, a tree branch fell to walk, injuring a passerby. A general rule here is that the owner was responsible because he knew of the defective condition and should have remedied it.

Fortunately, not every accident falls down the front steps and rushes off to sue. However, a substantial law has grown out of these cases of negligence. This is a warning when you read more fatal accidents occur around the home each year.

No doubt about it...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

This year—for the 12th straight production year—truck users are buying more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. That couldn't be true unless Chevrolet trucks offered more of what you want.

Already, 1953's official sales figures tell a remarkable story of clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks. But, this is not surprising, for truck users everywhere are discovering how far ahead of all others Chevrolet trucks really are.

They are discovering things like the tremendous new power in advanced Loadmaster engines in heavy-duty models... the remarkable gasoline economy... the extra ruggedness and strength of heavier, more rigid frame construction. And, in addition to all these advantages, the Chevrolet line lists for less than any other trucks of comparable size and capacity. So, before you buy any truck, stop in and see us.

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

The victim of an upset stomach is indeed an unhappy soul. As the trife, but true, phrase goes, there are times he's afraid he'll die and times he's afraid he won't die.

Of course, many causes for nausea and vomiting exist, such as motion sickness; eating when tired, nervous, or emotionally upset; or eating food to which the patient just happens to be sensitive.

Motion sickness is tied up with the ear and the brain. If you know you're subject to this condition and yet have to take repeated air trips or must go on a long ocean voyage, you should seek medical advice. Drugs to control airsickness or seasickness are available, and your doctor can give you tips for travel, such as the following: (1) Eat a light, bland diet (not highly seasoned or greasy) before you embark. (2) Pick a seat near the center of the vessel where there is likely to be the least motion. (3) Keep your eye fixed on a definite object on the ground or horizon and don't allow it to shift with the position of the ship or plane. (4) Try plugging the ears with cotton or wearing an abdominal support. (5) If a hot meal is offered on the trip, eat it if you are at all able.

If you become sick anyway, ask the stewardess or someone else for help right away. She can bathe your face, put your head back, and adjust the ventilation, among other things possibly to ward off the attack or lessen its severity.

Foods for a picnic should be wisely chosen. Chicken salad, potato salad, or custard pie which may spoil should be left out unless it can be kept cold, and any food should not be prepared too long in advance. Because of good sanitation and preparation of food, very few cases of food poisoning occur in the home. However, epidemics of food poisoning among eaters in restaurants or patrons of bakeries whose choice of pies are cream or custard are not too uncommon.

If there are signs of food poisoning—a feeling of fullness, abdominal cramps, nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea—the patient should be put to bed and given nothing by mouth except water until the doctor sees him. Diarrhea can be a sign of other kinds of illness, for example, intestinal or general infection, dysentery, or appendicitis.

Victims of bad sunburn sometimes have an upset stomach. Of course, in their cases an ounce of prevention would truly have been worth a pound of cure. However, discomfort of the burn may be relieved in one or more of the following ways: (1) a lukewarm-to-warm bath, (2) sponging with a solution of tea, epsom salts, or vinegar, (3) applying a creamy lotion, (4) applying a dressing covered with sterile petroleum jelly if there is blistering. Heavily starched clothing should be avoided, and perhaps some kind of pillow support can be rigged up to keep the top sheet off the burned area at night. The dead skin should be allowed to slough off of its own accord; using cold cream or lotion and leaving off face powder might make peeling less noticeable.

If there's anything that makes a person feel worse than a queasy stomach, it's hurting feet, and corns can be one of the worst offenders. Avoiding tight narrow shoes, discarding old shoes that no longer fit, and not wearing wrinkled or holey stockings are essential to get rid of corns. It's not much use to use corn plasters or other remedies unless the cause of corns is removed—that is, the bad fitting footwear. Paring corns with a knife, razor blade, or scissors is foolish because of the possibility of getting an infection.

ASTHMA COUGHS
 Don't let difficult breathing, coughing and wheezing, due to recurring spasms of Bronchial Asthma or simple Bronchitis ruin your sleep and energy without trying MENDACO. Works through your blood to help loosen and remove thick, strangling mucus. Thus usually allays coughing which permits freer breathing and sounder sleep. Get MENDACO under money back guarantee at druggists.

through a nick in the skin. Ingrowing toenails sometimes can be prevented by cutting the nail straight across. A good way to treat an ingrowing toenail is the following: (1) In the late afternoon, soak the toe in warm water fifteen minutes; when the nail becomes soft and pliable, dry the foot thoroughly. (2) Gently lift the side of the nail that "grows in" with a nail file and tuck a small wisp of dry cotton under it. (3) Remove the cotton at bedtime; soak again and tuck fresh cotton under. (4) Remove the cotton the next morning. While your toe is sore, wear a loose fitting house slipper.

