Meeting Held Wednesday Afternoon At C. of C. Office

Plans for launching the FHA "Ready for Winter" campaign in Littlefield was outlined by R. E. Sikes, Mortgage Conference Representative of the Dallas office of the Federal Housing Administration at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce offices Wednesday afternoon.

"Ready for Winter" is the theme adopted for the state and national campaign sponsored by the building industry with the cooperation of the FHA in order to encourage and stimulate property improvements as well as new residential construction during the fall and winter months.

During the day Mr. Sikes conferred with local financial institutions, building supply dealers, contractors, architects, realtors, department stores, and utilities, and outlined plans for an organized sixty day educational program involving newspaper advertising, and publicity.

Adequate funds are available for financing repairs as well as new construction, according to Mr. Sikes who emphasized the fact that all loans made under the FHA program are made by private lending institutions with the FHA acting as an insurance agency, guaranteeing the repayment of the loans and protecting the lending institution against loss.

PRAIRIE WEEDS

Gathered by
OLE DRIFTER

Howdy Folks:
Every once-in-a-while, Clay Pumpfrey, bursts forth with a brilliant idea. Now—he is a very busy man and can't possibly take time to sift his plans and promotions; so—they are usually presented to us in the rough (very). The other night he hailed me, on Phelps avenue, he had just been struck (almost out) by an inspiration. Seize to me—“Schein, why don't we start a movement to surround Bob McCaskill's gin with enough of Lamb County, to put Littlefield in the center of the county, and get the county seat. Of course, there is the small detail of taking some territory away from Hockley county and Pumpfrey don't look like Hitler to me. Besides—I don't think that our neighbors in Hockley county are one bit scared of us.

For the past few weeks I have been receiving nothing but unpaid bills in my P. O. box. They don't need a new $75,000 federal building to distribute Duns. As far as I'm concerned a two bit wire basket will take care of mine nicely.

Wise guy, suggested to me, that I get behind a “Pay-your-bills-promptly” campaign. “Gettin' Behind” is what's bothering me now. Asking me to preach promptness, is just about like asking a rabbit to deliver a cabbage. I'm afraid it just wouldn't get there—if you see what I mean.

See by the paper where the Texas law provides for an equal division of the wife's salary. In other words—every-time Friend Frau earns a dollar, four bits of it belongs to me. All I got to do—is to get a nice job for my wife; get her to accept it, and then—just try and collect my half. Simple isn't it—or is it?

Ernest Cundiff was settin' 'em up to the boys, last Saturday. I started to ask him whether he had struck oil or something. Just about that time somebody whispered the info to me that the Wildcats had won their first football game the night before. If I had known that five minutes earlier, I would have ordered something a whole lot more expensive than just a cup of coffee.

Mighty fine music, I tell you. The jingling of coins, in the pockets of the farmers, who cashed their subsidy checks last week, certainly sounded good to the store-keepers who had been waiting on a bunch of shoppers and sight-seers all summer long. One merchant said that business got so slow lately that there almost wasn't any at all. Several of the cashiers along Phelps Avenue, had to send out for lubricating oil to tune up their rusty cash registers.

86 Pages of Progress

Last Sunday, the Lubbock Avalanche, issued a special edition commemorating the Silver Anniversary of the South Plains Fair. It was very much more than just another special edition. From first to last page, it radiated PROGRESS.

As we turned the pages of this unusually historical edition, a quarter century of development, building and advancement, paraded before us. We saw, through the pages of The Anniversary Special, a city and a vast territory, rising out of the desert, a cultured, prosperous people, taking over their heritage of plenty; sturdy folks, heaving a permanent structure of civilization, and—we saw an epic paper, guiding the people of the South Plains, on The Road To The Right.

In congratulating the Fair and The Avalanche, we wish to borrow the expression from British sportsmen: “SO—YOU HAVE KNOCKED OUT A QUARTER CENTURY. MAY IT BE LONG BEFORE THE LAST WICKET IS DOWN AND THE INNINGS ARE DECLARED CLOSED.”

After all, the bricks and brawn, that build a city, provide only the outer shell for the brains and bravery, which marshal its progress.

