FIRST CONFERENCE FOOTBALL GAME FRIDAY NIGHT

WORLD CROWDS EXPECTED FOR LITTLEFIELD-CROSBYTON MATCH; WILDCAT LINE-UP IS ANNOUNCED

Littlefield high school gridsters will be pitted in first conference game of the season Friday night when they meet the Crosbyton high school football team at the local lights.

Considering the fact that last Friday night's game drew the largest crowd in the history of Littlefield football, it is predicted that the increased interest in the Littlefield-Crosbyton conference game will draw even a larger gate.

Littlefield's line up will be weakened for the Crosbyton game due to the loss of Foust, star quarterback for the Wildcats. Foust has not sufficiently recuperated from the mumps to be in the first conference match, Coach Bill Sanders announced.

Following is the likely starting Littlefield line up announced by Coach Sanders:

VOTE IN THE STRAW POLL

Millions of persons throughout the nation await with interest the outcome of the pre-convention straw vote on presidential choices which has been launched by 2,000 weekly newspapers.

Coming at this time, when the policies of the administration are under thoughtful scrutiny by every man in the street as well as by politicians and governmental experts, the trends of opinion revealed in the unofficial vote should reveal significant information concerning sentiment in different sections of the country.

The poll is nation-wide and the participating newspapers represent various shades of political opinion. Most of them, we think it safe to say, follow the center path of political independence. The great majority are published in small towns and have their largest circulation in rural areas, but most weekly newspapers also have a very considerable circulation in larger urban areas. In view of this, we think the results of this poll should prove fairly well representative of opinion throughout the nation.

No straw vote, however, is absolutely dependable. But the greater the interest manifested, the more likely it is to be an accurate reflection of opinion. We sincerely hope that the readers of this newspaper will vote their sentiments in this poll.

HAZARDS OF HOME LIFE

It was Mark Twain, we believe, who used to say that the most dangerous place for anybody to be was in bed, because he had learned from statistics that more people died in bed than anywhere else.

Admiral Carey T. Grayson, head of the Red Cross, has just given out some similar statistics, which are to be taken a little more seriously than Mark Twain's humorous remark. More people are killed every year by accidents in their own homes than are killed on the highways in automobile accidents, the Red Cross has discovered. Last year more than 34,000 lives were lost by such things as falling down stairs, fires, accidental poisoning—usually from taking the wrong pills out of the bath room medicine closet in the dark—and such hazards as lightning, forgetting to turn off the gas, and standing on top of wobbly step ladders.

The Red Cross is starting a campaign for safety on the home. We will do our part by trying not to step on the soap the next time we get out of the bath tub.

Style Show Held In Palace Theatre Is Great Success

The style show, sponsored by the Junior Study Club, and held in the Palace Theatre Thursday evening, was an outstanding success.

Miss Maxine Cash was mistress of ceremony.

The program opened with a song—"When I Grow too Old to Dream," by a quartette, composed of Misses Lucille Teeters, Laura Virginia Bills, Eva Gertrude Chisholm and Miss Wyvon Mason.

Models representing the various dry goods and ready-to-wear stores were as follows: Mrs. Willie Rumbach and Mrs. Amial Timiam for the Fashion Shop; Miss Regina Crow and Miss Avonia Hawthorn for Finks; Miss Mary Ruth Newgent and Miss Opal Carpenter for Cuenods; Misses Eva Gertrude Chisholm and Ruth Mitchell of Muleshoe, representing the Marzelle Dress Shop; Miss Charis Vereen of Sudan and Juanda Dunn for J. H. Ware Dry Goods; and Miss Joyce Griffin and Wilda Courtney representing Replin's Dry Goods.

The first group modeled were the sport dresses, following which Miss Christine White of Amherst favored the audience with a vocal number and a tap dance, and little Jackie Snowden also gave an acrobatic dance.

Coats were the next to be modeled, after which Little Maxine Davenport gave a military tap dance and Louise Hollowell an acrobatic dance and Mrs. J. K. Parker of Dallas gave a beautiful whistling number.

Street dresses were then modeled by the various young ladies representing the Littlefield concerns.

A walse clog was presented by Miss Claudine Baird; a vocal number and dance by Miss Christine White, following which evening dresses were modeled.

The program ended with the entire group joining in the grand finale, which was "Goodnight—a Thousand Goodnights."

