PLANS FOR THANKSGIVING DAY FOOTBALL BATTLE ARE MAPPED

WILDCATS WILL ATTEMPT THIRD TRY FOR CROWN

Slaton Booked To Tangle With Littlefield For 3-B Title

Their fighting claws sharpened by a 37 to 6 win over Levelland here last Thursday night which netted them the northern half championship in the 3-B conference, Littlefield's raging Wildcats will hurl themselves against Slaton in a Thanksgiving Day game which will decide the 3-B championship.

Although no definite plans for the game can be mapped until after the Slaton-Brownfield game at Slaton Friday, Littlefield football officials are making tentative plans for a Thanksgiving Day game to be played at Seely field the afternoon of Nov. 26.

Slaton and Brownfield will play a postponed conference game Friday and should Brownfield win, which is considered unlikely, the southern half of the conference would be thrown into a three-way tie between Lamesa and the two contenders.

WE THINK
What Do You Think?
BY M. B. D.

RECOVERY IS HERE—
If there were any doubt left in anybody's mind that economic recovery is well under way in America, the action of the United States Steel Corporation in raising the wages of its employees ought to be convincing evidence. It will cost the Steel Corporation somewhere about $75,000,000 a year to grant these pay increases.

Other and smaller industries have been gradually restoring wages to the pre-depression level, but steel is the key industry of them all. When the steel companies are prosperous, all the other industries are prosperous. It is the first to feel the effects of a slack of business activity and the first to realize the effects of business recovery.

Another evidence that we are back on the main highway leading to prosperity is the enormous increase in automobile production and sales and the promising outlook for that industry for the coming year. The new models for 1937 are just now being shown to the public for the first time. Without exception, they are better cars for less money. And it is easier today for the ordinary citizen to buy an automobile than it ever has been before. Credit terms have been extended and interest rates reduced so that it is difficult to

J. L. R. Crockett, Mayor of the City of Littlefield, Texas, with a view to the suitable observance of Thanksgiving, do hereby, proclaim November 26, Thanksgiving Day, a holiday in the City of Littlefield, Texas.

LOCAL PLANT TO MAKE 70 TONS OF CAKE DAILY

Seventy-Five Men Will Be Employed On Three 8-Hour Shifts

Marking the beginning of an industrial era for the South Plains, the West Texas Cottonoil company started operations at its new plant at Littlefield Wednesday afternoon.

Employing a crew of 75 men, the Littlefield plant—one of the most modern in the state—has a capacity of from 130 to 150 tons of trash seed a day. This will amount to approximately 70 tons of cotton seed cake and 40,000 pounds of cotton seed oil daily, H. M. Mason, manager of the Littlefield branch, said.

Incidentally, the beginning of operations of the local plant which was moved to Littlefield from Lockney, is almost nine years to the hour as compared with the start of operations in the latter city. The Lockney plant opened Nov. 18, 1927 while the Littlefield plant started Nov. 18, 1936.

One of 11 mills in the West Texas group, the Littlefield plant will operate three crews a day, each on an eight-hour shift, Mr. Mason said.

Besides Littlefield, cottonoil mills in West Texas are located at Abilene, Ballinger, Plainview, San Angelo, Winters, Shamrock, Slaton, Seymour and Elk City, Okla.

Commenting on the company's locating at Littlefield, Mr. Mason said the South Plains offers a centralized location, geographically, for the disposal of cotton seed products.

"Cotton is produced on a larger scale in this territory and we believe that cotton will continue to grow as a major crop here. Both factors will enable us to purchase a volume of cotton seed with a minimum of hauling," Mr. Mason said.

Mr. Mason declined to estimate the annual cash value of the cotton seed products at the local mill stating that "market fluctuations make

FEAR AND FAITH

Mankind's greatest enemy is fear. Fear is at the root of a high proportion of the ills of the human body reports the famous experimental surgeon, Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, after years of intensive study into the causes of heart disease, with its accompanying histories of high blood pressure and sudden death and all the other ailments which take such a heavy toll of lives in America every year. It is customary to attribute these and other diseases of civilization to the nervous tension in which a large part of the inhabitants of the modern world continually live and move. But the cause of nervous tension, Dr. Crile believes, is primarily fear.

It has long been known to physiologists that physical fear stimulates the action of the heart and causes tension of the blood vessels. It is Dr. Crile's belief that the same or similar results follow the various forms of fear which we speak of as worry, apprehension, jealousy and by other names all of which simmer down to the fact that we are afraid of something. This conclusion may point the way toward the reduction or elimination of many of the causes of premature old age, and of the infirmities due to nervous disturbances.

Just how fear can be eliminated from the human subconsciousness Dr. Crile does not undertake to point out. There probably is no rule or remedy of universal application, and it is also probable that the habit of fearlessness is one which must be acquired in youth or childhood. The interesting conclusion can be drawn, however, from Dr. Crile's report, that there is sound foundation for the teachings of spiritual leaders that the physical and the spiritual life are inseparable, and that in the long run it is the spiritual nature which controls the physical body.

