Recovered Franks Cushing No. 1
H. Enders, president of the Cushing Ranch Drilling Association, W. F. Cushing, field manager, and all the boys are in high spirits as the two boys of tools have been recovered. Enders-Cushing well No. 1 and are now getting in shape to bring well on the Cushing ranch.

The well is 3155 feet deep and the bottom a black oily shale and the outlook for a good commercial well is deemed favorable by all men who made an inspection of that territory.

The Cushing Ranch Drilling Association are putting down the McIntyre well and good progress is being made. Bigelow and Son are also having the Sparkman well No. 1 spudded in shortly—this well has been delayed on account of a falling job on Enders-Cushing No. 1.

Chicago-Texas Co. to Resume Drilling
J. P. Anderson, president of the Chicago-Texas Oil and Gas Syndicate, expected to arrive within the next few days to superintend development drilling on Durham well, just south of Breeding City, which was suspended pending the arrival of casing.

Present Outlook Everything is moving along at a great rate. The Chicago-Texas officials of the Chicago-Texas are sure of securing big production in Sterling County and it must appear a good bet to the big companies who are grabbing up acreage in that territory.

Three Tests to Start
Large carloads of rig timber and equipment arrived at Iatan the first of the week for three test wells to be started by Maxwell and Johnson, independent operators of Fort Worth.

Notice as to Closing Hours
According to the new contract recently signed between the Merchants and the Retail Clerks Union all stores carrying Union Cards will close every day except Saturday at 6 o'clock and on Saturday at 8 o'clock.

The Big Spring baseball team left Thursday for a series of three games with the Snyder team. The Big Spring team now has three A No. 1 pitchers as well as a bunch that play together and they will give a good account of themselves when pitted against any team in West Texas.

well. W. J. E. Iman was awarded the contract to do the drilling.

Company Seeking 50,000 Acres

The Fidelity Oil Corporation of New Jersey is the latest company to plan a big oil development campaign in Sterling County.

This company is endeavoring to block up fifty thousand acres on which they will drill a number of test wells.

Announcement of Wedding
Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Willis announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Vera Lucille to Mr. Don Knight at El Paso, Texas, at 7 p. m. June 3, 1922.

They will make their future home in El Paso. The following concerning the Knight-Willis nuptials appeared in the El Paso Times:
Miss Vera Willis became the bride of Don Knight last night at the Westminster Presbyterian manse. The Rev. Mr. Farley officiated. The ceremony took place at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Knight is well known down the valley, having taught at the county school at Clint for several years, and is very popular among the young people. Mr. Knight is also well known there having business interests and many friends at Clint and Ysleta. Mrs. Knight's home was in Big Spring, Texas. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Willis, who were pioneers in that town.—El Paso Times

Stewart-Lee

On Wednesday evening June 7th at five thirty o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. G. D. Lee, was solemnized the marriage of Frank A. Stewart and Miss Hazel Pauline Lee. The wedding was a quiet home affair, the ceremony being performed by Rev. C. P. Bass, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple departed on the evening passenger train for Amarillo where they will make their future home.
The bride is a Big Spring girl and is loved and esteemed by a wide circle of friends in this city.
The groom is a young man of sterling worth who has won the confidence and good will of all with whom he has come in contact during the three years he has made his home in this city.

We join a host of friends in extending to this worthy couple best wishes for much success and happiness.

Home Makers Class Meeting

The Home Makers S. S. class of the First Baptist Church held their May meeting in the home of their efficient secretary, Mrs. W. W. Grant, who was assisted in receiving and entertaining the members and their guests for the occasion by Mesdames McDonald and Bly.

The moving away of Mrs. J. T. Reid from our town, left the office of president vacant, so the class heartily elected her capable assistant, Mrs. Paul M. Boaz as president, and Mrs. George Brown as third vice president and assistant teacher. After the transaction of the necessary business, the teacher, Mrs. B. Reagan was called on to give a report of the Organized S. S. Class Convention which she attended in San Antonio.

The social hour concluded this pleasant meeting, during which the hostesses served a delicious cake and cream course.

Sale of Livestock

J. P. Anderson of the Luther community recently sold to San Angelo buyers, 1300 fine ewes.

Dave Christian sold 900 extra good ewes to Dr. Lewis of San Angelo. He also sold 100 head of cows to M. H. O'Daniel of Coahoma.

CULLEN F. THOMAS VISITS OUR CITY

Cullen F. Thomas Speaks at Court House Thursday Night in Interest of Candidacy for U. S. Senate

An appreciative audience gave Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas, candidate for the United States Senate, a respectful hearing at the court house Thursday night, quite a few ladies being present to hear the speaker.

After being introduced by S. H. Morrison, Mr. Thomas gave a sketch of his life so folks might form their own opinion as to his fitness and qualifications, and extended an invitation for one and all to come and shake hands after the speaking so they might become better acquainted.

In commenting on the other candidates in the race for the U. S. Senate Mr. Thomas had no hard things to say concerning any of them but pointed out why the various ones did not merit the nomination more than did he—who was a private in the ranks asking folks for a public office.

The greater portion of his talk was devoted to the economic evils, and the best methods to correct them.

He cited the fact that of the two hundred and fifty billion dollar resources of our nation, one man, Jno. D. Rockefeller owned one per cent and that two per cent of our people owned sixty-six and two thirds per cent of the entire wealth of the nation. He stated that a system that would permit one man to gain one hundredth part of the entire wealth of the nation within a lifetime was absolutely wrong and he wanted to see this system changed. He pointed out that palace and hovel, luxury and poverty were too often flashed before our eyes, and that there was no excuse for so few having all the wealth when others were in dire need.

He favored a strict immigration law not only to protect our institutions from the flood of ignorant foreigners who were flooding our country but also to protect our own people against unemployment.

He gave an insight into the coal strike blaming all the trouble on the mine owners who he branded as the worst profiteers our nation had. He stated that the miners were fighting for the privilege of working long enough to earn a living and he was in favor of their being permitted to work at least six hours a day for five days a week throughout the year.

He said he was for the Ineboring man first, last and always. Not only that he give a living wage—but a wage sufficient to give his family a few luxuries and some money to lay aside for a rainy day.

He discussed the railroad situation and said the trouble was due to the fact that the railroad managers were demanding that the roads earn returns on a valuation of nineteen billions whereas the true value would be nearer seven billions. He said it was not right that the twenty families controlling the railroads of the nation be made richer and richer at the expense of the workers and the public. He pointed out that the "plutes" might get some pointers as to operating railroads from Henry Ford. He favored a big reduction in freight rates and cited instances to prove that the producers were being robbed by the freight rates which were raised eighty per cent.

He favored the repeal of the Esch-Cummings law—and favored permitting the State R. R. Commission to regulate rates within the State.

He made a strong plea for States Rights. Among the measures he did not favor were, a sales tax, a tax on gasoline or automobiles, a stamp tax on checks. He favors an income tax; an inheritance tax; an excess profit tax. He said he did not believe in taxing consumption but in taxing possession and income. Those who had and were able to pay the expenses of our government should be made to pay. He stated that he was for the Volstead act, but favored an amendment changing the penalty so violators could not get off with a light fine.

In answer to queries he stated that he was strongly in favor of collective bargaining. For a soldier bonus if Congress would make the profiteer disgorge some of the eight billion profits they made during the war. That he was for a tariff for revenue only—the straight out old Democratic way.

He closed his address with a strong plea for the League of Nations and putting an end to all wars, saying in part: "Our failure to enter the league at the close of the war was a national blunder. The business judgment of the country realizes that we must cooperate with foreign countries to stabilize world business. Lovers of world peace have been taught the lesson that international machinery must be set in motion to avert the catastrophe of another World War.

