Attorney General Price Daniel, announced candidate for United States Senator, to succeed Tom Connally, brought his campaign to Littlefield and Lamb county Monday afternoon, when he spoke to a small crowd of listeners at the court house in Littlefield, at 1:30 p.m., after being formally introduced by Pat Boone, Jr., local attorney.

Daniel, former newspaper publisher of Liberty, and active as Attorney General in the interests of Texas in the tidelands controversy, which recently was reached and received a decision from the U.S. Supreme Court, promised a continuance of the fight to restore the tidelands to the state of Texas, asserting "that the Court's adverse decision is a clear-cut threat to the ownership of public lands by all of the 48 states."

The Attorney General came here from Lubbock, after an all-day appearance in Amarillo on Sunday, and left immediately after the local meeting, for Dimmitt, where he was scheduled for an address one hour later.

Preceding Mr. Daniel's talk, a luncheon was given in his honor, held at Fisher's Coffee Shop at 12 o'clock.

STAY INDEFINITE, FATHER SAYS Jim Tom Brittain In Old Mexico

Old Mexico seems to be growing in popularity as a part of the world in which to spend a vacation. Those of us who are busy, and have only a week, or perhaps two or three weeks, for a vacation, like to get away and see something entirely different.

A number of Littlefield people have spent pleasant vacations this year in Old Mexico.

Among the most recent to visit Old Mexico is Jim Tom Brittain, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Brittain, and associated with his father in the operation of Brittain's Pharmacy.

Jim Tom's father expects him home Sunday, but Jim Tom's father isn't guaranteeing his son's arrival; in fact, the last word received from the young pharmacist was a telegram from Acapulco, and Acapulco is a swank resort town on the West Coast.

Jim Tom is being accompanied on the Old Mexico vacation by a cousin, Gene Grossman, who is a pharmacist in Houston.

The young men included Mexico City in their tour; in fact, they were in that city last Sunday. Jim Tom didn't wire anything about the riots, an outgrowth of the national election. Perhaps he just happened to miss that affair.

One Dead In Flats Shooting Saturday Night

A Saturday night shooting affray, at the Dew Drop Inn, in the colored Flats of Littlefield, which was said to have followed a verbal altercation over a deposit of coins and choice of tunes from a juke box, resulted in the instant death, from two gunshot wounds inflicted upon Dave Lackey, Jr., colored, about 27 years of age, married and residing in the Flats.

He is a son of a colored minister of one of the churches in the Flats, Rev. Dave Lackey, Sr.

Immediately following the shooting, officers called, arrested Tinnie Morgan, colored, aged about 25, who formerly served in the armed forces, and who recently has been employed in grain elevators, and other miscellaneous jobs around the county, in connection with the crime.

Harold LaFont Issues Formal Statement

Harold LaFont, who is a candidate for State Senator, on July 10 has issued his formal statement to the voters as follows:

"To the voters of Lamb county, Texas:

"I want to thank the people of Lamb county for electing me two years ago as their State Representative.

"Most of you know I served as your District Attorney from 1942 to 1949. Many of you will remember me as your District Attorney at the time of the tragic killing of Dr. and Mrs. Hunt in the prosecution of the Jim Thomas case by me as your District Attorney.

"In asking for a promotion as your State Senator at the election on July 26, you are entitled to know what I stand for. At the last Legislature, I supported and voted for a tax on natural gas to build farm-to-market roads. This was in accordance with the program of the Farm Bureau, of which I have been a member for the past many years.

On June 1, 1951, a talk was made by me in the House of Representatives on this subject. After the talk was made, every member of the House voted that the talk be reduced to writing and placed in the House Journal. It was the only talk on this subject placed in the House Journal at the last session.

Whoever wins in today's game will play Lubbock Friday afternoon for the championship of District 2.

Lady Bugs On The Wing To Lubbock County Cotton Fields

Children all gone." A rhyme which is literally true at this time in Texas when cotton on the South Plains is getting "about so high"—and just "done to a turn" for the taste of harmful insects. But farmers in this area have a new solution to the annual invasions of pests. They are ordering gallons of—no, not insecticides—LADYBUGS. These beetles are a beneficial cotton insect, preying on the cotton boll destroyers.

One of the first shipments of ladybugs to arrive in this area was shipped from Phoenix, Arizona to the farm of George Sooter located near Shallowater. Sooter received four gallons of his 20-gallon order on July 2. A two-gallon box of ladybugs will hold 270,000 insects. More than 400 gallons of these little beetles have been contracted by farmers of the area.

Cost $8 Per Gallon At a cost of $8 per gallon and about $1 air freight, the ladybugs are considered to be a less expensive way to control insects than by using insecticides.

The bugs were applied to Sooter's cotton field Tuesday night.

Sooter applied four gallons of bugs in the initial shipment and plans to apply four gallons of bugs at about three to four week intervals until his order with George C. Quick, who is selling the ladybugs, expired. Quick's office is located in Phoenix.

Kept in Refrigerator In order to keep the bugs from becoming too active, the four gallons of bugs were placed in the Sooter refrigerator and kept there during the day. They were applied about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The bugs come in two-gallon boxes. These boxes are specially constructed, with a screen at one end, and are partitioned.

