Air Races To Come To A Close Today

$27,000 In Prizes Posted For Final Aviation Events

CLEVELAND, Sept. 30 (AP)—The country's most famous speed classic, an airplane race with an imposing list of forebears dating back a quarter of a century, drew an swarm of gnat-like machines to the starting line today in the finale of the 1937 national air races.

New designs, new fuels and new engines, born of the current international derby for superiority in both commercial and military flying, added fresh impetus to the planes scheduled to take to the air.

Limited to 10 entries, the Thompson trophy race over a 200-mile route will close the book on a group of air races.

191 Fatalities Over Weekend Blamed On Traffic Crashes

Ohio, with 23 traffic deaths, led the mortality toll in an Associated Press survey that included 40 other states. Michigan and California followed with 19 traffic deaths each.

Dublin Player Snyder And Jodie Bihl Play In Golf Semi-Finals

Richard Snyder of Dublin staged a sensational rally on the Country Club links Monday morning to oust Jake Morgan, Big Spring, from the championship running by a 1-up victory on the 19th hole of their quarter final match.

His win, after Morgan had held him dormant in the 17th, sent him into the semi-final match with Jodie Bihl, Lubbock, who defeated Weidon Counts, Lubbock, 1 up.

Two down and two to go when darkness halted their match Sunday evening. Snyder fired a birdie and a par to square his match with Morgan Monday morning.

Labor's Holiday Horizon Is Clouded By AFOL-CIO Split

'Civil War' Still Is Raging After A Year

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE (AP Feature Service Writer) WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The nation observes Labor Day, 1937, with organized labor's fiercest civil war, now a year old, raging on steadily expanding fronts.

Despite sporadic peace gestures, the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization continue their struggle for supremacy with drives and counter-drives to enroll working men and women in virtually every field of wage-earning activity.

The split in the federation over industrial unionism came just after Labor Day a year ago when the craft-dominated executive council of the A. F. of L. suspended 10 unions affiliated with John L. Lewis' CIO for "setting up a rival organization within the family of organized labor."

CIO Fires Back Shaggy-browed Lewis characterized the suspension as an act of "crass stupidity dictated by personal selfishness and fear."

Then with the aid of a war chest of millions of dollars and the battle cry "company unions must go," Lewis and his lieutenants moved onto the great fortresses of the open shop—automobiles and steel.

At the time of suspension, the 10 unions together with two other CIO affiliates—the typographical union and the hat and cap makers' union—which have not been suspended from the federation, had an aggregate membership of about 1,000,000.

Today the CIO claims an enrollment around 3,000,000 and the A. F. of L. says its own membership totals 3,200,000.

McALESTER, Okla., Sept. 6 (AP) A brickyard job today awaited Malloy "Red" Kuykendall, curly-haired killer after his flight from McAlester penitentiary was ended by the pummeling fists of a mild-mannered cotton farmer near Gainesville, Texas.

Warden Jess Dunn said Kuykendall would go back to the brickyard workground for incorrigibles from whence the 25-year-old bad man escaped last Friday by disguising and abducting a prison guard and a trusty.

Shackled and under heavy guard, Kuykendall was brought back yesterday after Ben Otto, 35-year-old farmer, whom the felon sought to kidnap, had beaten him into submission.

Green ordered central labor bodies to purge themselves of CIO unions and leaders. The federation's one-cent-a-month membership dues were doubled to bring an additional $30,000 monthly to combat the "rebel Lewis."

Intermittent conciliation moves from both sides and from friends of labor outside the unions made little or no progress. Moderate elements in both groups continued to hope, however, for some sort of armistice.

BEACON TO BURN FOREVER FOR MEMORY OF WILL ROGERS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 6 (AP)—A beacon will flame tonight high on the side of Cheyenne mountain for the memory of Will Rogers.

And, if mortal plans prevail, the beacon's light will gleam continuously for a thousand years and longer.

Spencer Penrose, Colorado mining millionaire, will light the flame in the top of a 100-foot granite spire to be dedicated today as the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun.

