DEMOS, GOPS BOTH SATURDAY

Runoff Vote Interest Lags

Two primary runoff elections that Lamb county will share with all Texas Saturday this week have stirred no drumbeats and, in fact, are exciting less interest than a summer vacation P-TA meeting.

The only positive feeling generated by the two one-race runoff elections comes from Glenn Batson, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee which will pay out more than $1,000 for the routine voting.

"We'll pay from $1.00 to $1.25 for every vote cast Saturday," Batson said of the Democratic primary which simply is to reach a Texas-wide decision on who will be Congressman-at-large from Texas, a job about which most voters could care less.

Batson is estimating from 1,000 to 1,200 votes "at the outside" in the Democratic runoff contest. It pits incumbent Cong. Joe Pool of Dallas county, who won his job two years ago, against former state senator Robert Baker of Houston.

The at-large congressional post is a temporary situation, occasioned by the fact that Texas gained a congressman from the 1960 census and has not yet got around to redistricting to give the office a regular district. This will be done before 1966, so Pool or Baker will win only an office that is going out of business after two years.

Pool almost won a clear majority over several opponents in the first primary.

Republicans have more direct interest in their lone contest Saturday, a runoff between Jack Cox of Harris County and George Bush, also of Harris county, to see who will oppose U.S. Senator Ralph Yarborough for his job in the general election this November.

Cox outpolled Bush by 138 to 48 in the first primary in Lamb county, an election that saw about 250 GOP ballots cast. But, like the Pool-Baker contest, the Cox-Bush race is stirring little interest even among Republicans.

A light absentee vote is indicative of the lack of interest for Saturday's election. To Wednesday one seven absentee Democratic ballots and four Republican ballots had been cast.

Lamb Republicans have one small advantage, however. They operate their polls by volunteer workers and will have a smaller election cost Saturday, but their cost per vote might parallel Batson's.

Polls for both elections will open at 8 a.m., close at 7 p.m. Voting requirements are the same as for the first primary, with an added simplification. In the first primary some 60 Lamb voters were eligible to vote in the federal office races, not on the rest of the ballot. Both races Saturday are for federal offices, eliminating the need for any change in ballots.

Democrats will ballot in all 17 of the county's voting precincts. Republicans will consolidate several of their election boxes for Saturday's voting.

PEP PIONEERS Herman Green, left, and A.G. Jungman swap reminiscences of early Pep farm dinners at the annual Littlefield C of C dinner there Tuesday night. Mr. Jungman came to Pep in 1924, when the community was started. Mr. Green in 1926. He now lives in Levelland.

175 Attend Annual Farm Dinner at Pep

An enthusiastic turnout of 175 persons attended the annual Littlefield-Pep dinner held at Pep Thursday night, a joint project of the two communities.

It was an old-fashioned visit session, with no formal program, but with the traditional feature of the outstanding dinner prepared by women of the Pep community with lots of old-fashioned German sausage for which the community is noted.

Vic Diersing, Pep, was master of ceremonies for the evening and extended a welcome to Littlefield visitors, with a response by H.C. Randall, Littlefield city councilman.

Diersing reviewed the past year's progress for the Pep community with emphasis on a new community building to be located just south of Pep. The building will have a community fall with 3,600 floor feet, four classrooms and other facilities.

The building will be ready for the widely known Pep dinner and entertainment at Thanksgiving.

he said. The 40-year history of Pep, and its farm dinners, was recalled by Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Jungman who were among the original settlers of the community when that area was opened for farming in 1924.

Buyers quickly snapped up an offering of Pep sausage prepared by their community club. Proceeds from the sausage sale go into community projects.

Fall Program To Spotlight Cotton Talked

A number of people from over the county have been invited to a Thursday afternoon planning session for a major cotton harvest observance next fall, by the Littlefield chamber of commerce.

A tentative proposal for the meeting is for a festival-type observance tied in with the start of cotton harvest. It would parallel the sizeable cotton exposition Hockley county had last fall, with a 5-mile lone parade of floats promoting the industry.

ROOM TO GROW for the Littlefield schools provided by the new $650,000 high school building that is estimated at 75 percent complete. Building will be turned over to school district in August, contractors say.

Top picture is of a new lunchroom section, at bottom a frontal view of the extensive building. Paving around the new campus presently is underway.