In each partition, there will be a pine cone of wood shavings. Sooter said, which serves to keep the majority of the bugs free from injury.

Caution Needed The applicators of ladybugs has to be cautious on how they put them out. "You don't handle these insects like so much seed." These cones or shavings are placed on the cotton field regularly at intervals of about 30 rows and about 40 steps apart.

Cultivating Friendship Near At Home

Secretary of State Acheson's current visit to Brazil is official recognition of the fact that our diplomatic gardens south of the border have become weedy while we tilled the soil of our European relationships. This is his first trip to Latin America as secretary of state and the first by any secretary of state since the 1948 visit of George Marshall to Colombia.

The preoccupation with Europe, the defense against Russia, the war in Korea, and the American presidential campaign have left too little time for the hemispheric Good Neighbor Policy and as a consequence the Stars and Stripes have lost some measure of their popularity in Latin America. The Latin Americans, who have enormous economic problems too, feel with considerable justification that they and their difficulties have been ignored and neglected. So Mr. Acheson is attempting to set things right, as best he can, and perhaps will engage in some promise swapping.

Brazil was the logical place for a landing, by reason of its enormous storehouse of raw materials, its strategic position in the Latin American world, and its long tradition as friend and ally of the United States. And conditions in Brazil, economically speaking, have not been going exactly famously. The remittance of profits by American firms there has been revised, foreign currency exchange is a problem, and oil exploration legislation requires prodding. Furthermore, communism has been reasserting itself.

The raw materials situation is important, not only in Brazil but throughout Latin America. The importance will increase tremendously in the years ahead, and is borne upon directly by all the other assorted economic and political problems. As the deficit in raw materials, particularly metals—iron, copper, lead, zinc, tin—increases in the United States, increasingly we must look abroad, and in great measure to Latin America, for supplies. To get them we must expand our foreign investments in exploration, mining, processing, transportation, and hundreds of more or less allied enterprises. To induce the investments the political and economic climate for investment will have to be improved.

It is a vast and intricate job for business, banking and diplomacy, but it will be a satisfying one, both for us and for the Latin Americans. If it is done properly, new confidences will have to be established and new investment formulas devised. Latin America potentially is a huge market for American products, but one which can not be developed without the means, largely capital, of earning dollars. The spearhead of economics in this instance is diplomacy. It is encouraging that Secretary Acheson is getting around to giving it his personal attention.

A Must For Chickens . . . Plenty Fresh, Cool Water

Chickens are not unlike humans during the hot days of summer. They like to be comfortable and a mighty important part of comfort, says Professor E. D. Parnell, poultry husbandry department of Texas A&M College, is having plenty of cool fresh water to drink.

Water is usually plentiful on most farms but many flock owners fail, during the summer time, to provide their chickens this very important item. Parnell isn't guessing about the failure because he annually observes management practices used by many flock owners in Texas. Water is generally a pretty cheap item on the farm but when it is not provided in sufficient quantities, chickens just don't do well, says Parnell.

He urges every poultryman to take another look at the poultry house equipment. Spot the things that are wrong. Study the flock as never before and chances are the changes made will insure greater profits from the flock.

Chickens not only like their water fresh and cool but they want it handy too, says the professor. If the fountain is more than 10 feet away from the chicken, it may go thirsty rather than make the trip. Check the location of fountains as well as the total supply of water and add fountains if they are needed.

Parnell points out that it is sometimes necessary to give medicine to the flock in the drinking water but warns there's a danger in doing it. He says some drugs just don't taste good to chickens and turkeys and they quit drinking. Watch the birds carefully when medication is used in the water, and if they quit drinking, better find another way to give the medicine, says Parnell for unless they drink lots of water, there'll be few eggs or little meat produced.

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

A lot of people know a lot about a lot of things but seldom recall the simplest things about themselves, such things as how many baby teeth and how many permanent teeth you're suppose to have. You can always stop and count, sometimes having to fill in the gaps, as to how many permanent teeth you're supposed to produce, but the number of baby teeth usually stumps most people, even those who are several times a parent.

You have 20 baby teeth and 32 permanent teeth, if you run according to schedule. Of those 20 baby teeth, 8 are incisors, 4 are canines, and 8 are molars. The incisors are the cutting teeth, the canines are the tearing teeth, and the molars are the grinding teeth. Since the top and bottom rows of teeth are the same, the layout of teeth in the youngster runs like this, with I representing incisor, C standing for canine, and M meaning molar:

M M C I I I C M M
M M C I I I C M M
And those teeth in the baby usually erupt in somewhat this order:
7 5 6 3 2 2 3 6 5 7
7 5 6 4 1 1 4 6 5 7
The front bottom teeth usually erupt first, then those incisors above them come out, giving meeting teeth. The next turn belongs to those next top teeth, the incisors on either side of the middle ones, and the cutting ability is completed with the two lower teeth next to the first ones that erupted, giving eight front teeth that more or less meet.

Children don't get the tearing teeth, the canines, normally, until after they have cut the first molars; then the canines come out and then the second molars usually fill out the teething situation by about the end of the second year.

From two until six years of age, there's no eruption going on in the mouth of the toddler, but around the sixth year a "jaw tooth" that looks rather large and foreboding, pops into the youngster's mouth back behind the other molars and that is his first permanent tooth, the sixth-year molar.

