Littlefield Plans Big Celebration, Aug. 26-27; & Rodeo Features

Citizens of Littlefield are planning a big celebration to be held here, Friday and Saturday, August 26 and 27. The event will comprise a western rodeo, carnival attractions, horse races and basket picnic. Baseball games have been arranged for each day, and a purse of $200 is being offered in prizes to the winners of various events.

On the program there will be bronco riding, steering, wild mule race, goat roping, wild cow milking, roping, a slow Ford race and other auto races. Also, there will be a "Nigger" fight.

Five thousand circulars were printed this week and are being distributed for many miles around in invitation to people from other towns and from neighboring counties to be the guests of Littlefield on this occasion.

Ed Anderson is manager of the rodeo, J. W. Horn has charge of the races, and Alex Reeves will look after the concessions.

MORE THAN 1,000 MAIL ORDER CATALOGUES RECEIVED AT LITTLEFIELD P. O. LAST WEEK

Twenty mail sacks containing catalogues from Sears, Roebuck & Co., of Chicago, and from Montgomery Ward, of Fort Worth, were received at the Littlefield post office last week and Saturday.

Each sack averaged containing 23 catalogues, weighing about 4,600 pounds.

Some sacks of these same catalogues passed through here for Morton, while two more sacks were destined for Bula post office, a few miles west of Littlefield.

It has been estimated by a local citizen that these catalogues, with their multi-colored, profuse illustrations, well-worded descriptive matter and attractive prices will draw from Littlefield and surrounding territory between $30,000 and $40,000 worth of business.

THRUSTON STORE AT OLTON ROBBED HICKS ARRESTED

The Thruston drug store, at Olton, was broken into last Friday night. A cash drawer rifled and a quantity of cigarettes, one watch, some safety razors and fountain pens taken. J. Hicks, 16 years of age, was arrested in connection with the robbery.

The arrest was made Saturday night at 11:00 o'clock, by Sheriff Irvin and Deputy Walraven. Hicks was taken to the county house, and, after being questioned concerning the affair, released, according to Irvin, leading him to his home in Olton, taking with him the money and goods stolen at the drug store next morning when the proprietor opened for the day's business. Entrance to the store had been made through a rear door.

Hicks was placed in the county jail on a $100 bond.

The subject of the Presbyterian Endeavor for next Sunday is "The Animals." Ray is leader. The Scripture lesson taken from Psalm 125 and 12. All children of the junior are invited to attend.

NEGRO MISSIONARIES HERE

Rev. John George, wife and daughter, Maude, natives of Africa, were in Littlefield, Sunday, and spoke at the Baptist church.

They worked their way to the United States to obtain an education and learn the English language, that they might be able to study the Bible, and thus go back to Africa and preach to their kindred.

While in Africa they adopted a young native girl, and have since taught her to read, write and sing.

Each one told something of their life in Africa and of the customs of the natives. They had with them an African Ju-Ju, and one of the original costumes worn by the natives.

FIRE IN TAILOR SHOP

The Henry & Courtney tailor shop was slightly damaged Wednesday night of last week, the fire starting from an over-heated iron, and at a time when no one was in the shop. It was extinguished before much damage was done to the building.

About $100 worth of clothing, in the shop at the time of the blaze, was damaged.

MRS. REVIER PRESENTS CONCRETE FACTS PROVING VALUE OF CO-OPERATION OF CALIF. FARMERS AND FRUIT GROWERS

BY MRS. F. F. REVIER
Lamb County Representative on Women's Farm Bureau Special Trip

Does co-operative marketing in California and other states pay in dollars and cents? What is the motive back of the great co-operative marketing movement now attacking the United States? Why are the thinking class of farmers becoming more and more dissatisfied with the old dumping system of marketing their products? They cannot help comparing the financial returns other industries are receiving with the financial returns of the farmer. What resource has our part of the state other than agricultural resource? None. Then how can we hope for success unless we bring at least a reasonable per cent of the money our products sell for back to our county? How can we do this?

We, as farmers, have got to give the world a product they want, of the quality they want, and in the quantity they want, if we are going to get the price we want. We saw people actually doing that very thing in four different states, and making a success of it. They didn't do it a individuals; they did it through organization and co-operation.

Colorado is one of the young states in co-operative marketing. The Potato Growers Association has been in operation only four years, and yet they handle 42 per cent of all the potatoes of Colorado, $20,000,000 worth of potatoes having been sold through the organization in that length of time.

The Pinto Bean Growers Association is less than two years old, and yet they have made great strides in creating a demand for their product by introducing recipes for preparing beans in many different ways. They have also invented a grading machine for producing quality products.

The individual who produces and markets his product must sell to whoever will buy at whatever price is offered. But through organization, a market can be sought, the product placed there at the time needed and in the quantity needed.

