American Red Cross Roll Call Due Soon

Dates are Nov. 11-24, Inclusive—
C. L. Lewis is Membership Drive Chairman

During a visit in Wheeler Monday by Maude Branham, field representative of the American Red Cross from the Mid-western Branch office at St. Louis, preliminary arrangements were made for the annual roll call, from Armistice Day, Nov. 11, through Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24.

One of the problems met and solved was the selection of a roll call chairman, Chester L. Lewis, consenting to serve in that capacity. Lewis, who has assisted in previous drives, succeeds Lee Guthrie, roll call head last year, whose business and other duties would not permit his acceptance of the place again.

Along the nation's highways, in underprivileged homes and isolated communities, hospitals, military stations, schools and on far-flung beaches, the work of the American Red Cross has been carried on in increasing volume, Lewis pointed out yesterday.

In reviewing some of the work done locally and nationally by Red Cross workers during the past year, he said that great strides had been made in reaching increasing numbers of Americans everywhere, and cited the fact that in the Red Cross campaign to eliminate accidents in homes and on farms, 15,000,000 householders had been advised how to eradicate accident hazards around private property.

"Red Cross public health nurses made more than 1,000,000 visits to or on behalf of the sick during the past 12 months," Lewis said. "They are carrying out their work in communities where nursing and medical aid are not readily available, including homes in mountains, in small country towns, on prairies, and on isolated islands in the sea. At the same time, these nurses have examined 559,187 school children for possible physical defects that needed correction, and where it was found necessary the proper treatment was arranged."

He said, too, that 295,028 persons had been qualified to stop bleeding, treat for shock, splint fractures, and give other emergency treatment following accidents, and that 88,149 persons had been trained in life saving and water safety in an effort to bring about drastic reductions in deaths from drowning.

"While there were few disasters of spectacular national importance during the year," the chairman said, "the Red Cross through this period has rescued, fed, clothed, and given nursing and medical care to 108,000 victims of floods, fires, storms, explosions, and many other types of disasters. These have been scattered over 38 states and included ten types of natural catastrophes."

He described the nation-wide campaign against deaths and permanent injuries on highways inaugurated three years ago by the Red Cross, and said that with 676 new stations reported in operation during the past year, the total number of emergency first aid stations had grown to 2,454.

The Red Cross service to enlisted men, disabled veterans and their dependents had helped solve the pressing problems of 388,000 men and their families during the past year, declared Lewis, himself an ex-service man, and in small communities lacking local relief facilities Red Cross chapters have given sorely needed help to 120,000 families.

All this work, he concluded, is made possible by the annual Red Cross membership Roll Call, held each year between Armistice day and Thanksgiving.

Officers of Wheeler chapter, in addition to the newly-appointed roll call director, are: Dr. H. E. Nicholson, chapter chairman; Lonnie Lee, vice chairman; Clara Finsterwald, secretary-treasurer; Tom Britt, home and farm accident; D. A. Hunt, first aid; H. J. Garrison, highway first aid; R. G. Russ, life saving; C. G. Miller, home service; G. O. McCrohan, disaster.

The executive committee consists of Dr. H. E. Nicholson, Lonnie Lee, C. G. Miller, G. O. McCrohan and Tom Britt.

WEATHER TURNS COLD

Unsettled weather conditions developing Wednesday have brought light showers to this area, followed by sharply lowered temperatures. Prospects this afternoon indicated a hard freeze in the ensuing 24 hours.

County Fair Meeting Called for Saturday

Temporary officials of the mule colt and horse show, held here some weeks ago, encouraged by the success of that event, have called a meeting for 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the court house for the purpose of discussing organization of a county fair association.

Considerable preliminary details have been worked out by Bob Irons, Cliff Bradstreet and G. W. Mason, principal sponsors of the colt show. Their investigations lead to the belief that formation of a fair association, to cover a much larger scope, is entirely practicable at this time. Farmers of the entire county, Wheeler business men and all other interested parties are urged to attend the meeting Saturday, prepared to offer suggestions helpful in forming the organization, together with election of officers and board of directors.

Next Tuesday, Nov. 8, General Election Day

Large Vote Should be Polled as a Matter of Public Duty and of Record

Tuesday of next week, Nov. 8, is general election day in Texas. To some readers this reminder may be almost news. If it isn't, the fact that a large vote is desired should be news of considerable importance. Of course in Texas, with its overwhelming Democratic political preference, there is no party contest. But that fact doesn't lessen the responsibility and duty of every qualified voter to go to the polls and cast a vote.

The Times has been directly requested by at least two men and indirectly by several, to call attention of voters to the importance of exercising their franchise next Tuesday. One of these men is A. B. Crump of Wheeler and the other is E. J. Morgan, living near the county line west of Mobeetie.

Both men have pointed out that voting is not only a privilege, but also a duty. While calling at this office a few days ago, Morgan said he wished that mention of the approaching election could be made through these columns and voters urged to cast a ballot Tuesday.

Crump, who is county Democratic executive committee chairman, thinks of voting Tuesday in a broader political sense than electing someone; that question was settled in the primaries. He has in mind the fact that future apportionments and representations in state and national affairs is based on the number of votes polled in the general election.

Under the existing system, every voter in the state may cast a ballot in one or both primaries without receiving any national political recognition whatever, because the November election has been designated as the official election in such matters. Thus it is squarely up to Texas voters to show their loyalty and interest in the state's welfare and progress by patronizing the ballot box next Tuesday.

COMPLIMENTS TO ALL CONCERNED!

Another Hallowe'en, with its traditional excuse for "spooky" capers by mischievous youngsters, frequently resulting of late years in downright devilment and actual property damage, has come and gone.

It was different in Wheeler, this year.

And for this The Times compliments city officials, regular and special officers, parents of young folks—and most of all, the boys and girls themselves.

So far as this paper has learned, no material damage was done nor overt act committed in the community, which speaks very highly for the splendid conduct of all concerned and deserves the highest praise.

When one reads of many hundreds of dollars in property damage at Dallas and the use of tear gas by police at Amarillo to control the rowdy gangs, Wheeler's record for Monday night is the more outstanding. True enough, a few windows received light applications of some harmless substance resembling soap Saturday night, and many of the younger boys and girls "whooped it up" until rather late Monday night, but no real damage was done.

Again, boys and girls of Wheeler, The Times salutes you as law-abiding citizens who are entitled to a "good time," but who are good enough and big enough to respect the property rights of others and heed the admonition of constituted authorities by refraining from doing that which is wrong.

To Reorganize P.-T. A. Next Tuesday Evening

Get-Together Meeting and Program Planned at School Gymnasium—Starting at 7:30

Expressing their determination to reorganize and revitalize a Parent-Teachers association in Wheeler, interested parties announce a meeting for that purpose at the school gymnasium, starting at 7:30, next Tuesday evening. All parents of the district, as well as others who may be interested, are invited to attend this meeting.

According to announcement made this week, the event will be something of a get-together meeting for parents and students. Teachers of the schools here are planning a program of good variety and entertainment value. It follows:

Song—Girls' Quartet: Virginia Burgess, Arlene Reynolds, Johnnie Faye Templeton and Eloise Reed.

Accordion Solo—Gerald Brown. Lochinvar—A dramatization of the famous poem by the public speaking class.

Song—Men's Octet: Messrs. Forrester, Wynne, Zirkle, Hayter, Meek, Phillips, Young and Flynt.

The program is to precede the business session, of course, and those who cannot remain for the latter are welcome to enjoy the entertainment and then leave if necessary, although everyone who can possibly attend is desired at the session when new P.-T. A. officers are elected and other arrangements made for the year's work.

County WPA Projects Make Headway Slowly

Frequent Changes and Misunderstanding of Regulations Cause Confusion

Originally planned exactly as stated in last week's issue of this paper, frequent changes and apparent doubt by officials as to interpretation of rules, has resulted in little headway during the past week, on two county WPA road projects, especially the Allison to Briley-Walser corner strip northeast of Wheeler.

As originally laid down, the number of men employed on WPA work in the county Nov. 1 was to provide a basis for the subsequent quota. Per cent of this number, whether 10 or 100 or in between, was not revealed.

Latest developments, it is learned, fix the ultimate county quota upon the number of men employed on each Wednesday during the month of November. Certain other changes of debatable application have also tended to confuse the program in the minds of those charged with its administration.

Questions have arisen as to the status of deserving, registered farmers who have a small amount of farm work for themselves or others yet to be done before cold weather. Some authorities say these may be excused and retain their eligibility for WPA employment; others dispute it.

At least there was no dearth of response by men seeking places on the two county road projects, the Magic City-Wheeler job and the one south from Allison. A total of 354 men were assigned on these, about equally divided.

Lynn Gott, former WPA time-keeper in the county, is project superintendent on the Allison road, and W. C. Popham of Canadian holds a similar position on the Magic City project.

Some progress is reported on the latter job, while little headway has been made on the other. Most recently developed delay is said to be difficulty in obtaining a supply of gravel, clay, etc. for surfacing work. The program will no doubt swing into action shortly, much to the relief of those involved.

Light Office Closing at Noon on Saturdays

One of the local concerns affected by the recently enacted federal wage and hour law is the Panhandle Power & Light company, which announces in an advertisement on another page of this paper that the office will close at noon on Saturdays in compliance with the new law.

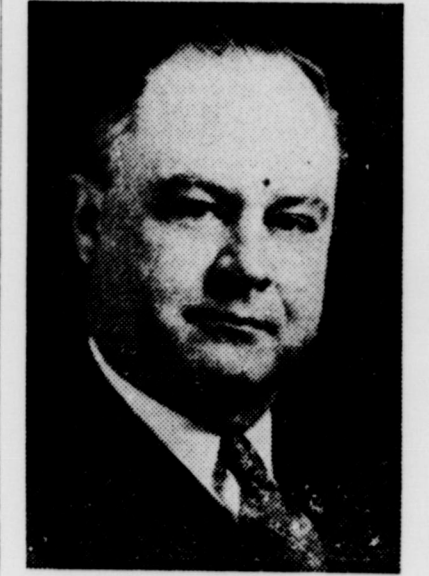

No one need be alarmed about this closing arrangement affecting light and power service, however, because the system will continue in operation during that period just as it has been doing at nights, when no one is in the local office.

Also, as a safeguard to satisfactory service, Frank Fuller, manager of the office, states that in event of trouble developing in lighting or power appliances or emergencies, patrons may call 106 or 136 by telephone and get a prompt response.

Democratic Chairman Active Party Leader

E. B. Germany, New State Executive Head, Favors Garner for President Idea

With the energy and enthusiasm which has characterized his crowded career as a businessman and civic leader, Eugene B. Germany of Dallas this week had plunged into active leadership of the Texas Democratic party.

E. B. GERMANY

Germany is the new chairman of the State Democratic Executive committee, elected at the recent State Democratic convention in Beaumont at the instance of Governor-Nominate W. Lee O'Daniel. He succeeds Myron G. Blalock.

