DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NOW

Do your Christmas shopping earlier this year! That is the appeal being sent out by the merchants of Littlefield to the people in this trade territory in an attempt to avoid the last-minute rushes that are so inconvenient to customers and clerks alike.

Larger stocks than for many years have been purchased by local merchants in anticipation of heavy holiday business, especially during the last two weeks before Christmas, which is now but 16 days away.

Early shoppers will have larger selections of merchandise to choose from, will be able to shop in comfort, and will be making their purchases before clerks are harassed by the avalanche of late buyers to the extent that prompt and efficient service is possible.

Littlefield merchants are preparing for the first wave of Christmas buying and are planning suitable displays for show windows, counters and shelves with the holiday theme manifested on every hand. A visit to any of the stores will give prospective customers concrete evidence of what can be purchased at home at ordinary prices for the Christmas season.

Dry goods establishments, grocery concerns, hardware, novelty and other lines of retail business all looking forward to a successful season from now until December 25, but owners and managers insist that it is a good idea to begin Christmas purchases immediately, if the best results are to be obtained.

Henry Ford's "Recession" Views

When Henry Ford is interviewed he usually says something worthy of consideration, and nine times out of ten "hits the nail on the head." Whether or not we agree with his views, Ford makes us think when he speaks.

He was interviewed recently on the present business recession, and gave as his opinion that the "recession is temporary and artificial."

"No one," he said, "need look at next year with any uncertainty. The present slow-down is not a set-back; it's the pause before another climb. Two things helped to bring it on just now, and one of them was the uncertainty of business regarding political interference, but Congress is taking care of that."

"The other was the stock market fluctuation. Everybody knows the stock market has no permanent effect on business, but it does have an effect on the state of mind of the American business man who plays the market. He often mistakes personal depression for a business depression. The stock market has no more real effect on American business than the results of a dog race in California."

WPA Expends $155,465 in Lamb County

Expenditures of $3,817,266 were made on Works Progress administration projects in 23 counties administered from the Lubbock office during first two fiscal years of operation, according to information given out by J. O. Jones, director of the 17th district. Political subdivision in the district have expended $1,060,901 or 29 per cent of the total. The federal government has contributed $2,756,365.

Only 1402 workers of 3269 cases on the rolls are now on projects. Frame Gardens Are Recommended As Vegetable Insurance

"What Trench silos are to farmers and ranchmen, frame gardens will be to farm and ranch women," Miss Jennie Camp, food production specialist of the Extension Service Division of Texas A. and M. College, predicted on her recent return from Northwest Texas, where many frame gardens are located. Frame gardens came from cold frames, according to Miss Camp. They had their inception in the Panhandle section, where county home demonstration agents found that small areas, protected from cold wind and sand, produced earlier and more vegetables of higher quality than did the regular gardens. "People in Northwest Texas find that they can plant frame gardens in March and have fresh vegetables by the middle of April, or about the same time as vegetables are ready for gathering in Central Texas outside gardens," said Miss Camp. "Normally they would have to wait until June to have vegetables." The spread of frame gardens has been amazing. They are inexpensive, for they are usually made of scrap lumber, fertilized with barnyard manure, and covered with canvas, according to Miss Camp. Where only a few years ago only an occasional frame garden was found, there are now hundreds in Northwest Texas. One county, Lynn, has 67 such gardens. "I found one instance in which a woman has harvested vegetables valued at $24.15 from an area 4 by 16 feet," Miss Camp reported. "I think the frame garden has great possibilities over a large portion of the state, especially in cases of restricted areas, poor soil, lack of rainfall, or other unfavorable conditions."

LOTS OF ROOM HERE

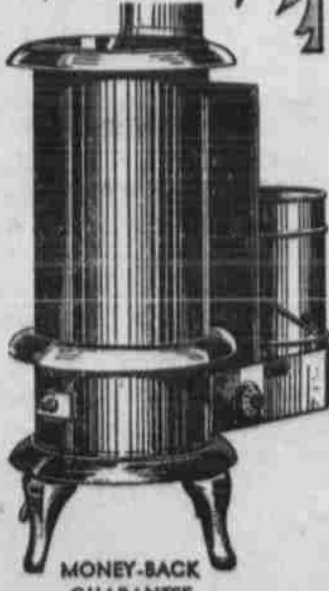

PASSENGERS who step into the 1935 Ford V-8 Tudor sedan will find plenty of room to reach the rear compartment without crowding, as the result of the adoption of a novel front seat design. The seat cushion is full width but the seat back is divided. When either section is tilted forward it also swings inward due to diagonal hinging. This provides a wide passageway on either side between the seat back and the car wall, through which passengers can step into the rear without crowding. This seat design, believed to be new in the industry, enhances the practicality of the Tudor model.

CONSTRUCTION OF BASEMENT OF SALVATION ARMY HOME STARTS SOON

As announced by Dr. Ira E. Woods, Chairman of the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army, sufficient funds have been pledged to buy the lot on which to build the new Salvation Army home here. It is expected to complete plans next week for the purchase of same, and get the basement of the building started. The proposed structure will be a frame building about 52x28, in which will be an auditorium, living quarters for the officers, and a basement for the holding of Sunday school, carrying out of relief work and for storage space. It was decided at the meeting of the Board Tuesday night to postpone the major part of the drive for funds until after January 1, when the campaign for funds will be continued. The Salvation Army Christmas kettle will be placed at the Bank corner Saturday for the collection of Christmas funds. LOSES 150 BALES OF COTTON IN FIRE W. O. Mauston of Morton is reported to have lost 150 bales of cotton in a fire that destroyed the seed house and contents at the Oasis Gin about nine miles west of Morton. Littlefield Players Dominate All-Star Team of District 5-B

Littlefield placed three men on the district 5-B all-star team picked by coaches and Avalanche-Journal sports writers. Slaton, Levelland, and Lamesa each had two players selected.

Mack Pickett, 170-pound Brownfield guard, would be captain of the squad, having been only unanimous choice, and is the outstanding line-man in the district. Lloyd Henry of Slaton and Milton Jones of Lamesa were outstanding backfield men.

