Budget First Problem FDR Must Solve

Relief, Govt. Reorganization Other Legislative Topics

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (UP)—President Roosevelt surveyed the future of his new deal today, with the 1937 budget as the No. 1 problem that must be solved before congress convenes Jan. 3.

Anxious to clear his desk before he leaves the capital for a sea-going vacation next week, the president devoted full time to the legislative program he will present to the new and heavily democratic congress as an expression of his past policies.

The program shapes up tentatively as follows:

1. The budget. After the landslide election Mr. Roosevelt announced one of his first tasks would be to make good his promise to balance the budget "within a year or two."
2. Relief.
3. Government reorganization.
4. Reduction of threatened widespread farm surpluses.

Making Progress

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed he is making rapid progress on the budget and expected to have "round figures" available before the end of the week. He indicated he would follow his past custom of delaying an announcement on relief estimates which he considers outside the regular fiscal program.

The president revealed he was awaiting a report on government reorganization before determining what department or agency will control emergency administrations such as rural resettlement and the CCC.

In regard to agriculture, the president explained to newspapermen that administration officials, together with farm leaders, were giving thought to development of a method to avoid building up of disastrous surpluses.

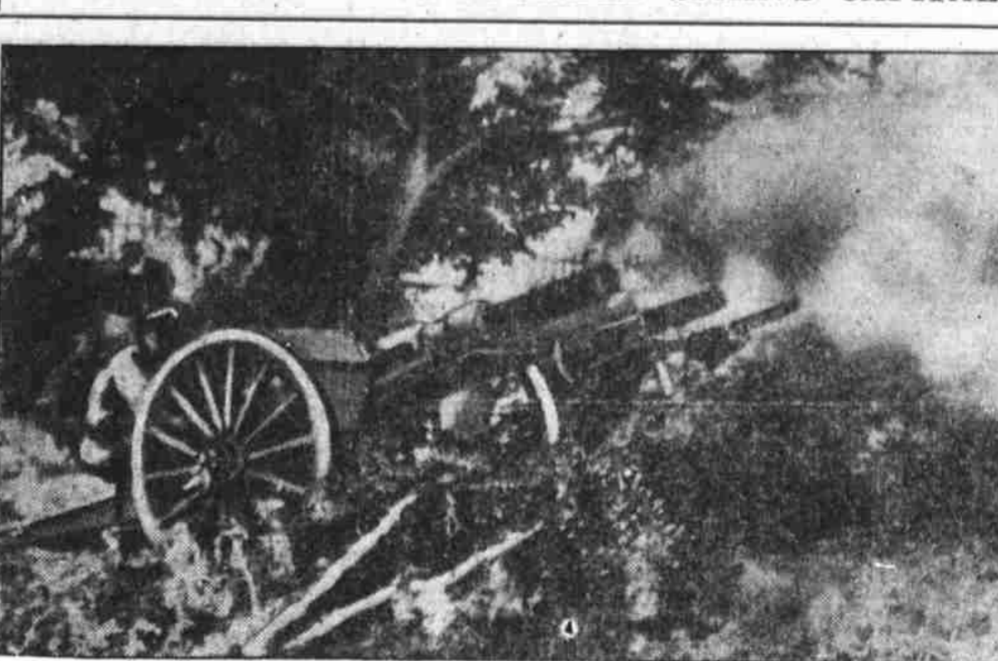

Surplus Control

Explaining that consideration of such a plan did not necessarily mean re-entrenchment of the AAA or that farm lenders were more interested in AAA revival than in crop insurance, Mr. Roosevelt offered instead the theory that agriculturists were concerned primarily with the fundamentals and that surplus control was one of them.

Mr. Roosevelt said the administration anticipated no additional taxes but was quick to point out the possibility of changes in the corporate surplus tax.

The president said he believed the sliding scale of wages in the steel industry based on living costs was a step toward what the government was trying to arrive at in all economies. It is a general effort, he said, to have the compensation of people stabilized in relation to real estate, commodities and other things.

AS BIG REBEL GUNS POUNDED SPAIN'S CAPITAL

Three guns, shown partly hidden by brush near Madrid, laid down part of the artillery barrage that accompanied the final fascist push on Spain's capital. Bitter Fight At Capital Is Near Climax

Rebels Concentrate Heavy Fire On University City Section

MADRID, Nov. 12. (UP)—Insurgent armies struck at Madrid's most vulnerable approach in a driving rain today, attacking University City, apparently the key point to the advance.

This section, on the capital's outskirts, is not defended by the Manzanares river, which so far has been the barrier from the southwest.

The bitter struggle for the east-end road to Madrid was rapidly approaching a climax. The government was pouring reinforcements into strategic points.

Recapture Gatafe

The fascists were halted in a surprise attack in the northwest sector. The government announced late today it had recaptured Gatafe, south of Madrid.

The incessant tat-tat-tat of machine guns and rifles, punctuated by heavy gunfire, especially from the University City area, sounded ominously close to the population in the center of the city.

Madrid citizens feared a general attack on the capital was being signalled as a sudden, cracking fire was heard all along the lines from Camp de Campo to the Toledo bridge.

Bridges Narrowly Missed

The sector near Los Franceses bridge was stoutly defended by an international legion of Poles, Germans, French and Italians, many of whom served in the World war and who had built there the strongest lines of trenches Spain has ever seen.

Shell after shell rained clouds of thick dust near the Angel Gate on the other side of the Segovia bridge where an active government battery was emplaced.

Several projectiles narrowly missed the bridge across the Manzanares while shrapnel repeatedly sprayed the sides of the Royal palace on the north side of the Royal palace and the south side of the Gaunt Mass of the new cathedral which has remained unfinished for 10 years because of lack of funds.

It was not immediately known whether any shells had hit the palace—the largest Royal residence in Europe—which was in the direct line of fire.

Seventh Day of Battle

The socialist gunners returned the insurgents' writhing barrages with desultory fire. They scored one hit on Carabanchel Bajo, sending up a fascist ammunition dump in the clouds of black smoke and lurid flames.

Today was the seventh day of the bitterly-fought battle at the gates of the capital city.

Government militia, haggard and weary from six days of almost incessant fighting plunged into the battle, their ranks swelled by 4,000 fresh Catalan troops.

With 40 blocks of the city still smoldering from incendiary bombardment the day before, insurgent gunners renewed their shelling of the city.

Vast Accumulation Of Social Security Tax Dollars, Due To Reach 45 Billions In 30 Years, Expected To Bring Drastic Change In Government Fiscal System

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (UP)—Billions of social security tax dollars—applying the U. S. treasury with its greatest hoard of ready cash in history—will change drastically the nation's present fiscal system and bulwark the country against future depressions, government experts believed today.

Use of revenue from the joint employer-employee old age pension tax to gain those ends, they predicted, would cause the fund to operate as a permanent stabilization force for all phases of American business.

This "lavvy" estimated to pile up $10,000,000,000 by 1948 and $45,000,000,000 by 1975, would accomplish its double-barreled purpose, according to the officials, by these means:

1. Shift the public debt, now at $33,810,000,000, from private banks and financiers to the government itself, save up to $850,000,000 a year now paid out on principal and interest for federal obligations; aid in solving the problem of tax exempt securities.
2. Provide future administrations with a source of quick cash for immediate release to return the country toward industrial recovery in event of another depression; eventually allow the government to adopt a pay-as-you-go policy on emergency expenditures.
3. Create new mass purchasing power among the nation's low-income classes by insuring 26,000,000 workers against old age want; providing unemployment compensation; supplying health-welfare benefits to needy.

The old age reserve will pour into the treasury shortly after Jan. 1, 1937, when a two per cent tax on payrolls, shared half-and-half by employers and their employes, begins.

Turkey Price Low, Growers Won't Sell

'Price Fixing' Is Protested To U. S. Attorney General

GONZALES, Nov. 12. (UP)—Incensed turkey growers demanded an investigation of "price fixing" in a telegram to U. S. Attorney General Homer Cummings today, and kept one of the world's most profitable turkey centers tied up in protest of what they termed a "uniform market" of low prices.

Over 250,000 turkeys were held, owners refusing to send them to the Thanksgiving markets at current prices of 11 and 12 cents.

The protest came a day after Cuero's famed "turkey trot" which marks the formal opening of the turkey shipping season. Cuero officials yesterday were confronted with the refusal of farmers to sell their turkeys at 11 cents per pound, and were forced to rent the birds—at 30 cents per head—for the turkey parade.

POSTMASTERS WILL MEET TO DISCUSS US SECURITY ACT

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12. (UP)—Two hundred Texas postmasters are expected to meet in Fort Worth Friday to learn the federal social security act.

In addition to the postmasters, several division inspectors from Texas and Louisiana will attend. Operation of the new program will be explained by F. H. Ellis, assistant superintendent to the first assistant postmaster general, and A. C. Helmer, Washington, postoffice inspector.