Rallying Texas behind the growing Garner-for-President movement is one of the most important planks in Germany's program. Garner was endorsed for the presidency by the State Democratic convention.

Chairman Germany has called the new state Democratic committee to meet in Mineral Wells on Nov. 7 and organize the work of the party for the biennium.

Germany's career has much of the bound-to-win flavor. The 46-year-old chairman was born in Nolan county; his boyhood was lived in Henderson and Van Zandt counties. His schooling in Grand Saline was aided by farm work and a job as janitor of the high school. Service as a janitor also helped finance his attendance at Southwestern university. Later, he taught school at Grand Saline. To his day-time teaching job, he added a night job of trucking salt at the Grand Saline salt mine.

His oil career began in Mexia, where he was employed as a geologist and land man. After several years of this work he became an oil producer himself. Since 1928, he has operated his own companies.

Germany has managed to crowd in many civic activities. He is now serving his third term as mayor of the town of Highland Park. For several years he has been vice president of the Dallas Methodist Hospital and a director of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. He is prominent in the affairs of the Lion's club, Hella Temple Shrine, the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., and the Council of Church Men.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Parks of Gladewater came Thursday and visited his mother, Mrs. H. M. Lesser and Mr. Lesser and daughter, Mrs. Corene Hooker, and Mr. Parks' brother, Luther Parks, and family. They returned home Friday night.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

ANNUAL ROLL CALL OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Each year Americans in every community are called upon to take part in a great nation-wide movement to relieve human suffering and raise health standards in this country. I refer to the work done by the Wheeler chapter of the American Red Cross and thousands of other chapters throughout the country.

It is not necessary, I know, for me to remind citizens of our community that the work of the Red Cross is a vital contribution to our community welfare. Both from the standpoint of the year-round local program and work on a national basis such as the relief for victims of disasters, the fight against epidemics, public health nursing for isolated communities, or assistance to service men or disabled veterans. Red Cross aid to those needing help has proved its worth.

For years past our community has had a share in this work through contributions made by local citizens.

The annual membership Roll Call of the Red Cross, through which such work is supported, is from Armistice day through Thanksgiving day. Your support during this period will insure a continuation of Red Cross work here and in other parts of the country. The Red Cross asks so little, yet does so much, that we cannot afford to deny such an appeal.

I am pleased, therefore, as Mayor of Wheeler, to designate this period as a time when all members will be asked to renew their memberships, and those who have not enrolled before are asked to add their names to the ranks of Red Cross members in our community.

R. J. HOLT, Mayor.

DID YOU KNOW THIS TRAFFIC RULE?

"All vehicles approaching an intersection from the right have the right-of-way and should be permitted to pass first, provided said intersection is not locally controlled."

Locally controlled means by lights, traffic officer or otherwise.

This information is given because a Wheeler man who has occasion to drive a great deal, both on business and pleasure, this week declared he did not know of the regulation until he read it recently. He believes publication of the rule may help prevent an auto collision with its consequent possible injury or loss of life, and The Times is glad to oblige.

Lions Club Launches Holiday Event Plan

Start Preparations Early on Pre-Christmas Festivities for Shoppers of Area

At its noon luncheon Tuesday, the Wheeler Lions club, sponsor of pre-holiday trade building festivities in recent years, considered the subject for the approaching season. Various features, some proven to be good in the past and some new ones, were suggested and discussed. Results were appointment of two committees.

One is a general committee, composed of C. G. Miller, Raymon Holt and Dr. H. E. Nicholson, empowered to name sub-committees and exercise general supervision over the program. Another committee, Raymon Holt and Terrell Gunter, was authorized to investigate the possibility of holding an old-fashioned turkey shooting match on some Friday or Saturday before Christmas.

Miller has announced that at least two former attractions will again be offered: the poultry throw, when birds are released to the public "catchers keepers," and Old Santa Claus, with liberal treats for all the little folks. Dates for these and other events will be announced later.

Other business included a report from W. O. Puett, county judge, regarding progress of the two WPA highway projects in this portion of the county, which are slightly hampered by complications.

County 4-H Club Boy Wins a Chicago Trip

Word has just been received at the office of Jake Tarter, county agent, that a Wheeler county 4-H club boy, Bob Macina of the Pagan club, has been named by College Station authorities as a delegate to the National 4-H Club congress at Chicago, Nov. 22 to Dec. 2. He will be one of the 19 boys from Texas who will go to the big meeting as a guest of the Santa Fe railroad.

Macina won his trip on meat animal demonstration, which consisted of feeding a beef calf and preparation of an exhaustive report, covering a theoretical three-year period. He has been in club work three years. W. B. Hooser, assistant county agent, is in direct charge of boys 4-H club work in this county and has made notable progress in recent months with the 14 clubs and their 309 members.

Macina's prize-winning report is published on another page of this paper, under the heading of Boys' 4-H Club News, and is well worth the time required to read it.

Fall Term District Court Opens Monday

Seven-Weeks Session Starts Nov. 7 with Non-Jury Cases Listed for First Week

Opening next Monday morning at 9 o'clock, the regular November term of 31st judicial court for Wheeler county will begin a seven weeks session here, with Judge W. R. Ewing of Pampa, presiding. Other court officials are Lewis M. Goodrich, district attorney; Homer L. Moss, county attorney; Raymond Waters, sheriff; Holt Green, court clerk, and W. R. Frazee, stenographer.

Judge Ewing was a Wheeler visitor Saturday, at which time he examined the docket and outlined procedure for the coming term. On the opening day the docket will be sounded and Tuesday the appearance docket will be called.

The entire criminal docket is set for Monday of the third week, and will be called for trial at that time. Cases which cannot be reached for trial during that week will be re-set for a later day during the term.

All jury civil cases now pending on the docket are set for Monday of the second week, and will be called for trial in their numerical order of filing, as near as is practicable, unless otherwise set.

The court has had much difficulty in getting civil cases to trial the first jury week, states Judge Ewing, who asserts the tendency of members of the bar to postpone cases by agreement to some later week of court results frequently that during the early part of the term very little business is disposed of and during later weeks a congested docket confronts the court, necessitating continuance of cases that could have been tried at earlier sessions.

More agreement to postpone will not be recognized, declares the judge, adding "there must be a good reason for the agreement."

Court schedule by weeks follows: Nov. 7—First week; non-jury. Nov. 14—Second week; jury, civil. Nov. 21—Third week; jury, criminal. Nov. 28—Fourth week; jury, civil. Dec. 5—Fifth week; jury, civil. Dec. 12—Sixth week; jury, civil, subject to criminal. Dec. 19—Seventh week; non-jury.

Listing of civil cases—jury and non-jury—totaling 66, and comment by Judge Ewing Saturday, indicates a rather light term of court. Divorce actions number 35, as against 27 listed in the November term last year.

Star Mustang Player Injured in Accident

Buford Emler Wounded by Piece of Iron in Fall—Hopes to Meet McLean

Word received here Wednesday that Buford Emler, 164-pound full-back on the Wheeler Mustang football team, had sustained a severe injury when thrown from a horse, brought dismay to followers of the game—in view of the approaching conference battle with McLean Friday night, Nov. 11.

A piece of scrap iron pierced Emler's back in the fall, resulting in considerable loss of blood. Reports received here yesterday indicate his rapid recovery and prospects are that, barring unforeseen complications, he will be right in there with his teammates, battling for another conference victory when they meet McLean in the old corral, here.

Emler has gone the full route in six games played by the Mustangs this season. He was all-district end for the locals in 1936 when yet a freshman weighing only 128 pounds. Trouble with an ankle injury kept him on the bench during most of last year's games.

MORE COUNTY ROAD ENTERS STATE MAINTENANCE GROUP

In a letter from Julian Montgomery by T. H. Webb, assistant state highway engineer, county authorities are advised that:

"In Wheeler county it is ordered by the commission that the short spur extending from State Highway No. 152 to the town of Old Mobeetie be taken over for maintenance and that funds for maintaining this section of road be provided from the state maintenance contingent budget."

C. H. Candler, an employe of the Panhandle Power & Light plant at Jowett, is taking a two-weeks vacation. Monday he was accompanied by Mrs. Candler and children to east Texas, where they will spend most of the time with relatives.

HOW ABOUT THE ELECTION?

How will America vote on Nov. 8? What factors will influence that voting?

And how will the newly-elected congress behave?

Newsweek recently put these three questions to about two-score political correspondents representing daily newspapers of all shades of political opinion, and to eight seasoned professional politicians, including Jim Farley and John Hamilton. Their answers tabulated in a late issue of the magazine, cast an interesting light on a topic which, with the elections just around the corner, is engaging much interest.

At the present time, the Democrats have the largest congressional majority in history. There are 333 followers of the donkey in the House, as against 89 partisans of the elephant, and 13 members of minor parties. There are 77 Democrats in the senate, as against 15 lonely Republicans and four members of minor parties.

The answers of the correspondents responding to Newsweek's query, when averaged, revealed that they believed the Republicans would gain exactly 50 seats in the house, the Democrats would lose 50, and the representation of minor parties would remain at 13. The eight politicians' replies, when averaged, forecast that the Republicans would gain 52 seats, the Democrats would lose 50, and the minor parties would lose two.

Both groups forecast a gain of four seats in the senate by the Republicans, at the expense of the Democrats.

If these predictions are borne out, the Republicans will thus make a decent showing in the election—a gain of 50 seats, even in an off-year election, cannot be discounted. However, there would be nothing about that to cause excessive back-slapping in the GOP ranks. It is a significant fact that when Newsweek sent a similar group of questions to a similar group of politicians and political correspondents last April, the consensus was that the Republicans would gain 60 seats in the house. Thus, on the basis of the two sets of predictions, the Republicans have lost strength since spring.

Going into the second question (what factors will influence the voters), 20 of the men replying said that the recession would be the principal factor, and 12 gave it as the secondary factor. Eleven listed the traditional mid-term swing away from the party-in-power as their first choice, six gave Democratic dissonance, and six, the administration's fiscal policies. It is a notable fact that none gave the administration's foreign policy as first choice, and only one gave it as second choice—which indicates that in this field the president retains large favor.

In answering the third question (how will the newly elected congress behave), six correspondents said that congress would behave about as it did last session, seven thought it would be extremely independent, and seven more thought it would be somewhere between "a little more" and "extremely" independent. The great majority, 33 in number, forecast it would be "a little more independent."

UNTIE HIM!

cast it would be "a little more independent."

Summing up—on the basis of Newsweek's survey, the elections will mark the start of a mild comeback for the GOP—but will still leave the Democrats with tremendous majorities in both branches. Congress will be slightly less susceptible to White House demands. But there will be no revolutionary change.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT SEEN

News from the business front is almost uniformly good. Typical comment came recently from Alfred B. Sloan, head of General Motors, who said, "I feel encouraged for the first time in many years that American business and industry are headed for a long uphill pull." Inasmuch as Sloan has often tended to be very pessimistic in the past, this is regarded as being of exceptional significance.