Outstanding end of the crop was Beans Reed of Ralls, who showed well on a team not high in the standing. James Walker of Littlefield took honors at center. Hill of Levelland and Olin Walker of Littlefield were other end and guard. Raymond Steele, Lamesa, and Littlefield's Lacy Burleson were standouts for tackle posts.

Brownfield placed 5, Littlefield 3, Levelland 2, and Crosbyton 1 on the second team.

New One Tonner In 1938 Line Of Ford V-8 Trucks

A new unit—the "one tonner"—features the 1938 expanded line of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars announced today by the Ford Motor Company. Intended for widest possible use in the one-ton field, the unit is available in several body types.

The entire range of new 1938 units includes four wheelbase lengths, constituting the most diversified line of trucks and commercial cars in the company's history.

New beauty, resulting from advanced styling, and increased stamina obtained through improvement in design, characterize the 1938 Ford V-8 line.

A new treatment of the radiator grille gives the front end a more massive, impressive appearance. This effect is heightened by long louvers extending horizontally along the sides of the hood.

The hood is hinged at the cowl and lifts at the front. It is held down securely by a locking device which serves also as an attractive modernistic radiator ornament.

New style headlamps with brackets faired into the one piece front fenders add a distinctive touch to the front end assembly. Starting at the hood side panels, the fenders sweep gracefully rearward in flowing contour effectively continued in panel body and rear fender design. Smart appearance and pleasing symmetry of line result.

neath and are supported with heavier braces. New "straight line" running boards are lower.

Cab interiors are fully lined with embossed veal grain "art leather" in two tone green and present an improved appearance. Seat cushions and backs are covered with the same material. It is rubberized and washable. Cab doors are better sealed against outside weather and cab headroom has been increased three inches.

Several changes are noted in the instrument panel. New, easier-to-read figures are used. The instruments have been restyled and re-grouped. As ash tray is now standard equipment. The dispatch box has a new type door which permits installation of clock and lock. Hardware is of the same type used on standard passenger cars. There is a foot operated switch for headlight beam control with an indicator light on instrument panel.

A new wheelbase length, the 134-inch chassis, replaces the 131 1-2-inch wheelbase of previous years. This chassis has greater load space forward of the rear axle and its frame dimensions permit easier mounting of standard and special bodies. It is available with platform, stake, panel and dump bodies and as chassis with cab. As in the past years, the 157-inch wheelbase chassis is available with stake and platform bodies and as chassis with cab.

New throughout is the "one tonner." With wheelbase of 122 inches, it is especially designed to permit wider use of the 60 horsepower V-8 engine in truck operations. It is available with panel, express, stake and platform bodies and as cab and chassis.

Stake, panel, sedan delivery, pickup and station wagon bodies are available on the 112-inch commercial car chassis. It may also be had as cab and chassis. Stake, panel and pickup have the same front end design as the trucks.

The sedan delivery has the front end design of the standard passenger car. The station wagon which carries the front end of the deluxe passenger car has safety glass windows all around. Windows and the tail gate can be locked from the inside which with its door locks prevent theft.

An entirely new type construction is used in building the panel bodies. New methods for forming and welding the side panels, roof rails and proof panel provide greater structural strength. Side panels are double sealed at floor by felt and sheet rubber. Rear doors are hung in a welded one piece channel steel frame.

Steel panels extend from floor to tops of wheel housings and protect interior body structure. Floor planks are cut with overlapping edges to make a tight floor.

The 134-inch and 122-inch panel bodies have the same width and height, 55 3-8 and 55 1-4 inches respectively. Load length of the former is 119 1-4 inches and of the latter, 107 1-4 inches. Door openings are 46 1-2 inches high and 46 1-4 inches wide. Rear doors are sloping and sponge rubber sealed.

Larger advertising panels are provided. They start at the door step and extend to the rear of the body sides. A new body molding treatment heightens the streamline effect and permits more effective use of decorative stripes. Load length of the 112-inch panel has been increased to 87 3-4 inches, width to 55 inches. The height is 51 5-8 inches. The door opening is 46 1-4 inches wide and 44 inches high.

Bridge type construction is used in building stake and platform bodies. Heavy-gage steel channel members forming the outside framing are riveted to steel cross girders attached to body sills. The flooring is protected by steel skid strips. Stake sockets are firmly attached to both sides of platform frame rails by riveting and welding.

The 134-inch stake and platform bodies have load lengths of 106 and 109 1-2 inches respectively and widths of 82 and 87 inches respectively. The hydraulic dump truck has one and one-half cubic yards capacity.

Load length of the one-tonner platform body is 93 3-8 inches, width, 77 1-4 inches. Load length of the stake body is 90 inches, width 72 inches. Load length of the 112-inch stake body is 80 inches, width 62 inches.

A new body, the express, makes its appearance on the one ton chassis. With a load length of 96 inches and width of 54 inches, it is expected to be particularly useful as a general utility unit.

Flareboards on this body are rolled at the top edges for added strength. They are 22 1-4 inches high. The tail gate is similarly treated except that the roll is expanded in the center to obtain a truss effect. The tail gate fittings and drop chains are of improved design.

Heavier gage steel is used on the 112-inch pickup body. Flare boards and tail gate also have new rolled edge reinforcements. The floor load is carried on angle framing riveted to body sides. Body sills rest on X-members as well as side frame members. Corner posts are round for greater rigidity. Load length of pickup has been increased to 77 3-4 inches and height of lare boards to 20 1-4 inches.

Braking action on trucks has been improved through use of larger brakes and self-energizing brake shoes with cable and conduit control. Quicker stopping is obtained with much less pedal pressure.

Drum diameters have been increased to 15 1-8 inches. Drums are heavily ribbed for added strength and quicker cooling. The remarkable reception accorded the 60 horsepower V-8 engine insured its continuance as a worthy companion of the popular 85 horsepower V-8 engine.

A choice of two engines is available in all one-ton trucks and in all commercial cars except the station wagon which is equipped with the 85 horsepower engine only. The 134 and 157-inch trucks have the 85 horsepower truck engine.

Truck steering has been made easier through use of a new worm and roller type steering gear and a larger steering wheel. Steering gear ratio has been increased to 18.2 to 1 and wheel diameter to 18 inches. Proved chassis features such as full torque tube and radius rod drive, full-floating rear axle, straddle mounted driving pinion, and centrifuge clutch on trucks and 2-4 floating rear axle, straddle mounted pinion, centrifuge clutch, interleaf lubrication and oilless-type spring shackles on commercial cars are continued.

