Lamb County Man Protests Present Government Cotton Control Plan

P. E. Boesen, Sudan business man and capitalist, has entered vigorous protest with the United States Department of Agriculture and Congressman Marvin Jones, against the present plan of cotton control under the Bankhead Bill.

Mr. Boesen, in his letter, has protested that the present operation of the bill, protects the large grower and very unjustly penalizes the small grower.

This, in Mr. Boesen's opinion, is exceedingly detrimental to the economic condition of the country and reduces to virtually nothing the income of the small grower.

"SKY HIGH"

Congratulations are in order to all those who had any part in the preparations for and the presenting of "Sky High," which played to large audiences Thursday afternoon and night at the Littlefield High School.

This play was presented under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Club, and the appreciation of this city and section is due the club for making possible such pleasing entertainment.

Any expression of commendation of the play would not be complete without special reference to the splendid work of those who made the arrangements for the event; to the talent and technique of the players, and to the business men of Littlefield who graciously contributed to the advertising for the show. Miss Florence Helton of the National Producing Co., who directed the presentation of the play, was exceedingly capable in her work.

The presentation of "Sky High" offered another example of the excellent talent which Littlefield possesses for the providing of high class entertainment.

"KIDNAPING DOESN'T PAY"

That "Kidnaping Doesn't Pay" has been well established.

"Kidnaping Doesn't Pay" can be tacked right alongside "Crime Never Pays" as a truism," says the Denver Post.

"Of 29 major kidnaping cases, dating from the abduction and murder of the Lindbergh baby in March, 1933," says The Post, "the United States authorities have helped to solve all but one. Seventy-four persons have been convicted, 16 sentenced to life imprisonment, with two death penalties imposed."

Throughout our entire life we have observed the ways of criminals and those who had not progressed sufficiently along the path of wrong doing to have much of a standing among those who live outside the law.

Many years on big city newspapers, some of that time as a police reporter, spending all our time with the police, unfolded to us the life of those outside the law. We knew them before and after they become entangled in the nets set by police to catch them. With very, very few exceptions their lives were a complete "flop."

If young men — and young women, too, — yes, boys and girls — knew what a mess crime really is they wouldn't entertain the idea of becoming involved in even a small way.

Truly "Crime Doesn't Pay."

Chevrolet Announces New 4-Door Five Passenger Sedan

For the first time since Chevrolet added the Standard Six in 1933, a four-door five-passenger sedan is now included in its lower priced line. In announcing the new model as an addition to the 1934 Standards, Chevrolet Motor Company declares it to be the lowest priced four-door sedan in the field of sixes and eights. Its list price is $540, or $100 under the Master four-door sedan.

The major new features in styling is the treatment of the rear end, where the body panels extend low in an unbroken contour to cover the back of the chassis. This construction does away with the rear cross-member cover, and provides a smooth sweeping effect. The rear tire carrier and the rear bumper supports extend through openings in the body panel, as does the gasoline tank filler-neck.

Equipment features include an adjustable sun-shade at the driver's seat button type latches for locking all doors, dome light, and rear window curtain.

The front doors are equipped with no draft-panels, fitted with exterior rain shields.

Bringing Potatoes From Maine to Feed Needy of Texas

(Special to Leader)
 AUSTIN, Oct. 24. — Texas relief roll clients will have their potatoes this winter from Maine. And they will be distributed as a surplus commodity, NOT to be charged against the client's budget.

A survey of storage facilities for carrying potatoes through the winter months has been completed by the Texas Relief Commission and it was found that the state has available space for storing 36,000,000 pounds of potatoes.

Acting on this information, C. Z. Crain, head of the surplus commodities department, placed with the Federal Surplus Relief corporation an order for 1200 cars of Maine potatoes. They will be shipped in bulk from Maine to Galveston and distributed by train from this point to destitute families in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Will Repair Toys For Needy Children

(Special to Leader)
 AUSTIN, Oct. 24 — Relief clients will be employed this fall to make, repair and distribute toys among needy families, administrators were informed by Mrs. M. K. Taylor, state director of women's work. One of the purposes of these Christmas cheer projects will be to employ persons physically unfit for manual labor. Relief offices will spend money for materials, but will have charge of distribution of the toys of children of destitute families.

Farmer Pays 10c Mile For Cotton Picking

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 24 (UP)—A Hardman county farmer has supplied a new wrinkle on the subject of cotton picking. He hires pickers at the rate of 10-cents a mile—pounds not withstanding.