Some children lose some of their baby teeth before they get their six-year-molars, but normally after the appearance of the "jaw tooth," the baby teeth start coming out, being replaced by permanent teeth. Those four middle teeth are usually the first to be replaced, then the incisors next to them.

Those canine teeth stay in place a while, during which time the eight baby molars come out and

The American "Bill of Rights," consisting of the first ten amendments to our federal constitution all adopted at one time in 1791 specifies in some detail a number of basic civil rights of the individual citizen. Unaltered by subsequent amendments and jealously guarded by our courts, these privileges must still be respected by our governing bodies today.

Among the most familiar of our constitutional guarantees are those relating to freedom of religion, of speech, and of the press. The same article protects the right of peaceable assembly and the privilege of petitioning the government for redress of grievances.

Another amendment secures our persons, houses, papers and effects are replaced by a different type of tooth called a bicuspid tooth instead of a molar. After the permanent bicuspid have all broken through, then the canine or dog teeth are shed and replaced.

To make it easier to remember about the permanent molars, those big back teeth, you might figure it takes 6 years for the body to get all the stuff together that makes a molar. The first molars appear about the sixth year of life, the second appear about the 12th year, and the third start coming through about the 18th year, if they come through at all—these are the wisdom teeth which may appear much later in life or may not ever appear.

So when you have all your permanent teeth, which is usually around the 18th or 19th birthday, they run like this:

M M M B B C I I I C B B M M M
M M M B B C I I I C B B M M M
The B stands for bicuspid, of course, and all in all you might say that is quite a mouthful.

against unreasonable searches and seizures, and specifies that no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, and unless supported by oath or affirmation. The due process of law amendment encompasses not one but several guarantees. Every American is secured against being placed twice in legal jeopardy for the same offense; against being compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case; against having his private property taken for public use without just compensation; and against being held for trial for a capital (death penalty) or other infamous crime, unless upon a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. And, of course, no person may be deprived of life, liberty or property without orderly court procedures, on due process of law.

The right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury, in the locality where the crime was committed, the right to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, and the rights to compel attendance of defense witnesses and to have the assistance of defense counsel in all criminal prosecutions are secured by another section of the "Bill of Rights."

Excessive bail and fines, and cruel and unusual punishments, are prohibited in Amendment VIII. Other articles insure the right to bear arms and ban quartering of soldiers in private homes during peace time.

Then, to make quite clear to our governing bodies the underlying intent of the preceding provisions, the Ninth Amendment states: "The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

The Tenth Amendment further emphasizes this basic theory by providing: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the

Vows Exchanged Saturday By Chalones L. Matthews and Robert A. Newton

The marriage of Miss Chalones Loretta Matthews of Anton and Robert Allen Newton of Floydada, both graduates of Texas Tech, was solemnized at 8 p.m. Saturday in a double ring ceremony in First Baptist church, Anton.

The Rev. Everett Springfield officiated at the service before an altar decorated with fans of white gladioli, marconi daisies and greenery, and tapers in candelabra.

Miss Marie Lewis, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Norma Jean Edwards as she sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an original gown of ivory Duchess satin. Fashioned with sheer yoke, the sculptured bodice was tucked in a criss-cross pattern dotted with iridescent beads framing the yoke, and had long sleeves with sheer diamond-shaped insets outlined with beads.

Her voluminous skirt was shirred at the waistline and swept into a long train at back. Her fingertip veil of illusion was joined to a cap of pleated net with upstanding ruffle at back held with orange blossoms. She carried an arrangement of stephanotis and gardenias.

In Bridal Party Miss Betty Abbe of New Deal was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Jeanelle Thompson of Plainview, Carla Harrington of Lorenzo and Mary Lou Viertel of Aspermont.

They wore identical dresses of orchid organza with bouffant skirts and fitted bodices fashioned with stand-up collars and orchid sashes. Their headresses were of matching organza and they carried bouquets of pink roses with orchid streamers.

Vernon Stone of Paris served as best man. Ushers were Dalton Wood of Lubbock, Bob Pair of Lubbock and Newell Matthews of Levelland.

Reception is given

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given in the church. The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake.

Flatiron Building landmark—the Flatiron Building on the Flatiron's side of the street. Years ago, many pedestrians stayed on the other side. They feared that a strong wind would topple the thin structure which is shaped, as one critic said in 1902, like a "stingy piece of pie."

By now, the Flatiron has convinced the public it's here to stay. "And it will be here another 150 years," says superintendent George Bonhag. "This was one of the first skyscrapers in New York built on a steel frame."

In 1902, when the Flatiron was completed, it became the number one tourist attraction of its day. Its picture was reproduced on post-cards sent all over the world.

In 1904, William Ordway Partridge, an artist, called it "a monstrosity, a disgrace to our city, an outrage to our sense of the artistic and a menace to life."

It was built on a small triangular island on 23rd Street, where Fifth Ave. reluctantly crosses Broadway. It stands 289 feet high. It has frontages of 214.6 feet on Broadway, 85 feet on 22nd St., 197.6 feet on Fifth Ave., and only four or five feet on 23rd St.

Offices occupying the apex come to a point only three or four feet wide inside, only wide enough to get a chair in. Frank Munsey, the publisher, used to have an office on the 18th floor, in the corner. He had the floor raised so that he could get a better view of the two rivers bounding Manhattan and also a better view of employes working before the throne room.