For about 10 successive weeks, the business indicators have shown steady advances. This is largely due to major improvement shown by the automobile industry, whose new models are now coming on the market. In one late week, car output jumped 50 per cent. Monthly shipment rate, it is expected, will soon be at the 250,000 point.

Construction figures continue to be another bright spot in the picture, with both residential and non-residential building far above the levels of last year. Still more substantial increases in all kinds of building, including public works, are anticipated for this winter and spring.

Retail trade, which hung behind industrial production during most of the summer months, is on the rise now, with good Christmas prospects in most parts of the country.

It is an interesting fact that the wage-hour law came into effect without causing much of a ripple in business. One reason is that most large businesses are unaffected by the law's minimums, inasmuch as they have long exceeded them. Another is that most business men believe that moderate reforms of this nature are inevitable and desirable.

WHO GETS THE GRAVY?

At the head of the list of farmers and farming concerns receiving benefit payments of $10,000 or more between December, 1937, and July 1938, were three well-known Texas ranches.

For co-operation with crop control programs, the estate of Mrs. Adair, known as the JA ranch, located in Armstrong, Briscoe and Donley counties received $39,697.35. The estate of W. T. Waggoner in Wilbarger county received $42,655.65 and the great King ranch in Kleberg county was paid $112,140.04 for crop control. These amounts were paid out of the government's $500,000,000 soil conservation fund, says a recent press dispatch.

And these are only a few of the top-notch Texas beneficiaries. It would be interesting to see a complete list for the state and nation, including the amount received by the honorable Senator Bankhead, who helped cook up the scheme.

Most peculiar part of all, however, is to see the little fellows, who receive a few paltry dollars each, continue whooping it up and making it possible for the "big shots" to gorge themselves on such juicy gobbs of "government" money.

THE FINAL SAY

According to a news item in the New York Times, "Final decision on the constitutionality of one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation enacted under the New Deal—the Tennessee Valley authority—is expected to be rendered by the supreme court of the United States in its fall term." Sixteen private utilities have filed briefs with the court in opposition to the TVA's home of Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Jackson in Miami, with the Rev. Jackson officiating. The contracting parties are both members of prominent pioneer families in Roberts county.—Miami Chief.

There are plenty of rumors floating around that Marvin Jones will receive a federal judge appointment shortly after the first of the year, and that means much speculation as to a possible successor. It is a foregone conclusion that Amarillo will offer several candidates for this office. Deskins Wells, Wellington newspaper man, appears to be the favored candidate outside of Amarillo.—Ochiltree County Herald.

In 1860 the faculty of Harvard college is said to have banned football because they considered it "foolish to run around after a bag of wind." Now many people of the world are being led by "windbags," and millions more have to listen to them.—McLean News.

Few of us work as hard as we feel we do and it is rare indeed to find a man or woman who does not waste time at work. It isn't the number of hours a man spends at his employment it is what he accomplishes while there.—Claude News.

Hemphill county commissioners' court, Friday, named the Boggy Creek lake in honor of Congressman Marvin P. Jones, who has been instrumental in obtaining this recreation park for the county. "Lake Marvin" is the name selected by the commissioners' court. The court met Friday in a special session and passed a resolution to that effect.—Canadian Record.

The city dads seem to be having some trouble with getting the work started on the water-sewer project. The state has given the work orders, but the federal government is asking the city to assume all responsibility relative to the water well, since the city has not met the latest requirements under which the water-sewer project was chartered.—Lefors News.

Governor James V. Allred planted the Texas flag atop Colorado's Pike's Peak last week amid a barrage of snow-balls hurled by Governor Teller Ammons of Colorado. Governor Allred claims the famed mountain in the name of Texas, having won it in a bet on the Rice-C. S. U. football game last New Year's Day. Governor Allred probably exercised his claim on the mountain to take care of Texas' new crop of hillbillies.—Memphis Democrat.

The sorry spectacle of a district judge freeing a criminal from prison even though the man was tried and convicted in another court should jar the sense of propriety of the people and demand that the legislature pass stringent laws against such a practice. Government by injunction has prevailed too long in Texas. If one district court can undo the work of another district court without trial, then we had as well abolish all district courts.—Canyon News.

Outlining of a profitable year-around agricultural program for farmers and ranchers of the county was started Tuesday when representatives of the state extension service, bureau of agricultural economics and the soil conservation service met with a county committee at the court house. The report to be completed by the committee in a meeting Nov. 3 aims at setting figures at the level farmers believe the most practical for acreages of wheat, sorghums and other crops and the amount of livestock on the average farm.—Panhandle Herald.

More than 60,000 acres of Collingsworth county land has been set aside during the last week to promote the protection of birds and game through the organization of three game preserves. These were formed in the Enterprise, Dozier, and Indian Creek communities. One preserve had been previously formed at Abra. Another preserve association is also to be formed at Fresno.—Wellington Leader.

Why You Should Patronize Times Advertisers!

We believe the proper course of action for residents of this section is to read The Wheeler Times advertisements carefully each week, and then go and make their purchases from the listings contained in these advertisements.

Times Advertisers are the ones to trade with because:

- The fact that they advertise shows they are progressive and wide-awake business houses—the kind that have quality merchandise and will give the best of service.
- They are proud of their merchandise and their prices, otherwise they would not publish them for everyone to read. Their prices are pretty sure to be in line with good business practices, and in all probability will be quite low, quality considered.
- They are the leaders in prices. They set prices after careful and business-like consideration. Others may copy them, but the ones who make the prices are the ones who prove their confidence in the offerings and deserve your patronage.
- They are most likely to be community builders; because as a general rule, those who advertise are the ones who are of the most good to their town, encouraging citizens of the trade territory to spend and keep their money at home.
- They are making an effort to sell to you, which should be rewarded with patronage. The man who pushes his business, whether it be large or small, should be favored over the one who sits back and waits for business to come in—provided it doesn't go off to towns where more enterprise prevails through merchants inviting trade to their stores.

So, as a favor to yourself and your community . . . trade at home and

Canyon Baptist Youngsters
Give Church Program Sunday

In the absence of the pastor of the local Baptist church, Taft Holloway, who was attending the All-Southern Baptist Students conference at Memphis, Tenn., a group of Baptist Student Union members from West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon gave programs at the church Sunday morning and evening.

Billy Longbine was in charge of

MOBEETIE BAPTIST CHURCH
T. W. McKNEELY, Pastor

Through a movement to consecration in church support, the First Baptist church of Mobeetie is going forward.

On the first Sunday in October, after the pastor, Rev. T. W. McKneely, had preached on "God's Plan of Church Support," 35 members came down the aisle and signed a pledge to follow this plan during the coming year. The next Sunday the offering far more than doubled, and has varied but little since then.

The offering for October was approximately $175, $50 of which goes to mission work through the cooperative program of Texas Baptists.

The work of Christ is a great privilege and is His estimate of man's worth and His trust to the church.

Last Sunday a number of the church members contributed a fund to defray expenses of Rev. McKneely to the Baptist State convention at Dallas, next week. The pastor, deeply grateful for their thoughtfulness, expressed his gratitude in appropriate remarks.

Methodists Sponsor Broadcast

Stories of Tuan Jim in Sarawak, the land of treacherous headhunters and deadly jungles ruled by a white rajah, and of several great missionary men and women of the past and present, provide the basis for the second series of Heralds of Destiny broadcasts which the Million Unit Fellowship movement of the Methodist Episcopal church is presenting weekly over radio station KPND, Pampa.

Because the impending union of three great branches of Methodism—of direct concern to 8 million people—culminates in April, 1939, the forthcoming issue of the Heralds of Destiny series of radio transcriptions has an especial public interest this year.

Denominations which will soon be merged into the United Methodist church include the Methodist Episcopal, the Methodist Episcopal, South, and the Methodist Protestant branches.

The radio programs will be heard every week at 12:15 p. m. on Sundays, beginning Nov. 13.

This series of dramatized episodes from Methodist missionary history prepared by the Million Unit Fellowship movement under the title Heralds of Destiny, is designed to illustrate the adventure and achievement of those who build civilization on desolate frontiers from darkest Africa to the shadowed slums of America's own cities.

"Drums of Death" is the title of the program in which a missionary doctor risks certain death at the hands of African natives by attempting to save the life of the son of a jungle chief. A valiant doctor and his hospital staff who at this writing still brave the dangers of the Japanese war in China are the chief characters in another of this series of dramatizations.

Expect Successful Carnival

There is hope that the school carnival Wednesday night, Nov. 2, will be a great success. Mrs. J. H. Scribner and Wade Duncan have worked faithfully in securing articles to be used as prizes at the carnival, which will offer many entertainment features, such as ping-pong, bingo and mice bingo. The Dionne Quins will be seen in the home ec. department.

There will also be eats offered for sale, including hamburgers, sandwiches, peanuts, popcorn, candy and Coca Cola, under supervision of the home ec. The largest attendance in the history of the Mobeetie carnival is expected.

Students are busy with term themes, with Nov. 4 as the date for them to be handed in. Of course, those students who have not been in school because of other duties will be allowed some additional time in which to finish their work.

Most of the students who have been out of school to help with harvesting of crops are again in their places. We are very glad to see each and everyone of them return to their school activities.

"The Flowers at Work" was a very interesting picture shown the general science and biology classes Friday morning and again to the entire assembly in the afternoon.

Riders of the Black Hills

Those old favorites, the Three Mesquites, will be at the Rogue Friday and Saturday Nov. 4-5, in a picture called Riders of the Black Hills which is sure to please those who like their western shows. Tucson Smith, Stoney Brooke and Lullaby Joslin will be in there pitching their best to bring you a real western picture. They will be expecting all their old friends out to see them. Also, a good comedy and Chapter 10 of the Lone Ranger.

Port of Seven Seas

Wallace Beery, Frank Morgan and Maureen O'Sullivan will greet the previous audience Saturday night in a picture that you will not want to miss. It is "Port of 7 Seas." Maureen is good. Frank is tops, and Wally is his usual self. All of which adds up to one thing; namely, you can't afford to miss it. If you should fail to see it at the preview, you will have another chance Sunday matinee or Monday night.

Alexander's Ragtime Band

The most talked-of picture of 1938 is undoubtedly Alexander's Ragtime Band. And if some of you do not watch out you are going to miss it for sure, because it is coming to the Rogue on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 9-10. So better be careful and watch that mid-week date. It is next week. So do not be caught napping. There will be plenty of stars to greet you, including Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Tyrone Power.

We are not going to try to tell you what it is about because you have been hearing of this picture for some time, and if you have any doubts just ask anyone who has seen it. They will tell you that Alexander's Ragtime Band has everything. It is primarily the brain child of Irving Berlin. So do not miss it. Times Wantads—5c a line.

THE GREAT WALTZ

"Of course, Scham." She laughed too loudly. "And in Paris I'll spend all your money on clothes."

CHAPTER THREE

Hand in hand, Scham and Paul descended to the front parlor. They stopped short. Conrad and Madame were there and some of Scham's orchestra men.