His offer has been rejected by many cotton pickers, but even so, he has plenty of takers. His crop, sparse because of the drought, is moving rapidly from the field to the gin.

Pickers trudge a mile down rows for a dime, regardless of the amount of cotton they sack.

TODAY'S FASHION HINTS VERY LATEST BY PATRICIA DOW

Designed in 1934. A young girl's dress of 8330. Pattern 8330: Little children love to dress in gay, new frocks and go to a party. Such a frock is the one sketched. It is gay and becoming.

The yoke and puff sleeves are cut in one with the panels. There are not many pieces in this pattern, though the effect of the panels, in front and back and repeated at the sides is quite complicated. The gathered sections of the dress which are sewed into the yoke at the top and along the panels at the side edges are simple to sew.

A narrow band finishes the sleeves and the dress is opened on the shoulders with buttons and buttonholes. Printed silk or taffeta would be sweet in this design and quite partyish.

RUBYDALE CLUB

The demonstration on making tomato juice which was given by Miss Westbrook recently at the home of Mrs. E. L. Cain was one of the most interesting demonstrations we have had this year. We are all interested in learning to put up tomato juice which is rich in vitamin C and for which we find so many uses, and it must also take the place of fruit in our diets, to a certain extent, in this part of the state where fruit is often scarce.

After the demonstration a number of games and contests were played, then Mrs. Cain was given a lovely miscellaneous shower.

The hostess served tiny cakes and hot chocolate to the following members: Mesdames J. R. Montgomery, R. N. Carpenter, A. B. Jordan, G. D. Huffstutter, L. G. Fox, C. L. Henderson, J. A. Melton, J. B. Walker, C. F. Brice, J. D. Nall, Gus Clark, J. H. Nall and Miss Fay Pepper. Two visitors were present also: Mesdames S. E. Jones and J. N. Cain.

"I am going straight home and make me a tufted pillow top, declared Mrs. R. N. Carpenter after seeing Mrs. C. L. Cain give the demonstration on "Tufted Bedsprings and Pillows" at the Sunny-Dale Community House last Thursday.

The following members were present for the demonstration: Mesdames L. M. Brandon, P. S. Hanks, R. N. Carpenter, A. B. Jordan, C. E. Toney, C. L. Henderson, P. H. Nall, Gus Clark, and E. L. Cain. Mrs. R. N. Carpenter Jr. was a visitor.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. C. E. Toney on Thursday, Oct. 25, at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Westbrook will be with us and give a demonstration on "Making and Canning Plum Pudding". Members urged to be present and we are always glad to have visitors.

Rules For Hunters In This Section

Hunting days for ducks and geese and all migratory water fowls begins October 26, at 12:00 o'clock noon, and continues for 10 weeks, which will close the season on December 30 one hour after sundown. The days of the week for hunting are Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays only. No hunting will be permitted on any other days of the week.

The bag limit is 12 ducks, or 4 geese, with not more than two days bag limit in your possession at any time. It is absolutely necessary for anyone shooting a gun while hunting water fowls to own and have in their possession a duck stamp which can be procured at any postoffice. The sum of $1.00 will be charged for the stamp. This money goes to the government to be used in swamp lands in providing breeding places for water fowls. You must have a duck stamp whether you hunt in your own county or not. The penalty for not having a duck stamp is $500.00 fine, or one year in the Federal penitentiary, or both. This is a Federal case, therefore you will be dealt with accordingly. You also must have a hunting license if you hunt outside of your own county.

If the game warden catches you hunting out of season the fine will be $37.50 for each duck he catches you with and your hunting license will be taken away from you for two years.

Nowhere can you get such Quality Newspaper as the Lamb County Leader at the low rate of 75 cents a year. THIS OFFER GOOD FOR A SHORT TIME ONLY.

FARMERS WARNED NOT TO SELL COTTON EXEMPTION CERTIFICATES WITHOUT GOING THROUGH PROPER CHANNELS

The County Agent warns farmers not to sell cotton exemption certificates without going through the proper channels.