BACK TO YOUR BOOKS

There is no mystery or doubt, as to what has happened in the world, during the past Six Thousand Years. Archivists, historians, recorders and museums, have preserved for us, both the causes and results of every war, since Babylonian times.

The events of the present day, are but ditto marks in the book of eternity, and the war rumble of the moment a mere curve in the cycles that wind themselves around the pages of history.

Nothing that happened yesterday, varies much from the incidents that worried our great grandfathers. While it is true that diplomacy and warfare, have been embellished with all the modern refinements of science, ethics and hypocrisy,—the ages-old motives of ambition, greed and hatred still seem to shape the destinies of men and nations.

When anyone asks us to foretell the end of the present unrest, we say—“GO BACK TO YOUR BOOKS.” You'll find that on numerous occasions—blatant militants have felt that the world was their oyster. These conquerers did a lot of damage in their day, but—without exception, died of indigestion or with knives in their backs.

History has ever repeated itself; empires built upon foundations of selfish ambitions and individual vain-glory, have crumbled. Caesar, Alexander, Hannibal and Bonapart, are spectral blotches on the pages of progress and—our children will find a couple more names in their books, names of men who did not conquer the world because they could not even conquer themselves.

HOSPITALITY

Webster defines Hospitality as: “Act, Practice, or Spirit of One Who Is Hospitable; kind and generous reception and entertainment of strangers and guests.”

We have always harbored a fuller and more expressive, meaning of the word. To us—“Hospitality” has always blended tolerance, sincerity and sympathy, with the gracious arts of reception and entertainment. We have spent considerable time among Latin people who are supposed to have mastered hospitality. As memory carries us back to those years filled with gestured courtesies—we question the substance of the gilt 'pon the glamour of their effusions.

How very different, is the hospitality of my new neighbors, here in Littlefield. They did not bob up and down, or embrace us, when I and mine, landed here. The folks merely agreed to let us tarry here while we were under observation. They—first wanted to make sure whether we would measure up to their ideas of good citizens and neighbors. Mind you—they were never anything but friendly and considerate, but they did not squander any motions of affection until they had a reasonable assurance of our regards and our merits.

Now—they look upon us as—of the family. There is no special demonstration of entertainment or bounteous privileges. Just warmth, feeling, and honest interest in our well-being.

This is the essence of true hospitality.

MRS. C. B. SPRADLIN SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO WRECK SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Spradlin were injured in an automobile accident eight miles east of Matador Saturday night at 12:15, when a car sideswiped their Buick sedan, causing their car to turn over four times. They were taken to Hollis, Okla., for treatment, and Mrs. Spradlin is in the Hollis Hospital, but not in a serious condition, Wayne Spradlin, brother of C. B., reported Tuesday afternoon.

IMPROVEMENTS UNDERWAY AT DeLANO CORNER

Extensions To Be Added To Cafe And Garage Buildings

Construction got underway Tuesday in the erection of an addition to the DeLano Cafe building, which will be built in two sections. One section, which will be 26x22, will be erected adjoining the east of the DeLano Cafe. The second section will be 26x22, and will extend from the wall of the first new portion, and extend back south at the rear of the Magnolia Garage, and will be used as a car laundry, and lubrication department, where a new hydraulic lift for cars will be installed for the use of the garage.

Those improvements, which are being carried out by Judge L. R. Crockett, owner, will represent an investment of about $2,500.00.

Bart Denton, Jr., has the contract for the work, and Higginbotham-Bartlett Company are furnishing the materials. The building will be of brick, tile, and stucco construction.

It is also the plan to remodel and redecorate the Littlefield Service Station building, also owned by Judge Crockett, and which is also embodied in the Denton contract.

In an interview with Judge Crockett Tuesday, it developed that the Littlefield Service Station is reported to be the first service station that was built west of Lubbock, and the first in Lamb county.

Judge Crockett stated Tuesday that at first he planned on tearing this building down, and rebuilding it, but remembering the pioneer effect the building had since it is the first service station built, he decided to remodel it. It was built by a group of citizens in 1920, incorporated, and a group of business men here then took stock in this station in order to get new development started in the town. He purchased the station in 1923 from the business men, known as the Littlefield Service Station. It is reported to have actually started development for on erection, the town started right away to go ahead.