O'Neill Wins Nobel Award

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 12. (UP)—Eugene O'Neill, American playwright, today was awarded the 1936 Nobel prize for letters. Three times winner of the Pulitzer prize, O'Neill is the only American to hold such distinction. He became America's second winner of the Nobel letters award, Sinclair Lewis, being the first.

O'Neill has nearly two-score productions to his credit.

The Nobel prizes constitute the annual interest from a fund of $9,000,000, bequeathed in 1896 at the death of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor. Awards are made to outstanding representatives in many lines of endeavor.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

A young peoples' rally, sponsored by the Salvation Army, will be held at the Fourth Street Baptist church Friday evening at 7:45. It was announced Thursday.

Principal speaker will be Col. W. Roy Gilks, Salvation Army leader from London, England, who is here conducting a series of meetings for the Army. Special music arranged for the program will include selections by a trio composed of Mrs. R. E. Blount, Mrs. Willard Smith and Miss Ruby Bell.

Young people of all Big Spring churches have been invited to join in the meeting.

Col. Gilks will conclude his engagement here with two addresses Sunday at Main street. In the morning he will speak on "Sympathy," and in the evening on "Seeking the Lost."

Sam Mason and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mason attended the Merkel-Coleman game in Colorado yesterday.

Contract Let For Improving Queen Theatre

R&R Amusement House To Be Enlarged, Completely Remodeled

Contract for enlarging and completely remodeling the Queen theatre, one of three local amusement houses of the R&R system, was awarded Wednesday by J. Y. Robb, Big Spring R&R manager.

Bid of E. J. Josey, contractor for the H. H. Hardin Lumber company, was accepted. Price of the work will approximate $10,000, it was understood.

Robb said Thursday that work will be started the last of this week, with completion scheduled in about three months.

The Queen building will be extended 40 feet to the alley line, to permit installation of an additional 200 seats. Remodeling work will include construction of a new roof, complete interior renovation, and the erection of a new front.

The theatre will continue in operation during the extension work, slated as the first item, but necessarily will be closed during the remodeling.

MOTORMAN DIES IN INTERURBAN CRASH

RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 12. (UP)—William Grandison, motorman of Newcastle, Ind., was killed, and several passengers were injured in a crash of railroad interurban cars near here today. Thirty-five or forty were riding in the cars.

Faculty of the Forsan schools will present a home talent play in the school auditorium Friday at 7:30 p. m. The three-act comedy is entitled "The Man in the Green Shirt."

Federal Maritime Inquiry Broadened To Include Atlantic And Gulf Coasts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (UP)—Expansion of the investigation into maritime labor conditions on the West coast to include the East and Gulf ports was ordered today by the Maritime commission.

Rear Admiral Harry Manlett, directing the Pacific coast inquiry, was to return to Washington to talk over coordinating into a broad investigation of conditions on the three coasts. The commission wants information as to the conditions on all American ships.

Meanwhile peace talk diminished further on the strike front, although Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady reiterated that he would bring the opposing sides together again, possibly today, for a resumption of negotiations.

Signs appeared that if McGrady's efforts failed again the shipowners and the unions would prepare for a long stage of maritime stagnation.

The Maritime commission was to resume hearings today in its investigation. The investigation had been postponed to clear the way for peace conversations.

Observers expressed the belief that if the testimony in the hearings would be acrimonious there would be little chance of conciliation until after the case was submitted. Attorneys said the case would require probably two months for presentation.

Strike-Ridden Rail Line Has More Wrecks

Were Deliberately Planned, Is Claim; Trio Injured

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 12. (UP)—Engineer W. M. Johnson, Fireman T. H. East and brakeman Joe Jacobs, all of Shreveport, were injured in wrecks of two Louisiana & Arkansas freight trains—said by railroad representatives to have been deliberately planned—late last night and early this morning.

The first wreck was south of Spring Hill, where angle bars and spikes were removed from the rails. The second at Jamestown was the result of a cocked switch.

The wrecks occurred on the eve of a conference at Baton Rouge to discuss settlement of the L&A strike which has been underway for more than eight weeks.

Since workmen on the railway struck, seeking an agreement on working conditions, numerous wrecks have occurred on the L&A line. Some of them have resulted in deaths. On at least two occasions, women strike sympathizers have attacked train crews, beating the men.

Refinery Employee Meets Death In Crossing Mishap

T. O. Staton Killed Instantly As Train Hits Car

Thomas Ovis Staton, 35, was killed instantly at 1 p. m. Wednesday when his car was struck broadside by a westbound Texas and Pacific freight on a grade crossing near Cosden refinery.

His car was carried approximately a quarter of a mile and had to be pulled from the cow catcher of the engine.

No explanation could be offered for the crash except that Staton was reportedly hard of hearing. He had left the plant, where he has been employed for the past six years, for his home on the north side of the tracks.

Services are to be held Friday at 3 p. m. in the Eberly chapel. Other arrangements are incomplete.

Staton was born in Arkansas on Aug. 14, 1901 and became a member of the Baptist church while a boy.

He is survived by his widow, Velm Anne Staton, one son, Tommie Jeane Staton, and three children of Mrs. Staton by a former marriage, Earnestine, Florine, and Eoff Daniels.

Mr. and Mrs. Staton were married in 1926.

Two Slain At Dance Hall

Third Wounded; Shooting Occurs After Man Is Escorted Out

CENTER, Tex., Nov. 12. (UP)—Justice of the Peace Alvin Gillespie and Alcus Lilly, both of Stockman, were killed, and Constable Ed Chapman was critically wounded in a Stockman school dance shooting last midnight.

Sheriff J. B. Sample said Lilly appeared at the dance and threatened two young men outside the hall, who reported the incident to officers. Lilly was escorted from the dance.

The sheriff said that as the officers asked Lilly for his gun, the shooting started. Chapman was shot down and Gillespie was killed instantly. Chapman, wounded, drew his pistol and fired at Lilly. The latter died while en route to a hospital at Timpanoe.

Traffic Cases Here Total 29

Complaints Lodged In Current Campaign On Illegal Trucking

Twenty-nine charges have been filed in justice court here as a result of the railroad commission's active campaign against unlicensed trucks or commercial drivers.

All of the charges have been filed since November 4 when Cam H. Murray, inspector for the railroad commission, motor bus division, was sent here to pinch down on illicitly operated trucks and carriers in an effort to curb the accident total.

Of the number 15 have been operating trucks without a permit from the railroad commission. Seven were charged with driving for compensation or hire without a chauffeur's license. Half a dozen were charged with speeding on a highway, and one with overloading. The highway patrol filed two cases, one for operating a car without registration tags and the other for driving without a drivers license.

Murray indicated that the campaign would continue for several days or weeks yet.

LABOR GROUPS FIGHT TO GAIN POLITICAL BALANCE OF POWER

Factions Are United, However, In Legislative Aims For Nation's Workers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (UP)—Powerful labor groups, bitterly divided among themselves but united in national legislative aims today fought to win the political balance of power.

The labor picture was changing hourly as the battle went forward. Latest developments:

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor was cited to appear for trial before the United Mine Workers union of which he is a member and which is headed by his chief labor antagonist, John L. Lewis, rebel CIO leader.

The third national conference on labor legislation, called by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and comprising state labor commissioners of 30 states, demanded enactment of a constitutional amendment to permit minimum wage and other social legislation.

Leaders of labor's non-partisan league which supported re-election of President Roosevelt conferred on the possibility of amending the constitution as a possible third party nucleus for a 1940 drive to elect Lewis in the White House.

John P. Frey, American federation of labor metal trades chief, charged Lewis' CIO with opening unions to infiltration by Reds. He charged "communism" has acquired a dominant position in the labor movement.

The International Ladies Garment Workers Union, third largest union in the country, announced it would send no delegates to the federation convention at Tampa next week.

It was thought hardly likely Green would appear before the United Mine Workers for trial. The date set comes during the period when he will be at Tampa for the laboration meeting. The trial demand was taken to be Lewis' answer to the federation executive council trial at which the United Mine Workers and other CIO unions were suspended.

David Dubinsky, ladies garment union head, announced his union would continue efforts to reconcile the split between the federation and the CIO, of which it is a majority nucleus for a 1940 drive to elect

STUDENT BURNED IN LABORATORY MISHAP IS BROUGHT HOME

Walter Arnold, who was seriously burned in a laboratory explosion at the University of Texas Tuesday, was brought here Wednesday night by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weeg, who went to his bedside on learning of the accident.

Arnold received burns about the face, shoulders and chest when a classmate's chemical experiment exploded. The student, in an attempt to free himself of the burning fluids, threw them, hitting the Big Spring youth.

Arnold will remain at his parents' home until recovery.

A&M RUNS OVER SAN FRANCISCO

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Southwest conference football prestige was aided no little Armistice Day in San Francisco when the mighty Texas Aggies trilled 14-0 at half time, rallied to swamp the University of San Francisco, 37-14, but Texas Tech failed once again to overcome a jinx, and lost out to the Loyola Wolves, 23-7.