A telegram has been received by G. R. Schumann, Asst. Co. Agent which reads as follows:

"Please advise at once all county officials in charge cotton program and otherwise give as wide publicity as possible to following. Stop Regulations especially sections one through one to one naught six provide only ways in which cotton tax exemption certificates may be lawfully transferred or assigned stop any transfer or assignment not in accordance with regulations is illegal and in such both the person disposing of certificates and party acquiring it are subject to penalty in section fourteen E of act for violation of regulations for each certificate involved and such certificate is subject to cancellation stop No one is entitled to possession of certificates except cotton producers and transfer is legal only as above stated to enable growers to use certificates in ginning and marketing this year's crop.

"C. A. Cobb, Chief Cotton Production Section." The county agent stated that all transfers and sales of cotton exemption certificates must be made through the County Agent's office in order for them to be legal. Any other means of transfer or sale is illegal and void and both parties making the transaction are subject to penalty in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Bankhead Act. He also urged that all farmers having surplus certificates for sale come to the County Agent's office at once to place them in the National pool. There is a big demand for these surplus certificates in the east and at the present time very few tags are available through the pool.

Breckenridge Child Rides To School With Mary Pickford

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 24. (UP)—Betty June Hickey fifth grade student, has had the thrill of a lifetime — riding to school in a big limousine with the famous screen star, Mary Pickford. And it came about in a most surprising and unusual manner.

Betty June was walking to school one day when a large automobile stopped beside her. Despite the forewarnings of her father, Deputy Sheriff Ray Hickey, the girl could not resist the temptation to get into the shining car.

"I don't suppose you know who I am," said a beautiful lady beside whom Betty June sat.

"Well, you look like Mary Pickford," June replied.

"Well I am," the screen star told the bewildered but fascinated school girl. Miss Pickford was en-route to the Pacific coast by automobile.

MY! MY! FIRE CHIEF GETS ON FIRE

RANGER, Texas, Oct. 24. (UP)—When a fire chief puts out a fire that may be news, but when the fire chief himself catches on fire, there's no doubt about it.

Take that from Fire Chief G. A. Murphy who the other day crawled nonchalantly under the steering wheel of his car. Presently he came out not so nonchalant, slapping himself in the region of the appendix.

Matches in the watch pocket of his trousers had rubbed against the steering wheel and ignited.

AMHERST GRID TEAM HAS GOOD RECORD; DECLARED TO HAVE VERY POWERFUL LINE

AMHERST, Texas, Oct. 24. — Coach Mobley's football warriors are giving a good account of themselves.

Not including last Friday's game, the Amherst team had won three games out of four played this year. They were defeated by Littlefield, 6-0, and won from Spring Lake, 19-6; From Dimett, 63-0, and from Lazzbuddy, 25-0. Only 12 points had been scored against the team this season and they had piled up 130 points.

This is Mobley's third year as coach at Amherst. Before that he was coach for one year at Spring Lake.

Martin Palmer, 16 years of age, is star in the backfield of the Amherst team. He is greatly assisted by Bennett, Rice and Edwards.

Horton is outstanding in the line. Among line men who are showing great promise are Walker, Mobley, Jennings, Woods and Davis.

Amherst is declared to have the most powerful line of any High School in West Texas, but Mobley had to give considerable attention to building up the quarter back position.

The Amherst team would like a game later this season with Littlefield, if the Wildcats have an open date.

The probable lineup will be: R. E. Wittingham, H. T. Bishop; R. G. Oats, C. Sullivan, L. G. Harrell, L. T. Tubbs, L. E. Kassroller, Q. B. New, H. Walker, H. West, H. B. Anderson. Admission 10c and 15c.

LOCAL GRIDSTERS DOWN CROSBYTON CREW 19-6

Coach Barksdale's Littlefield high school gridsters took the lead in the first two minutes of a game here Friday night with the Crosbyton Chiefs in which they downed the visitors by a final count of 19 to 6.

It was the locals second conference game of the season and the Friday night win leaves them with a fair chance to cop the district crown. The Wildcats split their first conference battle with the Ralls team in a 6 to 6 tie game here two weeks ago.

In the game Friday night, Littlefield started a drive from their own 39-yard line, two minutes after the first kick-off, that netted them first touchdown.

Duffey, Littlefield quarterback, opened the drive with a 23-yard gain and followed with 9 more yards. On the next play Yantis stepped off 20 yards around left end. Kendrick accounted for 9 yards on an end-around play, placing the ball on the 1-yard line, and Hall scored in a plunge over center.

The second touchdown came three minutes later when McKnight carried the ball from the Crosbyton 30-yard line for an 8-yard gain; Yantis picked up 20 yards on left end; Hall failed to gain, and Duffey carried the ball over the scoring line on the next play. Yantis kicked the extra point.