NEW ROADS, FANCY WATER TOWER:

New HS Building Job 75% Complete

The long vacation summer beginning for Littlefield school students brings the promise that its end will see the school's students in the best of health they have enjoyed since P. Hatcher opened a one-room school here in 1913.

The reason will be completion of the new $650,000 Littlefield high school that will house the three grades of the system and will allow a general spreading out of all other grades, all paving in enrollment, through the larger inventory of buildings.

The junior high school — sixth, seventh and eighth grades — will take over the present high school building and the elementary will move some grades over to the old junior high school quarters and, in the fall, will pick up one of the three grades in the primary building, leaving only grades one and two over with Primary Principal Paul Jones.

Down here, at the bottom of the ladder, the changes from the top will be significant. The lower grades of the school have been booming in size each year and require room to grow actually more than the rest of the system.

Contractors for the new high school building estimate that they have completed 75 percent of the construction, says Glenn Reeves, schools superintendent.

"We have a target date of completion by August 15, which the contractors say they will meet and we are scheduling furniture delivery for August."

The new high school building will have new furniture throughout, but most of the teaching equipment from the present high school will be moved.

Most of the work remaining in the new building is inside. Another first for the new HS building is its location at Tenth street and Sunset, several blocks from the present school campus which up to now has been home grounds for all students, from the first through the twelfth grade.

Initially, the new HS building will be occupied by about 420 students in its fall term starting in September.

The plant was developed to care for considerably more students than this by just the addition of more classrooms. School plans are to move the eighth grade into the high school in three to five years in a steady expansion that will allow the ever-growing grades to redistribute through the additional classrooms made available.

"Our scholastic projections let us know pretty well when and where we will need more room, and the high school has been planned to allow some stretch there for the whole system," Reeves points out. School improvements have not been limited to the big new building. Almost the entire school plant has undergone

by dick reavis

In our happy practice of democracy it is always one thing to have firm opinions on all problems that happen somewhere else, Birmingham, Viet Nam, Washington or Chicago.

The closer to home problems come, the harder they are to see, to discuss. Newspapers are perhaps the worst to speak out boldly against some faraway stranger, say, Bull O'Connor in Birmingham with his hoses and dogs. People follow largely the same easy road.

This is an assessment, not an indictment. Who today, by his own performance, stands clear to indict another in some of the sensitive areas that are ours today? By and large, here in West Texas we are a friendly people tolerant of others who share with us a philosophy that time itself will solve most problems; and so it will, almost always.

But here in Littlefield, Lamb County, Texas, there is a personal situation that may be an indication of the problems Negro people face when they make a determined effort to improve themselves. It is one of the cruellest and meaningless attitudes of all to proclaim righteously that we are "ready to help the Negro, when he first helps himself," without even understanding the size of this pledge.

This situation here is not an NAACP example; is not, the odds are great, even known to them and certainly has not been advertised by the person most directly concerned or her family.

Its facts are simple, and unsensational. A young Negro woman, a graduate of Littlefield high school, has completed almost two years of college and for several months has been seeking a job that will allow her to use her natural ability and the education she has obtained.

Were she white, a dozen jobs could have been hers in the past few months. The Texas Employment Commission has listed her faithfully, with good effort and patience, to no result. A TEC representative outlined her case a few days back to a small business gathering and received expressions of sympathy, but no job offer.

And understandably. Here in Littlefield, with a record of being one of the South's first schools to integrate in 1956, we do not hire Negro bookkeepers, or receptionists — or society writers.

Well, it's all over in California except the explaining and conclusion. I interviewed this young woman several months back when we had two job openings in prospect. One of them was for a reporter — society writer. The other job would have required daily contact with many of the people our business serves.

Hers was by far the best of the written applications we had and her interview produced evidence of good ability and attitude, but it was an empty formality. We knew it would avail nothing and felt that the intelligent young woman we were talking to knew the same thing.

This might be a clear case for the Fair Employment Practices Commission, by our own admission, but we think not. We could have hired the first Negro society writer on a white paper in the South, and we could have gone without a lot of readership that is the lifeblood of a newspaper.

Here is one of those situations that prevail not only in the South, and for which there is no answer today. It is one of injustice, of one disappointment on another for this young woman, to whom this bit of writing may be an embarrassment and unfair to her.

