STORM REPORT

As Reported by...
Stormie Meriwether,
First Grade Student

Dear Friends,

School is so fun! We learned a song 'bout Cowpokes. "I'm a little cowpoke here's my hat. Here's my spurs and here's my chaps. I get up early and work all day. Get on my horse and ride away." I love that song.

I love to ride my horse with my cowpokes! A cowpoke can be a girl or a boy. My cows have big babies. Now I can sell the babies and get the money. I have eight cows of my very own. Someday I want to live on the ranch forever and have a lot of cows!

One day my mom had to go to the "mergency room in the city. She had a bad headache and blood pressure. The nurse stuck her vein with a needle and the blood squirted everywhere. It was pretty cool, but the nurse said, "ooops!" My mom laughed and said, "Don't say ooops when you have a needle in my arm!" They gave my mom some medicine for her head and her blood pressure is ok now she doesn't have a pain in her head. I think it was a nerve in her ear or something. She is all ok now. That's it.

The Church is asking the parents to purchase the handbook for their children at a cost of $9.75. You may send the money with your children or stop by the church. Once they finish their first book they can wear the Awana vest. The cost of this is $9.99. The handbook and the vest will be individual items. They will earn

OLD TIMES NOT FORGOTTEN

By Roland Miles

BUMBLE BEES AND

BALING HAY

Most summers when I was growing up, Uncle Fat would enlist the help of my family and some of our other kinfolks to help bale hay. He had about eighty acres of alfalfa along the creek bottomland that he usually baled three times each summer season.

One particular time, Dad was doing the mowing while an older cousin was raking the cut-down alfalfa into windrows. Uncle Fat was pulling the baler behind his tractor and behind the baler, he was pulling a sled made out of 2x6 boards about sixteen feet long. It was eight boards wide with a gap about an inch and a half between the boards. Usually three of us kids rode on this sled.

When the baler kicked the bales out onto the sled, we would arrange them into a stack of ten bales. Then we would take a steel bar and stab it into the ground in the center gap of the sled. This would stop the hay and the sled would just slide on out from under it. This way, the individual bales wouldn't be scattered all over the meadow when you came to haul it to the haystack.

Once, a bale came out of the baler and about six inches of a snake was hanging out of it. Seeing that would make you pay even closer attention to the bales, for a while anyway.

That sled was the best invention uncle Fat ever came up with. As you already know, sleds were one of my favorite things to ride on. Riding in the wagon on top of a load of maize heads ranked right up there, too.

One of the days we were baling, my dad was mowing on the other side of the meadow, but where we could see him easily. All at once, he raised up the mower sickle, put the tractor in road-gear and took off across the meadow. He was waving his hat, apparently showing-off, and having a good time. After he got tired of doing that, he drove over to where we were.

We were all curious about why he had been waving his hat. Then he showed us...he had a couple of red knots on the bald spot on top of his head. He said that he'd mowed over a bumble bee nest and they'd attacked! He'd taken off his hat to swat at 'em and that's when they nailed him. □

At one time or another, just about all of us got stung. My mom's cousin, "Leaky," got stung and it made him so sick, he had to stay in the pickup the rest of the day.

Abi Rodgers, daughter of Liz and Cody Rodgers also competed recently in the Watermelon eating contest in Angel Fire, New Mexico.

Parkview Artery Labor Day Driving Tips

Labor Day marks the end of the summer driving season. During the three-day Labor Day weekend, millions of Americans will head out on U.S. highways for the last hurrah of summer. The beach is the No. 1 destination during the weekend, according to the American Automobile Association, followed by large lakes and amusement parks. With these strategies, you can get to and from your Labor Day destination safely and efficiently.

Get Your Vehicle Road-Worthy
Your trip may well be ruined if your car breaks down, so there's no better way to plan a Labor Day trip than to run the car over to your mechanic the week before. Get an oil change if it's been 3,000 miles since the last one. Have your mechanic check all the fluid levels and top them off. He'll also inspect your fan belts and windshield wipers, test the battery and its charging system and check your brakes. (Don't forget to service your radiator and cooling system. Overheating is a common breakdown problem during the summer. (If you think the price of gas is too high, get your tires checked. The correct air pressure in your tires can save 10 cents a gallon.