De luxe equipment for trucks available at low extra cost includes chrome windshield frame, chrome windshield wiper, chrome hinge mirror and bracket, chrome grille and colored wheels.

The 122-inch trucks have disc type wheels with large rustless steel hub caps. Rims are full truck type. Tires are 7.00-17 inch 6 ply with 7.50-17 inch 8 ply heavy duty tires optional at additional cost.

Changes have been made on the larger trucks which will permit at slight additional cost the use of 7.50-20 tires with single or dual wheels.

COTTON CROP ESTIMATED TO BE 80 TO 85 PERCENT GATHERED

According to reports more than 700,000 bales of cotton are believed to have been ginned in the 20 counties on the South Plains up to the end of the past week. Many gins are now being operated 24 hours a day, while others until midnight or in the morning before closing. The crop is estimated at around 80 per cent out, for the territory as a whole. Not all has been ginned, however, as there are still many piles to be seen in fields. A heavy rush is dropping but there will be considerable work until the Christmas holidays at least.

Upon the price of bolls will depend whether or not much picking will be done in January and February. In the event farmers do not see a chance to get much for their tag-end-of-the-season bales, it is probable picking will diminish rapidly after the first of the year.

Average price so far is estimated at from $40 to $45 per bale, making the crop about $30,000,000. Ninety per cent has gone into the loan, but not all loans have been paid farmers.

Lubbock county has probably ginned 95,000 bales, or more. Lynn is second with over 90,000 and Dawson third with nearly the same. Lamb comes next with 86,000; Crosby leads Hockley 65,000 to 60,000. Scurry follows with 42,000 bales reported; Garza reports 30,000 bales ginned; Floyd, 26,000; Motley and Bailey, 20,000 each; Dickens, 27,000; Hale, 25,000. Terry has between 30,000 and 40,000 bales it is estimated, with Briscoe nearing the 11,000 bale mark. Cochran county has over 10,000 bales; Castro and Farmer, 5,000; Swisher, 20,000 and Gaines, about 7,000.

Drillers Plug And Abandon Wiggins-Dean Test

The latest available report from Duffey-Enoch Land Co. No. 1, Southern Bailey County test, says they are about 4,100 feet or more still in lime.

Importance of this test is that if it should be developed to mean a renewed activity in the northern front, but if it fails, it is likely to be a setback before anything else is done in that section.

Well is about midway east of the county and only a distance north of a line between the two tests already made in the east and west extremities of the county. Both of the abandoned tests showed some indications of oil. For this reason it is hoped by interested persons that this latest test will show production. It is unofficially stated that some gas has been found.

After passing through two slight showings of oil, drillers were ordered to plug and abandon the Wiggins-Dean No. 2. This test was approximately 4 1/2 miles north of the Duggan discovery.

Active drilling was started on the J. R. Meeker-Wright No. 1 last week but no information is available as to the progress that is being made.

Asks Capital's Aid

Political observers saw their predictions of a CIO-New Deal split come true when John L. Lewis (above) charged that the administration had lost prestige "because of lack of competent and coordinated man-power." They were surprised, however, when A.F.L. leaders publicly joined with Lewis in calling for united action by labor and capital to solve taxation and unemployment problems.

Sheriff, Mrs. F. A. Loyd Returns Man From Duncan, Okla.

Lamb county officers returned to Littlefield from Duncan, Okla., Saturday and lodged in Littlefield jail a man giving his name as M. J. Cornwell was arrested by Duncan officers Friday, and examining trial was held before Judge Kennedy of Olton Tuesday, when bond was set at $1000, and he was bound over to the acting of the grand jury in February term of district court.

Dislikes "Like"

A cat may look at a king, and Janet R. Aiken, Columbia University professor, proves an English teacher can criticize a President's grammar. Objecting to his use of "like" in an extemporaneous Montana speech, Professor Aiken provoked a nation-wide discussion of the grammatical quality of recent Rooseveltian speeches. New York Times' comment quoted Fowler's Dictionary of Modern English, that "Shakespeare, Darwin and Southey—like Roosevelt—were equally guilty."

LAMB COUNTY WILL MAKE 100,000 BALES COTTON BELIEVES W. H. BADGER

MAIL EARLY!

W. D. T. Storey, local Postmaster, asked the Lender Tuesday to urge on patrons the necessity of shopping and mailing their packages early for Christmas.

According to Mr. Storey, during the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 percent, and it is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore, he urges in order to assure delivery of their Christmas gifts, cards and letters by Christmas Day that the public should shop and mail early.

Postmaster Storey suggests that patrons do their Christmas shopping so that they can mail their gifts, greetings and letters to relatives, friends and loved ones at least a week or ten days before Christmas, according to distance. This, points out Mr. Storey said, will not only make it certain that they are received before Christmas Day, but will be a great aid to the postal service and to postal employees.

W. H. Badger, of Austin, who is here in the interest of the Yellow House Land Company, of which he is manager, in an interview with a Leader representative Wednesday expressed the belief that Lamb County would make 100,000 bales, adding that "it looks like two or three counties in this district will make more cotton than other counties of the State."

"Another thing," said Mr. Badger "about this immense crop is that it is a wonderful reputation of the reports including this section in the dust bowl. We are not in the dust bowl, but they are giving us credit for it."

Mr. Badger added that prospects looked very good here, stating that "if we were getting the price for the cotton that we got last year, this would be the most prosperous part of the country."

Mr. Badger also stated that he had no doubt but that this section would be developed for gas and oil and that this would be the location of an oil field in the not far distant.

Joan Blondell To Be Seen in "Back In Circulation"

"Did you want to correct anything about yourself after viewing your first screen performance?" That is a very personal question to ask a movie actress, because no one under the sun likes to talk about her faults; but several girls at Warner Bros. studios answered the question like stalwart soldiers.

Beverly Roberts was amazed to see the way her screen self frowned occasionally without cause. She had always admired pleasant faces and says she rather fancied hers was a pleasant one. However after viewing herself on the screen, she completely broke herself of the habit.