Penrose, builder of the shrine memorial to his friend, the cowboy-humorist killed with Pilot Wiley Post in an Alaskan plane crash, had the tower of pink granite stone, with strength to last 1,000 years.

He created, too, the End of the Trail association, to which he decided the shrine, with funds and the responsibility after him for keeping its sodium vapor beacon aflame so long as the tower stands.

After Penrose lights the flame, Fred Lookout, Osage Indian friend of Rogers', will deliver the memorial with Indian rite to Rogers' spirit.

A riderless horse will lead a procession of friends and admirers up the mountain highway to the dedication ceremony.

Four members of Rogers' family will attend. While the Cowboy Band of Abilene, Tex., which once appeared with Will Rogers in the Zigzag Follies, plays the national anthem, a squadron of planes will dip in salute and drop flowers on the shrine.

Lewis Rebuke Draws Reply From Green

Says He Resents CIO Leader's Threat About Election

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (AP)—Organized labor's holiday found the leaders of its rival factions exchanging sharp words over President Roosevelt's labor policies.

William Green, American Federation of Labor president denounced as "autocratic and dictatorial" the thinly-veiled rebuke for the president contained in John L. Lewis' pre-holiday speech.

Stabbed in Back Although he did not mention the CIO. chieftain by name, Green sold a Dallas, Texas, gathering of A. F. of L. leaders that he resented Lewis' threat of an election day reckoning for labor's "so-called friends."

Lewis' Friday night broadcast address inferentially included the president among the "so-called" friends who he said had stabbed labor in the back.

Arriving in Pittsburgh for two holiday speeches in Pennsylvania, Lewis refused to comment on his own political plans and whetted a "bitterness" and "disfranchisement" attack, replied: "Nothing to say. Nothing at all. Don't even care to know what he had to say."

The holiday thus took its embattled groups—the two now totaling 7,300,000, largest number in the history of the American labor movement—farther apart rather than closer together.

Further Break It also marked a further break between the president and Lewis. Sandwiched between the Lewis Green exchange, was the president's own Labor Day comments, deploring mistakes made by both sides in recent industrial disputes and urging that "sanity and reason" supplant "bitterness and distrust."

The president's Labor Day message was issued from his fishing yacht off Rhode Island.

He said "the conference table must eventually take the place of strikes," and reiterated his pledge that the government would push its program for work security with reasonable wages.

In Washington, Secretary Perkins, reviewing labor's economic gains in the past year, said 2,000,000 wage earners had obtained jobs since last Labor Day.

DALLAS, Sept. 6 (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, came before the Texas working man today with the accusation the CIO is "an enemy seeking to divide and conquer," led by a man who had "announced" President Roosevelt, "in

Professor At TCU Claimed By Death

FORT WORTH, Sept. 6 (AP)—A two months illness today had proved fatal to Prof. Errett Weir McDiarmid, 60, head of the department of philosophy of Texas Christian university and president of the Southwest Athletic conference.

He died here yesterday. Before his association with T.C.U., McDiarmid served as president of Milligan college in Tennessee in 1913, Hamilton college at Lexington in 1914, and had served as principal of Beckley Institute at Beckley, W. Va., in 1908. He joined the faculty of T.C.U. in 1918. For 15 years he was head of the university's athletic committee.

Two sons, both college professors, John McDiarmid of Princeton, known nationally as a tennis player, and Weir of University of Illinois, with his widow; a sister, Mrs. J. W. Ritchie of Cincinnati, and two brothers, C. J. of Cincinnati and N. L. of Vancouver, Wash., survive.

Garner-For-President Idea Finds Favor With Texas Solons

DALLAS, Sept. 6 (AP)—A proposal by Senator Burke (D-Tex.) that Vice President John N. Garner be the next candidate for the presidency, today had received approval from many Texas representatives and senators.

Rep. Martin Dies of Grange, declaring he did not think President Roosevelt would want a third term, said "Vice President Garner would make an able president."