When the Flatiron was built, some neighbors complained that its strange design increased the wind. It's still one of the windiest corners in New York.

In the old days, local drugstore cowboys used to watch women's skirts blowing up. The cop on the 23rd street beat was forever chasing them. This, according to legend, gave birth to the expression, "twenty-three skidoo."

The Flatiron building is strange in various ways. Its top floor is above the attic. Originally, the building was built to a height of 20 stories, plus an attic. Later a 21st floor was added. The attic, used only for water tanks and equipment, still lies between the 20th and 21st floors.

The very top of the building's apex is adorned by statues of two cherubic boys holding scrolls around a big tablet bearing the initials of the builder, George A. Fuller.

Cool Scents for Summer

By BETTY CLARKE AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Smart girls will carry perfume sticks in their purses during the warm weather. It is a major task to try to keep fragrant on hot days. Strenuous exercise—tennis, golf, swimming—make perspiration glands go to work with extra zing.

Many a girl has retired to an out-of-the-way spot at a garden party or wedding because she fears offending people when her clothes become drenched with perspiration. Her deodorant and anti-perspirant have failed her at the moment, perhaps, but a couple of quick squirts of perfume or a fragrant stick which can be quickly rubbed along the arms, forehead or hands could keep her dainty and carefree until she gets home.

A carefully chosen fragrance can be a wonderful boost on a hot day. It is wise to steer away from heavy, sultry scents, however, as these are likely to prove too overpowering for summer taste.

Stick colognes are easy to use—one new one has a base which can be turned like a lipstick so that the cologne emerges, ready to be applied. Because they can't spill, stick colognes make excellent travelers—can be tucked in purse, weekend bag, or glove compartment of the car or in golf locker or desk drawer.

Here are a few tricks to help you look and feel cooler:

1. Apply stick perfume on palms of hands. It imparts a delicate fragrance.
2. Cool and scent the scalp with toilet water. Follow the line of your part with cotton-soaked toilet water. The alcohol will help eliminate stickiness and hair will be sweet-smelling.

When feet are hot after a hike or tennis match, take off shoes and apply toilet water to the feet, especially between the toes.

Many girls keep a bottle of their favorite cologne in the ice-box, pour it on a cloth and then place it over forehead and eyes when they are ready to take an afternoon nap. This is a wonderful pick-me-up particularly on vacation, a scented interlude in between an active afternoon and an evening date.

Absentee Voting Opens Monday

Absentee voting began Monday, July 7, in the office of the county clerk. The polls will remain open until midnight, Tuesday, July 22. This added routine in the clerk's office begins twenty days before every election and ends three days prior to actual balloting by townspeople.

Joel Thompson, county clerk, expects a "bumper crop" of absentee ballots this year. The increased number of ballots over last year's sparse turnout will be caused by the presidential election in November. This quadrennial event marks the highpoint of the average voter's interest in politics.

Between 30 and 40 ballots were mailed from the county clerk's office on the first day of absentee voting.

Milk production in Texas last year totaled 3 billion 800 million pounds and was valued at 200,000,000.

Cutting time, proper curing and storage methods are keys to the production of high quality hay.

Vacation time is the season when many a nice girl goes astray. She meets new friends, different from her neighborhood pals. She visits new places, unlike those to which she has been accustomed. Unless her parents have alerted her to some of the little dangers which might be lurking in unexpected waysides, she might not sense it until she is entangled in an undesirable web.

Most summer heartaches evolve from a handful of missteps. If a girl would just make a clear appraisal of any proposition that hasn't been encountered before, asking herself whether there are any drawbacks, she'd have nothing to worry about. Here are some suggestions:

1. It doesn't pay to waste time with married men. And don't believe 'em when they say their wives want them to have fun. So what? While you're flitting away time with an older man, you'll probably pass up a nice young man your own age.

2. Even if your family permits you to have cocktails at home, don't drink with strangers. If you are partying with a group and it seems like the thing to do, accept a drink, sip it occasionally, if you like. But don't think you must drink to keep up with a crowd.

3. Things are likely to get very cozy at summer resorts. People have been known to scurry back and forth to each others' rooms. The first thing you know you are likely to be partying in a gay wolf's room in the wee hours of the morn. Of course he'll look harmless, at first—they all do. Make a rule not to visit boys rooms.

4. If you are asked to go for a moonlight sail, make sure you have company that is trustworthy. It is not enough that other young girls are being paired off with young men. You should know how well these girls know their male companions, and you should be very well acquainted with your own date. Unless you are a super-swimmer you'll need the cooperation of the captain to get back home from a canoe, rowboat, power or sailboat trip.

5. Picnics are fun. But don't go to out-of-the-way picnic areas with strange companions. That "darling boy" you met last night can be just as fiendish as any drug store cowboy. If you plan to go picnicking

Vacation Bible School To Open Here Monday

Vacation Bible School at Emmanuel Lutheran church, 417 West Third street (on the hill between the swimming pool and Lyman's) begins Monday, July 14, at 8:30 p.m. Final details were worked out this past Tuesday in a special meeting of all workers. Registration for this School of the Bible at Emmanuel Lutheran will be received Sunday, July 13, after services, around 11:30 a.m. and again Monday morning, July 14, before 8:30 p.m., the time when the school actually begins.