That this is true is the accepted belief today of the most advanced thinkers in the medical profession as well as of the foremost religious leaders. This conclusion still leaves us facing an unsolved mystery, but brings home the vital importance of faith as an element in human life.

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY

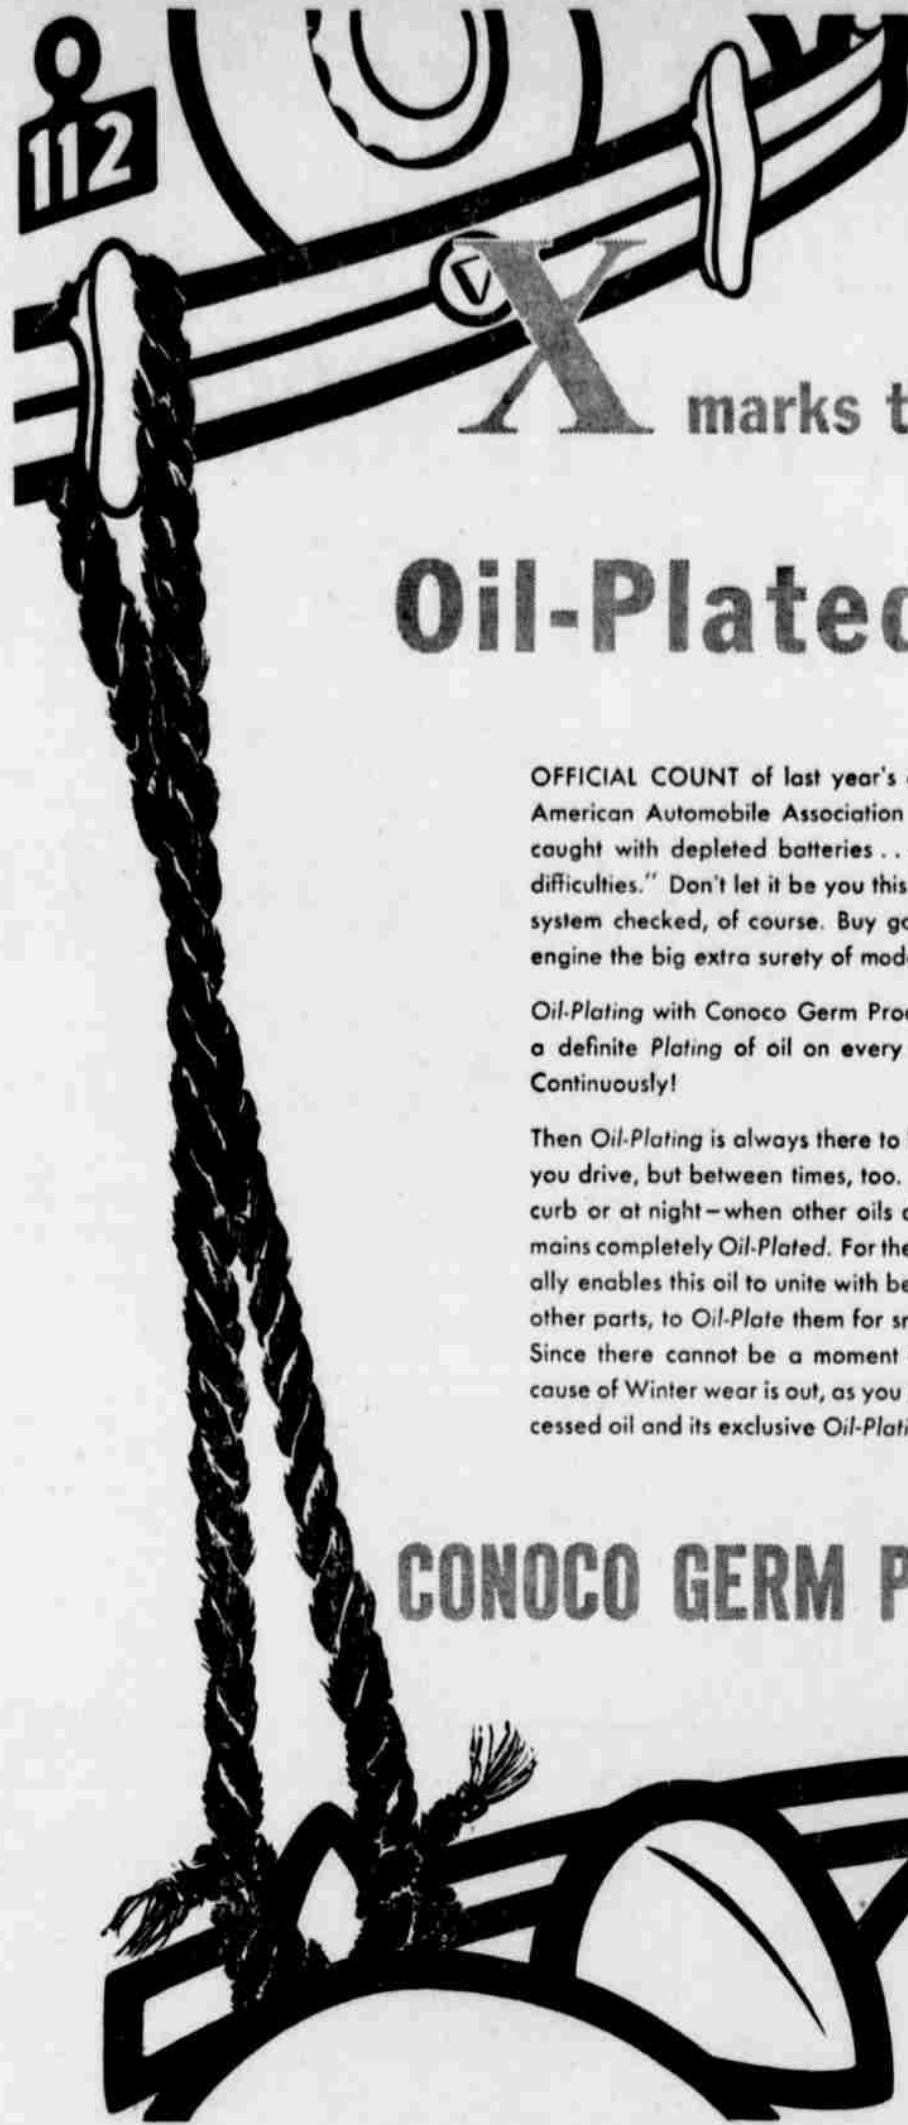

The price of national liberty is the cost of being prepared to defend the nation against aggressions by other nations. There is sound truth in the old aphorism: "In time of peace, prepare for war."

The United States today is spending more money for arms than any other nation in the world. For the year 1935 the total cost for our army and navy, including aircraft, was $709,934,000. The estimates for this year for the same purposes run over $900,000,000 and the estimated cost for next year will be $1,000,000,000. No other nation approaches ours in the amount of money spent for military preparedness, even now when war among the major powers seems imminent. France spent $701,000,000 last year. Great Britain $483,000,000. Germany, $360,000,000. Italy $354,000,000 and Japan $269,000,000. Nearly one-fifth of our total governmental expenditures, above 19 percent, for 1935 was for military purposes.

There is this difference, however, between these expenditures on our part and those of the other great nations. Very definitely the United States is not preparing, and does not intend, to make war upon any other country. That is not true of many of the other nations, which are rearming for the purpose of seizing territory belonging to others. Our cost per capita, moreover, is not high as that of France, because our population is nearly three times that of France and other military expenses only a trifle higher. Moreover, it costs us more to maintain an army and a navy than it does any other power because of the higher wages we pay to our soldiers and sailors. The average pay of the regular army of Great Britain is about $25 a month, which includes officers as well as enlisted men, while the cost per man in the United States army runs above $80 a month.