If either a corn or ingrowing toenail fails to improve with home treatment, call your doctor. Diabetic patients in particular have to be careful about their feet because even a minor infection may lead to gangrene.

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK

TED GOULDY

FORT WORTH—The biggest run of sheep since June, 1950, arrived at Fort Worth Monday. Shorn fat lambs hit a new high for the season of $22.75, and the class was strong to 50 cents higher. Feeder competition was the best for some time with Nebraska and Iowa buyers active on the yards as well as the regular staff of order buyers who make Fort Worth headquarters. Spring lambs were steady to easier, with some of the lighter weights and less than choice fat kinds 25 to 50 cents off. Old sheep and yearlings were steady.

Good and choice shorn fat lambs drew $20 to $22.75, and stocker and feeder shorn lambs sold from $14 to $20, some fleshy and fat raised lots at $19 to $20. Good and choice Spring lambs sold for $22 to $25, and common and medium sorts sold for $15 to $20.

Old ewes sold for $5 to $6.50, and old wethers for $8 to $11. Yearlings and two-year-old wethers cashed at $13 to $17.

There was more action on stocker and feeder cattle and calves and some spots were 50 cents higher in the better kinds of calves, yearlings and steers. Stocker cows and fair demand. Fat calves of good and choice kinds were stronger, the plainer to medium kinds just steady, some fed steers and yearlings higher again.

Good and choice fed steers and yearlings sold for $18 to $23, and common, plain and medium sorts drew $10 to $18. Fat cows drew $12 to $14.50, and canners and cutters cashed at $8 to $12. Bulls returned $19 to $16.

Teen Talk

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Every teen-ager hopes for a dream room—that perfect combination of sitting-bedroom, where she can be aloof from her family and entertain at hen parties.

If she is style-conscious she will want her lounging room to be decorated attractively so that all of her pals will give off with appropriate "ohs" and "ahs" at first sight.

If you can't afford to do a complete make-over job in that tired old room, why not single out a couple of spots for a perking up? Any modern Minerva can whip up a gay new chair slipcover and draperies on a small budget by selecting inexpensive fabrics.

Decorator fit and finish are easy to achieve with a modern sewing machine and some easy-to-follow tips suggested by local sewing centers. A slipper chair makeover in saffronized blue and white striped denim with solid denim for gathered founce is pretty, washable and draperies to match in either striped or solid fabric or a combination of both should make a hit. Here's how to slipcover the chair:

Measure Chair Selections

To each chair section measurement add 2 inches to length and 2 inches to width for seam allowance. This is in addition to tuck-in allowance.

Good and choice fat calves sold for $18 to $23, and common and medium offerings cashed in the $12 to $18 bracket, with culls from $8 to $11. Stocker calves ranged from $15 to $21.50, and stocker yearlings sold from $19 down. Stocker cows cashed at $10 to $17. Some 2-year-old feeder steers drew $18.50.

Choice butcher hogs topped at $284, and sows sold from $19 to $21.50. Pigs sold from $20 downward.

Back section of chair top is cut in one piece. So—measure back of chair from highest point to lower edge of chair seat or bottom of apron section. Front sections of chair top is joined to seat section. Therefore measure length and width of front chair top plus 2 inch tuck-in allowance.

Seat section should be measured to cover entire seat surface and extend over front and side in order to cover chair apron at these points. To do this, measure depth of this section starting at lower edge of front chair apron. Add 2-inch tuck-in allowance to this measurement. For width of this section take width of chair seat plus depth of chair apron on each side.

Now measure for founce section. Depth of founce is distance from lower edge of chair apron to floor plus 2 1/2-inch hem allowance. Length of founce is one and one-half times measurement around chair apron plus 1" seam allowance.

Convert all measurements in inches into yards. If you wish to use self-cording in constructing this chair cover, measure distance around chair top plus distance around chair apron to determine yards of cording needed as these are the sections joined by cording. Since the average slipper chair cover takes from 3 1/2 to 5 yards of bias strips, allow about an extra 1/2 yard of material for making bias strips.