Judgment Given In Favor of Plaintiff In Pickerell Case

In the trial of the Pickerell case Thursday last at Olton, it was decided in favor of Charlie Pickerell, Plaintiff, in County Court, and judgment was given for the possession of the property involved. Henry Pickerell was named defendant in the case.

The Reece and son case tried Monday, Sept. 26, on charge of aggravated assault, under indictment given by Grand Jury in the last term of Court, resulted in a hung jury. According to those in authority, this case will likely come up again in next term of court November 1.

Colored Man In Critical Condition From Knife Wound

A colored girl, about 19 years of age, was arrested about one o'clock Sunday morning by Deputy Sheriff Sam Hutson, and Night Watchman Walraven in the colored section, and she is being held in jail pending the outcome of the injury.

SANITATION TO PROVIDE LABOR TO 25 OR 30 MEN

Will Expend Ten To Twelve Thousand In Wages On Project

A Community Sanitation Project for the construction of Sanitary outhouses and toilets is accomplishing some excellent results in Lamb County. The project sponsored jointly by the Commissioners Court and the State Department of Health is providing worthy employment for some 25 or 30 men. The Works Progress Administration is expending some ten or twelve thousand dollars in wages for the men each year on this one project alone.

In this work the government provides the labor free to any individual in the county wishing the benefits of this work. All that is required of the individual is to provide the actual material necessary to construct sanitary toilets. Often it is possible to use salvage material around the home for the greater part of the unit. The actual cost to the individual is negligible as compared to the government expenditure for labor and the value received from a health standpoint.

The project is under the supervision of Mr. Emil H. Timian and is operating out of Littlefield. The materials can either be obtained locally from salvage material or from any lumber company the individual wishes to trade with.

Everyone in Lamb County is urged to do his part to protect his family's health and that of his

L. A. Ratliff, Collector for the Littlefield Cemetery Association, advised the Leader Wednesday that they were being obliged to haul water to keep the trees in the Cemetery alive, and do other work in the care of the grounds, and that funds were needed badly to take care of this. He urges all those who can make payments on their lots, and especially asks those who are getting cotton checks to please see him and make a payment, to assist in the caring for the grounds.

Snooping and Shopping

"Say, Mister, have you seen 'Boys Town', that stupendous picture that is showing at the PALACE THEATRE Saturday night, Sunday and Monday." That is a question some fathers will be asking other fathers this week end, when they know that the picture is more than a drama, it is a page of life... the life of today. And there could be no other character in moviedom that can play the part as Mickey Rooney can. He's the favorite of the day, and starred with Spencer Tracy, makes the picture the kind that gives prestige, to the lives of the millions of boys who are on our streets today. Margie suggests that you and you and you see this human, down-to-earth, stark, vital drama.

"Curls" have been going up for several months in modern coiffures, but Mrs. C. E. Payne hadn't been wearing quite so many curls until her recent visit to Dallas, when she felt out-of-style with no curls on the top of her head. The result was that the day after arriving home, up went the curls at a local beauty shop.

In Germany, instead of the usual "Good Morning", it is "Hail Hitler".

"Striking" might describe the new wall paper that I saw Tuesday morning. The wall paper manufacturing companies now have the smartest colors that are so reasonably priced, that a few years ago would have cost forty or fifty dollars to paper a five room house. The colors are all new, too, brought from the Paris exposition, and they are not pastel, but are light colors that are blended perfectly.

I'm not in the "Dog House" about that marriage I predicted last week, because there have been exactly five people who have told me that instead of just one of the nurses at the Littlefield hospital, there will be about seven of them. And—to make this prediction true, they have called different ones in town, when they couldn't find me, to learn which one of them I had referred to, in this column last week.

Fast SERVICE Fall is in the air and cotton picking is just around the corner. Are you ready for these busy days to come? The HOUSTON SERVICE STATION has some "Fall Terms" on tires and batteries and Mr. Houston is in a position to help solve your problem of needing new tires and a new battery for your car, that will bring a trailer with your cotton to town. Margie has been convinced that now is the time to buy new Brunswick tires, and the cost is very low. How about stopping at Houston's Station and letting him explain the easy terms that are being offered.

