U.S. Marines Ordered To Fire On Any Attacking Airplane

Defensive Steps Taken By Commander At Shanghai As Fighting Begins New Threats To International Settlement

SHANGHAI, Oct. 27 (AP)—United States Marines were authorized today to open fire in self defense on any airplane attacking them or non-combatants in their sector of the International Settlement.

Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, authorized the defensive measure as fierce fighting, intensified by the retreat of Chinese troops from Chapel to a new defense line, raged menacingly around the International Settlement.

Tremendous fires set by the embattled Chinese and Japanese raged through Chapel, native quarter of North Shanghai, and even penetrated the settlement at one point. Chinese aircraft raided the Yangtze-poo section, dropping incendiary bombs which started more fires.

The combat brought into play the full power of Japanese warships in the Whangpoo and Chinese land batteries. They fired steadily until after nightfall.

Repeated Attacks
Admiral Yarnell's action grew out of repeated attacks by Japanese fliers on Chinese positions along the edges of the settlement. These raids reached a climax Sunday when a Japanese flier machine gunned British troops and a party of British and American horseback riders on Keswick road, killing one British soldier.

The British immediately ordered their troops to act in self defense if such an attack were repeated.

United States authorities said .50 caliber anti-aircraft machine guns, making up part of the armament of the sixth regiment of marines, had not been set up yet. They hoped it would not be necessary to bring them into play.

Admiral Yarnell's order said: "In case of attack with bombs or machine guns by airplanes of any nationality on defense forces or non-combatants in the sector defended by the Second United States Marine brigade, the commander in chief has authorized these forces to open fire in self defense."

This was an extension of an order given the Asiatic fleet September 2.

Japan Declines To Join In Conference

TOKYO, Oct. 27 (AP)—Japan formally declined today the invitation to participate in the Brussels conference of nine-power pact adherents on the Chinese-Japanese war.

A note handed to Belgian Ambassador Baron Albert de Bassompierre declared the conference was inspired by the League of Nations and would "put serious obstacles in the path of the just and proper solution of the conflict."

The Japanese foreign office, released a long, informal statement reiterating Japan's contention that Japan was fighting in self defense.

The statement asserted the nine-power treaty was obsolete because of what it termed infiltration of communism in China and declared "the Japanese nation, rising as a unit, is united in a determination to surmount all obstacles for the purpose of effecting a speedy settlement."

"The Chinese-Japanese difficulties can be solved only through direct negotiations between the two powers on whom falls the common burden of responsibility for the stability of East Asia," the informal statement argued.

Hubby will be succeeded here by Tom Pendergrass, who has been in National's Galveston offices for several years. He was due here Wednesday afternoon. At the Lubbock post, Hubby takes the place of Al Badger.

Hubby, with Mrs. Hubby and their son, Jack, was to leave immediately to take up his new duties. Popularly known in Big Spring, Hubby has been with the Settles for several years, serving as auditor and assistant manager before being advanced to the management.

FD TO CONFER WITH TREASURY CHIEF

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt pointed out this week today toward a conference with Secretary Morgenthau Friday evening.

The president planned little work for the remainder of a 10-day visit to his family's home here except the meeting with Morgenthau and Daniel Bell, the budget director.

Debris Is Being Cleaned Off Lot At 2nd And Main

The corner at 2nd and Main, made unsightly by a $50,000 fire in 1932, will no longer be a downtown eyesore.

City workmen began Wednesday the task of clearing away debris. All other materials have been removed from the location, a six-foot white board fence will be constructed around the vacancy.

After months of negotiating, the city agreed to clear the ruins for the materials (brick, steel and timber). The owners, Chalmers Properties, New York, had been told by the city that some arrangement must be made for doing away with the unsightliness of the place.

AFL Suggests Dissolution Of The CIO

Is Turned Down, Just As Lewis Group's Proposal Rejected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Labor's peace conference recessed today until November 4 after each side had turned down the other's peace proposal.

Other Things To Do
Harvey Fremming, one of the C.I.O. organization negotiators said the recess was "in no way considered a permanent disagreement."

He said the American Federation of Labor's three-man delegation had "learned some things they didn't know before" and added that the conference broke up because "we all had a lot of other things to do."

Joseph Curran, national maritime union president, and another C.I.O. negotiator, emerged from the conference room in an apparent good humor and said:

"Well, now we have got to go up and elect Mayor LaGuardia (of New York)."

The C.I.O. had turned down the A.F. of L. peace proposal earlier.

"The proposal suggests abject surrender," Philip Murray, chairman of the C.I.O. peace committee, said in a statement issued two hours after the federation had suggested dissolution of the C.I.O., as the basis of the settlement of labor's strife.

"Betrayed"
Murray said the federation had called for the C.I.O. unions which originally were affiliated with the A.F. of L. to "desert and betray the twenty-three new national and international unions that have joined the C.I.O. since its formation two years ago."

Murray also described the federation's offer as "merely a reaffirmation of its former policy and completely does not contemplate the organization of the unorganized into strong unions."

Their proposal, as we understand it, is to have the C.I.O. merge with the A.F. of L. and have the A.F. of L. take over the C.I.O. unions which have joined the C.I.O. since its formation two years ago.

RACE TRACK HEAD FREE UNDER BOND

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 27 (AP)—Walter E. O'Hara, managing director of militia-guarded Narragansett race track, was released today in $7,500 bond in a civil suit for $500,000 brought against him by Governor Robert E. Quinn.

O'Hara was taken into custody last night by High Sheriff John Baird on a warrant after he had made a radio address in which he called Quinn a "dictator."

Judge G. Frederick Frost, in setting bail set November 8 for return of the warrant.

$5,000 PERMIT PUTS BUILDING TOTAL AHEAD OF 1936

Permit for a $5,000 duplex apartment Wednesday issued to Mrs. H. E. Dunning, pulled October "out of the fire" and sent the month's building total above the corresponding month a year ago.

The permit lifted the month's total to $14,544 in comparison with $11,164 for the month last year. The amount this year contains much more for new houses than did last October.

SEEK CONTINUANCE OF MURDER TRIAL

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 27 (AP)—Judge O. L. Parrish was to rule today on a motion for a continuance of the case of Walter Stapp, Monahan chief of police, scheduled to go to trial on a charge of murder.

Stapp's attorneys presented a motion for continuance on the grounds that the defendant is ill in Monahan and also because of the illness of W. B. Smith, a defense attorney. Stapp was not in court this morning.

State attorneys said they had information that Stapp had been at work and was apparently in good health and asked that Stapp's $10,000 bond be forfeited.

Stapp is charged with the fatal shooting of Jack Runnels, 26, local truck driver, near here on September 13.

POISON THEORY IN DEATH MAINTAINED

CINCINNATI, Oct. 27 (AP)—Defense cross examination in the murder trial of Anna Marie Hahn failed today to shake testimony of Dr. George Altemeyer that George Heis, 62, "probably" was crippled by a poison which the state claims was administered by Mrs. Hahn.

Prosecutor Dudley Miller outlasted Heis, a former coal dealer, in Mrs. Hahn's only living witness of a plot to slay for gain.

The woman is charged with first degree murder in the death of 78-year-old Jacob Wagner, who the state claims was poisoned.

TEMPLE, Texas, Oct. 27 (AP)—Two men were killed early today in the derailment of a car of a fast Missouri-Kansas-Texas freight train, eight miles north of Temple.

The dead were identified as E. O. Sapp of Stafford, Kas., and Wallace Carpenter of Toledo, O. Jupp appeared to be about 40 years old. Carpenter about 35. No member of the train crew was injured.

The bodies of the two men, who evidently had been riding in a car laden with heavy steel pipe, were crushed and mangled.

Cause of the accident was not established.

DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Wabash railroad passenger train en route from St. Louis to Detroit plunged into a stalled freight train eight miles west of here late last night, killing three trainmen and injuring eight other persons.

Fire which broke out immediately after the collision destroyed five cars and the caboose of the freight train and damaged a combination mail and smoker on the passenger.

BRITAIN WARNS OF RETALIATORY FIRE

LONDON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, amid cheers in the house of commons, said today that Britain had told Japan she must "always" expect retaliatory fire if there be any repetition of the fatal attack on a British post in Chungking on Oct. 24.

Eden declared that the air attack, in which one soldier was killed, was "inexcusable" and said that the British were "entirely justified" in shooting at the airplane.

Eden disclosed that his majesty's government had accepted Japan's apology for the air attack, but gave out a warning at the same time regarding retaliatory fire.

TWO CHARGED IN FLOODING CASE

DALLAS, Oct. 27 (AP)—Two men were charged with aggravated assault today shortly after their arrest near the Ford Motor company plant for the abduction and flooding of Harry Rowen, 33, former Ford employe at Kansas City.

Assistant District Attorney Paul Peurifoy filed the charges against O. B. Daniel, 34, and Jack George, 30. Daniel and George and Ray Martin, 30, were charged with simple assault in connection with the reported abduction and beating of Richard Sowers, also formerly employed by Ford in Kansas City.

Police here had not previously made public details on the Sowers case.

Legislature Provides No New Revenue

Allred Says Solons Did A Thorough Job Of Scuttling

AUSTIN, Oct. 27 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred said today he had never known of a better job of scuttling than was performed in the legislative session which adjourned early today.

Pension Outlook "Bad"
Weary and red-eyed from loss of sleep, the governor commented only briefly on work of the session, called a month ago for the sole purpose of finding additional revenue for needs of state.

