If only one of them survives, he or she receives only half of this portion, and the other half (or one-fourth of the entire real estate) will be divided among your brothers and sisters (and their descendants) who survive. If there are no surviving brothers and sisters and their descendants, then the one surviving parent inherits the full one-half.

Where no parent survives, but there are brothers and sisters and descendants, the full one-half is divided among these survivors.

Apathy And Polio

We Americans were generous when we contributed millions of dollars to fight paralytic polio.

We were triumphant when, after years of research, our scientists developed a vaccine against it and the number of cases dropped 47 per cent last year.

Now we are shocked to hear that, according to a recent estimate, 58 million Americans under 40 who should get this simple, effective protection have neglected to do so.

What is the word for this neglect? Polio authorities, like the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, call it apathy. The dictionary defines apathy as "lack of interest" or "indifference."

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Here's How State Divides Estates When There Is No Will

The death of an instate person (one who has made no will) may give rise to many problems regarding distribution of his separate estate. In the preceding column we investigated the manner of dividing the community estate upon the death of a husband or wife. Now we shall see that where separate property is involved, a completely different set of rules applies in determining heirship and apportioning the state among the rightful claimants.

It may be well to recall that the separate estate of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired after by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Now, here is a general idea as to how your separate property will be divided if you do not make a will with contrary provision prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survive and if, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of previously deceased children, the children and their descendants immediately obtain a full (fee) title two-thirds of the real estate involved. The surviving spouse receives a life interest in the remaining one-third of the real property, which passes on to the children and their descendants upon the death of the spouse.

The rule for distributing personal property—cash, stocks, bonds, furniture, or any other items not constituting real estate—is different. Here the surviving spouse gets full ownership of one-third and the children and their descendants inherit the balance.

Now suppose your husband or wife survives, but there are no surviving children or their descendants. In this case the surviving spouse inherits all of the personal property involved.

With regard to real estate, the

South American Trip Proves To Be Very Interesting To Local Youth Who Returns

Bob Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cannon of Ica, Peru, and Roger Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Newton of Littlefield returned Sunday from an eventful six-weeks trip to Peru. The boys were met in Lima, Peru after a flight from Houston, by Bob's parents and spent several days sight-seeing there. The boys took in the horse races, saw foreign movies, old Indian ruins, and night clubs. While in Lima, they were invited to eat at the exclusive National Club which is composed entirely of South American people. Memoranda into the club is inherent and the majority are in high positions of the government. The boys reported that most of the government revolutionaries are planned in that club. Among the places visited were Lima, Ica, Nasca, Palpa, Pisaco, Cajahu, and Paracas. In Pisaco, they toured a walling station and in Paracas, a resort hotel on the ocean, the Texas flag was raised especially in honor of their special guests. According to the boys, the car races and bicycle races passed by their house in Ica. The races are routed from Lima to Ica and to other points in South America. In the above picture are shown some interesting articles, the paintings on the right and left of the center painting were done by Inca Indians in Peru. The center painting was done on silk by a Chinese artist. The boys report that there are many Chinese in South America due to a mass immigration during World War II. The bowl turned upside down on the left was obtained in a shop in Lima and was made out of a gourd. The small dolls were also purchased in Lima. The skull shown and the two bowls on the left hold an interesting story. In the area of Ica, on the Ocucaje Hacienda are large mounds of earth with small holes in them and many skulls lying around. The more valuable and ancient skulls are found by digging in the mound. The boys dug up not only two skulls but also some valuable pottery both of which are estimated to be approximately 2000 years old. The skulls show a usual feature by being very angulated on the back. Bob says that this is because of the ancient custom of tying a hard band around the children's heads and therefore making their heads grow in that pointed shape. Interesting features of the country were pointed out by the two young men. In Ica, it never snows, rains, nor freezes and the temperature never gets higher than 90 degrees. They climbed sand hills more than 700 feet high. Shoeshine cost only two and one-half cents and a haircut only 25c. There is hardly any middle class in Peru with most people being either wealthy or poor. Some people are reported to be living on as little as $2.50 - $3.00 a month. The teenagers have been exposed to the "rock-and-roll" through the movie "Rock Around the Clock" and are apparently as enthusiastic as United States teenagers on that point. The boys were accompanied back to the United States by Bob's younger brother, Bill Cannon, who will attend San Marcos Baptist Academy in San Marcos this year.

The 1957 PHILCO-BENDIX DUOMATIC

It's a washer... It's a dryer... It's TWO in one!

- Wash and dry your clothes in one continuous operation, in less than an hour, in one appliance—the new 1957 Duomatic! Just one setting on the "Magic Keyboard" ends wash-dry work.
- Duomatic washes cleaner than any other washer — clothes are lifted higher, plunged deeper while thousands of jets of sudsy water loosen stubborn dirt and grime.
- Duomatic dries faster—high speed extraction spin removes excess water before low heat drying cycle begins.