"With all its imperfections, the best plan yet set forth by the wisdom and heart of men is that for which Woodrow Wilson offered martyrdom."

FLAG DAY EXERCISES JUNE FOURTEENTH

The Elks Will Conduct Flag Day Exercises on Court House Lawn Next Wednesday

Flag Day—June 14th—is observed throughout the length and breadth of our land by patriotic Americans and the Big Spring Lodge No. 1386, B. P. O. E. invites the citizens of Big Spring and Howard County to join with them in the observance of the occasion.

Appropriate exercises will be held on the court house lawn, beginning at 7:00 o'clock Wednesday evening and every man, woman, boy and girl in the city and county is tendered a cordial invitation to attend. The following program has been arranged:

Parade.
Invocation—Ben Hardy.
Song—Stars and Stripes Forever.
Miss Mabel Ricker

A treat is being planned for all the little folks who learn the pledge to the Flag and take part in the flag drills. All who wish to be included should arrange to be at the Central School building at 5 o'clock Monday evening to meet with Mrs. Agnell who will instruct the little folks. Come and bring a flag Monday afternoon.

All business houses and homes in our city should display the Stars and Stripes next Wednesday in observance of Flag Day.

Chautauqua Closed Last Friday

The Chautauqua program closed last Friday night with a lecture by W. E. Wenner as Eugene Laurant and Co.—the Magician, was unable to reach Big Spring for his engagement Friday night due to floods between Snyder and Sweetwater. Though the majority of the audience had heard Mr. Wenner lecture Friday afternoon and were expecting a program of amusement only on Friday night there were but few who regretted Mr. Laurant and company had failed to appear for Mr. Wenner's message was such a vital one and a message our grown ups need consider.

His talk was on the rights of the child in the home, school, church and neighborhood. Mr. Wenner certainly understands youth and he awoke our folks to the fact that we were not giving the boys and girls of our town and county a square deal. If we would but follow the advice he handed out by being pals to the boys and girls there would be fewer bad boys and girls and fewer heart breaks. He pointed out that child training is the nation's greatest trust and urged our folks to forget business and other things rather than neglect the child.

Most any one who heard Mr. Wenner would agree that his lecture alone was worth the price of a season ticket to Chautauqua.

New Cotton Gin for Big Spring

A new cotton gin for Big Spring is assured and work on the building will be started in about two weeks. This gin will be owned by Price Brothers of Rotan and will be equipped with the newest and latest improved machinery. Six lots were recently purchased for the site for the location, these lots being just south of the Planters Gin Company in the east part of Big Spring.

J. A. Price, who has been here to purchase a site has gone to Rotan but expects to return within the next two weeks to let the contract for the construction of the necessary buildings for this modern cotton gin.

Elected President of School Board

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District Monday, B. Reagan, president of the board tendered his resignation as a member of the board as he is to leave in the near future to make his home at San Marcos, Texas.

After accepting the resignation the board elected C. S. Holmes as a member of the board of trustees.

W. W. Rix was elected president of the board of trustees.

Summer School Opens June 12th

The Summer school for pupils below the 8th grade will open at the Central school building Monday June 12th.

All pupils who plan to attend this school should see Mrs. Della Agnell or Miss Gulon Pool at once.

J. B. Wheat of Coahoma was a business visitor here this week.

Take Three Games From Hermleigh.

The Big Spring's baseball team is out to win and consequently they had no mercy on Hermleigh, taking three games in a row in the series at the ball park, Monday and Tuesday. They took the third game in the final inning after Hermleigh thought they had the game salted, due to having taken a five score lead in the first inning of the contest.

Owing to the fact that the Hermleigh team was unable to reach Big Spring very late Monday afternoon it was impossible to have the scheduled double-header, so the double-header was set for Tuesday.

Big Spring's new pitcher had the Hermleigh crew at his mercy in the opening game, winning an easy victory by a score of 7 to 1. Durah McNew was twirling for Big Spring in the opening game Tuesday and was effective against the Hermleigh cloggers, winning 8 to 3.

In the second game Hermleigh started off like a house afire piling up five scores in the first inning. There they stopped for after Carter of Coahoma went in after the second inning they never had a hope of scoring. They held the Big Spring boys scoreless until the fifth inning when the home team annexed four scores in the seventh, the final inning Big Spring scored the winning runs; the game ending 6 to 5 in favor of Big Spring.

Shriners Special Train

The special train of Moslah Temple of Fort Worth arrived in Big Spring at 9:25 o'clock Tuesday night and a stop of forty minutes was made in this city.

The special train was carrying 150 Shriners and their families to San Francisco to attend the 48th Imperial Council session of the Shrine. A snappy band concert was given by Moslah Temple's band during their stay and a get-acquainted meeting was in order. A big crowd of local Shriners, the boys of De Molay and a big delegation of our citizens was at the depot to welcome the visitors.

Engine 395 all "dolled up" with Shrine emblems, the work of John Clarke and others in this city, pulled the special from Baird to Toyah. Engineer Jno. H. Baggett and Fireman Jake Bishop, both shriners, were in charge of the engine from Baird to Toyah. The train crew from this city to El Paso were also Shriners and included Chas. Eberley, conductor, and brakemen Ed Watts and B. N. Ralph.

More Men Employed at R. R. Shops.

A number of workmen were recalled for service at the Texas & Pacific railway shops here last Monday and an additional number Thursday.

We have not learned the exact number but it is estimated that from twenty five to forty will be included in the number who are to be given their old jobs once more.

The call for the men to return to work was indeed good news, and came most unexpectedly, as the General Superintendent who was here last week gave it as his opinion that it might be two months before any men would be reemployed.

We would certainly like to see the shops here employing a full force and running full time again.

Boys Improved Farm

Lee Woodall the first of the week purchased of Sid Davis, an improved farm consisting of one hundred and eighty acres, located just east of Mr. Woodall's home place north of town. One hundred and forty acres of this farm is in cultivation and it is considered one of the best little farms in that section of our county and Mr. Woodall is to be congratulated upon securing same.

The price paid was not stated as the sale was a private transaction.

$40 From An 80-cent Investment

Mrs. R. Schwarzenbach of this city invested eighty cents in tomato seeds this spring and sold forty dollars worth of tomato plants. This is just one instance to prove that folks can make money if they will make an effort. The only trouble with most of us is that we want to make big money and overlook the many smaller but surer ways of earning money.

Hail Storm North of Town

A severe hail storm destroyed crops on approximately 120 acres of land just north of town Sunday night, and replanting was in order the first of this week. This hail cleaned out sixty acres for Sid Davis, 40 acres for Sam Hanson and ten or more acres each for P. F. Cantrell and Mr. Long.

Cox Literature Contradicted at Trial

Houston, June 2.—Three witnesses were placed on the stand this morning by the Government in the trial of S. E. J. Cox, oil promoter, in an effort to show that statements made by Cox in various pamphlets, circulars and letters issued under the names of three companies promoted by Cox were not in accordance with facts. Cox is charged in an indictment containing four counts with use of the mails with intent to defraud.

D. D. Kinkaid of Shreveport, La., formerly employed by Cox as field superintendent in West Texas for the General Oil Company, took the stand. His testimony was intended to contradict statements made by Cox regarding the output of wells in that part of the state.

D. D. Christner, a geologist employed by the Federal and State Departments of Geology, testified regarding potash deposits near Big Spring. Although potash traces were found in the vicinity of Cox holdings in West Texas no traces were found on the holdings while he was in that section, he testified.