No matter what preparedness costs, from any point of view, it is cheaper than war. So long as the United States continues to demonstrate that it is prepared to defend its own, the maintenance of a strong army, a still stronger navy, and an air fleet of the highest degree of efficiency will be effective insurance for peace.

marks the car with the Oil-Plated Engine

OFFICIAL COUNT of last year's emergencies handled by the American Automobile Association shows "3,200,000 motorists caught with depleted batteries . . . and 2,000,000 had starter difficulties." Don't let it be you this Winter. Have your electrical system checked, of course. Buy good gasoline. And give your engine the big extra surety of modern Oil-Plating.

Oil-Plating with Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented—leaves a definite Plating of oil on every engine part continuously . . . Continuously!

Then Oil-Plating is always there to head off wear, not only while you drive, but between times, too. Through hours of cold at the curb or at night—when other oils drain down—your engine remains completely Oil-Plated. For the patented Germ Process actually enables this oil to unite with bearings, pistons, cylinders and other parts, to Oil-Plate them for smooth, slippy, dragless starts. Since there cannot be a moment of "missing oil," the greatest cause of Winter wear is out, as you change to Conoco Germ Processed oil and its exclusive Oil-Plating. Continental Oil Company

World Supply Of Cotton Largest In Three Years

COLLEGE STATION, No. 10.—"The world supply of cotton is the largest in three years, according to the Outlook Report being released from Washington. Texas farmers as the principal cotton raising group in the world are vitally affected by that fact since the price of cotton is governed to a large extent by world conditions," W. E. Morgan, Extension Economist, stated in an interview here today.

