Combining Offices Under Discussion

Members of LittlefieldSchool in new uniforms by the board Board accepted resignations of six teachers and approved recommendations by Supt. Paul Manning to hire two others in a regular meeting here Tuesday night.

Those resigning were Joyce Thompson, junior high school math teacher; Joan Johnson, second grade; Anna Lee Neale, Janice Burks, and Rowena Dilworth, first grade.

New appointments were James William Miller, junior high school math; and David Fuqua, sixth grade. Miller, 32, taught math in the Littlefield school system from 1957 to 1961 and taught in Amarillo schools last year. He has a BS degree from Texas Tech and a MEd. degree from West Texas State University.

Fuqua, 22, was graduated from Sam Houston State University last May with a BS degree. Manning announced plans to eliminate three faculty positions for next year. Cutbacks will some in first, fourth, and junior high art teaching slots. Eight vacancies remain on next year's faculty, according to Manning. The planned 113 total will be three short of last year's faculty.

In other personnel changes, the board approved creation of assistant principal at posts in junior high and high school. Kenneth Largent, high schoolmath teacher, was named new assistant high school principal. Tommy Brawley, junior high school math teacher, is assistant principal in junior high. Both men will continue to teach in addition to performing their new duties. A $500 annual raise ing to the plan, Boosters will supply the initial $800 in direct payments and a fourth of the balance through a five-year loan, with the remaining three-fourths to be secured by school

Also in the plan was a $5 rental fee earmarked for a special sinking fund to replace uniforms. The board accepted the financing.

St. If approved, the plant would mean about a $4,000 annual saving to the school system by eliminating one secretary and building rental fees now paid to maintain seperate offices, according to Manning, who introduced the plan. The building, as explained to the board would contain between 2,300 and 2,400 square feet of floor space. Manning was given the okay to compile specifications, have plans drawn, and advertise for bids on proposed const action, In other action, the board approved a trip by Littlefield High School Band to the Texas Mulic Educator Association's State Fair Music Pageant in Dallas Oct. 9. Details were decided by "We The Women" during a regular meeting Tuesday at noon in the form of a Dutch treat luncheon at Crescent Restaurant.

Still in the planning stage, but a definite project, is a July 4th "Operation Safety Break," a project headed by Mrs. Allen Hodges to stop holiday travelers passing through Littlefield and offer them free coffee. The 'Sing Festival,' with Mrs.

T. L. Dunlap as chairman, is scheduled at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Crescent Park tennis courts. The hour was set to avoid coinciding with church time.

Mrs. Dunlap said churches had been contacted and singers are expected from each."Don't visit after church -- come to the festival and visit," Mrs. Dunlap told members.

All city and area residents are invited to attend the festival and participate. Those wishing to be seated are asked to bring a chair to the park.

Audience singing will be led by people from various churches. The program will include old fashioned folk songs as well as oldtime gospel songs. Mrs. Dunlap said the words to songs were being memeographed and persons having a request may contact her and have a favorite song added to the list.

Also featured will be special music such as quartets, solos and duets. One group of songs will be "just for children," Mrs. Dunlap said.

"Operation Safety Break," July 4, is scheduled at 7 to 9 p.m., hours believed to be most tiring for motorists and when coffee breaks will be most beneficial.

Brittons Attend Unique Celebration

BY MRS, TOM STANSELL

CIRCLE -- Mr. and Mrs. W.K. Britton recently attended the Frontier Days Celebration held in Marietta, Okla.

Britton moved to that area in 1895 and Mrs. Britton went there in 1902. After their marriage in 1913 they resided in that region until they moved near Olton in 1926. It is estimated that between 10,000 and 15,000 people attended the celebration which had as unusual events a ladies' horn blowing contest, a ladies' long hair contest, a tricycle race, a baby crawling race, an old fashioned medicine show and a guitar playing contest.

A couple who had been married 65 years won the prize given to those who had been married the longest.

High points of the festival were an address by Congressman Carl Albert; presentation of a locomotive bell to Marietta by B.O. Bernard, Fort Worth General Superintendent of the Santa Fe Railroad; presentation by J. Woody Dixon, local att-orney, of the Old Indian Territroy Federal Courthouse on Main Street to the people of Love County; exhibition of fast draw artistry of Lt. Dan Combs of the Oklahoma Highway Patrol, and the trick and fancy roping of the Internationally famous Jim Eskew Jr. who will give similar performances at the Montreal World's Fair. Relics were displayed instore windows and many women wore sun bonnets and long dresses throughout the day. This is the second Frontier

AMY'S ADLIBS

End Of The Road

By Amy Turner

AT LAST, I have found my true calling. I was born to be a hermit.