About the same time, Claude D. Teer, chairman of the board of control and in that capacity chairman of the old age assistance commission, stated the outlook for pension recipients was "bad."

The governor was not specific as to who he thought scuttled the session but mentioned members of a senate committee which long after midnight advised him the senate had completed its work and was ready to adjourn. The notification was a formality.

Asked what he himself proposed to do, the governor said he was "not worried over what he would do as what a lot of unfortunate people will do."

One-House Legislature?
There had been talk that, thoroughly disgusted with work of the session, he planned to come out for a unicameral form of legislature. One rumor was he contemplated running for a third term with advocacy of a one-house legislature a principal plank in his platform.

He said he wanted to "check" up on the session before making further comment.

Teer announced writing of checks for November pensions, which the regular schedule called for mailing November 15, had been stopped pending a study of the situation. However, he added, some pensions would be paid.

He had warned before the legislature met and while it was in session that payments for November and December were in grave danger of being curtailed or cut off altogether due to lack of funds.

At present there are approximately 113,000 on the pension rolls. Having been reduced by re-investigation of qualifications from a high of 128,000. Average payments lately have been approximately $11 a month.

Pressure has been added by the fact the state owes a Dallas bank $1,626,000, plus interest, which was borrowed last year to meet an emergency in the old age assistance fund.

Not A Dime
The special session called by Allred to finance the state's social security program and bolster the

CONFERENCE FAVORS CHURCH UNIFICATION

DALLAS, Oct. 27 (AP)—The North Texas annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today voted 236 to 13 for unification of three branches of Methodism.

The conference started a five-day meeting here this morning, and the vote for union with the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Protestant church was among the first business considered.

Twenty-three conferences of the southern church have yet to act on the unification proposal. Nineteen have ratified it.

Dr. C. M. Simpson, presiding elder of the Paris district, offered the motion. Bishop A. Frank Smith was in the chair.

Following his admission to the bar at Marlin in 1899, he moved to Fort Worth and engaged in law practice. He married Ermie Field Buck in 1890.

He was appointed assistant county attorney of Tarrant county and later served as county attorney from 1899 to 1903.

After two terms as state senator, from 1910 to 1918, he became judge of the court of criminal appeals and was successfully re-elected to that bench in 1924, 1930 and 1936.

NUMBERS OF RANSOM BILLS BROADCAST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Federal agents sought today to trap the kidnapers of Charles S. Ross, retired Chicago manufacturer, by distributing lists of ransom bill numbers to thousands of filling stations.

Here, however, as the dimpled mystery man of golf read congratulatory telegrams on his acquittal, he refused to discuss future plans at length but said he hoped to find permanent residence in the motion picture land where he won acclaim by his extraordinary golfing feats.

"I hope eventually to get back to Hollywood," he told happy friends after a jury acquitted him of looting Kin Hana's roadhouse of $100 back in 1930, when he was known as Laverne Mason.

Only a few hours before, the jury handed down the verdict.

Montague, Freed In Robbery Case, Now Ready To Make Big Money

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 27 (AP)—Acquitted of a seven-year-old robbery charge, John Montague plotted today a new and richer chapter in an already amazing life.

Shortly after an Adirondack mountain jury freed the fabulous golfer pal of movie stars, officials of the Paramount studios announced in Hollywood that "Mysterious Monty" had signed a contract amounting to $1,000,000 in seven years.

The pact was signed with Everett Crosby, Bing's older brother, and calls for appearances on the radio, in pictures and as a professional golfer competing in the nation's most valued tournaments, studio executives said.

Montague's first radio appearance probably will be on Bing's next program, they said. Tentative plans also call for a series of golfing movie shorts, a part in Bing's next picture, "The Badge of Policeman O'Roon."

From Wichita Falls came word this morning of the fifth death in Texas and the forty-sixth in the United States attributed to effects of the medicine within the past month. William T. Parker, an oil worker, was the victim.

George A. Berry, from the food and drug division of the federal health service, and W. F. McBride and J. S. Brown of the state health department, today started hunting for 15 dozen bottles of the elixir sulfanilamide supplied to a salesman for distribution as samples to physicians in the southwest.

Record Crowd Gathered At Auditorium

Event Praised As The Most Successful Ever Held Here

The Herald's Happy Kitchen Cooking School went into its climax Wednesday afternoon, as record-breaking crowds of housewives from Big Spring and nearby communities packed the municipal auditorium to hear final lectures by Miss Jessie Hogue, able kitchen economist who has been here for three days.

Attendance at the second-day demonstrations Tuesday climbed to 863, and indications were that a much larger throng had assembled for the concluding session, when Miss Hogue gives other valuable recipes and numerous hints for lightening and brightening culinary tasks.

Grand Prizes

An attraction, too, was the awarding of grand prizes, in addition to the first list of daily grand prizes, which were awarded Tuesday, and a similar list was to be offered today. To top that off, grand awards were to be made at the last, including the $125.00 Magic Chef range from the Empire Southern Service company.

On all these have come decisions that the school is the most successful event of its kind ever held here. Women already have called The Herald and many cooperating merchants, expressing their delight with the programs. Local firms and national advertisers themselves have been well pleased with the enthusiastic response given their efforts. The crowd cheered Tuesday when it was indicated another such school might be arranged next spring.

Wants To Come Back

Miss Hogue herself, who has made a distinct hit with her brisk, forthright lectures and her able demonstrations, said "I have never had more interested audiences than I have had in Big Spring." She expressed the hope that at sometime in the future she might be privileged to work again with the local housewives.

"Your men here in Big Spring are very lucky, I can tell you, because your wives take so much interest in their homes. Any community where such a spirit prevails is bound to be a happy and prosperous one."

Additional recipes which have been prepared and are recommended by Miss Hogue appear in today's edition of The Herald. It is suggested that women clip these for future use.

Beautician Suggests An Easy Treatment For Tired Beauty

Miss Ruth Meissner, representative of Barbara Gould from the New York Beauty salon, works from several angles when advising treatments for feminine loveliness during her stay here this week from her headquarters in the Cunningham and Phillips Main street store.

Realizing that beauty begins internally, Miss Meissner suggests that women take brisk morning walks for a radiant complexion, walk golf to keep the figure trim, and to drink lots of water.

Even though one is as fresh as a daisy after the brisk morning walk, a full day is bound to leave little fatigue lines, so to make mildly charming again for her evening sojourn, Miss Meissner advocates Barbara Gould's new plastic cream which she declares does more for the skin than anything she has to offer.

This new creation tightens the skin, cleans the pores and consequently clears the skin. A radiant complexion is gained by the use of the cream in tightening, and therefore removing the tired little lines that comes from weariness. This "pick-up" leaves the contour smooth and the lady relaxed, however, for permanency the cream should be used three times a week.

Miss Meissner completed a course of study during the summer on correct makeup for types, and for the new fall clothing. She stated that smart women will have her makeup keyed to her clothing.

The beautician will be at the local store through Saturday where she will make out, makeup analysis charts and hold consultations free of charge.

Mexican Theme Used By Miss Barnett For Tuesday Club Party

A Mexican theme was attractively used by Miss Jeanette Barnett Tuesday evening when she was hostess to members of the Tuesday Club at the Settler hotel.

Barely room for a whisker between engine parts, even in old cars.

Suppose other oils dared to claim they flow as fast as your correct Winter grade of Conoco Germ Processed oil. That still could never change the fact that this patented oil has gone into all the million narrow places that need it, before other oils budge an inch.

Only one thing can give you all that difference... exclusive OIL-PLATING.

OIL-PLATING is a lining of slippery rich lubricant, sort of welded all over your engine's insides by Germ Process action.

OIL-PLATING cannot drain down all day, all night, all winter. Keeps your engine constantly oiled in advance - while you're still at your desk... or at breakfast.

No faint chance of an instant's poor oiling. Not half a turn of the starter wasted. And you don't often "add a quart," for OIL-PLATING neither drains right down nor burns right up. The most noticeable Winter change you ever ordered... Germ Processed oil from your Conoco Mileage Merchant, Continental Oil Co.

blockades mere "free-flow" oiling. Can't blockade WINTER OIL-PLATING

Barely room for a whisker between engine parts, even in old cars.

Suppose other oils dared to claim they flow as fast as your correct Winter grade of Conoco Germ Processed oil. That still could never change the fact that this patented oil has gone into all the million narrow places that need it, before other oils budge an inch.

Only one thing can give you all that difference... exclusive OIL-PLATING.

OIL-PLATING is a lining of slippery rich lubricant, sort of welded all over your engine's insides by Germ Process action.

OIL-PLATING cannot drain down all day, all night, all winter. Keeps your engine constantly oiled in advance - while you're still at your desk... or at breakfast.

No faint chance of an instant's poor oiling. Not half a turn of the starter wasted. And you don't often "add a quart," for OIL-PLATING neither drains right down nor burns right up. The most noticeable Winter change you ever ordered... Germ Processed oil from your Conoco Mileage Merchant, Continental Oil Co.

Write for "The Story of Oil-Plating"... Dept. 3, Conoco, Ponca City, Okla.

NEW DYNAFLASH ENGINE

One ride will show you why TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING and the new DYNAFLASH ENGINE make the 1938 Buick the most modern chassis in the world

IT'S when you hit the rough going, the rutted road, the railway crossings, the cobbled paving, the "washboard" gravel, that this wondrous new 1938 Buick shows you what science can do with a ride!