The equally wonderful and economical Philco-Bendix Duomatic!

New Hint for the Home Workman

Even the most enthusiastic home workman, like this man with a sizzling job, can use a new idea that makes any project more enjoyable. If he works right through the hours available without a stop, playtime may seem too much like worktime. To make sure he takes a break, he might even set an alarm clock to go off as a reminder to stop for refreshment.

V-8 blended vegetable juices make a good drink for such a time. And if a thoughtful wife adds a cocktail cracker and some favorite spread, so much the better. Having a tasty "interrupter" ready in this way is only one of the ways home repairs can be made more fun.

Sometimes household equipment that's being discarded can be moved into the basement, garage, or home shop. An old ironing board of the folding type makes a temporary workbench. A worn-out refrigerator, with holes bored in the side or door for safety, converts into a spacious paint locker.

And planning helps. Hardware and lumber store items should be bought early on the weekend so that they'll be available after stores close. Allowing enough time for bench clean-up means all will be ready for the next week-end or holiday.

Gages Attend Family Reunion in Brownfield

Whitharral (Sp.)—Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gage, Dale and Terry Lynn were in Brownfield last weekend for a reunion of Mrs. Gages family at the home of a sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lucas.

Other members of the family present for the 3-day reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Robertson and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Hughes and children of Durant, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Jess Damron, E. H. Gipson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Truett Gipson and children and Prentice Gipson of Borger; Mrs. Ken Stephenson and son of Brownville; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gipson and children of Oklahoma City; D. C. Fielding of Quail; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Damron of Wewoka, Okla.; Junior and La-quetta Gipson of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Damron of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Allen and children of Cotton Center; Mr. and Mrs. Cephas Fielding and children of Levelland; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Carver and Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Gipson of Brownfield.

Dicipline Is Needed

Puppies invariably make a mess of homes—until they are sternly disciplined and taught to be clean and decent members of the family.

One wishes that a similar discipline could be imposed on the "litterbugs" who strew discarded paper, beer cans, empty bottles and all manner of other rubbish and dirt along the highways, in recreation areas, and in beauty spots throughout the nation.

1st Christian VBS To End Friday

The Vacation Bible School of the First Christian Church will hold its closing exercises at 8:00 p.m. in the church. All guests are invited. The boys and girls will have a sharing period open house for parents and all guests.

The group will end the school with a picnic at 11:00 a.m. Friday morning at the church.

"I had a tough day at the office, dear — could we eat on paper plates tonight?"

Lawn Insects Can Be Kept Under Control

Many kinds of insects and insect-like pests damage lawns, but this damage can be greatly reduced by proper use of available chemicals, says C. F. Garner, extension entomologist.

Grubs of several kinds of beetles feed on the roots of grass, leaving bare spots where plants have been killed by their feeding. Others, such as sod webworms, armyworms and cutworms feed on the leaves or stems. Still others, such as chinch bugs, false chinch bugs, Rhodesgrass scale and leafhoppers such as the grass. Ants and earthworms dig holes in lawns and throw up mounds of earth, and ants may invade the house from their nests in the grass.

All of these pests can be controlled, according to the entomologist with insecticides such as chlordane, DDT, aldrin, dieldrin and heptachlor. For quicker results chemicals should be washed into the soil by watering after application. Insecticides may be applied whenever desired. Follow the application rates on the container and observe all precautions on the label, because insecticides are poisons.

The problem of moles in the lawn is related to insect problems since moles invade lawns and build tunnels in search of worms and grubs. So controlling insects help control the moles as well, suggests Garner. Finally, the entomologist suggests that you visit the office of your local county extension agent and ask for publications on lawns and insects.

Insect Infestation Is Reported Light In Area

Weather conditions have continued favorable for growth and fruiting of cotton. While plants are not as large as normal for this late, cotton is fruiting at a satisfactory rate in most of the earlier planted fields.

Although several of the cotton insects are present in most fields, infestations have not been heavy in most plantings. Many growers have made early season applications to cotton to insure maximum early fruit set. In most instances such treatments were used to control light to medium infestations.

Aphids were reported present in some fields throughout the area. Infestations have been light in most cases.

Thrips were present on cotton in light to medium infestations. No heavy infestations were reported.

Fleahoppers appeared in larger numbers as cotton reached the fruiting stage. Infestations were light in most fields, but occurred in fairly large numbers in some fields in Mitchell, Terry, and Ycahum Counties. Heavy infestations were reported in Gaines County. Since cotton is late in most locations, damaging infestations of fleahoppers should be controlled to insure maximum early fruit set.

Garden webworms (careless weed worms) were reported on cotton in Collingsworth, Crosby, Gaines, Lamb, Lynn, Lubbock, and Mitchell Counties. The worms generally moved from careless weeds to cotton as weeds were destroyed.