After a long weekend spent in a quiet little valley tucked among the mountain peaks, 1 have decided this is really the life for me.

Last weekend, the offspring and I finally talked The Publisher into getting away for a few days and so we took to the road until we reached the end . . . quite literally.

This particular tiny valley of nowhere is reached after about an hour-long drive up the side of a mountain and, when the road ends, you are there.

Now, for the super-active, this is definitely not the place since there is an absolute lack of any commercial establishment, any organized entertainment and, most important, any noise.

The nearest business house is a one-room grocery (which could hardly classify as a supermarket) located about eight miles down the mountain.

The whole valley is pervaded by a quiet that seems to seep through your every pore and there is a marvelous anesthetizing nothingness that can almost be felt.

How I loved it! No television, no radio, no telephone, no stereo, no car horns, no activity.

Of course, I have always been perfectly capable of spending hours doing nothing, which I refer to as meditation. The Publisher has a different name for it laziness. So when I remarked sleepily that this quiet was really "getting to me," he said that it was getting to him, too, and he started trying to operate a transistor radio.

I watched hazily out of one eye as my friends, the mountains, defeated him. The radio produced only static.

OUR FIRST NIGHT, a storm came over and the thunder crashed and the lightening crackled like the wrath of God. It was a glorious display and, up there, you feel so close to it that you somehow become a part of the game.

The next morning, it seemed that the whole world had been given a bath and was sparkling clean, ready for a fresh start.

As I ambled along through the wet grass, I could hear the music of the mountains in the laughter and gurgle of the brook, the gentle swish of the tall trees as they reached to the sky and, far away, a calf calling to its mother.

I watched a chipmunk, or rather he watched me for awhile; I admired a giant golden butterfly with black-tipped wings; I stood in awe of the white, gold and lavender wild flowers dropping dew from their petals; and I thought I might just walk on into infinity.

However, at this point, I remembered I had left a ham cooking in that old wood stove and I was just not too certain whether I was getting the message across to that stove or not.

THERE'S SOME THING about the mountains that simply seems to intoxicate me and, once I get up there, I have absolutely no inclination to ever come down.

The Publisher says it's the altitude but I don't believe in any of this scientific nonsense and I happen to know for a fact that those mountains are really alive.

My proof of this fact is that I just KNOW it and even The Publisher won't argue with me when I give this answer.

He looks at me in a rather odd fashion when I insist that I can actually feel those mountains reach out to me, to cradle and envelope ma with a soothing balm that washes away the world. Nothing much seems to matter up there and it is not the altitude!

THE PEAK of the mountain really fascinates me and, looking out my window (I was meditating, again), I thought I would like to climb up there and just stay forever.

It was a nice idea but "know thyself" was what I seemed to hear echoing back to me. The ugly thought began to creep into my mind: I wonder what's on the other side of the mountain?

And I knew that would be certain to be my downfall.

Sooner or later, I would begin to ask and I would have to know:

What's on the other side of the mountain just over the mountain on the other side?

I KEEP WAITING for someone to compile the uses to which a newspaper can be put. I doubt if there's any common household article quite so us eful. For example:

- Lining dresser drawers.
- Wrapping fish.
- Cleaning contact points of thermostats.
- Lining garbage cans.
- Cleaning auto windshields. Cleaning paint brushes.
- Making backstops for .22 targets.
- Starting fires in the fireplace.
- 10. Swatting flies and mosquitoes.

Some women use them to cover the floor after they've washed it. When I was a kid, I remember visiting in a home where we walked on newspapers more than we walked on linoleum.

I've heard that nothing deters moths more than newsprint. The moths shy from the stuff and you don't have to put up with moth balls.

NOW --aren't we, the United States, making a similar mistake in letting the Command loud-mouth us out of doing what we sho do in Vietnam? Each of our General officers in Viena has said privately that we could, with nuclear weapons, win a militray victor within 45 days. Marine General Lewis Walt, recently re turned from Vietnam to a Pentagon ssip ment, says, "Yes, of course, the Units States could win a clear-cut military victor in South Vietnam. There is no question."

