Cheering News That Deficit Is Erased

Philadelphia, San Francisco Offer Fat Checks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The democratic national committee cheered the news today that $250,000 party deficit had been more than wiped out by over $400,000 in receipts from the recent Jackson Day dinners.

The report was submitted by Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., who said that additional collections probably would bring the Jackson Day receipts to $500,000.

Quayle's report led to adoption of a resolution authorizing Chairman James A. Farley to make him treasurer, instead of acting treasurer.

Meeting to select a convention city and possibly a date, the democratic committee heard from Quayle that if Jackson Day dinner pledges are all paid and a sizeable sum is collected from the city obtaining the convention...

"We will be able to start the presidential campaign without a sizeable deficit," he added. Mrs. Lucretia Grady, California committeewoman, reported that San Francisco would bid up to $225,000 for the convention.

Another resolution would appropriate delegates to the convention on the same basis as in 1936, with the total kept at 1,100.

Ceiling Repairs Ordered For School After Plaster Falls In Emptied Room

School officials acted Monday to replace many plaster ceilings in the high school building as the result of the collapse of a portion of a ground floor ceiling Monday morning on a vacated classroom.

Some four years ago the entire plaster ceiling of a room in the east wing (high school addition) collapsed after school hours, crushing chairs and desks.

Wildcat Test Is Watched

M. L. Richards No. 1 J. A. Shafter, northeastern Howard county wildcat test, drilled to 640 feet Monday as interest was focused upon it because of the structural low logged in the abandoned Sinclair Prairie No. 1 E. E. Erwin, six miles to the south and east in Mitchell county.

The Richards test was being watched since it may throw light on the possible connecting link between structural highs in the Westbrook pool in Mitchell county and high structure in Borden county.

Location is 330 feet from the south and east lines of section 22-32-12-10C, some two miles north and west of Vincent.

After logging a slight show of oil and seven barrels of sulphur water from 3,007-20 feet in brown lime, the Sinclair No. 1 Erwin stood for eight hours and bailed dry in one hour.

Map Fight On Federal Oil Control Bill

Petroleum State Leaders Formulate Opposing Arguments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Strategy for opposing the Cole oil bill was formulated today by governors of oil producing states.

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel today informed the Texas congressional delegation in Washington he was "opposed to the principle of legislation" contained in the Cole bill which would transfer regulation of the oil industry from the state to the federal government.

Phillips said the group would offer these general objections: That it would constitute federal interference with state rights; that the states were in a better position to conserve their oil resources than the federal government...

Texas Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler said he and the two other members of the commission would defend their state against any pot shots the inferior department might take at their petroleum conservation program.

The Cyclone Passes

Passing of Cyclone Davis takes from the political stage one of its actors who in his time played many parts, and who for some years had roles secondary only to those of the stars who were flashing across the political boards.

For Cyclone Davis was a humanitarian, taking always the cause of the submerged portion of our citizenship. During their appearance as political doctrines he advocated all the so-called reforms from what was charged to be the injustice of the capitalistic system.

The great influence of Cyclone Davis lay in his ability to feel with and speak to the common man. He used the simplest words and drove them home with a fierce energy that could not be convinced his hearers of his sincerity and earnestness.

HOLLYWOOD — All the rumblings from this vicinity aren't earthquakes. Most of them are Grumblers.

Maybe there's an actor who doesn't have one. Maybe there's an actor who doesn't give it out — but that's because, at the moment, he's under the ether in a hospital or under the table in a club.

Look at the Lamour girl in sarong, which is easy to do. Dorothy no likes brown girl, Dottie wanna be white American girl like true. Dottie wanna kick off sarong and get in real clothes. Dottie wanna say bye-bye to Dottie's trademark—the couple of yards of figured cloth that made Lamour toujours Lamour.

Turn your gaze on George Raft, who was always crying about the mugs he had to play. He hit the lens as a mugg, and muggs made Raft. So he leaves one studio to quit playing muggs, and goes to another and clicks double as a mugg.