Under you now is something fresh and tireless and new in automotive design, not the old-time leaf spring of yore, but the great soft coils of shock-smothering TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING.

As the beautifully poised car streams onward under the spur of the amazing DYNAFLASH engine, the wheels may dip and curtsy but the body rides true and level as a flung lance.

You sit in the cushions, relaxed and rested. You're safer - skid risks are blessedly reduced. You save money - rear tires last measurably longer. And the whole eager car handles with a sureness, a "directability" never before attained.

Please don't stop with admiring the new Buick. Know what DYNAFLASH power and the lullaby ride of TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING mean, by sampling them firsthand on the highway.

LABOR VIOLENCE AGAIN FLARES IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Oct. 27 (AP)—State, city and labor leaders today investigated two months of labor troubles which flared again yesterday with the kidnaping and flogging of Harry Bowen, 33.

Bowen, who said he was a former employe of the closed Ford plant in Kansas City, told police 18 men, in two groups, abused him. Eleven men, he reported, drubbed him with their fists and stamped him with their feet as he lay on the ground. Another carload of men drove up and flogged him with a rubber hose, he added.

Three state rangers went to work on the case and Police Chief R. L. Jones ordered a continuous patrol of the Ford plant here, near which a previous kidnaping took place.

Bowen is recovering from a broken nose, black eyes, cracked ribs and body bruises.

Kuykendall May Be Sent To Alcatraz

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 27 (AP)—Malloy "Red" Kuykendall, 23-year-old desperado who escaped twice from Oklahoma prisons, faced the prospect today of confinement on Alcatraz Island.

A federal court jury yesterday convicted Kuykendall and two convict pals who accompanied him on one of his dashes to freedom—W. L. Baker, Jr., 23, and Dale Stamp-hill, 24, on a charge of kidnaping Dr. Fred Lewis Myers of Leedy, Okla., and transporting him across the Oklahoma-Texas line.

A. P. Murrain, federal judge sentenced them to life imprisonment. "It is the recommendation of this court that you be confined to Alcatraz prison," Judge Murrain told the three.

Dr. Myers was kidnaped March 2, 1935, only two weeks after Kuykendall, Baker and Stamp-hill and 29 other prisoners participated in a bloody break from Granite reform-atory in which a guard was slain.

'Window' In Eye Provided For Blinded Persons

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (AP)—A re-ctangular shaped window in the eye is the latest contribution of surgery to persons blinded by burns, searing chemicals and ulcers.

These windows are made of bits of cornea, the transparent outer covering of the eye in front of the pupil, and they are obtained from the eyes of persons newly dead.

The windows replace operations which formerly attempted to trans-plant an entire cornea from the dead to the living.

The new developments were de-scribed to the American College of Surgeons by Ramon Castroviejo, M. D., of the Institute of Oph-thalmology, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, New York. The be-ginnings of this surgical art, he said, go back to 1789 when phys-i-cians tried glass windows. "They failed."

In the "window" operation the sightless cornea is left in the eye. A small piece of it is removed in front of the pupil of the eye and the "window" set in this opening.

At first circular windows were made. Dr. Castroviejo said, how-ever, that he found rectangular shaped windows give better re-sults. Their edges can be fitted better to merge with and become a living part of the rest of the eye.

Only human corneas can be used to make these windows. Experi-ment with rabbits has shown that borrowed "parts" from animals eyes are not suitable for humans.

THE SPORTS PARADE

BY HANK HART

It is generally believed around this part of the state that Pittsburg will return to battle the California Bears in the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day since the Panthers are having one of their better seasons but Texas sport writers will see no reason why Baylor's Bears should not get the call if the Bruins should go through an undefeated season.

The Southwest conference has been represented but once in the California classic and Texas living in California would welcome the chance for another Lone Star aggregation to return to the coast and avenge that kicking the SMU Mustangs took Jan. 1, 1936.

Chances for Pittsburg are very good but they must triumph over Duke in their final game. The Blue Devils, who have been tied twice this season, are anything but an easy mark.

Before they can even think about Wallace Wade's eleven, however, the Pittsburgers are going to have to contend with an eleven from Lincoln, Neb. That aggregation is Biff Jones' mighty Nebraska Cornhuskers, winners over Minnesota earlier this year and a team that is on its way toward the Big Six title again.

Too, the Panthers meet Notre Dame and Pennsylvania State later in the season and run into the home town rivals, Carnegie Tech, this Saturday.

Another possibility is Alabama, Frank Thomas' tricky Tusculosa Crimson Tide, which in five games this season, has won out over Howard, Sewanee, South Carolina, Tennessee and George Carolina. That machine is gathering steam now and well it is because later in the year the Alabamians meet two formidable opponents who are capable of upsetting anybody.

On Nov. 13 they take the field against Georgia Tech, which lost on a heartless break to Duke, and then go to Nashville Nov. 25 to engage Ray Morrison's Vanderbilt Commodores in the "battle of the century." The Coms triumphed last year and will be pointing for the same thing again.

Other eastern teams who rate a chance are Yale, which still has Dartmouth, Brown, Princeton and Harvard on its schedule and Holy Cross which doesn't play enough major teams to be considered.

Baylor, which meets Texas Christian this week, will have to play Southern Methodist, Texas, Loyola of California and Rice before its season ends. Loyola, incidentally, was the team which lost to Harding-Simmons, 7-0, three weeks ago.

California isn't out of the wilderness yet. After the U. C. L. A. engagement Saturday in Los Angeles, the Bears line up against Washington, Rose Bowl participants a season ago. Oregon, always tough, Stanford in Pasadena and Georgia Tech.

Ace Freeman, who has probably shown here for the last time this season, is thinking about going to Europe and Africa to wrestle in the spring.

Freeman has an attractive offer from a British promoter and may take him up.

Buck Lipscomb, who took a powder when Tex Watkins showed up at the local jussie arena a month or so ago, is coming back to town, he reported to Promoter Herman Fuhrer from Amarillo last night. He'll probably wrestle on next week's card.

Cleaning the cuff: Big Bill Tilden won the Wimbledon tennis title three years running. All football fans who intend to ride the special bus to Stephenville Saturday for the Longhorn-Jacket game must make their reservations with Clarence Gaines soon. Unless assurance is given that as many as 25 will go all plans will be dropped.

The United States, Great Britain, France and Australia are the only nations to ever hold the Davis cup, emblematic of world tennis supremacy. Although a nation is competing for it since 1900, Tiger Flowers, the only colored boy to ever sport the middleweight boxing title, started fighting when he was 15. Teddy Lewis put on the gloves a year earlier. 27,000 people might file into the Yale Bowl for one of the four remaining games, especially against Dartmouth. That is the seating capacity of the New Haven stadium.

Jim Jeffries held the Heavyweight boxing title 11 years.

Raiders Taper Off In Drills

LUBBOCK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Physically fit, the Texas Tech Red Raiders tapered off training drills today in preparation for the Saturday clash with the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater, Okla., the first of four major games that will wind up their schedule.

In the midst of a comeback after spilling Arizona and New Mexico to take a big lead in the Eastern conference, the Matadors play an Aggie team they defeated 12-0 last year and then, in succession, meet Loyola of New Orleans, Duquesne, Centenary and Creighton. The Loyola and Centenary games will be played at New Orleans and Shreveport, La.

Says That Trio Only Ones To Approach Old Timers

By BERNARD FREEMAN
BOSTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Francis Oulmet, three-times Walker Cup team captain, thinks highly of today's young golfers "but in my opinion they can't come up to our internationalists of 1920 to 1930 and they don't know the rules as well, either."

The one-time National Amateur and Open champion is a busy man these days in his brokerage office, but he always finds time to talk golf. He likes especially to explain why he's helping the Massachusetts Golf association to educate the golf public on the rules.

"Out at the National Amateur championship at Portland, Ore.," he related, "I saw numerous cases of rules violations. The most flagrant one, I should say, was by younger players who repeatedly stamped down the line of their putts with their clubs."

"Now, the rules allow you to brush away impediments with a club, but you mustn't apply any weight. Yet it was a frequent occurrence."

No Role Knowledge
"At the water hazards, too, the boys would face away from the hole and virtually pick their lies, whereas the rules say you must face the hole and drop the ball over the shoulder."

"It's my impression," Oulmet went on, "the youngsters of today know less about the rules than the players of older generations."

Oulmet was asked how the ten 1937 top-notchers would compare with the early Walker Cup players. "Well, I may be prejudiced in favor of the veterans," smiled the bespectacled linksmen, who first won the National Open back in 1913, "but I think they could have handled the present stars."

"After all, there was Bob Jones, clearly the greatest amateur of all time; Chick Evans, who in his prime was a close second; Jesse Guiford, Harrison Johnston, George Von Elm, Jesse Sweetser, Bob Gardner and myself. I think only Johnny Fischer, Johnny Goodman and Lawson Little could stand up in the top company of the veterans."

Ponies In Quest Of 3rd Victory

DALLAS, Oct. 26—Dropping the net of the last five games does not agree with Coach Matty Bell and his gridsters from Southern Methodist. Out of the five, only one—Arkansas—is a Southwest conference member.

Next weekend the Ponies tangle with the University of Texas Longhorns in Dallas. Coach Dana X. Bible and Coach Matty Bell have something kindred in mind, neither getting his share of victories. However, the Mustang coach realizes that sentiment has no place in football and warns all concerned that the S.M.U. warriors are "out for blood."

