Cornell & Company To Make Annual Audit Of School's Records

In their regular monthly meeting Monday night, July 6, the Littlefield School Board attended to routine and seasonal business.

Of primary interest to the people of the Littlefield school territory is the fact that the board has voted to discontinue football for the duration of the war. This step was deemed advisable because of inability to secure a coaching staff, and the probable inability to finance the football program during the war,

The board elected four teachers to fill the existing vacancies on the teaching staff for the coming year. Miss June Wren, a graduate of Texas Tech, and a resident of Witharral, was elected to teach in the Intermediate Grades. Miss Opal Snitker, a graduate of West Texas State College at Canyon, and a former resident of Bula, was elected to the position of Assistant Homemaking teacher. Miss Emma Sell, whose home is at Temple, Texas, was elected to teach in the Primary grades. Good And Bad News

Ever since Pearl Harbor we have been wandering up emotional hills and down emotional dales.

Over the radio we hear the sweet music of victories and a few days later the bitter reports of defeats. The victories excite us with the anticipation of a quick ending of the war and we cheerfully envision a better life just around the corner. The defeats send us hurtling into despondency wherein we picture a war without end, misery bevond comprehension and a future which is nightmarish in all aspects.

If this is a long war, as there is every reason to expect it to be, these mental ups and downs are going to wear our nerves to frazzles. We need to learn to take our victories with more grains of salt and our defeats with stronger dashes of hope, so far as their effect on the permanent outcome of the war are concerned. We should remember that, in a world-wide war, it will take hundreds of victories to win and even more defeats to lose.

Looking Ahead

Everybody in this country regrets that when we were at peace we weren't foresighted enough to prepare for war. Now that we are at war, let us hope that we will at least realize the importance of preparing for peace.

The peace that follows the war can be, to the people of this country, a wonderful adventure in a scale of living higher than we have ever known before. Or it can be almost worse than war itself.

Which kind of peace we will have will depend largely on what men are appointed now to work out the master plan which will keep our economy functioning at full speed when the war production ends. Men like Donald Nelson are doing a fine job of handling the war job-but let us hope that a group of equally intelligent, efficient and visionary men will soon be assigned the job of planning for the post-war period.

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE URGES LONG STAPLE

Poison all your cotton where necessary but take particular pains with your long staple cotton, B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas USDA War Board, urged Texas farmers this week.

The board has been advised that ample supplies of calcium arsenate for insect poisoning will be available, Vance said. Approximately 50,000,000 pounds, more than was used in any year prior to 1941, will be delivered by manufacturers by Sept. 1.

The Department of Agriculture has called for greatly increased production of long staple cotton, since it is needed for the manufacture of war materials. Training planes, combat planes, balloon fabrics, flotation gear, machine gun belts, and parachutes all require long staple number cards.

The Form SS-5 is easily completed and need not be mailed to the office from which the number was originally secured since any Social Security Board field office will take the proper steps for securing the duplicate. It is necessary to have the same information as originally given in order that the worker's account number will not be confused with those of others having the same or similar names.

Slinn was insured by the A man found in the Hudson river near found drowned in the Hudson river near found drowned in the Hudson river near found in the hudson river near for the company. And his beneficiary is a man named B. B. Trombley who lives in Troy. The company's Albany agent, Carlin, identifies the body, and the insurance money is paid to Twombley. But Jerry Glidden, suspecting that Slinn was murdered, has gone to Ironburg. A little mining town in Pennsylvania, to see an "Angela sina." She turns out to be an ugly recluse of a woman who lives in a shack near the abandoned "Break O'Day" iron mine. She denies knowing Joseph Slinn. Rose Walker, grand-daughter of the owner of the mine, runs the local store and post office. When a man registers at the hotel as B. B. Twombley of Portland, Maine, Jerry wires Troy and learns that Twombley has moved to Maine. He has already seen Twombley with Rose Walker, and again at Angela Slinn's shack, so Jerry is not surprised to discover that he is trying to buy the "Break O'Day" mine. Jerry goes to the mine to get a sample of the ore. While he is there, something a thrown into the water. Believing that someone has tried to kill him, Jerry decides to go to Americus, a nearby town, instead of returning to Ironburg.

