HOBBIES OF BIG SPRING FOLK-

Rock Hauling Fun? It Is To These Opponent Two, Who Find All Descriptions

(This is another in a series of articles appearing in The Herald twice a week, telling of unusual hobbies of Big Spring people. It would like to have stories, and pictures, on all local hobbyists. If you have an unusual occupational pastime, or if you know who does, please let us know,-Editor's Note).

Only one thing is apt to be more unusual than a hobbyist-it is co-

Such a combination is Walter Vastine, garage operator, and Miss Ruby Bell, attache in the telephone office. Both are as rabid collectors of unusual rocks as ever roamed the hills looking for grotesque geological tricks; and both have large collections of interesting formations, odd shapes and sizes, enough so that Vastine has built a house out of them and Miss Bell a lounge addition to her home. "Just Started"

How did they get started collecting rocks? They don't know. They just did. Vastine thinks it may have originated out of drives over the hilly section on Sunday afternoon, Before they knew it, they were hauling in this peculiar rock, this freakish bit of sand-bar, and this moss covered chunk of lime stone.

Sunday afternoon they donned their rock hunting clothes and took to the hills. The rock "pile" at their homes began to grow by leaps and bounds, and soon Vastine discovered that he had enough recks to build a rock house. all of them hauled in the back end of a Nash coupe," he declared. Trailer Used

Impetus was given their hobby by the addition of a trailer; and rocks they never dared to roll into the coupe went bounding into the trailer. Miss Bell built a five foot rock wall at the rear of her home farm folk, headed for their 28th co.