Stiffening her spine, Paul took the dreadful news. Everyone crossed the floor and a conversation started. Paul's eyes were fixed on the man who was making her so miserable. "You're making her so miserable," she said to him. "You're making her so miserable," she said to him.

There was a light glow from the fire that had never increased to normal. "You're making her so miserable," she said to him. "You're making her so miserable," she said to him.

Boys 4-H Club

Reports of Activities of Wheeler County W. B. HOOSER, Sp.

(One of the requirements by Bob Macina, member of Pakan Boys' 4-H club a member of a Santa Fe railroad trip to Chicago this morning preparation of a report beef calf feeding project, ted herewith).

My 4-H Club Achiever

By BOB MACINA
Since I started taking work I have a different knowledge of myself and first thought I was the one who knew how to do things. When the county age sized our club, I found the boys who understood the same much better than I did.

I have had more pleasure in 4-H club encampments than other place. I enjoy being with other boys and girls of my age who enjoy the company of a body.

I have learned to terra build self-feeders, get the certain objects on a farm, but and sturdy feed boxes, get varieties of seed, and good calves to feed, together with other things.

When feeding out calves, learned that one cannot just feed into the feed box. A ration must be fed before gas is expected. It is necessary a lot, with a little shed and of fresh drinking water, to calf do well. He will also do better if located in a nice quiet. If there is much noise he disturbed and move around much.

When I first began my club I did not know how to keep a record. I used to put down in notebook how many handfolds and that, how many ears of etc. When the county agent over our record books he laugh mine, but told me that I had main idea about making out record.

He then showed me how to a record by the month. This something like Dad's farm box I showed him (Dad) that I keep a good record, also. I found this to be the most practical. It shows how much is on or lost on a project. When it time to judge our record book see which of our club boys won to A. & M. College Short C as the county agent said he would as soon do a hard day's work try to decide the best boy's saying they were all very good.

When our 4-H club put on to raise some money, business of nearby towns would come donate various amounts, and in manner we got acquainted with feet of our neighboring towns.

Last year I won a trip to the Club Encampment of this district was honored when I received "leader" part in the Candle Light Ceremony. This ceremony officiates the National 4-H Club gress in Washington, D. C., year. This was the last ceremony of our district encampment. At encampment I met boys scattered within a hundred-mile radius. were given some very interesting talks about wildlife, grasses, rod control and the dairy industry.

Last year our club won a prize for having the most records up to date. We are trying win it again this year.

The 4-H club is an outstanding organization, because it deals with present-day life. If our fathers belonged to this kind of club when they were boys our farming industry might be different to what it is now. While we are young we get farm in our blood, and when we grow we take the load off our fathers carry on.

Farming is the backbone of America. If it were not for farming we would not have our great industries. Through the organization of farm we can make America a better place in which to live. We start in organization when we (the boys and young men) join the 4-H clubs.

(One of the requirements met by Bob Macina, member of the Pakan Boys' 4-H club and winner of a Santa Fe railroad award trip to Chicago this month, was preparation of a report on his beef calf feeding project, submitted herewith).

My 4-H Club Achievements

By BOB MACINA Since I started taking 4-H club work I have a different view and knowledge of myself and others. I first thought I was the only one who knew how to do things the right way. When the county agent organized our club, I found there were boys who understood the same work much better than I did.

I have had more pleasure at our 4-H club encampments than any other place. I enjoy being with other boys and girls of my own age, who enjoy the company of everybody.

I have learned to terrace land, build self-feeders, get the level of certain objects on a farm, build good and sturdy feed boxes, get good varieties of seed, and good purebred calves to feed, together with many other things.

When feeding out calves, I have learned that one cannot just pour the feed into the feed box and expect the calf to get fat. A balanced ration must be fed before gains can be expected. It is necessary to have a lot, with a little shed and plenty of fresh drinking water, to make a calf do well. He will also do much better if located in a nice quiet place. If there is much noise he will be disturbed and move around too much.

When I first began my club work I did not know how to keep a record. I used to put down in a little notebook how many handfuls of this and that, how many ears of corn, etc. When the county agent looked over our record books he laughed at mine, but told me that I had the main idea about making out a record.

He then showed me how to keep a record by the month. This looked something like Dad's farm book and I showed him (Dad) that I could keep a good record, also. HARD TIMES!

IN THE "GOOD OLD DAYS" . . . AND NOW!

This is an age of complaint. We all complain about something. If it isn't the foreign situation, it's politics; and if it isn't politics it's something else. Usually we complain about business. Some businessmen complain from habit. Business is terrible, and hard times are here to stay, they claim.

Hard times! We don't know what hard times are. What we need to do is sit down and think back to the so-called "good old days" in order to appreciate what we have today. That's what somebody did in a current piece printed in the monthly publication of Moslah Shrine in Forth Worth. Believing it will have a salutary effect on some of our chronic complainers, we present it herewith:

No one ever heard him complain about hard times. He took life as it came, with nary a yip. When he heard folks complaining about hard times, he just couldn't stand it. And so he sat himself down, pen in hand, and wrote these thoughts:

"I was born eight miles from a railroad near Camden, South Carolina, five miles from a schoolhouse, nine miles from a church, 762 miles from New York, 200 yards from a wash hole, 15 feet from a cornfield and 8,767 miles from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

"Our nearest neighbors lived two miles away and they couldn't read or write. I never saw a suit of underwear until I was 17 years old, and that revelation didn't belong to anybody in our family. The only books in the house during my early childhood were a family Bible and a Sears-Roebuck catalog.

"There were 10 members in our family, but you see, we had three rooms to live in, including a dining room, which was also the kitchen. Everybody worked at our house. We thought everybody else in the world had gravy and bread for breakfast, turnip greens and cracklin' hocks for dinner, buttermilk and corn pone for supper, 'cause that's what we had—and liked it.

"Some of us wore brogan shoes occasionally in the winter time. We had nice white shorts for summertime use. We slept on straw ticks, and pillows were not thought of or required. I didn't know that money would rattle until I was nearly grown. Father got hold of two half-dollars at the same time, and let us hear them rattle. Taxes were not higher, but harder to pay than now. "We owned two kerosene lamps, neither of which had a chimney. Our house wasn't coiled, but two of our rooms had lofts in them. We had a glass window in our company room. Our nicest piece of furniture was a homemade rocking chair. Our beds were of the slat or tight-rope variety. The 'trundle bed' took care of all the 'yunguns' under five years of age and it stayed full all the time.

"We went to school two or three months in the year, but not in a bus. We attended church once a month, but not in a car; we used a two-mule wagon. We dressed up on Sundays, but not in silks or satins. We neither wrote letters nor received any. We made our own lye hominy, distilled our own lye from our own ash-hopper. We drank sassafras tea and never had a yearning for coffee.

"We sopped our own molasses; we ate our own meat; we considered rice a delicacy for only the preachers to eat; we had heard of cheese, but never saw any; we knew of some store-bought clothes, but never hoped to wear any; we got a stick of candy and three raisins for Christmas and were happy; we loved ma and pa and were never hungry; entertainment was not thought of or required. I didn't know that money would rattle until I was nearly

(Concluded from Last Week)

"Of course, Schani." She laughed too loudly. "And in Paris I'll spend all your money on clothes."

But for a sickening second they probed each others' eyes and found the truth. Then, "Come on Poldi. We'll go down and tell Mamma. What a surprise this will be."

CHAPTER THREE

Hand in hand, Schani and Poldi descended to the front parlor. They stopped short. Kienzl and Hofbauer were there and some of Schani's orchestra men.

Stiffening her spine, Poldi spoke the dreadful news. Everyone crowded around in consternation and Poldi's voice broke. She ran to Schani, burying her head in his shoulder. "They're making him go. They're driving him out. They're killing him."

There was a slight noise from the doorway and Poldi turned. Carla stood there. Poldi shivered must know—"his voice trailed off pitifully—"what this costs me."

She was tense, raising all her defenses. "But—what is it?"

He looked at her as if he were seeking help. Then he went on. "For some time, Madame Donner and your husband have been carrying on an infatuation. During all these weeks of rehearsal they have been together constantly."

She swayed a bit. How did he dare? Then she managed a sophisticated little smile. "You know of course there are always rumors."

He crossed to her and rasped, "For your sake—I do not presume to say for mine—and for his sake, you must stop this at once. They will destroy each other. They are artists. One will destroy the other. It will be jealousy, hate, coldness, torment. It would ruin a man of Mr. Strauss' nature."

She clenched her hands. "You compel me to say, Count Hohenfried what I had never intended to reveal. This—attachment is known to me, has been known to me for

He was returning to all he had thought lost.

for a second. Then, hungrily, tragically, her gaze fastened on Schani's face.

Gulping with excitement Anna announced the distinguished visitor and Carla glided to Schani, seeming for a moment to ignore the rest. "I have great news Mr. Strauss. You've been commissioned to write an opera for me."

Hofbauer burst out, "But he must leave Vienna within forty-eight hours."

"Oh I see." So Hohenfried had gotten here first. It has been a clever ruse but it wouldn't work. Franz Joseph had completely forgotten Schani by now. "That order, I may inform you, will never become official. You are to write an opera for the Imperial Theatre, Mr. Strauss for me."

Poldi used all her strength to get her through the next few moments—the polite introductions, the good-byes to the men, the offer of coffee to Madame Donner. But the tears coursed down her face as she made her way to the kitchen.

Alone, Schani and Carla faced each other. He took a deep breath. "There will be no opera," he said flatly, and walked to the window. "We're leaving Vienna."

Carla was standing beside him. "Must I lose the composer too?" she asked softly.

He whirled around. "Carla," he whispered huskily and took her in his arms, searching for her lips, crushing them, bruising them...

The months went by and all Vienna whispered of the love between the glorious Carla Donner and the young composer, Johann Strauss.

Poldi's heart had become a lump of ice which filled her bosom. There were terror-filled nights and empty, meaningless days. She and Schani had drifted so far apart.

Passing the theatre one afternoon she saw the poster which announced the opening of his new Comic Opera, starring Madame Carla Donner. Decision came to her then. She would not attend.

She sat in the living room that night with Schani's mother. Her face was quite composed though her sewing needle wavered a bit. Schani had long since left for the performance.

Mrs. Strauss addressed her querulously. "Poldi, I don't want to nag you but after all you really belong there. What will people think?"

The doorbell rang and a moment later Poldi was facing a stranger, a distinguished appearing person in formal dress uniform. A shiver of apprehension went over her as he gave her his name. Count Anton Hohenfried. How—queer.

Leading him into the back parlor, she quietly closed the door. "Yes?"

Twice he opened his lips and did not speak. Then, finally, he said, "Forgive me Madame. I am a straightforward person and I will tell you first—that I am in love with Carla Donner." She stepped back and he said urgently, "I beg you to understand Madame. You been wrong. They were one, not two. They belonged together. She had come to slay this woman but Schani's spirit would have died with her.

Slowly, she moved upstairs to the dressing room. Just on the landing she came face to face with Carla. There was a curiously suspended moment. Then, very carefully, she spoke. "I came to see you tonight Madame," she began, "to fight for him. But I realized that I wasn't fighting for him but for myself. That's not what I want to do."