He reached Americus long after midnight. Everything was closed light: the sole lights were the blue-sputtering arc-lamps at the corners. sputtering arc-lamps at the corners. The sole person encountered was a large, fat man with whom Jerry collided at his second turning loward what he remembered as Eim Avenue, the main street. "What? You mean I'm to?"

"It is. Our exchange closed at twelve tonight an' won't open till seven. The night girl's took sick, an' she couldn't find no substitute."

There was nothing for it save to rout out the clerk at the Hotel Americus and—at more expense—lie down on a hard bed for six hard hours. "My coat'll dry, anyhow," Jerry comforted himself.

Jerry comforted himself.

Up at six, ne got to mis telephone and roused, betimes, at a Philadelphia boarding house, a young New Yorker, who had lately been sent to the P.L.I.'s Quaker City branch. Mr. Wraxall, the gentleman in question, wasn't grateful.

"Glidden talking," said Jerry.

"When does your office open?"

"Nine o'clock. It's 7:30 now. Thank you for calling me in time."

"Don't mention it; but your private mansion 'll do just as well, as long as you're in it. Didn't you once try to sneak through the University of Pennsylvania?"

"I graduated from it."

"Lucky for U.P. Say, listen, Wraxall; I want the name of the best man that institution's got in the practical metallurgical line.

"Then where is he? And if he isn't handy, who is?"
"Tecumseh Sherman Bower lives somewhere in Ranleigh. That's a about of Pittsburgh. I'm not wise to his street address, but if you'll—"Thanks, I will, old man." Jerry spoke to an unconnected telephone.

that guy we were talking about last night—not till I get back, or till you hear from me, anyhow." "Why?"

"Why?"
Desperately he consulted his watch. Some sort of reply he had to give. A phrase sprang ready made from his lips, just because prevarication is so easy.

"I've got to go! I can just catch my train's tail if I do a nosedive for it! I told you I wasn't my own boss. Well, for one thing, I believe your own interests depend a good deal on an answer I must get to a letter I didn't mail to my employers till last evening. Not to do ployers till last evening. Not to do anything—anything—before tomor-row night, anyhow. Will-you-prom-

From the other wire end trav-eled to him a gulp of feminine in-credulity. "A letter you mailed out here?"

"Certainly."

And then the blow fell.
"Jerry, don't try to lie to me.
There's just one letter-box in Ironburg, and that's the one here at the store. Early this morning I had Angie collect everything in it, and I put a lot in the bus mailbag myself. There wasn't a single letter only a handful of postcards."

Click!

She had rung off.

In the booklined office of his Ranleigh laboratory, Tecumseh Sher-man Bower had pulled a pair of old-fashioned steel-mounted spec-tacles far down upon an old-fash-ioned hook nose and looked over them at Jerry:

"From what you tell me, I gather that the water would present no insurmountable difficulty to the engineering mind. The question, therefore, concerns solely these specimes." specimens.

He nodded at what looked to Jerry more than eyer like rubbish. It was the still sodden contents of those pockets filled at the Break O' Day banks.

"Of course I don't know if I got the right stuff-or got it in the right way, Doctor. I mean I didn't know how to select samples-"

"The tests will tell if you were wrong-or else that the deposit is."

"When must I come back?"
"In two hours."

"And about the fee: do I pay it now or then-or later?"

"Ah, yes, the honorarium. Well, just as you please," said Dr. Bower in a tone that plainly meant "At Jerry further, and this time althe second had begun, and Jerry was here for the verdict. The expert approached his hands to each other, the tips of their long fingers touching, and leaned back in his swivel chair.

"I am not aware, Mr. Glidden, as to whether you are cognizant of the leading facts in the chronicle of the iron and steel industry."

Jerry wasn't and didn't want to be, but it was impossible to say so. One interview with this specialist had convinced his client of Dr. Bower's impenetrable scholarship. Having received his fee, he was de-termined to give good measure in

"I don't know anything about 'em," said Glidden.

"Ah! In order that you may understand about those specimens which you brought me, I must indicate the leading points of the industry's tertiary period."

"Very weil," moaned Jerry.

"Before—" Dr. Bower resumed—"before that period, we had a conversion of the metal into fusible castiron. Huntsman, in 1740, removed the ore's gangue by melting. But the process was expenmoved the ore's gangue by melting. But the process was expensive and never completely satisfactory. "From what you have tod me, I gather that the deposits in question were a case in point. Many such a concern went into bankruptcy and was forgotten before S. G. Thomas found the way to eliminate the phosphorus from any slag rich in lime."