A scrimmage between the varsity subs and the freshman squad Monday revealed strength for the backfield. Kenneth Goodson and Dan Patterson, both on the injured list during the last few weeks, performed impressively.

Keith Ransport, 6'3" end from Weatherford, Texas, will captain the Mustangs for the second time this season. The lone major victory garnered by the Ponies was in St. Louis, October 9, against the Washington Bears. "Spot" directed the team's activities that day.

Senior Bell sincerely hopes that Saturday's tilt will be unlike that of a week ago. The Mustangs outplayed the Hogs statistically in every respect but one—Touchdowns score. However, this latter statistic appears to be the most important and the Mustang squad says it will do something about putting a few figures in the blank spaces.

S.M.U.-Texas U. grid battles date back to 1916, revealing a total of 7 wins, 6 losses, and 3 ties for the Methodists. Three games in succeeding years are the most that either has been able to garner from the other.

PARADENA, Calif., Oct. 27 (AP)—Donald Budge, world's amateur tennis champion, was testing at the home of Ellsworth Vines, tennis pro, here today after having wrecked his automobile enroute from Oakland.

An x-ray examination at Bakersfield disclosed no broken bones and Budge said today he would "be all right in a couple of days."

POLO GROUNDS SCENE OF WAR OF KINGS

Greatest Football Players To Play For Honors

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Professional football, you will be eager to know, is doing all right for itself. It is growing up fast, the money is rolling in and the performers aren't bruised any more like they used to be. They're gentlemen, on and off the field.

They are expecting 40,000 fans out to the Polo Grounds next Sunday to watch a shooting match between the Chicago Bears, undefeated leaders of the western division of the National League, and the New York Giants, who head the eastern sector.

There is a lot more interest here than the strictly collegiate grid fan would imagine. The Bears are coming with a powerful, veteran team, headed by Bronko Nagurski, who used to murder them for Minnesota. The Giants are a young team, full of vim and vigor, with a new "offensive formation" that has rival coaches moaning nights.

Their tussle looks like it might settle the championship. In the meantime, the pro game is worth looking over. It's changed mightily in recent years. Ned Irish, who turns out publicity for the Giants, watched it happen.

"We'll outdraw any of the New York college teams this year," said Ned. "We've averaged about 25,000 attendance for five games so far, and with a break in the weather we'll do better for months on."

This means that players steadily are getting better salaries, he explained. The average lineman now gets close to $2,000 a season, and the backs around $2,500. Stars like Nagurski, Cliff Battles and Sammy Baugh of Washington, Leeman of the Flants and Dutch Clark of Detroit run up to the $5,000 and $6,000.

"That's attractive dough for a kid just coming out of school," Irish observed. "More and more of them—the better type—are beginning to hope for pro contracts to give them financial head-starts."

SAILOR MORAN SETS STAGE FOR HAGEN

Act four of a four-act play is about to take place. With the unveiling of the main event of next week's card at the Big Spring Athletic club the frills can throw their pop corn away and the gentlemen can take off their hats for their own protection.

Sailor Moran "did it" last night and thereby set the stage for what will probably be a very interesting little affair between him and Jackie Hagen.

That Hagen had been promised if Moran threw Otto Ludwig for a loss and Moran did—in fact he did, most put the Nazi behind the eight ball.

He even had the crowd behind him in disposing of Otto. If he doesn't have next week, he can say that much for himself. Ludwig was plenty sore about the whole situation and tried to choke the Arkansas but he failed where he should have succeeded.

Twice in a row the tar tromped on his opponent. That pair of falls, incidentally, ran his streak to four straight and, if you don't believe the writer, ask Ace Freeman who was around last week to witness the affair.

The sailor came out of the very unadorned position with two good taps and timing that was perfect. He dished out a right and a left of southpaw punches, that left Ludwig, stranded in midair, pinned him easily for the first fall and then won the match soon after he returned to the ring with a reversal body pin.

Hagen held up his end of the agreement by wallowing Freeman in the special event, in a craft, hold to pain the crowd and what else. Johnson broke the tapehead of Johnny Noman in that semifinal match with a flying tackle.

S.M.U.-Texas U. grid battles date back to 1916, revealing a total of 7 wins, 6 losses, and 3 ties for the Methodists. Three games in succeeding years are the most that either has been able to garner from the other.

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 27 (AP)—Punch won the Cesarewitch Stakes over two miles and a quarter here today. It was the 30th running of the classic. Fet was second and Solar Bear third.

PORTALES FOOTBALL FANS THINK WELL OF LOUIE MADISON AND JACK WILSON

Eastern New Mexico Junior college's football fans think well of Big Spring's representatives on its grid team. The Portales school, coached by Al Garten, is seeing Louie Madison and Jack Wilson, Steer co-captains of 1936, for the first time this season.

Here's what the Portales Tribune recently had to say about Madison who is working in the Greyhound secondary:

"If you've heard Junior college fans yelling 'Come on, Louie,' then watch a churning pair of feet supporting a chunky piece of dynamite power charging through the line, to this Greyhound personality...you're right, we refer to Louie Madison...sidekick of Jack Wilson who came from Big Spring with Louie...Madison is the student among his teammates and the known body at Junior college as 'Louie, the Louse'...converted into a half this year after starting at guard...weighs 155 pounds...wears jersey number 52...only 18 years of age...graduated from Big Spring high school in 1937...captain of Big Spring team last year...received honorable mention for all-district in the Lone Star state...for over two years Louie opened holes at guard for the Big Spring backs...then joined

Huey Long Succeeds Woodrow Wilson, Friedman Troubled

WEST POINT, N. Y.—It looks as though a politician instead of an Army captain might be picking West Point's backs this season. Woodrow Wilson has been a regular all season and when he was shifted into Jim Craig's place yesterday his spot was filled by Charles V. "Huey" Long.

NEW YORK—Benny Friedman, York College coach, has a big problem of teaching his athletes to do a thing one season and teaching them not to do it another. His basketball squads are noted for their adept dribbling. Now the footballers are acting as if they were trying to handle a football the same way instead of hanging onto it. They have fumbled 25 times in four games.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—Providing the touchdowns are made for them Saturday, Tom Burnette, North Carolina halfback, and Johnny Druze of Fordham may stage quite a duel in booting the extra points Saturday. Burnette has made seven successful conversions in 11 tries. Druze also has seven to his credit.

Buff Team Intact For Bayen Game

CANYON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Four times losers to the St. Benedict Ravens of Appleton, Kas. the West Texas State Buffaloes will be out to crack the jinx here Saturday afternoon.

Last year St. Benedict's scored 19 points in the last period to whip the rugged West Texans, 19-0. All the Buffs except Broken Dow, big back out with a broken hand, will be ready. However, Foster Watkins, a built passer who has been troubled with threatened appendicitis, appeared ready after his performance of last week which paced the Buffaloes to a 26-0 victory over the Northwestern Oklahoma Teachers.

Texas Grid Twins Fool Coach But Never The Other Team

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 27 (AP)—Louisiana State university's football team has twin brothers in its line this fall but opposing players don't have to worry about them. Dick and Jack Gormley are as little alike as a hockey stick and a baseball bat.

You never would guess they're twins. In fact, their high school coach at Taylor, Tex., didn't know it until after they graduated.

"We don't even think much of each other," says Jack, regular end for the Aggies.

Both are juniors but Dick, a center, is taking up engineering and Jack physical education.

Jack likes to play golf, but Dick would rather go fishing.

Jack is taller and heavier. He stands 6 feet 1-inch tall and weighs 190. Dick weighs two pounds less and lacks a half-inch of being 6 feet.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Any day now Jimmy Braddock will follow the crowd and go into the restaurant business on Broadway.

Looks like Larry (the Great) Kelly's pro career has been thrown for a loss by his academic friends.

Cornell had better look out for that Columbia team Saturday and Vanderbilt had better look out for Georgia Tech. (You don't often trip men like Profs. Lou Little and Bill Alexander two weeks in a row.)

It wasn't enough for the Texas Aggies to use one of Coach Lou Meyer's own pet pass plays to tie his Texas Christians recently. Herb Smith, the Aggie who wrapped his arms around the slippery touchdown pass, was shooved away from Texas Christian just two years ago because he was too small!

Bald headed Ed Cherry, half-back for Hardin-Simmons U. at Abilene, Tex., has averaged better than 10 yards per gallop in the four games the Cowboys have played and won. He has scored seven touchdowns and picked up 42 of his team's 119 points.

Looks like a good bet for the little All America.

Four years ago Jack Meagher, churning back from Big Spring, plan to drive from Texas, to see their former Steer captain carry on. Madison, all-district in high school, has been nursing injuries since the New Mexico university fish contest but Garten declares "Louie will be ready Saturday."

Bullet-Bill Patterson, the young Hillboro lad who has shown sports fans and writers that he is the Southwest's candidate for all-American backfield honors, was limbering up his trigger arm and showing his usual fine form. Sam Boyd, Baylor's outstanding end of the last decade, was on the receiving end of Patterson's rifle passes.

Frank Housner, the young Wacoan who played the best game of his career against the Aggies last Saturday, was bearing down hard and showing up well in scrimmage. Jennings has announced that barring possible injuries in practice this week that "that good old Baylor line" will again be intact Saturday. The Bruins have not presented their homecoming exes a victory during the last three years and T.C.U. is the only team in the conference that has defeated the Bears during the last three years.