Neither team scored in the second period. McKnight accounted for the Wildcats third touchdown in the third period.

Crosbyton scored in the latter part of the fourth quarter when Littlefield's punt was blocked on the local's 5-yard line. Buck of the Crosbyton team made 4 yards on a right end run, and Harkins carried the ball over for their only touchdown on two line plays.

KIDNAPING

There are many people who do not believe it, but the facts are that some kidnappings are right in fact they are within the law. That seems strange, doesn't it? But facts are facts and you cannot get around them.

One of the strongest believers in justifiable kidnappings is Roy Byers, who, it is reported, has always enjoyed a good reputation. Byers is guilty of kidnaping. Roy kidnaped Old Man High Prices For Feeds this part of the country and carried him away to some unknown place.

The regular meeting of the Ministerial Alliance of Lamb and Bailey counties was held Monday, Oct. 22 in the beautiful auditorium of the First Baptist Church, Olton, and though it is a fact that the new building has one of the neatest auditoriums in the County its beauty was greatly enhanced by the many flowers that covered the chancel rail from end to end.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Rev. J. W. Hendrix at ten o'clock and the morning devotion was conducted by Rev. Baucon pastor of the Olton Presbyterian church. Following the worship period chairman Hendrix introduced Rev. Jennings, pastor First Christian church Plainview, Rev. Bailey, pastor First Methodist church Plainview and Dr. Grafton, pastor First Presbyterian church Plainview. These brethren came as representatives of the Plainview Pastors Alliance. Dr. Bailey made the report on the work of the Plainview alliance, reporting that the Picture Shows had been their major project and stated that a city board of sensors would be established soon, also that some agreement would be reached with the show managers relative to the Sunday night shows. He further stated that a move would be launched to organize a county wide Alliance on the same order of Lamb and Bailey and many other organized counties of the state, he said that perhaps their next move would be to assist the officers of the county and city in removing Slot Machines and other gambling devices.

Manymatters of importance were discussed during the session of the Alliance, among them being the Sunday night picture shows, and a motion was passed asking the chairman to appoint a committee to confer with the proper authorities connected with the show business regarding some agreement on Sunday night shows also to investigate the need of a board of sensors.

McGavock's Car Slightly Damaged

When returning to Olton from Littlefield recently A. H. McGavock had an auto accident that could easily have been serious.

He was accompanied by Mrs. McGavock and Junior and was driving along at a lively rate of speed when he encountered some loose dirt where the road had been freshly graded. The car catapulted into a bar pit, pitching Mrs. McGavock and the boy into the dash board and skinning their heads slightly but otherwise they were uninjured. Mr. McGavock was not even scratched.

The front axle was badly bent and the right wheel knocked about two feet back of its regular position. The bumper was torn off and the right front fender also was wrecked, together with other damage to the car.

Mr. McGavock and family were brought to Olton by Mr. and Mrs. Cook, living near the scene of the accident. The car, a Chevrolet coach, was later gotten out of the ditch and driven to Olton on its own power.

You Can Buy New Lamps --But Not New Eyes

CHILDREN never think about their eyes. Unconsciously, they abuse them. Any lighting, good or bad, suits them as long as they can possibly see. They don't know the difference. They expect you, the parents, to know. You must accept the responsibility for protecting their eyes during early life.

Check the lighting in your home right now. You, as well as your child, will benefit from the safety and convenience of proper lighting. Always buy Mazda Lamps. They are truly economical. Remember, the true price of any lamp is written, not on the price tag, but on your lighting bill.

SYNOPSIS

After a cream colored car was found wrecked in the foot of a cliff, a girl named Anne Cushing appears in town Marston. She has been on a ranch located between a ranch located away. Barry Duane, her brother and his man, Boone, a reliable woman for Barry's car, loaded down the car, they start across the Marston her reticence has been Barry and Anne than neighbors and Barry each realize that more than friendship exists between them.

Barry was pacing slowly up and down the long veranda; Anne was dressing for their first dinner at home. Her one evening dress was there, a supple, shimmering thing in pale gold. Voices drifted up to her from below. "You'd better go into Marston tomorrow morning and see if there's any mail, Petry. I'm expecting a letter." "Sure will, I was going to slip off anyway, first thing." Petry's voice sounded apologetic. "Got to own up to something, I guess. You gave me a letter to mail pret' near a week ago, and it must've slipped down behind that old rug on the back seat and I never missed it when I picked up the others." "Oh! . . . I see. There was a perceptible pause. "Well, it can't be helped. You'd better put an air mail stamp on it, and I'll have another note ready to explain the delay."

