VFW Sets May 24 As "Buddy Poppy Day"; Jimmie Chapman Chairman

Ves Brock, newly installed VFW commander, announced this week that the John Henry Chapman Post 4854 will hold their annual "Buddy Poppy" sale in Littlefield May 24.

VES BROCK VFW Commander

Jimmie Chapman will again head the drive as Poppy Chairman. This will be the fifth year that Chapman has been given charge of the drive.

Considerable help will be given the drive this year by the newly organized Women's Auxiliary of the Post. Gold Star mothers and all volunteer workers will also help out in the drive.

Chapman said that the sale of Poppies in Littlefield is about four times more than it was four years ago. He explained that the local Post has sold more than their share as set by National headquarters every year and will do their best to do so this year. 2,000 Poppies arrived Monday and it is hoped that Littlefield will buy all of these this year. Last year the Club sold about 1500 Poppies (all they had on hand) in less than six hours.

The entire proceeds of the Poppy Sale goes to the benefit of Needy Veterans and Veterans Rehabilitation. Fifty per cent of the funds remains in Littlefield for the use of local Veterans and the rest goes to the national headquarters. The local Post uses their funds mostly for wheel chairs, crutches and sick beds for veterans in this area.

During the day Tech coaches will conduct a clinic for high school coaches of this area. Assisting Coach DeWitt Weaver will be Wade Walker, Bobby Goad, Jack Mitchell, Walter (Babe) Wood, Wyatt Posey, and Polk Robison. The clinic will continue through Saturday.

Speaker Discusses Pee Wee Baseball At Lions Meeting

A discussion of a Pee Wee baseball club in Littlefield was the topic of the guest speaker, I. B. Holt, Olton, at the luncheon meeting of the Lions club Wednesday noon.

Mr. Holt is working with the club in Olton. He stated that the Pee Wee baseball diamond is one-third smaller than a regulation diamond. The age of players is 12 years and younger.

Last year Olton played Lubbock and Plainview. This year there is a movement to form a league for towns closer together. Four clubs are now in the league. They are Olton, Earth, Petersburg and Abernathy.

A Pee Wee baseball club to be sponsored by the Littlefield Lions club is under consideration.

It was decided by the membership to postpone the election of officers until May 7. The election was formerly scheduled for April 30.

CITY POPULATION IN TWO YEARS INCREASED BY 815 PERSONS

If use of the yardstick of increased numbers of light meters, water connections, and gas consumers, not just one, but all three, is an accurate form of population increase measurement, and practically all authorities agree that it is, Littlefield now has a population of 7,355 or a gain since the 1950 census was completed on May 1, 1950, of 815 residents.

Littlefield Chamber of Commerce has carefully gathered the statistics, and been equally careful in their analysis, in arriving at the new population increase figures. Since the census and up to April 1, or an approximate period of two years, electric connections have increased by 233; water connections by 267, and gas connections by 209.

When these figures are broken down on a percentage basis, it is found that 746 more persons are being served with electricity; 913 more with water, and 786 with gas, locally. Adding the three together it gives a total of 2445, and then dividing by three, gives the 815 population increase figure.

On the basis of the 1950 census, and a simultaneous census of light, water and gas users, it was shown then that 3.2 persons was the usage ratio for electricity; 3.42 for water usage; 3.93 for gas. The same percentage is used in arriving at (Continued on back page)

Catholic Ladies To Stage Auction Sale

The ladies of Sacred Heart Catholic church in Littlefield is arranging for a big Community Auction Sale which has been announced for Friday night of this week, starting at 8:00 p. m., at the Legion Hut in Littlefield.

The auction is being staged as a fund raising campaign, to augment funds already raised toward a new church building in Littlefield.

Mrs. Joe Foltyn, in charge of publicity for the fund raising auction stated that a novel and entertaining headline feature for the auction will be the arrival of "Mr. and Mrs. Gold Digger," and their large and growing family of little diggers, from their home near Bledsoe, bringing a generous contribution to the auction in the form of "canned and bottled goods" to be obtained in the Bledsoe community.