Joan Blondell, currently to be seen in "Back In Circulation," with Pat O'Brien at the Palace Theatre, has always believed beauty is based on perfect carriage. From the time she entered kindergarten she trained herself to walk as erectly as a soldier on parade.

June Travis discovered that she smiled out of one side of her mouth. She had never guessed it until her screen self smiled out at an audience and June got the impression that the smile had a cynical air to it. She set to work deliberately to straighten out that smile and now is saving it only for some cynical part—if she should ever play one.

Margaret Lindsay, also playing now in "Back In Circulation," at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight and Sunday midnight, got all upset about her hands the first time she saw her shadow on celluloid. When in repose they fell with her index fingers pointing. It looked like an affection to her, although she had been completely unconscious of doing it.

Pontiac Dealers Experience Most Prosperous Year

As a group, the 4,000 and more Pontiac dealers in the United States have just completed the most profitable period in the company's history, according to C. P. Simpson, general sales manager.

The latest figures available are for the nine months ending September 30, during which time, Mr. Simpson points out, the net profit of all Pontiac dealers was $3,982,970 greater than in the similar period of 1936, which is an increase of 47.2 per cent.

Littlefield Motor Co., are local dealers for the Pontiac.

That good management on the part of our dealers played a big part in this highly satisfactory statement is indicated by the fact that net profits increased to a greater degree than the number of cars sold at retail, said the Pontiac sales chief.

"Retail sales in that nine months period this year were 173,858 compared to 130,841 for the same time last year, or an increase of 33 per cent. Although this percentage figure exceeds the average for the industry, as you will see it is considerably less than the increase in net profit stated above.

"Our percentage of price class increased, too, and Pontiac has moved into fifth place in the industry in point of retail sales.

"Used cars have stepped up along with new car sales with 407,553 units sold up to September 30 this year compared to 371,476 during the same time last year, an increase of 36,077."

Although there was an increase of 157 in the number of dealers added last year, that fact accounted for only part of the increase in net profit, as shown by the figures which give an average of 41 per cent more profit per dealer than in the preceding year. In other words, the average dealer has made more money.

This record statement of dealer profits was made in the face of rising fixed expenses in the form of higher salaries, wages, commissions, rent, supplies, etc., which amounted to an increase of more than 1 1-2 millions. But while this total of fixed expenses increased by such a large amount, fixed expenses per $1,000 of new car retail sales decreased $13, again creditable to better management.

In analyzing this consolidated dealer profit statement Mr. Simpson said, "Pontiac dealers have become a prosperous body of business men. Their profits have increased steadily for a number of years. And although they have reached an all-time high this year, we fully believe that through a continuance of the good management they have employed in the conduct of their businesses they will go on improving their profit position from year to year.

"At the close of the period covered by these figures Pontiac dealers were in the most liquid position in the company's history, and for a very good reason, I believe.

"It is because of the culmination of a policy of quality applied to every department of Pontiac's business. In 1933 we expanded this policy of quality, and began to stress it harder than ever before. And it has borne fruit.

"No one will dispute the quality of the car. That has been proved by the increasing acceptance the public has given each successive Pontiac car model. Then we effected a policy of the highest quality in all matters having to do with our relationship with our dealers.

"Having done those things three years ago, we then set in motion our campaign for quality dealers. It is a policy which permits good dealers to make good money. It has enabled us to obtain more car sales with fewer but better dealers in many of the larger cities and has made it possible for us to make an attractive proposition to dealers in many smaller communities where we had had no representation.

"In a broad way those are the basic reasons why Pontiac dealers have made more money this year. And to a large extent all of the foregoing reasons have made possible our great increase in retail sales. Also, they constitute the machinery and policy which has given dealers their greatest parts and accessories business. And they have supplied the methods and practices which have resulted in the majority of Pontiac dealers' service departments carrying the bulk of the fixed overhead of the business.

"We have a body of dealers now who are well trained business men, who operate according to fixed standards that have been proved through years of experience.

"The day of the quality dealer has arrived, I believe, and with him business on a profitable basis."

CHINA

Like a message from the Acts of the Apostles comes the call of the Christians of China:

"Relief needs in central and north China rapidly increasing. A national Christian Committee being organized. May we count on the love and support of the older churches?"

With homes destroyed, business and employment wiped out, thousands of Christian Chinese have turned instinctively to their local churches. They have found in them a home, a resting place. One communion reports that more than 5,000 Christians are living in the remains of churches in Shanghai. They must be fed and helped back to normal life. To them the church has meant spiritual salvation. Now it means physical and mental salvation. The church has become their refuge and help in time of trouble.

In China, the churches are symbols of Christian love and goodwill. They have carried to the Chinese people the gospel of Christ, education, medicine and food in time of famine and flood. It is no wonder that non-Christian Chinese, as well as Christian Chinese, have turned to them in time of war havoc.

Word-pictures like the following come from missionaries in China:

Homes are smoking ruins. Churches are wrecked. Schools, colleges and universities are damaged and destroyed. Hospitals have been bombed or shelled. Worst still are the terrified throngs of men and women and their little ones, in some cases raked with machine gun fire, as they flee from the war zone. The Christian mission hospital at Nantunghow was bombed while an operation was under way. The doctor, nurses and patient were blown to bits.

The long fighting line in north China is moving southward from Peiping and Tiensin to the Yellow River leaving destruction and destitution in its wake in thousands of towns and villages. Scores of cities along the coast line and on important railways, hundreds of miles inland, have been bombed. Cities like Nanking, Soochow and Canton have been raided by airplanes. The total of killed and wounded non-combatants has been high.

This Christmas appeal is for all Chinese civilian war-sufferers. In Shanghai, there are 140 refugee camps of from 300 to 1500 persons each. Estimates place the refugees in this one city as high as 750,000. The Chinese are helping themselves in a magnificent way.

Schools, colleges, and universities are on the firing line. All are carrying forward their work with dugouts on the campus for refuge when the alarm siren is heard. Fifty one per cent of the Chinese college graduates in the Chinese "Who's Who" are graduates of Christian colleges. The head of the Government is a Christian. A cry from China advises that the educational front is more important than the military front.