The Aggies victory left little doubt as to the superiority of the two teams. The Dons had heretofore been regarded as one of the greatest teams on the west coast, having tied St. Mary's University, 6-6, in Kezar Stadium and had lost but one game during the season, but 30,000 fans saw the Californians outplayed.

The Farmers double back to Salt Lake City before returning home where the University of Utah will be met. Ike's Armstrong's are rated as the class of that sector but should prove an easy mark for the Texans who have lost but one game this year.

The card for the rest of the country looks classy, especially in the south where the once beaten Auburn Platamen battle for the supremacy of the south with once tied Louisiana State University, and in the west where the Trojans of Southern California and the Washington Huskies mix it up.

The Princeton-Yale affair headlines the eastern card, but Army and Notre Dame should draw big. Another foe from Texas, the University of Texas Longhorns, journey far north to get a shot at the Minnesota Gophers and may make the afternoon uncomfortable for the Big Ten team if the weather is not too cold.

In the southwest, SMU and Arkansas highlight the program with a game in Dallas.

AGGIE WIN BOOSTS SW FOOTBALL STOCK

BIERMAN USES 'THOU SHALT' SYSTEM AT MINNESOTA

"TEN COMMANDMENTS" propounded by Coach Bernie Bierman helped the Minnesota Gophers through their amazing 21-game winning streak.

What lies behind football success? How does a major college team drill through the week? The answers are given here in a story about the Golden Gophers of Minnesota, who established an amazing record for consistent triumphs, winning 21 games before Northwestern "upset" them, this fall.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—"Ten commandments" football is the foundation on which Coach Bernie Bierman and his Golden Gophers of Minnesota built their tower of 21 consecutive gridiron triumphs.

Here are the admonitions that stave the Gophers in the face every day as they leave the dressing room to polish fundamentals and play-ments to meet every conceivable setup.

You must know all defensive assignments and play them alertly. You must make proper technique and execution of fundamentals a habit.

You must have speed and power for bodily contact work. You must play every play from the snap of the whistle.

You must have stamina and general good condition. The team must come before your personal interests.

You must love to win and hate to lose. You must be aggressive. You must be eligible.

Application of the tenets and principles embodied in Bierman's ten commandments is spread over the entire week. A different phase is stressed each day on a through-the-week program that goes something like this:—

MONDAY: Virtually a day of rest, but both the ten commandments and the moves of the previous Saturday's conflict are reviewed by coaches and squadmen.

TUESDAY: Commandment No. 3, dealing with fundamentals, is trotted out. Each squadman must take several turns at the heavy, awaying tackling dummies dragged out and manned by student managers.

WEDNESDAY: Speed and power carried Minnesota to 21 straight victories and through 28 games without defeat.

THURSDAY: A typical midweek workout, often on Thursday, may be devoted to conditioning which produces stamina for Minnesota's famed "second-half drive."

FRIDAY: The Gophers taper off easily, but the session on the game eve may run an hour and a half or more.

SATURDAY: Rising time is 7:30. Breakfast at 8 o'clock consists of orange juice, hot cereal, poached eggs, buttered toast, coffee or milk.

SUNDAY: The Gophers pack their bags and spend Friday night at a hotel. After dinner there is an hour-long chalk-talk. Bed-time is 9 o'clock.

BAUGH PASSES AND FROGS GAIN SEVEN YARDS

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12.—Every time Slingin' Sam Baugh cocks his arm and lets go the pigskin, the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian university gain almost seven yards, on the average.

And that figure means EVERY time!

Sam has tossed 146 passes in the seven of T. C. U.'s eight games in which he has played. The total yardage gained on the 70 completed passes has been 609. You can figure it out for yourself.

If you count just the completed passes, his average is 13 yards for every one of the 70 throws that found their mark.

His "pitching" average for the season, to date, figures out 479. Of the 146 forwards that he has let go, 65 have been incomplete, 11 intercepted, and 70 completed.

Incidentally, Baugh, against Texas last Saturday, turned in the longest run of the season for any T. C. U. player. He caught a Steer punt on his own 36-yard stripe and ran it back for 57 yards to the Texas 7-yard line.

FROG FLASHES

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12.—Not since 1929 have the Horned Frogs played as few as 10 football games in one season. A new Southwest conference ruling goes into effect in 1937 which limits all seven of the member schools to a regular schedule of 10 games. Permission of the conference officials will undoubtedly be granted for any "Bowl" invitations that might develop, however.

This season T. C. U. and Rice each had 12 regularly scheduled games. A. & M., by adding the University of Utah in Salt Lake City Nov. 14, brought its total to 12 also. Arkansas, Baylor and S. M. U. each play 10, while the University of Texas has nine regularly scheduled contests. This season is the third in the history of the present conference (1934 and 1935 were the others) in which each school has met all of the other six schools.

In some quarters the idea seems

Texas Ag Basketeers Begin Season Practice

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 12.—With eight lettermen returning, Coach H. R. (Hub) McQuillan's Texas Aggies are looking forward to better days during the coming basketball season. The Aggies won only three of 12 Southwest conference titles the past year and finished sixth.

The Cadets began cage practice this week, one week later than is permissible under conference rules. Capt. Monte Carmichael and Taylor Wilkins, guards, will be the only 1935-36 lettermen not returning, both having graduated. Lettermen available will include Capt. Ed Lee, Houston, forward; Everett Clark, Liberty, forward; Pete Dowling, Houston, center; Paul Evans, Fort Worth, forward; Virgil Harris, Mineola, forward; Clyde Jones, Lufkin, center and forward; Johnny Morrow, Wortham, guard; and Walter Robert, Crockett, forward.

SMU IN HARNESS
DALLAS, Nov. 12.—Beginning practice this week, Coach Jimmie St. Clair's SMU basketball team will open its season against the University of Oklahoma at Norman in a two-game series, December 14 and 15. Only two lettermen returning but several outstanding sophomores are ready to step into the breach.

Those visiting in the Thomas home Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Mack Thomas of Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Newton and daughter, Ermance, Miss Alice Wooten and Mrs. H. P. Wooten. J. W. Wooten and H. P. Wooten made a business trip to El Paso Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Edwards of Big Spring visited Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Knightstep Friday afternoon. Little Dean Forrest has been suffering from an ear ailment, but is improved now.

A highlight in the season will be the game with Southern California in Dallas December 17. The Trojans use the non tip-off style of play and it is believed one-half will be played in the respective style of each team.

START WEIGHING OF CALVES FOR FEEDING TESTS AT U.S. FARM

Weighing of 40 head of Hereford calves to be used in the annual feeding tests at the U. S. Experiment Farm was begun Tuesday.

The calves will be weighed on three successive days for an average weight which will be used as the basis for the tests.

Thereafter they will be placed on prescribed rations for a period of 180 days for comparative date on the relative merits of native feeds in feeding out livestock. They have been on the rations for the past week getting accustomed to their new feed.

TECH CAGERS REPORT

LUBBOCK, Nov. 12.—Thirteen prospective basketball players reported to Coach Berl Huffman's first call for cagers last week. Included in the group were eight lettermen. The Texas Tech basketekers shipped in the Border conference last year, after winning the league pennant the previous two seasons.

U.S. Preserve To Admit 1700 Deer Hunters

Pisgah Forest in North Carolina Scene Of Action Nov. 16th

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 12 (UP)—Men and women with rifles assemble here Monday, Nov. 16, for the biggest deer hunt in history.

From 14 states and the District of Columbia will come 1,700 persons to participate in the fourth annual public deer hunt on the Pisgah National Game Preserve.

Three weeks ago the participants were selected. Four hundred others were drawn as alternatives. And 700 others who made applications will have to look forward to next year's hunt.

Each of the 1,700 hunters entering the forest for designated three-day periods in November and December will be privileged to "bring down" one buck. The hunt will last through Dec. 12.

No Dogs Permitted

No dogs will be permitted in the preserve. U. S. Forestry officials will supervise the hunt. Hunters will be allowed to pick their stands on the 85,000-acre preserve.

Each year, because of a surplus number of deer, a hunt is called, thrown open to the public.

Included in the list of hunters were clergymen, educators, U. S. Army officers, airway officials, attorneys, business men, agriculturists and housewives.

The names were drawn from North Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Virginia, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Illinois and the District of Columbia.

Hunting Time Allocated

Two hundred hunters will go into the forest at intervals, with three-day periods set from Monday through the middle of December.

If they are unsuccessful during the three-day period, they will have to wait until next year and hope that their name is drawn again.

Stricter laws are enforced by the officials of the hunt. No smoking is permitted on the preserve. And only a certain kind of bullet is permitted. All participants in the hunt are given instructions days before so there will be no last-minute slips.

Forestry officials said the hunt is held to relieve conditions resulting from overpopulation and as a part of the game management work of the forest service.

Driver Runs Down Coyote

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kans. (UP)—Carl Park has found a new way to hunt coyotes. Driving his car near here, Park saw a coyote leaping down the highway in front of him. Park gave chase and soon overhauled the animal. The car bumper struck and killed the coyote.