They have also secured the services of a "lady-killer" auctioneer, and swooning of the Sinatra-Bobby Sox variety, is a distinct possibility, that the committee in charge are giving serious consideration. The class of this auctioneer may reverse the usual trend at auctions of this type, and produce more numerous and vociferous feminine bidders, in a field usually predominated by males.

But the Bledsoe contribution to the goods to be auctioned is only the leading item on the auction bill of fare. There will be oodles of home made cakes and pies, home canned goods, dressed chickens, live pigs, and other goodies and viands too numerous to mention. A special booth will be set up for the additional sale of pie and coffee.

Hauk & Hofacket To Move Soon; To Stage Big Sale Starting Today

Attend District Convention Of Lutheran Church Missouri Synod

The opening of 25 new mission stations within the next five years is the goal with which the Board of Missions challenged the delegates attending the Texas District convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, which was in session this past week, from April 14-18 in Austin.

This same Board of Missions also reported that four new mission stations of the church were opened in Texas during 1951.

One of the convention highlights came when the Board of Missions presented 73-year-old Albert Grauer, retired business man, who for the past four years has been ringing door bells in the interest of bringing Christ to more hearts and homes in Texas. Mr. Grauer, now pensioned by his firm, encouraged others to find the same thrills which were his.

Attending this gathering for the Emmanuel Lutheran Church of Littlefield was Ernest Lorenz, lay representative, and Harold Heckman, pastoral representative. All sessions, including a communion and the opening service, were held on the beautiful campus of 25-year-old Concordia College. This school has for the past years helped train many of the church's pastors and teachers, including Emmanuel Lutheran's minister.

Hauk & Hofacket, Firestone Dealer store, of which Vernon Hofacket and Elton Hauk are owners, will move soon into the Emlinger building, former location of Brown Tire, which is one door south of the Leader office.

This building is being completely remodelled, including redecorating, and as soon as completed, will be the new home of Hauk & Hofacket. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy in the early part of May.

For the purpose of reducing their stock for moving, Hauk & Hofacket are staging a store wide sale, opening Thursday. A few of these bargains are itemized in an ad appearing elsewhere in this newspaper.

Bargains will be in full sway throughout the store, and it will be to the benefit of housewives, as well as automobile, truck, and tractor owners, to visit this Firestone store during this sale.

The Firestone store opened in Littlefield in 1944 under the management of Vernon Hofacket, with Birdwell Brothers as owners. Later in 1948 Mr. Hofacket and Elton Hauk formed a partnership and bought the store, which they have since operated.

They invite their many friends to visit them during this big sale.

The young man was electrocuted at Mineral Wells last Wednesday while erecting a television antennae. Funeral services were held from Calvary Baptist church, Friday afternoon.

Lamb County SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS NOTES

Ed Fowler is using barnyard manure for soil improvement on his farm east of Littlefield. Mr. Fowler is applying fertilizer at the rate of eleven tons per acre.

Charley Harmon of Amherst is experimenting with a new fertilizer preparation.

Harry Ingelking, who lives northwest of Earth, has a beautiful stand of wheat and subam clover growing together seventy five percent of Mr. Ingelking's land has had a soil improving legume crop grown on it during the past four years.

George Wuerflein of Earth has 100 acres of sweet clover, Madrid and subam clover seeded in his wheat. Mr. Wuerflein says the clover does not mature early enough to interfere with wheat harvest and is a wonderful crop for soil improvement as well as having an important cash value.

Ed and Jack Britz have completed 16 acres of bench leveling near Springlake School.

J. C. Miller of Hart Camp started land leveling work this week for better irrigation.

Charles Calvert and Doyle Dean plan some spring seedings of grass and legumes north of Littlefield. They have recently done some bench leveling for flood irrigation.

Bill Langford has a near 100% cover crop of vetch growing on cotton stalk land east of Littlefield. The vetch was planted last fall but because of dry weather the seed was late in coming up but with recent rains and irrigation the vetch is looking good.