Mr. Edmondson, of the Utah State Poultry Association, told us that the first thing that association did after it organized was to send a representative to find a market and learn the quality of product required. New York and Los Angeles were the markets found, and today they are receiving from two to five cents per dozen more for their eggs because of the quality and standardization, than the people of New York and Los Angeles are receiving. On July 13, the producers of poultry and eggs in the Utah State Poultry and Egg Association were receiving 30 cent per dozen for grade "A" eggs and 50 cents each for fryers. They also receive a bonus every six months, $27,000 bonus being turned back to producers in June.

California, not only teaches that co-operative marketing pays the producer in dollars and cents, but it actually demonstrates it. Dr. Keene, of the Agricultural Department of the California A. & M. College at Sacramento, said: "Without co-operative marketing in California, there would be no agriculture."

Ninety-four per cent of all the almonds of the United States are grown in California. 85 per cent of these almonds are marketed through the Almond Growers Association at an average price of 28 cents per pound, according to E. J. Nutter, president of the Almond Growers Association.

What are you receiving per pound for butter fat? At Petatuma, California, we were told that the average advance price for a year was 44 cents per pound with an additional dividend every six months. We could plainly see that money was being returned to these farmers for their products.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, we heard the following report from the committee on finance: Bank deposits show $54,750,000 for this year up to present time. Deposit for June $11,500,000.

We were invariably told that agricultural success in California is due to a combination of the following: Organization, standardization, and co-operative distribution, with a religious loyalty on the part of the growers to all three phases of agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Whicker left Tuesday morning for their old home in LaFayette, Indiana. They expect to be away about a month, visiting old friends and relations in the middle states.

FIGLEY-DAVIS

R. A. Davis, bookkeeper for Wm. Cameron lumber company in Littlefield, was married August 7th, to Miss Gertrude Figley, at the home of the bride's parents, in Hastings, Okla.

The young couple returned last week to Littlefield, and are making their home in one of the Gardner apartments.

ELECTRIC DISPLAY COMES WITH RAIN FALL SUNDAY NITE

Littlefield and surrounding territory was the recipient of another heavy rainfall Sunday afternoon and night, when Jupiter Pluvius visited this section with a vengeance.

The rain reached as far southeast as Shallowater, and west to the New Mexico line, extending north into the sand hills, about 20 miles from Littlefield, and south about 12 or 14 miles, with a rainfall of about one-half inch.

Considerable electrical display accompanied the downpour. A fuse was blown from the high line out of Lubbock, and several transformer fuses in Littlefield were blown out, leaving a large section of the town in darkness for the remaining portion of the night.

The State Telephone Co., reported nearly 50 telephones with fuses blown Sunday night.

Out in the country farmers report much pyrotechnical display of electricity, such as lightning playing along the ground, running in vivid flame along the wire of the fences, jumping across canyons, and leaping helter-skelter style across the prairies. Clint Griffin, living north of town, found a spot about 15 feet in diameter in his cotton field where all the growing plants had been killed from a stroke of lightning. Citizens in town reported blue and red lights playing across soves, running down plumbing pipes, and some experienced slight tingling sensations. Some of the old timers declared it was the greatest electrical display witnessed in this section for many years past, though no serious damage to life or property has been reported.

John, the "Pope of Happy," is in Littlefield this week looking after business interests and shaking hands with old friends. John says Littlefield looks pretty good to him, and he said it is in away that makes one think that he might be planning on moving back here.

HOCKLEY COUNTY COURT HOUSE TO COST $128,569.00

Contract for the construction of the new Hockley county court house, at Levelland, was let last week to the Clickner Construction Co., of Hutchinson, Kansas, the price being $128,569.00.

A separate contract for plumbing work and fixtures was awarded to M. C. Nevels, of Lubbock.

The new building is to be of fire proof construction throughout, the floors and wainscoting to be of marble. The exterior is to be of stone to the windows of the second story, and from that point upward, the walls will be of brick.

Work of construction will begin as soon as materials can be assembled, and it is expected will be finished in 175 working days, or by April 1, 1928.

GOOD REVIVALS HELD BY REV. ED THARP AT 3 POINTS

Rev. Ed Tharp, pastor of the Littlefield Methodist church, returned Sunday night from near Shallowater, where he closed a very successful revival meeting. During the past three weeks Rev. Tharp has held three very successful meetings, each of a week's duration.

The first meeting held for Rev. G. R. Fort, pastor, was at Woodrow, 11 miles south of Lubbock, resulted in 17 conversions, 14 of whom joined the Methodist church at that place.

The second meeting held for the same pastor, was at New Hope, eight miles southeast of Lubbock. There were 14 conversions, 12 of whom joined the Methodist church at that place.

The last meeting was held for Rev. D. Vannett, at Harvey, four miles north of Shallowater, there being 17 conversions, 13 of whom united with the Methodist church at that place.

This week Rev. Tharp is holding a meeting at Fieldton, 15 miles northeast of Littlefield.

WEEKLY ROTARY MEETING

Dr. C. C. Clements had charge of the regular Rotary meeting last week, giving a classification talk on "Dentistry," much enjoyed by those present.