In mission work, plans and methods are being adjusted to war conditions. Missionaries in frail health, mothers and their children, the aged and those who are not able to stand the hardships of war are being brought home. All others are voluntarily staying at their posts. Reinforcements will be sent when possible.

The United States Government will do all it can to protect its citizens in China or to evacuate them, if they desire to leave, but there is no illusion about what it can do in the interior. Assurance has been given to the United States Government by the churches that it is neither expected nor desired that any loss of missionaries' lives or property be made the cause of war.

"The missionaries of the churches are in China. In the long run they are the hope of the situation," says a message. They are devoting their lives and positions to the cause.

Christians in America are asked to support the work of these men and women — their representatives — in helping the suffering Chinese people, the civilian non-combatant refugees. The need for men, for medical and surgical supplies and food, is most urgent and exceedingly grave. Much good can be done with little money. Two thousand dollars will carry on the war emergency civilian work of an entire hospital at Nanking for a month.

The whole problem of the suffering grows worse as winter advances and the war increases in intensity. If peace came tomorrow the need still would exist for months.

The Lottie Moon Christmas offering will help our Chinese Christians.

Cotton improvement is making much progress in Texas at the present time. Masonic history, dropping back through the ages, before the foot of a white man had touched the Texas terrain, and recalling pioneer Masons who played leading roles in building the Lone Star Republic and State, was portrayed in a tableau-cade at the Palace coliseum Wednesday night of last week.

Morton, Gillespie, Anson Jones, Sam Houston lived again on the coliseum stage, as the Masonic hosts in Waco for their greatest session witnessed the enactment of a "glorious history—an inspiration for the future."

Preceding the tableau, President Pat M. Neff of Baylor university recounted the achievements of Texas Masonry in the last 100 years. President C. C. Seelman of Southern Methodist University urged wholehearted Masonic support of character-building institutions.

Melvin M. Johnson of Massachusetts, one of the distinguished visitors and speakers here for the 1938 session of the Grand Lodge reported on Masonry in other countries and warned against permitting the growth of dangerous "isms" that have led to distastefulships abroad.

Alca Bryan, Waco attorney, past grand master and chairman of the Centennial Commission, gave the address of welcome at the Wednesday afternoon session in the coliseum. Grand Master M. M. Rutland of Tennessee presented the Texas Grand Lodge with two prized gifts — a photo copy of Sam Houston's masonic record in Tennessee and a gravel made from a cedar log taken from Houston's first law office.

In his Centennial address Grand Master Galloway Calhoun of Tyler drew aside history's curtain as he recalled the characters of Houston, Jones, Ruske, Cooke, Fowler, Ewing, Burton and others.

The accident happened when Troy and several neighborhood children were shooting off firecrackers. Troy had a large firecracker underneath a tin can, which he was endeavoring to fire, when the powder exploded and threw the can, hitting the boy in the face. He suffered a four inch gash beginning about his forehead, extending down and cutting his upper eyelid in two parts, and also the lower lid and the face.

The youth was taken to the Payne-Shotwell hospital, where it was found necessary to take the eye out.

At last report he was getting along alright. It will be necessary to remain at the hospital for several days, according to those in charge.

Mountain Buries City's Streets

Here's a worm's-eye view of an avalanche in the making. Lowering himself into a huge fissure at the top of the "moving mountain" in Los Angeles' Elysian Park, a daring cameraman shows how the ever-widening crack is being checked hourly to determine course and extent of the next in a series of huge earth-slides that have already sent millions of tons of rocks, earth and trees tumbling 350 feet into Riverside Drive, Dayton Avenue, below, and even into the dry bed of the Los Angeles river, 1,000 feet away.

"That Certain Woman" To Be Shown at Palace

According to Henry Fonda, the movie star, country boys have a distinct niche on stage and screen. He told Bette Davis, opposite whom he plays in Warner Bros. drama, "That Certain Woman," that your typical country boy carries a certain stamp of the rustic with him to his grave. "That Certain Woman" will be featured at the Palace Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Many a stage director, playwright, film director, producer and other expert showmen has told me that this stamp of the rustic, the 'country-boy-at-heart' stuff, is available, particularly for romantic hero roles," Fonda explains. "Naturally, the city-stamped fellow has his place too. It just so happens that a larger number of characters an actor such as I am might play, seem to fit the boy who can show his country breeding."

Little Jim Bob Franz is recovering from a severely burned leg that he acquired while playing with matches.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pruett returned home Tuesday from Bartlett, where they have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Pruitt, Mr. Pruitt's parents, and other relatives. Their trip extended to Waco, where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Hulan Patterson and son Hulan Ray.

Every citizen has or should have civic pride. The citizen's duty is to help maintain this civic pride. As you know, a school building is one of the first in public buildings, in which the character of the town or city is judged. Every student should have enough civic honor to help keep cleanliness in school rooms, halls and on the yards. We students of L. H. S. are too careless with our waste paper. Most of us don't care where it lands just so we are free of it. As one walks across the yard, he sees paper, as one walks through the rooms and halls, it's more crumpled, scattered paper. It doesn't take much more energy to step to the waste paper basket, therefore let's not be so careless. Help keep a cleaner school yard, thereby a cleaner town.

TAKE TIME

School with friends, places to go, things to do, good times. All of that is true, but did you ever stop and take time to think that this, your high school days, are the last ones that you will be a "kid" among your fellow classmates? Take time to be happy and chery, take advantage of the good times that now confront you, and above all, take time to be kind and thoughtful toward your schoolmates. Compliment and praise them when they have accomplished something, go out of your way a little if you can be of service, and have a heart not only for yourself, but for your fellowmen, school, and school days.

AND SO—STUDENT'S RIGHT

Humor still prevails in dear old L. H. S. as is shown by a scrap of paper in Coach Sander's room. The pupils were asked to write a constitution and we will give one student's version, but will withhold his name, for we blush with shame for him.
ARTICLE I—
No more than six pupils should attempt to pass through the door at one time, unless in case of emergency.
ARTICLE II—
All persons should be seated in a near civilized manner within a period of fifteen minutes.
ARTICLE III—
No talking should be done in a tone in excess of "G" above high "C".
ARTICLE IV—
Do not hit another person with an object weighing more than twelve pounds.
ARTICLE V—
Do not harm the teacher.
ARTICLE VI—
No more than six passes out of the room to each person.
ARTICLE VII—
The room should reach such a degree of quietness as to enable us to hear an anvil drop.
ARTICLE VIII—
All injuries shall be punishable by a week in detention, murder punishable by two weeks in detention.