At the final meeting last Tuesday night at Emmanuel Lutheran's school room, present were most of the workers. A few more selections needed to be made at that time, but selected already were Mrs. Gene Bartley, W. T. Mauk, E. J. Brandt, James Siems, J. Wutrich, E. C. Hill, H. A. Heckman, Miss Mildred Gohlke and Alice Gohlke, Roy Ogerly, and Pastor Heckman.

While there will be recreation, games, handwork singing among other things, receiving the greatest amount of attention will be the stories of the Bible, and those which make clearest the simple story of Jesus and His love for all, including the children.

This Bible School conducted by Emmanuel Lutheran at 417 West Third is open to all the children of the community from 4 to 14 or thereabouts. You are always welcome at the Lutheran church!

with a new beau, suggest another couple whom you know well to accompany you.

6. If you are on a two-weeks vacation or working at a resort, don't tie up with one man—that's one way to spoil your summer. Men seem more attractive in summer and girls are likely to be more romantic that at other seasons of the year. Moonlight and nature's other enchanting props can help steal a girl's heart away. When she arrives back home and sits by the telephone waiting for that devoted summer swain to call, chances are she'll be disappointed.

7. If a young man suggest you go away for a weekend with him or his crowd, discuss it with your family. They should know where you plan to stay and with whom, and if arrangements are being made for the gang to stay at a hotel or inn, be sure you write for your own reservations and get a confirmation so that everything is in order before you leave home.

8. If anything goes wrong on your big adventure away from home write, wire or telephone your family for money so that you can leave the vacation resort under your own steam. Be independent and you'll have nothing to fear.

LIFE'S JUST A MERRY-GO-ROUND IF YOU LIVE IN A ROUND HOUSE

AP Newsfeatures

CAMP WOOD, Texas—This is a story about a round house—but it has nothing to do with locomotives.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel R. Vernor's home here is as round as any igloo. It sits under a large oak tree.

Because of its unusual shape and structure, the Vernor house attracts wide attention. Curious visitors from all over the U.S. and Mexico have toured it.

Camp Wood is near Uvalde in southwest Texas.

Vernor, 53, planned and built the house. He got the idea while supervising construction of a round stock tank.

Vernor went to work July 4, 1939, and finished the house one year later. He worked in time he could spare from ranching and trading interests.

The project, a one-story, circular house with a conical roof, looks much more squat than it really is.

The home is 115 feet in circumference, has 960 square feet of floor space, and contains six rooms and bath. The diameter across the circular building is 35 feet.

Inside, the home resembles a pie sliced up. The living room occupies a fourth of the circular floor space. There's a dining alcove next to that and then the kitchen. Three bedrooms occupy the other half of the circle. In the center is the bathroom.

The floor is concrete covered with asphalt tile. Facings, doors and windows are walnut, which Vernor cut and sent to Uvalde for planing.

Vernor says it cost him only $1,000 to build the house—not including his labor.

Mrs. Vernor claims at first she didn't like the house. But she later decided it has its advantages. For one thing there are fewer dusty corners to keep clean.