Earl C. Popp of Highland, N. Y., a field superintendent with the General Oil Company and later with the Cox Realization Company, testified that he had informed Cox verbally and by letter that no potash deposits had been found in a well drilled in the West Texas fields.

Testimony intended to refute representations made by Cox to sell stock in three companies he promoted with an aggregate value on paper of $41,000,000, was introduced by the Government yesterday afternoon.

Witnesses were placed on the stand by the prosecution in an attempt to show that claims made by Cox for his companies in various letters and circulars were not substantiated by facts.

Oscar Kuklenberg of Dallas, an employe of the General Oil Company in 1920, testified he was in charge of the Power and Oil Refining Company of Wichita Falls, which he said was controlled by the General Oil Company.

Cox is said to have represented the company had a tank at the plant. The witness testified no such tank existed. J. E. Hooper of Damon, Texas, who was general superintendent of production for the General Oil Company from January to November, 1920, testified that the McDowell well, in the Big Spring field, said to have been represented by Cox as a gusher, flowed between 10 and 12 barrel of oil a day which later was increased to between 50 and 60 barrels under pump.

One of Cox's letters, admitted by the defense, predicted that the General Oil Company's field in West Texas would exceed in value the Burkburnett field, which geologists, according to the letter, estimated at $300,000,000. Several letters referred to a "900 per cent stock dividend" declared when the General Oil Company was transferred from a $1,000,000 corporation to a $20,000,000 trust company.

Other witnesses were: M. D. Ermick, real estate man, Little Rock, Ark.; C. B. Holt, Midland, Texas; John F. Epley, Midland, Texas, and Elliott Cowden, Midland, Texas.

Cox will take the stand in his own defense, his attorneys announced. He declares he can explain all his promises and that he has met with unexpected reverses and has more than shared his stockholders' losses. In order to allow jurors from rural districts to spend the week end at home the court announced adjournment from Friday afternoon to Monday morning.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Cutting Off Our Nose

It was only a few days ago that Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts felt called upon to assure the world and Massachusetts that the tariff act now in preparation would not disturb our foreign trade. His reason for thinking so was the fact—he said it was a fact—that the emergency tariff had not injured our foreign trade. At about the time that the venerable Senator was delivering his statement there appeared in Commerce and Finance an article entitled "How the 'Emergency' Tariff Hits Our Canadian Trade." The article should prove interesting reading to the Massachusetts constituents of Senator Lodge.

In March, 1921, according to this article, Canada exported to the United States goods worth $36,711,000. In March, 1922, still under the emergency tariff, Canada exported to the United States only $26,850,000 worth. This was for articles of all kinds. In articles directly affected by the emergency tariff the exports from Canada to the United States fell from $9,488,000 in March, 1921 to $1,283,000 in March of this year. For the twelve-month period the Canadian exports to this country fell from $543,000,000 to $295,000,000.

But turn to the other side of the ledger and examine the value of the goods which the United States sent to Canada. While Canada lost $248,000,000 worth of export trade under the emergency tariff at our border, the United States lost $340,000,000 worth of trade moving from our territory toward Canadian consumers. That is, we sent to Canada in 1920-21 $856,176,000, and in 1921-22 $516,106,000 worth of goods. Says the Canadian author of the article:

Of course the shrinkage in values explains to some extent the contraction in trade figures, but the chief explanation is to be found in the placing of barriers against Canada's exports, which, while making it more difficult to sell, have made it also more difficult for Canada to buy from her old-time source. When Canadians have money to spend, there is no country that gets the benefit of it quicker than does the United States. The reason is obvious. American business concerns, through their agents and advertisements, are on the ground; besides, they have an instinctive knowledge of our country and our people. So if there is money to be spent on goods, the Americans, other things being equal, get it. But there is no use plastering a country with advertisements, or of overrunning it with commercial travelers, if through your own action conditions of sale are to be made so difficult that the country is thus deprived of the money wherewith to buy your goods.

It looks simple, doesn't it? And yet through years and years of tariff discussion an argument no man yet has ever been able to introduce that idea into the head of a dyed-in-the-wool protectionist. His head won't hold that idea. For, once he does get the idea, he ceases to be a protectionist. That is simple also.—Dallas News.

They All Advertise

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact. Yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact. A rooster hasn't got a lot of intelligence to show. But none the less most roosters have enough good sense to crow. The mule, the most despised of beasts, has a persistent way of letting folks know he's around by his insistent bray. The busy little bees they buzz. Bulls bellow and cows moo. The watchdogs bark, the ganders quack, and doves and pigeons coo. The peacock spreads his tail and squawks. Pigs squeal and robins sing. And even serpents know enough to hiss before they sting. But man, the greatest masterpiece that nature could devise, will often stop and hesitate before he'll advertise.

What Constitutes Success?

Glancing through the editorial columns of an exchange, we happened upon the following which, it was explained, won first prize in a contest recently promoted by a Boston, Mass., business establishment, involving the question, "What Constitutes Success?" "He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory is a benediction."

How refreshing it is to be able to turn for the moment from the world financial standard of success to the inspiration of so true and wholesome a definition of that something for which every man is striving!

What constitutes success? Money? It is a transient, fickle thing. Position? No man is safe in service. Power? It owns the man; no man can own it.

Then what is success, if it is neither money, position, nor power? Success is not a possession; it is an attribute. No man can have it but he can be it. True success is not what a man has but what he is. Analyze a man's character and you will find therein the measure of his success.

Paul, a pillar of the holy church in a Roman prison, like his master, Shakespeare died a pauper. Just Arc met ignominious death upon the French guillotine. John Bunyan, whose Pilgrim's Progress will be a source of rest and comfort to the sad and weary as long as the world shall stand, whose names will forever stand upon the memory tablets of history, ways unsullied by the changing years and ever breathing magic music to generations yet unborn to conjure them were poor in the measure of money, but surpassing rich in wealth of soul. It was not what they had but what they were that made them great. It is not what he has, but what he is that tells the story which will ever be forever unerasable upon the credits of time's ledger.

ONE INEXORABLE LAW
This fact stands out beyond dispute:
Cause and effect are absolute . . .
Who violate life's perfect laws, which contain the active cause—it may be positive, or neglect, which brings the effect and dire effect—effect commensurate with the cause, no strict are the varying laws!

Who's willful sins may be forgiven,
Who mar his errant road to heaven—
Who wears scarlet-red, or black, we know
Whom nature makes us white as snow—Who violate life's least command, forgiveness lends no helping hand—and Whose effect will follow cause, in this world of human laws.

Who should ask me why it's so,
I have to say that I don't know!

Keep Going
When things go wrong as they sometimes will,
And the road you're trudging seems all up hill!
When the funds are low and the debts
are high,
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing down on a bit,
Rest, if you must—but don't you quit
Just yet!

Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about When he might have won had he stuck it out.
Don't give up, though the pace seems slow,
You may succeed with another blow.

Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man,
Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor's cup;
And he learned too late, when the night
slipped down,
How close he was to the golden crown.
Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt;
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—
It's when things seem worse that you mustn't quit.

Supreme Court Decides Labor Organizations are not Exempt from Anti-trust Prosecution
Washington, June 5.—Labor organizations are not exempt from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law,
the supreme court today announced.

The court delivered such an opinion in the celebrated Coronado case, one of the most important pieces of labor litigation ever to come before the nation's highest tribunal.

The court held that the labor organizations can be held liable for property and other damages caused by the acts of members during strikes. The decision was delivered by Chief Justice Taft. The case was brought against the United Miner Workers of America by the Coronado and other coal companies arising out of the Arkansas strikes.