Cutting Slipcover

Block fabric to correspond to measurements of chair sections. That is if chair back measures 20 inches high and 22 inches across add seam allowances and cut a piece from your fabric this size, being sure that the height measurement is on the true lengthwise grain of fabric. Following this procedure, cut all sections to measurement.

Fitting The Cover

After cutting, pin-fit sections to chair matching stripes as you go. When pin fitting, start with back and front top sections. Work outward from top center toward outside seams. Shape top and side seams by trimming excess fabric but remember to keep seam allowance. When shaping top seam, you may find it necessary to pin darts at each front top corner to take up excess fullness.

Next pin fit entire chair top section to seam section (including front and side apron sections). Shape by cutting away excess fabric, but be sure to leave in seam and tuck-in allowances. You will find it necessary again to place darts at outside corners of chair seat front to take up excess fullness. If darts are pinned carefully, you will not break the line of stripes.

In order to remove pin-fitted sections from chair, you will have to cut back opening in which slide fastener will be fitted later. When cutting this opening allow for part of fastener that will be attached to founce section. For example: If you have a 24-inch slide fastener and a 10" founce, 10 inches of your slide fastener will be attached to founce and the remaining 14 inches to chair back sections.

Assembling and Stitching

Make cording required to join sections. Do this by encasing cord in bias strips and seaming close to cord with cording foot attachment for sewing machine.

Then—baste chair sections together inserting cording at all seam joinings except where chair seat is joined to lower edge of chair top. Since you have a generous tuck-in allowance, these sections can be joined with a plain seam.

Hem founce. Place appliques—if you plan to use them—on founce and stitch in place with zigzag attachment for your sewing machine.

Gather founce to measurement of chair apron. Join founce to apron sections with cording.

Insert slide fastener closure in center back of chair top and founce.

The sewing center experts who planned this chair cover suggest a bedspread and pillow covers of the sanforized denim in the following companion colors: Top of spread and its boxing of founce of solid red denim, gathered dust ruffle of blue and white stripes, pillow covers of soils blue boxed with blue and white stripes. Cafe curtains would be especially smart of solid blue denim top and blue and white striped bottom section.

A wall hammock of Nordic net trimmed with white and blue striped cotton cording is ideal for holding books.

The next time you find yourself alongside a new Cadillac at the traffic light—take a good look at the gentleman behind the wheel.

The odds are overwhelming that you'll see a man relaxed and at ease.

For serenity is part and parcel of the great experience of driving a 1953 Cadillac. In fact, owners frequently take to the highway just for the relaxation the car provides.

And well they might. For here, beyond all question, is one of the surest therapeutics for the tension of work-a-day life!

Just sitting there in the driver's seat is enough to put a man at ease. The cushions are deep and luxurious and restful... the wheel is perfectly positioned for the driver's hands... and beauty and comfort and spaciousness are in every direction.

And driving a Cadillac is as restful as sitting in a Cadillac.

That great, powerful engine responds as if by magic... carrying the car in and out of traffic almost as quickly and as easily as the driver makes his decision to do so. Steering is feather-light and effortless... and braking calls only for the slightest pressure from the daintiest foot.

Of course, if the driver has chosen a Cadillac with Air Conditioner* for his car, he refreshes as he relaxes. With a simple adjustment of a single lever, he can lower the car's interior to any normal temperature he desires—even in the warmest weather.

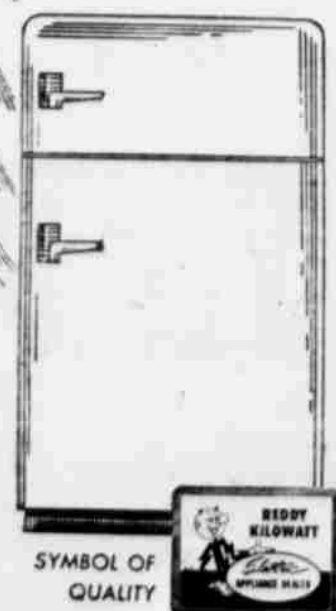

Yes, it's little wonder that the man in the Cadillac always looks so comfortable and happy and relaxed. In plain fact—he is!

Wouldn't it be wonderful to find such satisfaction in your own motoring? Of course it would—that's why we suggest that you come in for a personal demonstration.

We'll gladly put you behind the wheel—for the most relaxing hour you ever spent on the highway.