In other words, there is not a man on the Baylor squad who has left the field after a T.C.U. encounter wearing a victory smile. And two of these times they have walked off on the short end of a 28-0 score.

LATERAL PASS ON GRIDIRON IS EXPIRING

By DREW MIDDLETON
NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—The lateral pass, two years ago the people's choice as football's most exciting bit of byplay, is quietly expiring in the nation's stadium.

From the outset the coaches looked on the lateral with suspicion. Even two years ago, when fans and writers were loudly hailing the "new type of offense," the men who shape the football styles with a conservatism worthy of a senator from Vermont were opposed to the play's general use.

The lateral's two most inspired protagonists, Handy and Kerr of Colgate and Francis Schmidt of Ohio State, now are casting sheep's eyes at the old standbys and foregoing the quick transfer in the open field.

"The lateral pass is a nice play to watch, but dangerous," says Lou Little, Columbia maestro. "Dovetailed into a balanced offense it is a factor, but not an important one in advancing the ball."

Hooks Mylin, mentor of Lafayette's unbeaten, undefeated and unscathed eleven backs last year, "It's a great play to see done well, but often it is costly to the offensive team."

A survey of 20 of Saturday's major games shows not one of the 40 teams resorting to lateral ledger-dominant for scoring plays. But efforts to hide the ball and the point of attack have been redoubled, the reports show. Spinners and fake spinners, single, double and fake reverses around the forward pass never has been employed with greater profusity.

Mal Stevens, N.Y.U. coach, offers a solution for the play's gradual diminution. "It's too hard to teach when a coach doesn't have unlimited time to work with his players. Then, too, it takes a mature player to use it. Youngsters are liable to tighten up when hit and they have to lateral before contact is made to be effective."

Three years ago Colgate's Red Raiders knocked New York fans out of their seats with four-man downfield laterals, laterals which started forward pass plays, and laterals on the end of forward passes. That day, against Tulane, it wasn't football according to the Southerners, it was a black magic.

Now, the Ohio State which has turned loose its reserves of power, Colgate, struggling to gain a major victory, has given the lateral play the go-by. It may be treason, but Kerr is talking straight football and his boys are playing it.

Garten, accompanied by former coaches, Deward "Tiny" Reed and H. C. Green, watched the Soldiers spank the Panhandle Aggies for Oklahoma, 29-0, in Roswell last weekend. The genial Jaycee skipper returned to Portales with a full schedule of drills booked for this week and a feeling that the Cadets possess a jam-up outfit capable of teasing the Jaycee offense to splinters.

Many friends of Louie Madison, churning back from Big Spring, plan to drive from Texas, to see their former Steer captain carry on. Madison, all-district in high school, has been nursing injuries since the New Mexico university fish contest but Garten declares "Louie will be ready Saturday."

Stengel Says He'll Stand Pat On Club

Sees No Reason For Breaking Up Bees, Looks To '38

OMAHA, Tex., Oct. 27 (AP)—Casey Stengel, who was purported to have been paid more for no managing the Brooklyn Dodgers than the manager received, was ready to go back to the National League baseball wars today. Non-committal on what he thought about the Dodgers, Stengel sang the praises of the Boston Bees, the club he is to manage. He expects to report to J. Robert Quinn, president of the Boston club, about Nov. 1.

Asked what he had been doing in East Texas, Stengel said he had been "fooling around with a little oil, but I'm a baseball man now." What's in store for the Bees club hinges on conferences with Quinn next month and "very often you can't tell until next year," Stengel added. He explained that no changes in the club personnel were contemplated.

"It would be foolish to bust up a club that finished next to the first division, considering the fact that in two years they have climbed out of the cellar. They made a splendid showing."

But about the sixth-place Dodgers, Stengel said "I don't want to comment too much about them." In fact, he would not comment at all. Progress for what he thought the Dodgers could do with the Bees, he said "I can only say we are going to try to make any position that's open. I am serious and I'm ambitious."

Details of his managerial job in Boston have not been worked out, he said, Quinn having telephoned him the offer of the job. He expects to spend two or three weeks in Boston next month.

Most of that team that wallowed in the cellar for the regional championship last year has returned to grace the gridiron for Stephenville this season and the team that takes the field against Big Spring Saturday night will be composed of veterans from end to end with weight and plenty of it at every position.

The Jacket forward wall has battered all opposition before it this semester and showed that it had the ability to cope with the state's strongest eleven by holding such highly touted teams as San Angelo and Sweetwater scoreless and running over the powerful Breckenridge Buckaroos.

The Mobley coached line has given up only one touchdown this year and appear well on their way toward the title in their first year in Class A football.

Mathews and Phillips hold down the wing positions for the Jackets with Ramsay and Johnson at the tackles, Keith and Cornett at the guards and Pemberton at center.

It was Johnson who broke through the strong Breck line to block Hogan's attempted kickoff and fall on the ball for the first touchdown in the Breck-Stephenville game played three weeks ago.

In practically all their games thus far, the Jacket wall has given up more first downs than the Jacket backs have been able to make out. The Jacket forward wall seems almost unbreakable when inside the 20-yard line.

The Longhorns went to it hammer and tongs in Tuesday's practice at the stadium, scrimmaging in preparation for the rough work that is to come.

Another hard drill was in prospect this afternoon with tapering off exercises due Thursday and Friday.

GET HOLIDAY IF VICTORY IS SCORED

WACO, Oct. 27 (AP)—Undeclared Baylor will have a two-fold purpose in mind when they meet Texas Christian's gridzies here Saturday—keep their record spotless and do something for the students.

President Pat M. Neff told the student body that if the Golden Bears beat T. C. U. Saturday in their homecoming day clash, he would grant them a holiday.

The student body elected to take the holiday in connection with their Thanksgiving vacation in November—if the Bears come through.

general treasury had adjourned without providing a dime in new revenue.

Virtually the only accomplishment of the session which cost approximately $150,000 were enactments of laws eliminating conflicts in state and federal dove hunting regulations and re-allocating rural aid appropriations to make an additional $35,000 available for bus transportation.

The governor had asked the legislature to provide $15,000,000 additional annually.

At the last moment the house refused to accept a compromise bill which attempted to reconcile differences with the senate and was estimated to raise about $4,000,000 annually. Its chief objection was to providing for old age assistance which a majority considered hopelessly inadequate.

No Other Call

Governor Allred immediately announced he would not call another special session until there was a positive indication the legislature was ready to do something.

The compromise bill provided for increases on natural resources and utilities, a few tax on commissions of stock brokers and commodity exchanges and a substantial boost in levies on corporations franchises, coin-operated marble tables and musio machines.

Although it did not contain a provision favored by the senate slashing appropriations for state departments 20 per cent, a very controversial section, it resembled much more closely the senate's views on taxing and allocations of revenue than those of the house as expressed in separate bills.

The house demanded generally higher rates as well as more liberal provision for old age pensioners, including a prohibition against considering the ability of relatives to support pension applicants.

VENEZUELA TRADE IN OIL TO BE UP FOR DISCUSSION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull said Texas oil operators will have a chance to discuss with federal authorities the inclusion of crude petroleum and fuel oil in a proposed trade agreement with Venezuela.

Secretary Hull, in announcing a preliminary list of products proposed for inclusion, said comments on the oil agreement proposal should be addressed to the Chairman of the Committee for Reciprocity Information (Seventh and F Streets), Washington, and should be submitted not later than November 28.

OIL SALES UP

NURSING CLASS TO BE OFFERED BY RED CROSS

Courses in bedside nursing, headed by a trained instructor, will be offered to women of Big Spring and Howard county next year under the sponsorship of the Howard county chapter of the American Red Cross.

Starting sometime soon after the beginning of next year, the courses will be offered over a period of four months. Any woman will be eligible to enroll without expense and will be given 24 hours of instruction in practical nursing.

Initial cost of the project was estimated by Shine Phillips, chairman of the local chapter, at $500. Incidental expenses, he figured, would add considerable to that amount.

The Howard county chapter committed itself to the program Tuesday afternoon in a meeting of its directors. R. T. Bridges, field representative for the Red Cross in West Texas, took part in the meeting.

Any woman interested in the course may make arrangements now by writing to the local Red Cross chapter or calling on one of the officials.

Mrs. James Currie agreed Tuesday to assist the chapter by supervising nursing activities for indigent cases here. Her work will start immediately.

Phillips said that the move was being undertaken in the belief that Big Spring and Howard county people will increase their support of the Red Cross this year. Last year's roll call brought in the largest amount in the history of the chapter, something like $1,000 remaining here after the national organization had been furnished its part.

Patent Suits To Be Aired At Dallas

Statewide Conference Of Cities Involved Is Scheduled

A move started by the City of Big Spring Monday for a joint meeting of 14 municipalities named in traffic light patent suits Wednesday had grown into a statewide proposition.

E. E. McAdams, formerly city manager at Waco and executive secretary of the Texas League of Municipalities, talked with City Manager E. V. Spence here Wednesday by telephone to gain permission to call a meeting of all Texas municipalities in Dallas Saturday.

Although only 14 cities are mentioned in the suits filed in federal district courts, McAdams saw the possibility that the action was of concern to others, particularly those who operate traffic signals.

The suits, one of them directed against Big Spring, charge infringement of a patent by use of three unpatented switches in a peculiar arrangement.

Spence will represent this city at the state parley at Dallas.