Barry was married at Trail's End. He had been married at the minister from beyond Marston. Will was the fire place and no one had ever seen the child Barry was a little nervous. "Is this what you dandle me with, Nancy, before I've been married three hours?" "Nancy?" She looked startled. You never called me that before. "I don't know any better time to begin. It suits you better than Ann, You're sweet Nancy."

Barry was pacing slowly up and down the long veranda; Anne was dressing for their first dinner at home.

Her one evening dress was there, a supple, shimmering thing in pale gold.

Voices drifted up to her from below.

"You'd better go into Marston tomorrow morning and see if there's any mail, Petry. I'm expecting a letter."

"Sure will, I was going to slip off anyway, first thing." Petry's voice sounded apologetic. "Got to own up to something, I guess. You gave me a letter to mail pret' near a week ago, and it must've slipped down behind that old rug on the back seat and I never missed it when I picked up the others."

"Oh! . . . I see. There was a perceptible pause. "Well, it can't be helped. You'd better put an air mail stamp on it, and I'll have another note ready to explain the delay."

Anne adjusted a shoulder strap, patted her hair and surveyed the result in the mirror.

Fingers beat a light tattoo on the door. Barry came in. He said "Whew! softly."

"Is this what you dandle me with, Nancy, before I've been married three hours?"

"Nancy?" She looked startled. You never called me that before. "I don't know any better time to begin. It suits you better than Ann, You're sweet Nancy."

The soft notes of the gong were sounding through the house. Barry tucked her arm in his. "Come on, Mrs. Duane, and sit at the head of your table."

Petry did not start for Marston until late afternoon, it seemed to be one of those days when one thing after another goes wrong, and he insisted on attending to them himself.

The evening meal was over before Petry came tramping up the veranda steps.

"Tire blew out on the way back," he explained. "Here's a telegram for you Barry. It came in just before I left town."

Barry opened the telegram, and his face clouded with sudden anxiety.

"I'm sorry." He looked apologetically at Anne. "I'm afraid we shall have to shorten the honeymoon a little. My mother wires me that she hasn't been well. I'm afraid we'll have to start for home in a day or "Home!" Her heart was ice. "But Barry, I thought this was home?"

"It is for half of every year, and I've lived here so much that this seems more like my home than the real one. That is back East, about an hour out of New York. Perhaps I ought to have told you before, but I was keeping it for a little surprise. Why Nancy, you lovely little thing! Do you think I married you to let you be buried here in a lonely mountain valley from one year's end to the other?"

"But I love it here!" Her voice was edged with a sharp fear. "I — I thought we were going to stay here and work out your plans for the Junipero! Aren't you going on with that Barry?"

"Of course, darling." He looked surprised at her vehemence. "But going back East is really a part of it. It's the biggest part, for that is where I'm trying to raise the money. Where Nancy — aren't you glad?"

Why — of course I'm glad. But you did surprise me. And I thought you were letting all your plans go."

"Isn't it silly that I never thought of you having a family somewhere? I mean a near-relations, family besides the uncle who died. Suppose they don't like me?"

"What a funny baby you are!! Suppose the sun rises in the west? The immediate family isn't very big, just my mother and me."

The palms of her hand were wet. Barry was an only son . . . she had taken him away from his mother."

"I am sorry your mother isn't well," she said slowly. "Of course we'll go. Does she know that we are married?"

She saw a dark flush come under the tan. "Why no, I wrote as soon as it was settled, but my letter got mislaid. But of course I'd written to her about you before."

So that was it! Barry had written home about her, and his mother was trying to get him away from here before he became involved with some strange girl who ran a grubby little poverty-stricken ranch.

"It's too bad," she said quickly. "I mean about the letter. You must tell me about her . . . Be a lamb and get my coat, and we'll sit out here for a while and talk."

Barry would hate scandal or any kind of notoriety for his wife. She knew that. So, no doubt, would this mother who was urging him to come home. But perhaps nobody would know her . . . Only an hour from New York.

A night letter lay on the neatly arranged tray which held Mrs. Schuyler Duane's morning mail. The tray was of silver and old, and a collector would have sighed with delight over it.