Listen to Alice Faye. Faye's the top song-plugger, but Faye wants dramatic. She drammed in "Hollywood's Cavalcade," which was to the good. But Faye fans fought for fa-so-la-si-do. So furiously they called her back, after "Little Old New York" was canned, to add a tune.

Watch ZaSu Pitts' hands, weaving through her plaint. "Drunk scenes—I draw one in every picture. I don't know why. My daughter watched me do one and she left, very quietly, hating it. So do I. I don't drink, and I don't like to see women drunk.... Why must I play drunk scenes?" Give her the answer, all together now: "Because, ZaSu, your 'drunks' are convulsion-creators...."

Say "Beautiful Bob" to Taylor and he groans—if he doesn't try a quick punch. But all that kidding about "beauty" got Taylor more public notices than a dozen flickers like "Lady of the Tropics"—and did him less harm. Did him good, in fact, because he learned to take it grinning.

If you want to get Richard Greene's goat, all you need to do is discuss Dimples. The Dimples, on the Greene pan, are as much a trademark as Chaplin's mustache, Hitler's ditto, or Stalin's paunch. But Greene sees red when he sees dimples. Anybody got a good dimple-eradicator?

And Ann Sheridan—and Oomph. Where would Annie be without that Oomph build-up? Where, for that matter, is Annie with it? Here's where: she's in a Louis Bromfield yarn called "And It All Came True," and it's that darn she's been needing to show what Oomph could do in the way of acting. Oomph, as far as Annie will allow, has put her on the spot. And she has something there,—something she'd like to forget.

Annie's one of the legitimate squawks. Another was Peter Lorre's. Peter was a comedian about until he made a horror picture called "M." He hit Hollywood as a bogyman and the fright wig stuck. So he squawked himself into comedy again—in "I Was an Adventurer," with Zorina and Von Stroheim.

Bob Montgomery had one too. Bob wanted "out" of play-by-play stuff into acting parts: "Night Must Fall" and "Earl of Chicago."

And Paula Benic does her squawking to "stay in" her specialty—which is singing. Her last film had only one skate sequence. Single fights for more.

Chapter 13 DENIAL "Did you murder Joan Kent?" The Sergeant asked Joan's uncle. Mr. Kimball turned his eyes full on the officer. He made no motion and there wasn't a sound in the room.

Everyone always said that I imagined the Sergeant got very tired of hearing it. But his voice was patient when he said, "I'd be very much obliged if you'd tell us about it, Madam." Mrs. MacDonald began with some reluctance. "We got along very well in the past year. Before, we never actually quarreled, but Joan was headstrong and I felt that her stepfather gave her her own way too much. A little restraining doesn't harm a girl of her age. She resented what she thought was interference on my part, so she decided to live in the city. After she left home, working gave her more of a sense of responsibility, and since then we've had no difficulty. In fact, up until Christmas she was planning to come home again to live."

"Thank you," she said, and it seemed to me that she was reluctant to leave. She stopped when she reached the doorway. "May I see Joan?" Her voice had a little break in it. The Sergeant, who was sitting at the desk now, jerked his head around. "Mr. sorry, Madam. The body had to be taken to Bellevue—an autopsy, you see." I hadn't realized that. And it was a relief to know that the room next to mine was empty now. Mrs. MacDonald must have been shocked by it. She didn't move and there was no sign of emotion on her pale face, but when she turned to the door she stumbled blindly. Her son hurried to her side, murmured a few words, then held the door open for her. After she left he crossed the shop rapidly and went upstairs.