"The increase in world supply is due to marked increase of cotton in Russia, Brazil, and China. In the face of a large world carry-over it is obvious if farmers in America greatly increase production in 1937 they may expect to encounter lowered prices. This tendency toward lowered prices, however, would be offset to some extent if the general price level continues to rise, or if there is further improvement in demand for the staple.

"Improved quality of Texas cotton would tend to strengthen the competitive position of American cotton abroad and to make it more salable at home. This is a thought worthy of consideration.

"Government figures indicate that the cotton and supply situation is favorable to maintaining prices of cotton seed and cotton seed products at higher levels this season than last. As a part of the general outlook on cotton this fact is encouraging," Morgan said.

Texas Centennial Exposition To Run Five Months In 1937

Reopening of the Texas Centennial Exposition for a five-month period during 1937 was assured recently when the exposition, through its president, Fred F. Florence, served formal notice on the city of Dallas that it would exercise the option for the use of Fair Park for exposition purposes.

Tentative plans for the 1937 world's fair are for its opening June 12, with closing set for Oct. 31.

12, with closing set for Oct. 31.

A General Demand

The decision of the board of directors and officials of the Texas Centennial Exposition to reopen next year is the result of a general demand by the business interests of Dallas that the exposition should carry on during 1937.

It is the plan of the exposition management to make many drastic changes at the exposition grounds.

The 1937 show will only in its general layout resemble that of 1936. There will be new shows, new concessions, and exhibits and several new buildings. It is understood that a majority of the large exhibitors are anxious to continue through the coming year. They point out that during the year 1937 there will not be any major exposition in the United States with the exception of the exposition at Dallas.

LITTLEFIELD MAN APPREHENDED IN CONNECTION WITH BANK ROBBERY

John O. Shackelford, of Littlefield pleaded guilty Friday afternoon, before United States Commissioner Melville Peters of charges of robbing the First National Bank of Sudan, August 27.

His bond was set at $25,000 and he was committed to the Wichita county jail to await trial.

Approximately $3,000 in cash was taken from the Sudan bank, federal officers said. After the robbery Shackelford took a trip to Mexico and lost his loot gambling he said.

Shackelford was taken back to Wichita Falls Friday from Big Spring, thus ending a tour of West Texas in the custody of state and federal officers. He was returned to Wichita Falls on complaint of R. L. Newkirk, special federal agent, who with United States Deputy Marshal and a city officer, both of Wichita Falls, went to Big Spring after the man.

Shackelford was captured in Childress Monday of last week after he had aroused suspicions of citizens in Kirkland, Childress county, that he was planning a bank robbery there. When captured he was driving a car which was taken in Big Spring several weeks ago.

Sheriff F. A. Loyd of Lamb county stated he had signed a complaint in the justice of the peace court of J. B. Sikes charging Shackelford with robbery with firearms in connection with the Sudan robbery. What effect Shackelford's plea before federal authorities will have on the charge filed in Littlefield has not been determined.

When Sheriff Loyd filed the complaint, he said he was expecting Shackelford to be brought to Littlefield for arraignment in justice court. Authorities at Seymour indicated to him Thursday that Shackelford would "possibly" be brought to Littlefield before facing an indictment at Big Spring for theft of an automobile.

Previous expectations were the young bank robber would go to trial in state court instead of federal court because a higher penalty could be given on conviction.

Delayed Pension Checks To Be Sent Out Last Of Week

Old age pension authorities, advised that the national social security board approved a grant to Texas Friday for November pension payments, said the checks would be mailed about the last of this week.

They will be nearly three weeks late as they were supposed to have been mailed October 31. The October payments were almost two weeks late.

Orville S. Carpenter, state pension director, said nearly 88,000 persons would receive November checks averaging about $15.75. Fifteen hundred have been added to the rolls since November 1.

Before authorizing the grant of $840,000, the social security board approved the new Texas pension law intended to reduce the rolls to less than $85,000. Carpenter advised that reapplications would not be necessary under the new statute.

"We already have received a number of second applications," he said, "which were unnecessary and could not be considered."

The director disclosed that only 25,000 of 212,000 applications so over to the district trustees, J. B. Maxey, contractor, states. There has been some delay due to waiting on extras and changes in the original specifications, but these are to be finished within two weeks.

MEET THE TWINS OF L. H. S.

We have five sets of twins in high school of whom we are very proud, namely, Goldie and Glendale Appleton, Olen and Nolen Walker, Veta and Vera McQuatters, Lorene and Norene Allen and Edith Elizabeth and Agnes Inez. The Appleton twins are sophomores, sixteen years of age and are very much interested in basketball.

We are especially proud of the Walker twins, they being twin boys. They are 15 years old, are freshmen and especially interested in football and other sports.

The Inez twins, seemingly, are interested in their studies and in public speaking.