Mrs. Frances Tolbert was present as a guest, and gave several interesting readings.

Rev. Neal Dugger reported the Boy Scouts without a master, and steps were taken by the club toward securing a successor to B. B. Blair, who recently moved to Wichita, Kansas.

Prof. B. M. Harrison reported that teachers in the Littlefield schools were having difficulty in securing desirable board and lodging, and an S. O. S. was sent out for relief.

Rev. Dugger will have charge of the next meeting.

Don't be disappointed with mail order houses.

Making Indigestible Foods Digestible

An old-fashioned dinner, served not long ago by a new-fashioned hostess was acclaimed with delight and amazement.

"But I thought with present day dietetics we were to be denied all these rich things to eat!" exclaimed one of the guests.

"You can combine a knowledge of modern dietetics with old-fashioned food," replied the hostess and she proceeded to explain the digestibility of some of the seemingly indigestible foods. The secret lies in combining pineapple with heavier and less easily digested foods, since the pineapple, itself, is a powerful digestive.

Pineapple Dumplings made just as our grandmothers made apple dumplings by replacing the old-fashioned apple by the modern canned Hawaiian pineapple which contains an enzyme bromelain acts as a direct aid in the digestion of other foods—especially meats. They are made by mixing and sifting two cups of flour, four teaspoons sugar and one-half teaspoon salt. Cut in three tablespoons fat and add one-half to three-fourths cup milk, enough to make a stiff dough. Roll out on a floured board to one-fourth inch thickness and cut in four inch squares. On the center of each square place one well-drained slice of Hawaiian pineapple and one teaspoon sugar. Fold up the edges that have been moistened, press together well and place folded side down on a greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes and serve with a hot sauce made from the syrup drained from the pineapple.

Pineapple Coconut Meringue Pie is made by heating one and one-half cups milk, and mixing four tablespoons flour, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar and adding the hot milk. Cook in a double boiler for about twenty minutes or until mixture is thick and flour thoroughly cooked. Pour over two well-beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler and cook until eggs thicken, or about three minutes. Cool, add one cup well-drained crushed Hawaiian pineapple, one-half cup shredded coconut and one-half teaspoon vanilla and pour into baked pie crust. Add two tablespoons powdered sugar to two stiffly-beaten egg whites and spread on top. Sprinkle with coconut and brown quickly in a hot oven.

Pineapple Turnovers, another old-fashioned favorite are easily digestible when made thus: Roll pastry thin and cut into four inch squares. Thoroughly drain the sirup from one can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple. On the center of each square place a slice of the drained pineapple and one teaspoon of sugar and butter. Moisten the edges of the pastry and fold together in the form of triangles, pressing the edges firmly together. Fry until brown in deep hot fat, drain on brown paper, sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve immediately.

Pineapple Pancakes with Honey are more delicious as well as more digestible than other kinds.

Mix and sift two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt and four teaspoons baking powder. Add one beaten egg, mixed with one and one-fourth cups milk, one cup crushed Hawaiian pineapple and one tablespoon melted fat. Bake on a hot greased griddle and serve with honey instead of syrup.

Crisp Bacon with Pineapple Fritters is a delightful breakfast or luncheon dish. Fry bacon slices crisp and serve on a platter with pineapple fritters made as follows: Beat up an egg in a bowl, add one-half cup of flour, gradually and add one-half cup of milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt and a teaspoon of olive oil. Mix until smooth and glossy. Allow to stand in a cool place for an hour, then add a teaspoon of baking powder. Dip one slice of pineapple at a time, drop into smoking hot fat, fry for a few minutes, then drain and sift with sugar.

Baked Ham with Pineapple is a new version of the old Southern dish. Place six slices of Hawaiian pineapple in a buttered pudding dish. Cut three sweet potatoes lengthwise and cover pineapple. Add a third layer of three sliced apples topped with two ham slices. Pour over layers either pineapple juice or one-half cup of water, depending on sweetness desired. Cook in a slow oven in a covered dish for two hours, or until tender. Dredge the top with brown sugar, dot with bits of butter, and return to the hot oven or broiler for browning. Sprinkle with parsley before serving.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Tribulation worketh patience; and patience experience; and experience hope.—Romans 5:3-4.
Hope is brightest when it dwains from fear.—Sir Walter Scott.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES

During the past two weeks more than 1,000 catalogues from two of the leading mail order houses of the south were received and distributed at the Littlefield post office. Just how many thousands of dollars of business they will take away from Littlefield merchants is a question, but no doubt it will be considerable.

The skill and aggressiveness of these two mail order houses in going after business at the beginning of the fall season is commendable, and should be an example to local business concerns. Each of these catalogues weighed approximately four pounds, and represent a cost of several cents each. They will be found lying on the center table in many homes for the next six months, a silent but enticing invitation to purchase some of their goods.