Those giving the tap dance numbers, with the exception of Miss Christine White, were all dancing students of Mrs. James Anderson.

Hair dressing for the models was done by Miss Odesa Willis.

Mrs. Ross Mayhew entertained in honor of her small daughter, Polly Ann on her third birthday, Thursday afternoon, October 10, with a party. Just as the party for the youngsters ended a number of Mrs. Mayhew's friends rushed in with a surprise handkerchief shower, honoring her birthday which was the following morning.
They were also served refreshments and had an enjoyable afternoon.
Those present were: Mesdames M. G. Vinther, Ross, Snow, Jim Davenport, Smith, Collins and Miss Monroe and the honoree, Mrs. Mayhew.
A number of ladies were also represented with gifts, who were not present.

New 1936 Ford V-8 Cars To Be On Display To Public Saturday, Oct. 19

THIRTEEN BODY TYPES ARE AVAILABLE; 10 WITH DE LUXE APPOINTMENT, 3 WITHOUT

Dearborn, Mich., Oct. 15.—Ford V-8 cars for 1936 were shown for the first time today to Ford dealers at group meetings in Ford branches in 34 cities in the United States and seven in Canada. The new units will be shown first to the public next Saturday.

Body lines which strike a new note in conservative streamlining, a new treatment of the interior and three important refinements in chassis engineering summarize the principal improvements in the 1936 car. There are no radical changes.

The 85-horsepower V-8 engine, of which more than 2,000,000 are now on the road, is unaltered.

Of the three principal chassis improvements, one—improved steering—is aimed at greater ease and safety of operation. Two others tend to greater comfort. One is the use of new steel wheels which lessen the unsprung weight of the car and thus provide greater riding comfort. The other is an improved transmission, using quiet helical gears in all speeds, including reverse.

A new front end treatment gives added distinction to the body lines. The hood is longer, extending gracefully over the attractive new radiator grille.

Fenders are streamlined, a wide flare giving them an imposing appearance. Louvres are of new design. Horns are recessed in the fender aprons back of small round grilles beneath the streamlined headlamps. The latter are relatively small and parabolic in section, finished in enamel to match the body color and set off by rustless steel rims.

The welded steel body is low and wide, with flowing rear quarter lines. Finish is a Ford-developed baked enamel. The new steel wheels with 12 1-2 inch hub caps materially improve the appearance of the ensemble. Hub cap centers are of polished rustless steel.

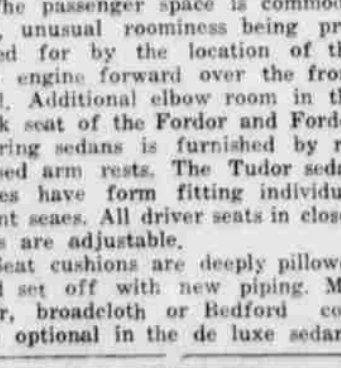

Thirteen body types are available, ten with de luxe appointments and three without. These are: De Luxe: Three-window coupe, five-window coupe, roadster with rumbleseat, phaeton, cabriolet with rumble seat, convertible sedan, Tudor sedan, Fordor sedan, Tudor touring sedan and Fordor touring sedan.

Without De Luxe Equipment: Five-window coupe, Tudor and Fordor sedans.

Five body colors are specified, Washington blue, Cordobatan, gray, Vineyard green, gunmetal and black. The de luxe body types are available in any of the five colors, with fenders matching and wheels in a harmonizing color. The cars without de luxe equipment, the Tudor, Fordor and the five-window coupe are available in black and in gunmetal with fenders matching the body color and wheels in black.

Interiors of the new cars, especially luxurious in the de luxe types, reveal a distinctly modern treatment. The color motif is a rich gray, with which the taupe of the upholstery fabrics harmonizes. The passenger space is commodious, unusual roominess being provided for by the location of the V-8 engine forward over the front axle. Additional elbow room in the back seat of the Fordor and Fordor touring sedans is furnished by recessed arm rests. The Tudor sedan types have form fitting individual front seats. All driver seats in closed cars are adjustable.