Carla's eyes were bright with suspicion. "Is that what you came here to tell me?"

"No. I want to tell him something. Tell him that he's quite free. That he need not worry about me. Will you tell him, please?"

In spite of herself Carla was moved. "You're very unselfish."

Poldi shook her head soberly. "You know Madame, it's a silly thing to say but I think I love his happiness even more than I do him." She started for the stairs. "Well, I mustn't keep you."

Suddenly she stopped. Schani was facing her, staring as if he'd seen a ghost. "Why have you come here?" he demanded.

She looked at him imploringly. There must be no ugly words between them. "You're free Schani," she said tenderly, "free to take your happiness with her. That's—"

Her bag slipped from her nerveless fingers. Then, as luck would have it, the faulty catch came open and the tiny revolver lay there, nakedly. Quickly, she snatched it up. She shook her head in answer to his dilated gaze. "No Schani, it was for her. But I was wrong—so terribly wrong."

"You cared—that much, Poldi?"

She moved past him and looked back. Her smile was slanted. "Loving and hating. Sometimes it is all one. Goodbye Schani—and great happiness to you both."

He started toward her but she had slipped through the door, like a wraith.

In almost a blanket silence he and Carla gathered up belongings. Neither one could pretend. Not when they were in the carriage, not even when they had reached the boat station.

It was Carla however who faced it openly. Beckoning the porter, she indicated her own bags. "Take only these two."

With a low cry, Schani stepped toward her. Their eyes locked. Then he said in an oddly formal voice, "I shall be grateful to you for this as long as I live."

Her lips curved in mocking self-appraisal. "I am a very vain woman. I could never be content with so little of your heart." She turned and hurried aboard. From the rail of the ship she called, "Remember me Schani," and softly sang, "One day when we were young..."

"Schani," she begged prettily, though tears had begun to clog her voice, "you wrote that for me. Will you give it to me?"

"It has always been yours." Then, "Carla, my darling," were the words that were smothered in his throat. Bareheaded he stood there as the boat became a speck in the distance. The beautiful blue Danube, his Danube was carrying her away—but it was bringing him back everything he had thought he'd lost. It was a lovely river. It would flow through his heart forever.

And as the Danube flowed on, so did Schani's songs. The happy, busy years with Poldi at his side went by and receded into distance of time and thought. One decade, two, three and even more, passed...

It was on a Spring afternoon some fifty years later that Poldi and Schani proceeded up the hall to the Emperor's chambers.

Schani was a bit worried. "Let's see. Three steps into the room and bow from the waist." Turning to Poldi he gave her a little kiss. There. That seemed to help matters.

Entering the room he began the ritual but the Emperor was already moving towards him. "No, no, none of that business, Strauss." He offered his hand in a firm grip and chuckled. "You pulled my nose once, remember?"

Strange Superstitions

Among the Tibetans a fashionable burial custom is to have the undertaker cut up the body and expose it to beasts and birds of prey, when the flesh has been devoured, the bones are cast into the river with the exception of a few that are kept by the family as mementos.

A box office superstition holds that if the first purchaser of tickets for a new production is an old person the play will have a long run.

A torn bank note means a change of position or the ticket seller.

Boys 4-H Club News

Reports of Activities and Work of Wheeler County Clubs.
W. B. HOOSER, Sponsor

(One of the requirements met by Bob Macina, member of the Pagan Boys' 4-H club and winner of a Santa Fe railroad award trip to Chicago this month, was preparation of a report on his beef calf feeding project, submitted herewith).

My 4-H Club Achievements

By BOB MACINA
Since I started taking 4-H club work I have a different view and knowledge of myself and others. I first thought I was the only one who knew how to do things the right way. When the county agent organized our club, I found there were boys who understood the same work much better than I did.

I have had more pleasure at our 4-H club encampments than any other place. I enjoy being with other boys and girls of my own age, who enjoy the company of everybody.

I have learned to terrace land, build self-feeders, get the level of certain objects on a farm, build good and sturdy feed boxes, get good varieties of seed, and good purebred calves to feed, together with many other things.

When feeding out calves, I have learned that one cannot just pour the feed into the feed box and expect the calf to get fat. A balanced ration must be fed before gains can be expected. It is necessary to have a lot, with a little shed and plenty of fresh drinking water, to make a calf do well. He will also do much better if located in a nice quiet place. If there is much noise he will be disturbed and move around too much.

When I first began my club work I did not know how to keep a record. I used to put down in a little notebook how many handfuls of this and that, how many ears of corn, etc. When the county agent looked over our record books he laughed at mine, but told me that I had the main idea about making out a record.

He then showed me how to keep a record by the month. This looked something like Dad's farm book and I showed him (Dad) that I could keep a good record, also. I have found this to be the most practical way. It shows how much is gained or lost on a project. When it came time to judge our record books to see which of our club boys would go to A. & M. College Short Course, the county agent said he would just as soon do a hard day's work as to try to decide the best boy's book; saying they were all very good.

When our 4-H club put on plays to raise some money, business men of nearby towns would come and donate various amounts, and in this manner we got acquainted with people of our neighboring towns.

Last year I won a trip to the 4-H Club Encampment of this district. I was honored when I received the "leader" part in the Candle Lighting Ceremony. This ceremony officially closes the National 4-H Club Congress in Washington, D. C., each year. This was the last ceremony of our district encampment. At this encampment I met boys scattered within a hundred-mile radius. We were given some very interesting talks about wildlife, grasses, rodent control and the dairy industry.

Last year our club won a county prize for having the most record books up to date. We are trying to win it again this year.

The 4-H club is an outstanding organization, because it deals with present-day life. If our fathers had belonged to this kind of club when they were boys our farming industry might be different to what it is now. While we are young we get farming in our blood, and when we grow up we take the load off our fathers and carry on.

Farming is the backbone of America. If it were not for farming where would our great industries be? Through the organization of farmers we can make America a better place in which to live. We start in this organization when we (the boys and young men) join the 4-H clubs.

How do you pray, my good friend?
How to your God do you send Praises welling from within;
Grasp thoughts of love from above?

Oh, I know, with your music,
With swelling and joyous sound;
Gems of harmony unbound
Smiling down on raptures found.

And you, with your paint and brush,
Painting pictures of the thrush
And of pastures green and lush;
Sketching wonders of God's love.

How do I pray, you wonder?
I write of gentle showers,
Love, sorrows and bright flowers,

HARD TIMES!

IN THE "GOOD OLD DAYS" . . . AND NOW!

This is an age of complaint. We all complain about something. If it isn't the foreign situation, it's politics; and if it isn't politics it's something else. Usually we complain about business. Some businessmen complain from habit. Business is terrible, and hard times are here to stay, they claim.

Hard times! We don't know what hard times are. What we need to do is sit down and think back to the so-called "good old days" in order to appreciate what we have today. That's what somebody did in a current piece printed in the monthly publication of Moslah Shrine in Forth Worth. Believing it will have a salutary effect on some of our chronic complainers, we present it herewith:

No one ever heard him complain about hard times. He took life as it came, with nary a yip. When he heard folks complaining about hard times, he just couldn't stand it. And so he sat himself down, pen in hand, and wrote these thoughts:

"I was born eight miles from a railroad near Camden, South Carolina, five miles from a schoolhouse, nine miles from a church, 762 miles from New York, 200 yards from a wash hole, 15 feet from a cornfield and 8,767 miles from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

"Our nearest neighbors lived two miles away and they couldn't read or write. I never saw a suit of underwear until I was 17 years old, and that revelation didn't belong to anybody in our family. The only books in the house during my early childhood were a family Bible and a Sears-Roebuck catalog.

"There were 10 members in our family, but you see, we had three rooms to live in, including a dining room, which was also the kitchen. Everybody worked at our house. We thought everybody else in the world had gray and bread for breakfast, turnip greens and cracklin' hoeecake for dinner, buttermilk and corn pone for supper, 'cause that's what we had—and liked it.

"Some of us wore brogan shoes occasionally in the winter time. We had nice white shorts for summer-time use. We slept on straw ticks, and pillows were not thought of or required. I didn't know that money would rattle until I was nearly grown.

Father got hold of two half-dollars at the same time, and let us hear them rattle. Taxes were not higher, but harder to pay than now.

"We owned two kerosene lamps, neither of which had a chimney. Our house wasn't ceiled, but two of our rooms had lofts in them. We had a glass window in our company room. Our nicest piece of furniture was a homemade rocking chair. Our beds were of the slat or tight-rope variety. The 'trundle bed' took care of all the 'yunguns' under five years of age and it stayed full all the time.

"We went to school two or three months in the year, but not in a bus. We attended church once a month, but not in a car; we used a two-mule wagon. We dressed up on Sundays, but not in silks or satins. We neither wrote letters nor received any.

We made our own lye hominy, distilled our own lye from our own ash-hopper. We drank sassafras tea and never had a yearning for coffee.

"We sopped our own molasses; we ate our own meat; we considered rice a delicacy for only the preachers to eat; we had heard of cheese, but never saw any; we knew of some store-bought clothes, but never hoped to wear any; we got a stick of candy and three raisins for Christmas and were happy; we loved ma and pa and were never hungry; enjoyed going naked; didn't want much, expected nothing. That is why our so-called hard times ain't hard on me."

There may be some "hooy" in the above, but your hard-time dollar WILL BUY MORE IN WHEELER, and the Wheeler merchants will appreciate your trade.

West Texas Penalized in its Freight Rates

Discrimination is Charged After Survey by Chamber of Commerce Traffic Board

Discrimination against West Texas by the present freight rate structure is penalizing this area $100,000,000 annually, charges the WTCC traffic board in an exhaustive analysis of the freight rate question just released.

West Texas with the greatest wealth of natural resources of any similar area in the nation, is paying higher freight rates than any other section, comparisons of the five major railroad regions of the United States made in the WTCC report show.

Freight rates in West Texas are 72 per cent greater than in the Ohio-Indiana, or official territory, which is the lowest-rate zone in the nation. First-class rate in official territory for 500-mile hauls is $1.22 per 100 pounds as compared with $2.26 per 100 for equal haul in extreme West Texas or differential territory, the report says.

West Texas' rates are higher in spite of the fact that statistics are presented in the report to show that expense of transportation is 17 per cent less in this zone than in any other region.

Nothing short of a legislative mandamus to the Interstate Commerce commission will remedy the situation, the report states. The WTCC traffic board recommends that the regional organization and its 191 affiliates in 132 counties champion an amendment to the Interstate Commerce act which will "definitely instruct the Interstate Commerce commission to revise the intra-territorial freight rate structure so as to bring the rates closer together in both level and scheme, said level not to exceed a maximum of 5 per cent as between any of the regions of the country, and to revise and blend the inter-territorial rates with the intra-territorial structures."

Many of the rules and regulations governing rate-making and some of the rate zones had their origin in former days even before the establishment of the ICC and enactment of the Interstate Commerce act. "In view of greatly changed conditions as to development, density of traffic and transportation, the board feels that the time has now arrived when there should be a complete overhauling and revision of all freight rate-making policies and practices," the report states.