INSURGENTS MASSES FOR CAMPAIGN TO DIVIDE SPAIN

MADRID, Oct. 27 (AP)—A new drive to cut government Spain into two parts was believed foreshadowed today by reports of huge concentrations of insurgent troops north of Teruel.

The Teruel battle area, comparatively quiet while Francisco Franco's armies were "eliminating" the northwestern front, is really the southern tip of the long Avignon front, reaching from the French frontier to a point about 135 miles east of Madrid. It juts within 80 miles of the Mediterranean, just north of Valencia.

The closing of that 80-mile gap would cut off Catalonia, prospective seat of the republican government, from the rest of government Spain, including Valencia and Madrid.

Government sources said Franco, the insurgent generalissimo, also was massing forces, including aircraft and artillery, for a major drive on Madrid tomorrow.

Work Among Blind Outlined At Lions Club Luncheon

Adult blind work by Lions of this state and the forthcoming vote on a $65,000 school bond issue were aired at a meeting of the Lions club Wednesday.

Joe Pond, member of the local club and district governor, outlined the organization and objectives of the Lions Blind Foundation Fund of Texas and showed how it would assist blind people to become established in some trade or vocation by extension of capital. An attempt is to be made, he said, to persuade every Lion, and others who are interested, to take out a one dollar membership in the foundation.

Details of the school bond vote were discussed from three angles. Joe Pickle pointed to the present crowded conditions, looked for additional growth of the city, and saw a need for more building accommodations even though it means additional bonded indebtedness. Pascal Buckner reminded members there was a need, and that it was equally true that it would cost taxpayers not only for building but for maintaining. Clyde Thomas brought in the fact that by voting the bonds now, the school district will receive a PWA grant in some amount around $40,000, or in other words a $105,000 building program for a $65,000 obligation.

Henry Rogers, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Hurt, entertained with two violin selections. Two club members, in an impromptu number, vocally abused "Beautiful Texas." Guests for the day were Nat Shick, Mrs. Hurt and Rogers. C. A. Walker, formerly of Santa Anna, was introduced as a transfer member.

Corn Crop Control A Big Worry In Farm Legislation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—House agriculture committee, meeting today to draft a farm bill for the special session, described regulation of the nation's annual corn crop as their principal stumbling-block.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex) told reporters he believed there would be little disagreement over other features of permanent legislation.

"The difficulty ever, corn regulation lies in the fact that the bulk of the crop is consumed locally to feed hogs, other livestock and poultry. So little is marketed like other crops that marketing controls might not be effective."

Before the committee's closed meeting began, Jones said: "I think the bill should be as broad and flexible as possible so as to meet changing conditions and problems as they arise. We can't have a 'straight-jacket' program."

TWO DALLAS NIGHT CLUBS RAIDED

DALLAS, Oct. 27 (AP)—Liquor, stocks, fittings and furniture from two Dallas night clubs were under lock and key today as surety for the appearance of proprietors Saturday on contempt citations.

Led by C. A. Thaxton, chief supervisor for the state liquor control board, ten agents raided the Nite Spot, downtown establishment, and the Sazerac late last night while scores of patrons looked on. The guests were held under technical arrest for about an hour. Moving vans hauled away the confiscated material.

Operators of the Nite Spot had been cited in a motion for contempt of court. Prior to the two raids 26 contempt citations were issued, and Judge Claude McCullum set the cases for hearing Saturday. The court previously had enjoined the Nite Spot from selling liquor by the drink.

GOP Meeting Indicated

Both Hoover And Landon Advance Mid-Term Convention

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Two developments caused persons in touch with the republican national committee to predict today that it will sponsor a mid-term party convention early in 1938:

1. Former President Hoover described much of his speech in Boston last night to arguments in support of such a conference, which he said should adopt "positive and affirmative principles."
2. Alf M. Landon, 1936 republican presidential nominee, conferred yesterday with National Chairman John Hamilton over methods of selecting delegates if a convention is approved by the committee at a special meeting November 5.

There have been reports that Landon was not enthusiastic over the convention idea. Nevertheless the fact that he and Hamilton discussed such details as delegates led many followers of the situation to assume he believes a national meeting will be held.

Both a statement by Landon and Hoover's speech advised that the republican party appeal to all opponents of the Roosevelt administration. Hoover used the suggestion of a coalition, previously advanced also by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, as another argument for a national convention.

"People lose or collapse around ideas and ideals," he said, "not around political bargains or stratagems."

Landon said that whatever may be done along the lines of a policy committee or convention "should be to the end that it will afford an opportunity of expression for all opposition to the administration."

REFUGEES LANDED

BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 27 (AP)—The British cruiser Southampton reached here today with 300 Spanish government adherents, their wives and children, who were found fever stricken in the hold of a sinking ship 150 miles off the French coast.

They had been without food for five days and had little water, in their flight from Gijon before its capture by the insurgents. Their clothes were not matted by salt and the refugees soon lost their way. The ship was damaged in a storm.

BOOKIE SHOPS RAIDED

The state officers arrested four persons who later paid fines totaling $303.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

WHERE ARE WE AND WHAT MUST WE DO?

While it is clear enough that there are not the same dangers today as there were after the crash of 1929, it is none the less true that recovery has been halted and that a depression is in the making.

There is no reason for thinking that it must be as grave and as prolonged as the depression which ended in the winter of 1933. But there is also no reason for thinking that it cannot be as serious indeed if its causes are not dealt with promptly, boldly, and clearly.

If for the next three or four months we drift, we shall more than probably drift into as bad a depression as the excitedly pessimistic stock market is now predicting.

My own picture of the present situation, arrived at after some inquiry and study, is in the broadest terms about as follows:

Though it was not clear to many of us while it was happening, it is now obvious that recovery reached its peak last winter—roughly between December and March. Since that time economic conditions have not been improving. They have been deteriorating. In the spring and summer they became worse, and gradually and imperceptibly at first, but then a few observers realized what was happening. By the end of August the halting of the recovery, the relapse into mild depression, and the fear of a bad depression were reflected violently in the stock market.

Once again we have been reminded of the old saying that few people recognize a boom or a slump until six months after it has begun.

The recovery which was halted last winter was stimulated to a high degree by the deliberately inflationary actions of the federal government. The 1936 boom was financed by the cheap money policy of the federal reserve board, by the soldiers' bonus, by the huge relief expenditures, and by the imports of foreign gold.

After the election and during the winter the federal reserve board, the treasury, and the White House became properly and genuinely alarmed at the dangerously rapid rise in prices which threatened to produce an uncontrollable inflation. So they jammed on the brakes. They abolished the largest part of the excess reserves. They sterilized the soldiers' bonus. And, though only a few experts seem to have realized it, they not only balanced the real federal budget for this year, but actually created a situation in which the government is now taking more money from the people in taxes than it is spending.

I know that this is not the popular notion and until I had looked into the facts I had not realized it. But it is a fact. What has happened is that the federal government and the states are collecting something over a billion dollars under the social security act, that this money is greater than the deficit, that the surplus is used to buy back the government's bonds, and that on net balance the government is actually reducing the national debt owed to the people.

Thus in its total impact on business the government is now and has been for some months deflationary. It was not only eminently proper but absolutely necessary that it should be. But—and this is the crux of the matter, I think—if the government through the treasury and federal reserve board was going to stop its contribution to the boom, the only way a depression could be avoided was to have spending through private capital investment replace the spending provoked by the soldiers' bonus and relief.

A year ago it looked as if private capital, stimulated by the prospect of profits, was going to do just that. But before private investment had really gotten very far conditions were allowed to develop and measures were taken which checked investment abruptly and drastically. With the government no longer providing a stimulus to business, and with business falling to provide its own stimulus through private investment, the boom had to end and a depression had to begin.

The causes of the present depression must, therefore, lie in the obstacles which have checked private investment. What are these obstacles? In attempting to answer that question we enter at once into a highly controversial field where we are all in danger of being misled by our political prejudices.

One can do no more than state one's opinion for what it is worth. Mine is that the basic cause is to be found in the fact that the president returned from his South American trip with the conviction that it is his historic mission to "master" the capitalists by squeezing them between a powerful or-dirty trick and completely erase all recollection of your lies.

I feel somewhat that way right now, George. So what say we call it a day, or a column, or something, and write "30"—"three-oh"—"through"!

Advocates of the issuance of $65,000 in bonds to finance, in part, new buildings and improvements for the local school system should bear in mind the fact that opponents to such a proposition are those who customarily work without fanfare to defeat it, but work actively just the same.

This is mentioned because of the apparent lack of general discussion on the bond issue proposal to come before voters of the school district on Tuesday, of next week. The voting date is less than a week away, and yet one encounters little talk of a subject which should be vital to those interested in the community's welfare.

Public apathy has on more than one occasion, been a decisive factor in a referendum, lack of interest often being the cause of a proposition's victory or defeat. In this particular case, apathy might be the cause of a defeat.

Those who want the bond issue carried, should take a little time out to explain to others just what is involved—the need of the schools, the PWA matching grant of $35,000 to $40,000, and other significant factors. The Herald believes the proposition will be acceptable, and accepted, by the majority of the voters, but advocates must work if a favorable decision is obtained at the polls.

A Big Thing

Andrew county's overwhelming endorsement of bonds to further an east-west highway which would be a link in a road connecting this city with oil field points puts the next move for the complete project up to Big Spring. Chamber of commerce committees working for the road realize this, but they must not be permitted to work alone. Getting a road through to Andrews will be a big job, and it must have support of all interests in the city.