Being prepared means you know which exit to take before you are on top of it, which is the moment bad drivers choose to swerve in a panic so they don't miss their exit. They cause accidents instead. All states have department of transportation websites listing construction projects and maintenance work where you can expect traffic delays. Leaving an hour earlier or later in the day to start your trip could save hours in stop-and-go traffic. (Similarly, if you are a night owl and feel refreshed in the wee hours, consider traveling at night when there is far less traffic.

The long Labor Day weekend for most people begins Friday afternoon and ends Monday night, with peak driving occurring from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Labor Day. This is when the millions of holiday revelers are heading home, so if you can leave earlier than that or wait until Tuesday, you will avoid most traffic.

Safety First
Anticipate delays. This will reduce frustration and the risk of making a rash decision to make up time. Being aware of your physical and mental state is essential to driving safely. Don't drive while you are aggravated or upset, and don't drive aggressively. Any time you make up time by scooting a few cars ahead will be completely eliminated by the hassle and cost of getting into even a minor fender bender. (Don't speed. Your chances of getting in an accident go up exponentially for every 10 miles over the limit you are driving. And you really aren't saving time. If you are driving 130 miles at 65 miles an hour, you'll get there in two hours. If you hit the accelerator and try to make the same distance at 75 miles an hour, you'll get there in one hour and 44 minutes. The question is, would the risk of a speeding ticket or accident be worth the 18 minutes you will save?

It takes 8,460 bolts to assemble an automobile, and one nut to scatter it all over the road.

sand cubic feet).
 In setting the initial September 2010 allowables, the Commission used historical production figures from previous months, producers' demand forecasts for the coming month, and adjusted the figures based on well capability. These initial allowables will be adjusted after actual production for September 2010 is reported.

RRC PRODUCTION 9/10 STATISTICS AND ALLOWABLES

The Texas average rig count as of Aug. 13 was 717, representing about 45 percent of all active land rigs in the United States. In the last 12 months, total Texas reported production was 347 million barrels of oil and 7.3 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

Texas natural gas production represents approximately 29 percent of total U.S. natural gas demand.