Lygus bugs have appeared in larger numbers on cotton in some fields in Cochran, Crosby, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Lubbock, Lynn and Terry Counties. While a few growers have used control measures, most infestations haven't been sufficient to require control.

Farmers Urged To Control Weeds On Soil Bank Land

Farmers and ranchers who have cleared stands of grasses on their Soil Bank land are urged by the Soil Conservation District to control weeds on these plantings.

Recent checks of these plantings by technicians of the Soil Conservation Service show that in most cases exceptionally good stands have been obtained. Weed growth in most fields have reached a point that shading and use of moisture has become critical to the young grass plants.

It is very important, aside from Soil Bank regulations, that weeds and voluntary feed growth be controlled. Control of shading and moisture use will give these grasses a good chance to survive the first hot summer and dry, cold winter, should these conditions exist.

Mowing or shredding of fields seem to be the most practical control. Shredding will probably give the best results but mowing is satisfactory if a shredder isn't available.

Weed control is also important on land which grass plantings are to be made next year. If the cover crop has been planted then weeks and cover can be mowed or shredded. If the cover hasn't yet been planted then the land should be clean and the cover crop drilled in the near future. Experience with grass plantings this year has clearly shown the need for drilled dead cover for best results.

If you would like information or assistance on management of grass plantings for cover crops for grass plantings contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

Don't be egotistical. Don't be a know-it-all. Don't brag. Congratulate people on their achievements. Express sympathy to those in sorrow. Be friendly—make people feel at home with you. Don't get ruffled—or flare up over things. Be interesting—let people feel that they have profited by being with you. Be willing to apologize if you have been in the wrong and have had misunderstandings. Look for the good in people. Try to overlook faults. Help people who have had sorrow or disappointments by giving them encouragement.

We plan to do a series of pictures in the very near future of men and their sons that have followed in "Dad's footsteps." We hadn't realized that there were so many in Littlefield, until we got to thinking about it. We would certainly appreciate a call from any who can think of the father-son team that we may overlook.

It was our privilege to make a picture Sunday of Dave Eaton and his father, D. F. Eaton, Sr. We had known Mr. Eaton for many years, having lived in Lubbock when he became the first county agent there.

He has certainly lived and enjoyed a very useful life and shows it in his disposition. He is a jovial, happy man with hordes of friends and we were so glad to see him age so little in all these years, and couldn't help thinking that this must be the secret of staying young—SERVICE TO OTHERS.

Statistics Show Women Are More Studious

For the perennial question "Are women more studious than men at Texas Tech?" the Registrar's Office has come up with the perennial answer — "Yes."

At least that's what figures on Spring Semester grade-point averages indicate in an analysis announced by the Office.

Tech's 1,694 undergraduate women had a 1.47 grade-point average, while the 5,259 undergraduate men mustered a 1.23 average. The over-all undergraduate average was 1.29.

For those more familiar with the letter system of grading, 1.00 equals a "C", 2.00 a "B" and 3.00 an "A".

All Citizens Responsible For Control Of Flies

Domestic flies are suspected of playing an important role in the spread of filth diseases due to their indiscriminate movement from human and animal excrements to human foods. Recent studies in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of the U. S. Public Health Service and the State Department of Health have shown a significant reduction in cases of bacillary dysentery by applying effective fly control measures.

Included among the domestic flies are the house fly and numerous species of blow flies and flesh flies. The house fly is by far the most important species which enter homes.

House flies develop prolifically in animal excrement, although any warm, moist organic material will support some breeding. The length of time from egg to adult is dependent upon such factors as availability of food and the temperature. During summer eggs hatch in 24 hours; the larva feed for 5-8 days; and 2-3 days are spent in the pupal or resting stage. In Texas, fly breeding occurs throughout the year, although at a reduced rate during the winter in the northern half of the state.

House flies live for a month or two during warm weather and for longer periods during winter if protection from extreme cold is found. Adult house flies have been shown to be capable of flying 10-12 miles but are not believed to do so if favorable breeding sites are more accessible.

Fly control is the responsibility of private citizens as well as cities. It is essentially a matter of maintaining adequate sanitary conditions, with the use of insecticides being strictly a supplementary measure. Chemicals are of doubtful value in abating flies when they are produced in enormous quantities in favorable breeding media.

Homeowners should strive to prevent fly breeding on their property or holding odoriferous materials which attract flies bred elsewhere. Pets and other animal dejects should be disposed of promptly. Metal garbage cans with tight lids should be used. Compost piles should be checked regularly to insure that flies are not breeding, and fly-tight doors and screens should be maintained.

The organic phosphates, especially malathion, are now widely used in fly control. A 2 per cent solution of malathion may be spread around garbage cans or other attractants. Commercially prepared baits using malathion are available for use in areas of adult fly concentration. Space sprays of pyrethrins are sometimes useful in knocking down adult flies in homes when they are present in numbers.