Some of the tall and sturdy trees that have been around the high school building, are being cut down, and more trees will be planted in February. Trees are like teachers, in reference to the school. Instead of resigning like the teachers though, they die, and have to be replaced with new ones.

Don't run from cold! Prevent them! This is the worst of the year when colds clogged throats and red noses can make life miserable for you. What's more—these early Fall colds often break into much more serious ailments. STOKES' DE LUXE STORE suggests that you tackle a cold before it gets serious, and offers the best remedies and preventives. School children are likely to have colds sooner than any one, and Mr. Stokes is ready to tell you about the marvelous treatment. Believe me, I'm running right to Stokes for a preventative.

Tahoka had ginned 80 cotton Saturday morning, were through there just as came up. Much building is on in the city, and excellent crops are to be observed. However, Lynn county will make an average crop this year, compared with "three crops in a year" last year, when 153,000 bales of cotton were ginned in the county.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

EIGHTEENTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Soledad. Both men are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train, which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff tells Dave he is not wanted. Quinn defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Suddenly a shot from the darkness topples Dave from his horse. Rosy fires and kills the unknown assailant and they rush to the ranch to treat Dave's severe scalp wound. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands—a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to deliver a corpse to the sheriff and see the town banker. Identity of corpse reveals him to be ex-employee of Hammond's. Dave, Rosy and the sheriff immediately confront Hammond with facts. Fight between Hammond and Dave prevented by sheriff. Dave plans to raise alfalfa on his land and use money to pay off mortgage. Someone blew up the lake. Hammond thought it was Dave and the latter suspected Hammond or his men. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions. Rosy rushes to Winters' home to tell Mary of his suspicions about her husband and asks her help to prove his findings. Laredo evolves a scheme to arrest Crowell as a murder suspect in order to hold him for questioning. By a clever ruse, Dave escapes his captors and then frees Dorsey who was held prisoner for ransom.

A voice from the circle of men addressed Laredo and he recognized it as that of Peterson, one of the nesters. "Do you mean Rourke, over on the D Bar T, Laredo?" "That's who I mean," Laredo said softly. "Why, you—" Peterson began. "Cut it, Peterson," Laredo said sharply. "He's mine." The killer's eyes slid wildly over the line of hostile faces as he cringed alone on the sidewalk. Then he streaked for his guns, terror written on his face. Laredo whipped a Colt that had been wedged at his back around his side in a tight, swift arc that lanced out its five shots in one 19-ling pencil of orange. The killer's knees buckled slowly and he pitched forward on his face. Laredo spat noisily and looked around the crowd, his gun trailing a wisp of acrid smoke up into the night. "Any one else want to buy in on this fight?" "Ain't nobody but me goin' to buy in on it," a flat, uncompromising voice announced. Through the circle the sheriff shoved his way. He looked at the figure sprawled in a pool of blood on the sidewalk. "Anybody know him?" he asked instead. "Name's 'Chink' somethin'," a man in the crowd said. "Rode for Sayres."

The sheriff nodded. "A couple you men take him across to Murphy's." The hardware store was also the undertaking parlor. Two men volunteered. The sheriff turned to Laredo. "Come on over to the office, I got to talk to you." Peterson, the nester, and Chuck fell in behind Laredo and the sheriff. They went over to the sheriff's office. Inside, they found the lamp lit. Rosy and Dave were seated watching the door. "Well, I'll be damned!" the sheriff said. He glared at Rosy and started to speak. "Save it," Rosy drawled, and grinned. "You better start talkin'," the sheriff said ominously. "I got Crowell in jail and I ain't said why we really want him. Now you tell me."

Briefly and bluntly Rosy told them what he had overheard Crowell say to Winters at the D Bar T. Dave had heard it all on the way to town. Then Dave told them about his capture by Sayres and what he had heard Sayres say about the boss. He finished with the fight with the outlaws and his escape with Dorsey Hammond. Laredo explained his killing of Chinch and the reasons.

"What I can't figure out in the whole thing," Rosy said, presently, "is what it's all about. Why do they want the ranch and the mine?" "I reckon I can tell you," Laredo said. "You tell 'em, Chuck."

"Gold," Chuck said. "Plenty." And then Laredo told him of his discovery of Winters working the gold, and how he had brought Chuck up to make positive. "You mean," Dave said slowly, when Laredo had finished, "that Ted Winters was tryin' to get the place out from under his own wife?"