Chief Justice Taft in delivering that opinion stated that there had been no misjoinder of parties in the suit as brought. He discussed at length the question of the suitability of the national and international unions, if the unions were responsible for what was done, pointing out that in common law unincorporated organizations could be sued as individuals, but from necessity of existing conditions it was utterly impossible of doing justice otherwise than by holding labor unions suable.

With regard to the United Mine Workers of America the court found that the international organization and its officers did not order the strike or ratify it and that they should not have been made parties to the suit.

The lower federal courts had awarded the Coronado and eight other coal companies damages amounting to $800,000 against the United Mine Workers of America and district union No.
21. The damages were held to have resulted from the acts of union miners, on the ground that the acts were a part of a conspiracy to restrain interstate shipments of coal.

Discussing the details of the strike,
Chief Justice Taft said the evidence showed the violence was purely a union attack under the guidance of the district officers of the union.

Honey Philosophy for 1923
One fellow said the early bird catches the worm, and the other fellow said the worm was a fool for getting up in the morning. Maybe they're both right.
It's funny how things exactly opposite are often exactly the same. It's as cold at the south pole as it is at the north pole, if you can believe what the explorers say, and nobody seems to doubt them. Hustle a little harder, do a bit more than the other fellow, some folks say, and then others say that's a scheme of the rich to get the poor to work more for less. Of course, if everybody followed the plan there wouldn't be anythin' to it, but what's the use of livin' in a theoretical world when we have a real thing with us every day? Maybe doin' the thing we have to do thoroughly is the best bet.
There's so few people deliverin' the goods nowadays that an honest day's work is a curiosity. Also it's an asset.

Learn About The Farmer
Back of all legislation must stand united public opinion which always is to be trusted in this nation when the people have intelligent understanding.
Most of our troubles come from imperfect knowledge and consequent lack of interest in public questions. For years this has been the case with the American farmer whose situation and importance until lately has not been even measurably sensed. As soon as the people generally in the great cities as well as in the smaller communities come to realize how much of the nation's prosperity depends on the farm then the wheels of reform will begin to turn with rapidity, and all the people will benefit.

Almost half our population is rural, living on six and one-half millions of farms which employ approximately thirteen millions of workers. The value of the annual production of these men is $19,170,015,000, which is greater than that of mining or of any branch of manufacturing.

What a sad commentary it is upon our legislative intelligence when we realize that in spite of these stupendous and important figures, the income of each farm factory or farm mine, whichever way we choose to visualize na averages only $2,793.

The province of government is to create prosperity, the greatest good for the greatest number, to harmonize the laws under which we live so that reward shall come to the people in relation to their service. There are between the City Hall in New York and the Battery Wall—a distance that can be walked in ten minutes thousands of high blinders in the world of speculation who have never done an honest day's work in their lives, but who make often in a day and quite frequently, in a week as much if not more than the average farmer makes in a year. It is getting time for the public not only to seek information regarding the farmer, but to insist upon having it. When this demand is felt the information will be forthcoming, and when it is, equitable legislation for the farmer will lead a business development the like of which this country, great as it is, has never known.

Methodist Notes

There were 35 present in the Bible class at the parsonage Sunday, the women gladly availing themselves of the invitation from Mr. Manuel to come as guests. We had a splendid lesson given in lecture form by the teacher, who is fine. The writer has never heard anything better, and, with the exception of Dr. E. O. Brown of Nashville, nothing quite so good. We again urge the men of the church, and men out of it as well, who are not in any church, to come and get the benefit of this wonderful Bible instructor. Come once, and find it impossible to stay away.

We have a notice to follow that will be of interest to the boys 13 to 15 years of age. Mr. O. H. Morris has kindly consented to lecture the combined classes of teen age boys for the summer. Included in this class will be the boys from Mrs. Noel's and Mrs. Musgrove's class, and others. We expect to fill the whole east wing with this banner class, that will soon be the biggest in our school. Just watch them grow.

On Monday at eight in the evening the Parent-Teachers association will hold their second session on the Parsonage lawn. Every mother and every father, every teacher, and every one interested in our Sunday school are urged to be present at this hour. It is a mutual benefit organization of those who have the welfare of our Sunday school at heart. Make a genuine effort to come. It will well repay you. We want to see specific plans for better service develop from these informal gatherings.

Last Monday the W. M. Auxiliary held its business session at the church. The 15 minute Bible drill is continuing to rivet attention. We are finding this weekly fire of questions of incalculable benefit to us all. We feel sure it is increasing the number of daily Bible readers, as well as enriching the life of those who are already such.

Among the items of interest mentioned during reports were the purchase of our new pulpit chairs of fume! oak, matching our table, along with a number of smaller matters.

Our various superintendents of departments such as social service, mission study, and recreation, gave most encouraging reports of our work in its many phases.

Come to the church Monday at 4 and enjoy the Bible study under Mrs. Morris. We invite all our women to come and bring others.

Baptist Notes

Unusually good audiences heard the two fine sermons which Bro. Bass preached last Sunday. 'Twas remarked that these sermons fitted into each other so beautifully—the morning theme being "God's Unseen guiding hand in the life of each of his children" and the evening text being the promise "Lo, I am with you always."

At the church conference on Wednesday evening Mr. C. S. Holmes was selected as Sunday school superintendent. The resignation of Mr. J. N. Dale as church clerk was accepted with regrets and Mr. G. E. McNew was chosen as his successor.

The resignation of Mr. Frank A. Stewart as S. S. secretary was accepted and Miss Elsie Crow was elected to fill the vacancy thus created. Since coming to Big Spring Mr. Stewart has shown how valuable a faithful and reliable Christian young man can be. He came a stranger into our midst, united with the church and became a useful member of a Sunday school class. His sterling qualities soon brought him into service as secretary of the S. S. which office he has filled most acceptably. Evidently favorable impressions have not been made upon Baptists alone, for he has succeeded in winning the heart and hand of one of our fine Presbyterian young ladies, Miss Hazel Lee, and takes her as his bride to their new home in Amarillo. The marriage ceremony was performed by Bro. Bass on Wednesday evening a short time before their departure on the east bound train. They have our sincere best wishes, and should they decide to return to Big Spring to live they will find a warm welcome awaiting them.

Our ladies wish to thank the public for their patronage at the dinner which was served in the Bauer block last Saturday. The sum realized will help greatly on improvements which have recently been made at the church. We also thank Mr. Creath for the use of the building and for many other courtesies he so kindly extended.

At the business meeting Monday the W. M. U. elected Miss Lizzie Cronwell as leader for the Sunbeam Band, and we are glad to know that she has accepted the office. The Sunbeams have been disbanded for some time, but will be called together and reorganized next Sunday.

The ladies of the church are reminded to bring the goods decided upon, and be at the home of Mrs. Eucharan at 3 o'clock next Monday, to spend a couple of hours sewing.

Encourage the Wildcatter

One of the most valuable assets to the oil business is the man who is willing to take a chance, who will keep on drilling for oil when everything seems against him. The man who develops proven acreage performs a very useful service, but after all, some one has to blaze the way and prove the acreage before the man who is looking for what he thinks is a sure thing can get in the game. We have seen territory around Eastland that had been turned back by the big companies that is now bringing fancy prices because there were men who didn't know when to quit.

Take the development at Pioneer: There was nothing to indicate that the territory around here was worth any more than tens of thousands of acres in other sections of Eastland County. There were some dozen small producers drilled before one really good well was brought in and yet Pioneer now claims one of the best wells ever drilled in the United States.

There are, no doubt, other wells yet to be drilled that will equal the Norwood, the Roper or the Emma Terrell. The government estimate is that only 15 per cent of the oil under the ground in this county has yet been taken out and certainly there must be big wells as well as small producers. It is only a question of hitting the right spot.