Why, then, write it? Why put into words a frustrating circumstance for which there is no answer at hand, and without exhorting us all to do better? You may conclude rightly that most of us have enough troubles even here in pleasant West Texas without airing them purposelessly, like a cheap soap opera.

We think there is a purpose, a point. It is that someday soon we must SEE the Negro as a human being who lives close at hand and who is neither a faceless black mass nor a frothing fanatic on your television screen screaming NOW! and dying senselessly beneath the tracks of a bulldozer.

The NOW! will not happen in Lamb county, Texas, nor most of the country. Its practical purposes can and must be reached by the at-hand recognition of the Negro's rights, to develop as a profitable citizen through greater opportunity when he, or she, has earned it, and through an awareness of the human dignity due him, as it is due every person in this great country. This is a two-way street where the openings are sometimes narrow, but the way will be found.

Bob Roden says [L] can even afford to have Gov. Wallace as a running mate.

462 Apply for Export Cotton

The number of export cotton growers in Lamb county reached 462 by deadline Monday to sign up for an additional 5 percent of cotton acreage under the new federal program that encourages the growing of cotton specifically for export.

The 462 producers received 2,378 acres to be used for the export cotton which will go directly to an overseas market, at world market prices without the benefit of any sort of price support.

This new acreage boosted the Lamb county 1964 cotton allotment to 198,082 acres, an increase of almost 10,000 acres over 1963.

To obtain the added 2,378 acres — 5 percent of their regular quota — farmers had to post a bond of about $100 per bale on the increase, based on the average yield of that land. Their bond will be returned when evidence of sale of the added cotton directly into the export market is produced.

Area cotton groups have encouraged South Plains farmers to use the export acres, and in some cases have underwritten the bonds.

that may take awhile. Barry's folks have their work cut out for them in finding a mandate of the people in that razor-thin victory, and Rocky's hopefuls need to find victory in defeat. This is no new feat in politics.

There was less cheer among Goldwater Lamb county supporters in the Wednesday morning grog shop sessions than there was in Mudville the night Casey went down swinging. Gov. Rockefeller has a couple of notable achievements this week; he launched a new son and scared Sen. Goldwater out of several years growth.

Portly Pierre Sallinger did as much with the pollsters who found no joy at all in sunny California as Wednesday dawned. They were still judging Pierre by his 50-mile hike record, when he dropped out after 23 swift steps. Now he's matched against that old soft shoe man, George Murphy, whose tiring legs have a mighty steep uphill pull considering that today Lyndon Johnson sort of owns a November option on California.

For the record, the coldest it got during that weekend return to winter was 43 degrees early Monday morning. It was 46 degrees early Sunday.

Reason for this is a long-standing South Plains argument that cotton can be raised here profitably on the world market price — that today is about 24 cents — as compared with the federally supported price of about 30 cents a pound.

The new 5 percent program gives farmers opportunity to seek a wider world market, at lower margin profit. If it works out well, there is a bright possibility that the 5 percent export acres will be increased in years to come.

In any event, it is a slight lifting of the lid on cotton production on which has chafed Lamb area farmers for years. If they make or lose money, and the attitude is that the volume production of the South Plains can make money at world prices, at least 462 Lamb farmers are into the swifter world competitive stream in which they have long argued that they could hold their own against any cotton growers anywhere.

County Buys New Grader For $12,100

A new Gallion motor grader was purchased by the Lamb county commissioners court this week for commissioners precinct four, H.W. Lewis, commissioner. A trade difference of $12,100 was paid between the new machine and an older Gallion grader. Plains Machinery of Lubbock was lowest of three bidders on the machine.

VOLLEYBALL EXPERT -- Mrs. A.J. Stubblefield supplies us this week with her recipe for Hush Puppies. She especially likes to make them when her husband brings home fish from his frequent fishing trips. Along with cooking, Mrs. Stubblefield lists playing volleyball as a favorite pastime. She has won 17 trophies in volleyball. The Stubblefields and their three daughters, Carol, Evone and Kathy, live just south of Spade in what is known as the old Spade Ranch headquarters. --LEADER STAFF PHOTO

Spade Woman Supplies Fishing Time Recipe

Mrs. A.J. Stubblefield lists cooking, volleyball and water skiing as her favorite pastimes.

She is a member of the Queens of Spade volleyball team and has won seventeen trophies.