She opened the night letter deliberately, with no doubt that it would contain, however reluctantly, exactly what she wished. There were two air mail letters on the tray, but she merely gave these a glance.

The night letter was curiously worded. "We! Mrs. Duane stiffened. She read it a second time, with thin, set lips. Then she reached slowly and stiffly for the air mail letters.

Barry was married! Without even telling her. Outraged dignity and thwarted hopes brushed aside the explanation in the second note. And his wife — his wife — was some appalling creature from a poverty-stricken ranch!

She went back to the first letter with a scornful impatience which was slowly congealing to a chill dislike.

"When you meet her, you will be proud of your daughter-in-law."

"Proud of her!" The hand on the letter shook. "He is infatuated, and this — this woman has hurried him into a marriage before he could come to his senses. Barry Duane, who might have had his choice of a dozen, and retrieved everything that we have lost!"

An elderly man servant appeared at the door.

"Miss Pendleton, M'm."

"Show Miss Pendleton in, Matthews."

"It is very pleasant to see you again Cleo. You are always thoughtful, my dear. When did you return?"

"Last night. Everybody got bored to death with everybody else. How have you been, and how is Barry?"

Cleo was the only child of an enormously rich father, but even outside of this useful consideration, she liked Cleo. She was herself a woman of ability and strong will, and she respected the determination and cleverness under that soft exterior.

"I have a letter from Barry this morning," Mrs. Duane answered the last question.

"Is he still playing cowboy? Can't we do anything to cure him?"

Mrs. Duane smiled faintly. "I'm afraid he is past curing . . . Barry was married last Monday."

After all the Duanes were the Duanes. Barry's mother made the announcement smoothly.

"Married! Barry married!" It was not often that Cleo Pendleton could be startled from her confident pose.

"And we've all been saying for years that he was girl-proof. Who is she? Do I know her?"

"No. She is a stranger to — all of us. Someone he met out there. It was very sudden."

Perhaps Mrs. Duane felt that this much was due to Cleo, but she made her explanation with dignity.

"Dear Mrs. Duane, how hard for you!" Cleo's voice was sweetly impulsive. She laid her cool young fingers over the older woman's hand, and for an instant Mrs. Duane returned the pressure.

"My dear, I do not question my son's choice. But I must admit that I had other hopes for him."

"I'm sure it will be all right. Are they coming back here?"

"Next week."

"Oh, how nice! But it's a pity we couldn't have had a chance to get acquainted before, isn't it?" Cleo's hard little smile came back. "Oh well, we can have some dinners and dances and things, in honor of the bride. Call on me if I can help, won't you? I must run along . . . Goodbye."

Mrs. Duane rang for Matthews. "Matthews, Mr. Barry was married a few days ago and will be home next Wednesday. Please see that the west wing is made ready for me."

"The — the west wing, Ma'am?"

"Certainly, Matthews."

In five minutes the news was buzzing in the rear of the old house.

In the seclusion of her own quite luxurious suite the sole heir of the Pendletons was behaving badly.

From her petted babyhood, Cleo had her own way. And now — Barry Duane was married. Barry Duane was the only man she had ever really wanted.

"I hate her!" she thought furiously. "I'll make him ashamed of his ranch girl. Sweet simplicity . . . what'll she look like in Granleigh? I'll make him wish he'd never seen her. I'll give Barry Duane six months or less, to be sick of his bargain."

Every day of their homeward journey had been reminding Anne that instead of a struggling young ranch owner she had married a man of assured social position.

"Almost home, Nancy."

That was from Barry. Except for the deep tan he was scarcely recognizable as the same Barry Duane she had first seen, coatless, dusty and cheerfully informal.

The train was slowing down.

"There's John on the platform. He doubles as gardner and chauffeur, but I do my own driving."

Barry nodded at one man, moved his hand in careless salute to another raised his hat to a woman. Anne knew that several heads had turned. Evidently, everybody who counted knew everybody else in this pleasant old town.

The car swept away from the station and down a wide well-kept road. They were passing a high stone wall, about midway of which a wide gateway indicated a drive. As they came abreast a car shot out of the opened gates, a swift roadster, and cut in ahead of them. There was a girl at the wheel. She half turned her head as she shot across their path, with an impudent little grin and a swift wave of one hand.

"Reckless little devil!" Barry half frowned, and then laughed. "That's Cleo Pendleton. She's an imp. Does pretty much as she pleases — her dad's the richest man around here, except one, and she's the only child. You'll like her."