For a BETTER COTTON CROP

PLANT PROPERLY TREATED COTTONSEED

The chance for a good stand of cotton with the first planting can be increased greatly when seed that has been treated properly with a recommended seed disinfectant is planted.

The circles in the picture above illustrate the difference seed treating may make. Treated seed and seedlings are less apt to suffer from seed decay, damping-off or sore-shin.

The small cost of treating is unimportant when compared with the expense of soil preparation, fertilizers, labor and equipment needed to produce a good crop. Less than 10c per acre spent for seed protection can often mean many dollars profit when the crop is brought to the gin.

For information about treating your seed and the name of the cottonseed treater nearest you consult your county agricultural agent.

Thousands Of Acres In Lamb County Being Bench Leveled This Year

STEPPING DOWN—The Senator who looks like a Senator—Texas' Tom Connally (D)—holds his familiar cigar and tells newsmen that he's not going to run for re-election. The silver-haired veteran of 35 years in Congress said he is confident he could win, but a campaign would be too arduous. His announcement touched off a wave of speculation about possible candidates who might run against state Attorney General Price Daniel for the post. —AP Photo

Several thousand acres have been bench leveled in the Lamb county district, and the demand for this type of irrigation land preparation is increasing steadily, according to the Lamb Soil Conservation district office in Amberst.

It will be impossible to bench level all the land in Lamb during the months between the crop seasons, and some of the land will have to be laid out or tilled and benched during the summer months if the district is to keep up with the demand, SCD said.

Reasons for this type of land development and the increasing demand for it in the Lamb district is explained by the soil office. It is a method of preparing sloping land for irrigation where the amount of the cut of the top soil is the determining factor in the width of the strip to be leveled. The purpose of this type of preparation is to alter the slope in such a manner to achieve three principal conditions: reduce erosion of rain and irrigation water, make maximum use of natural rainfall by holding most of the rain that falls and distributing it evenly over the entire strip, and obtain more efficient use of irrigation water.

This is accomplished by eliminating the waste of irrigation water and by wetting the soil to a sufficient depth to store moisture for a longer period, permitting roots to penetrate to a greater depth. It enables the Lamb county farmer to obtain greater crop yields with less irrigation water.

In the leveling process, the field is marked off in strips of widths and lengths determined by the kind of soil, slope of land, and amount of irrigation water available. After the width is determined, it is then adjusted so that the widths are equal to the multiple of four rows plus a half row plus the amount of space necessary for the bordering ridge.

After a system of bench border is laid out, leveling machinery is used to remove the side slope and to build the ridge. Where it is necessary to move dirt lengthwise of the strip, a scraper or carryall will do the job faster and more efficiently. The final finishing between borders should be done carefully with a loud plane and then chiseled to tear up the area from which soil was removed, and to roughen up the entire area to keep the land from blowing.

A completed bench border should be level from side to side with an allowance of from one half to one inch on the fill side for shrinkage or settlement. The ridges should be maintained to eight inches' settled height to avoid erosion damage and prevent loss of water.

Bench borders may be irrigated from open ditches, but the most successful way found is to use underground pipe with outlet valves in every other border and by using sleeve type canvas pipe attached to the valves to discharge and distribute the water. Underground pipe saves water, eliminates erosion, avoids wasting land for ditches, eliminates ditch maintenance and saves time and work in applying water over the land, the soil office pointed out.

Wise Perennial Choice Keeps Garden In Bloom

PERENNIALS — Chrysanthemums big enough to make little girls' eyes pop.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Perennials are the sturdy basis on which most gardens are built. Some gardens with busy owners or owners without a transcendent love for nursemaiding plants are completely made of them.

In the garden flower family there are, broadly, three kinds of plants: perennials, annuals and biennials. Perennials are the ones which flower year after year, after surviving our cold winters.

Perennials range from the sun-loving to the shade-loving. Some bloom early in the season, like iris and bleeding heart, while others come along in late August and September like chrysanthemums. Some like dry spots, others flourish in wet grounds. By careful selection, proper placing and a modest amount of attention, the garden owner can achieve a succession of bloom and have dependable plants flowering in a variety of locations.