Seat cushions are deeply pillowed and set off with new piping. Mohair, broadcloth or Bedford cord are optional in the de luxe sedans;

Ford V-8 Streamlining Steps Ahead

THE IMPROVED streamlining of the front end of the Ford V-8 for 1936 is well illustrated by this camera shot. Note the horn set into the fender apron behind a chromium grille and the way the graceful contour of the fender is carried to the edge of the new radiator grille. A glimpse of the new hood louvres is caught behind the headlamp. The V-8 insignia on the prow of the car is of new design.

Mohair or broadcloth in the de luxe coupes; wide wale Bedford cord only in the types without de luxe equipment. Seat cushions in the cabriolet and convertible sedan are in genuine leather or Bedford cord; the seat cushion in the roadster and those in the phaeton are of genuine leather.

Substantial improvements have been made in the steering mechanism. The steering gear ratio has been increased from 10 to 1 to 17 to 1, and the front axle steering arm lengthened, thus topping up the leverage exerted by the wheel some 13 per cent and reducing in proportion the effort required for control of the car.

A second important change is the use of straight needle roller bearings on the steering arm sector shaft.

An adjustable drag-link also has been incorporated in the steering mechanism. This permits the "high spot" in the gears to be set in the "straight ahead" position.

The new transmission changes mark another substantial improvement in chassis engineering. Helical gears are now fitted in low and reverse speeds, in addition to second and high, providing quiet operation in all speeds.

The mechanical type brakes are considered by engineers to be best for a chassis of the Ford V-8 type with torque-tube drive and radius rods to hold the axles firmly in place under all conditions. Brake shoe surfaces have an area of 186 square inches and the braking effort obtained in relation to car weight is at maximum.

Although no changes except in manufacturing fineness have been made in the V-8 engine, the cooling system has been improved and its capacity increased to provide adequate cooling under exceptional operating conditions.

The Whitarral school closed last week for a month to allow the children to help in the gathering of the cotton crop.

PEP RALLY IS BIG SUCCESS

With the aid of several of the business men, football boys, Coach Sanders, grammar school coach, Earl Hobbs and the Wildcat band, the Pep Rally Wednesday night went over in a big way.

the band and Pep Squad. Some of the boosters from town were heard from with snappy talks. Coach Sanders made a very good talk and had several of the boys tell how they were going to bust into Slaton. That old L. H. S. spirit, was aroused so that the fans would not get to sleep before the next game.

MEXICO AS SEEN BY LOCAL SPANISH TEACHER

(Continued from last week) Before going to Mexico City we visited Guadalajara—a city that has kept its colonial atmosphere.

From Guadalajara we went to Mexico City for a month of study. The capital is a very unusual city and some very interesting buildings are the Government Palace which covers a block and employs 5,000 men, the municipal building, the old cathedral and the national museum.

No scene will surpass that of the volcanoes, Izeacihvath and Popocatepetl. They are snow capped the year round. Popo smokes slightly occasionally but his wife Iztacihvath is dead.

The Palacio de Bellas Artes is magnificent—the most modern building in the city. It is built of marble and its construction covered a period of thirty years.

Other points of interest in Mexico aside from Mexico City include Vera Cruz, Mecameca, Acapulco, Pueblo, and Mecameca.

In all the things that we visited the thing that impressed me most was Mexico's condition. On being asked what I thought the country most needed I replied: "Education and sanitation".

The president of Mexico, Senor Cardenas, is doing his best for the poor people. He does not believe in luxury and even maintains his residence out in the town rather than in the Castillo de Chap.

Priests have to dress like anyone else. In the schools no religion is mentioned. There must not be anything mentioned about religion in the texts. The child is taught to cultivate sympathy toward the church but he must be trained to be of service to the country by getting a practical education.

And in conclusion may I say if you want to see something different and meet different people go to Mexico. Be friends to them. They need your friendship.

Bull Pups Defeat Baby Cats Thursday

By Floyd and Oates Littlefield Baby Cats were considerably chewed up by the Bull Pups at Plainview in a bout with the Junior High gridsters there Thursday.

The Baby Cats were up against a larger and more experienced team this week than encountered before. The score at the end of the game was 10 to 9 in favor of Plainview.

Coach Hobbs reports that he is satisfied with his teams' defense. But the offense wasn't up to par.

The DIVORCE COURT MURDER

by MILTON PROPPER...