HIGH SCHOOL COUNTY MEET DIVISIONS NAMED

Training for the Interscholastic League has started. The various divisions and sponsors are doing their utmost to encourage the students to enter some phase of the Interscholastic League work whether it be in a literary or physical division. Subjects that have been going on unofficially for several weeks are debate, playground ball, and tennis. Volleyball, track and field will be momentarily stopped by the three month period of basketball, since many of the best volleyball players and sprinters are playing the winter gymnasium sport.
Sponsors of the various sections are: Miss Cooper, debate; Miss Robinson, declamation; Miss Perkins, extemporaneous speech, and ready writers; Mr. Sanders, senior track and field; Mr. Dutton, junior track and field; Mr. Hobbs, boys playground ball; Miss Hanes, girls playground ball; Miss Killough, spelling; Mr. Hemphill, junior and senior tennis; Mr. Layfield, volleyball.
All students are urged to take a hand in one division or another.

NEWS BRIEFS

Approximately 10 students have withdrawn from school last month, due to the fact that they have been absent so much.
Lilly Pener withdrew from school Wednesday, December 1, to enter Dalhart high school.
Tresca Hobbs entered school week before last from Oklahoma.
Billy Margaret Johnson transferred from Corsicana to Littlefield high school last week.
Since the football season is over, practice for the Interscholastic League work has begun.
Several school students contributed food to the P. T. A. food sale, held in town last Saturday, December 4, 1937.
The first playlet of the school year was given by the Freshman class in assembly, November 30. The play, called "Tuning In", dealt with a family that always fought over what radio program they wanted. It ended abruptly when the house caught on fire.

FASHION NOTES

It seems to be the style with the L. H. S. boys to have a pipe stuck in his face. The pipes range from one and a half inches to twelve inches. Prices of these smokestacks are fifteen cents to three dollars and everything from coffee, tea, rubber, to real tobacco is smoked in them. Youngsters with weak stomachs don't smoke anything in them.
"The second style," says our fashion editor, "is here to stay." The mode mentioned is that of wearing loud socks, some of them are so loud that our fashion editor has been wearing colored glasses for a week after viewing a few of "Cheese" Pumphrey's collection, however there are a few boys, and all of the girls who object to this style (who cares). Pat Boone Jr., leader of the anti-loud sock campaign, declares it's a sin, and is sticking to that red hunting cap of his.

Up In The Clouds—

wanting you every inch of the way. But I don't want you to be where I can see you on the take-off."

"All right, Monty. I'll keep out of sight." Triumph sang in her heart as she said the words. "Everything is all right if only I know you love me. Even if I never marry, we will have the most important thing. Now stop worrying, especially about that."

She drove with him to the plane and then she slipped away into the small early morning crowd. It was little more than dawn but these people had come out to see the start.

As she passed toward the flight office, she saw a man in shirt sleeves pushing his way toward the plane. Inside, she asked the first question everybody had been asking.

"What is the weather report?"

"It's bad," the answer came. "They're going to hold everything till tomorrow."

Natalie strolled back toward the plane. She wondered what it was best to do. Had she better see him again, be with him that day? Or would it be better to keep away from him?

When she came near, she saw that Sunny Marion was talking with him. She seemed to be her old, brilliant self. The pout was gone from her face. That little smile of triumph seemed to ride there.

Mont turned to the shirt-sleeved man at his side. He took the paper he held, glanced at it, then tore it half across.

Leaning down quickly, he kissed the blond girl and sprang into the cabin of the plane. He revived up the motor, found that it had been warmed, that it answered to the throttle.

Then, suddenly, the ship was foaring across the field. Grease monkeys scattered. Someone rushed out of the field office crying, "Stop him! Stop him!" But the plane was rising now . . . it was up and speeding for the sea.

Natalie drew back alone. A sobbing moan broke from her lips. The weather was wrong. He had not waited.

And this was the man she loved, the man who loved her, rushing into unknown terror and death on a mad flight around the world.

She looked around for someone and knew at once that it was Jimmy she sought in that small crowd. But Jimmy was not there. He was nowhere. Through tear wet lashes she could not see him at any rate.

And when she did see, she stood stock still.

For Jimmy Hale was leading beautiful blond Sunny from the field. And Jabe Marion came behind with the field officers.

Natalie fled then. She raced for a taxicab and hurried herself into it. "Quick!" she cried and gave the address of her hotel.

For the newspaper woman in her had come to her rescue. The flash would go out from the field office. She must have her story ready for the wire in half an hour. And as she rode through the morning streets she was planning the lead of that story.

"Defying the elements," she found her lips saying, "tossing aside contemptuously the adverse weather reports that would have held up the flight from Mineola field today for Mineola field—around the world—non-stop."

She hardly knew when she reached the hotel. She stopped for nothing when she faced her typewriter in that quiet room.

She thrust paper and carbons into the machine and banged at the keys. Her story must go. Her heart might break. Her lover might crash to a thousand deaths on sea or land from the vast height at which he flew, but these bits of paper must be lashed by the keys that fer fingers drove. They must be whipped out one by one till the telegraph boy rushed away with them, till the pencils slashed, till the linotypes crashed, till the presses grumbled and roared, till the whole world knew that Mont Wallace was on his way.

The story ended at last.

"To be continued," she wrote for a last paragraph. "To be continued is the story Mont Wallace writes in clouds and sea today. To be continued is the epic of the Twentieth Century's fourth decade as one toule-headed youth rides high to new fame or to death.

She did not break when the story ended. She did not stop till the last page had been thrust into the hands of the waiting boy and hurried on its way.

There were two pilots on the plane going home.

Natalie could have screamed when she saw them, for they reminded her again that Mont Wallace was alone as he fought his way across the Atlantic.