FROM WHERE I SIT ... by Joe Marsh

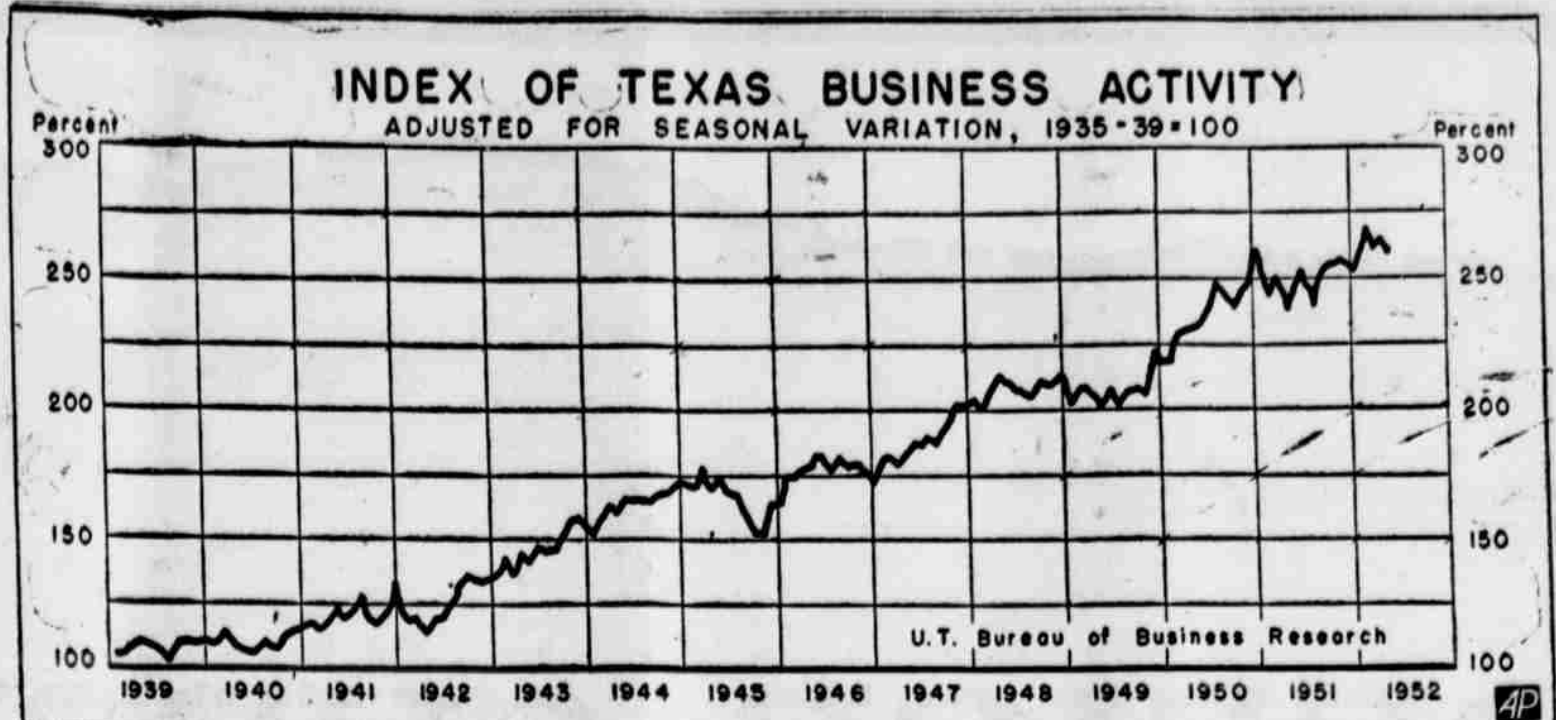

How Nervy Can a "Tenant" Get?

"The Hermit" dropped in on Cunningham the other day complaining about the dated house he lives in Greenwood Lake.

"My landlord?" Harry asked. "Whoever you pay says the Judge. 'Don't rent,' says Harry. 'Moved house twelve years ago and never came to collect.' says the Judge, looking 'what do you have to bout?' 'Plenty,' replies the Hermit's pouring in my livin' and if someone doesn't fix that roof, I'm moving out!"

Now Harry was only having a little joke, but from where I sit I've seen people act just about as nervy as this sometimes—seriously. Like those who enjoy all the rights Americans have worked for, and yet would take away some of those freedoms from others—for example, our right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer. I say these "leaks of intolerance" have no place in the "home of liberty."

Will Rogers Memorial Roundup To Be Staged At Muleshoe Aug. 14-15-16

Cochran County Farmers Urged To Plant Sorghums

Because of the severe drought in Cochran county, broken in part only last week, Homer Thompson, county agent, urged farmers to plant early-maturing grain sorghum varieties.

However, he pointed out, these seeds are extremely scarce.

Those farmers who still do not have sufficient moisture to plant would do well to stock up on these early-maturing grain sorghums seed, Thompson said.

Early-maturing varieties include Double Dwarf Yellow Sooner, Combine 60 Milo and Combine 60 Kafir. Another variety well-suited would be Martin's Milo.

He urged that farmers make sure that all sorghum seed are obtained from reliable dealers.

The Will Rogers Memorial Roundup will be staged in Muleshoe August 14, 15 and 16. More and better floats for the parade are wanted and merchants and organizations are urged to begin now to make their float plans. More horses than ever are wanted, and mounted organizations of this section again will be invited.

Prizes again will be offered for the best parade entries.

This year, a pageant will be staged on each night of the Roundup, in the high school auditorium. Contract has been given to Geller Production, of Hollywood, to produce the pageant, which is expected to have 150 local talent performers.

The rodeo will run three nights, in order to give all the cowboys a chance at the purses that will be offered.

Home grown feeds, especially pastures and other forages, are the cheapest and best feeds for dairy cattle. Using a silo for storage is one of the best practices dairymen can follow—"canned pasture," that's a descriptive term for silage, should be included on every dairy cow's menu at certain times during the year.

Mr. Parish is 37 years old, and he and Mrs. Parish have three sons. They are Leslie Joe, 11, Jimmy, 9, and Johnny, 5.

Mr. Parish has had 12 years of experience in teaching. For the past eight years he has been Loraine school superintendent.

He holds a BS degree with an education major from Texas Wesleyan and is to receive his masters degree this summer from Hardin Simmons.

He is a member of the Methodist church at Loraine and is a Bible class teacher and lay leader.

The next meeting of the Olton school board will be held the night of July 15 in the vocational agriculture building of the school.

G. W. Parish New Head Of Olton School System

Gilbert W. Parish of Loraine has been employed as superintendent of the Olton school system.

Final action was taken at a recent meeting of the school board. He succeeds J. T. Jones, who recently resigned after serving as school superintendent for four years.

The new superintendent accepted a one-year contract which became effective Monday. He plans to move to Olton some time after July 12.

Mr. Parish was faced with difficulties even as he accepted his new position. There are 17 vacancies on the Olton school faculty.

The school board recently accepted two more resignations and learned that three other teachers elected to teach have declined to sign teaching contracts.

Resignations of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Beckett were accepted. The resignation of D. E. Howton was submitted but not accepted. The Becketts came to the Olton school last term a short time before the term was completed.

Mr. Beckett worked as a substitute teacher and drove a school bus. Mrs. Beckett taught a sixth grade class.