LABOR'S DISPUTE ON UNION ORGANIZATION WILL BE FOUGHT BY PROXIES OF LEADERS

By JOSEPH L. MILLER
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—When the big industrial union fight starts at the American Federation of Labor's Tampa, Fla., convention November 16, neither faction's real leader will be in the hall.

For the battle really is between two of the American labor movement's most powerful personalities, Samuel Gompers and John L. Lewis.

Gompers, the English-born cigar-maker who headed the federation for 42 years, has been dead since 1924.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has been suspended from the federation for "insurrection," and is not eligible to sit in the convention.

Aides To Wage Fight

But each has faithful lieutenants to carry on the fight. And the delegates will see the philosophy of each in the heated speeches that likely will ring from the rostrum.

Gompers and a few associates founded the federation in 1882 to give craft unions an instrument for fighting common battles. They had seen the knights of labor, one big union of all workmen, collapse because of divergent interests of various craftsmen. They felt that the bricklayer, for instance, could best advance his interests by affiliating in a union with all other bricklayers—not with workmen in other trades. The federation, they said, should protect the rights of each of these craft unions, as well as working for their common interests.

On this principle, the federation grew and flourished for many years. Its unions took in, generally, only skilled craftsmen and thus represented "the aristocracy of labor."

Then came a new type of industry—called "mass production"—and with it grew up a new school of labor thought. Headed by Lewis (now 55 years old, while Gompers would be 86 if he were alive) this school contended that all the workers, skilled and unskilled, in each big industry should belong to one big "vertical" union.

Only by this form of organization, Lewis and his associates contended, could the unskilled worker get the benefits of a union. And only by this form of organization, they further maintained, could organized labor hope to bargain on equal terms with organized industry.

Ouster Battle Expected

Because they undertook to apply this principle to the steel, automobile and rubber industries without A. F. of L. sanction, Lewis' United Mine Workers and nine other unions were suspended from the federation two months ago.

The battle in Tampa probably will start when the convention considers a resolution to expel these 10 unions from the federation for good and all.

Three union leaders who worked with Gompers for many years are generally expected to lead the fight for adoption. They are William Hutchinson, hefty president of the carpenters; the scholarly John P. Frey, president of the federation's the present there is always the probability. The claim is made, for example, that the house can't function until it has elected a speaker. There have been several instances of that branch of congress being deadlocked in the past.

In 1849, 10 days were required to elect a speaker. In 1855-56 the house deadlocked from the first Monday in December until February 6 before making a choice. And again in 1859-60 two months elapsed.

Such delay now could prove doubly disastrous. Under the 20th or "lame duck" amendment to the constitution, congress must count the electoral vote three days after convening. Formerly about 60 days intervened between election time and the meeting of presidential electors. Now only 41 days intervene.

Hunter Upset, Forgets Name

PORTERVILLE, Cal. (UP)—Perhaps one reason why California deer are unmindful of the open season is that one hunter was picked up near here after wandering two days and nights, swimming the Kern river, losing his gun and finally forgetting his name.

Beware The Cough From a common cold That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies, such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecacuanha. Its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go to a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Full Program In Prospect For Congress

Action On Monetary Legislation Necessary By January 30

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Crowded days are in prospect for January.

Convening of a new congress, inauguration of a chief executive, and "must" legislation demanding prompt attention are all on the program.

Legislative expirations—statutes enacted for a limited period and which will expire unless revived by congress—present the most pressing problem.

Financial Powers Expiring

Foremost among these is the legislation authorizing the monetary policies pursued by the present administration. Action must be taken before January 30.

Powers granted the president to vary the gold content of the dollar between 50 and 60 per cent of the former standard; to fix the weight of the silver dollar at a ratio in relation to the gold dollar; and for unlimited coinage of gold and silver at this ratio must be renewed.

The much discussed but mysterious $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund comes to an end on the same date if earlier legislative action is not taken.

Two important governmental agencies—the reconstruction finance corporation and the electric home and farm authority (which finances sales of household electric equipment on an installment basis)—must receive consideration before February 1. RFC's power to undertake new business expires on that date while EFA's statutory authority ends entirely.

With an inauguration on hand and congress convening two days later this year because the date set in the constitution falls on Sunday, everybody likely will be working against time.

Delay Could Clog Gears

Delay, however slight, could possibly upset the apple cart. While there are no indications of such at

Marquette

attention has been turned to the immediate business at hand, but ties with formidable Mississippi and aggressive Duquesne. Not once at Marquette football headquarters has anyone mentioned "Rose Bowl" although the hero probably is buzzing in other parts of the local campus.

"Geographically and by the calendar," said Coach Murray today. "The New Year's game is too far distant to cause even a flutter here now. Even should we be undefeated after the final game, and I'm not counting on that too much. There are other extenuating circumstances to be considered in the choice. We are not Rose Bowl conscious here."

Marquette stock soared when the razzle-dazzle Murraymen overwhelmed one of the West coast's most representative elevens, the St. Mary's Gaels, by a score of 26 to 6. Before that had come victories over Wisconsin, Kansas State, St. Louis university and Michigan State.

Experts who congregated in Chicago for the Marquette-St. Mary's tilt and other major engagements were pleasantly surprised by the precision with which the Blue and Gold machine went to work. They came to see Captain Ray (Buz) Bulvid, star halfback and forward passer, and were impressed, but they also had praise for the alertness and general teamwork of the Murraymen.

Marquette, he it known, has a "quintuplet" backfield with a set of twins included in the group. Bulvid is the mainpring and Art Guepe, fiery quarterback, the spark plug. Ray Sonnenberg, quiet and unsung, rates as the blocking and tackling hero from his right halfback position, while Ward Cut is tops as a fullback of the rough and ready. Cut, who has been laboring under an injury handicap this fall, also does the punting. The fifth man, just as valuable as the others, is Twin Brother Al Guepe, utility back, who can and does play any position in the backfield.

Outfight Heavier Opponents
The Golden Avalanche line has surprised with its steadily improving performance. From end to end, Tarzan Taylor's Hilltop forwards have been on their toes all fall and rose to their greatest heights when, outweighed 15 pounds to the man, they outfought the St. Mary's charges. Roy Schoemann, a more or less unsung junior, was actually brilliant at center against the Gaels, but the Avalanche boasts another reliable snapperback in Myles Reif, also a junior.

Four guards, three of them lettermen, are of first string calibre, and each can play on either side of the line. Built like a sleeping giant, Bill Jennings, son of Marquette's athletic director, has taken the spotlight, but Joe Kosovsky, the soph, Mike Szarnski and Jack Lauterbach alternately take their bows. At the tackles, Taylor has ransy Howard Hansen, a transfer from Wisconsin, and Ralph Kuhn, 1935 reserve "M" man, as his starters, with Roger Lumb and Carl Siefer as capable fillers-in.

Marquette end play, a worry at the outset of the season, has shaped up beautifully as St. Mary's backs are ready to testify. Two comparatively unknowns, William Higgins, a third-stringer last fall, and Herb Anderson, sophomore, have worked their way up to the varsity, with two seniors, Roy McMahon and Lee Muth, being displaced—Muth because of a stubborn charley horse. Another reserve is James Fenimore Cooper, Bostonian sophie, who played 60 minutes against Kansas State.

Herd

to mid-field. On the next play he went wide around end to the twenty-five. Then came the big surprise that caught the Bobcats asleep. Making his debut as a passer, the diminutive Madison boy stepped back and shot an easy one to halfback Burrus who was laying out about five yards from the terminal post and he scampered about fifteen yards for the tally.

Barely holding their own for the next few minutes the Bobcats finally got straightened out and Harrison and Hays carried the ball to the Big Spring thirteen, where the Cut attack bogged down. Hays was stopped by Hildreth for no gain and Harris dumped Harrison for a two-yard loss. Hilde failed to gain and Brown's pass to Harrison was high.

After the first few minutes of the initial quarter the Big Spring running attack failed, and the Bobcats were kept back by the fine punting of Harris. San Angelo displayed too much power for the Steers as the second period got underway. Hays sliced through tackle to the Steer 30 for a first down. Harrison went to the 18 on a spinner and Hays carried it to the 12. The line swarmed Harrison on the next play, but he managed to get through to the 11 and Hays drove over center to the three. Brown scored over center on the next play and added the extra point.

Bad Break
The Longhorns rallied for a while, passing and driving their way to the Cut 45. A pass was intercepted but Chock Smith came through fast, took the ball out of the Angelo boy's hand and raced down the field. Almost stopped on the 30, he spun loose and made it down to the 12, but the play was called back.

Bobby Brown intercepted Madison's pass but the Steers held and Brown made a beautiful punt out on the Big Spring one-yard line. The Steers got out of that one safely and the game went nip and tuck until Brown took a punt and returned to the Big Spring 42. Madison ran Hays out on the one-yard line and Brown carried it over and added the point.

At the end of the half, first downs were 9 to 4 for the Cats. San Angelo's only offensive threat in the third period was a 17-yard pass, Hilde to Harrison, to the Big Spring 31. Ellis replaced Hays for a short time.