FIFTH INSTALMENT

Monty Wallace has just arrived in California, having broken the East-West cross country airplane record. Natalie Wade, mistaken by him for a newspaper reporter, writes the exclusive account of Monty's arrival, and succeeds in securing a trial job with a paper in exchange for the story. Natalie becomes attached to Monty.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, a wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking 'round the world plane for Monty. Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Natalie discovers that Sunny is jealous of her friendship with Monty, and that she is trying to prevent them from being alone. After driving to a mountain resort with Sunny and Jimmy, Monty again declares his love for Natalie.

Sunny attempts to drive Natalie from Monty's attention by climbing a high wall. She almost loses her balance and is pulled back by Monty. Jimmy later asks Natalie to consider his love for her if she refuses Monty.

Natalie induces Monty to set out with her in an airplane search for two missing aviators. At dusk Monty lands the plane in the open country, where he and Natalie must spend the night.

Resuming the search in the morning, they finally locate the fliers. Natalie wires the story to her paper. That night at dinner, Marion announces a non-stop, 'round the world flight, with Monty piloting the new plane, "Sunny Marion."

Monty's plane is to have ten refuelling stations along the route, where pilots are to go aloft to refuel his plane. Monty flies with Natalie to New York, where he will begin the flight eastward. They are followed by Jimmy and Sunny.

Two more days and Mont would be roaring over the ocean on the most impossible flight in history. Something gripped at her heart. Something told her she would never see him again.

She stood up and moved to the window of the room. Children were playing at the curb. The world was going on without a thought of impending tragedy.

She tidied her hair and renewed the light make-up she wore. But panic was upon her. She had to see Monty again quickly. His room, she knew, was at the end of the short hall. She slipped along the worn carpet and tapped at the door.

There was no response. Someone was coming up the twisted stairs. She turned the knob of the door and slipped inside.

Monty was asleep. He had thrown off coat and shoes and tie.

For a long time she stood there listening to his heavy breathing. Then very quickly she moved forward and sank to the floor beside him. She laid her cheek against the sleeve of his shirt.

She would stay there a little while guarding him with her love. And now her fear fell from her . . . it was as though his nearness and her adoration for him had driven it out. Her throbbing heart grew calm.

She knew content again. And so she fell asleep beside him and did not wake till early afternoon.

"Is this nice?" he asked, seeing that she was awake.

She sprang up quickly but he caught her hand and drew her down beside him.

"I'm in a hell of a fix," he said, her hand to his lips.

She could not speak. "I'm supposed," he chuckled, "to be a devil with the women. I've been that way deliberately so that I wouldn't ever want to marry anybody. Now I've got myself in a spot where you come in here and I wake up and you are just as safe as though I didn't love you. What's the answer?"

"Maybe you really do love me," she said faintly. "You've only wanted me before."

"Well, it's a new one on me . . . and I love you all right. But there isn't going to be any marrying in our business."

He spoke a little angrily, she thought, as though he fought against something.

He whipped a glance at the watch on his arm. "We'd better be getting back to the field. They'll be looking for us."

She went back to her own room then, but her heart was singing as though in triumph. It seemed queer about that when he had just told her they were not to be married. She wondered about it a little but there was no explanation—unless it was that her heart knew better than her mind that he loved her as she had to be loved.

He came for her in a few minutes and they rushed away to the field.

Jimmy was there and Sunny Marion presently, a frowning Sunny who attached herself at once to Monty Wallace. Jimmy tried to get the girl away once or twice but she would not go with him and the four went together for dinner at a larger hotel in the neighborhood.

Natalie wrote another story in her quiet room that night when Jimmy had taken her to the small hotel and then she sat waiting for Monty's footsteps outside her door.

They did not come and she got into a becoming negligence, hoping to rest until he should appear. Once, twice, she waked having dreamed that he came up the stairs, but each time she saw that the door of his room stood blackly open and knew that he had not come back.

It was so until the morning and, when Jimmy telephoned, she went out to breakfast with him a little sick at heart. At the field, she waited and watched for Monty, but it was mid-morning before he appeared.

He was haggard and pale. Natalie hurried to him with quick alarm, fearing that he might not be ready the next day for the long grind of the flight.

But he was intent on his work and it was not till Sunny Marion arrived, her make-up heavy and her smile oddly triumphant that Natalie knew the truth of that night.

She took him away from the Marion girl then. Directly and deliberately she made him go with her, and she drove with him straight to the small hotel.

She got him into the place and commanded him to sleep.

"Don't you realize," she cried, "that your life may depend upon it? You're in no shape to fly. You're all broken up about something. You've got to forget everything but the flight."

"All right," he told her. "But get out of here. I'll be all right." She knew then that something more than a night out was behind those tense white lips of his. It was something, she thought, connected with her; something that made him brusque with her. But she couldn't make out what it might be.

She saw to it that he was not disturbed that afternoon and night. When he appeared the morning of the flight, there was still a line of tension about his mouth but his eyes were clear and he could grin.

On the way to the field after breakfast, he was silent. She thought he might be worrying about the flight and tried now to bolster his confidence. But he turned to her impatiently.

"Nat," he said grimly, "I may not be coming back from this thing, and if I don't, I want you to know something. I swore I wouldn't ever love a girl enough to want to marry her. Marriage is not for fools like me that have to be taking crazy risks. I made marriage virtually impossible for me and then you came along. If I could have got you, it would have been all right. But I couldn't and now I'm mad about you. I went out last night trying to forget you and now it's worse than ever. I'm going to make this flight or die trying and I'm going to be

County Ministerial Alliance Meets At Olton Monday Last

The Lamb County Ministerial Alliance met in regular session in Olton, Texas, at 10 a. m. Dec. 6th. Members present at the meeting were: J. E. Stephens and C. C. Griffith of Olton, R. R. Gilbreath, President of the Alliance and L. S. Jenkins of Amherst, C. T. Jordan and L. L. Hill of Earth, W. A. Hitchcock of Sudan and Ed Hawthorne of Fieldton. An inspirational devotional was brought to us by Bro. Griffith of Olton. After the business session Rev. Ed Hawthorne of Fieldton delivered a spirit-filled message speaking mostly of his experience.

One of the outstanding problems that is concerning the Ministerial Alliance and should concern every Christian of our County and nation is the problem of Sabbath desecration. May the Christian people of the County become united in taking a definite stand against this prevalent evil. We owe it to ourselves, to the future generation and to Almighty God, not only to speak boldly against the evils of the day, but to act against those violations of the civil and moral laws of our County and State.