It is to the advantage of the landowners, of business men and of all classes of citizens to encourage the man who is willing to take a chance and what seems to be a long shot. After all it takes the drill to tell the tale and we must keep up drilling in order to keep up production. There are vast sections of this county yet untouched that will some day yield vast quantities of the golden fluid.—Eastland Oil Belt News.

Shower for Bride

Miss Zou Hardy's class of girls at the Presbyterian Sunday school surprised Miss Hazel Lee, a June bride with a Kitchen Shower on last Friday morning at the home of Miss Lillian Tamsitt on Johnson street. The party gathered about nine-thirty and the house beautifully decorated with wild flowers, a great bouquet of fresh sunflowers brightened the room table.

About ten-thirty Miss Lee was escorted by one of the girls "to drop and see Lillian a minute" and then very much to her surprise about twenty guests anxiously awaiting her arrival. She was ushered into the parlor to the strains of the wedding march. Miss Zou Hardy then sang, "I Love You Truly." After a delightful dinner contest each girl wrote a list of humorous as to "Holding a Husband" which, when read aloud, elicited peals of laughter or afforded good advice. The hostess then announced the presence of an old Southern neighbor and Mrs. F. N. Brown, dressed for the part, read "First Aid to Marriage" by Dorothy Dix. She then brought a large wash-tub piled full of gifts for the bride-to-be. As she unwrapped many gifts in the form of beautiful utensils of every description, leading them to the honoree, some splendid timely advice was given in true Southern style.

While the guests were writing coupons in a little book for the bride, Miss Daphne Barnes, the charming guest of Miss Mabel Ricker, played several selections on the piano.

Delicious cream and cake was served at the close of this delightful affair to Misses Zou Hardy, Ruth and Ed Miller, Mary Allen, Maude Carter, Agnes Currie, Gladys Lamar, Edith Hathcock, Ethel Porter, and Mrs. Brown. Guests not in the class included Misses Daphne Barnes, Maynard Nett, Madames Ed Herring, Ed Holt, Ella Barrick, Homer Marshall, F. N. Brown; the honoree and her hostesses, Mrs. Tamsitt and Miss Tamsitt and Cardwell.

Mrs. Anderson Bailey returned Saturday from a visit with relatives in Baird.

Due to the fact that property values in Ranger, Texas school district have shrunk from $17,000,000 in 1920 to $10,000,000 in 1922 a serious condition confronts the schools of that city unless they can raise their tax rate. At the present rate they can hope to collect $40,000 as a local school fund. From this must be paid $33,375.00 in interest and sinking fund. Unless they vote to raise the tax in the election Saturday, Ranger will be unable to have a four months' school.

Comment is made 'round the country on two news items appearing in the newspapers. Mme. Joffre, wife of the French field marshal, bought several gowns in New York. Lady Astor paid $188 for nine pairs of shoes in Washington. Mme. Joffre says: "I adore American clothes. You have beautiful dresses made here at your very doors, and yet you think it necessary to choose those that have come from Paris. I have been buying American clothes because I prefer them." The trouble with Americans is that for many years they thought that anything that came from abroad naturally must be better than anything that is produced here. The war, however, has had much to do with a change in the American viewpoint. Europeans still affect superior airs. But the millions of Americans who went to the other side, men and women, had their eyes opened. There isn't one who came back who doesn't believe that everything American is better. As a matter of fact, American men and women are better dressed than those of any European countries, and there isn't any reason why we should take our styles from Paris or look to the other side for anything. Mme. Joffre and Lady Astor have done something in the interest of American manufacturers and merchandisers. By buying gowns and shoes here instead of at home they have suggested to Americans that they are foolish in believing that better goods can be had abroad than at home.—New Orleans States.

They call her the "smile lady" out Hammond, Ind., way. For twenty-nine years Mrs. Emma S. Bunnell has lain flat on her back and physicians say she will never rise. Life, in a physical sense, imposed a severe handicap on Mrs. Bunnell. But it did not dampen her courage. Her back is broken in a long diagonal line, and the portion of the spinal cord controlling much of the body's nervous system, is severed, physicians say. This was the result of an accident shortly after she was married, when a house caught fire and Mrs. Bunnell, attempting to escape, crashed through a broken stairway. Despite her affliction she never gave up hope and today is a well-to-do real estate operator, selling property to unseen clients over the telephone which she calls "my silent partner". In addition, she has educated herself while in bed, and also runs a taxi business.

No Coal Speculating

Recent action on the part of the National Coal Association looking toward the prevention of speculation in coal during the strike is to be heartily commended. Without a doubt such a step, if made actually effective, will prove not only directly beneficial to the country as a whole, but will also redound to the good of the coal interests themselves. The widespread dissatisfaction with the whole coal situation during the "boom" lays after the armistice, the exorbitant level of prices and the movement, happily unsuccessful, to place the whole industry under Government control arose far more from the failure of the legitimate interests to prevent or to control the activities of "shoestring" speculators and "fly-by-night" operators who had no real standing in the industry.

It would be a grave mistake indeed for coal producers or coal dealers to permit a similar situation again to arise. Soft coal operators have already made serious tactical blunders in handling their labor difficulties. Possibly their recent activity, or rather lack of constructive effort to arrive at an accommodation with their men, is to be construed as something worse than poor strategy. At all events, it is of the utmost importance to them and to the country that as the crisis approaches the situation be handled with foresight and vision. Treatment of the coal industry as the railroads of this country have been would do no one any good. The best way to forestall any such development is for the interests directly concerned to busy themselves promptly and effectively in making it clearly unnecessary.—Journal of Commerce.

Motor Killings

Virginia is operating under a new law calculated to reduce the hazard at grade crossings in that State.

It provides that the drivers of all vehicles, on approaching any grade crossing of a main line railway track outside of the corporate limits of any town, must stop "not less than ten feet nor more than one hundred feet from the nearest rail."

In other words, it makes it mandatory upon motorists, under pain of a $10 fine for each violation, to obey the time-honored American railroad injunction to "Stop, Look and Listen."

Observance of this law, in letter and in spirit, would reduce not only the number of grade crossing accidents in Virginia, but it practically would eliminate them; and the effect would be the same in any other State operating under a similar law.

But, appalling as is the ghastly toll of human life lost at the deadly grade crossings, it represents only one of the various species of peril incidental to motor vehicle traffic, rural and urban.

Thousands are killed and other thousands maimed or injured more or less seriously every year in motor accidents on the streets and highways of America; and in every instance the accident is due to carelessness or heedlessness on the part of somebody, and, therefore, is preventable.

This wastage of human life and manpower should be stopped; and, while it may be impossible entirely to eliminate it by law, it is possible, by adequate laws and rigid law-enforcement, to greatly curtail it.—Atlanta Constitution.

W. J. CARSON TO RUN

Retired Ranchman And "Cowboy Confectioner" Aspires To Legislature From 91st District

William Joseph Carson of San Angelo, for 39 years a cowboy, ranchman, banker and more recently a confectioner in West Texas, seeks to represent the new 91st district in the state legislature at Austin, succeeding W. F. Kellis, publisher of the Sterling City News-Record, who will not be a candidate for reelection.

Mr. Carson tossed his broad-brimmed Stetson into the political ring Monday. He said he was induced to enter the race by Fayette Tankersley and Duwain E. Hughes, Mertzon ranchmen and bankers, and other friends in Irion county, where he resided for many years.

"I am for West Texas first, last and all the time," said Mr. Carson. "I think we are entitled to a West Texas A. & M. College and I would like to see a state normal school located somewhere in this section named for Davey Crockett. We have institutions in memory of nearly every other Texas hero you can think of."