Here was, at last, something worth hearing. "When did that happen?" asked Jerry.

"In 1878. Meanwhile, metallur-gical surveys had been imperfectly conducted and maps by no means kept up to date. As I have already intimated, not a few banks now potentially valuable fell into the possession of persons out of touch with the industry's progress and

The expert was human, after all. Over his lowered spectacles, he smiled. "My judgment is that you have got hold of a fairly high class of steel ore."

"And the location?"
"I'll—I'll have to consult her."
"A lady?" The Doctor's smile "Then of course enlarged. must. I merely inquired for the reason that these specimens of yours are extremely like some submitted to me only a short while ago."

"These are from this state. Were those others?"

"No, I'm sure not. Indeed, I remember the matter chiefly be-cause, assuming that the person who brought them brought them from his own part of the country, I was surprised to learn there was such ore thereabouts. Since your interests, therefore, can't possibly interfere with those of this predecessor of yours among my clients, I may as well tell you that he was a Mr. Carlin—as I recollect, from Albany or Troy. Must you go Mr. Glidden?"

Must he? He was gone! He was out of the office; he was "Doing It Now" with a vengeance. In a min-ute he was halling a fortunately passing taxi:

"All the way in town! Union Station—and never mind the traf-fic laws!"

Carlin! The name of the P.L.I.'s agent who had secured the Joseph Slinn risk—and urged its accept ance! Carlin, who had "gone os his vacation" near Casco Bay, Maine, when beneficiary Twombley removed to Portland! Specimens from the Hudson Valley, indeed!

Rose had talked of waiting twelve hours only. In the telegraph office, he could scarcely handle the pad of forms. The chain attached to the public pencil snapped. He himself couldn't read the message he wrote for Rose. The operator insisted on Glidden's verbal translation:

ADDITIONAL MAN POWER IS NEEDED

Due to an unforeseen need for additional man power, men 20 to ators 40 years of age have an excellent opportunity for assignment to the arm of service of their choice.

Of interest to men who want to combine thrills, adventure and good pay with service to Uncle Sam, the age limit has recently been raised for parachutists. Such men must be between 18 and 32 inclusive, weight not over 185, have good but not necessarily perfect eyesight, and normal blood pressure. Parachutists receive regular Army pay of their grade plus $50 a month bonus.

To men who can qualify as engineer specialists in this man's Army, and want to get to work quickly at jobs for which civilian training fits them-where you can pull your own weight and more in licking the Japs and Germans-then contact the nearest Army recruiting representative right now and get all the information on openings for the Corps of Engineers.

If you are not yet 27, physically fit, and with a reasonably good education, your place may be in the Army Air Force. If qualified, you can enlist immediately and go into the Air Forces in grade of Private and be learning useful things about the planes you are going to fly. Then when your time comes, you will be promoted as Aviation Cadet and sent to school. Or, you can qualify, be enlisted in the Air Forces Enlisted Reserve, and remain at home until called to active duty for training as an Air Man. If you are a college man, you can qualify for Aviation Cadet training, be enlisted in the Army Air Forces Enlisted Reserve and be deferred until graduation. Unless circumstances require the Army will not call you until you have finished your college work.

If you made a grade of 65 or more, but less than 80 on the screening test for Aviation Cadets in the Air Forces, here's good news for you. The West Texas Recruiting and Induction District has a quota to fill for glider pilots in Class Athat is the men who have had previous aerial experience, are between 18 and 35 years of age inclusive, and otherwise qualified. Interested men should go to the local Army Recruiting Station and present an affidavit attesting to flight experience. Students, when graduated, will be Staff Sergeants, and outstanding graduates will be commissioned. This is the chance you have been waiting Vacancies exist for radio operators and radio repairmen in the Army Signal Corps. If you are an operator with an amateur or commercial license, between 18 and 45, and can meet physical requirements, Uncle Sam wants you. Radio repairmen may be enlisted if they have one of the following qualifications: 1.— Member of the Radio Servicemen of America. 2.-Member of Radio Manufacturers Service. 3 .- At time of application, are employed in radio service work. are welcome in the Army of the United States, unassigned. The Army is taking every possible step to insure that specialists entering the service are assigned where their abilities can be best utilized. Every effort is made to use each man's qualifications to the utmost.