"It looks that way," Laredo said softly. "There's just one thing left to do, now," Rosy announced quietly. "We got to turn Crowell loose and let him lead us to the boss."

Rosy gave instructions. Laredo was to go warn Hammond to act as if he were ignorant of the man behind his daughter's kidnaping when and if Crowell came to try and buy the mine. Then Laredo was to go back to the hotel, and keep a check on Crowell if he went there. Rosy gave Peterson a minute description of Crowell, then gave the nester some money with the injunction to watch the station and if Crowell boarded the night train to follow him and wire back for help. The sheriff was to go let Crowell out of jail with apologies. Dave and Rosy were going to follow Crowell and not let him out of their sight.

and abode brick. Across from it on the top bar of a corral, Dave and Rosy lounged. In silence they were watching the dimly lighted rectangle which was the jail door. When the sheriff's fat figure appeared in the doorway, followed by a small and slim one, they crossed the street and fell in behind the sheriff some thirty yards away. The night was inky. "But man," they heard the sheriff say, "give us a chance. You looked like Henry. The only way we could prove it was to wire El Paso and that's what we done. They said Henry was caught and already hung."

"If I ever see that little runt again that brought me over to your office, I'll break his neck for him," Crowell stormed. "I wouldn't," the sheriff advised quietly.

Crowell crossed to the Mile High corner and disappeared. Rosy and Dave saw him enter the hotel. In three minutes, he was on the street again, where he cut across and headed down the side street. Rosy and Dave saw his shadowy figure turn into Dr. Fullerton's.

Crowell's visit to Hammond was short. When he came out of the doctor's house he walked swiftly toward the hotel. He came out of the hotel, a piece of luggage in his hand. Rosy whistled softly so they drew back in the shadows. "So that was his hurry? Only ten minutes to catch a train."

Rosy led the way around the rear of the short train. On the other side of the tracks, they kept in shadow again, and walked a few hundred feet past the panting engine until they came to the stock pens. Rosy faded away in the shadow. When the engine bell started to clang, he was again squatting with Dave. Slowly the train lumbered out of the station, pulled abreast of them and passed them.

Then Rosy chuckled and settled back on his heels. Something hit the cinders ahead of them and slid harshly a distance. It was a piece of luggage. Then the dark figure of a man could be seen as he swung down from the car. They listened and soon heard the footsteps behind them to the rear of the pen. Rosy edged his head around the corner and saw it was Crowell.

Using piles of ties, tools sheds and a horse trough as shelter, Crowell swung wide of the station, walked beyond it a way, then crossed the tracks into the alley which ran behind the buildings of the main street. In the alley, with the dim light of the town at the upper end, they followed him easily. Suddenly Crowell swerved out of the alley, climbed over a small, neat hedge, moved around to the front of a house, mounted the one step of its low porch and knocked on the door. Evidently a voice bid him enter, for he disappeared. Dave's amazed eyes sought Rosy's in the dark. "Know it?" Rosy asked. "God, yes!" Dave said huskily.

"That's Pearson's!" "Here's the dehornin'," Rosy muttered. "Come on." They vaulted the hedge and stepped on to the porch cautiously. Testing the door, Rosy found it unlocked. He drew a gun, as did Dave, and swung against the door. It opened readily, letting them into a low-ceiled, half-darkened room. Sprawled in an easy chair on the other side of the wide fireplace, at the far end of the room, sat Quinn. One of his guns pointed at the door. The other pointed at the two men, Pearson and Crowell, seated together on a davenport. Both men were holding their hands over their heads. "Quinn!" Rosy exploded. "Howdy," Quinn drawled. "Pearson seems to think I shouldn't have come here tonight."