While rail carriers have statistics to show that average rates for the country as a whole have decreased figures show that West Texas rates have steadily increased during the last two decades, the report continues. Examples of these increases include: Maximum rate of 15c per 100 pounds on West Texas wheat in 1914 as compared with 35c in October, 1938, an increase of 133 per cent; rate on fat cattle from nine West Texas towns to Fort Worth was 20 1/2c in 1914 as compared with 30.84c at present, an increase of 50 per cent; any quantity cotton rate, excluding compressing and handling charges, was around 39c per 100 in 1914 from nine principal West Texas shipping points as compared with 53c at present, an increase of 36 per cent.

Tables showing increases in first-class rates are given in the report. From 1914 to the present, these rates between 11 West Texas towns and Houston increased an average of 130 per cent, the report states.

These increases in freight rates were made during a period when production of some commodities was increasing more than 1,000 per cent and when population of many West Texas cities was increasing more than 500 per cent, the report points out.

From these studies, the traffic committee concludes: "That West Texas when judged by population and quantity of production, has the nation's highest freight rate level; that its rates have been increasing while others have decreased; that others can ship into this territory at lower rates than shippers living in this territory have to pay for shipping wholly within the territory, and that expense of operating transportation facilities in West Texas appears to be lower even than in official territory."

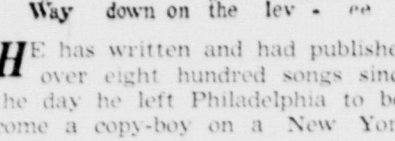

The board states that its approach to the problem is not one of fighting the railroads or of depriving them of needed revenues, but is one of "equalizing the revenue payments as between the various sections of the United States to the end that one group of producers and consumers will not pay more proportionately to these revenues than another group of producers and consumers."

H. S. Hilburn, Plainview, WTCC president, says the report is accurate and conservative and is vital to the welfare and development of West Texas. The freight rate report represents one of the greatest pieces of pioneer, constructive work ever undertaken for West Texas, he declared in urging full co-operation with the WTCC in this movement by every town in the territory.

The analysis and report was assembled and prepared by D. A. Bandeen, Abilene, WTCC manager, and E. R. Tanner, El Paso, traffic man-newspaper. He wanted to be an actor, and for years, his was a "name act" in vaudeville.

The writing of lyrics occupied a good deal of his time, and the song "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" was written with Lewis F. Muir, who started out by being angry at a caustic criticism of his works and wound up by collaborating with his critic.

They took their song to a publisher, but he did not like it, and so they left in such a hurry that they forgot the music. By the time they had returned, the publisher had changed his mind, and the song became a great hit.

He is a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and recently radio stations celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his career as a songwriter. He has written lyrics for "Take Me to the Swanee Shore," "Ramona," "Jeanine, I Dream of Lilac Time," "Don't Wake Me Up, Let Me Dream," etc. He lives in Hollywood with his family.

State Health Officer Issues Motor Warning

Carbon Monoxide a Serious Danger from Defective Connections and in Closed Garages

To minimize the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning during winter weather, motorists are urged by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, to check up now on the exhaust systems of their automobiles for defective connections and leaks.

"This unseasonable weather will give way to winter soon and it will be necessary to drive in closed cars. Carbon monoxide may seep inside from leaky connections and overwhelm occupants of the car," Dr. Cox warned.

He said that "warming up" a car in a closed garage is the greatest cause of carbon monoxide deaths. Leaks from manifold connections, cracked manifolds, defective mufflers, leaks from loose connections and leaks from hot air heater connections are potential sources for release of carbon monoxide and should be checked, the doctor pointed out.

"Pay particular attention to these items and remember that proper carburetor adjustment causes minimum production of carbon monoxide and that the highest proportion of this gas is produced by an idling motor."

The state health officer said that headaches which occur during long drives may be an indication that carbon monoxide is leaking into the car. Sleepiness, dizziness, fatigue and in extreme cases, paralysis are other symptoms of carbon monoxide leaking into the car. Truck drivers making long drives are particularly vulnerable, he stated.

Doctor Cox described this gas as being colorless, odorless and tasteless. When in the air it gives no sign of its presence and is taken into the blood instead of oxygen. Suffering or collapse result from lack of oxygen.

Lubbock Conference on Water Resources

Meeting Dated for Next Monday to Discuss Methods of Saving Underground Supplies

Invitations to all interested officials and citizens to attend a district ground water conference in Lubbock, Monday, Nov. 7, to be held in the ballroom of the Hilton Hotel at 2:30 p. m., have been extended by officials of the city and Chamber of Commerce there.

On that occasion, members of a state-wide committee appointed at a conference in Austin last summer are to be present for a public hearing and discussion of legislation to be proposed to the January legislative session seeking to conserve diminishing underground water resources of Texas. F. W. Pulliam of Crystal City is committee chairman.

The Lubbock conference will be the only one held within the area north of the Texas and Pacific railroad, including the whole of the South Plains and the Texas Panhandle, and extending eastward to include the tier of counties made up of Wilbarger, Baylor and Throckmorton.

Members of the state-wide committee, additional to Pulliam, are E. V. Spence, city manager of Big Spring; W. B. Tuttle, San Antonio; R. L. Holmes, Dallas; R. L. Puerrifoy, Kingsville; George F. Findlay, Houston, and W. H. Rodgers, Lubbock city manager. Expected also to attend are Major E. A. Wood, director of the Texas Planning board; Ireland Hampton of Fort Worth, attorney for the board, and probably a number of others.

The conference and the contemplated legislation to be discussed, according to Pulliam, are of concern to every municipality, industry and farmer depending upon underground reserves for a water supply.

Last summer's conference, called by Gov. James V. Allred, was the result of growing alarm because of depleting supplies of such water. Attending were representatives from every section of Texas. Reports were agreed that ground reserves in most of the state are lower than a few years ago and that diminishment is continuing at an alarming rate, in some cases having reached a critical stage.

The plains region, reports indicated, is more fortunate than most sections, although repeated warnings were sounded that an eventually serious problem is inevitable unless steps are taken speedily to conserve existing resources.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

No man is allowed to operate a railroad locomotive—though it runs on rails along a predetermined track, with every conceivable safety device to prevent accidents—without long and rigorous training, and periodic examinations for health and capability.

No man can command a ship—though it plies oceans and waterways where the chance of collision with another vessel is microscopically small—without similar training and examinations to determine fitness and ability.

No man can fly an airplane—though its "highway" is the empty air—without providing absolute proof of his competence.

Yet any man can operate an automobile down crowded streets and highways, where the margin between safe passage and a possible serious accident is a matter of inches, no matter how ill-fitted he is to drive safely.

That fact largely explains the gigantic motor vehicle accident toll. In some states no examination of any kind is required to obtain a driving license. In others not even a license is needed—the most ignorant and incompetent can get behind the wheel and roar away, endangering everyone in his path. And in most of those states where drivers' licensing systems have been established, the law is usually inadequate and prevents only the most obviously incompetent from endangering the public safety.

Physical infirmities, bad vision, defective hearing, and most important of all, psychological handicaps that make safe driving impossible—these are found in literally millions of people who are today operating steel juggernauts capable of 100-mile-an-hour speeds. We'll never go far toward solving the accident problem until every state takes the steps necessary to making certain that no person is given a license without providing proof of reasonable capability and a thorough knowledge of traffic regulations.

We've let the incapable drive as they pleased—and they've made our highways a shambles.

A deep red in color and velvety in texture, Grillo's thornless rose is termed a "sport" or freak since accidental grafting produced the thornless blossoms on this new plant world creation. We can now boast of spineless cacti, fuzzless peaches, and seedless raisins along with backboneless bathing suits and thornless roses, but if we could also add stinging tongues of gossip mongers to the parade we'd really have something then.—Scurry County Times.

Of good news to many football fans around Wheeler is the fact that Buford Emler will be able to play in the conference engagement with the McLean Tigers here Nov. 11, unless more serious complications arise. At present Emler is in a Shamrock hospital, suffering from a severe wound sustained in a fall from a horse.

Should the Mustangs defeat McLean, and it is conceded by many that they have a good chance, it would throw the northern half of the district into a three-way tie, with Wheeler, Shamrock and McLean each with one loss against them.

Despite the fact that the Wheeler Mustangs had another open date on their schedule this week end, they have been drilling hard in preparation for the coming encounter with the Tigers. Coach Stina Cain has been sending his charges through stiff workouts, putting special stress on the defense in an effort to stop the bulky Tigers.

T. C. U., true to my last week's prediction, has moved into second place ranking with all college football teams in the nation. Texas Tech's ripping Red Raiders, another famed Texas college team that has gained more than ordinary recognition this season, is still on the undefeated list with other leading teams of the nation. Duke is the only team that has not been scored on.

THE NEW Firestone CONVOY

THE TIRE THAT PUTS MONEY IN YOUR POCKET!

NEW HIGH QUALITY AT A New low price

Save 25%

HERE is the tire that is easy on your purse — the tire that puts money in your pocket by saving you 25%. The sensational Firestone Convoy Tire hits a new all time high in value for it has everything you want — safety, mileage and blowout protection. You will have to see it to appreciate all its extra value features and when you do, you will agree that the new Firestone Convoy is the tire sensation of 1938.

New High Quality — First choice rubber and cotton selected that conforms to Firestone's high standards and rigid specifications.

Long Mileage — Safe, silent tread design made of tough, slow wearing rubber that assures long mileage. Sturdy bars and rugged notches give protection against skidding.

Blowout Protection — Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone Patented Gum-Dipping process. Every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber which counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Puncture Protection — Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread protects against punctures.

NEW LOW PRICES — because Firestone saves money by controlling and securing rubber and cotton at the source and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution. These savings make possible the extra values at these new low prices.

Don't miss this opportunity to save money. Let us put a set of the new large size, rugged, long wearing Firestone Convoy Tires on your car today.

Texas Baptists V Seek Largest I

Texas Baptists will face a million dollar battle of largest in their history—at the General convention which will be held in Dallas, Nov. 8-11, in a special communication national headquarters city.

Dr. R. C. Campbell of Dallas, secretary of the Baptist board, will present the dollar-objective for 1939 on day night, Nov. 9, the day of the session which is expected to draw 12,000 delegates from every part of the state. These will represent the 660,000 of churches affiliated with the general convention.

The record-breaking budget signed to finance all phase of the general convention, including share of support of Southern missionary activities throughout the world. The convention is to hear reports on recent damages sustained by missions in war zones.

Preceding the general Texas Baptist women will hold their annual convention Nov. 7. A. Copass of Fort Worth is president of the Women's Missionary. The annual pastor's and 1 conference will be held simultaneously as a preliminary to the meeting.

All phases of Texas Baptist day, including hospitals, school day schools, training unions, missions and orphan homes, will be viewed and plans made for year's work. Dr. J. B. Tidwell, pastor of Bible at Baylor University, Waco, will bring his report as president of the convention at the closing session Tuesday, Nov. 8, evening.