Mr. Carson's announcement puts two candidates in the field, the first being W. D. Rieker, publisher of the Big Lake News at Big Lake, Reagan County. The new 91st district comprises Tom Green, Irion, Reagan, Sterling, Glasscock and Howard counties. Mr. Carson was born and raised in Blanco county and moved to Mitchell county when 17 years old. His first ranch job was on Horace M. Sims' ranch near Colorado City in the spring of '83. Mr. Carson roved the range in nearly every region from the Colorado to the Pecos river, working in what are now Irion and Coke counties when they were parts of Tom Green, which then extended westward to the Texas-New Mexico line. Mr. Carson has seen the West develop from a wild, woolly, sparsely settled country, with a liberal sprinkling of "bad men" to a prosperous, law-abiding area, where agriculture vies with stock-raising and where automobiles and garages have replaced the cowpoules and hitching racks of the earlier days.

In 1910, Mr. Carson sold to J. C. Striffling of Llano a 23-section ranch located on the line of Irion and Schleicher counties, 15 miles south of Mertzon. That same year he assisted in organizing the First National Bank at Mertzon and became first vice-president, which office he held until 1917. He is still a director in the bank. Mr. Carson moved to San Angelo in 1914 and entered the confectionery business. This he sold to J. W. Taylor in March, 1920, since which time he has been enjoying a well-earned vacation.—Advertisement.

Light Wines and Beer.

(By J. H. Lowrey.)

It seems probable that the people of Texas will be given an opportunity to say at the ballot box whether the Volstead act will be so amended as to legalize the sale of light wines and kicky beer. I never take a stand on any troublesome issue in this Magazine Section, having been informed that I cannot do so and hold my job, but I desire to call attention to the fact that if the sale of light wine and beer is legalized in this country, many lines of business that are now prosperous will be seriously injured. The near-beer business, which has been built up to gigantic proportions, and in the manufacture of which many million dollars have been invested and many thousand people are employed, would be absolutely ruined by the legal sale of wine and beer with a kick. Furthermore, several thousand bootleggers would be damaged seriously, and the manufacturers of fruit jars would suffer heavy losses. I may be unduly suspicious, but sage experience has taught me that there is a selfish, sinister motive behind nearly every great movement, and I believe I have already located the interests that are behind the movement to have light wines and beer legalized. I am, in fact, firmly convinced that it is a scheme of the pretzel makers and the manufacturers of limburger cheese to create a demand for their products and fill their purses to plethoric proportions. Since the sale of beer was outlawed the demand for pretzel and limburger cheese has fallen off several hundred per cent and of course the manufacturers of these beer adjuncts are facing bankruptcy and ruin. But is it right or fair, my countrymen, to pauperize the bootleggers, and the near-beer brewers, and the makers of fruit jars in order to enrich the makers of pretzels and limburger cheese? It would be class legislation of the worst type and no man can deny it.

It is never a mark of greatness to average one's self.

Highways and Politics

The road laws under which the Federal and State Governments are joining in a plan to spend about $700,000,000 a year on what is intended to be a national system of highways call for Federal supervision of the work. This should tend to eliminate the road-building graft so common in the past in most States, but the Federal Government must co-operate with the State Highway directing forces, and this introduces the question of State politics. At this point, according to an article in the Scientific American, the whole system meets a very real danger.

Statistics gathered by the magazine show that in thirty-four States the aggregate life of the highway commissions in 206 years, and there have been 127 changes of executive, an average of one new head of the department every twenty-eight months. It is estimated that two years of experience is necessary to become acquainted with the highway needs of a State. On this basis the highway executive spends a period of four months on a competent working basis. The State Highway Commissions have thus become a training school for engineers—and directors who have no engineering experience whatever—and, as the magazine observes, "a source of tribulation to those who are trained."

The argument that continuity of policy is not necessary to the successful operation and maintenance of a State highway system is disposed of by the Scientific American in the following paragraph:

"But the bald fact is that under present conditions highway engineering is just as much in need of a continuity of policy and a long tenure of office as in the construction of a single specific work of magnitude like a big bridge or a dam. Roads must be built that will outlast the bonds that pay for them; that may be kept in good shape at proper cost; that shall serve the adjacent territory and the distant; that shall link up with one another properly; that shall accommodate the traffic of today and be capable of accommodation of that of tomorrow; that shall be safe where they meet, where they cross streams and railroads, where they wind, where they climb."

Frequent changes in the direction of highway activities is, of course, fatal to any policy of continuity. And there is no defense whatever for the selection of a director because he has shown some ability in politics, and in spite of the fact that he is not a trained engineer. In some notable instances States have risen above political expediency in filling these important offices, but this rarely happens.—Indianapolis News.

Every country is just as sound as the people who comprise it. Measured by that, our country is in no danger. On the contrary, there is every sign, that sooner or later, depending on the circumstances, the hitherto unreckoned elements in our population are silently going to move the whole political situation on to higher ground and constitute politics a public service instead of a professional office-seeking game. The people were never more quietly thoughtful than now. Without bitterness, without impatience, with a splendid instructive confidence in their own ability to inject vitality into a torpid situation, they are taking cognizance of many public matters, and when they decide to speak, the powers that be will be shaken and the public conscience revived.—Henry Ford.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS

W. W. Rix was in Dallas Thursday and Friday of last week to attend a meeting of Safe Cabinet sales managers throughout the Southwestern district. The meeting was arranged at the direction of Ralph Dick of Marietta Ohio, president of the Safe Cabinet Co. and M. F. Beam of St. Louis, Southwestern sales manager. A most interesting session was enjoyed by the forty representatives in attendance.

One of the best ways to cause business to pick up is to place the road from Big Spring to Iatan in passable shape right away. Folks visiting the Mitchell County oil field often desire to visit Big Spring; and many would make their headquarters here if we had roads they could travel over. It's part of your business to help solve this problem while we are waiting for the Bankhead Highway to be completed

YOU WILL COME BACK AFTER DRINKING ONE OF OUR COCA COLAS... CUNNINGHAM & PHILIPS.

Of course business may seem a bit dull just now because folks are too busy looking after their crops that they haven't time to do their shopping. They will have plenty of time to come to town when they have the crops all in and the weeds cleaned out. Busy times in the fields now mean busier times in town later.

THEY REMEMBER YOU IF YOU GIVE THEM MISS SAYLORS CANDY... CUNNINGHAM & PHILIPS.

Should our section have bumper crops and a big oil development this fall things would certainly be on the move. From all signs and indications this fall will be the time for many new homeseekers to make their appearance in West Texas.

One of the big things our county needs and one that could be secured is a big warehouse to store surplus products so they could be protected until a favorable market existed. The annual weather damage to cotton and feed crops is sufficient to pay for a large and substantial structure.

THE COOLEST PLACE IN TOWN TO DRINK... CUNNINGHAM AND PHILIPS.

Mrs. Jennie Dougherty after a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. J. I. McDowell left Monday evening for her home at Clifton, Texas.

Fiftieth Anniversary of Work for Railroad Men

Sunday, June 11, will be a memorable day to the 125,000 railroad men who compose the membership of the 269 Railroad Associations and branches of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America. That date is the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of the Railroad Department of the Y. M. C. A.

This semi-centennial of what has been called the "greatest workman's club in the world" will be celebrated by Railroad Y. M. C. A.'s and branches throughout the country. This means that the jubilee will be observed in many small as well as in most of the large railroad centers. The participants will be both railroad employes and executives.