Next we picture a very different set of twins, the McQuatters. One, Vera is interested in basketball, while Veta is usually entertaining herself with some sort of home economics activities.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NEWS

Friday night a post-nuptial shower was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Birkleback, honoring their daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Birkleback, formerly Miss Helen Drager. The young couple returned Thursday from a wedding trip to South Texas, during which they also visited the Centennial Exposition. Approximately 70 friends gathered to surprise them, and many pretty and useful gifts were presented. After playing a number of games refreshments were served. The young couple will make their home temporarily with his parents.

Monday night the school board met and decided on a few necessary improvements. A resolution was passed, in accordance with the policy of the district school board to charge 50 cents per month tuition for children of non-members attending the school. This resolution to go into effect at the beginning of next term.

This afternoon the Ladies Aid of the congregation meets in the school basement. All members are urgently requested to be present, as arrangements for the Christmas service will be considered. Martha, Elsa and Maris Ogerly will serve as hostesses.

Tomorrow morning at ten o'clock the one-day conference of the Lutheran pastors of the neighboring towns will meet at the Lutheran parsonage. Besides the regular seminar-work plans will be discussed for procuring the Lutheran hour over a Texas radio station. The present broadcast of the Rev. H. Frerking at Amarillo may be discontinued should the other arrangement be made possible. Otherwise time will be contracted for each Wednesday afternoon, until Easter over station KGNC. A communion service will be held in the afternoon.

Sunday night services will henceforth begin at eight o'clock, and Bible class at 7:30. Visitors are heartily welcome. W. J. Luecke, pastor.

Social Security Application Blanks Delivered Employers

Postmen Monday began in the delivering of 5,000,000 social security application blanks to employers throughout the nation, first step in the gigantic task of setting up social security accounts for 26,000,000 American workers.

The blanks were distributed from 45,000 postoffices to all employes in industrial and business pursuits. Each employer is expected to fill in the number of his employes and the nature of his business. These blanks were distributed on November 21.

When the applications have been received by the postoffices, the specified number of employe application blanks will be set aside for each employer and delivered to him November 24. Employer applications will then be forwarded to the Baltimore accounting officer of the Social Security board for tabulation.

The next step in the process of setting up individual social security account numbers and wage records will follow. Employers will give employe application blanks to their workers who are required to return them not later than December 5.

Employes may return their blanks to their employer, to a union headquarters, to a letter carrier, to the postoffice, or they may place them in a mail box. No postage is required.

Make-Believe Bride

by Ruth Harley

ELEVENTH INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS: Maris Trevor is discouraged because Rod O'Rourke spends all his money developing an invention which he hopes will provide an income so that they can marry. Maris thinks they should enjoy the present rather than deny themselves for the future. She becomes uncertain of her love for Rod. Perhaps there would be more happiness with someone else.

"No, thank you," she said, and kept on walking.
"We need you. Come, we no hurt you. Alla we ask is you stop and get farmer give us some gas. Yes?"
"Sure?" she asked, knowing as she looked at them that if she refused they would make her go with them anyway.
"Certainly," insisted the man, while the other evil-looking occupant of the car said, "That's all we want, miss. Can't go much farther without gas, and there ain't any stations around. Sometimes farmers ain't so generous, even if you offer them money. But they'd do it for you, I guess."
"Well, I'm afraid they'll think I'm a tramp, for I certainly did have an accident and my dress is a wreck."

A moment later she got in the car and they started coasting down hill. As they neared the end of the hill, they saw a trim farmhouse and slowly came to a stop before it.

"Now, miss, you go and tell them you want some gas, as you met with an accident, and you want to get to town. Then, after you get it we drive you five miles more and let you go. Yes? You understand?"

But as Maris went up the path she was filled with a strange misgiving. What sort of men were these, she had been with? Why didn't one of them go and speak to the farmer? They'd been quite decent to her, put her in the back seat and paid little attention to her.

But every now and then they had whispered together. Once she heard one say, "He's a double-crosser, all right." And later the other man had said, "Well, what would you expect when he's worked out this scheme to trick his own father?"

Then they had been silent so long that Maris wondered if they would ever speak again. They did twice—once to say emphatically to her, "Now, remember when they ask you where the accident happened, you tell them, 'On the long road.'"

Again one whispered in a loud voice, "Guess young Stan's got the fright of his life, trying to put us off like that. The nerve, letting us do all the dirty work and not even wanting to pay for it, but insisting on having all the profits. Well, we won't let him off so easily next time." And the dark-complexioned man had flashed his companion an evil glance.

As Maris walked up to the door of the house, she felt the concentrated gaze of several pairs of eyes on her. But in answer to her knock, the door was opened just a little crack, while Maris could hear the shuffle of heavy shoes on the floor.

"Can you let us have some gas so we can get to town?" she asked. "We've had an accident."