Mr. Beckett had been elected to teach high school history and civics next term and Mrs. Beckett to teach high school English and speech.

Mr. Beckett accepted a position in the Springlake school.

Mr. Howton taught commercial studies in high school here the past two years. Last term he was faculty adviser to the annual staff and senior class sponsor.

The board also learned that Lowell C. Browder, Jack Frost and Miss Patty Jean Williams will not sign contracts as expected.

The board also has accepted the resignations of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Allen. Mr. Allen was vocational agriculture teacher and Mrs. Allen was homemaking teacher. The Al-

ON THE HOUSE

David G. Bareuther, AP Real Estate Editor

A basement is one of the most satisfying home improvements that can be made from any way you can get out of your house: If you didn't realize you investment: It can add value to your house and reduce the cost of a property. When done properly, the life of the house by eliminating dampness. As an economy: You can gear it nicely to the family budget, finishing the job as simply or elaborately as you prefer or can afford.

Merely clearing a cluttered cellar of accumulated junk, building a few shelves and cabinets for orderly storage and painting walls and floor of a dry basement in bright colors accomplishes much. White, yellow, pink or light green walls increase the light in the darkest corners. A good grade of deck enamel on the floor in light gray, red or buff, in suitable contrast to the wall color, carries out the cheerful aspect and gives the concrete a smooth finish that will prevent dusting.

Painting a basement is so easy you might as well do it right so the job will last. If your house is new, wait at least a year for the lime and salts to work out of the concrete before attempting to paint. Special paints not affected by lime are available for basement walls and can be applied with no more preparation than cleaning loose particles off the walls. Cold water paints also can be used. However, if you want a gloss or semi-gloss finish, oil paint or enamel is called for.

A stiff wire brush and a carborundum stone will usually smooth the average poured concrete wall sufficiently for painting. If the wall is still too rough to suit you, a coat of portland cement plaster can be troweled on.

For oil paints, walls should be washed with muriatic (hydrochloric) acid solution—about a pint of acid to a gallon of water—then thoroughly rinsed with clear water and allowed to dry. Wear rubber gloves and protect your eyes.

Or you can neutralize the lime by soaking the concrete with a solution of zinc sulphate crystals—three pounds to a gallon of water. This is allowed to dry on the walls for several days, then the crystals are brushed off.

A good sealer is important for the first coat. Frequently varnish is mixed with the paint to provide a sealer. One or two finishing coats can then be applied.

A cellar ceiling has many advantages. It conceals the maze of joists, bridging, pipes, ducts and wires. It increases heating efficiency by preventing drafts up through floors and walls. It provides a certain amount of fire protection, often delaying the spread of fire enough to allow time to fight it.

A ceiling can be as simple as you care to make it. Ordinary paper composition wall board will suffice, or thin sheets of wood fiber hardboard, such as Masonite, can be sawed to fit and nailed to the joists. Gypsum wallboard will increase fire resistance and add soundproofing. Or if you want a more expensive job, metal lath and gypsum plaster can be applied.

Wood paneled or wallpapered walls usually can be provided more easily by building false walls in front of concrete than by installing furring strips. A false wall will allow for ventilating space behind it and make it easier to combat dampness from condensation. Leaving a slot open at top and bottom will allow for air circulation behind the false wall, all members of which should be sealed for protection against moisture from the back.

While 1 by 2 or 2 by 2 lumber will suffice for furring strips secured to a masonry wall by expansion bolts or screws driven into fiber or lead anchors inserted in holes drilled in the foundation, false walls and partitions are best built of 2 by 3 framing. This formed with a 2 by 3 sole on the floor, another for a plate along the top and 2 by 3s for studs spaced 16 inches on centers—that is, about 14 inches apart.

Since wallboards, either fiber hardboards or gypsum, run 4 by 8 feet, and should be supported against bulging, it is simpler to frame 16 inches on centers. This allows nailing space for two panels on a stud where panels meet.

A luxurious wall can be created with the various hardwood veneers, which are plywood surfaced with choice grain rare woods. Or simple knotty pine, or pecky cypress boards with beveled edges can be obtained from any lumber dealer.

Joints between panels of wall board can be concealed with tape for painting or wallpapering. They can be left exposed as V-joints when using bevelled hardboard or veneers. Or they can be covered with batten strips, metal moldings and other decorative details.

Full instructions on the handling of joints are issued by the various manufacturers of wallboards and usually are available at lumber dealers.

Livesay Trial Opens Monday Morning At Haskell With Judge Bills Presiding

The trial of Thomas Clifford Livesay opened at Haskell Monday morning. The case was transferred to that city from Swisher county.

The change of venue transferring the case to Haskell was ordered by Judge E. A. Bills of the 64th District Court last May. Judge Bills is presiding for the trial in 39th District Court at Haskell, and District Attorney Joe Sharp of the 64th District Court is directing the prosecution. Assisting are District Attorney W. P. Ratliff of the 39th District, and County Attorney Royce Adkins.

Livesay, 36, and Lester Douglas Stevens, 51, both of Amarillo, were charged last fall with the death of Joshua Blocher, aged Bailey county recluse and founder of the little hamlet of Progress, six miles from Mulvoshoe.

Stevens is already under a death sentence for his part in the slaying.