There is, obviously, a great need for the feeling of security in one's life.

In fact, we have evidence that most of the activities in which we engage are related to the search for security. Our daily work, our schooling and training, our social aspirations and all else in our plans and activities are expressions of this desire.

The developing human being must feel secure, relatively so, for the most satisfactory formation of character and personality. This is one of the reasons why the right kind of home life is so important to the look it nor let it become everything to us. The demonstrated truth is that this type of security is impossible -- it is just a dream that never quite comes true. We must do our best to make provisions for our physical needs, but the search for absolute or complete physical security is as hopeless as Ponce de Leon's search for the fountain of youth.

This means that we must neither overgrowing individual.

This security, to serve the best purpose, must be a proper blending of the physical and spiritual elements.

THE NEED to feel secure does not cease as we move into adulthood.

It changes and requires different means of satisfaction. It is not as easily supplied, and satisfaction depends more upon the individual and less upon the other people in his environment.

The search for security is a natural expression of our physical and spiritual needs. Part of our problem is in the fact we make the mistake of acting as if this need were completely physical.

The truth is this misconception, with all of the emphasis placed upon the material elements of life, will actually cause an increase in the feeling in insecurity.

Even so, the search goes on as long as we live.

THE PHYSICAL security about which we think so much, and which is so closely related to most of our experiences, must be given its proper place in our considerations and plans.

THERE CAN be no complete security, but this should not disturb us.

We can establish our lives so that the living experience will be quite satisfactory. Although the physical side of life must continue to be essentially uncertain, we are not without the means for providing the degree of security we need to stabilize our lives.

We are grateful for the degree of phy-sical security attainable, and fully conscious of its importance to us.

THE GREATEST security, which may be justifiably called real security, is not found in our finances but in our faith.

It is the inner peace of mind, sense of well-being, and actual strength which are the natural fruits of our confidence in our Creator and His providence. This is spiritual security, the security of correctly established and properly functioning faith. This condition of life includes the best possible sense of values, which means that we are actually putting first things in first place.

Thus, we will realize the greatest possible security; because our uncertain physical becomes less significant as spiritual security increases.

Innocent Passage

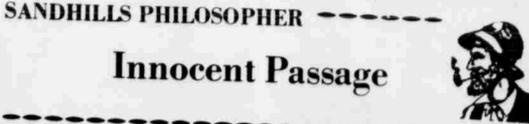

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm thinks he has learned something from the recent war in the Mid-East, his letter this week indicates.)

Dear editar:

As I understand the news now about the Israeli-Arab war (by the way, who doesn't the United Nations Security Council pass a resolution limiting all future wars to four days? How long do you think football would last if a game went on for days and days?) Israel was fighting to maintain its right to the use of the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal by its ships or, as it's put in international diplomatic language, "innocent passage" through those waters,

Up till now I'll admit I wasn't familiar with that nautical term,"innocent passage," but I see what it means and would like to recommend a more widespread application of it.

Why limit it to the Gulf of Acaba and the Suez Canal? I never use those places myself and doubt if very many other people around Littlefield do, although I don't try to keep track of everybody every time they leave town. It's their business whether they're going to the Gulf of Aqaba or Olton. What I'm saying is that what this country needs is innocent passage guaranteed to its citizens on the highway from Littlefield to Muleshoe. From Los Angeles to New York. From Washington to Philadelphia,

What the people of Los Angeles and New York and Washington and Philadelphia and dozens of other big cities need is innocent passage along their sidewalks, at least during the day time. It's probably asking too much at night.

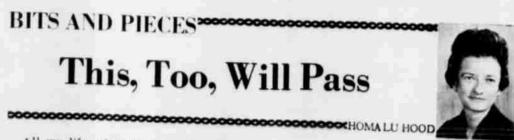

If you can think of anybody we can declare war on to get this through, let me know.

> Yours faithfully, J.A.

SPEAKING AS A LAYMAN, I'D SAY THE LEG IS BROKEN

All my life, whenever I have become unhappy and upset -- whether from a broken toy or a broken dream -- my mother has comforted me with a gentle touch on my cheek and four wonderfully wise little words, "This, too, will pass."

And, it always does.