"I think Garner is the best bet and the greatest American political leader," said Rep. Nat Patton of Crockett, and Rep. George H. Mahon, of Colorado, echoed: "Garner is presidential timber in every sense of the word."

Jury Charged As Court Is Opened Here

30 Felony Complaints To Be Studied By Investigative Body

Judge Charles L. Klapprott charged the 70th district court grand jury to go into 30 felony complaints as he convened the September term of court here Monday morning.

"Considering the size of Howard county," said the court, "there is practically no more law violation here than in proportion to other counties of the district."

Included in the list of complaints are two cases of assault with intent to murder, several forgery, burglary, larceny thefts, and two rape charges.

Selected as grand jurors were T. W. Ashley, C. M. Adams, D. B. Cox, Alvin Simpson, F. B. Collins, C. J. Engle, A. A. Landers, W. S. Crook, Carl Bates, G. W. McGregor, R. E. Martin, and E. W. Lomas. Collins was appointed foreman of the investigative body.

J. J. "Dad" Hefley, Andy Tucker and Doug Thompson were sworn as grand jury bailiffs.

Judge Klapprott recessed court until 10 a. m. Tuesday when he will call the docket. Because the district attorney, Cecil Collins, will be out of town Tuesday, he instructed the grand jury to return Wednesday to consider its list of complaints.

The first week petit jury has been summoned for 9 a. m. Thursday.

The court granted the removal of a case filed by A. E. Walker versus Chrysler Sales corporation for damages from the 70th district court to federal court. Byron Scarborough, Fort Worth attorney, represented the defendant in the matter.

L. P. Boone, court reporter, accompanied Judge Klapprott here from Midland for the court opening.

AUTO OVERTURNS, DRIVER KILLED

PAMPA, Sept. 6 (AP)—A rear tire blowout on a curve in an automobile race here, today had caused the death of Clarence Shelton, 23, Amarillo theatre employe.

Shelton died in a hospital from injuries received yesterday when his stock model skidded and overturned. A companion, Marvin Patterson of Amarillo, was slightly hurt.

Coleman came the observation that if Garner desired "he could command a good following and make a fine chief executive."

Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally in Washington respectively dubbed the idea an "excellent one," and labeled Garner as a man who would "make a fine president."

In Calcutta pool drawings, Jake Morgan sold at $20 and made enough for his backers in the first round to double what he had bought for.

Cleaning the cuff: The Lubbock Hubbers have requested another game with the Continental Oilers.

Red Ramsey, Texas Tech's great end last season, played with the Hubbers yesterday after wearing an Aerada, N. M., Oiler uniform during part of the summer.

Other first round matches included a 2-1 victory over L. B. Haas, Midland, by Neal Snyder, 4 and 3 triumph of the 14-year-old Bill Roden, Glen Rose, and Johnson's 4 and 3 win over another Midland player, Don Sivalls.

DEFENDING CHAMPION LOSES OUT IN TOURNAMENT'S FIRST ROUND LUBBOCK HUBBS TRIUMPH OVER FORSAN OILERS, 7-3

Jones Wins 2 Matches, Will Play Neal

Victor Over Shafer, 5-4, Defeats Frank Johnson, 4-3

Deadly firing by comparatively unknowns spelled doom for three decided favorites Sunday afternoon in the first and second rounds of the seventh annual Big Spring Invitational golf tournament and left two others dormant two on the back nine when hostilities ceased due to gathering darkness.

Only Doug Jones, finalist last year to Eddie Morgan and second choice of the experts to cop the honors this year, remained to begin the semi-finals this morning.

Doug shot anything but sensational golf but consistency told the tale as he ousted Bill Shafer, Odessa, in his first match, 4 and 4, and returned Sunday afternoon to overthrow Frank Johnson, Midland, 4 and 3.

Rockhold, who won his morning match over Alton Holden, Lubbock, two up, was beaten by Morgan, Odessa, 2 and 1 after holding the lead on No. 12.

Johnson took the advantage on the third hole of his match with Jones when Doug found the ditch with his tee shot but the youngster pulled back even on five and finally went out in front on No. 6 when the Midlandite two putted the green.