YOUR GARDEN

Chemicals Can Be Dangerous

By RUSSELL STANTON
Rutgers University
College of Agriculture
Written for AP Newsfeatures

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Chemicals that kill weeds and bugs in the garden are brining the Push-button Age closer, but don't throw away your hoe.

Hold fast also to your caution and follow directions if you expect new compounds to do their best work for you, say Rutgers scientists. No doubt about it, they tell me, that many of the sprays and dusts with jawbreaking names have made life easier for farmers and gardeners.

But you can get into trouble with some of them if you're not careful.

Take 2,4-Dichlorophenoxyacetic acid for instance. Basic ingredient of many packaged weed killers especially effective against broad-leaved pests, it's known familiarly as 2,4-D. But this new found friend that can help rid your lawn of dandelions and other plantain can also kill your tomatoes and almost any other plants with broad leaves within range of your spray.

Unbelievably small quantities of 2,4-D can do good or evil. The story is told of a Rutgers researcher whose station wagon carried some other items, a container of 2,4-D that had been opened, and a ball of twine. When pieces of twine were used to tie tomato plants to stakes the tomatoes showed the familiar 2,4-D effects.

Vapors from the 2,4-D apparently had been absorbed by the twine—just enough to affect the tomatoes even when only small bits of the twine were used.

Used as a fine spray, 2,4-D can be carried many yards by the wind. Furthermore, it's hard to get the 2,4-D cleaned out of a sprayer that you may want to use later for insecticide.

Around here we use dime store paint brush to wipe out weeds. The little solution that the brush can hold is enough to apply to an unwanted weed in the lawn, and there's no danger of drift. If you don't like to stoop you can tack the brush to an old broomstick.

Some gardeners have taken over Junior's water pistol as a weapon against weeds, loading it with 2,4-D solution, but Dr. Ralph Engel, turf specialist, frowns upon even this apparently commendable use of the squirt gun. One shot may be too much of a dose, he says. He likes his paint brush.

The anti-bug warfare has made big strides in recent years, too, and commercial vegetable and fruit growers are making good use of new insecticides fresh from the laboratory. Most of them follow manufacturers' directions to the letter and so avoid the troubles that misuse can bring.

Actually, the home gardeners can go lightly armed with insecticides and win the battle against bugs. So says Bailey B. Pepper, entomologist.

Here's How To Achieve That Bridal Blush

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The bride might just as well wear red as to makeup like a chorus girl and reek of perfume. Everybody thinks of a bride as being a sweet, fragile creature, even if she is built like an Amazon. And this bridal image must be achieved in spite of her girth or ailt. She can accomplish this dainty, blushing bride routine, anticipated by wedding party and guests, by observing these pointers:

1. If you are tall and broad—don't try to minimize height by wearing flats which will only make you look broad-beamed. Wear a heel height which breaks up the straight up and down look.
2. If you are tall and slim—stress your queenly height, unless he is shorter than you.
3. Wear a casual hair style to give you a girlish look—rather

PREPAREDNESS IS WATCHWORD

Anything Can Happen at a Queen's Coronation

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Through more than nine centuries, 39 kings and 26 queens have been anointed, crowned and enthroned in Westminster Abbey.

The coronation ceremony was hewn out of stormy British history. Its form is rigid, est and splendid. Yet within the centuries-old framework of the rites, all manner of strange things have happened, from tragedy to comedy.

During recent generations, coronations have been held mostly in May or June—the most pleasant months in the English calendar. But coronations historically know no reason. Queen Elizabeth I, for instance, was crowned on January 15—because her personal astrologer, Dr. Dee, picked the date as the Virgin Queen's lucky day. Henry V and his queen were crowned during Lent and the lavish banquet which once concluded the day of pageantry perforce had endless courses of fish dishes.

Sometimes sovereigns delayed their coronations. Charles I was held up 10 months by an outbreak of plague in London. Charles II had to wait 11 months so that new regalia could be made—historic coronation trappings including the golden crown of Edward had been destroyed.

Ritual Defies Change

The actual ceremonies involved in a coronation have changed little through the years. Most sovereigns have reached Westminster on a time schedule written by the pen of tradition. Victoria hit the Abbey right on time: 11:30 A. M. But George III was a half-hour late.

Richard II, son of the Black Prince, was a child when crowned. After his attending divine service, the little king was carried back to his palace by his knights, fed and permitted a nap before going to the Abbey for the lengthy ceremony.