There is only one way to combat the mail order business, and that is for local business men to show the same aggressiveness and offer equivalent values to their customers. No doubt they have them, but unless that fact is fully and persistently advertised the buying public is not aware of it.

"Goods well advertised are half sold," is an old slogan, and one well worthy of emulation by Littlefield business men. If advertising pays the big mail order houses it will also pay the local business concerns.

Every cloud has a silver lining, and even an old suit of clothes has its shiny side.

TOWN BANDS

We were surprised to read a few days ago, and we believe the average Littlefield citizen will be as much surprised as we were, that 12 states have laws permitting towns to levy small tax assessments on their citizens for the support of municipal bands. The states having such laws are Iowa, Michigan, Maryland, Illinois, Nebraska, Texas, Kansas, West Virginia, New Mexico, Montana, California and South Dakota.

The result is that many small towns that could not afford a band if they had to depend on popular subscriptions have good ones, ready to furnish music for all occasions.

It strikes us as being a pretty sensible law, for there is nothing that affords more genuine pleasure, and that serves to better advertise a community, than a good municipal band.

Can it be that these 12 states are away ahead of the others in recognizing the value of a band, or is it that the other 36 are waiting to see how the law works out before they decide to join in the procession?

The easiest way to make your wife as happy as you can get is to buy her exactly like the last one you bought her.

AN EARLY WINTER

Weather forecasters claim to see in the cool temperatures general throughout the United States the first week or so in August good indications that we are due for a short fall season. And of course a short fall season means an earlier winter. It couldn't be much earlier than last year, when a little fire in the house the latter part of September was not unusual in sections where stoves and furnaces had seldom before been resorted to until along in October.

The forecasters may or may not be right, but to be on the safe side Littlefield residents will take advantage of every fair day this month to prepare against the drop in temperature that is soon to come. The winter fuel can be stored away, roofs made ready for fall rains, and stoves, pipes and chimneys put in perfect order as a precaution against disastrous fires.

There's plenty to do, even though the forecasters may miss it, and the modern slogan, "Do It Now" seems to be very much in order.

Because a woman picks her husband's pockets is no sign she should pick his shirts and neckties.

THIS MAY HELP

All this talk about "disarmament" interests the average Littlefield man very little, but he is sure to be interested in a statement given out by Sen. Capper of Kansas to the effect that he will introduce a bill in the next session of congress providing means for "drafting" dollars as well as men in all future wars this country may engage in.

The capitalist who had to turn his money over to Uncle Sam, the same as we turn over our able-bodied boys, would then not be so enthusiastic for war. It would curb the jingoes and office chair patriots, for it would then be everybody's war. But best of all, it would turn over all industry to the president, and that would mean the end of war-profiteering.

It looks like the Kansas senator has hit on a mighty bit of peace legislation, and something that should be enacted into law without one dissenting voice. But will he put it over, is the question.

It isn't how you start a vacation that counts nowadays—it's how you finish up.

LITTLE LEADERS

The two most pitiful sights in Littlefield are offered by the man who is trying to quit smoking and the woman who is trying to keep young.

If you want to see a pessimist hunt up the Littlefield man who refuses to count his chickens until they begin laying eggs.

More Littlefield men would volunteer to help their wives with the dishes only for the danger of having their services accepted.

If a Littlefield mother had to wear the same clothes that her daughter feels all dressed up in, she would feel like she was preparing to take a bath.

We are not much of a believer in luck, but there are some fellows around Littlefield, who would light on their feet if they fell off of a skyscraper.

Our idea of a forward looking man is the Littlefield citizen who has already started to wonder if he can make his old overcoat last another winter.

There are all kinds of people in the world, including the Littlefield man who likes to see his wife tell how many proposals she had before she met him.

1,000,000th OF AN AIR

In 1920 the average population per square mile throughout the United States was 35.5 and that of Texas was 17.8. When Texas brings her population up to the average of the country she will have not less than 9,000,000.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

HUMAN FACTOR WEALTH OF NATION

People who pile up billion-dollar fortunes in the steel business, in banking in automobiles and otherwise are supposed to be the greatest adders to the wealth of the country.

Some years ago, however, John Ruskin wrote about "The Veins of Wealth" in an article in which he held that the true wealth of the nation consisted not in the yellow veins of gold running through the earth, but in the blue veins of human blood.

In other words men were worth more to a country than natural resources.

Had the Pilgrim fathers, who landed on the bleak shores of New England some years ago landed in Manila, the Philippines would by this time have been as prosperous as Massachusetts. Take all the Philippines and transfer them to New England and in their stead put New Englanders in the Philippine Islands, in a short time New England would be devastated and the Philippines prosperous.

It is men who make the country.

With this in view we consider Senora Esperidiona Chavez, 89 years of age, of Los Angeles, rocking the cradle of her one hundred and sixty-second direct descendant. She has nine daughters and two sons and they are all prolific.

Mrs. Chavez has therefore added to the country more wealth than that of John D. Rockefeller.