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS—Six persons are in an inner office of the law firm of Dawson, McQuire and Locke at Philadelphia. A master hearing in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland is under way. Mrs. Rowland, represented by her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard; Mr. Rowland, the defendant, and his attorney, Mr. Trumbull; the court clerk and Mr. Dawson, the master, are the six persons. There is a new development in the case. After failing to defend himself against the charge of adultery in earlier hearings, Mr. Rowland digs up evidence and asks the court's permission to produce witnesses and resist the suit. Judge Dawson overrules the heated objections of Mr. Willard, and orders the witness brought in. Rowland's lawyer goes to get the witness but finds her dead—chloroformed. She is Mrs. Barbara Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man. Judge Dawson phoned for the police. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case. He is now questioning all of the parties involved in the case. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Rankin nodded, in appreciation of the diabolical effectiveness of the late Tom Marshall's measures.

"So, with the divorce goes the management of the estate," he summarized. "But I thought Harvey Willard had means. Both he and your wife inherited from Peter Willard's estate. Why should he need the trusteeship?"

The young man shook his head. "He's not rich any more, and anyhow Adele was willed most of it. Willard's share all disappeared in poor investments and the stock market. And Marshall's will permitted him to spend for his own benefit the thirty per cent he didn't need to transfer to his sister—about forty thousand annually. I happen to know he is hard pressed by creditors. Unless he can obtain plenty of funds before July first, he's a ruined man; they will close in and force him into bankruptcy. Adele is too smart to throw good money after bad and won't lend it to him. Only a prompt divorce decree can save him."

"Still," the detective pointed out, "if your wife intends to marry Campbell shortly, what good will that do him? As her husband, he then becomes the Marshall executor and Willard's situation isn't bettered at all."

"Even with temporary control of the estate," Rowland returned, "he might manage to slide out from under." He extinguished his cigarette. "Besides, he had no more idea of Adele's intentions in that direction than I had until my spying brought results."

He paused, and after a brief moment for reflection, Rankin acquiesced.

"Yes, I can understand that. Now, what did you discover by watching Mrs. Rowland?"

"Two weeks ago, I obtained the evidence I needed," Rowland resumed his narrative. "It was on the Wednesday evening after the last hearing. I had learned several days before from the chauffeur that Campbell was back in town; and for some evenings I continued my usual watch and trailed them. Then that Wednesday, May twenty-fourth, Finley reported he had been dismissed for the evening and also added this significant item: Adele's maid had casually informed him that she was instructed to pack an overnight bag for her."

"Well, right after supper, I took up my watch by the entrance of the Willard estate. Campbell, driving a Cadillac coupe, arrived at eight o'clock, and Adele joined him with her overnight bag. But for the early part of the evening, they did nothing more censorable than on other occasions. First, they went to the Forrest Theater. At eleven o'clock, they visited the Organdy Club on Broad Street, but I didn't dare follow them in. Instead, I parked near Campbell's car, looked into it and saw that he too had brought an overnight bag. He and my wife remained in the night club until midnight. And perhaps twenty minutes before they appeared, Mrs. Keith came out of the place by herself and—"

Rankin's interruption was abrupt. "All alone?" he demanded sharply. "She was at the Organdy unescorted?"

"Yes, and it puzzled me too," Rowland replied. "I called her and she explained that she had been to the opera for which Mr. Keith did not care. Because the club was so close by, she went in to see the floor show. I realized, for a married woman in her position, the story didn't ring true. I didn't question her, as it was none of my business and beside the point, I was too thankful for her appearance just when I needed a witness to worry about it."

"You were well enough acquainted with Mrs. Keith to enlist her aid in such a personal matter?"

The young man made an apologetic gesture. "I'm afraid I wasn't fair to her and took advantage of her lucky appearance," he explained persuasively. "You see, I asked her to join me, but didn't tell her why I wanted her; I only said it would be an important service to me and urgent. I was excited and that made her curious and desire to help me. It wasn't until we were already trailing my wife and Campbell away from the club, toward city limits, that she fully realized the predicament I placed her in. But it was too late then and she was sporty enough to see it through; for my sake, she agreed to risk the publicity and gossip and give evidence. If I had ever dreamed it would end like this—"

He left the sentence unfinished. Compressing his lips with a sigh, shaking his head dolefully. An awkward silence followed until Rankin asked:

"Then you and Mrs. Keith were good friends, Rowland. How long have you known her?"