Symbolic heart of the coronation is the anointment of the sovereign. The formula for the oil used to anoint Charles I has come down to modern times. In careful compound, it contained oils of orange flowers, jasmine, roses and cinnamon, extract of white flower of benzoin, ambergris, musk and civet. This was mixed in a jar of porphyry which was placed in a porcelain jar over warm ashes and spirit of roses added.

This perfumed oil came long after Queen Elizabeth I, however, for that forthright sovereign complained rather bitterly that the "grease smelt ill."

Funny Things Happen

Special garments are traditionally worn by sovereigns for the anointment ceremonies—fine lawn undergarments and other raiment rich in historical significance. That is why Queen Victoria's uncle, William IV, brought forth startled gasps from ecclesiastical dignitaries around him when disrobing for the serious ceremony it was found that he wore, beneath his kingly robes, the uniform of an admiral, complete to trousers.

Everything about the ceremony supposedly is well rehearsed. But when William's queen, Adelaide, arrived in the Abbey's "theatre", the churchmen discovered they weren't sure which chair she should be seated in. The embarressed queen, in all her trappings, was forced to make a couple of nervous tours around the area while the bishops argued out the point.

Political feelings ran high in many coronations. When George I succeeded the last of the Stuarts, a peeress was overheard to remark, as the Archbishop of Canterbury asked if all agreed to the enthronement: "Does the old fool think that anyone here would say 'no' when there are so many drawn swords?"

It has long been the custom of sovereigns to make an offering. The first Elizabeth gave red silk. Usually, however, it has been money. When William of Orange was being crowned, he discovered he had forgotten to take any money and borrowed 20 guineas from an aide. William IV, also caught penniless, whispered to the presiding archbishop: "I have not got anything; I will send it you tomorrow."

Strange Omens Arise

All sorts of omens, good and bad, are read into coronation happenings.

An earthquake, for instance, is supposed to have disturbed the coronation of Charles I in 1626. He went down into history, incidentally, as "the white king," simply because no coronation robe of purple robe was available, and he substituted a white one. This, too, was supposed to be an omen, and it was remembered when he died. As they carried his body to its burial place, snow fell and covered the corpse with white, and so he went, the "white king," into his niche in history.

A bat fluttered around the head of Richard Coeur de Lion during his coronation, and the people were unrapp about what it presaged.

One of the pieces of regalia with which the sovereign is invariably invested is a ring, signifying the marriage of the sovereign to the nation. Sometimes it has sentimental value—Queen Mary's was set with a ruby her husband, William of Orange, had presented to her.

Victoria's Tight Squeeze

Usually, it is placed by the Archbishop of Canterbury on the ring finger of the right hand, once the finger used for the marriage ring. Queen Victoria, however, had her own ideas on the subject and had a sapphire ring made to fit the little finger of that hand.

When the time came for the ring ceremony, she and the Archbishop, apparently, had a little struggle. The Archbishop won, and forced the ring on her finger. The queen was forced to soak her finger in ice water to get it off. In her diary, she related:

"The Archbishop had most awkwardly put the ring on the wrong finger and the consequence was that I had the greatest difficulty to take it off again, which I at least did with great pain."

Queen Elizabeth I used the ring of her coronation as an excuse when pressures were brought to bear on her to marry. She invariably pointed to her ring and remarked that "England is my husband, and all Englishmen my children."

Heavy Is The Crown

The actual crowning of the sovereign is the climax of the rites. For centuries with a replica of St. Edward's gold circlet. It is very heavy, however, and usually sovereigns would wear the lighter Crown Imperial of Crown of State through ceremonies the rest of the day.

Richard de Lion's crown was so heavy that it was supported on his head by two of his eais.

At George IV's coronation, the Lord High Steward was carrying the crown to the altar when it slipped from his hands. Fortunately he managed to catch it before it hit the stone floor.

The crown was too small for James H's head. His queen Mary Beatrix of Modena, reported later that "they could not make the crown keep firm on the king's; it appeared always on the point of falling and it required some care to hold it steady."

Conspirator's Helping Hand

Henry Sidney put out his hand to hold James' wobbly crown, remarking that "this is not the first time, your Majesty, that my family has supported the crown." This was a nice bit of irony, for history reveals that as Sidney spoke he was neck-deep in conspiracy with the Prince of Orange—Mary's husband—to get rid of James.

Queen Adelaide, William IV's consort, also had some trouble with her crown. It seems that Archbishop Howley of Canterbury (who later had trouble with Victoria's ring) found "some difficulty in getting the crown on the Queen's head. There was a large cushion of hair at the top of her head, and the agony of the Bishop of Chichester was great at seeing how very tottering it was."