"You have?" said the farmer, opening the door a bit wider. "Maybe you'd rather come in and get patched up here. I'll send one of the boys out to the car."

Before she realized it, she was inside the house, surrounded by several county policemen. She tried to back away. What had she landed in now, she wondered.

"Don't be scared, miss," said one of the men, "but if you value your life, tell us the truth. How far have you come in that car?"

Maris looked helplessly about her. Then, sensing there was something very wrong with the men she'd been riding with, she blurted out the truth.

"We've got them," cried one of the men.

"Not yet, young fellow," cried another of the officers. "There'll be murder done if we go out. Now, little girl, I hate to ask you to do it, but will you go back to the car and tell them—as innocent-like as you can—that we're just having breakfast here and wouldn't they like to come in. Here, be biting into one of them hot biscuits and tell them you'd like to stay."

Quickly Maris stepped outside, and, running down the path, did as she was told. An angry scowl swept across the driver's face. "We don't want any breakfast. Plenty of time to get it when we get to the city. Go back and tell them that." The other man looked disappointed and started muttering. He was evidently hungry.

As they hung around, undecided, the farmer opened the door and called out, "Ain't you boys coming? The biscuits is getting cold."

"Better run along," the driver said to Maris. "We'll follow you." Then turning to his companion, he said, "Park the gats here, I guess they're a bunch of rubes. They don't know who they're going to entertain."

By this time Maris had entered the house, and the farmer quickly told her to follow his daughter to the cellar. "It's the safest place. You've been riding with a bunch of thugs. But I reckon it'll be their last ride for a good long while."

"Well," said the farmer as the men approached the door, "we were just sitting down to breakfast and thought maybe you'd like a bite if you been having trouble with your car. So come in and set down. We can get the gas afterwards." He showed them into the low-ceilinged kitchen where breakfast was set.

But as the driver of the car looked around, he said, "I think I'd like to wash my hands first."
"You would, would you?" cried an officer, rushing in. His two companions seized the other. "Well, you'll be able to get that done in jail."

Swearing in Italian and English, the men tried to wriggle from their captors' arms, but the officer and his helpers quickly subdued them. They dragged them from the house, and shoved them into their car which had been nicely hidden beneath a three hundred year old lilac bush.

With the men safely out of the house, the farmer went to the top of the cellar steps. "Well, Mom, you and the girls better come upstairs now. That was a pretty smart bit of work, all right," he called.

Then as they sat down to breakfast, the farmer told how word had been flashed that a big truckful of silk from one of the nearby mills had been held up and driven away by the robbers. But evidently there had been some dispute about the sharing of the booty, and two of the men had disappeared in a small sedan.

The driver, left senseless at the roadside, had finally come to, and reaching the farmhouse sent out his S. O. S. to the police. But the car with the archplotter had run out of gas, and evidently taken a wrong road, so that when it had been sighted a few miles up the road the police had had time to get the word on the road, and Maris had played her part in their capture.

"Well, you were a mighty plucky girl to ride with them thugs, but how come you were on the road so early in the morning?"

"There, Father, Maris has told me all about it," his daughter said. "It's all right, and just as soon as she gets a cup of coffee she's going to call up her folks. She's had her own troubles, too, but I guess they're over now."

"Well, well, that's fine, and now I reckon I'd better get out to the fields or we'll never get any work done with all this excitement, for even if it's Sunday the beasts must be fed."

But as the men left the table, Maris turned to the farmer's wife. "I wonder if you'd let me call up Patsy now?" she asked.

"Of course you may. The phone's right there," and she pointed to the hall.

But as Maris rose from the table

a sudden blackness seemed to envelope her. With a cry, the farmer's wife rose and rushed to her side, just in time to save her from striking her head against the table.

"The poor little girl! Quick, Tilly, bring some cold water, and then turn down the bed in the spare room. I guess all this terrible excitement's been too much for her."

When Maris opened her eyes again, she found herself in a cool, dormer-windowed room with snowy white curtains at the windows and a big bowl of flowers on the window ledge. She looked slowly around her. Where was she, she wondered. It was a pretty room, but how had she ever got there?

Then the generous-bosomed woman in the quaint flowered-sprigged cotton gown who was sitting by her side said, "Feeling some better now, my dear?"

"Oh, dear!" she whispered. "I'm afraid I've been an awful nuisance to you. I must get home."

"No, no, not yet. You couldn't rise just yet, but if you can tell me where your friends are, I'll call them up."

"Oh, but that would scare Patsy. I'd better talk to her myself." She tried to rise, but slumped back on the pillows again.

"There, my dear, you mustn't try just yet. Won't you let me talk to your folks? I'll be mighty careful what I say—tell them just what you want me to."

"All right. I guess you'd better," Maris said, and told her Patsy's number. Then she fell asleep again.