"I wish you would," I whispered back. "But I guess the Sergeant has changed his mind about me." He patted my hand. "You have a guilty look," he said, then jumped briskly to his feet and spoke to Sergeant Long. "I don't want to interfere in any way, Sergeant, but I wonder if you'd mind my doing a little sleuthing on my own." He smiled as he said sleuthing. The Sergeant raised an eyebrow. "One of these amateurs, huh? Well, go ahead." And with a wit that I thought him incapable of, he said, "Brilliant young sleuth outwits the flat-footed detective." He picked up his hat and coat and walked down the shop. "I've got to go now. Be here again before five. If Kincaid or Lathrop show up, Mr. Kimball, keep them in here. Norton will keep an eye on them." Dirck signalled me to go upstairs, so I left him with Mr. Kimball. I felt better now that he was around. So much better, in fact, that when I got upstairs and found a cablegram poking under my door I didn't even get annoyed. And the message: HAVING A FINE TIME WISH YOU WERE HERE LOVE TOBY DIDN'T bother me a bit. "That for you, Mr. Maughan," I said as I threw the cable in the fireplace and put a match to it. "Are you destroying evidence?" came a soft voice from the doorway. I turned quickly, startled. Dirck was grinning at me. "Yes," I said. He stooped to pick up the envelope. "I'd dropped it in the doorway."

"I'd like to believe that," I laughed shakily and lighted a cigarette. It was demoralizing, that soft blur in his voice. And suddenly Bermuda seemed very far away and Toby a strange and unfamiliar figure. "Guiltily Look" "May we make arrangements for the funeral?" she asked uncertainly. "Thursday, perhaps?" The Sergeant nodded and turned away. "Thank you," she said, and it seemed to me that she was reluctant to leave. She stopped when she reached the doorway. "May I see Joan?" Her voice had a little break in it. The Sergeant, who was sitting at the desk now, jerked his head around. "Mr. sorry, Madam. The body had to be taken to Bellevue—an autopsy, you see." Her son hurried to her side, murmured a few words, then held the door open for her. After she left he crossed the shop rapidly and went upstairs.

Dirck bent close to me. "I'm going to stick around for a while, Chris." "I wish you would," I whispered back. "But I guess the Sergeant has changed his mind about me." He patted my hand. "You have a guilty look," he said, then jumped briskly to his feet and spoke to Sergeant Long. WASHINGTON—Congress knows more tricks than a magician when for political purposes a little cut in an appropriation must be made to look like a big one. That explains most of the slashing the members are talking about. In actual dollars and cents Congress hasn't saved the taxpayers much money—yet. Later Congress may. Wise Washingtonians doubt there will be any revolutionary budget cuts in 1940.

MONEY FOR MERCHANT SHIPS Here is a sample. Last year Congress kept the appropriation of the maritime commission moderately low but gave it an authorization to contract for $230,000,000 in mercantile ships. That meant that the ship building would go on, but the cost wouldn't show up in the appropriation bills for a time. This year it began to show up—at a mighty bad time.

GOOD, CLEAN FUN Here is another sample. The army, navy and coast guard came up for an emergency supplemental appropriation to speed up the defense program and finance the neutrality patrol. They asked $271,999,823. In a fury of economy the House trimmed $4,801,615 off that bill. But it wasn't a net saving by any means. They authorized the navy to go ahead with $2,450,000 of building. The money for it will be appropriated perhaps next year, after election.

It's a string of beads, and a naked Indian saying "Manhattan" to a fat Dutchman in pantaloons who wants to know, "How much?"

DAVID QUINTET CLASHES WITH FORSAN TONIGHT

STEINECKE TO LEAD BEAUTS INTO ACTION

FORSAN, Feb. 5—The feature basketball attraction of the season will be unraveled here this evening, 8 o'clock, when Bill Steinecke's House of David cagers make their second annual appearance in the Forsan gym to face Brady Nix's high school Buffaloes.

The Bearded Beauties who play out of Benton Harbor, Michigan, are to be confused with George Johnson's traveling troupe, which recently played in Big Spring and Garden City, are highly popular with this sector's cage followers and a capacity house is expected.

Outlaws Play Coahoma At 9 O'Clock

FORSAN, Feb. 5—The Forsan Outlaws will send a strong team out against the Coahoma Oilers of M-C league in this evening's exhibition game, an added attraction to the House of David-Forsan high school main event.

Manager James Madding's team broke even in a double header test with two Major-City league quintets last Friday, defeating Montgomery-Ward, 28-26, but losing to Burl Cramer's Coahoma team, 44-25.