Johnson pulled a brilliant iron shot on the seventh and can down his put for a birdie to deadlock matters only to lose out again on eight when Jones, driving beautifully, played the approach cautiously and came home with a par.

Johnson was never able to fight back after the two had made the middle through most of the afternoon, but gained his advantage through his phenomenal putting.

On the opening four holes he made as many dazzling shots to take a big lead that Snyder could never chip away.

Counts eliminated Shirley Robbins in the opening round, 2 and 1, shooting four under par to accomplish the trick, while Bill was even better in disposing of Alton Ferrell, Stilton. The Lubbockite was five strokes better than the standard figures when he closed out to win, 3 and 2.

Other first round matches included a 2-1 victory over L. B. Haas, Midland, by Neal Snyder, 4 and 3 triumph of the 14-year-old Bill Roden, Glen Rose, and Johnson's 4 and 3 win over another Midland player, Don Sivalls.

Jones was scheduled to meet Neal this morning while the winner of the Morgan-Snyder match opposed the victor of the Counts-Bill affair in the other bracket. Finals will be played this afternoon.

Miller Chased Early, Brown Falter

Beard Stops Enemy But Takes Hill Too Late

LUBBOCK, Sept. 6.—Maxie Beard stopped the Lubbock Hubbers cold after the Panhandle team had earlier murdered the offerings of two right handers but the Coahoma portender made his appearance for late in the game and the Forasan Continental Oilers lost out on Paris field here Sunday afternoon, 3-7.

Twice during the early innings the Howard county team held the advantage but Abe Miller, starting pitcher, could not hold back the surging forces of the opposition and escaped from the mound in the third in favor of Bill Brown.

The big right hander was Cousin No. 2 as far as the Hubbs were concerned and he lasted but two innings before Beard went to the rescue.

Lefty Jerry Blanchard, Lubbock's leading fliker, was shaky in the beginning in giving up all three runs in the first two frames but he settled and succeeded in setting down the Forasans with seven hits. He retired 14 batters via the strikeout route.

Blus Graham had a heroic run in the Hubbers' ten hit attack while George Bettes figured largely in the offensive drive with three licks in four trips.

The Cubs, featuring a clownish assortment of base running, have been particularly lax in this little matter of making runs. In their last five games, they've collected a total of 45 safe hits—an average of nine per nine innings, which should come close to winning a lot of ball games. Yet, over that same stretch, they've scored only 12 runs, there by dropping four of five starts. At the same time their opponents, although making only the same number of hits, have turned them into 23 runs, nearly twice as many as the Grimm grogners.

'H'its' Not Polo But Baseball

Lions and Kiwanas today were brushing up on their equestrian abilities as they looked to their impending clash Friday at 8 p. m. in a donkey baseball game.

Both Jimmie Little, president of the Lions club, and G. L. Rowe, head of the Kiwanas organization, said their membership would not be content with merely staying aboard the hurricane deck of the trained jack-asses, but that they planned on some fancy riding during the course of the game.

The game will be played with some 20 or more heads of burros as mounts. Players will slug a softball, straddle their steeds, and if the donkeys are willing, take off for first base. The riders may take one step from their mounts in handling their chance, and if the ball is fielded, the player must again mount his beast of burden before making the throw.

Officials of the game spread a field cover over the gridiron immediately after the two teams had their final workouts last night promising, at least, a dry field for the start of the game in the event of showers before nightfall.

CREAKING BRUINS DROP PAIR TO PIRATES

Fall Two Games Off Pace, Yanx Sweep Back

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer The Chicago Cubs' creaking chorus will now rise and sing "Show Me the Way To Go Home" with incidental music by the Cardinals' Missouri Muddats.

Neither of these outfits appears to be on speaking terms with home plate any more. In the last several days, they've found more ways to get on base and not score than there are herring in a barrel at Hymie Caplin's eatery.