The Alliance will meet again next Monday morning at 10:30 at the Amherst Methodist Church. At 11:30 we invite the public to meet with us to hear another soul stirring message from the Rev. Ed Hawthorne of Fieldton.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Attendance was not up to normal last Sunday and the reason for it was that too many members stayed at home, or went visiting. It takes much grace to be faithful to God and loyal to the church in season and out of season. Religion has become a secondary matter with many professing Christians.

We are still working toward the Standard of Excellence in our Sunday School and would appreciate your cooperation, especially from the teachers and officers for they can do more to build their classes and departments than any one else.

Sunday is the day we bring our offerings to the orphan children and the support of the missionaries on the foreign fields. Are you thankful that your children are not orphans? Are you glad you are not a citizen of China, in the war-torn and famine-stricken section? Then give according to your joy and God's goodness to you.

The pastor will preach on the following theme at eleven o'clock hour Sunday, "Why Should I Tithe?" The message will be missionary in spirit and thought.

Sunday evening the Girls Auxiliary and the Royal Ambassadors will give a pageant at the evening hour, B. T. U. starting promptly at 6:30, song service from 7:30 to 7:45 at which time the pageant will start.

Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Henson are directing the pageant which will close the week of prayer program sponsored by the ladies of the church. A representative group of the Teachers and Officers attended the Worker's Conference Monday evening and enjoyed the covered dish dinner and the evening program.

Rev. Lawrence Trott, Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Timmons, Reginald Caraway and Dr. McDonald from Levelland were guests of the evening and brought interesting messages to the various departments. We need you in all the services of our church. Can we depend on you next Sunday? A welcome awaits you at the First Baptist Church.

Willis J. Ray.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

We had a very nice crowd at our regular Sunday afternoon services last Sunday. Bro. Allison, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene of Littlefield preached the sermon, which was enjoyed by all present. He preaches old fashion and old time religion. These services are being held each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Salvation Army hall, till we get our building up, which will be about the first part of January. We have the church lot bought and paid for, and doing fine on raising the money for the church building.

Next Sunday afternoon Bro. Murphy (who is conducting a revival in Lubbock this week) will do the preaching. He is the high-toned Irishman, singer and preacher who conducted the Nazarene revival here the last 2 weeks of October. Everybody come, hear him.

LUTHERAN CHURCH W. J. Luecke, Pastor

Divine services will be held Sunday morning at the regular hour; German, at 9:30; Sunday school and Bible Class, 10:30; English, 11 o'clock. The Pastor basing his remarks on Psalm 110, will speak on the theme, "Christ the Promised High Priest after the order of Melchizedek." In the Sunday night services, beginning at 8 o'clock, the sermon topic will be, "Art Thou He that should come?" Next Wednesday the Pastor will have charge of the radio broadcast from Lubbock, beginning at 4:30. He will speak on the subject, "Is Christ, the Saviour, promised in the Old Testament."

The choir has been practicing faithfully every Sunday night. The study of two new Christmas numbers has been begun, and all members of the choir are expected to attend these last rehearsals if they expect to take part in the singing of the choir at Christmas time. The Ladies Oretette will practice Friday night. The Elders of the congregation, together with the chairman, treasurer and finance board, are to meet Sunday afternoon in the school room. A check-up of the congregational work of the past year, as well as plans for the new year will be the consideration of this meeting.

A Parent-Teacher meeting will be held Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

The Young Peoples Society met last night in the basement of the school. Mr. and Mrs. G. Birkelbach and Ruben Birkelbach had charge of the arrangements, and served a tasty lunch. Miss Edna Drager has been placed in charge of the sale of the Christmas seals for our Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Denver, Colorado. The Pastor made a short address on the topic, "Our obligation to Serve". Games were enjoyed by all.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

9th St.
Bro. C. W. Watkins of Lubbock will preach Saturday night at 7 o'clock, Sunday morning at 10:30 and Sunday night at 7. Everybody invited.

WHAT ARE YOU? (By L. Horrisberger)

Are you an active member,
The kind God loves so well?
Or are you just contented,
To be an empty shell?

Do you attend the meetings,
And mingle with the flock,
Or do you stay at home
To criticize and knock?

Do you take an active part
To help the work along,
Or are you satisfied to be
The kind that just belong

Do you ever go to visit
A comrade that is sick,
Or leave that work to just a few
And talk about the "clique"?

Rev. Norwood Host To Stewards Friday At Turkey Dinner

Rev. Marvin Norwood was host to his stewards Friday evening at a turkey dinner, when Dr. E. E. White, presiding elder of Plainview District, was guest of honor.

Fruits and nuts formed the centerpiece of the dining table, bearing tall candles at either end.

Plans were made for the coming church year, and a splendid feeling of fellowship and cooperation was displayed among the members of the Board, and a determination to make 1937-38 the best year in the history of the church.

Dr. White spoke on the benevolences of the church, and J. O. Garlington, as chairman of the finance committee, spoke on the financial plans for the coming year. J. T. Elms, District Steward, who represents the local church in all business sessions of the district, spoke on the district stewards meeting to be held Tuesday in Tulsa, and which he is planning to attend.

Glenn Burgess, newly elected treasurer of the Board, gave the plans of the Board for the keeping of the records during the coming year.

Mrs. A. B. Cole spent Monday the guest of Mrs. Jess Elms. Mr. Cole makes his headquarters at Lubbock while Mrs. Cole cares for her aged father at Vernon.

Rev. Marvin Norwood Attends Methodist Meeting at Nashville

Rev. Marvin Norwood left Tuesday to attend the Educational Council of the Methodist Church at Nashville, Tenn. He was accompanied by Rev. C. O. Hooten, Pastor of First Methodist Church Plainview, and Rev. W. E. Hamilton of Lubbock. The meeting will convene from Thursday, Dec. 9, until Monday, Dec. 13.

All bishops of the church will be present at the meeting, at which plans will be made for the unification of the Northern Methodist Church, the Southern Methodist Church, and the Methodist Protestant Church. The unity of these three branches will bring together more than nine million Methodists into what will be called "The Methodist Church."