Property has to be cared for and property rights is to be expected, but the most inestimable treasure of the land is its human beings.

France is supposed to be decadent because the death rate piles up and the birth rate is decreasing. On the contrary it is faced by prolific Germany with a steadily increasing population.

The most important power in the earth is its out-populating power.

This, in the end, wins more battles than armies or battleships.

The health and vigor of a nation is a better defense to that nation than armies and equipment. No matter how many tools you have, it takes men to use them.

No matter how marvelous and complete is a locomotive, it is valueless without an expert engineer. No matter how good your airplane, you have to have a Lindbergh to make it a success.

In the end, it is always the human factor, and men do well to conserve life above all other things.

This Week's Poem

SONNY BOY

When his face is flushed and burning,
And his eyes are much too bright;
When he lies so very listless
All the joyousness gone, quite;
When his hat and ball are useless
And his "bike" stands there so still,
All the world has lost its sunshine,
For our Sonny-boy is ill.

How we tempt him with new playthings,
Long for him to romp and shout,
He can commandeer the household,
Scatter all his things about;
Dress up in his fancy costume,
Scalp us, with an Indian yell,
Anything is worth the trouble,
Just so Sonny-boy gets well!

—FRANCES LEE TOLBERT

The life and efficiency of an incandescent electric lamp are dependent very largely upon the absence of oxygen from the interior of the lamp. The efficiency with which this part of the manufacture is now conducted is so great that almost a complete vacuum is attained by methods used at the present time, so that the remaining air within the lamp is estimated to be only 1,000,000th of that of the outside atmosphere.

Editor Jess Mitchell this week received a letter of invitation from Hon. Thos. E. Hayden, asking that he accept a place on the reception committee for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is to be in Abilene, September 26, and that he also deliver an address at the banquet to be given to the honor of the famous world flyer.

The Leader is this week in receipt of a post card from Sam Romback, the local baker who, with his family, has been ruminating among the Rocky mountains for the past two months. Sam has finally got down to Long Beach, California, and had his picture taken. If the likeness is correct, according to the sample sent the Leader then Sam must have run onto a branch of the Fleischman yeast factory and swallowed about all of their daily output just before taking a plunge in the mighty Pacific. The card states, "I've swallowed the ocean," and one glimpse at the photo is readily convincing, as Sam's equator has a striking resemblance to the rotunda of the state capitol building at Austin.

When the Children Are Hungry

By CAROLINE B. KING,
 Culinary Expert and Lecturer on Domestic Science

WHETHER "school keeps" or not, children become hungry—frequently. Just as it is difficult to know what to put in their school boxes 250 days of the year, it is equally puzzling when they are at home all the time to provide whole some and nutritious little tidbits that will please them.

Not many mothers realize the nutritional value of Swiss cheese, which is very rich in proteins. The function of this food principle is to build body tissue and yield energy, all very essential to a growing child. Real Swiss cheese, being a highly concentrated food with an aromatic flavor, supplies these requisites appetizingly and conveniently. Here are a few suggestions for Switzerland tidbits that suit the school box, the luncheon table, or serve as an interim snack.

Junior High Sandwiches:
 Butter thin slices of graham bread and put together in sandwich fashion with a filling made by chopping one hard boiled egg and adding to it two tablespoonsful of chopped Swiss cheese. Season with salt and pepper, mix with mayonnaise and spread between the buttered slices of graham bread. A leaf of lettuce will further improve this tasty and wholesome sandwich. A few sweet pickles may be chopped with the egg and cheese mixture, or thin strips of sweet pickle may be placed on the filling.

Swiss Drop Cakes:
 Use any gingerbread recipe and bake in muffin tins. Put in enough batter to half fill the tins, then place a thin slice of genuine Swiss cheese on the batter and add enough batter to fill the muffin tins three-quarters full. Bake in a moderate oven.

Stuffed Eggs:
 Boil the required number of eggs twenty minutes. Then drop them into cold water. Halve the eggs lengthwise, and remove yolks. Mash these well, adding a little melted butter, salt and paprika. Then for each egg add a teaspoonful of grated Switzerland cheese and enough mayonnaise to moisten; add also a few sweet pickles which have been chopped very fine. Fill the eggs with the mixture and put the halves together. Roll in wax paper, twisting the ends tightly to hold the two halves together.

Brown Bread Sandwiches:
 Butter Boston brown bread on the loaf and cut in thin slices. Spread with finely chopped walnut meats, and on each lay a thin layer of Switzerland cheese. Put the bread together sandwich fashion. Honey may be substituted in place of the nuts, and makes a pleasing combination with Swiss cheese.

Individual Swiss Cheese Custards:
 Butter custard cups and fill layer fashion, with a thin slice of buttered bread, then a thin slice of real Swiss cheese until the cup is filled. To one cupful of milk add one beaten egg and pour over the bread and cheese filling. Place custard cups in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven.