Big Spring's passing attack failed in the final quarter and the Cats, with Brown and Hays lugging the mail, threatened mildly until the final gun.

URAM LED BOY BRIGADE
MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 12 (AP) — How do football players get that way? Well, as a boy, Andy Uram, Minnesota's great half, led the boy brigade that dogged the footsteps of the Gopher squad. The guards repeatedly ejected the slightly built youngster from practice, but finally gave up trying. Now Uram is at ease in the presence of the 1936 boy brigade—but is embarrassed when with any other team.

James Dunn Heads Cast In Ritz Film

A comedy, "Come Closer, Folks," is the feature of Thursday's program at the Ritz theatre, with James Dunn, casting the starring role, that of a typical Broadway pitchman, or sidewalk salesman, who makes a living selling phoney watches.

With the help of a female colleague, played by Wynne Gibson, he organizes a troupe of pitchmen and invades the smaller towns. In one of them he falls afoul of a young girl (Marian Marsh) who is operating a department store. She has him arrested, but he comes back with the idea of developing the whole store into one big racket.

Complications from this point are many and varied, with a romance between Dunn and his intended victim, Miss Marsh, working its way into the story. The supporting cast includes George McKay, Herman Bing and Gene Lockhart.

Mrs. McAdams Showered By W. O. W. Circle

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

Three years ago Janet Beith won a $20,000 prize with a novel called "No Second Spring," and at once set about the creation of a second book. She works slowly, it seems, for she has only just finished. She calls it "Sand Castle."

It is, briefly, the story of what happened when two young and rather fierce Highland boys came down out of Scotland to work in the mills of Charles Appleby in Manchester. Alan and David look much alike, but Alan looks to be a steady lad, and David is the brother with charm. So Annis sees them, at any rate. Annis is the daughter of Charles Appleby.

Besides these, Miss Beith has put together somewhat laboriously a medium-sized cast of characters—some from the lower reaches such as Josiah Sidebottom and his family; some from the higher levels, such as Annis' brother Norman. The story follows the expected course, when a lovely and somewhat "different" girl comes to care for a pair of young Highlanders in the 80s. It is a good story, the background is adequately done, the relations between the characters are believable. The only trouble is that Miss Beith's pace is so incredibly slow.

So, in a way, is Louis Guilloux's in "Bitter Victory." This is the story of a gaunt, grotesque and yet pitiful fellow called Cripure, of his Maia, of a whole gallery of French provincial people in the third year of the war. The corrupting influence of the war hangs over everyone, and it is this that motivates the events of the book—the war must go on to make France safe for profiteers, while troops mutiny at the front. The men left in the villages spout false heroics, and give decorations to their favorites. Still other drafts suck up what is left of youth.

Cripure's tragedy is largely that of helplessness. It is possible that M. Guilloux sees that as France's tragedy also; the corruption of war seeping through the land from the trenches in one corner of it. The

Knitted Suit With Peplum

By RUTH ORR Pattern No. 889

We dropped in on the Broker's Secretary the other evening, and found she'd deserted her usual crochet hook in favor of knitting needles. When she held up the back of this blouse, which she already finished, we didn't blame her in the least. For, it's going to be one of the most attractive suits we've ever seen. We couldn't resist borrowing the pattern long enough to pass it on to you.

Her color scheme includes a delicate shade of yellow for the main part of the blouse with trimmings of dark brown. The skirt will be the same shade of brown. She said this would make it so satisfactory for winter wear, but with such a light blouse she'll be able to wear it during the spring and summer. The material used also takes this into consideration; for it's knitting and crochet cotton, knitted double.

The directions include a skirt pattern, but we think the blouse design alone is worth the price of the pattern, for it is just the thing to complete your winter suit, and live-up your whole wardrobe.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions for size 34, with diagrams and instructions to aid you for larger or smaller sizes; also what needles and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 389 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to book is outspoken, bitterly true. And Samuel Putnam has made a splendidly moving translation. "Sand Castle," by Janet Beith (Stokes); "Bitter Victory," by Louis Guilloux (McBride).

Final Arrangements Made For Visit Of Rebekah President

Final arrangements for the president's visit were made at the Tuesday meeting of the Rebekah lodge. Mrs. Frances Thompson of Corpus Christi is scheduled for a visit here on the 17th when she will preside at a school of instruction.

The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and will adjourn at noon. At 2 o'clock the session will be resumed and the instruction will be completed during the afternoon. At the evening meeting, beginning at 7:30, each member is asked to take a flower for the president's bouquet.

Those who took part in the meeting were Mrs. Hazel Lamar, Mrs. Fern Burleson, Mrs. Velma Cain, Mrs. Ella Lloyd, Mrs. Mable Glenn, Mrs. Sally Kinard, Mrs. Amanda Hughes, Mrs. Louise Lykins, Mrs. Myrtle Morrow, Mrs. Maggie Richardson, Mrs. Thelma Randolph, Mrs. Mamie Kinman, Mrs. Dollie Mann, Mrs. Lee Anderson, Mrs. Leola Cleve, Mrs. Della Herring, Mrs. Mary Delbridge, Mrs. Willie Neill of Midland, Mrs. Nora Gully, Mrs. Ora Martin, J. Pathfinder's Class To Stage Circus

Plans for a circus were made at the business and social meeting of the Pathfinder's Class of the First Christian church Tuesday evening when the members gathered at the home of their teacher, Mrs. J. R. Creath.

The circus date has been set for Tuesday evening in the church basement. The class will begin work on booths and other attractions very soon.

Attending the affair were Miss Grace Wilma Kechel, Miss Eddy Raye Lee, Miss Robbie Elder, Miss Katherine Barrett, Miss Lily Jean Cook, Miss Wynelle Fischer, Miss Mildred Creath, Harvey Hooser, Jr., Franklin Robinson, Jack Courson, J. B. Bender, John Coldiron, Clarence Aivis, Wendall Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Rogers, and Mrs. Creath.

Mrs. W. W. Inkman Entertains For Tuesday Club

Mrs. W. W. Inkman was hostess for luncheon and bridge Tuesday when she entertained for the Tuesday Luncheon club. The guests had lunch at the Monterey cafe and later played bridge at the Inkman home.

Mrs. Shine Phillips was highest scorer. Mrs. Carl Blomshield was a luncheon guest. Club members present were Mrs. M. H. Bennett, Mrs. J. Y. Robb, Mrs. Shine Phillips, Mrs. M. K. House, Mrs. Harry Hurt, Mrs. R. V. Middleton, Mrs. E. V. Spence, and Mrs. W. W. Inkman.

Mrs. Spence will be the next hostess.

ARMING FOR 'PEACE'

Two schools of thought are engaged in the problem of world peace, or at any rate they claim that is their purpose. One would secure this desirable condition by practically total disarmament. The other by arming so heavily that nations would respect each other because of fear.

As the former method has signally failed to achieve even partial good results, for it must be unanimous to be effective, the other method is being vigorously followed. Italy is devoting her entire resources to growing olive branches out of eight million bayonets, Germany is feverishly forging arms and manufacturing ammunition, Japan is building ships and increasing her armed forces on land.

These things being more or less calculated to disturb the territorial possessions of England in far-flung parts of the world, the tight little island is taking steps to at least protect her holdings. The other three nations all are seeking territorial expansion that must perforce be at the expense of another nation, England's holdings being the largest are the most likely to be coveted and possibly reached for.

It is altogether a pretty little situation — a chance for war that once started will have a wide extent. So far, however, the possible combatants have taken it out in talk. Mussolini and Hitler remind one of the gorillas in the Tarzan series, which beat their breasts and emitted growls in order to work themselves into rage great enough to begin fighting.

So long as the larger nations continue to match the arming of each other as they seem to be doing now, there is not so much probability that war will begin. But when one or more reach the end of their resources, as they must do eventually, then we may look for the better prepared to make the move that will set cannon to rearing and make graves where now are fertile fields.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Undoubtedly the most lasting vignettes of celebrities come from the things they say—not, after all, from the size of their yachts or the color of their hair.

In a reminiscent mood, one checks up on the extemporaneous utterances of various personalities made in the presence of this ivory (sic) tower from time to time:

Fritz Kreisler (on the deck of a trans-Atlantic liner in New York harbor): "Since my youth I've had a passionate interest for incunabula published prior to 1500. I have 600 volumes now and I plan to sell them. This may seem a strange thing to do, but I believe that if a man is a collector of books he must never allow it to lapse into a status quo. If you can not add and can not exchange what you have for something you greatly want, then you should withdraw. Book collecting is a serious thing."

Muriel Robinson (portrait painter who is pretty enough to be a model herself): "If you want to be a great artist, you should have weak eyes. Leave your glasses off while dabbing and you easily achieve that blurred diffused effect which many artists strive to attain."