Perennials Modest in Bloom

Generally speaking, perennials are more modest in their bloom than the annuals. Few of us would like to contemplate a garden composed entirely of annuals, because it would mean starting a garden from scratch each year.

There are, literally, thousands of perennials from which to choose in building a garden. There are tall perennials as well as short ones. With such a wide selection available, every gardener has the pleasure and privilege of picking, choosing and experimenting until he has found a combination that is pleasant. Of course no garden is static, because half the joy of gardening is finding new things, and developing one's perennial collection is particularly fascinating.

At the risk of ignoring important members of this large family, I shall mention a double handful of plants which are growing in my garden and which no garden of my own would ever be without. (And I'm excluding the bulb family arbitrarily.)

There are the peonies, the old-fashioned ones, which demand considerable attention, much fertilizer and have a short period of bloom—and are worth every second spent on them. Iris, another of the spring-blooming plants, is almost indispensable—bearded, beardless Siberian or Japanese. So are bleeding heart, from the small ones to the giants. They are right handy to have around, flourishing in the shade as they do.

Then comes columbine; my favorite is the old-fashioned kind of purple blue, although there are other, modern varieties. And delphinium, Oriental poppies which make a brilliant splash of color, delicate forget-me-nots of pink and blue, the big dianthus family, and tall spreading phlox.

Selection Varied

There are the small, brilliant and long-blooming coral bells, the big lily family, lupine with their fat spikes, airy gypsophila, foxglove, the various and vari-colored members of the daisy family, primrose, bee-balm which attracts the hummingbirds and then, come cooler weather at the end of the summer, the chrysanthemums.

Those are just a beginning—18 perennials arbitrarily picked from a huge list—and I've ignored important ones like lilies-of-the-valley and pansies. Most of them are not too fussy about soil, are modest in their appetites and most rewarding in their habit of returning each year to life and new bloom.

After a system of bench border is laid out, leveling machinery is used to remove the side slope and to build the ridge. Where it is necessary to move dirt lengthwise of the strip, a scraper or carryall will do the job faster and more efficiently. The final finishing between borders should be done carefully with a loud plane and then chiseled to tear up the area from which soil was removed, and to roughen up the entire area to keep the land from blowing.

A completed bench border should be level from side to side with an allowance of from one half to one inch on the fill side for shrinkage or settlement. The ridges should be maintained to eight inches' settled height to avoid erosion damage and prevent loss of water.

Bench borders may be irrigated from open ditches, but the most successful way found is to use underground pipe with outlet valves in every other border and by using sleeve type canvas pipe attached to the valves to discharge and distribute the water. Underground pipe saves water, eliminates erosion, avoids wasting land for ditches, eliminates ditch maintenance and saves time and work in applying water over the land, the soil office pointed out.

MATHERLY TAKES OVER
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Ralph Matherly of Sarasota, Fla., is the new athletic business manager and head baseball coach at Florida State University. Texas Eyes The Olympics

And those two guys, both sophomores, might make the United States Olympics team. They think here the Smith and Thomas are the best prospects for two Olympic spots the university ever has had.

DEAN SMITH
Humiliated the Varsity

The Texas sprint relay team of Smith, Thomas, Jim Bownhill and Carl Mayes already has done 41.4 to the 400 meters. That was in the Sugar Bowl meet at New Orleans in the winter. At the same time, Smith ran 100 meters in 10.3, a Sugar Bowl record. Bownhill is a sophomore and Mayes is a senior.

It was a trifle humiliating to the varsity last year when the freshman sprint relay team of Smith, Thomas, Bownhill and S. M. Meeks had a faster time than any other combination in the Southwest. Those boys did 41.5, running without competition.

Thomas, who has a tremendous finishing kick although a fairly slow starter, and Smith, a jackrabbit off the blocks, make ideal partners in the sprint relay. Smith starts them with a fast getaway and Thomas brings the baton in.