In the clash with the Oilers, it was simply too much for the Oilers, who were able to compile a total of 20 points to personally account for more points than any three of the Outlaws were able to compile.

Expected to open against the Oilers this evening are Madding and Sewell at forwards, Schultz at center and Wilson and Lorwry at guards.

The Outlaws were originally scheduled to play the Phillips Tire team tonight but the game was called off.

Herd's Title Chances Hurt As South, Blount Retire

The high school cagers' chances for a district title were seriously impaired last week when the first and second string centers were forced to retire from competition, C. B. South and Peppy Blount both quitting for a while. It may be permanent.

The firing for the district title begins in less than three weeks.

The Herd has five practice games remaining on its schedule, meeting Odessa twice, Sweetwater, Slatton and Klondike.

Bobby Martin diminutive forward, a reformed guard, is making his share of the Bovine's points. In 16 games he's roped a total of 123 points.

Most Unpredictable Team Is Nix's Forsan Quintet

The most unpredictable team in West Texas high school circles seems to be Brady Nix's Forsan crew.

Last weekend, with Tommy McDonald playing his best basketball of the season, the Bisons rolled to the Big Lake tournament title, best some of the best teams in this sector in doing it.

When McDonald is in the groove, the south Howard county team is very difficult to beat. When he's not, the Nixmen prove to be just another team.

The Forsanites naturally rule as the favorites in the county tournament this week but are going to find it a little harder to get by in San Angelo. The district Golden Gloves boxing tourney, being held in San Angelo to decide the winners for the state finals. The broadcast will begin at 8:30 and last until 9:30 p. m. this evening and Tuesday.

Roy Cullenbine Signs With Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced they had signed outfielder Roy Cullenbine, one of the 91 Detroit players and farm hands recently declared free agents by Baseball Commissioner Landis, for a bonus of $25,000 and a one-year contract calling for an unspecified salary.

Cullenbine told Dodger officials he had received offers from eight clubs, with the Cincinnati Reds, Boston Bees, Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants, the National League clubs bidding against Brooklyn.

The 25-year-old outfielder was used chiefly as a pinch-hitter by the Tigers last year.

A switch hitter, Cullenbine broke into baseball in mid-season in 1935 with Beaumont of the Texas League. He stayed with Beaumont through 1936, and in 1937 and 1938 played with Toledo of the American Association.

Moseley NAMED PRESIDENT OF E'TEXAS LOOP

LONGVIEW, Feb. 5 (AP)—C. P. Moseley of Jacksonville, newly elected president of the East Texas league, took over the duties of office today.

His election was unanimous yesterday after seven ballots on the previous Sunday resulted in a tie between Moseley and Walter Morris of Fort Worth.

Under a new plan adopted by club owners, the team leading the league on July 4 will play stars selected by sports writers from the seven other teams in the league. Formerly the leading north and south teams played but the south teams had registered repeated victories.

Clubs this year, the owners decided, will carry four rookies, eight "limited" service players and three veterans.

STEERS NEED BAYLOR VICTORY THIS WEEK TO RETAIN S'WEST CAGE LEAD

BRUINS' WIN OVER AGGIES IMPRESSIVE

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Boyish Jack Gray, the 27-year-old maestro of Texas University basketball, makes his move for a second consecutive Southwest conference title come Saturday night.

On his home court in Austin, the floor that made him famed as one of the sharpest players in all conference history, Gray sends out his Longhorns to meet Baylor.

This is the game Gray needs. Baylor, equipped with some of the most dangerous goalies in the league and coming strong after a sad start is just about the most solid thing Texas will encounter the remainder of the season.

Of course, Rice is still breathing on the back of Texas' neck with its potent machine that averages 51 1-2 points per game, but Texas needs to protect its slim lead over the field in the Baylor game.

Idle Two Weeks
Coach Gray's boys have been idle two weeks while sparring with exams. Baylor has been playing—and playing great basketball. Only last week the Baylors brushed off the rather good Texas Aggies, 68-54.

Coach Gray's boys have been idle two weeks while sparring with exams. Baylor has been playing—and playing great basketball. Only last week the Baylors brushed off the rather good Texas Aggies, 68-54.