They're getting a fair amount of hits, but when it comes to rounding third and heading for home, they must be detouring by way of Shanghai.

As a result, the New York Giants were two full games in front of the National League pack today. And unless that little birdie tips off the Cubs and Cards to the fact that they pay off on runs in this business of baseball, the pennant race will be over before either club finds out about it.

At the same time their opponents, although making only the same number of hits, have turned them into 23 runs, nearly twice as many as the Grimm grogners.

Drop Both Ends Yesterday they coupled this inability to find their way home with their customary "stoozing" for the Pittsburgh Pirates and dropped both ends of a double header, 7-0 and 4-1. They had 17 hits in the two games, yet managed to score just one lone run. At the same time, their pitchers gave up only 14 hits, and the Bucs made them good for 11 tallies. Bryant turned some close-to-hitting in the nightcap and lost it, although the Cubs played it under protest because (believe it or not) they didn't like the fact that the umpire called a Pirate base runner out. They argued that if the runner had not been retired for running out of line between first and second, a Pirate run would have been forced at the plate.

The Cardinals have also lost four out of five by staying away from home plate in droves, scoring only 11 runs on 33 hits. Yesterday they split with the Reds, losing the opener, 3-2, although getting seven hits to five for Cincinnati, and then taking the nightcap, 1-0, behind Lon Warnecke's four-hit fling.

FT. WORTH GRIP SECOND PLACE

By The Associated Press The Tulsa Oilers in a series opener against the Oklahoma City Indians last night trounced the league leaders 1-0, but neither was particularly worried about chances for retaining a berth in the playoff series when the league season ends next Sunday.

Fort Worth's Cats, meanwhile, clawed the hapless Dallas Steers 5-2 and 7-0, for a firmer hold on second place, as Beaumont, rather joyfully defeating the Houston Buffs 3-0, saw a chance for a lucky finish among the leaders in the insoucious showing of the San Antonio Missions in losing a series opener to Galveston 4-0.

Today's solid bill of Labor Day doubleheaders saw the earlier scheduled program at Dallas transferred to Fort Worth.

Budge Doubles Up In Games

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—Yesterday's rain, which forced the United States Lawn Tennis association tournament committee to telescope two days' competition into one, this afternoon, made Don Budge's task difficult in his quest for the U. S. singles crown.

Today he was due to meet Joe Abrams of New York in a third-round match. Then, to put the tournament back on its regular track again, he will play probably Yvon Perta, lanky, dapper Frenchman, in the round of 16 tomorrow and just on Wednesday. He plays his quarter finals match on Thursday, semi-final on Friday and final on Saturday.

Barn Von Cramm today was up against his first seeded opposition in Hal Surface, Kansas City's U. S. No. 6.

Surface got into the third round without lifting his racket, on a first-round bye and a second-round default. In the third he was leading at two sets to one when Bob Kamrath, his Texas rival, was knocked by the heat and advised to quit.

WASHINGTON—Railroads in older days gave passes to state legislators and congressmen and paid the cost of junkets to points of interest until the thing became somewhat of a national scandal.

But now the colonies, Hawaii and the Philippines, have found a new wrinkle of the old game. They finance all-expense visits by members of congress, certain of them lavishly and seek to induce in them, a sympathetic understanding of island problems.

That view of it may be a trifle harsh on the islands. Wary members of congress and their wives, sons and daughters may be entitled to the relaxations the insular possessions provide. What better contributions could the islands make, in that case, than to provide a sea cruise to soothe senatorial souls? Or the pined peace of an island beach to heal congressional scars?

Perhaps the islands have no second string motives. It is easily remembered that the railroads insisted they had no motive other than to oblige when they supplied railroad passes to state legislators.

Two score or more members of both houses made the tour of the Philippines 18 months ago, headed by Vice President Garner. The summer a dozen or more are going to Hawaii. The Philippines government footed the bill on the first trip, and in keeping with this new established custom, the Hawaiian government will pay the way of the visitors headed for the white sands of Waikiki.