Rosy was the first to find himself and he chuckled. "Reckon he'd like to tell Buck Hammond that?" "I don't intend to tell Buck Hammond anything!" Pearson snapped. His face was stern and unyielding. Quinn drew a pair of handcuffs from his pocket and handed them to Rosy. Pearson and Crowell, protesting, were handcuffed together. "Reckon you and Quinn can them over to Doc Fullerton's," asked Dave. "I'm goin' to see the sheriff. We'll make this legal, how?" It was a grim and silent that collected on the sun-Dr. Fullerton's at Rosy's. He had gone to the hotel to Mary, and had been told by clerk that Winters was found in a hotel room. The clerk formed the sheriff, who immediately started a search for Quinn. "Did you tell Mrs. W.?" Rosy asked swiftly. "Sure. He's her husband, he?" Rosy had no desire to see

Region Twelve Of Farm Security Makes Record

Savings to farmers in Region Twelve of the Farm Security Ad- ministration through its Farm Debt Adjustment service amounted to $1,736,826 during the last fiscal year, according to a report received recently by T. Euel Liner, rural rehabilitation supervisor, from L. H. Hauter, regional director of this federal agency in Amarillo, Tex- as.

The Farm Debt Adjustment ser- vice, preventing eviction of farmers from their homes and in adjusting burdensome debts of clients of this agency as well as non-clients, reached approximately 2,000 farmers between July 1, 1937 and June 30, 1938, the report shows. Moreover, the report shows this service liq- uidated many thousands of dollars of frozen assets of the creditors.

Taxes paid as a result of debt adjustments totalled $23,353.

In a letter to William Klein, section chief, Regional Director L. H. Hauter said: "I have been much interested in looking over your an- nual report and noting the accom- plishments in FDR work in Region Twelve. I was especially interested to note that in spite of some re- duction in our FDA personnel dur- ing the past year, there was very little reduction in accomplishments as compared to the preceding year. I feel that this is a credit not only to your own immediate staff, but also a credit to the county and dis- trict rehabilitation supervisors and county committeemen, all of whom have cooperated to make this pro- gram possible.

"The continued amount of FDA work that is being done in Region Twelve," the letter continues, "in- dicates the need for this kind of service. It is the first step in the rehabilitation of many of our clients. I feel that before accepting any new cases as rehabilitation clients, careful consideration should be given to their need in re- gard to farm debt adjustment. It is gratifying to note, however, that this service is not confined to our own clients, but that much help has also been given to farmers who have not received rural rehabili- tation loans.

The Farm Debt Adjustment com- mittee serving Lamb county, which serves without pay, is composed of Jess C. Eira, Dr. Ira E. Woods, and Clyde Robertson.

They visited the Lincoln Shrine in Springfield, Illinois, and stayed two days and nights in Chicago, where they attended a banquet in honor of Mr. Howes, first assistant Postmaster General, which was held at the Sherman Hotel.

All of the Postoffice Department from Washington, D. C., was re- presented, and the convention was declared one of the largest ever held. The highlight of the meet- ing was the banquet in the huge auditorium that will seat 10,000 people, and James A. Farley, United States Postmaster General, addressed more than 7,000 people. The group from Littlefield es- pecially enjoyed the State of 16,000 lakes. They returned via Hillsdale, Oklahoma, where Mr. Storey taught his first school. They arrived home Monday afternoon.

BRIDAL TEA AND SHOWER GIVEN AT BOONE HOME HONORING MRS. FULLBRIGHT

One of the outstanding parties of the past week was the bridal tea and shower given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Boone Monday afternoon from 5:30 to 7 o'clock, complimenting Mrs. T. F. Fullbright.

Mrs. W. J. Aldridge, Mrs. Viggo Peterson, Mrs. Cini Griffin, Mrs. R. T. Badger and Mrs. Boone were hostesses of the occasion.

Mrs. R. T. Badger greeted the guests at the door and presided over the bride's book.

Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Earl Hobbs, Mrs. Frank Allison, Mrs. L. C. Strawn, and Miss Naomi Whitaker.

The color scheme of pink and green was featured throughout the party.

The tea table was laid with lace cloth over green satin, with centerpiece of pink asters and green foliage arranged in crystal bowl, and pink tapers in crystal holders placed at either end.

Favors were fortune telling novelties.

The program included two selections on the accordion by Mrs. Roy Wade, reading by Mrs. Chester Hufstader, several love songs by Misses Fieta Eagan and Laura Virginia Bills, and reading by Miss Sue Brannen.

A beautiful array of gifts were presented to the honoree during the singing.