Another highlight of the convention will be the annual report committee on civic righteousness.

Texas Baptists Will Seek Largest Budget

Texas Baptists will face the challenge of a million dollar budget—the largest in their history—at the Baptist General convention which meets in Dallas, Nov. 8-11, inclusive, states a special communication from denominational headquarters in that city.

Dr. R. C. Campbell of Dallas, general secretary of the Baptist executive board, will present the million-dollar objective for 1939 on Wednesday night, Nov. 9, the second day of the session which is expected to draw 12,000 delegates from all corners of the state. These delegates will represent the 660,000 members of churches affiliated with the general convention.

The record-breaking budget is designed to finance all phases of denominational work, including Texas' share of support of Southern Baptist missionary activities throughout the world. The convention is expected to hear reports on recent heavy damages sustained by mission properties in war zones.

Preceding the general sessions, Texas Baptist women will hold their annual convention Nov. 7. Mrs. B. A. Copass of Fort Worth is president of the Women's Missionary union. The annual pastor's and laymen's conference will be held simultaneously as a preliminary to the general meeting.

All phases of Texas Baptist activity, including hospitals, schools, Sunday schools, training unions, publications and orphan homes, will be reviewed and plans made for next year's work. Dr. J. B. Tidwell, professor of Bible at Baylor university, Waco, will bring his report as president of the convention at the opening session Tuesday, Nov. 8, in the evening.

Another highlight of the convention will be the annual report of the committee on civic righteousness, which will be given by W. L. Howse, educational director of the Broadway Baptist church, Fort Worth. Dr. John L. Whorton of the First Baptist church, Longview, will follow this report with an address on civic righteousness which is expected to be a bristling review of current moral issues.

Small Farmer Favored in 1939 AAA Program

The small farmer gets special consideration in the AAA's 1939 program, says an extension service bulletin from College Station.

The consideration comes in the shape of a "25-acre exemption" clause. AAA workers at the state office at Texas A. and M. college estimated it would effect more than 60,000 farmers. The majority of the state's small farms are located in east Texas.

Under the 1939 program any farm receiving a total soil-depleting acreage allotment of less than 25 acres will be exempt from acreage control of general crops up to a total soil-depleting acreage of 25 acres.

The working of the clause was explained with an example by George Slaughter, farmer-chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation committee. "Say a 30-acre farm gets a cotton allotment of 8 acres and an additional general crops allotment of 12 acres. That's a total soil-depleting acreage allotment of 20 acres. As long as this farmer doesn't exceed his cotton allotment, he can plant 17 acres to general crops and still comply with the program."

If the farmer planted his 8 acres of cotton and 17 acres of feed or other general crops, his total soil-depleting acreage would be 25 acres, 5 acres above his allotment but within the 25-acre exemption, Slaughter pointed out. Under the 1938 program he would have been limited to his 20-acre allotment.

Beating the Frost King
By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

Late feed crops which need more time to mature their seed are in danger of frost at almost any time now. It is not necessary to lose a large part of their feed value either by premature cutting or from frost, if the crop is made into ensilage. If frost strikes unexpectedly and singes the foliage, cut the crop as quickly as possible and ensile it later.

Often the daily weather report will forewarn of killing frost, and give time to cut the crop before it strikes. In either case the bundles can lie as they fall until cutting is completed, with slight damage to its feeding value.

Two years ago the writer saw many fields of grain sorghums hit by premature frost in the lower Panhandle. Growers started the row binders immediately, and the frost damage did not extend beyond the foliage. Those who had not already prepared for it, began digging trench silos, leaving the crop in the field until the silo was ready.

Since it only takes a day or two to construct a trench of considerable capacity, the crop dried out very little in the meantime.

It is preferable to permit the seed to mature, since the feeding value of the ensilage is greater than if it is cut in the "dough" stage, which was formerly recommended.

On the other hand, the silo will preserve its full value in whatever stage it has to be ensiled, and immature silage is far better than no silage at all. The past summer saw many fields burned up by drought and useless for feed which would have been well worth saving had the crop been cut and ensiled before it was entirely ruined.

It is strange but true that some people still question the practicability of the trench silo. The point is well illustrated by the reply recently given the writer about sheep on the farms in East Texas. "Well," answered the man asked, "those who have no farm flocks are still saying sheep do no good in East Texas, and those who have them want more."

So with the silo—I've never found a man who gave it a fair trial who didn't like it.

It is neither hard nor expensive. While an ensilage cutter, a row binder or even an ensilage harvester which takes the place of both, is a great advantage, ensilage can be made without either.

Cut it with a butcher knife on a broom handle, a machete, a sled cutter, if a better implement is not available. Cut it while succulent and the foliage is green if possible; add water according to the degree of dryness; you can even make ensilage from cured fodder by using enough water, but that isn't the way it ought to be done.

It is much easier to feed out if the ensilage is cut into short shreds and it also packs better in the silo. But good ensilage is made by laying the stalks shingle-fashion, closely packing them, and wetting them down to facilitate fermentation.

The only real indispensables are to exclude the air and provide moisture enough to insure the fermentation which preserves the material. Keep these two points in mind and anyone can make good ensilage of corn, sweet or grain sorghums, or other highly carbonaceous forage.

Ensilage made of whole stalks, singly or in bundles, must be cut as fed, and a simple implement to do this will cost a dollar or less. A heavy iron bar for a handle with a transverse blade of tempered steel (which can be kept sharp will do the job of cutting).

"My Skin Was Full of Pimples and Blemishes from Constipation" says Verna Schlepp: "Since using Adlerika the pimples are gone. My skin is smooth and glows with health. Adlerika washes BOTH bowels, and relieves constipation that so often aggravates a bad complexion. City Drug Store."

I GIVE YOU TEXAS
By BOYCE HOUSE

A little boy in an old Southern town went home from school shouting because the son of the banker had poked fun at his home-made clothes. That was a good many years ago. A while back, the man returned to the town on a visit. He had become one of the most famous preachers in the nation. He was wearing a $100 suit of clothes and a fine hat that members of his congregation had given him. His smile, his handshake, his handsome features would have made him a stand-out in any gathering.

As he was talking to a group of former schoolmates, a shabby individual came shuffling forward. Someone said, "You remember Bill." It was the banker's son.

The minister was the Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of a huge church in Fort Worth, Texas, and another in Detroit, Mich. He commutes by airplane between the two widely-separated congregations.

Seen in Austin recently: J. J. Gallaher, former mayor of Graham. Under a spreading oak that still stands in the yard of the hotel which Gallaher owns, the Southwestern Cattle association was organized 40 years or more ago.

More people have been lined up against a wall in Fort Worth and shot than in any plaza in Central America. Of course, the "shooting" in Fort Worth is done with a camera. The wall is at the side entrance of Hotel Texas and is a favorite background of newspaper cameramen in making pictures of visiting notables.

Harry Brelsford was a captain during the World War when he was two months past 18. Do you know of a younger A.E.F. captain than that? When he left the army at the close of the war, he was commissioned as major in the reserve at 19. Now an attorney in Tulsa, Major Brelsford was born and reared in Eastland.

Fort Worth dramatic critics are still chuckling about the famous columnist and scenario writer of Manhattan and Hollywood who, between cocktails, delivered a lecture on the etiquette—or lack of it—of the American people. Halfway through the discourse, he slumped forward and fell asleep with his head in a plate of scrambled eggs.

"Texas' foremost orator" is the way one newspaper writer referred to T. J. Holbrook, retiring senator from Galveston. Which reminds one of the story concerning Caruso who greeted John McCormack with "How's the world's greatest tenor this morning?" To which the Irishman replied, "When did you start singing bass?"

Similarly, when did Pat Neff move out of the state?

The ablest orator among the candidates in the recent primaries was Ralph Yarborough, who sought the attorney generalship. "The greatest speech I've heard since Jim Hogg," was the tribute that elderly East Texas citizens paid to his oratory.

Speaking of spellbinders, C. C. McDonald is no slouch and neither is Alvin Owsley, American minister to Denmark. For humor, Mark McGee is hard to beat. Jimmy Allred is not to be sneezed at, although he may find that the federal bench cramps his evangelistic style.

MORE HEAT—FASTER! That's what car owners want in these days of modern winter transportation; when driving is no longer just a luxury, but a necessary part of business and personal welfare. The modern motor car should be equipped with the new South Wind Car Heater which operates on a new and different principle—by using small quantities of the excellent motor fuel, gasoline, already at hand. It is under perfect control and safe at all times, because it has its own sealed vacuum combustion chamber. It manufactures its own heat quickly—large volumes of it—independent of engine temperature or speed. Let us demonstrate this new winter necessity.

Farmers Hear Reports from State Gathering

Paul Stauffer, County Assn. Pres., and Mrs. Jim Trout Tell of State Convention

Before a fair sized audience, well-shown on actual farmers, at a regular meeting of the Wheeler County Agricultural association in the district court room here Tuesday evening, Paul Stauffer, president of the organization, and Mrs. Jim Trout gave reports from the state association convention at Waco last week. Stauffer and Mrs. Trout were delegates from Wheeler county to the state gathering.

"I first wish to thank the Wheeler County Agricultural association for the privilege of being their representative at the state convention. I surely enjoyed the trip.

"The convention opened by all joining in singing 'America'. The assembly was welcomed to Waco by the general manager of the Waco Chamber of Commerce. A farmer by the name of John Crome gave the response.

"The auditor's report showed the financial standing of the Texas Agricultural association as good, but in need of money for new work that should be done.

"The subject of the president's report was the twenty-third Psalm. He mentioned that three positions were named in the beginning of this Psalm: walking, standing and sitting, and that he had tried to keep our organization in a walking position. He named the accomplishments of the organization for the past year, which were 19 or 12 outstanding ones. These have all been named and discussed in the 'Farmers Banner'." He concluded by stating that the farmer's greatest problem now is to build his own farm program.

"Miss Mildred Horton, vice director of Texas Extension service, gave an interesting talk on the qualities of a good organization.

"Robert A. Manire, state director of Vocational Agricultural Teachers, told some of the things they are teaching the boys who are to be our future farmers.

"E. G. Arnold, organization director, southern region American Farm Bureau federation, told how to organize our farmers. And that we needed plenty of fun and pep in our organization.

"Edward A. O'Neal, president American Farm Bureau federation, expressed his views on farm legislation, and among other things stated that we will have to get rid of surpluses in order to get parity prices. He also called attention to the fact that other farm organizations oppose each other and the Farm Bureau in the kind of laws to be enacted in regard to agriculture. He said that all farmers are going to have to cooperate to get justice for all. He favors a processing tax. And stated that big business, including Tammany Hall, is realizing that if the farmer is not prosperous, neither is any other business. He mentioned the Labor question, and asked what the farmer wanted to do with W. P. A., C. C. C. camps, R. E. A., truck and freight rates, etc.