It was late afternoon when she woke, and through the open window drifted in the lay hum of a laggard bee, and the fragrance of fall flowers. She closed her eyes again as once more she thought of the fate she had escaped. What a fool she had been! She'd lost Rod, for of course he wouldn't be interested in her any more.

She'd lost Stan. That was different. She was only too glad that she had found out in time what a contemptible cad he was. Maybe, after all, Rowena had found out his real character. She might well be congratulating herself on her escape.

Patsy had been right. Men like Stan didn't have much sense of honor where girls like here were concerned. She clenched her fists, as she thought of her escape.

Then she thought of what her crazy infatuation had cost. Her job would be gone, for of course she could never go to Fayson's again. She'd spent nearly every penny in her savings account so she could be all dressed up. Now the very thought of the clothes she had bought was harmful to her.

Once more she drifted off to sleep. Then just as dusk was falling she woke again, and suddenly she sat up in bed.

The door of her bedroom was softly opened, and Patsy tiptoed lightly to the bedside. "Maris, honey," she whispered as she bent over her.

"Oh, Pat, you darling, will you ever forgive me? I've been an awful fool, and now when I'm stranded you're the only one I could call on." Her eyes filled with tears.

"There, Maris, there's nothing to forgive. I'm just so glad you were lucky enough to strike folks like the Dawsons. They seem the kindest people. They're insisting that Jimmy and I will stay overnight too so we won't strike all the Sunday night traffic."

"And you'll take me home with you, Patsy, even if I'm broke and—"

"Of course we will, and we're not going to say another thing about it. I knew you never really loved Stan Fayson. You were just carried away by the glamour that surrounded him. But when you know all that we know about him, you'll thank your lucky stars that you never went through any marriage ceremony with him."

Maris was silent. She could not understand why she had fallen for Stan's love-making, why she never realized till their last ride what the expression of scorn on those lips of his signified, nor what it might mean to her to marry a man who couldn't get along without his whiskey.

She shut her eyes tightly, as she turned to Patsy. "Oh, Patsy, if only I could ever forget all this; if only I'd listened to you!"

"There, Maris, don't feel so badly. You haven't committed any crime like Stan—there, I didn't mean to tell you," she said as Maris opened her eyes wide and jumped up.

Local Boys Charged With Burglary Are Released On Bond

The four local youths who were arrested last week on charges of burglary, by Deputy Sheriff Sam Hutson, and lodged in the Littlefield jail, were up for hearing before Justice of the Peace J. B. Sikes Friday, released on $500 bond each, and bound over to the action of the Grand Jury in the February term of Court.

Their arrests were made following the breaking into of various business establishments in Littlefield, and the knocking off of several safe knobs. Places entered the night of November 7 were Cameron's Lumber, Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Co., Bryan's Drug and the Lamb County Leader. Two confessions secured before County Attorney Herbert Martin admitted these burglaries, as well as a series which took place several weeks ago.

Mr. Jamison is the father-in-law of Boyce House, who is connected with the Star Telegram as Fieldman. During the past 20 years he has been connected with the Sheriff's Department in Eastland County and the Highway Commission in Tom Green County.

with the presentation of the Executive Board and Special Guests, to be followed by a pageant depicting the growth and the value of the ten year program to the expansion of scouting. At this time the Scouts will rededicate themselves to the Scout Oath, to be followed by the pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Following the special ceremony the show swings into action with Joe Kennedy and his whip cracking scouts, cutting cigarettes from each others mouths, taking handkerchiefs out of their pockets and numerous other daring feats with 12 and 16 foot whips.

Cubbing is a part of the Scouting program but their activities are different. Dr. C. C. Schmidt, Event Director will present eight cub packs in a special demonstration of the cubbing program.

In the fire building event scouts will demonstrate ten or twelve different types of fires, including the star, reflector, pyramid, council fire and many others, using different methods of starting their blaze, using friction, flint and steel, chemicals and the popular matches. Accidents, electric wire, curtain hanging, bath tub accident, and a number of others under the direction of Tom Everheart.

It would hardly seem like a circus without the acrobats and the man on the flying trapeze. Troop 24 of Levelland have taken care of that situation and will appear in a breath taking, pulse quickening presentation of real scouts on the swings and cross bars.

The Indian-Totem pole event will be one of the most colorful and interesting events, when Scout Troops, Patrols, and Individuals circle the arena with the history of their troop and their activities carved in wood. Colored spot lights will add to the beauty and effectiveness of this particular event.

Scouts as well as anyone else like to play and in the "Games and Contests" event a number of games popular at camp and troop meetings will be played for their pleasure and the entertainment of the audience.

Scouts enjoy signaling with flags, and by radio. In the communications event every type of communication from heating on hollow logs to the present day short wave radio will be shown and demonstrated by scouts from the northwest district under the direction of H. B. Teal of Sudan.