"I met her two winters ago, at Palm Beach, though, like all Philadelphia society, I had heard of Mortimer Keith. She stayed at the Royal Arms Hotel, where Adele and I were; and because he was too busy to join her, she was a grass widow and needed company. That, her social position and her attractiveness made her welcome with all the young men at the resort. I did my share to entertain her; I rode and visited the casino with her, and several times attended the dog races. Even Adele acted fairly cordially toward her."

"Well, what happened the night here you followed your wife and Campbell?" the detective prompted. "Where did they lead you?"

"Out the Park Drive and left on the Ridge Pike," Rowland said. "We passed through Roxborough and Norristown. At Collegeville we caught up and followed them off to the right, along the narrow country road paralleling Perkiomen Creek. At the end of five miles, they halted finally at a substantial stucco bungalow along the creek. It was then one-thirty."

"Again I drove my car past, about by two hundred feet, and parked where a clump of trees fringed the road and hid us from the cottage. Campbell produced a key and unlocked the door; then he turned on the lights. I have inquired about it since and learned it belongs to Nick Alberti, the manager of the Organdy club, a friend of Campbell's. Adele was then cautious enough to pull down all the blinds. Still watching silently in the darkness, Mrs. Keith and I could make out they were drinking in the living room. At two-thirty they started to retire and a half hour later Campbell turned out the lights. I considered I had gathered enough evidence against Adele to enter a defense to her suit; so I retraced the trail with Mrs. Keith back to the city."

The speaker concluded his narrative and fell silent until Rankin asked:

"And at no time did your wife or Campbell see you or become suspicious of your presence?"

"I'm practically certain they never realized they were being followed."

"Then they and Mr. Willard had no idea in advance with whom they had to reckon? Mr. Trumbull left reasonably sure they hadn't identified Mrs. Keith as your chief witness before she arrived at the hearing this afternoon?"

Allen Rowland pondered a moment. "That's right, unless Adele noticed her at the night club," he offered at length, "and she probably didn't; her arrival there that night must have been one of the reasons Mrs. Keith left without waiting for her date."

"Yes, I suppose that's possible," Rankin frowned uncertainly. "And you have no other proofs of your wife's infidelity? Your entire case depended on her?"

"Mrs. Keith's death doesn't leave me a leg to stand on," Rowland replied, a harsh note in his voice.

Abruptly, the detective shifted the subject. "Now, just one more point, Mr. Rowland," he said. "About the night of Wednesday, February first, when Mrs. Rowland caught you and Miss Edmond together at the Sunset Inn, I've found out that immediately after the interruption, Mrs. Keith's husband arrived there. Can you tell me how he came to be there or what his connection was with—"

he paused delicately, "your intrigue?"

But as Jill Edmond had done, the young man professed to be unable to account for the manufacturer's appearance. He had never met Mortimer Keith, he said; though, having seen him several times, he had recognized him when he entered the room. He could add no explanation or detail to the secretary's description of the incident.

Concluding his questions on this circumstance, Rankin thanked Rowland and dismissed him.

His next step was to examine the dead woman's checkbook. Except for two stubs, her accounts seemed in perfect order; her expenditures, with the date, purpose or name of payee and amount, were carefully audited. The sums she spent were comparatively small and far from commensurate. Rankin wondered at her low balance, which never exceeded five thousand dollars, and at present came to less than one.

The two check-stubs which were not identifiable as to purpose, however, indicated exceptionally large sums. One check had been drawn about three months ago, and the past Thursday—for two thousand and three hundred dollars, respectively. The only clue to the reason for these withdrawals was the word "personal" written on each stub.

Before the detective could ponder the significance of these entries, a knock interrupted him. At his command, the policeman he had sent to locate Mortimer Keith opened it and entered the room.

"Yes, Cottman?" Rankin greeted him. "You've been gone a long time. Is Mr. Keith with you?"

The officer shook his head. "No, I haven't found him; he isn't in town at all," he replied. "It was too late to visit his offices, so I called at the Aldwych Apartments and learned from his butler, Stanley, that he had gone away—on business, he thought, to Washington." Rankin pursed his lips in disappointment. "Washington? I pose you discovered what he was doing with the people he went to Cottman?" the detective inquired. "No, I didn't, although I went; that's what took me so long to do with the New Ray Silk Company. Neither he nor the butler any idea at what hotel Mr. Keith might stop, tonight."