"At the banquet we were entertained with music, a reading and by two talks. Joe T. Sneddon, a representative of the railroad workers union, told of some of the problems they had in organizing their union and the number of years it took to gain the strength they now have.

"Dr. R. H. Montgomery, professor of economics, University of Texas, made a very interesting talk about the economic condition of our nation and state. He told us that 80 per cent of our net annual income belonged to people outside of the State of Texas. He said that after the Civil War the wealth of the United States drifted to the North and East. Therefore that section became more wealthy and today the South is the nation's No. 1 economic problem. He said the thing we need is to in some way distribute the wealth from the North and East back to the entire population of the nation so they can spend it and bring about recovery of business. It is his opinion that other nations of the world have started raising cotton instead of buying from the United States to develop their own resources and become self-supporting in case of war.

"Senator Allen J. Elender of Louisiana discussed the present farm bill and some changes that he hopes can be made. He favors a processing tax on all the major farm commodities, and especially on cotton. He favors co-operative marketing and says that it saves farmers 100 to 150 cents on cotton.

"Space here would not permit me to give all the changes made in the constitution of our organization and the resolutions adopted. One new amendment that I think the readers of this might be interested in is authorizing a sustaining membership. This is separate from the regular membership which costs $2.00. The sustaining membership may be taken out by anyone who is interested in the organization and wishes to help it financially. This membership costs $10.00 or more, if the person wishes to pay more. These persons will receive honorable mention in the Banner which is the organization's official publication.

"I wish it were possible for me to give this report so that the people of Wheeler county could get the spirit and enthusiasm that I got while attending the convention. I sincerely hope that more of our people will become interested in the agricultural association and give it their support."

The Times is glad to submit this report by Pres. Stauffer to its farmer readers, scores of whom were not present Tuesday night, but upon whom no reflection is intended, neither in the opening paragraph of this article nor here. It is a busy season of year, and the farmer who is striving to save the results of his toil during the past season is to be commended, even though he must miss some meetings of genuine concern to him.

It is regretted that inability to secure data upon Mrs. Trout's report prevents its publication this week. An effort will be made to correct the omission at a later date.

Mrs. J. P. Green and daughter, Miss Helen, motored Wednesday to Crosbyton to visit their sister and aunt, Mrs. C. E. Roy, and children for a few days. Mrs. Joe Darden accompanied them to Ralls, where she will visit relatives until the Greens return for her.

Wheeler county educators observed in the large crowd present by Supt. Kavanaugh were: C. L. Nickell, principal, Bethel school; Jesse J. Dyer, principal, Twitty school; J. L. Gilmore, superintendent and C. B. Witt, high school principal, Wheeler; W. C. Perkins, superintendent; W. O. Morrow, asst. supt., and M. S. Kavanaugh, high school principal, Shamrock, and M. D. Blankinship, superintendent, Mobeetie.

Miss Ione Crozier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crozier, of Shamrock and Mr. Thomas H. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Harris, of Memphis were united in marriage Saturday evening, Oct. 29, at the Methodist parsonage in Wheeler, with Rev. E. C. Raney reading the ceremony in the presence of Mrs. Raney and daughter, Miss Ethel Claire, and Winford Allen of Memphis.

The young couple will be at home on a farm near Memphis after a short honeymoon trip and visit with relatives in this section.

A Hallow'en carnival, presented by the Mobeetie schools in their gymnasium Wednesday night, is declared by a small contingent of Wheeler folk in attendance to have been a signal success.

A score or more of Pampa business and professional men were present, creating good will between the communities, and really enjoying themselves. Previous engagements and other hindrances no doubt kept many Wheeler people from going to the affair, promoted to raise money for different activities in the Mobeetie schools.

W. L. Bobo of Mobeetie was a Wheeler business caller Tuesday. Mr. Bobo suffered a rather unusual but quite painful injury to his right eye recently. In passing under a low-hanging phone wire he ducked his head and a stiff, dried sunflower stalk struck him in the eye, slightly injuring the eyeball itself and filling the member with fibres and rubbish from the plant.

The injury is yielding to treatment and he is able to see with that eye but must keep it protected for awhile until fully healed.

Mrs. G. L. Wilson of Sweetwater, Okla., and daughter, Miss Maxie Lee Wilson, of Wheeler were Sunday guests of relatives in Childress.

Wheeler County Club Organized at Canyon

Holloway Chosen President; Weeks, Vice Pres.; Miss Puett, Sec.-Treasurer, Last Week

That Wheeler county is well represented at West Texas State college, Canyon, is learned from a report announcing formation of a club, composed of Wheeler county students, on Tuesday of last week, and sent to This Times by Miss Elva Willard of Wheeler, who states that 39 young men and women of the county are enrolled.

Twenty-two of these were present at the meeting when Taft Holloway was named president; Hosea Weeks, vice president, and Miss Orveta Puett, secretary-treasurer and reporter. Weeks formerly resided at Allison, while the other two are from this immediate community.

Dr. R. T. Jarret, dean of the college, was elected sponsor of the club. Enrollments at the college from other Panhandle counties are not available at the moment, but The Times ventures the assertion that Wheeler county's contingent excels—both in quantity and quality—the number from any particular unit, with the possible exception of one or two of the heavier populated counties of the 22 comprising the region.

Art Names Huge Tent Show Here Next Week

Moving along in accordance with the schedule as announced last week, first publication of notice for bids on the Wheeler water works and sewer project appears in this issue of The Times. According to this notice, bids will be publicly opened and read on Nov. 18, at which time a contract will be awarded if acceptable bids are received.

It has been estimated that work may be expected to start shortly after award of contract. Some estimates say anywhere from one week to three weeks should see operations at full capacity.

County School Heads to Amarillo Meet Saturday

County Superintendent Allen Kavanaugh and several superintendents and principals of the county attended the Panhandle-Plains Superintendents' association session in Amarillo Saturday when State Supt. L. A. Woods delivered an important address embodying some new educational ideas as well as proposed legislative measures.

Legislators on the program for talks were Senator Clint Small, Rep. G. H. Little, Amarillo; Rep. Max Boyer, Perryton, and Rep. Eugene Worley of this district.

Wheeler county educators observed in the large crowd present by Supt. Kavanaugh were: C. L. Nickell, principal, Bethel school; Jesse J. Dyer, principal, Twitty school; J. L. Greatest Homecoming at W. T. S. C. Saturday

Varied Activities and Entertainment Planned at Canyon College Gathering

West Texas State college will have on Saturday of this week, Nov. 5, the greatest homecoming of its 28-year history—reunions, an assembly, band concerts, football game, family picnic, crowning of an ex-student queen, and a many-sided carnival.

The day will open officially at a breakfast at 7:30 a. m. Registration of former students will begin at 9 a. m. An assembly program which will present grand-children and great-grandchildren of the college—sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters of ex-students—will begin in the main auditorium at 10:30 a. m.

Classes and organizations will hold reunions during the noon period. Music by visiting high school bands will be the first program item at Buffalo field, beginning at 1:30 p. m. The football queen-elect, Miss Ann Pallmeyer, of Memphis will be crowned just before the game between the Buffaloes and the Lobos of Sul Ross State. Her attendants will be Miss Reba Pool of Groom and Miss Ferne Fry of Lockney.

Following the game, between the halves of which President J. A. Hill will welcome exes and visitors and make awards, there will be a "family picnic" in front of the administration building. Exes will bring basket lunches or buy light lunches at stands on the campus. Bands will play and free coffee will be served.

Three orchestras, Bob Clark the magician, the Dixie Dice dancers and singers of Amarillo, college entertainers, the Pampa Dance club, and many other groups will contribute to the colorful carnival to be held at Cousins hall following the crowning of the ex-student queen at 7:30 p. m.

Art Names Huge Tent Show Here Next Week

Art Names Tent Show will be in this town all next week, where they will play under the auspices of the American Legion of Wheeler. Art has not been in Wheeler for several years, but those who have seen his show recently say that it is the best show he has had in several years.

Jack and Ilaferne Campbell are playing the comedy roles and Maurine Names is playing the leading ingenue roles. Among other members of the company are Forrest and Bess Markle, a well-known team in the show world.

The opening play on Monday night will be "Nobody's Girl," a fine play with lots of comedy. The regular adult admission is 25c but on Monday night adults will be admitted for 10c if they have a merchant's ticket which can be secured from any store in Wheeler.

Plan right now on attending this fine show every night. All programs are entirely different. Don't miss any of them.

Among the many plays which Art Names company will play in Wheeler is "Loop-Legged and Lucky," a five-act comedy which many have said is one of the funniest plays ever written.

Don't forget that Art Names Big Tent theatre, well heated and comfortable, will be in Wheeler all next week. They have the funniest comedians this year they have ever had. Plan to attend every night.

Wheeler Youth Afoul of Law in Hartley County

An unnamed Wheeler juvenile, charged with delinquency, plead not guilty before Judge R. A. DeFee at Channing in Hartley county last Friday and was bound over to action of the county court there in November, reports the Dalhart Texan. The charge was made in connection with the alleged theft on Sept. 30 of boots and a coat from George Roberts at the Webb Wharton home in that county, the report concludes.

Walsler Leases Filling Station to County Man

H. H. Walsler, county commissioner-elect from Precinct 2 who will take office Jan. 1, has leased his filling station nine miles east of Wheeler to W. A. Purnell, who took charge Tuesday, Nov. 1. Purnell has been living on the G. C. Wilkinson farm, in that region, for some time.

Aged Wheeler Woman Passes Away Friday

Mrs. B. J. Smith, Pioneer of Region, D After Extended Illness—Funeral Saturday

Mrs. B. J. Smith, 74, pioneer la of Wheeler passed away Friday afternoon at the Smith home, south west of town, following a long illness. She had been confined to bed for seven weeks.

Miss Mattie Hughes was born March 21, 1864, in Georgia and died Friday, Nov. 4, 1938, in Wheeler, Texas, at the age of 74 years, seven months and 13 days.

She was married to Benjamin Jil Smith about 50 years ago. To the union 10 children were born, all of whom were present for the funeral services except Mrs. E. K. Water Houston. Mr. Smith preceded his wife in death several years ago.

Mrs. Smith was a devout Christian and faithful member of the Church of Christ who took an active part in church and community work as long as she was physically able.

The surviving children are Mrs. C. L. Justice, Merkel; Mrs. W. E. Hanna, Nacogdoches; Mrs. Hiltbrunner Shamrock; Mrs. E. K. Waters, Houston; Mrs. H. J. Finsterwald, Mobeetie; Miss Dessie Smith, Wheeler; E. H. Smith, Kilgore; Ellis Smith Wheeler; W. R. Smith, Abilene; and Bonner Smith, Dumas. Also surviving are 29 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, one brother, James Hughes of Louisiana, and one sister, Mrs. H. P. Hooper, of Temposon, Texas.

Funeral services were held at the local Church of Christ Saturday, with H. P. Cooper, pastor of the Shamrock Church of Christ, leading the song service. S. A. Ribble, former pastor, Shamrock, conducted the funeral, followed by interment in the Wheeler cemetery.