By West Texas Chamber of Commerce

Eden—Highway No. 9 Association is now at work. Organization of the group was affected here August 4th, when representatives from Big Spring, San Angelo, Brady and Mason met in session at the call of interested citizens of this district.

Weinart—Cotton in this community is reported as good. There is but little complaint of worms, this coming from the sandy land district. A good rain is needed. Many farmers here are spending more time on poultry, turkeys, hogs, and better type milk cows.

Hamlin—Considerable improvement has been made in Hamlin property recently. A local filling station, tailor shop, and another business concern have been worked on, making them more modern and convenient. Three new residences are being erected in the southern part of town and other building is underway.

Panhandle—The name of "Panhandle Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture" has been adopted here due to the widening activities of the commercial organization. Roy Arnold has been re-elected secretary for another year, and new officers have been chosen. Fifteen new directors will look after agricultural interests of the section.

Midland—The Midland Chamber of Commerce is sending their secretary, Paul T. Vickers, to the national school for commercial secretaries which will be held at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, on August 22 and through September 3. The school will give its attendants opportunity to hear experiences of from 350 to 400 leading secretaries of the nation.

Wellington—President R. W. Haynie, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be initiated into the district convention work of the organization August 25 when he attends the Panhandle-North Plains regional gathering to be held here at that time. Following attendance at this first district meeting, he will attend the Hills Country convention at San Saba in September.

H. S. GOERTZ BURIED HERE

H. S. Goertz, farmer, living three miles west of Littlefield, died last Monday, August 8.

For sometime Mr. Goertz had been suffering from a carbuncle on his neck and last week blood poison set up and he passed away early Monday morning.

Mr. Goertz was well known here, moving to this place from Hilleboro, Kansas, about three years ago, and has since lived on his farm near town.

He was born October 12, 1870, at Marion Junction, North Dakota. His father was born and reared in Germany and his mother was of Russian descent.

Mr. Goertz is survived by his wife and six children.

The German services were held at the late residence of the deceased, the Mennonite preacher presiding, afterwards the body was brought to the Baptist church, where Rev. Ahlbrand Lutheran minister, had charge of the services.

Burial of remains was made in the local cemetery.

BIRTHDAYS CELEBRATED

"Backward, turn backward, oh time in your flight," seemed to have literally come true when some old friends met for the first time in 15 years, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McCaskill, Saturday evening.

Mrs. McCaskill's father, W. C. Cress and sister, Mrs. Lee Choate, of Sweetwater, each have their birthdays on the 13th of August. This event is usually celebrated each year, and they were invited to Littlefield for this time. And it was that Saturday saw Mr. Cress reach his three score and ten years, yet strong and healthy, as he was 20 years ago.

At noon Saturday they were honored at a luncheon served at one o'clock, and were recipients of many nice remembrances.

In the evening the guest came, friends they had known long ago, who had moved away and settled around Littlefield. A picnic lunch was served on the lawn, and music, laughter, reminiscences, and a little sadness for the times that are gone were mingled throughout the evening. As a late hour farewells were reluctantly said.

Those enjoying the houseparty were: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cress, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Choate, Mrs. Jack Adams, and son, Harry L. Cress, and Texie Mae Butler, Sweetwater.

Those calling Saturday evening included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spires, Davis Clark, Addie Bell and George Spires, Mrs. R. D. McBurnett and children, Mrs. R. C. White, and Mr. and Mrs. Alec Huffman, and son, Harry, of Smackover, Arkansas.

MRS. BRITAIN ENTERTAINS

VALUE OF THE FARMER'S TIME

There are probably few people who have not, at some time, heard the argument advanced that farm products ought to be sold cheap because they cost the farmer little but time and a farmer's time doesn't amount to much. There are even farmers who argue that they can get along with out-of-date methods or poor equipment because it merely takes more time and their time is of little value. Very often this sort of specious reasoning is particularly useful in forestalling the expenditure of money for labor-saving devices in the farm home conveniences that would save the housewife innumerable steps and hours of time to say nothing of the physical energy and health consumed in doing these things in the most laborious way.

What good reason could possibly be advanced in support of the idea that a farmer's time is any different from any other business man.

In view of the fact that the farmer's day begins at five in the morning and does not close until nine or later at night, and that an industrial worker who observes such hours is an all but extinct species, it would seem that greater value should attach to the long and toilsome day on the farm. Since it is the farmer who feeds the Nation, certainly his work is just as important as that of any other man—if not more so. Why then should it be so poorly rated?

There was a time when workers in industry were compelled to put in from twelve to fourteen hours as a day's work and they received for it less than they get now for the shorter time but the manufacturers have lost no money because they have increased the efficiency of their plants. The necessity of paying wages was an incentive to deeper study of ways and means of eliminating waste and increasing the productive power of the employees, thus the total output was not greatly curtailed even though there was a considerable reduction in the working hours.