Both Mrs. Stubblefield and her husband enjoy trips to the lakes, but for different reasons. She wants to ski and he wants to fish. Fishing is second in line to flying airplanes on Mr. Stubblefield's list of hobbies. He received his pilot's license several months ago and spends practically all of his free time "up in the air", according to Mrs. Stubblefield.

Carol, 12-year-old daughter of the Stubblefields, is also sports minded. Like her parents, she enjoys the outdoors and participating in sports. She has joined a Spade girls softball team this summer, of which her mother is an assistant coach. Evone, 17-year-old daughter and graduate of Spade High School, was valedictorian of her class this year of which she was vice president, chosen as "Best All Around" and "Friendliest", listed on Who's Who for three years, and she was active in school sports. She plans to enter Abilene Christian College this fall.

The Stubblefield's youngest daughter, 2nd grader Kathy, is already laying groundwork toward high honors in school, too. In Anton, she placed 1st in the literary events in the storytelling division.

The A.J. Stubblefields are active members of the Spade Church of Christ. Mrs. Stubblefield has been a Sunday school teacher for the past 10 years there.

The Stubblefields live just south of Spade in what is known as the old Spade Ranch headquarters. Last year they were awarded a historic medallion by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee.

The recipe Mrs. Stubblefield shares with us this week is one for Hush Puppies.

BY RESTAURANT OWNERS:

Mixed Drinks in Texas Sought

AUSTIN, Tex -- The Texas Restaurant Association, headquartered in Austin, is backing a proposal to legalize the sale of mixed drinks in Texas.

Executive Vice President W. Price Jr., of the 2600-member organization, reports that a six-member committee of his group has drawn a bill for presentation.

TRA's bill would authorize local option elections on the sale, by food establishments, of distilled spirits in sealed containers of two ounces or less. Also it would extend the liquor curfew until 2 a.m.

Price said he has sounded out a number of legislators and found them enthusiastic. One of the most prominent members of the House of Representatives is expected to introduce the measure. Price, however, declined to name the sponsor.

Repeated efforts to legalize over-the-bar sales of mixed drinks in Texas have collapsed in recent sessions of the Legislature under the combined weight of opposition by untied dry forces and church groups.

"This is not a wet-dry issue," said non-drinking restaurateur Price. "Texans can buy anything they want to drink right now. All we are trying to do is make it convenient for a man who wants to have a drink served in a dignified manner at a nice restaurant to be able to get one."

Price, who also is secretary of the Texas Tourist Council, said he believes sale of mixed drinks "will definitely stimulate the tourist program in our state."

Furthermore, he estimated, the TRA bill would produce nearly $3,000,000 a year in new tax revenue.

"SKY'S THE LIMIT -- Legislative Budget Board members heard a warning from their executive director, Vernon McGee, that "the sky seems to be the limit" on state agency spending requests for 1965-67. As an example, McGee cited budget proposals of the State hospital system and institutions of higher education.

He also noted the legislative committee of the State Bar of Texas judicial section has proposed big pay boosts -- of $12,000 a year -- for judges. Under the Bar Committee's plan, base salaries of district judges would be doubled -- from $12,000 to $24,000 a year. Court of Civil Appeals judges would be raised from $16,000 to $28,000, and the Supreme Court of Criminal Appeals from $20,000 to $32,000.

Some civil appeals judges had requested no raises at all until the committee report came out, McGee said. But amended budget requests now are being received and the $12,000 raises supported in budget hearings now underway.

RUMP DELEGATION THREATENED -- Threat of a rump liberal delegation to the national democratic convention was posed by State AFL-CIO President H.S. (Hank) Brown said a sure way to prevent that is for all legally-elected delegates to be seated at the state democratic convention at Houston on June 16 and for the convention to embrace the national party platform and all party nominees. Gov. John Connally said moderate - conservative delegates will comprise two-thirds of the duly elected representatives at the June meeting, and he does not want resolutions endorsing all planks of the national platform.

State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Frank C. Erwin Jr. has named Austin attorney Will D. Davis as head of a SDEC panel to hear delegation contests from Bexar, Dallas, Harris, Hutchinson, Edwards, Randall and Sherman counties. SDEC will make the final decision as to which delegations to seat. The eight contests involve 819 of the Houston's convention's 2,834 votes.