"Hotel? Then he isn't expected back today?"

The policeman shook his head. "No, not until tomorrow," he answered, "when he's completing his business."

"Well, I imagine we can give him a chance to turn up according to schedule," Rankin dismissed Cottman. Johnson entered as Cottman finished. Johnson asked Rankin if Johnson did not reply until the officer had gone. "I've taken body's fingerprints, Tommy," said, "but I can't make a report until I've had time to them—say tomorrow morning."

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the individual package. (Adv.)

The Hallowe'en motif and colors predominated throughout the party. A three course luncheon was served from a long table, laid with a lace cloth over orange colored silk, bearing orange colored candles, with pumpkin place cards.

Two tables of bridge were enjoyed following the luncheon, Mrs. Roy Young receiving the high score prize.

Besides Mrs. Young the guest list included; Mesdames John Porcher, Roy Young, Quinton Bellomy, L. C. Hewitt, Bob Lewis, Pat Boone, and J. O. Garlington.

Miss Gray Member Of Mary Hardin Baylor Chorus

Special to Leader) Belton, Oct. 15.—Miss Dalene Gray, Littlefield, has begun her junior year at Mary Hardin—Baylor by taking a prominent part in student activities. This is Miss Gray's third year at Mary Hardin—Baylor, and so she has already made a prominent place for herself.

She was one of the groomsmen at the annual Newgirl-Oldgirl wedding, sponsored by the junior class as a symbol of their friendship for the freshman class from whom the bride and her attendants are chosen. The wedding took place this year in a regal setting, and Miss Gray's costume was that of the royal guards.

When announcement was made of the personell of the Mary Hardin—Baylor Chorus Miss Gray's name was included, also. This comes as a major honor, for only those students whose voices contribute toward the building of a superior Chorus are included in this group. She will rehearse with this group twice weekly.

Parents Hear Boles Discussing A Vocation

Major considerations should be in electing a vocation, R. O. Boles told the student body in his talk Thursday on "Life Underwriting as an Occupation." Before a decision is made in a life work the individual should ask himself: is the work pleasant to me? Do I believe the vocation is a worthy one in which I can make progress in life financially and can contribute to the social welfare of my fellow being?

Can I make a living at my job? Do I have sufficient education and training to carry on the work?

Am I personally equipped for my chosen work?

In pointing out some qualifications necessary for a success in life insurance business Mr. Boles placed hard work, honesty and enthusiasm at the top of the list. He also stated that in order to be a success in the life insurance business one must have a mind capable of arranging and definitely organizing work at hand. A thorough knowledge of mathematics is necessary since many forms of mathematical calculations are involved. A keen insight into the needs of the people within the locality both from the economic and psychological stand point is essential.

In conclusion the speaker declared that the insurance business offered a great deal to those engaging in it if enough time, thought, and hard work is put into the occupation.

WHAT DO YOU THINK WOULD HAPPEN—IF—

NEVER MIND, IF YOUR ENGINE

stays oiled

Oil wouldn't be oil if it weren't slippery. Ordinarily it slips off the job as soon as you stop. After you park half a night—or even half a morning—where's your lubrication? Down in the crankcase. And before it gets back up in the motor, these colder days, your engine wears fully twice as fast as any other time.

This winter skip all that double-quick destruction. Change to Conoco Germ Processed Oil, known to bond itself direct to every engine part. It forms what millions know as "the Hidden Quart that never drains away." For Germ Processed Oil actually becomes a part of all surfaces that used to scrape, drag, rub and clatter. When it comes to something extra-difficult, like lubricating the new copper-lead, high-lead, and cadmium-alloy bearings, Conoco Germ Processed Oil more than ever surpasses plain mineral oils. Merciless road tests have proved this again and again.

Only an oil that can beat the starter with advance lubrication, like patented Germ Processed Oil, will save you the engine wear, battery juice, and other winter grief that you'll save by seeing your Conoco man today. Continental Oil Company, Established 1875.

We Think—

ket price and when care is taken to meet payments on any unpaid balance as the obligations become due.

Also it is very true that a man or a woman who has a clear piece of property is never without funds, because it is always possible to borrow on real estate. Something can always be borrowed even on very inferior property.