SMART AFTERNOON FROCKS

Pattern 8198—Because the bolero has a shortening, widening effect, it's an ideal style for girls of the teen ages and just under. Because, there's something about it that expresses the very spirit of youth and gaiety.

The skirt, with an action pleat in front, flares just a little. The blouse in shirtwaist style, with puff sleeves, is very youthful and becoming.

Pattern 8198 is designed for sizes: 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 12 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. Bolero alone, 3/4 yard. Dress alone, with long sleeves, 2 3/4 yards; with short sleeve 2 1/2 yards. Collar and cuffs in contrast require 1/2 yard.

Pattern 8279—Wear the dressier version of the popular dirndl when you want to look particularly appealing! The square neckline has a slightly irregular cut that makes it more becoming. The corsette effect in front gives you a tiny, tiny waist, and the skirt flares and ripples with characteristic dirndl generosity!

Choose dotted Swiss, organdy, dimity or old-fashioned mull, and trim it with black velvet ribbon, if you plan to wear it for afternoons. If you want a sturdier version, calico, percale and gingham are best.

Pattern 8279 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material; 10 yards of ribbon or braid to trim.

(Enclose this coupon-box with your pattern order.)

Form with fields for Paper, Town, State, and a coupon for 15 cents in coin for each pattern desired, along with name, address, pattern number and size.

tice Tuesday afternoon. Songs and yells for the convention were planned and practiced. The exact date for the convention has not been determined but will be about the 16th of November. All members are requested to be present for the next meeting of the grove. A large class of candidates are to be initiated. and banquet was given by the Sudan Grove there. Mesdames Gertrude Goolsby, Marie Beisel, Ruby Blitt, and Adkins attended the meeting. Cactus Grove at Sudan last night. Mrs. Beisel invited Grove to Littlefield to initiate new candidates into the Lindbloom Grove here at meeting.

Vote On School

35 names has been placed on the ballot for the school district tax payer election today. The project number approved and the grant for the purchase of a new grade school building costing $80,998.60.

At a mass meeting of the Sudan school district tax payers recently, the need of a new grade school building was stressed by P. E. Boesen, president of the board, W. D. Biggers, superintendent, and several other citizens.

Increased enrollment in the grade school has brought about a very crowded condition. Poor lighting, bad ventilation, poor heating system and condition of the walls and foundations which are giving away were stressed in showing the need of the new building.

The election will be held in the school building with Clyde Robertson acting as election judge and Melvin Robertson and R. E. Thomas, clerks.

Every citizen who has taxable property rendered for taxation in the Sudan School District is eligible to vote.

Florence Meekma of Olton, sophomore journalism student, enrolls at Texas Technological College this fall on the Mrs. J. T. Farmers Should Treat Seed To Prevent Smut

Texas farmers can raise better quality wheat and other small grains and produce more bushels to the acre if they treat their seed to prevent losses from smut, according to E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

Smut not only reduces yields, sometimes as much as a fourth of the crop, but also damages the grain for milling and feeding purposes. As a result of a seed treating campaign conducted by county agricultural agents in 1937, the value of the practice was clearly demonstrated by many farmers.

All smuts of wheat, barley, and oats, except loose smut of wheat and brown loose smut of barley, may now be treated with one poison, ethyl mercury phosphate, known to the trade as "new improved cerasan," in dust form.

This treatment is now recommended by Miller in preference to copper carbonate for wheat or for maldehyde for barley and oats. The dust treatment is inexpensive — 2½ cents a bushel or less—and its efficiency is assured.

"No grower of wheat, barley, or oats should hesitate to treat all of his seed each year," Miller stated. "Tests by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have shown that the return is many times the cost of the treatment, and these tests have been borne out by the experience of farmers in every section of the state."

Brothers Meet For First Time In Thirty-Seven Years

J. W. Crider of Abilene, half brother of J. I. Carrell, who had not seen his brother for 37 years, is now a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carrell.

The last time they met was when they all lived in Commanche county, at Proctor.

Mr. Carrell had made three previous attempts to visit his brother, but failed. Once he went to Corpus Christi; and twice previously he had gone to Abilene, but missed seeing him.

"This time," according to Mrs. Carrell, her husband went to Abilene and brought his brother home with him."

now, so he had sent a note up to her room with the clerk, asking her to come to Hammond's. Then he picked up Laredo, Chuck and the sheriff, and they went back to Hammond's.

