Home-Making Hints

If You Tailor Your Own

Making a good-looking coat—a coat with the air of the professional tailor—can be done at home, says Margaret Smith, clothing specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is no more difficult than many other sewing jobs women try.

In the past several years, the main reason for making a coat at home rather than buying it ready-made has been to economize. By making it at home, a woman can get a coat of excellent quality that will give years of warmth and wear for much less than one of similar quality ready-made would cost.

Another reason for making coats at home this year is the nation-wide movement to conserve wool. One of the best ways to conserve wool is to make every piece now in existence work as long as it will. Mother's good wool coat, for instance, may not suit her any longer, but can be made over to save the price of a new coat for daughter.

Invest in a high-grade pattern, says Miss Smith. It's worth every cent it costs. Buy a pattern the same size you do for a dress—not a larger size.

As for the actual making of the coat, one of the most important things to remember is to press and press again. If your coat is to fit smoothly and look trim and tailored it has to be kept pressed every step of the making.

When you bring material home from the store—hang it up on hangers, or a rod, says Miss Smith. As soon as you get the shoulder seams and side seams made—always hang the coat up while you're working on other parts. Never cross two seams without first pressing them open.

All this calls for good pressing equipment. For pressing wool, Miss Smith advises an ordinary iron and two pressing cloths. One of these pressing cloths should be of wool—to lay next to the wool. Then on top of that you need a linen or cotton cloth. These two cloths are then dampened with a sponge and pressed with the grain of the cloth.

After pressing, the seams need to be beaten with a clapper—to get out all of the steam. Suggestions for making such a clapper—as well as a tailor's ham, sleeve board, and other tailoring aids are given in Miss Smith's bulletin.

Details of cutting the coat given by Miss Smith include tips on how to make sure plaids are matched—how to make tailor's tacks for pattern markings. She gives tips on fitting and stitching, putting on linings, facings and interlinings.

And since one of the most effective ways of getting a coat to look well-tailored is to include those little touches such as bound buttonholes, loops, pockets and well-turned lapels—Miss Smith treats each of these details separately, giving clear cut directions for each.

Single copies of this booklet "Coat Making at Home," are available free from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

maybe Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan, Monty Woolley and a few other notables can put a different angle on the usual bad manners. "The Man Who Came to Dinner," as a stage play, has been amusing the population of the cities for a couple of years and has been changed but little for screen presentation. Small town residents now have a chance to see what the "city folk" often enjoy. Why not take advantage of your opportunity? It's a pungent dish of sophistication. How this oil that defies "curdling" far out-mileaged five other great quality brands... beat their average more than twice over, in Certified Desert Test

CURDS thickening up milk don't half give you a picture of the blobs of muck that can foul your oil—and your engine. For mush and "stickum" from oil that fails under present-day strain can't improve lubrication, nor add to safe mileage per quart. But now that you must change oil for Spring—really a law in every Car Instruction Book—you can easily switch to Conoco Nth motor oil. And in patented Conoco Nth oil you get Thialkene inhibitor... man-made... the modern synthetic invented to restrain stickiness—sluggishness—"simmering down thick."

Conoco Nth gets every chance to stay smoothly fluid; full of life. And still another great Conoco synthetic—same as ever—makes Conoco Nth give you an OIL-PLATED engine, with lubricant "plated" you'd say—or seemingly "magnetized"—direct to inner engine parts. Then OIL-PLATING isn't all draining down fast during parking—or even overnight. Instead, OIL-PLATING can stay up high, to help out your engine at every start, before any oil-pump raises up its full stream.

That's how to foil a lot of wear, and not have your engine soon over-eating oil.

Talk about a strict economy diet! ... Down in Death Valley's record high heat, battling five other big-name oils—impartially—this same Conoco Nth oil was still up above half when all others tested had burned up their engines and their full 5-quart fills!

That's a certified sample. It makes you realize why you can change to Conoco Nth and keep away from adding quart after quart. Get rid of hazardous Winter oil now, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Get economy to the Nth degree. Continental Oil Company

The mere mention of Gene Autry will bring cheers from our movie fans. We're sorry we can't bring him to our theatre oftener. But it's up to you to not miss seeing and hearing him when he is here. This week he comes with plenty of "singin', horsin' and shootin'," and besides—he gets the girl, Carol Hughes. Along with them is Frog to furnish the comedy and he is assisted by a new element of comedy whom we will call "Tadpole." Sure sounds good.

"I've heard tell" this is a mighty fine picture. Tyrone Power plays the major role and depicts the adventures of a man who escapes from today's troubles into the world of England's King George III. The action, all of which occurs in finely appointed settings, includes a number of fistic encounters, some floggings, escapes, pursuits, rescues—all the staples of romantic adventure. It has realism, grandeur and grimness. It makes you hold to your seat. It is really one of our outstanding pictures.

Dangerously They Live

Our attention is now on sea routes to Great Britain. It's a sizzling point of public interest. We must be alert to espionage. This fictional adventure of "Dangerously They Live" provides excitement and interest. John Garfield does not have his usual role, but plays the part of a doctor. Raymond Massey is the Nazi-in-chief and Nancy Coleman is the girl. You couldn't do better with your 15 cents than to see this picture. It depends on you as to whether we continue the Tuesday night shows.