Have you ever noticed that real estate is an excellent indication of the economic condition of a nation or a particular section of that nation. When people become interested in the buying and selling of real estate, you need no better assurance that general economic conditions are improving. And when real estate is very active you find that business in general is booming.

Have you ever noticed that a prosperous man is generally a very large owner of real estate?

And here's something else to think about: The purchase of a piece of real estate is generally the foundation on which economic success is achieved.

We are proud to say that we give real estate the entire credit for whatever economic achievements we have been able to accomplish. We do not recall the name of the man who sold us our first piece of real estate, but we would like to shake him by the hand; he did us a favor.

Our advice to every young man is to buy a piece of real estate. In making regular payments on real estate, the saving habit is easily acquired. And once the saving habit is achieved it will not be long before the young man who is paying for a piece of real estate also will have a tidy bank account.

Youth frequently look on saving money as something for later in life. And that "later in life" slips by for many without anything very much having been accomplished. Start saving in your teens and in your thirties, forties and fifties and on through life you will experience an independence, joys and happiness that otherwise would not exist.

WILL RECEIVE CERTIFICATES AT EARLY DATE

Farmers Will Be Notified As Soon As They Arrive

Producers of Lamb County will be receiving within the near future extra certificates from the 10 percent reserve. Farmers eligible for these certificates are those that have averaged planting less than one third of their total cultivated acreage to cotton during the years 1930, 1931, and 1932, and also those producers who have had a low yield during any one or more years of the base period. This yield must be a third lower than the five year average yield before a producer can qualify. These certificates will be issued by the State Board and will be sent to the County Office for delivery to the farmers. "Just as soon as these certificates arrive the producers receiving poundage from the 10 percent reserve will be notified by mail," states Donald Turner, Assistant County Agent.

None of the unsold certificates from last year's pool nor the certificates that were sent in for replacement have arrived. Producers will also be notified when these certificates come in.

The National Certificate Pool for surplus certificates is now open and producers holding surplus certificates may pool them now at the County Agent's office. These certificates will be sold at the rate of five cents (5c) per pound, states Donald Turner, Assistant County Agent.

Shirley Temple To Be Featured At Palace Theatre

Shirley Temple seems to have no limit to her resources for winning and hold audiences. In one picture she dances, in another she sings; in some pictures she tugs at the heart strings of her audience, and in still others she sends them home roaring at her comedy antics.

But her newest starring picture, "Curly Top," which comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday, combines all of Shirley Temples many talents and adds still another. Shirley sings, dances, laughs—and plays Cupid in bringing sweethearts together.

Spade Resident Sustains Injuries In Auto Accident

Aaron Cuba, son of Joseph Cuba, of the Spade Community, and a young man friend named Bartek, who resides near Lum's Chayel, sustained cuts and bruises in an auto accident Sunday night about 19 miles south of Lubbock.

As the truck was about to be passed it was noticed that another car was proceeding in the opposite direction. In slowing down quickly to prevent a collision, it is said, the Cuba car turned over.

Considerable damage was done to the machine.

SUDAN SEED CROP UP, LESS ALFALFA

A Sudan grass seed crop four times larger than in 1934 but a smaller alfalfa seed production is indicated by reports to the Department of Agriculture.

The 60,000,000 pounds of Sudan grass seed raised this year compare with about 15,000,000 pounds last season, while the price to growers, clean seed basis, at mid-September, was about $1.35 per 100 pounds, against $7.25 last year and $2.75 the 1928-32 average.

Alfalfa seed production for 1935 is estimated at 45,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds, against 50,000,000 last year and 52,500,000 the average. Quality of the 1935 crop also is slightly lower, due to frequent rains during harvest.

Every Corn-Hog Producer To Get Vote In AAA

Every eligible corn-hog producer in Lamb county, as well as the 508 contract signers, is to vote in the national referendum Saturday, October 19, according to official announcement by the president of the County Hog Control Association.

All farmers have a stake in the question: Do you favor a program to adjust production to demand? Do you favor a program which expires on September 30, 1935? Therefore, it is important to get the judgment of every eligible producer on the matter pointed out.

All operators and owners, official representatives, of which produced corn or hogs in 1935 may vote whether they have corn-hog contracts in past year or not.