Title For A Prince

Billy Rose (Broadway's most imaginative impresario who produces cabarets in circus tents and circuses in opera houses): Paris is a beautiful city, but they run it like a carnival. I'm going back to London and open a nightclub with a chorus of American girls. There are more pretty girls between 42nd and 59th street on Broadway than in all of Europe. All those over there have ankles like Lou Gehrig."

Louis Ferdinand (Prince of Prussia and a son of the Kaiser, on his last visit to New York): "When I first went to America people had a difficult time remembering my name and title. Someone saw my college degree which made me a doctor, and they found it more simple to call me Dr. Ferdinand. I like that much better."

Noel Coward (recalling earlier adventures while idling about the studio of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne): "The South seas are wonderful to yacht through but not to swim in. The Earl of Amherst and I tried it once and the heavy breakers pounded us against a coral reef. We came out of it with a horrible case of coral poisoning."

Some Drink Gold

Ukraine Michael Romanoff (alias Harry Gerguson, an East Side boy, who kept port authorities in a turmoil for years by stowing away on de luxe ocean liners): "I never read what the newspapers say about me. I haven't read a word written about me in eight years. How could I? It would drive me crazy."

Rosarillo de Triana (Spanish dancer, between flurries of her castanets at El Chico's, in Grove street): "If my expressions seem strange, it is because we Flamencos never smile. Do not be alarmed. I am not in pain. I have just come up from South America and intend to stop off only a short while, but, quien sabe?—if I fall in love I may be here longer."

Grace Moore (over cocktails at the Waldorf): "Life for some may begin at 40, but for me it begins at 7 p. m. Then I come home from my work, rest an hour, and put on my most glamorous evening gown!"

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Some strange fish were caught in the net of the securities and exchange commission the other day when it refused to register a stock issue of the National Invested Savings corporation.

Among the listed directors of the company were William Tyler Page, secretary-treasurer of the house of representatives; John H. Small, former president of the national rivers and harbors congress and ex-congressman; Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the Democratic League of the District of Columbia; "Sunny Jim" Wilson, ex-senator from Indiana, staunch republican, retired Admiral Mark L. Bristol, and ex-congressman Tom D. McKeown, democrat of Oklahoma.

In its official announcement, the SEC took pains to identify the corporation's directors, whom it severely chided for alleged laziness in not knowing more about the affairs of the concern they sponsored. But while revealing the identity of the directors, the SEC carefully sidestepped about one of the group. It failed to state that John H. Small is one of its own trial examiners.

The day before the SEC release was made, Mr. Smith, another of the rebuked directors, played a leading role in the ceremonies that welcomed President Roosevelt upon his triumphant return to Washington. He handed the president a bouquet of flowers after he had dined.

Long-Range Comfort
 Lean-jawed Republican national chairman John Hamilton encountered a friend several days after the election, who slyly inquired:

"How are you feeling, John?"
 "Never felt better," was the cheerful reply.

"That's the spirit," said the friend. "Don't forget, life begins after 1930."

Twenty prominent business men passed up an unusual opportunity during the campaign to put the new deal in their debt.

At the height of the GOP barrage against the social security act, democratic managers, greatly alarmed, wanted to get a number of business leaders to join in a statement defending the law. Many of them already were on record as favoring social security legislation. However, everyone turned thumbs down on the administration request. Some admitted frankly that they strongly disapproved of the republican attack, but could not openly do so because of their corporate affiliations.

Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant who last year quit the U. S. chamber of commerce because of its violent hostility toward the new deal, was the only big businessman who rallied to the defense of the social security law.

Wee betide a certain mischievous justice department clerk if J. Edgar Hoover discovers his identity. The prankster nearly scared the mighty G-Boss out of his wits, and Hoover has been moving heaven and earth to uncover him—so far unsuccessfully.

The incident occurred when Hoover was conducting a demonstration in one of the court areas of the justice department before a group of police officials. It was a class in the school for local police authorities that the federal bureau of investigation conducts several times a year.

Suddenly, in the midst of the lecture, there was a loud explosion directly behind Hoover—who leaped about three feet.

For a G-Boss who prides himself on reckless fearlessness and is constantly posing for the photographers, it was most embarrassing.

After the excitement had subsided, the cause of the disturbance was discovered to be a large firecracker of the "salute" variety. A practical joker had tossed it out of a window.

Add the nation's leading banks to the WPA boondoggling list. Although they are foremost among the critics of the Works Progress program, they recently jumped at the chance to get on a white collar project.

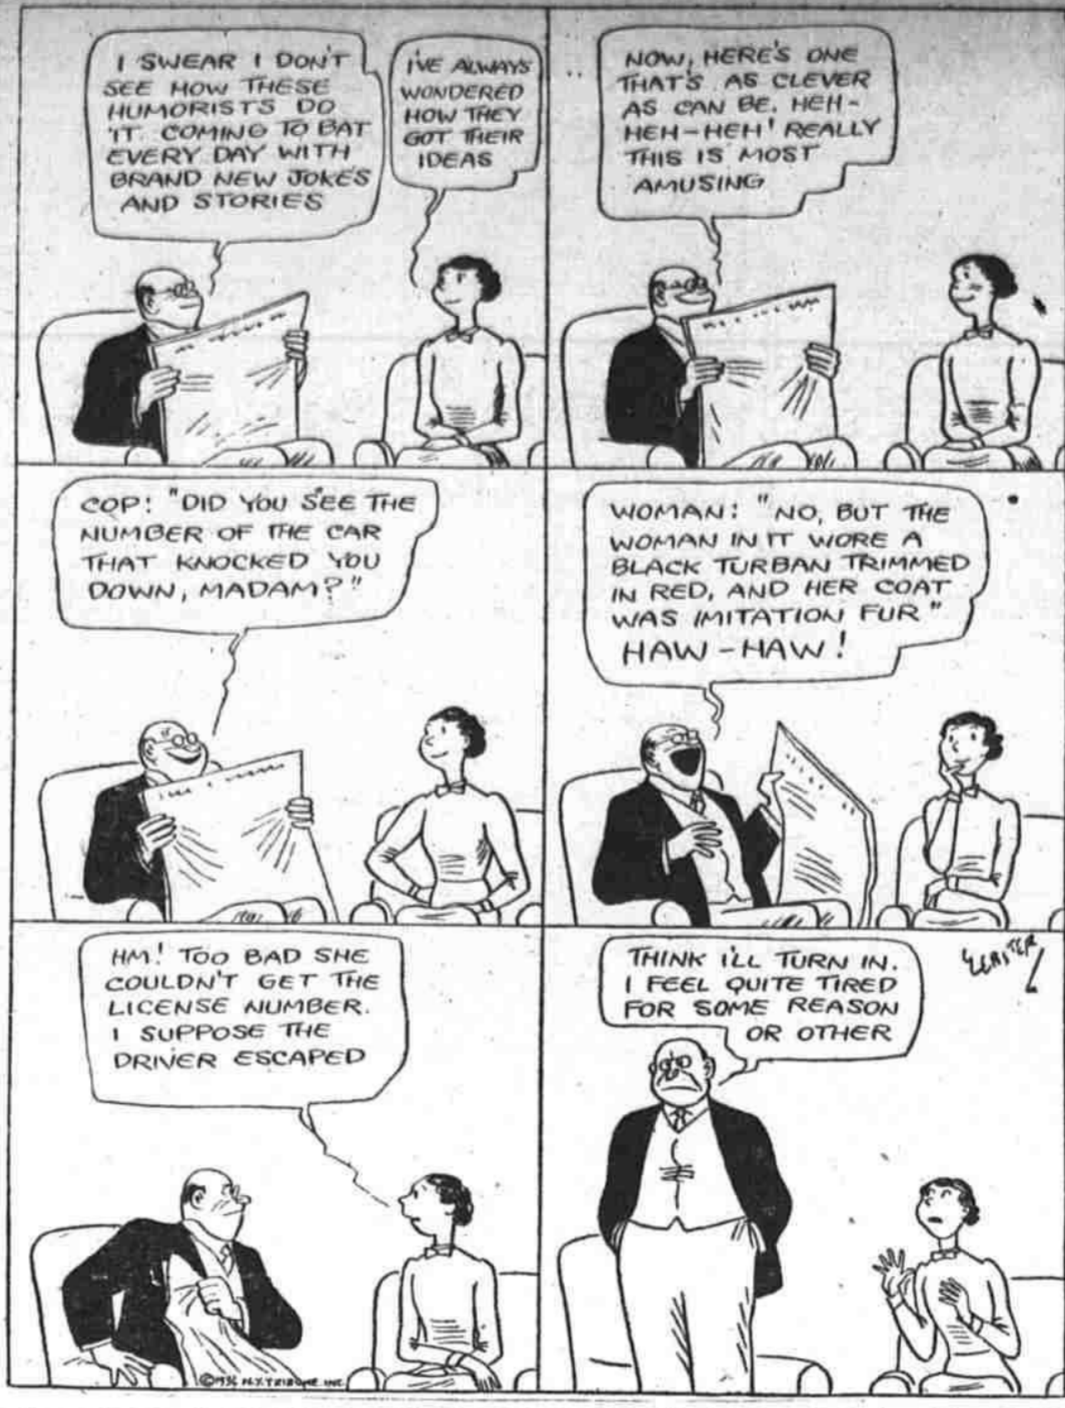

The undertaking, employing 250 idle accountants and statisticians, is being directed by the Federal Reserve board. Its object is to analyze bank deposits during the depression period for the purpose of ascertaining what type of deposits are least dependable, from the bank's viewpoint.