At this point it is well to mention the main interest about the islands and their legislative problems. When gold was revealed in 1934, the Philippine government had about $56,000,000 on deposit in American banks as currency reserve. The Philippines claimed the $23,000,000 profit resulting from revaluing gold, although by law the family nest egg of the average American was paid back only dollar for dollar.

Congress saw it the Philippine way in 1934 and approved payment but in 1935 refused to appropriate money to pay. Senator Adams, of Colorado tried in 1936, the year of the Philippine tour, to put through an act repealing the Philippine claim. The senate agreed with him, although it was in conflict with administration wishes, but the bill was never taken up in the house and the claim still stands.

There are two obstacles the Texan would encounter. One is geography. The other is his age; he will be 71 in 1940.

Money That Never Has Been Spent: RUSK, Sept. 4 (AP)—To think you have a bank account and discover you have not is a common experience, but L. M. Smith, Rusk farmer, had an account and did not know it.

New Air Mark: MOSCOW (UP)—The test pilot Y. Piontkovskiy while testing a new type of aircraft has set a peculiar record—500 circuit flights and landings in one day. A flight, including the take-off and landing, took him on the average of 1 min. 10 sec.

Cactus Jack For President?

As the country's interest grows in the 1940 campaign and the personalities it may involve, the figure of John Garner looms larger and larger. He is regarded as something of a hero by those who opposed the president's court reform plan.

This Garner "boom" was given impetus over the weekend with the statement of Senator Burke of Nebraska that Garner has the "hard common sense" needed in the next president.

Discussion of any individual's prospects in 1940 runs quickly into the question of Mr. Roosevelt's possible third-term candidacy. Of the several who are developing some support—Garner and Jesse Jones of Texas, Farley, Barkley—none looms now as a stand-out in the sense that Mr. Roosevelt himself was in the months preceding the 1932 convention.

Such a situation lends itself to the third-term possibility. In a deadlocked convention, not many ballots would be taken before a condition would develop that would make a third-term nomination easy of consummation, assuming of course that Mr. Roosevelt did not set his face firmly against it.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK.—As Broadway hurtles toward a new show season, one point seems obvious. The gaudy, wise-cracking school of playwrighting is to have an inning.

Managers are shying away from tragedies and dramas with forlorn themes. The success of "Room Service," with its raucous dialogue and ludicrous situations, has the producers all hepped on the idea that farce is the thing.

Comedy's the Thing: As one producer put it, "people have enough to cry over without looking or grief on the stage. There used to be a time when dramas of a grave and serious nature were saleable merchandise. Now, unless you have Helen Hayes in the cast, it isn't safe to fool around with any play that isn't interspersed with laughs."

"Room Service," which astonished its producers as much as its authors with its money-making proclivities, is a perfect example of the type of theater that New York laughs itself silly over. Take the scene where the three characters are starving in a bedroom. Their hunger knows no bounds. Suddenly one says: "I'm so hungry I've got spots before my eyes. No, they're not spots—they're hamburgers."

Producers After Laughs: Silly? Sure. But it makes people laugh. Now take the scene in "You Can't Take It With You," where the argument about income taxes comes up. One of the characters refuses to pay any tax at all. Why? "Well," he says, "I don't believe in it." This scene has been told and retold more often on trains over tea cups than any other scene on Broadway this year.

This current trend in the Broadway drama, if nothing else, will probably save us from a repetition of the plague of locust plays which droned down on us last year—cheap melodramas and horror tales which died almost as abruptly as the victims in their own second acts.

At least, Broadway's established producers won't touch them. They want laughs. If you're getting tickets for a play before the new season opens on Times Square, don't look for something gserious. You won't find it. Of the eight plays breezing through the summer, six are comedies: "Brother Rat," "Having Wonderful Time," "Room Service," "The Women," "Yes, My Darling Daughter" and "You Can't Take It With You."

CHAPTER X: Spike, who was busy polishing his highball glasses, pulled his magnificent mustaches regretfully and looked at his artist friend. "She's got," he said in his melodious Italian-American, "what you call zingo!"