The Houston convention will name delegates to the democratic national presidential nominating convention and select Texas national committee representatives. Texas Democrats are united in support of President Johnson this year. Key issue is whether the convention will support the national platform and agree to support ALL party nominees. OIL IMPORTS CHANGES SURGED -- Gov. John Connally and state railroad commissioners have called on U.S. Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall to revise the oil imports program before the next quota period starting July 1.

They particularly recommended oil from the Texas region of surplus be moved to the West Coast where foreign oil continues to fill almost total market growth. Connally said deterioration in Texas crude prices and production dropoff "threaten to erase the slight under a stabilized price structure.

COTTON EXPORT PUSHED On request of West Texas growers, the governor called on President Johnson to encourage favorable consideration of an export sales program for extra long staple cotton. The plan now is under consideration by the Department of Agriculture. Growers are faced with a surplus threatening price and acreage reductions. Supima Association advised Governor Connally there is a world demand for extra long staple cotton and this is an opportune time to dispose of stocks owned by Commodity Credit Corporation.

ANIMAL HEALTH COMMISSION DIRECTOR RESIGNS -- Dr. R.C. Garrett, executive director of Texas Animal Health Commission has resigned effective October 1. He plans to devote all his time to his farm and ranch near Taylor. Commission Chairman C.E. Knolle and other livestock industry representatives joined in commending Dr. Garrett for his work in the screwworm and brucellosis eradication programs, as well as day-by-day administrative direction of the agency.

"BACKTAGGING" PICKS UP The system of certifying for brucellosis eradication by vaccinating cows and culis as they go through livestock markets, called "backtagging", is catching on fast, according to Federal and State animal health authorities. U.S. Department of Agriculture says that reports on 2,104 head of backtagged cattle received from more than 100 slaughter houses in April.

Follow-ups on the tagged cattle, in addition to the 2,905 others slaughtered last month, produced 205 reactors.

DROP-OUTS AND STAY-INS Top brass of the Texas State Education Agency heard the report on progress in the city's "Stay in School" project, aimed at reversing rising tide of public drop-outs.

Agency consultants report on what they have accomplished since March when the project started. Commissioner of Education J.W. Edgar said it an impressive start.

Western Union Will Change System Here

An application to close Western Union telegraph office in Littlefield as a fulltime vice and to replace it with contract arrangement has been filed with the federal communications commission.

If the application is granted the Retail Merchants office pick up telegraph operation the city, with essentially same schedule that is in effect now.

The WU change is one of several hundred made by the telegraph company over the past decade. Western Union was one of the earliest business firms in Littlefield, coming here with the Santa Fe rail in 1913 at a time when its operations were closely linked with the railroads. A general closing of telegraph use has been cited by the company as a reason for curtailing its operations.

Mustang leads the stampede the big Ford started. This has been the hottest sales year in Ford Division history. We have a winner in the Super Torque Ford, a car so well built, so predictably tough, that competition-modified Fords took eleven of the last twelve NASCAR 500-mile races. Ford sales are up 17% this year. We have a luxury car that's taken off like a skyrocket: Thunderbird, with sales up 68%. Falcon is selling almost as many cars as Valiant and Chevy II combined. Fairlane continues to be a favorite in its own field. Now comes Mustang... turning the trend to Ford into a downright stampede. Mustang, by any measure of sales or excitement, is the most successful new car ever introduced in America—ever. When you see a stampede, it makes sense to find out what started it. That's something only your Ford Dealer can tell you about.

Rural Economic Gains Help War On Poverty

By U.S. Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.)
 Chairman, House Banking and Currency Committee

The march of technology has created a strange paradox in our land. On the one hand it has created a standard of living for many which was undreamed of a generation ago. On the other hand it has damaged the economic base of hundreds of rural areas.

In 1961, per capita farm income was $1,373, of which $474 came from non-farm sources. In comparison, per capita income of the non-farm population for the same year was $2,345, or 41.4 per cent greater than the average net income of farm people.

Some prominent economists and business leaders believe that the solution to the rural problem is to move unemployed and under-employed farmers and rural people to the cities.

Generally, our cities have more problems than they can handle now, including unemployment, housing, and schools.

In my opinion, it makes better sense to help rural people develop new opportunities at home. And this can be done through the cooperation of government and people.

We have made a good start in this direction.

The results since early in 1961 when the administration and Congress launched a nationwide rural redevelopment effort are impressive. More important than Federal assistance, however, is the amount of funds and effort that local people have invested in rebuilding their communities.