But Texas got in a couple of good licks by spilling the American Liberty Pipeliner, composed of former Texas and Southern Methodist stars.

Should Texas get by Baylor and retain its record of having lost only one game, then it must beat Southern Methodist, T.C.U., Texas Aggies and Baylor in order before coming up to the predicted climax against Rice on Feb. 27 at Austin. In its only game with Rice, the opener at Houston, Texas squirmed out, 50-46.

Ready For Steers
Baylor has two dangerous shooters ready for Texas—Frank Bryski, a center finally playing the basketball they said he would for two seasons, and Joe Frivaldsky, a Chicago sophomore who suddenly blossomed as an authority on two points.

Texas has its scorers well distributed. Over a five-game period, Speedy Houpt leads with 47 points; Granville has 42, Bobby Moers, 40; Hull 36; Spears, 28, and Cooley, 22. Any one of the bunch is liable to clog a basket.

Three other games are scheduled this week, Southern Methodist participating in all of them. On Tuesday night at Dallas they play weak Texas Christian and then trapeze up to Fayetteville, Ark., to meet the Razorbacks in a two-game series Friday and Saturday nights.

Top scorer, despite idleness is Bob Kinney, the tall Rice sophomore, who, after a recount on an early season game has 104 points instead of 102. Seventeen points

Jones Proves Major Test For Jacobs

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—A trifle early to make an outright prediction, but there's a man at Hialeah Park who may break Hirsch Jacobs' seven-year stranglehold on this country's thoroughbred training championship.

He is Ben Jones of Parnell, Mo., trainer for Warren Wright's Calumet Farm, and he already has a nice jump on Jacobs this year. Jones has added 15 winners to Jacobs' 7 since January 1.

Four of Jones' winners came consecutively on Jan. 17, a feat unequalled on the turf for many a year, and represented a clean sweep of three sections of a graded handicap.

The 67-year-old Jones, tall and thickset, is no newcomer to training renown. Two years ago he conditioned Herbert M. Woolf's Kentucky Derby champion, Lawrin.

Like most other trainers, Jones has no set formula for conditioning winners.

"Horses are like people," he said. "Some are steady and calm; others are fractious and temperamental. Some are cunning and some are lazy. Some won't eat and others gorge themselves. Lawrin was a prodigious eater."

"Each horse is a new problem. His personality and habits must be studied and solved before you can bring out the best racing in him. Often you've got to fool them to get the best out of them."

Behind trailed Frank Bryski of Baylor, while chunky Bert Selman was in third position with 79 points, two ahead of his teammate, Frankie Carwell. Baylor and Rice monopolized scoring honors after getting in eight and nine games respectively.

COAHOMA AND GARNER MEET IN LOCAL GYM WEDNESDAY

Coahoma's Bulldogs and the Garner Hill Billies tangle in the first round game of the Howard county basketball tournament Wednesday evening in the Big Spring high school gym.

The survivor of that clash will face the Forsan Buffaloes here Saturday night for the right to represent the county in the district tournament at Sweetwater Feb. 23-24.

Moore, which competed last year, will not make a bid this season.

Forsan, which has won the title five years running, again rules as the decided favorite to cop the crown but both Coahoma and Garner are capable of giving trouble.

Lions Need But One Victory To Sew Up Flag

Win Over Jacks Was Their Fifth Of Campaign

By the Associated Press
Practically "in" with their second successive Lone Star conference basketball championship, the East Texas Lions rest this week following their fifth straight win of the season last week, a 52 to 46 victory over the Stephen F. Austin Lumberjacks.

By virtue of the triumph, their second trimming this season of the Nacogdoches quintet, East Texas now needs only to win one of her three remaining tilts to tie for the crown, or two to cop the championship.

With only the Feb. 16 tilt against Sam Houston at Commerce looming as a tough assignment, East Texas is pointing for the conference's first undefeated championship season.