The trial of Livesay, which opened Monday, is the fourth attempt by the state to bring the accused man to trial, the case originally was set at Mulvoshoe in Bailey county; was moved to Farwell in adjoining Parmer county, and then to Tulla in Swisher county.

The jury was completed shortly before noon Tuesday.

A statement signed by Thomas C. Livesay Oct. 3, 1951, was introduced as evidence.

The statement—introduced over violent defense objections—was read by Bailey county District Attorney Joe Sharp.

It related in detail happenings leading to the old man's death in a cotton field near his shack in Bailey county.

Accomplices Stevens
In the statement Livesay admitted accompanying Lester Douglas Stevens, now appealing his death sentence in the slaying, to Blocher's house May 11.

He said he agreed to go with Stevens if the latter would not hurt Blocher.

They lured him into a car, the statement said, on the pretense of interest in buying a farm.

"You boys have got to take me back," the statement said Blocher pleaded after they drove several miles.

"I turned the car around and Stevens hit Blocher with a coke bottle," Livesay claimed in the statement. "He was unable to knock the old man out and then he got a Luger pistol and hit him with it."

In Cotton Field
Then, the statement related, they took Blocher out of the car, put him in a cotton field and gave him a bottle of pop to quench his thirst before leaving him.

They returned to his house, the statement said, and Stevens waited in the car while Livesay looked unsuccessfully for money.

Livesay's statement said they took 13 cents from a pocketbook and buried the wallet near the house.

Prosecution witnesses told of missing the man from his home and of finding his body. A wallet and Luger were introduced in testimony.

Postmaster Storey Named Officer For Reunion

About 400 persons, representing the South Plains, other parts of Texas, and New Mexico, attended the annual reunion of Red River County in Mackenzie Park Sunday.

New officers for the group were elected. They were Judge Louis B. Storey, Lamesa, president; W. D. T. Storey, Littlefield, first vice-president; Jim Geer, Vernon, second vice-president; Mrs. Vivian Watson, Lorenzo, secretary-treasurer; John Derryberry, Denver City, chairman of publicity; Robert Marr, J. A. Stallings, and J. L. Cruz, arrangement committee for next year's reunion.

The 1953 reunion date was set for the first Sunday in July.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. J. Gaston, 88, Brownfield, oldest woman attending the reunion; Polard Jamison, 77, the oldest man; and Mrs. Bill Bain, San Antonio, who traveled the farthest to attend the meeting.

Soaking Rains —

damage, which thus far has been held to a minimum, does not come.

His optimistic prediction is predicated on the splendid appearance and condition of the growing crop, timely moisture, small hail damage, few crop-damaging insect infestations and paucity of weed growth, coupled with ample supply of farm laborers to care for any weed infestation which is expected to follow the recent rain.

Not only in Lamb county, but generally from over the South Plains came similar reports of generous falls of timely moisture, and prospects brightened, in many instances doubled, for a record crop this year.

The rains were also of inestimable benefit to grain sorghums, much of which has only recently been planted, on acres either too dry to have been previously planted, or that has suffered irreparable damage from lack of moisture and extremely hot weather and searing west winds.

Not only is the absence of damaging insects noteworthy, but cotton farmers and experts state that there is an abnormal abundance and presence of insects which are classified as favorable, friendly to growing cotton plants.

There has been little or no spraying necessary this year, practically no necessity for replanting, and far less than normal expenditure for chopping and weed control.

Business houses, gins and cotton processors, handlers and ginners, are highly optimistic over Fall conditions, and have their sights pointed toward one of the biggest cotton harvests this year, in the history of Lamb county, and probably for all or most South Plains counties.

ed and voted for the Veterans Land Program, which enables our veterans to borrow money from the State of Texas to buy land. This is a good program and does not cost the State of Texas one dime. We simply lend the credit of the State to our veterans so that they can get a start in life.

"Most of you know my stand on economy in government. I voted for reduced appropriations so that the tax burden on our people might not be so great. The taxes that we pay are so great now that 35% of the average man's income goes for federal, state, county, city and school taxes.

"I stand for local control of underground water and for legislation to encourage the building of reservoirs and dams to conserve surface water in the State of Texas.

"As most of you recall in my race for District Attorney in your county, it has never been my practice to make derogatory remarks about my opponent. It is my belief that a man should run for office on his own merits and his record and not on the demerits of any opponent he might have. Our people must encourage honesty and integrity in office, if we are going to have a country that we will be proud of and in which our children have the same opportunities that you and I have had.

"I would appreciate your consideration of my candidacy for the State Senate, and if you vote for me and I am elected, I assure you that no one will work harder to deserve that vote than Harold M. LaFont.

"Respectfully submitted,
"Harold M. LaFont"

the district championship. The score was 7 to 1.

In winning the west half of the district this year, the local team repeated their record of last year. In going into the semi-finals last year, Littlefield defeated O'Donnell. This year O'Donnell evened the score in defeating Littlefield for a position in the semi-finals.

In gaining the four top positions, Littlefield, Plainview, O'Donnell and Lubbock eliminated nine other teams in the district. The four teams are the same groups to reach top position last year.

In the last nine years District 2 has competed in the state finals, and is known throughout Texas as sure contenders for state honors. District 2 has won the state championship three times.