Some have been heard to question the value of the road, since it would traverse a comparatively thinly populated territory. Well, cities are built these days on transportation outlets, and every additional one means another trade channel through which commerce pours in, out and through Big Spring.

Our neighbors see its importance, and are doing their part. We're missing a big thing if we don't do ours.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

By HELEN MENKEN

NEW YORK — Well, George, whether or not you're scampering away on a holiday, the show must go on! Although, frankly, I never could see just why! Suppose I made no broadcast tonight? So what? But, anyway, that show-must-go-on tradition is one held in common by you of the Fourth Estate and us of the theatre. I know you'd pinch-hit for me on the air. And I'm pretty sure, too, that you'd feel fluttering butterfly wings in your tummy when you turn actor, just as I do now in facing this Sahara of white paper which I must fill with words for you.

I don't see why we have to fib to each other, George. You know very well that you told me columning was easy. You said: "All you do is put one little word after another until the space is filled." But you didn't tell me what words! However, I'm afraid that if it were my turn for a vacation, and I was persuading you to get up before the microphone and substitute for me as "Brenda" in "Her Second Husband," I'd tell you there was nothing to it except to speak one little word after another! So that makes us even.

Really, though, I don't feel so full of songs, dances and witty sayings today. You see the other evening I somehow lost a pretty valuable pin which also possesses great sentimental value for me.

George, I've been wondering how in the world you ever became a columnist. And why. Won't you write a story about it one day? I became an actress "strictly from hunger." We were pretty poor. So I went to work when I was four. Believe it or not, I was a Shakespearean actress at four. I was "Mustard Seed" in "A Midsummer Night's Dream"!

But you know the way it is with we Shakespearean actors. We have to eat. So a season or so later I was in a more commercial theatre. I was a wave in the Hippodrome show. It was a sea spectacle, and I was one of the 'actors' who ran up and down under the canvas waters to make witching waves. They must certainly have been very sad sea waves! By the way, George, do you know that Eugene O'Neill also started his career as a wave? It was in "The Count of Monte Cristo", which his father owned and played for years.

I imagine that after your first few hundred columns you sort of got the hang of it. But after an actor's first few hundred portrayals of a part, it grows increasingly difficult. For that is the time when memory is likely to play you a organized labor movement on the one side and a very powerful government on the other. This conviction was made manifest by the two spectacular events of last winter—the alliance of the president with organized labor and the proposal to pack the supreme court.

The net effect of the government's labor policy was drastically and suddenly to increase the costs of production. The figures, when one examines them, are really amazing. Toward the end of 1936 average hourly earnings in factories rose sharply and the average hours worked fell sharply. With the rise of prices checked by the deflationary policy of the government, with costs greatly increased in the key industries by its labor policy, the margin of profit which had seemed so attractive in the autumn of 1936 had been reduced, if not eliminated, by the spring of 1937. Men take risks in order to make profits and when they cannot see profits they do not take risks.

Concurrently, the president set out to pack the supreme court, and this unhappy project was generally interpreted as signifying that he meant to remove the constitutional restrictions upon the political regulation of business. Thus to the dimming prospects of private enterprise there was joined the threat of still more grandiose intervention by the government. The building industry, the utilities, and the railroads, the three chief channels of great private investment, were all of them caught in the pincers between the pressure of organized labor and the pressure of the new deal.

Investment did not take place. The recovery came to an end. Depression began.

This is, of course, to paint the picture with very broad strokes. But the picture is, I believe, the real picture as it is now seen in Washington by the president's most experienced advisers, perhaps even by the president himself.

If it is the true picture, then in order to avert a major depression, one relatively easy and one exceedingly difficult decision must be taken in Washington. The easy decision is to relax the deflationary policies of the treasury and the federal reserve board, in word to have the government take in no more money for the time being than it gives out. Though for obvious reasons one hesitates to say it to this spendthrift administration, there is no doubt, I think, that in a depression a government ought not to have a net surplus. It should either spend a little more now or it should tax a little less.

From such inquiries as I have made, I have no doubt that the leading new dealers now realize that unless such a reversal takes place promptly they will find themselves in a depression which will destroy them and their political power. Their present problem is to persuade the president, who is only half persuaded, that he must act at once, and the problem of persuading him is how to devise a formula which will enable him to reverse his course without losing too much face.

Says Gas Purchased From Independents

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 26 (AP)—Julius Evans, Tulsa, Okla., assistant manager of Barnsdall Refining Corporation, testified today in the federal government's oil conspiracy case his company always has purchased gasoline from small independent refiners in the mid-continent field.

The indictment on which Barnsdall and 22 other major firms are being tried charges they bought surplus supplies from such refiners in 1935 and 1936 at artificially high prices as part of an alleged plot to push up the market in which independent jobbers had to buy.

Special Prosecutor John Henry Levin asked the witness when the Barnsdall Corporation ceased buying from the small companies, termed by the government as the "dancing partners" of the big firms in the alleged conspiracy.

Chapter 24
DAVID GOES HUNTING
After the game, David came over to Nina and kissed her, and from the queer little crooked smile that appeared at one corner of Gracie's mouth, Nina began to understand the girl's antagonistic attitude, still better.

For the first time, she thought of David in a new light. . . .gay, copper-headed David breezing in to another girl's life, as he had into hers, and leaving his own special brand on her heart. She thought of the girls at Cordelia's dinner, who had remembered him from that one evening in "Montmartre" back in the autumn.

She thought: "Um-m-m. The boy's got something!" And she looked up at him with amused, affectionate, . . .provocative eyes.

David forgot himself, completely, then, and dived for her again. "What do you think of my girl?" he asked, absurdly, and—with her new awareness—Nina realized that Gracie Nolan's praises were a shade too hearty.

By the time the party broke up, Nina had her head all up. . . . and the most important thing about her was this: in Gracie you could have a friend—or an enemy—for life. There would be nothing she wouldn't do, underhand or above board, to keep whichever of those two things you happened to be.

Nina also realized that if it were a case of loving someone, Gracie would probably double up on her efforts.

She remembered that funny little crooked smile, and she thought: "On your toes, Nina!"

"Gosh, Nina, it's been swell meeting you. You'd better be prepared to have little Gracie in your life, from now on, pal!"

And Nina thought: "I bet she'll be!"

"Goodnight, Gracie. . . .you were darling to have me. We'll get together soon."

On the way home, David said: "Gracie was crazy about you, honey. . . . But Nina had different ideas."

"A Pitiful Little Place"
Honey was trying to get away from the exuberant Button.

"Wait a minute, Honey. Pause and look around. You are now in the 'foyer,' my friend! Lie down, Button!"

Honey gave a startled glance about the dark little cubicle. . . . And here's the living-room, darling. . . . sweet, don't you think?"

Honey looked somewhat relieved. Although she had been home from the south for two weeks, she had been confined to her bed with an annoying attack of grippe. This was her first visit to the apartment.

"Why . . . why, you clever baby, you!" She really liked it. "You have always known that. . . . But I did you and Bridget really make those curtains, yourselves? . . . of course, it's a bit empty, isn't it? But you'll pick up lovely antique pieces, little by little, I suppose."

Nina laughed. "We will not. This has stretched the purse-strings to the limit, as it is. Come on and see how well my things look in the bedroom."

"They went down the narrow hall."

"Honey was strangely silent. . . . 'Um, yes, the furniture fits in quite well. . . . considering the size of the room.'"

"And the tiny kitchen. . . . 'Yes. . . . cunning, Nina. Awfully cozy.'"

But it wasn't until they were back in the blue and white living-room, sipping tea and little cakes (baker's) that Honey spoke her mind.

"Now listen, baby. I think you've managed too, too beautifully. . . . your figures stagger me. I didn't know they were such reasonable things to be had. . . . but . . . Nina, child, will you kindly tell me why all this rigid economy is necessary?"

"This tiny box of a place? . . ."

"Why, Honey dear, I told you David's only beginning. . . . he's just 24. He only makes $50 and occasionally $60 a week!"

Honey knew all that.

"But, surely you knew I'd continue your allowance. We agreed that two hundred a month was enough when you were living at home with all your expenses paid. . . . but I told you, that when you got married I'd increase it, if necessary. Your daddy would have wanted me to, Nina. . . . Nina, darling, how do you think your mother feels, seeing her only child living in a pitiful little place like this. . . . doing her own housework? . . . And when it needn't be, at all?"

Nina tried to laugh her way out of her concern.

"Well, darling, my mother can feel perfectly happy, because her daughter is. And this isn't a 'pitiful little place'—it's adorable, I'm having a marvelous time!"

But Honey's worried frown would not go away.

"I see. So your good-looking David is one of those selfish, unright young men, who will make his wife suffer and go without things, rather than accord a little financial help from her! I've heard of people like that. . . ."

"Now. . . . Hon-ey! Don't be naughty. I think it's the finest article a man can take, and I'm proud of him for it. I'll go on with my allowance, if I may, get my clothes with some of it, and save the rest."

Honey looked as though she were going to cry.

"Don't call me 'naughty,' darling. . . . All I want in the world is for my baby to be happy, you know that. But it does seem like such a silly, old-fashioned stand for a young man to take! . . . Why, Richard is the most perfect husband a woman could ever hope to have, and yet he's perfectly simple and broadminded about letting me go on sharing the expenses. . . ."