Sam Houston will open and close the circuit cage play this week, encountering their conquerors of the past week—Southwest Texas—on Monday night at Huntsville and entertaining the North Texas Eagles Friday night on the same court.

The only other tilt carded for this week is the Tuesday night fray between Southwest Texas and Stephen F. Austin at Nacogdoches.

Southwest Texas upset Sam Houston 44 to 34, last week.

Oliver Comes From Behind To Take Title

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 5 (AP)—It may be the brashness of youth, but young Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y. professional, has high hopes of topping the money winners who travel golf's golden winter circuit.

Winner of two consecutive tournaments, the 23-year-old star feeds he is "hot" and with any kind of luck in the Texas Open and remaining southern play, he can hop from fifth to top position.

The sum of $777 separates him from the leader, Jim Demaray, Houston, Tex., and in between are such stars as Lawson Little, Stratton Woods, N. H., Clayton Hearner, Linville, N. C., and Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y.

Although he is a sophomore with the professional troupe, Oliver proved yesterday, with his burst of golfing genius on the final 18 holes of the $5,000 Phoenix Open, that he has what it takes.

Trailing at the 36th, he opened up with a sizzling attack, including eight birdies, to beat Hogan, who already was at the clubhouse receiving congratulations on a victory. Oliver's score for the 54 holes was 205 and Hogan's 206.

Oliver's victory netted him $700 and Hogan got $450 by finishing second. Clayton Hearner, Linville, N. C., and Leonard Dodson, Kansas City, tied for third with 207. Each received $315.

HOWELL SIGNS WITH INDIANS

TEMPE, Ariz., Feb. 5 (AP)—Dixie Howell, football coach at Arizona State Teachers college here, announced today he had signed a one-year contract to play baseball with the Oklahoma City club of the Texas League.

For the last two seasons he has been playing with Beaumont, Tex., in the same league. Howell, property of the Detroit Tigers of the American League, recently was declared a free agent by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

Although his salary was not announced, Howell said the figure was considerably above what he received for playing with Beaumont.

Howell said the Oklahoma City club would allow him to return here in September to coach football. His Tempe team won the Border conference championship last fall.

Scribes Hear Ex-President Track Drills Begin Today

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—If you think you felt badly, Mr. Gus Q. Baseball Fan, when you booed former President Herbert Hoover in the 1931 world series, take Mr. H.'s word for it, you weren't feeling anywhere near as low as he was that afternoon in Philadelphia.

Breaking a nine-year silence, the ex-president told the folks at the 17th annual dinner of the New York Baseball Writers' association last night just how it felt to receive a large load of the "Bronx cheer." His remarks shared interest with the general theme of the writers' show, which took varied humorous and "ribbing" raps at:

(1)—The hoped-for breaking-up of the New York Yankees, so "the rest of us" can have a chance.

(2)—The efforts of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis to wipe out "cover-up" activities in the maneuvering of up-and-coming minor league players, such as prompted his recent edict declaring some 90 performers for the Detroit Tigers and affiliated clubs free agents; and,

(3)—The "nap" Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati catcher, took at home plate in last fall's world series.

It was Hoover's first public statement on how he felt when, as president, he stepped into his box in Shibe park during the Athletics-Cardinals' series of '31, and was greeted with jeers.

"You know," he explained, "there were a number of thirsty people present with no patience for constitutional process."

"But when they greeted me with more than their usual delicacy when I entered the grandstand, I was really peeved, because I was probably the only man there who obeyed the law and had been thirsty for 11 years."

The writers presented Bucky Walters, Cincinnati pitcher, with a plaque as "the player of the year" and Ed Harrow, Yankees' president, with a trophy for "meritorious service" to baseball over a period of years.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows keeps life a misery. It loosens your chest walls apart. You need reliable and ready help. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you see to it the way it quickly stops the cough. If you are to have your money back. (adv.)

Track Drills Begin Today

Track workouts at Big Spring high school will get underway this afternoon.

Most of the boys that will form next season's football squad are expected to report to Howard Schwarzenbach, who will handle the squad.

The hopefuls will probably train on the school property at 19th and Austin streets.