But conditions are different on the farm. When the farmer bought a self-binder to replace the old cradle, he discovered that he saved enough time to enable him to harvest twice as much grain—and he immediately planted twice as many acres. The combine has made it possible for him to still further reduce the harvest hazards of time and labor supply and he has availed himself of the opportunity but by doing so, he has piled up surplus of his products that threaten him with destruction. So long as available supply, rather than cost of production, controls the price of farm crops, so long will the farmer who continues to increase his acreage, because he finds that improved machinery gives him more time, be a handicap to agriculture.

Farmers themselves frequently say that they have so much work to do that they do not have time to read or to take part in the community activities or to indulge in a vacation and at the same time they will state that they are losing money on their crops. Is it not possible that if a farmer put a greater value on his own time, he would find ways in which it might be used to better advantage than in producing extra bushels of staple crops to feed a glutted market.

Too many farmers are prone to think of time spent in anything but productive labor as wasted and then, in figuring their year's earnings, they do not count the cost of the seed grain because they had grown it themselves; they do not count that depreciation of their land or implements because the fields were there and are still there and they still have their plows and discs and combines; they do not count their time or that of their family because "all they have is time." They take into consideration only the actual cash expended in putting in, cultivating and harvesting the crop. Certainly it would seem that farming can never become a profitable business so long as the farmer fails to put a proper value on such items.

To be sure the farmer's opinion of the matter will have little effect on the price—at first—but it should result in his expending his energies in other directions and substantially decreasing the production of such crops as fail to give him a profit.

The farmers themselves will be the first to deride the idea of an eight-hour day on the farm. They will say it will not work, but in the beginning the same objection was made in the factory. Nevertheless it did work and for the benefit of all concerned.

Fewer acres in cultivation would give the farmer more time to beautify the farm home with trees and shrubs and flowers; more time to paint and repair fences; more time to provide good looking as well as comfortable quarters for the poultry and livestock; more time to plant and care for the orchard and garden; more time to read; more time to encourage and assist community movements from which all would benefit.

The world might have to go hungry for awhile but at least the farmers would attain their economic equality. The coal miners strike without regard to how many people freeze to death for lack of fuel; the traffic employees don't care a continental how much inconvenience or suffering their actions may cause when they decide to walk out. In fact none of the industrialists consider anything but what they are pleased to think is their own class welfare when conditions become unsatisfactory. Why shouldn't the farmer do likewise? —Southwest Plainsman.

Specifications of the
New Model
FORD

Every day we have dozens of inquiries regarding the NEW MODEL FORD CAR.

Everyone is anxious to know when it will be on the market when they can see it, ride in it—and buy it. And yet the specifications have not been announced by the Ford Motor Company in Mr. Ford's wire to us he says that the new model is superior in design and performance to any now in the low price car field. The new model Ford will be noted for its—

SPEED STYLE FLEXIBILITY EASY CONTROL

"It will be more costly to manufacture but more economical to operate"

Speaking of speed—very few people know that in 1902 Ford was the race track champion of the United States. At that time the whole interest of the public was in racing cars. Ford set to work to build the fastest car in the world, and on December 1st, 1902, he lowered the national automobile record for a mile to one minute and one second and thereby won the track championship of the United States.

Now about the new model Ford Car—we hope to have on display in our show room soon. No doubt, complete specifications and prices will be announced before that time. We have orders on file covered by deposits and delivery of new car will be made in the order in which deposits are received. A $25 deposit places you in line to receive your new car at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Ford has been working on this model for several years. He has set his mind, his wealth and all the forces at his command to the task. We have reason to believe that there will be nothing quite like the new car in quality, price and design.

In the meantime the sales record of the present car, the Ford T, has set a record that will never be equaled by any other manufacturer—over 15 million Ford cars in 20 years—a record that will long be remembered and commented on. We have a few of TODAY'S model on hand—the best car at the price ever made by the Ford Motor Company.

SOUPS AND THEIR SERVICE

This is the first of a series of articles by 6 famous cooks exclusively in this paper. The finest aids to good health is a good soup. Most people neglect this health-giver. The French, noted for their good cookery, are expert soup-makers, and make innumerable savory, tempting varieties. Eventually, it is said, every meat and vegetable finds its way to the soup pot. It is really a messenger to the stomach to get the meal to come, and the digestive juices begin.

Soups with Big Meals

Clear soups, piping hot to serve with big meals. In the main course, or meat-vegetable soup, the Duffalo, home economist, San Francisco, highly recommended. Tomato Soup—Use fresh or canned tomatoes in the soup. Chop fine, pepper shredded leaves, and peppercorns, a dash of white pepper. Ingredients into a saucepan about half an hour, or until the meat is tender. Pass grated add 1 tablespoon to each. This makes a hearty dish.

Washington Chowder

Chowder is almost a self. Add a simple salad for a well-rounded meal. This recipe is given by Miss Alice Hall, nutrition specialist, Creek College of Pomona, California. Ingredients: medium sized potatoes, salt onion, cup sliced tomatoes, cup milk, cups water, teaspoon salt, pepper. Directions: Boil and cook with the boiling salted water. When done, add the tomatoes and bring to the boiling point. Cream and milk and add to the soup just before serving. Cream milk and two table-spoons butter may be used in a cup of cream.