It appears that every able bodied man in America will soon be in the armed service of this great nation. The earlier this is accomplished, the sooner the Stars and Stripes will again wave over Corregidor, Bataan and Wake Island. We will then feel that, in a measure, the heroes who have given their lives in defense of this service have the satisfaction of these citadels of freedom will not knowing that they are being enlist- have died in vain. We can never ed directly into the Army Signal fully compensate for a life that has been given for freedom; but we can, and must, carry on the battle Enlistments of qualified men, 20 so that the home of free men and years and over, in the draft age, women shall not perish from this ow exasperating! How troublesome! How wasteful! We mean this thing of letting moths "move in" and take up residence in your favorite garments. Or any garments, for that matter.

et that's exactly what they're likely to do, unless you take steps to prevent it. Right now, it's easy for you to take those steps. All you have to do is send your cleaning to us. We will clean your garments thoroughly - remove every trace of dirt and grime — and then reshape them to original beauty. But in addition, we will treat them with MONITE — which absolutely keeps moths away and insures you against moth damage for a period of six months—or until the garments are again cleaned.

Why run the risk of moths, when you can get this service at absolutely no additional cost? Send us all your clothes for clean-ing today — tomorrow at the latest!

The present officers of the congregation are: Rev. E. H. Reise, pastor; A. J. Ogerly, C. W. Brandt, and H. Synatschk, elders; George Wuerflein, chairman; Ernest J. Brandt, secretary; and Eldor C Hill, treasurer.

The Christian Day-School The present school was opened in 1926 and has been in existence since that time. The chief purpose of the school is to provide a Christian training for all who attend it. Until the fall of 1936 it was taught by the pastors of the congregation, In 1936 C. T. Boriack was engaged as its teacher on a year to year basis, but he was given a permanent call and was installed at the first permanent Lutheran teacher of the congregation and in the Panhandle on June 8, 1941. Messrs. B. D. Birkelbach, W. J. Gallmeir, and Gus Friday are the present members of the Board of Christian Education,

The Ladies' Aid The Ladies' Aid was organized in 1926. It has always been active in aiding the congregation, particularly in beautifying the interior of the church. It aided much in the redecoration of the interior of the church late in 1941. Its present officers are: Mrs. H. E. Gohlke, president; Mrs. August Meeks, vice-president; and Mrs. Ed Zybura, secretary-

The Walther League

A young people's society was organized in 1929. It has served the congregation in many ways. Late in 1941 the group affiliated with the Walther League, an international young people's organization. The present officers are: C. T. Boriack; Misses Dorothy Timian, Lillian Cunningham, Athalia and Ruth Drager.

The Sunday School and Bible Classes The Sunday School was organized in 1929, during the pastorate of Rev. W. J. Luecke. Its enrollment is steadily growing. The present teachers are: J. E. Wuthrich; Miss Athalia Drager; Mesdames Walter Timian, Ernest Brandt, Paul Man-they W. J. Will C. T. Perkel Conthey, W. J. Will, C. T. Borkack, Gus Friday, and Ed Zybura. Mrs. E. H. Riese serves in vacancies. Ernest J. Brandt is the superintendent of the Sunday School; Miss Dorothy Timian, the secretary-treasurer. The Junior Bible class is taught by C. T. Boriack and the Adult Bible class by the pastor. The Sunday School and Bible classes are well attended.

Contrast in Ancient Cairo

Quite a contrast is furnished by these two vehicles proceeding down a Cairo street—an American jeep car, being driven by Master Sergt, Kindle Walston of Louisville, Ky., overtakes an Egyptian donkey cart. Since then this jeep car has undoubtedly seen much sterner action, as Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's mechanized forces have swept towards the Suez.

JUDGE HARRY N. GRAVES

Judge Harry N. Graves was elected four years ago to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge O. S. Lattimore as a member of the Court of Criminal Appeals of Texas. He has actively participated in the work of the Court since that time, and has written his share of their opinions.

This Court has disposed of the cases submitted to it, and is up with its docket, and he requests a second term at the hands of the voters.

Would it be wise to change the personnel of this Court at the resent time?