"She's pretty." Anne reserved comment about liking Cleo Pendleton. It had seemed to Anne that wide baby eyes had swept her with a stare as cool and efficient as blue steel.

The car was turning into a shaded drive which curved toward a wide, old house. It was not as pretentious as most but it was older and mellower.

A tall spare woman with beautiful hands and an emotionless face was waiting to greet them.

Barry said "Here we are, Mother" with just a touch of nervousness. He bent and kissed her, and drew Anne forward with one arm.

"I don't need to tell you who this is Mother, except that she is just as lovely as she looks, and I am a proud husband. Nancy darling, this is my mother, and yours."

Whatever surprise Mrs. Duane may have felt as she looked at the "ranch girl" she was far too well trained to show it. What had such a girl been doing in a desolate place like this Marston — unless perhaps she had deliberately followed Barry there?

She had not intended to kiss her daughter-in-law, but she did. It was a chill salute, but it answered.

"My son's wife of course is welcome. Barry, my dear, how brown you are."

Anne held the beautiful old hand a moment longer. "I hope we shall be friends," she said impulsively. "I do want Barry's mother to like me."

Mrs. Schuyler Duane smiled remotely and chilled again.

"We will take that for granted. I suppose you would like to rest after your journey? Matthews will show you to your rooms."

Matthews showed them to a pleasant suite.

"Like it Nancy?"

"Who could help liking it? It's a beautiful old house."

Deceased was the father of George L. White, an uncle of P. W. Walker, and a cousin of Pat Boone and Mrs. A. P. Duggan, all of Littlefield.

A delegation of relatives and friends left here Wednesday morning to attend the funeral services which were held at Roswell yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. Among those going were: Mrs. P. W. Walker and daughter, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Boone, R. T. Badger, Mrs. Bertrand Badger, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Badger, and Charlie Barber. Mr. Walker went to Roswell Monday.

Mr. White left surviving him his widow and three sons and one daughter, J. P. and Tom White of Roswell, George L. White of Littlefield, and Mrs. Horace McGee of Roswell, and four sisters and one brother - Mrs. R. H. Walker and Mrs. Sarah Murphy of Gonzales; Miss Libbie White of Austin, J. W. White of Mason, and Mrs. Marion Hodges of Roswell.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church for a number of years; and was a Shriner of long standing.

Mr. White was born and reared in Gonzales County, coming west fifty-five years ago he made his home in Roswell, and acquired several large ranches in West Texas and New Mexico. He and Major George W. Littlefield were partners in the cattle-raising and ranching business on the South Plains for forty-five years, running as many as 70,000 head of cattle.

In the early Texas days the State of Texas traded three million acres of land to Farwells of Chicago, trustees of an English Estate, for funds with which to build the Capitol at Austin, and in 1901 Major Littlefield purchased 300,000 acres of this land, which was out of the XIT ranch. This acreage measured 25 square miles; the south line being 1-2 mile north of Levelland; north line several miles north of Littlefield; East line near Anton; and west border several miles east of Sudan.

Major Littlefield was an uncle of J. P. White, and at that time was his partner in the ranching business.

Some time later and in 1912 Major Littlefield and J. P. White, with the assistance of A. P. Duggan, and J. C. Whicker, began colonizing a few leagues of this land.

About 1921 Major Littlefield sold J. P. White 120,000 acres, being the western portion of this 300,000 acre tract, including the Yellow House Headquarters. Mr. White lived at the Yellow House ranch Headquarters for many years.

In 1922 the Yellow House Land Company bought this 120,000 from Mr. White, and in 1932 this company sold back to Mr. White 22,000 acres, including the Yellowhouse headquarters. The same year his son, George L. White had erected a beautiful brick home near the headquarters, where he and Mrs. White have since made their home.

At the time of his death Mr. White owned extensive land holdings, including the L. E. Ranch near Roswell comprising 180,000 acres.

fense of the farmers, addressed letters to Secretary Wallace and Congressman Marvin Jones.

Secretary Wallace turned over Mr. Boesen's letter to C. A. Cobb, chief administrator for the Bankhead bill.

In answering the letter, Mr. Cobb said in part:

"When we plan next year's program, if the act is to be continued in operation by the President, for the crop year 1935-36, we shall be very happy to consider your proposal and we shall keep your letter at hand pending the arrival of that time."