Here is something amusing, but then her sister came in. Charlie grinned. "Her sister is a slave driver, an iceberg, and an unmitigated stiff-neck!"

Because Irene's a darn nice kid being ruined by that female adding machine! Because I've made up my mind to show Irene a little bit of life as a counter-irritant. As a matter of fact, I should have married a girl like Irene. The adoring type. She'd think everything I did was Evelyn. She thinks everything I do is half-witted. It's dogged uncomfortable to be married to a woman who thinks you're a half-wit. By golly, maybe I will marry Irene!"

Charlie frowned. "Waldo? I'll figure that out later. It's too early in the morning to be practical. In the end, I'll probably have to find a substitute fiancee for him. Lucky thing, I know, as many girls. Charlie became enamored of the Irene's place in Waldo's affections after he had married Irene. He began to play pensively with two teaspoons and a tumbler. "Let me see, Waldo needs somebody stimulating—but not too stimulating. He's the 'Lie still in your little beddy-weddy while Waldo gets you some coffee-woffee' type. It's too bad Dorothy Chalmers shot her first husband. She would have been ideal for Waldo, but that shooting sort of balled her up." He hit the bowl of the teaspoon, and the second spoon flipped neatly into the tumbler. "I think I'll take Irene to tea in Central Park this afternoon!"

Solemnly Charlie said a dollar bill on the table. Thoughtfully he walked over to the telephone on the wall. He gave the Agnew number again. When Keough answered, he disguised his voice. "This is D. B. Sargent of the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue," he said. "Is Miss Margit Agnew there?" "She can be reached at her office."

Charlie's disguised voice, was business-like, but good natured. "Anyone else in her household will do. It's not a matter of suspected fraud in her tax returns—just the necessity of asking one or two personal questions. Possibly one of Miss Agnew's parents could step to the phone."

Keough sounded relieved, but he was also disappointed. His training had taught him to be suspicious. On one hand, he knew that Margit was the most honest woman alive, but on the other hand, he would not have surprised Keough the detective a whit to learn that she had chiseled the government on her taxes. He said, "Her sister is at home. Probably she could answer your questions."

Then he went to work. His own voice was ecstatic, throbbing, natural. "Irene! Darling!" In her house on Long Island Irene flinched like a dog struck by an arrow. She pulled her negligee close around her as if Mr. Jones could see through telephone wires. She suddenly felt very fine. "It's you!" "I want you to have tea with me this afternoon." Despair. "I couldn't, Margit has forbidden me to see you again." "He was gay, assured. 'Of course! We expect that, don't we? But you've got to take tea with me nevertheless.'" "I'll count the minutes, darling." He hung up. He walked over to the bar. He picked up a twenty dollar bill that was lying there.

What To Do--

If The Bridegroom Fails To Show Up

- 1. Wait for at least an hour. 2. Have a member of the party other than the bride try to get in touch with the bridegroom. 3. If he can't be located announce that the wedding has been delayed and will be held later at the convenience of the family.

By the AP Feature Service

This is the advice of the Rev. Dr. Randolph Ray, rector of New York's "Little Church Around the Corner."

It is wise to wait, he argues, for something may have happened. The bridegroom may have forgotten the license—or may not remember that the wedding is scheduled to be held on daylight saving time.

A further caution in connection with weddings: Do not start looking for the bride if she isn't there on the dot. She never fails to show up, Dr. Ray declares.

And do not send out an alarm for the bride's mother—she is most invariably the last person to arrive. One mother held up a ceremony for three hours—because she refused to leave home without her new hat.

Pulchritude Added To Fairs; And Now They Offer 'Something New'

DALLAS, Sept. 6 (AP)—If Simple Simon meets a plemian in Texas today it probably will be on the way to a fair.

Labor Day fair-goers and the thousands of other spectators at Texas' 40 fairs this fall are sophisticated. They want more than picnics and they are willing to pay more than a penny.

The fair has undergone revolutionary changes in recent years. From backboard days to automobiles a fair was a fair except pos-