Cucumber Soup

One way to prepare cucumbers is by Mrs. Sarah Tyson Phelps Cook's Philadelphia cooking school. Ingredients: one large onion and one sliced cucumber into a water. Cover and simmer until soft. Strain and serve.

Cream of Celery

Cream of celery soup is simple to make. Chop fine enough celery to make a pint (2 cups) for 15 minutes in a quart of water. Add a half of milk, a dash of salt and a dash of pepper. Strain and serve.

The Best Base

This sauce is the basis for all soups. Use the following proportions: Ingredients: one cup butter, one cup milk or stock, or a combination of the two. Directions: Melt and stir in flour gradually until thick. Add salt and pepper. Stir until it comes to the boil. Strain and serve.

Suggested Soups

White Sauce Base—Many soups are made from this base. For potato soup, add a cup of mashed potato and a dash of salt for each cup of white sauce. Tomato Soup—A cup of tomato soup is made by adding a cup of tomato juice to a cup of white sauce. Butter Soup—Especially good for children, and good for invalids. Add a dash of salt and a dash of pepper to each cup of white sauce.

Formal Service

For formal service, the soup is served in bouillon cups or saucers under a glass.

For soup from cups, the soup is served in bouillon cups or saucers under a glass.

DAIRY FACTS

SUPERIOR SIRE'S HELP DAIRY

Improvement Means Mating of Females Already in Herd With Pure-bred Bulls.

In most cases dairy herd improvement must mean the mating of such females as are already in the herd with a superior male, says a New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca. If the superior characters in the sire are more likely to be transmitted than the less desirable ones in the dams, the sire's more desirable qualities will predominate in the daughters.

One of the most outstanding examples of what a good sire can do in a purebred herd is in the case of Embagard Tritonale Homestead. This bull, still improved, was purchased in 1911 by the University of Illinois, but his ancestors had been excellent as producers or as transmitters of production. The first ten daughters of this bull to freshen gave as two-year-olds an average increased production over that of their dams of 3,007.7 pounds of milk and 109.65 pounds of butterfat.

The value of good purebred sires in grading up scrub or grade cows was shown at the Iowa State college in an experiment starting in 1907. Native scrub cattle from Arkansas were graded up through the continuous use of purebred sires. The granddaughters had an average increase of 4,471.7 pounds of milk and 180.00 pounds of butterfat over their scrub dams.

FALL CALVES ARE PREFERRED

Young Animal Develops Sufficiently During Winter to Get Some Good From Pasture.

With many farmers it is the practice to have the cows freshen in the spring. There is much to be said in favor of fall-calfing. In a fall-calfing schedule, there is usually more available help for caring for the calf and it gets better attention during the first few months of its life. The fall calf is kept in the barn and is more constantly under the observation of the caretaker, so that any disturbance is much more likely to be detected.

During the winter months the calf develops sufficiently so that by the following spring, it is old enough to get some good from the pasture. A six-month-old calf cannot, however, depend entirely on pasture for its feed. Flies and hot weather are particularly bad for the little calf and spring calves suffer a great deal because of them.

It requires a great deal of care and attention to give the calf a proper start. Such attention is seldom given when the crops are being put in and cultivated. There are other practical advantages of fall freshening which do not directly affect the calf. The dairy farmer can usually plan his breeding so that the majority of his calves will be dropped at the most favorable season of the year.

DETERMINE VALUE OF BULL

Do Not Send Animal to Butcher Until He Has Had Chance to Prove Himself.

It is a mistake to dispose of a bull that has any prospects whatever until his true value is determined by his progeny. Many a dairy bull has gone to the block only for it to be found later on that some of his daughters are making fine records. You cannot tell much about the record of a bull until he is about five years old, and he has to be about seven years old before much can be told of his breeding qualities. Do not butcher an animal that may be the making of your herd, until he has had a fair chance to prove himself.

TO MAKE LEMON PIE

Here's a reliable recipe for lemon pie filling: Mix 3 tablespoons of cornstarch with 1 cup of cold water and 1-8 teaspoon salt; place over the fire and stir constantly until thickened and the cornstarch thoroughly cooked about 10 minutes. Add 3-4 cup of sugar, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind of half a lemon, 1 tablespoon butter and 3 egg yolks, well beaten. Cook for one or two minutes over steam. Pour into a cooked pastry shell, and cover with a meringue made by thoroughly beating the egg whites and adding the sugar and a little salt. Bake at a low temperature (250 F.) for 20 minutes, then raise the temperature until the meringue is a light brown.

W. T. Pope, horticulturist of the Hawaii Agricultural Experiment Station, says that recent investigation shows that the banana was one of the earliest food plants cultivated by man. It was formerly known as "The Apple of Paradise."