But Queen Charlotte, George III's wife, had the worst time. Her crown was set so firmly on her head that after the ceremonies she couldn't get it off. The King, however, told her to leave it on, that it would be considered as a part of her regal attire—not as "a mark of greatness." Incidentally, during that coronation, a large diamond dropped out of its setting in George III's crown. Later, superstitious folk maintained it symbolized the loss of the American colonies which came in his reign.

When Lords Fall Down

Occasionally there have been mishaps during coronations. An account of William IV's ceremonies says that several aged peers, retiring backwards after swearing fealty, fell down. And when Queen Victoria was being crowned, "poor old Lord Rollo", she wrote, started to mount the steps to pay her homage, fell and rolled down to the bottom. He didn't hurt himself, and started up again, so Victoria arose from her throne and came to the top of the stairs to meet him.

Queen Caroline, consort of George II, found her coronation a trying one. Her father-in-law, George I, had distributed the royal jewels among German favorites, leaving Caroline only pearls.

She turned up for the covered with borrowed gems belonging to friends by jewelers.

However, the most activities at any coronation undoubtedly occurred when IV was crowned. George having considerable trouble with his queen, also on line. Things had reached pass that he barred her coronation, instructing to let anyone in without Queen Caroline, with porters, attempted to enter. Finally she gave up and returned to London. She weeks later—uncrowned.

Daugherty May Go To Texas U.

Frank Daugherty was home Monday with the medals that show him to be one of the finest sprinters to pound the cinders in Texas.

A double record-breaker in the Texas Interscholastic League meet at Austin Saturday, Daugherty is expected to announce shortly that he will go to the University of Texas where a long line of sprinters have blazed to national glory. But right now he's thinging of graduation from high school. That will come May 22.

Daugherty ran 220 yards in 20.5 seconds, two-tenths of a second under the national record Jesse Owens hung up 20 years ago. And he ran 100 yards in 9.6 seconds to set a new mark in the Class B division of the Interscholastic League meet.

Longest Stride

He has one of the longest strides of any sprinter and he reminds track followers of the great Mel Patton, who holds the world's record for the 100 (9.3) and 220-yard (20.2) dashes.

Coach Clyde Littlefield of Texas, who hopes to have Daugherty with him soon, said the black-haired, handsome young man from the Plains country reminded him very much of Patton—tall and rangy (6 feet 1 and 170 pounds) and with a style like the mighty California sprinter.

Daugherty flashed into the picture like a bolt of lightning. Last year he was sixth in the 100-yard dash in the state meet. He didn't

W. H. (Hop) Graham Undergoes Surgery

FARWELL, Texas, May 7, — (Special to Leader) — W. H. (Hop) Graham, publisher of the State Line Tribune, was flown to Dallas by air ambulance Wednesday morning about 9:30, where he likely will undergo an operation on his spine.

Mr. Graham, who has been confined to his bed since prior to Christmas, and in and out of his hospitals continuously in the past year, will undergo neuro-surgery on the upper part of his spine if the operation is declared to be feasible at Dallas.

Hop has been in constant pain in the upper part of his body from a malignant condition during the past several months, and it is hoped that the operation will enable him to be relieved of some of the pain.

Mrs. Graham accompanied the publisher in the two-engine Cessna which picked up the couple at the Clovis AAFB.

The Skat was one of 27 papers within its classification to receive this award.

The award of merit is given "in recognition of the worthy contributions which, by maintaining a notable level of journalistic quality, the paper has made to the school for which it was published."

Daugherty May

(Continued From Page 1) even place in the 220. Then, early this season he blossomed with a 9.5 century in the Caprock Relays.

Football Slows Him

But it wasn't like it sounds—a boy finding himself all of a sudden. Daugherty was a good runner before he went out for football in 1951. He suffered a knee injury that handicapped him through the 1952 track season. The injury has healed now but there will be no more football. He's going to concentrate on being the world's fastest human, although he modestly assures that he isn't anything like that good.

Daugherty may run in the Gulf Coast AAU meet May 23. If he does, Coach Littlefield says he sure wants him to be competing under the Texas banner.

The ranch boy, who learned to run hot-footing it about his native Plains country, says Joe Childress, Odessa's mighty sprinter of last year and now on the Texas freshman track team, helped him most. Joe didn't know it but Daugherty was studying his style and copying it. Now Frank may improve on the original.