The development of the Railroad Department, which was at the time of its founding a new and unique departure, is now recognized as the basis upon which the Association has been able to reach out effectively into the field of general industry as well as of transportation on land and sea. The railroad work was begun early enough in the history of American transportation for its growth to reflect the history of railroad growth itself. Not only has the work expanded in the number of railroad Associations and branches, as railroad mileage and number of railroad employes have increased, but it has developed organically so as to serve the needs of the largest possible number of men at strategic points along the lines of railroad systems.

The service represents the cooperation of railroad employes, railroad companies, and the Association. The relationship of these has been described as follows: "The employes provide the bone and sinew of the organization. They come in not as recipients of patronage but as stockholders. Through their committees they manage the organization and direct it along the most useful channels. The companies provide cooperative help, and seek through the organization to answer the question 'What more than wages may a railroad company reasonably supply to its employes?' The Association provides trained leadership and a constructive program. The material equipment in the work, great as it is, is an insignificant measure of the service which results.

While much of the real service of the Railroad Department cannot be set forth in statistics, the following figures for 1921 give an indication of the extent to which the railroad buildings are used by their members: Average daily attendance, 63,072; dormitories, times used, 3,509,000; meals, 9,374,000; baths, 2,330,000; socials and entertainments 5,649; in Bible classes, 10,937.

Come and help make this a memorable day in our association. Sunday afternoon. We have a splendid Bible class. Get men and help make it better.

All of the Boy Scouts are asked to be present at the "Y" building next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Bring a boy with you.

He has not served who gathers gold. Nor has he served, whose life is told

In selfish battles he has won. Or deeds of skill that he has done. But he has served who now and then Has helped along his fellow men.

This little poem is by Edgar A. Guest and represents something of what the Young Men's Christian Association wants to do in Big Spring.

Moles and Seed Corn

"Seed corn may be treated in kerosene emulsion to prevent moles from destroying it," advises C. M. Evans, Livestock and Dairy Specialist, Extension Service, A. & M. College of Texas, in replying to an inquiry from Stockdale, Texas. "However, the surest and most effective plan is to poison the moles by putting in their turnways small pieces of sweet potatoes which have been treated with small portions of strychnine. The kerosene emulsion is made by stirring common kerosene into a strong hot soap suds as long as the oil emulsifies. When some free oil floats on top of the solution, you may know you have sufficient oil. An additional amount would kill the germination of your seed. Wet the corn in this liquid before planting.

Be Prepared to Poison Boll Weevil

"In time of peace, prepare for war" is a proverb more or less in disfavor in international negotiations just now, but it still applies to fighting the cotton boll weevil, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Late poisoning is likely to hurt the farmer more than it hurts the weevil, and the only way to be sure of getting an "even break" with the weevil is to be supplied in advance with calcium arsenate and dusting machinery.

"We find every year," says E. R. Coad, director of the Department's boll weevil laboratory, "that many farmers fail to realize their danger early enough and then start making desperate efforts to poison after the infestation has become very heavy. They scurry around trying to get calcium arsenate and dusting machinery, and nearly always there is considerable delay. Even when they get the poison and the machinery, it is extremely difficult to control weevil infestation after it becomes severe. There are so many weevil stages present in the square and bolls that some of them come out every day and poison must be kept constantly on the plants if any good is to be done by it. This very greatly increases the expense of poisoning. Then, if there comes even a short spell of rainy weather, such control as has been gained is lost and the farmer has gone to heavy expense for nothing. We advise all cotton planters to be extremely careful about starting late season poisoning. In a few cases, it has been successful, but at heavy cost and only under the most favorable conditions. The only safe course is to be prepared to poison at the right time. Write the Delta Laboratory, Tallulah, Louisiana, for instructions "When and How to Poison."

Their Efficiency Proved

The American school system has proved itself equal to the emergency in the Philippines, where it has been on trial a little less than a quarter of a century. First established in the islands in 1900, schools taught by young men and young women from this country have already created what we would call a revolution. If evolution did not seem a more fitting term.

A returning Justice of the Supreme Court of the islands, who has been lecturing on the subject in the United States, notes that, whereas the Filipinos at the beginning of the century were a people "scantily clothed, with little industry and no public school system," now they have become a "producing nation" shod and well dressed, with labor in demand and business stable. The schoolhouse, he adds, is always the best constructed building in a town, and there are a million and a quarter pupils in the public schools, where twenty-two years ago there were none.

It used to be a cant saying among the skeptical that the chief products of civilization in primitive lands were Bibles and white man's rum, with the implication that the rum undid all the good that the Bibles had done. But the school has a different report to make. It is a testimonial to our method of education, whatever else may be said about our relations with native people, that it has got results. Well conducted public education has vindicated our moral attitude, and the Philippines would not go back to the old ways if we should abandon them to their own resources tomorrow.—Portland Oregonian.

Negro Drowned in Borden County

A negro named Travis Simps, who has been working on the Elizer Long ranch in Borden County was drowned last Friday. He attempted to ford Bull creek, which was bank full, due to a three inch rain in that section, and when his horse went under he quit the animal and being unable to swim he was drowned. His body was found Saturday morning about four hundred yards below where he headed his horse into the stream. The accident took place on Bull creek, three and one half miles east of Gall.

Tariff and the South

In view of the obvious certainty that a high tariff bill will be passed by the Republican Congress and put into operation either before or soon after the 1922 elections, despite all that the Democrats might be able to do to prevent it, let us hope that the application of its "protection" will be general to the industries of the whole country, and that it will not be in effect a sectional measure.

As The Fort Worth Star-Telegram truthfully said in a recent editorial, which we reproduce elsewhere upon this page. "The big fact that faces us, and which can not be dodged, is that the present Congress is going to pass a protective tariff bill," and the Texas newspaper takes the very logical position that if, in their zeal to promote the theory of free trade, the Democratic minority opposes the measure to the extent of excluding strictly Southern products and Southern industries from its protective influence the South will suffer materially and no possible good result will have been attained.

"Democratic representatives in Congress," says the Star-Telegram, "who come back home and tell their constituents that they 'kept the faith of their fathers' and voted against that bill will give little consolation to the producers of the South if the bill is a one-sided and sectional measure, giving the East a big advantage and placing the South at a decided disadvantage."

From the standpoint of the Democratic South and Southern welfare, this is expressive of an altogether reasonable and common sense attitude toward the pending tariff bill.

Our Texas contemporary goes on to say that while the Democratic members of the House and Senate may be, and doubtless are, "powerless to obtain protection for the products of Texas and the South" on a parity with the measure of protection to be thrown round the products of the North, East and West, and that "if the bill is a one-sided affair the Democratic members 'who keep their records straight' will be directly responsible for it."

The point of the whole matter, from the standpoint of Southern prosperity and common sense is that while the Democratic South is traditionally opposed to the principle of so-called "protection," there is nothing to be gained by stubborn opposition to a tariff bill the enactment of which, in one form or another, is a foregone conclusion and a certainty.

On the other hand, much may be gained in the way of an equitable distribution of the promised "protection" by yielding to the inevitable and making the best of it. That is to say, so long as enactment of an un-Democratic high protective tariff bill apparently is inevitable the industries of the South should be placed on an even footing with those of the rest of the country in the enjoyment of the protection for which it provides.

If the bill is going to pass anyhow, why should the South be discriminated against and deprived of whatever special benefits the industries of the country may derive from it?

Why should Southern industries be made to suffer discrimination simply because Southern Congressmen and Senators are desirous of keeping their records straight.

Winfield Scott Hancock, Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1880, said in one of the campaign speeches that the tariff was a "local issue," or words to that effect.