Sometimes it passes right on top of you, leaving you feeling like a squashed bug on a cafe counter, but believe me, it does pass. Or, as it passes by, the tail winds strip the skin right off your aching back -- but, it does pass.

BUT -- after a while the squashed feeling goes away and you stagger back up on your two flat feet, and this time you plant them so firmly it's going to take a terrific smash to knock you back down again. Next time you're more ready for the son-of-a-gun "this" and it's gonna have to whomp with a mighty big fly swatter before you go under.

And -- the stripped skin grows back on your bony little shoulder blades, and it comes back tougher and stronger and not nearly so sensitive because scar tissue has its own built-in novocaine.

THIS, TOO, WILL PASS -- this day, this hour, this typewriter, these hands pecking away on said typewriter -- and this cotton-pickin' headache I've got because I left my glasses at the office last night.

This, too, will pass -- marvelous words to keep in mind no matter what obstacle blocks your way. Like when you're late for an appointment and you turn at the inter-section of U.S. 84 and Hwy. 385, only you can't really turn because cars are backed up halfway down 84 and about 16 dozen railroad cars are rumbling across the tracks. Be comforted. This, too, will pass.

OR, LIKE WHEN you have a summer cold and the top of your head feels like its stuffed to the brim with 20 pounds of Elmer's glue and if you don't get it out of there you're going to run amuck. Don't panic. just blow a little harder and pretty soon, this too, will pass.

This, too, will pass. Sustaining words of wisdom to have and to hold when you read headlines of H-Bombs exploded by a bristling China and word blasts hurled in their wake at the U.S. and other nations with nuclear power. Take comfort, remember if a hothead starts tossing H-Bombs around, the rest of us can too.

Then no more troubles will plague this care-torn old world -- because, it, too, will pass.

BUT I'LL TELL you something, he who worries about H-Bomb destruction worries in vain. Many other things have priority over it.

If you don't believe me, venture out on any of this country's high-powered new freeways -- and if you're not singing "Rock of Ages" by the time you get off of it, if you get off, I'll buy you an ice-cream sody. However, few scientific voices have been heard, faintly, questioning the practicality of these speedways, so all of you other milktoasts can join me in the comforting hope that these, too, will pass.

BUT, to pin our philosophizing more closely to home, if your coffee table is submerged under a yard-high stack of bills --like mine is right now -- and you go to bed tonight worrying about your bank account,

It, too, will pass.

OLTON--Richard Redinger, Wayland College freshman, was listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the spring semester.

The time-table calls for (1) only official administration of modified live virus vaccines after Jan, l, 1968; (2) prohibition of these vaccines by Jan. 1, 1969; and (3) elimination of all vaccinesincluding inactivated vaccinesby Jan. 1, 1971.

SOIL TESTING AND FERTILI-ZER USE UP -- Texas agricultural producers in 1966 submitted more soil samples for analysis and used more fertilizer than ever before. But the 29,980 samples tested by the Agricultural Extension Service Laboratories and the Stephen F. Austin and Wharton County Junior College Laboratories in 1966 are far short of the 100, 000 tests needed annually to adequately guide fertilization programs, say C.D. Welch and Carl Gray, Extension soil chemists.

SOYBEAN DISEASES -- Several diseases of soybeans have been observed in Texas but currently do not represent a serious limiting production factor.More concentrated and continous cropping could change this picture, says Extension Plant Pathologist Wendell Horne, Since most soybedan diseases are soil or seed-borne, growers can prevent the introuduction and buildup of diseases in a given area and avoid much potential damage, Horne says. Local county agents can supply detailed suggestions on a preventive program.

Pep Delegates To Convention Announced

PEP--Policyholder members of Branch #6 in a recent membership meeting elected V. H. Diersing and Fred Albus as delegates and Mrs. Catherine Diersing and Robert Greener, alternates, to represent the local insurance branch at the forthcoming Catholic Life Insurance Union Convention in Windthorst, Texas, June 23-25. Important changes in the Constitution and By-Laws which will allow more flexibility in the operations of the Union, thereby rendering a better service to the members in insurance protection, will be discussed. Committee on Fraternal, Benevolent, and Branches will endeavor to find ways and means to further develop these important activities. Policyholder members can be justly proud of the progress and growth of their organization in the past year, according to Claude J. Marty, Grand Vice-President of the Union. Total assets now stand at more than $9,000,000, an all-time high. Solvency has increased in pro-