Mary was there ahead of them. Dave's face was strangely calm. Pearson and Crowell were sitting side by side on an empty bed. Dorsey was sitting on the far side of Hammond's bed.

Quinn was seated in the corner near the door. Hank eyed him suspiciously and Quinn changed his seat, as mile of inner amusement on his face.

The sheriff started in without preliminaries. "Pearson, we've got all the goods on you," he announced.

"I haven't any idea what you're talking about," Pearson replied. "Wait a minute," Rosy put in. He lounged off one of the beds and sat on the foot of Hammond's across from Pearson and Crowell. Rosy built a cigarette, lighted it, and inhaled deeply.

"Matter of fact, Pearson," he drawled at last, "we haven't got a thing on you."

"Then let me go," Pearson said coldly.

"What connection have you got with Crowell?" Rosy asked mildly. "Banking business," Pearson said. "The kind that would make Crowell get a train in front of five or six men to make it look like he was leavin' town and then jump off as soon as he was out of the station?"

Pearson was unruffled. "What Mr. Crowell does is no business of mine. We had an engagement tonight. He kept it. That's all I know. That's all I know." His voice rose. "I insist that you free me!"

Rosy laughed. "What makes you think we have to?"

"Because I'm innocent of any crime. The law requires it!"

Rosy leaned forward a little, his face unsmiling. "Forget you have any right under the law, Pearson. You see," Rosy continued softly, "he knows you're behind this bushwhackin' and dynamitin' and stealin' the same as we do. Only he don't have what they call the 'judicial temperament.' Maybe you've wondered what's happened to Sayres."

Neither of them answered, but after a kick Elms caught the ball on the 38 yard line and returned it to the 49. Connell then took a gallop around end for 15 yards.

No farther than 15 yards did the Wildcats travel in the next play, then they were penalized for backfield in motion, and after Connell took the ball on another gallop, they were penalized for being off side.

The locals took a sky barrage that gave them 10 yards, and Elms again alarmed the visitors with another touchdown, making the score 19 to 0, after the Chiefs blocked the kick.

The Chiefs los ta good man on the next kickoff, when he suffered a wrenched knee. They then hurled a snappy bullet pass, only to lose the ball.

After the half, Littlefield kicked to the 40 yard line and the Chiefs brought the ball to the 35 yard line, where they failed to gain any yardage, and after kicking to the 15, Littlefield took the ball for a ten yard gain. The Wildcats fumbled and the Chiefs recovered on Littlefield's 25 yard line. Crosbyton then circled for a touchdown, and kicked the goal, making the score 19 to 7.

The second stringers were put in the game by Coach Sanders and they couldn't complete a pass, either, so they kicked to the 36 yard line, when they shuffled Crosbyton with a staggering upset that caused the Chiefs to make a bad fumble in the next play.

That roving Elms again took the ball on a long end run and picked up two yards, and after another incomplete aerial attack, Littlefield kicked the ball across the goal line. But those Chiefs were ready to grab the pigskin on their own 20 yard line, and kick to the 40.

Soon after a pass exchange with strong interception, Elms again dashed down the field, but the locals received a penalty of 15 yards for being off side.

One of the few complete passes to McKnight and an end run by Walraven gave the Wildcats the last touchdown, but failed on the extra point.

After several rough and tumble plays, Crosbyton took the ball down to the Littlefield 30 yard line.

Then, after an aerial attack, Crosbyton threw a ten yard pass, then threw another snappy bullet for a touchdown, but they failed for the extra point.

Littlefield took the ball to their own 25 yard line and returned it to the 30 after the kickoff, but they only picked up two yards before the final whistle blew, and the game ended with a score of 25 to 13.

The Littlefield Wildcats will play the Wink eleven Friday night at Wink.

The Littlefield Junior High school boys will play Plainview Junior High school Thursday at 7:45 on the Seeley Field. Mr. Pentecost, the Littlefield coach, expects a good game and desires your support in the coming game. The admission will be 10 cents and 20 cents.

The Littlefield team played Amherst Thursday with a score of 0-0.

Great interest is being shown in football this season, with about 35 Junior High School boys participating.