Nina had wondered about that.

Admiration For David
And now, the Days were having another party given for them, by Carl and Hester. Simple this time—a house party at Harmony, T. S. Semple's, the Days, the Challoners, Cordelia Thorpe and a man named Tony Leeds. Oh, and Button, of course, staying in rather sulky solitude in one of the row of kennels that had been empty since Hester's reign.

It was Saturday afternoon, and with the exception of Honey and Hester, they had all been hunting.

Nina's David had been hysterical, something to write a book about. His previous experience with horse flesh had been confined to a few rides in the Park ("on flush Sundays") from a West Side riding academy. But today, clad in a pair of Carl's breeches, a turtleneck sweater and tweed coat, he had bounced and flapped his way over the countryside, until he was actually in at the death—without a single fall to mar his record.

Nina thought she would never forget the picture he made: feet set and excited, copper hair standing up in the wind—the best his hat at the first fence—clucking to his mount, and urging it forward with terms that applied more to automobile row, than the hunt in field.

"Step on the gas there, boy!"

"Whoa—use your brakes, kid!"

"Whoo!—let 'em out!"

But he got results, just the same. Lilith—who had rescued him from the kicking horses in the "turning" and young Tommy—who ever-his-name-was, and the "water" . . . and, of course, the whole Harmony party, watched him, fearful and marvelling.

Of the lot, it was Richard, Nina noticed, whose intense dislike of the younger man would not permit of admiration. Richard looked at full gallop—lifting his head over a difficult jump. . . . we'll be something lyric to watch. But, somehow, beside David's ridiculous exhibition of determination and courage. . . . it had paled a little. David was the man of the hour. He was pleased as a kid about it.

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—If Charlie Chaplin should omit his baggy trousers from his future film plans—there's been some talk but nothing definite—he'll have precedent in personality changing.

But not much, and in a practical sense he'd be doing something never done before. No one so far advanced in a career with a screen character so well established as Chaplin's wistful vagabond, has ever deliberately chucked that character overboard.

Years ago, Harold Lloyd made such a change. He didn't always wear those spectacles. But the Lloyd career was still in its formative stages when Harold said goodbye to Lonesome Luke, forswore that gentleman's Chaplinesque accoutrements, including moustache and lurching gait, and became the naive but wholesome bespectacled youth.

Even Mary Changed. You might count Mary Pickford's shearing of her curls as a break from character. It was eight years ago that Mary suddenly "grew up" in films. After specializing in little girl roles—the same that Shirley Temple is doing now—Mary went all into her hair.

Douglas Fairbanks gave up swashbuckling for a modern film or two—talking—but never as successfully. This may have been due to the natural wanting of a long career more than to the public's refusal to accept the change.

Adolphe Menjou has stepped out of the niche of masculine character performer for some first-rate character performances, including comedy.

Myrna was Siren. William Powell did a startling change of character, too, but the change accompanied his rise to stardom. Once he played villainous rats—in silent films. Then he switched to bad men with golden hearts, paved the way for his accession to a hero's throne.

Myrna Loy is a striking example of character change. She was the siren type, remember, the Oriental heavy who lurked in the shadows, always ready to snare the hero. She changed to American heavies, then was discovered for smart comedy in which she reached stardom.

Taking stage stars and revamping them for movie purposes is common. Look at comedienne Gladys George, who now swims in celluloid tears. Look at dramatic Stella Adler, engaged in screen slapstick. And dramatic Mary Boland, who is a movie comic.

But when Chaplin loses those baggy pants and big shoes, I'll look for Garbo to start throwing pies. And I don't expect either catastrophe to occur.

SIX KILLED, EIGHT OTHERS TRAPPED IN MINE BLAST

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 27 (AP)—Six men were killed and eight others trapped by an explosion in the Evans Jones coal mine, 1,800 feet up the side of a mountain, late yesterday. Little hope was held today for the entombed men.

Four of 19 men in the mine at the time of the explosion, fled unhurt as the Tunnel crumbled behind them. A fifth miner, Vic Raide, foreman, was brought out by rescuers. He was seriously burned and one leg was hurt.

Rescuers pushed their way through debris today as they sought their entombed companions.

Farmers Using Protective Cover Crops To Combat Black Blizzards

GUYMON, Okla., Oct. 27 (AP)—"Dust bowl" farmers, with a helping hand from Mother Nature, have pooled their efforts to smother the "black blizzards" which once raged in parts of five southwestern states by spreading a blanket of protecting crops over most of the affected area.

Growing crops are holding down the top-soil in the Oklahoma Panhandle, once the hub of southwestern blowlands.

Fred Merrifield, Oklahoma-Texas field agent for the soil conservation service, who is touring the Oklahoma Panhandle, said today he found "at least 75 per cent of all the blowing land in this area nailed down by growing crops."

He predicted they will "stay that way at least until wheat planting time in 1938."

Equally optimistic reports came from other "bowl" states—Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas.

The best row crops in much of the dust area of the five states "in several years" were described by H. H. Fimmel, Amarillo, Texas, regional soil conservation director.

"There was sufficient moisture for sorghums," he said, "and much of the land will be protected by the stubbles. The crops are exceptionally fine in the South Plains region and much progress has been made in the entire area."

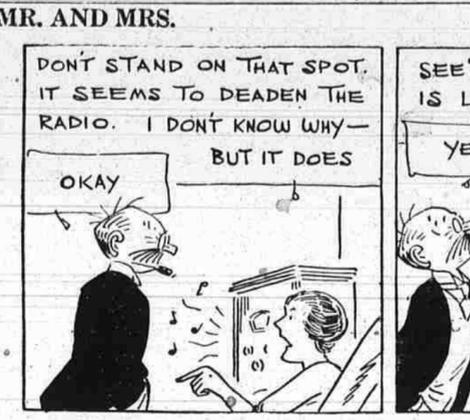

Kenneth Chambers, Colorado coordinator, pointed to beneficial results from moisture conservation practices in soil conservation demonstration areas of Colorado.

New Platform Hoover's Idea For GOP

"Mighty Service" To Be Performed, He Says In Speech

BOSTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The republican party had a fresh demand today from Herbert Hoover for a national convention to draft a new platform of "positive and affirmative principles." "There is a mighty service to be performed," the former president told the Republican Club of Massachusetts last night. "This party must make the humanitarian objectives of the nation possible which are otherwise wrecked by wrongful and ineffective methods. It must reform destructive economic policies which undermine the standards of living of the economic middle class, and thus of all the people."

In an address hailed so frequently by applause that he was compelled to bid his radio audience goodbye before he reached the end of his speech, Hoover declared: "The interest of the nation requires that the republican party shall provide the country with positive and affirmative principles that will meet these yearnings of the people today for a way out and forward. It is a gigantic task. But why should we not make a beginning?" The former president inserted into his prepared address an admonition against delaying the declaration of principles until 1940. Early in his speech Hoover brought a stir from the audience when he said "I do not want any public office," followed by applause when he added "I shall keep on fighting for those things vital to the American people."

suburban South Gate. Willard Bretz, South Gate chief of police, said Boyer confessed that he killed his wife with an iron dumb-bell during a quarrel last August 1 and five days later buried her body in a two-foot grave in a vacant lot. "She wouldn't divorce me nor let me divorce her," Chief Bretz quoted the prisoner as saying. "I got sick and tired of it. I made up my mind to kill her a long time ago."

Call For Bids On Clearing Of Acreage

Resettlement Project At Ropesville To Go Forward

Ralph R. Will, assistant regional director of the Farm Security Administration, with headquarters at Amarillo, announced this week that invitations to bid on the clearing of land, breaking, terracing and the construction of spur dykes on the 12,000-acre addition to the resettlement project at Ropesville, Texas, are now open to contractors.

Bids, Will said, will be opened in his office, room 203, Masonic Temple building, Amarillo, at 2 p. m. on November 10.

Approximately 8,300 acres of the new addition will be broken. There will be about 320 miles of terraces and approximately 500 spur dykes constructed. Payment will be made on unit basis for actual work performed.

Specifications, forms of contracts and accompanying documents may be obtained from Harold B. Elmendorf, regional engineer, room 215, Masonic building, Amarillo, Texas. All requests for specifications must be accompanied by a deposit of $25 to insure their return. Construction work will be divided into two parts: (1) clearing and breaking; (2) terracing and the construction of dykes. Bids will be accepted on each of these two operations or both combined.

The additional land at Ropesville will be divided into 48 units. Construction of the new farm homes and selection of families is expected to coincide with the land preparation. The present resettlement project, consisting of 33 farmsteads, was inaugurated two years ago.

Will Avoid War By All Honorable Means, FD Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt said in a navy day message today the United States would avoid war "by all honorable means."

The commander-in-chief, of the most powerful American navy in history coupled with this, however, a statement of determination to maintain adequate sea defenses in the face of widespread armament abroad.

He expressed his views in a letter to Secretary Swanson, through whom he congratulated the navy on its splendid efficiency, xx x and competent leadership.

Navy day has been observed for years of the birthday anniversary of former President Theodore Roosevelt.

The navy's own celebration centered in New York at the laying of the keel of a new $60,000,000 battleship, the North Carolina. It is the first such ship to be put under construction since the World war.

The nation's sea force now ranks second only to that of Great Britain. There are 366 ships in commission, a total tonnage of 1,975,000. An enlisted personnel of 102,000 with 9,714 officers, and a departmental appropriation of $916,258,800.