A survey by the Rural Electrification Administration of the activities of rural electric systems in rural area development shows that rural electric helped launch 402 projects between July 1961 and December 1962. These projects involved more than a quarter-billion dollars in financing, of which more than 90 per cent came from non-Government sources. These projects are providing 30,000 new jobs plus another 20,000 indirect jobs.

As a result of these new programs, there are millions of dollars worth of new factories, new homes, new water systems, new sewer systems, and new recreational facilities giving hope to a better life to rural areas.

Unless Congress approves legislation pending before it to provide more funds for loans, planning for developing new job-producing enterprises will have to be abandoned in many rural areas. That would be a severe blow to the hopes of distressed sections of our Nation — and to President Johnson's war on poverty.

Experience of the last 2 1/2 years shows that this approach can produce successful results, and indicates that helping local people solve their own problems is the most practical and economical way to keep much of rural America from becoming a ward of the state.

I am proud that the Nation's rural electric systems are providing important assistance in rural redevelopment.

Basically, rural redevelopment is much like the rural electric story—doing a job local people are unable to do by themselves. The combination of local initiative and Government loans brought modern electric living to rural areas.

This same combination can save rural America from economic collapse.

Joyce Stanley and Judy Gregson, both students at ACC, are spending the summer with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stanley and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gregson.

FUN IN THE SUN: Youth Recreation Opens on June 15

The pleasant answer to what several hundred Littlefield youngsters, ages six to 15, will do this long summer is being provided in an enlarged summer recreation program that will start June 15 and run for five weeks.

John Howle, Littlefield High School head grid coach, and Coach Ernie Davis of his staff will head up the extensive recreation program that will operate at three parks, Laguna, Crescent Park and Dunbar Park.

Programs at all parks will pretty well be parallel. They will include organized sports for both boys and girls on a 5-day schedule weekly, from 9 a.m. to 11:30. Most of the schedule will be at the parks but it will include free movies one morning a week and a swimming schedule once a week.

Games will include baseball, horse shoes, badminton and others that park facilities will handle. The Dunbar schedule is contingent on having enough enrollment to justify it, program officials say. Last year's Dunbar program was dropped after a short time from lack of participation.

Elementary Summer School Opens Monday

Elementary school students who want to attend summer school may enroll this week for a 6-weeks summer session that opens June 8. The school covers grades 3 through 6. Beryl Harris, elementary principal, will direct the school and Mrs. Addie Abernathy will teach it.

Subjects will be reading and arithmetic. School will be held five days a week from 8 to 12 a.m. Enrollment is open to students who need special help in these elementary subjects. Enrollment costs is $30 per student. The course is open to Littlefield students and others in the county, Harris said. Students may enroll up to Monday.

Louisiana State has won the Southeastern Conference track title five times in the last seven years.

For the older enrollees in the program, there will be tennis lessons, one class from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. and a later one to be worked out. Also planned is a late afternoon track class for boys, aimed at participation in the summer Olympic track meet in Lubbock late in the season. Bulk of the youngsters who will take part have pre-registered at school, but anyone who has not may still sign up on June 15. Three assistants for the program are Jerry Cox, who will work at Crescent Park, Cindy Phillips at Laguna Park and George Williard, Dunbar. Howle will supervise the Crescent Park schedule and the program in general.

NEW HS

needed renovation in the past 12 months from additional funds included in an $820,000 bond issue approved by the Littlefield school district a year ago. Like school districts everywhere, the Littlefield schools each year will have need of "stretch" room, probably as long as there are schools. The new edifices today, however, are a long step ahead from the 21 students who gathered in a one-room house on Seventh street in the fall of 1913 with a one-man principal teacher, J.P. Hatchett. The purpose is the same but the job takes a lot more real estate. The new school building will be reflected in some other changes in its area, the west edge of town. Sunset Avenue, an unpaved street that borders the west edge of the new campus, will become a 4-lane paved thoroughfare and two new paved streets will be opened on the south and east sides of the campus. One of these will be an extension of Wicker Avenue along the east side. A regular size paved street on the south side will be an extension of the alleyway of Fourteenth Street, that will tie into the new section of Wicker. Even the giant new elevated water tank of the city's, just off the southwest edge of the new HS campus, will be affected. Plans are to have it painted maroon and white, the school's colors, and possibly to have the word Wildcats painted on the side facing the campus.