That statement was ridiculed from coast to coast: but General Hancock was right—the tariff is "local," according to the particular products and industries of a given locality.

And in the same way and to a proportionately greater extent it may be made sectional.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that our representatives in Congress will not let their opposition to the protective tariff principle drive them to such an extreme as to alienate the South from the provisions of the bill that is to be enacted by the Republican majority despite Democratic opposition to it in principle.—Atlanta Constitution.

Senator Watson told the Indiana state Republican convention that the administration had achieved all that it had promised. Is that so? What about lowering the tax burden, the return to normalcy, the enactment of a tariff law and, last but not least—the association of nations with a better international understanding? Perhaps these mere trifles escaped the mind of the eloquent spokesman chosen by the President to represent him on the occasion.—Denton Herald.

Mighty Good at Arithmetic

We're mighty good at arithmetic, if solving car problems can be classed as such. We don't have to "toot our own horn" to the people whose cars have undergone treatment here. They took it for us. But you who have wasted $11 worth of clothes and $56 worth of disposition trying to fix your own car, when we could do it for a dollar or two, you are the fellows we are talking to.

There is nothing so good but what it could be better—and we are trying to improve our methods right along. Bring the old boss in and let us diagnose the case. The operation may be a minor one, whereas you think she is about ready to croak.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver, writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which griped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive.

Emma Has Changed

Emma Goldman, writing about affairs and conditions in Russia, says the following: "Senseless and cruel methods within have killed the revolution and placed the yoke of despotism upon the people's neck. All inspiration has been paralyzed; popular interest is dead; indifference and apathy are dominant." This, coming from one of the most pronounced communists and anarchists, is interesting and positive proof that condemnation by other observers is not too severe. It also shows the United States was right in not officially recognizing this country.

Why He Married Her

On their return home from a dinner party, Mrs. Smith turned to her husband with a look of curiosity on her face.

"John, dear," she asked, "whatever made you tell the Thompsons that you married me for my voice, when you know I can't sing a note?"

John was a tactful man as a rule, but this time he tripped.

"Well, darling," he replied, soothingly, "I had to give some reason, and that was the only one I could think of at the moment."

The Texas Cotton Crop

(By F. N. Gray, Cotton Statistician, Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

The condition of the cotton crop of Texas was estimated 61 per cent of a normal, as compared with 71 on May 25, 1921, 60 May 25, 1920, 76 May 25, 1919, and 76 the average of the past ten years on May 25.

Lateness of about a month, is largely the cause of the very low condition. Seldom has there been a more unfavorable season of excessive rains and prolonged cool weather. Floods and peaking, or washing rains, have repeatedly destroyed the crops over extensive areas, necessitating many replantings. Only 65 per cent of the crop was planted by May 25. The reported presence of weevil in a number of counties, caused fear that that insect would prove destructive of a late planted crop. Aside, however, from lateness, there is one factor, which is regarded as a great asset. It is the almost superabundance of moisture in the soil. From and inclusive of the semi-dry plains of the northwest and west center portions, to and inclusive of the southwestern part of the state, sometimes dry, with the well drenched conditions in the central and eastern half, there has never been a greater "season in the ground."

The crop, while a little late in the northwest and west center districts, most of which, is usually free from weevil depredations, was never more promising. In the southern part, the crop is comparatively small sized, for the season, due to replanting, account of a freeze in March, but barring some reports of lice, is generally healthy. In the southeast, center, north, northeast and east districts, subjected to the heaviest of rainfall, the crop is generally a month or more late, and it is here that the greatest of apprehension exists concerning weevil. While as yet, there is no fruiting to invite attacks of the insect their presence augurs that they will begin work as soon as the plant begins to fruit. That part which is up and growing in the north and northeastern part of the State, is generally of good stand and healthy in appearance but that in parts of the center and of the east and southeast where cultivation has been delayed by grassiness the physical condition is not so promising.

Last year's Texas acreage and yield reported: Acreage planted in 1921, 11,193,000; Acreage abandoned per cent 4; acreage picked, 10,745,000; yield per acre, lbs. 98.

Foster's Weather Bulletin

Washington, D. C., May 24.—Severe storms are expected on the continent during the week centering on June 4. For their locations see divisions. These severe storms will bring an increase of rain where rain has been predicted and following will occur the northern frosts that are expected during the week centering on June 10. These storms will be unusually severe and I advise to be on the outlook for tornadoes. Some destructive hail storms are expected. But it is quite difficult to locate hail, tornadoes and thunder storms. These all come from the same causes exactly. Hail comes from tornadoes that are so high that they do not touch the earth and they throw the moisture so high that it freezes into small, round ice balls, gathering and freezing more moisture as they fall, therefore the rough forms of hail. When the hail does not fall through a cloud, the hail stones are smooth and round. Crops should be insured for the first ten days of June. The storms of first week in June impress me to again warn you of their danger.

Northwest: North of 36, between 90 and Rockies' crest. Cool wave will cover that division on June 4 and as that is the central date of the severe storms you may expect a cold wave and killing frosts. Hail is expected June 1 and 2 and probably near 8. Warm wave will cover that division near 6 or 7, most rain near 2 and 8. Hail will cover an exceedingly small part of the division and the crop-weather will average good. Least rain will occur in small sections that have high ridges south or southeast of them; too much rain where the high ridges are north or northwest.

Southwest: South of 36, between 90 and Rockies' crest. Monotonous weather. No great change in temperatures. Some danger of hot winds; not much danger of hail. Otherwise fair crop-weather. Temperature averages higher than usual. All for the week centering on June 4. Probabilities favor a tropical storm in the Gulf of Mexico during the week centering on May 31. It will not be of much force for several days but will reach its greatest intensity near June 3. These tropical storms very often cause very cool weather in division Northwest and heavy rains within 500 miles of New Orleans.

Northeast: East of 90, north of 36. Temperatures below normal during week centering on June 5; only a little higher for week centering on June 8. Severe storms near 5, great fall in temperatures from 5 to 11. Good crop-weather during first ten days of month. Frosts north of lakes near June 11.

Pacific Slope: North of 36, west of Rockies' crest. Variations in temperature fluctuations much the same as for Northwest except about two days earlier. The tropical storm on the Gulf of Mexico during the week centering on June 8 will cause lower temperatures than usual in northern Pacific slope and probably frosts in northern parts.

At least average crops will be produced by North America this year and market values of grain and cotton have been too high because of a great battle between the bulls and bears in which the former have been the masters. That battle is about completed and I believe the markets will go much lower before middle of June. Conditions, supply and demand have not warranted the recent high markets of these staples and I advise those who are on the long side of future deliveries to get out.

The world's workers are divided into two classes, those who do a job as they were told to do it, and who follow along in the same rut year after year, and those who do original thinking about it, and are always trying to form new plans for improving their performance. There are manual workers and business people who will perform the same task over and over again for years, using motions and methods that waste time and energy, just because someone taught them the wrong way. If you suggest some better plan, they would reply "It ain't never been done that way before." Careful study of the conditions affecting any kind of work will always show that some methods produce better results than others. Any man who wants to acquire the rewards of efficiency must always be giving this intensive study to the things he is doing, and planning and initiating improved systems for getting the largest amount of work done with the least time and effort.—Taylor County Times.

The drought that stalked in the valleys and over the picturesque hills of West Texas has been dissipated by recently splendid rains, and now a 90 per cent calf crop is awaiting the branding iron. A 90 per cent calf crop is phenomenal for any country, since the average world's calf crop is given as 75 per cent, under normal conditions. Of course the cowman will soon come back into his own. West Texas is also expecting a big cotton crop, and has little fear of damage from boll weevils.—Wood County News.