It is the reserve board's belief that with such data available, banks could diversify their business so as to prevent disastrous runs in the future.

The study is being made chiefly in New York. Most of the large banks are cooperating cordially.

John M. Keith, $7,500-a-year right hand man of G-Boss J. Edgar Hoover, will leave the government service December 1 to take a $10,000 job with a large eastern corporation, whose identity he declines to reveal until he has taken up his new work.

And Nothing Can Be Done About It.

Weather Data Explored For Drouth Cause

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12 (UP)—A clue to nature's secret, the cause of major drouths, was periodically explored during the past 50 years by WPA "white collar" workers, under the direction of W. F. McDonald, chief of the U. S. weather bureau at New Orleans.

The project has been completed as the compilation of 5,900,000 weather observations by ships in all oceans during the past 50 years—15 tons of records, most of it on aging, yellow paper.

While many foreign countries and ships contributed to the vast collection, and will benefit by the summary, New Orleans is the only place in the world where such a compilation is being made, McDonald said.

Marine Weather Expert
 McDonald for five years was in charge of the marine division of the weather bureau in Washington. About a year ago he was placed in charge of the New Orleans office. A short time later, with the aid of WPA, the work was started. The aging records that had lain in dusty storerooms in Washington were shipped to New Orleans.

For months past, the workers have pored over the individual weather reports. McDonald says that he can't "make undue promises," but he did say that the project results "supplement and advance our substratum knowledge of oceanic weather and should be of immense benefit in future trans-oceanic air travel."

The condensed material will show in 200 charts. Sections of the various oceans of the world were blocketed off and weather reports from ships plying these sections for the past 50 years were compiled, to give an accurate picture of what has happened in the areas. Studies were made of these "past performances" in order to judge the future.

"We had ship reports from the seven seas," McDonald said. "We covered all oceans, not only the Atlantic and Pacific. Ocean weather—and, of course, the results of this study—is of international interest. Countries that contributed to the study will gain by the help they have given us."

Now that the oceanic weather has been charted, the workers are going back over the records, studying "departures" from normal weather, rainfall and other phenomena. These will be checked against rainfall records that are being sent in from all Louisiana weather observation stations.

Vast Data Still to Come
 The records also will be checked against rainfall statistics that ultimately will be received from all of the bureau's 5,000 stations throughout the United States.

In addition to rainfall, drouth and flood records are to be checked against the oceanic material. Rainfall in the United States comes from the ocean, McDonald explained, and the relation between the two weather conditions at land and sea may help explain the causes of drouths in the Middle West, and floods and heavy, long rainfalls in other sections of the country.

It may, too, unlock the door to

Dog Covers Mail Route 12 Years, Expects And Gets Daily Tidbits

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 12 (UP)—For 12 years Bill Gannon has had a helper on his mail route through a residential section of Albany.

Each morning Chris, a 15-year-old shepherd dog, barks a greeting as the postman alights from a trolley car to start his daily walk.

"Chris used to trot about the route twice each day, but now he is content to walk slowly once around. The rest of the time he dozes in the sun."

It's pleasing routine for Chris. First, there's a piece of candy from Gannon as they start out. Then a drink of water at garage and a bark for a "handout" from a friendly butcher. A block away from the postman's route, in a year he was walking the entire route, acquiring the "handout" habit as he went.

Despite the scars, Gannon loves dogs—that is, big dogs.

"Those little excuses for dogs are the worst," he said. "You can make friends with big dogs in a hurry usually."

Yule Buying To Be Heavy In Northwest

Retail Volume In 6 States Expected To Approach Boom Year Level

ST. PAUL, Nov. 12 (UP)—The northwest today heads into the most profitable holiday trading season in years. Wholesale houses here are rushing orders to retailers in ever-increasing volume, as the merchant in the city and at the country store prepare for the heaviest volume of Christmas business in seven years.

Indications now are that December retail business in the six northwestern states of Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Wisconsin and Iowa (plus upper Michigan) will approach the 1929 level. Authority for this statement is John H. DeWitt, trade extension manager of the Minneapolis civic and commerce association.

More Spending Assured
 The Agricultural Outlook, prepared by the editorial staff of five midwest farm papers, predicted that regardless of the drouth, there will be money to spend throughout the northwest and in all rural areas in the country.

With farm cash income from sales and AAA payments scheduled to reach an estimated $7,850,000,000, supplementary income from work done off their farms will swell the farmers' bankroll this year to approximately $9,000,000,000. The Outlook said.

Merchandise Ordered Early
 And sensing this increase in trade, and making sure they had merchandise to meet the inevitable demand, retailers ordered out their Christmas merchandise early this season. Wholesalers had difficulty filling orders in many lines, and manufacturers were unable to replenish jobbers' stocks as fast as demanded.

In 1935, according to federal census figures, retail trade through the six states and upper Michigan was approximately $2,900,000,000. DeWitt estimates this total will be swelled to $3,500,000,000 this year.

CRUDE OUTPUT IS LOWER FOR WEEK

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 12 (UP)—Daily average production of crude oil in the rited States decreased 74,996 barrels daily for the week ended Nov. 7. The Oil and Gas Journal said today.

It was the second consecutive week in which decreased production was reported. Total production was 2,995,839 barrels for the week ended Nov. 7, compared to total production of 3,041,526 barrels the week ended Oct. 31. The total was 96,230 barrels more than the recommendation of the bureau of mines.

Chapter 26
THE HAT

Detective Sergeant Wishart had been in charge of the police raid in Jamaica Row. Late that night he returned to Scotland Yard to make his report. There he met Inspector Kennedy, just preparing to go home.

"Any luck?" asked the Inspector.

"Well—yes and no," replied Sergeant Wishart. "The tip was all right, sir; the man Barney Flynn was in the house, but he got away. There was another man with him, and he got away too. It was too dark to identify him. We found evidence of a struggle in the room they'd been in, and we found these."

He produced the packet of dope which Mahony had seen in the desk. And he produced a hat, which Inspector Kennedy inspected with a critical eye. Inside it, he had the maker's name: "Nicholson and Co., Shanghai," and the initials, "T. M."

"Dope and this hat, I wouldn't call that doing so badly even if Flynn did get away," remarked the Inspector cheerfully.

He paused.

"I wonder what that man Mahony was doing in that house in Jamaica Row," he added.

About the time when Mahony was first interviewed, Lake, alias Milton, in the street near Nottingham Hill Gate, Elsa Little was sitting in the drawing-room of her house in Chelsea. The police had finished their investigations in the house and left; Lawson had also just left, and the house was quiet. Elsa was thinking.

She was conscious of a sense of gratitude to Ambrose Lawson. He had shielded her as much as possible from the unwelcome attentions of the public; he had interviewed policemen, directed everything in the household, and had in every way been kindness and thoughtfulness itself.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for your doctor for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SHIP TOYS TO CHRISTMAS ISLAND

Destined for Christmas Island in the British East Indies, the season's first shipment of Montgomery Ward toys is ready to be packed for export, giving the cameraman and a little visitor, Mary Lou Stenstrom, a preview of what Santa will have in stock for December 25. Far away customers must order early, and a busy season for the company's export department is beginning. The company's retail stores will also be fully stocked with the latest toys in a few weeks.

Ruth, Elsa said in a reasonable tone. "Lots of people know who Mr. Lawson is, and like him, but what do you know about this man Mahony? How do you know he isn't just a clever scoundrel making use of you for his own ends?"

Her reasonable tone did not succeed in calming Ruth. "Lots of people know who Mr. Lawson is and don't like him," she countered promptly. "You weren't so terribly keen on him yourself a week or two ago. Terence Mahony is quite different. If you must pry into my affairs, I don't mind telling you that I'd only seen him once before I met him at your house this morning. But that once was quite enough to show me what between the two girls and shortly after Elsa went home.

Elsa did not know what to do. At last, though it was getting pretty late, she went to the telephone and rang up Ambrose Lawson.

As it happened, when she rang up, Lawson was eagerly expecting a telephone call from the East End to tell him what had happened in Jamaica Row. When the telephone-bell rang in his room he rose and went eagerly to the receiver.

"Hallo! Is that you, Lake?" he said.

"It's Elsa Little," said a voice from the other end of the wire.

"Oh!" said Lawson in a displeased voice. He was annoyed with himself for having jumped, too quickly, to the conclusion that it must be Lake, and mentioning Lake's name. He was also wondering impatiently what the devil had happened to Lake.

"What's the trouble, Elsa?" he asked.

His voice sounded more friendly now. But he hoped she'd be quick and say what she had to say, and get off the line. He did not want to take to find his number engaged when he rang up.