The Bicycle act will be composed of Scouts from Littlefield doing their fancy stunts and trick riding on highly decorated bicycles. A. B. Sanders, District Commissioner will be in charge of this event.

The aviation event under the direction of W. C. Breedlove of Lubbock will present all types of planes, flying, crashing, zooming, and burning that will furnish thrills a plenty, when the pilot has to jump from his plane. Special features will be the zeppelin balloon, and the balloon ascension.

The camping and pioneering event presents the Scouts constructing sig-

The third Tuesday in January has been set as the date for the Annual Meeting of the South Plains Council, Dr. F. E. Malone, president of the Council announced.

CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED FOR PAYMENT OF FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH DEBT

The ladies of the First Baptist church served dinner to a number of men Tuesday who are interested in the settlement of the church debt. Plans were discussed and a movement launched to raise five thousand dollars within the next thirty days.

The members of the church with an income, and friends are all included in the campaign. Twelve captains were given a list of fourteen names each who will be solicited to have a part in the lifting of the debt which has been such a burden to the church for several years. No pastor can labor and do effective work under such a crushing burden. One hundred and seventy-five people will have an opportunity to make possible a final settlement with the company that has carried the bonds.

The First National Bank will be the depository for the Trust Fund and all who give can know that this campaign is a final settlement and not just another payment. Mr. J. C. Hibun, C. C. Griffin and Pat Boone compose the committee to effect the settlement.

The message for the evening hour will be "The Dance of Death" revealing the evils of the modern dance. American people are paying too great a price for sin at the present time and until we turn from the love of sin to find time for God our prayers will accomplish little. The pastor takes this opportunity to invite the members of the Baptist church to come out and worship with us next Sunday. Friends are always welcome.

an estimate too uncertain." Major construction on the Littlefield mill has been practically completed although some minor construction will be carried on for the next month, Mr. Mason said.

All of the buildings on the mill grounds are of brick and corrugated steel construction—all fireproof. The mill equipment itself is of the most modern type.

Besides Mr. Mason, the personnel at the Littlefield plant includes W. W. Brown, plant superintendent; Earl Wilson, cashier; C. W. Woodworth and N. H. Humphries, assistant superintendent; George Webster, assistant to Mr. Wilson, and Earl McAdams, Jr., bookkeeper.

Officials of the West Texas group of cotton oil mills are J. Ross Richardson of Houston, president; J. F. Hardaway of Abilene, vice-president and general manager; J. W. Hoover of Abilene, assistant general manager.

Plans For—

the encounter, however, and with interscholastic rules demanding that the championship play-offs be held Thanksgiving week, there is little likelihood that Slaton will be denied the southern half crown.

The Thanksgiving Day encounter will mark the third time in six years that Littlefield has gone into the 3-B conference finals and the second time the Wildcats have met Slaton for the title.

In 1930 the Wildcats tangled with Floyada for the title and lost 14 to 13 while in 1931 Littlefield lost to Slaton in the crown battle.

The Wildcats have been defeated by the Slaton eleven in conference game this year losing 27 to 6 on the opponents gridiron.

Local school officials pointed out, however, that if the championship game is played on the Littlefield gridiron, the Wildcats stand a good chance of winning the title. Under the scholastic rules, Littlefield is entitled to the game because of the fact that Slaton was host at the former tilt.

Tentative plans for a town-wide pep rally to precede the championship tilt is being discussed by school officials and members of the athletic council, but no action will be taken until the time and place for the game has been decided.

Meanwhile Coach Bill Sanders is working his charges on defense in preparation for their tilt against the highly-touted Slaton eleven.

We Think—

imagine any person not on relief who cannot afford to buy a car.

The Federal Reserve Board's commercial and industrial review of 1936 confirms the evidence of recovery. The Board reports that the current level of business activity is higher than at any time since 1930. That the employment is substantial is indicated by the marked expansion in residential and industrial construction, which were the lines in which recovery had lagged. Employment and payrolls in industry and commerce continue to increase, along with corporate profits and dividends, the Board reports, while electrical power production and railroad traffic show marked increases.

It seems apparent that America is in for another great era of prosperity, in which more citizens than ever before are sharing.

Two Cars Collide 4 Miles West Of Town; Are Badly Damaged

A 1936 Plymouth sedan driven by Mr. Yearly of Dallas, and a 1930 Chevrolet, driven by L. C. Thompson, colored, and occupied by two other negroes of Lubbock collided about four miles west of Littlefield on Highway No. 7 Tuesday morning. Both cars were considerably damaged, aged, the negroes' car being a complete wreck, and according to officers has been left in the bar pit. The negroes were cut and scratched and were rendered medical aid at the Littlefield hospital, after which they went to their home in Lubbock.

The Plymouth car is being repaired. Mr. Yearly is visiting in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Yearly and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yearly.