"It—it's nothing much," said Elsa. "I've just been round to see Ruth—to talk to her about that man Mahony. She seems to be completely under his influence. I wish we could do something to get her away from him."

Lawson waits, tomorrow, for a phone call which does not come.

WOMAN AT 68 STUDIES A B C'S TO READ NEWS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12. (UP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Mazanin, 68-year-old Marshall woman, is studying her 'B C's' nowadays as she is learning to read and write.

Two nights each week she goes down the hill from her home to the Marshall neighborhood house here with a group of students, mostly immigrant youths, she ponders over the alphabet and her first grade reader. It is a little difficult, she admits, to guide a pencil with her hands that are marred from years of household labor. And it is even more difficult for her age-dimmed eyes to make out the letters of the primer.

But, despite the handicaps, Mrs.

Texas Contribution To Demo War Chest Exceeded Only By New York

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—Contributions of Texas democrats to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign fund exceeded those of any other state in the nation with the exception of New York, State Campaign Director Roy Miller announced here today.

With this state's contributions already approximately $275,000, or $25,000 in excess of the quarter-million-dollar quota fixed by the democratic national committee, each mail delivery brings more funds from rural sections of the state.

But a national party deficit of approximately $500,000 exists, Miller was notified by national headquarters in New York, and Texas democrats will be asked to do their share by helping to balance the democratic party's books.

"I have not yet been notified of the exact amount this state will be expected to raise, but I am certain that we shall have little trouble in raising it, if our campaign is as successful as the pre-election drive for funds," Miller declared.

The Texas campaign fund this year was made up of the largest number of individual contributions ever made to any political campaign in the history of the state, Miller said. He estimated that more than 20,000 individual donations to the party's "war chest" were received from Texas democrats.

John Garrison left Wednesday night for Sulphur Springs where he was called to the bedside of his father who was seriously ill.

Mazanin is an enthusiastic and determined to succeed as any 6-year-old child.

A native of the Old World, she came to America 30 years ago. She has been unable since that time to read and write.

"And that's long enough too," she said through an interpreter. "Just think, all this time, I've never been able to write a letter or read a paper. About the only thing I can do is to follow my prayerbook at church, and that's because I've memorized it."

"I got tired of looking at the pictures in the papers—I want to read the news."

Rumors of marriage inclined more and more to the possibility that the king might marry Mrs. Simpson privately, if at all, and give her one of his courtesy titles.

Archbishop May Have A Word On King's Friendship

LONDON, Nov. 12. (UP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the English church, may make a public reference to the friendship of King Edward and Mrs. Wallis Simpson if there is any indication they want to convert their friendship into a marriage, it was reported today.

The report was based on recurrent rumors that the king and Mrs. Simpson might marry. Technically, Mrs. Simpson is not supposed to think of marriage until the decree nisi of divorce which she obtained recently from Ernest Simpson becomes final next April and she is able to apply for a decree absolute, which would free her to marry for the third time.

Sticklers for form say that the king's proctor, whose duty it is to investigate any suspicion of collusion in a divorce, would have to take cognizance of any intention of Mrs. Simpson to marry.

As for the venerable archbishop, the story is that he is opposed to the king's friendship with Mrs. Simpson and might make some public statement if he heard that they intended to marry.

Friends of the king and Mrs. Simpson agree that they have no intention of marrying. In any event, it was said, the king would have more consideration for her than to permit even an intimation of intention to marry before Mrs. Simpson obtained her final decree.

vestment may be made only in interest-bearing obligations of the United States or in obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States.

Treasury officials interpreted the section as enabling the secretary of the treasury to purchase any government or government-secured security held by banks, individuals or financial institutions.

For example, in 1950 when the old age reserve reaches an estimated $14,031,700,000, pension payments that year will amount to only $371,500,000. The treasury could, use the $13,660,200,000 to buy that amount of federal securities from private sources and placing them with the treasury. The interest would go to the pension reserve.

A purchase of $13,660,200,000 government bonds by the treasury would gather in that amount of securities on which no federal income tax is paid by the private holders. Government securities are tax exempt.

The law also allows the treasury secretary to issue "special obligations" bearing interest "at the rate of three per cent per annum" on the old age fund.

Financing experts explained indebtedness certificates could be offered by a future administration under the statute to procure immediate cash to use, for example, meeting costs of an emergency anti-depression program.

Special security board members predicted that, when their program reaches full force, 38,000,000 workers will be covered by old age insurance policies, placing more than $1,000,000,000 a year into channels of trade through regular monthly pensions.

In addition, the board is spending millions of dollars now for unemployment compensation, grants to dependent children and needy mothers, public health work and indigents.

Kiwanis Hears Dist. Attorney

Salvation Army Officer Also Speaker On Club Program

Big Spring Kiwanis club members, meeting for their weekly luncheon session at the Crawford hotel, Thursday heard a discussion of law enforcement work and a plea for public cooperation in that work by District Attorney Cecil Collings.

Collings compared the activities of peace officers to those of operators of any line of business, pointing out that courteous attention to the public, as well as strict observance of rules are requisites. "Business men must follow a set of rules or see their business fail," he said. "Officers must follow the laws in line of duty or see our government fail." He made an appeal for public assistance in the matter of law enforcement, stressing the citizen's duty to serve as a juror if called.

Another speaker before the club was Col. W. Roy Gilks of the Salvation Army, here conducting a series of meetings. Native of London, Col. Gilks has spent more than 50 years in Salvation Army work in England, and recounted briefly some of his experiences. He told of the beginning of the Salvation Army's social service work in England and reminded that the local post has a social service problem in Big Spring that requires public support.

James Little was chairman of the program. Visitors were Capt. Charles Gordon of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Charley Thrasher and Marvin K. House.

WPA ROLLS GAINING AS COTTON PICKING SEASON NEARS END

WPA rolls are showing a slow but steady increase as the cotton picking season nears its end. At the end of last week the district rolls contained some 900 names of certified workers, a gain of 75 from the preceding three weeks.

With the assignment of more men, WPA projects were gaining momentum. The Brownfield street paving project was due to be completed Wednesday afternoon and surfacing of the lateral road from Knott to Highway No. 9 in Howard county was to have started Thursday morning.

Work is still progressing on the Chalk road project where last of the structures on the first stretch was being finished. About a mile of base material has been placed on the road. Diversion of water flow along the road will occupy attention of crews for several days.

There was no school on Wednesday, Armistice Day.

The play "The Adventures of Grandpa," met with success at Chalk last Thursday night. It was presented again Thursday night at Midway, and Friday night of next week at Knott.

Miss Twila Lomax was unable to teach for a few days, due to a slight illness, but she is able to be back at work again now.

Many of the people of this community have been suffering from colds and slight cases of influenza during the cold weather.

G. C. Broughton represented this community at the song service at the Tabernacle Baptist church last Sunday-afternoon.

Estes was born in Tennessee March 22, 1867 and had made his home in Stanton for the past several years. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. S. L. Estes, two daughters, Miss Mayme Estes and Miss Leth Estes of Stanton, four sons, A. D. and L. M. Estes of Lamesa and Tom and Miller Estes of Stanton.

Funeralbearers were C. M. Houston, S. C. Houston, J. R. Arnett, Henry Orr, Luke Cathey and L. J. Johnson. Eberly Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

11TH STREET PAVING STARTS NEXT WEEK

Work on the East 11th street paving project will start next week. City Manager E. V. Spence said Thursday.

Excavation work will be started at the Rannels street intersection and will be carried eastward with curbing and base materials being placed as the work moves along. It is to extend to the entrance of Washington Place.

Engineering data has been prepared on other street projects which will be submitted to WPA for approval. Among them are stretches on Main, Nolan, Gollad, Bell, Sixth, and Eighth streets.

Four blocks on Nolan, East 4th, and East 7th are due to be surfaced by the end of next week.

CROWDS INCREASING AT REVIVAL MEETING OF CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The revival meeting now under way at the First Christian church has gotten off to a good start. The attendance is increasing each night. In spite of the fact that yesterday was a holiday the crowd was larger last night than at any time yet. Many new people are coming each night and the competition is strong to get one of the pictures that are being painted every night by Mr. Haley. He draws these pictures as he sings the song accompaniment. Then the next night the picture is given to the person who gets the largest number of people out to the service who haven't been there since the meeting began.

The preaching is following the general theme of "God, Man, and Religion." The sermon topic for tonight will be "Pilate's Wash-Easin." Mr. Haley will sing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and draw the picture representing the thought.

The meeting will close on Sunday night. The membership of the church is urged not to miss another service. The general public is cordially invited.

Just plain old Common Sense

You know that a cigarette can be mild; that is, when you smoke it it's not harsh or irritating.

You know that a cigarette can have a pleasing taste and aroma.

When you smoke a cigarette and find that it has the right combination of mildness, good taste, and aroma, it just seems to satisfy you . . . gives you what you want.

I smoke Chesterfield all the time, and they give me no end of pleasure.