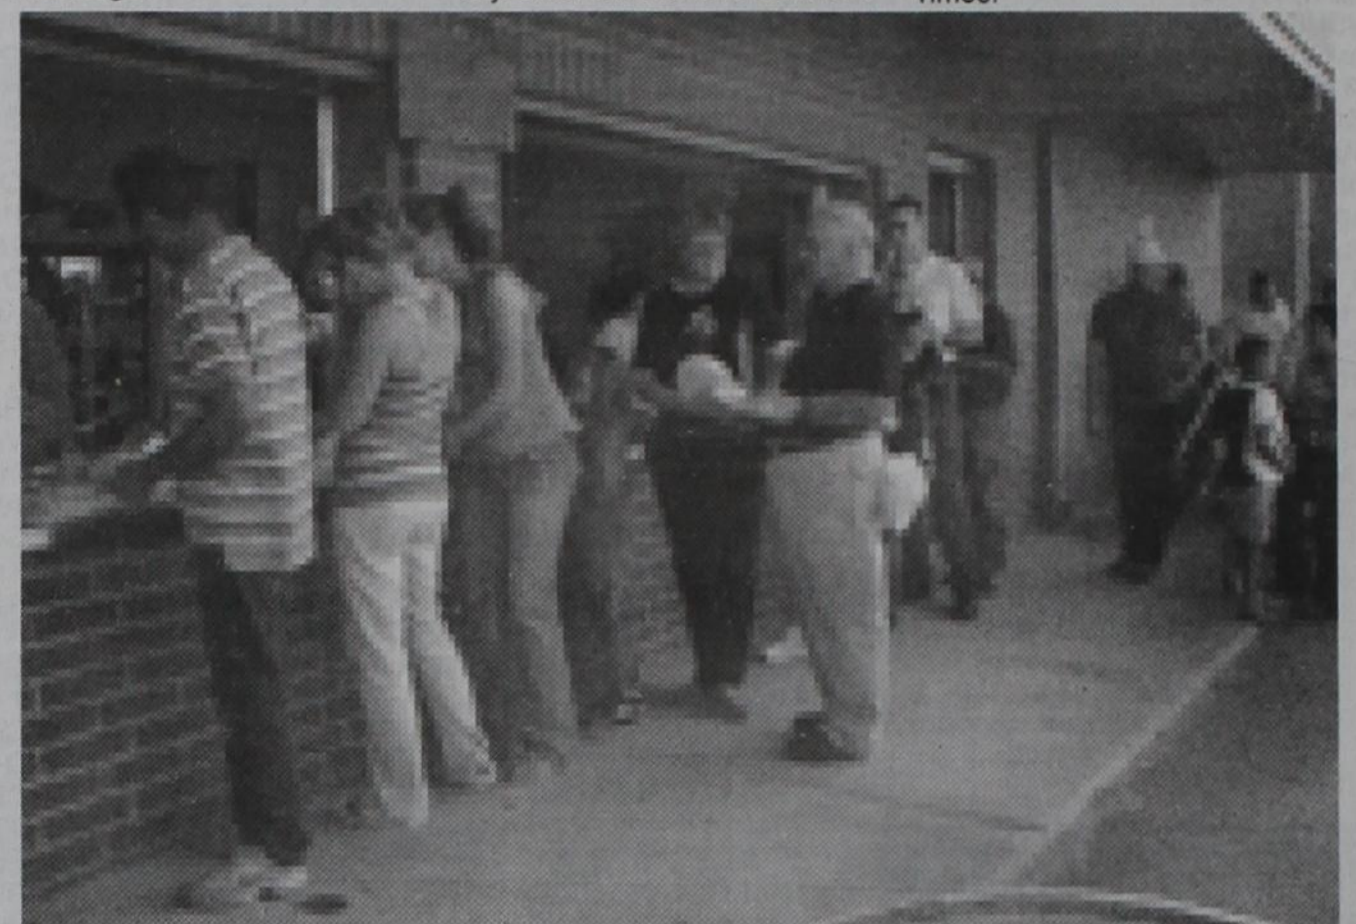

The Commission's estimated final production for June 2010 is 29,309,835 barrels of crude oil and 539,100,214 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas well gas.

The Commission derives final production numbers by multiplying the preliminary June 2010 production totals of 27,407,738 barrels of crude oil and 498,428,452 Mcf of gas well gas by a production adjustment factor of 1.0694 for crude oil and 1.0816 for gas well gas. (These production totals do not include casinghead gas or condensate.)

Texas natural gas storage reported to the Commission for July 2010 was 375,677,968 Mcf compared to 419,455,991 Mcf in July 2009. The August 2010 gas storage estimate is 345,763,583 Mcf.

The Texas Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division set initial September 2010 natural gas production allowables for prorated fields in the state to meet market demand of 15,843,647 Mcf (thou-Chadwick attended the 3rd birthday party of Makenna, Sabrina's daughter, at Thompson Park in Amarillo, Texas on Sunday.

Roma and Billy June Brown traveled to Pampa, Texas on business Monday. They also did some shopping while there.

Opal and Juanita Boydston traveled to Elk City, Oklahoma on Monday for Opal to see the skin doctor and they attended to other business and enjoyed shopping as well before heading back to Allison, Texas. They enjoyed a delicious meal at KFC's as well. Had a nice time out. Was a beautiful day to be out!

Opal Boydston after arriving back in Allison, made a butterscotch pie for her grandson, Justin Walker and family for some work he did for them. Thanks Justin!!

The Allison United Pentecostal Church was blessed to have Bro. Ben Corbett to preach for them on Sunday. Had a great service!!

After church on Sunday, Opal and Juanita Boydston accompanied Glenn and Betty Boydston to Reydon, Oklahoma where they enjoyed a very delicious meal at Cheryl's Hilltop, a newly opened restaurant. Very good food and service so would be worth your time to drive over and eat there.

This reporter had a tragic thing to happen Monday morning. She was going down in the cellar to get some things and got to the fourth step where she usually grabs on to the top of the cellar and swings on into the cellar, but when she had her hand raised to grab hold of the top of the cellar, she looked up first and there was a snake looking her in the face and striking a hundred times a minute with his tongue and so she almost hurt herself getting back up

I WILL lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: he that keepeth thee will not slumber. Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep. The Lord is thy keeper: the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night. The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall preserve thy soul. The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore. Psalm 121

LORD, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God. Psalm 90:1 & 2

MAKE a joyful noise unto God, all ye lands: Sing forth the honour of his name: make his praise glorious. (Praise His Holy name!!) Psalm 66:1

The weather in Allison, Texas on this Tuesday morning is just beautiful, cloudy and a gentle breeze. Really nice before it gets hot this evening. But God is good, we are to receive rain this evening and tomorrow. Praise the Lord for his goodness and mercy to us. Praise be to Jesus!!

Louise Boydston and Shirley

those steps in record time and screaming to the top of her lungs as she went. She is sure that the whole town of Allison heard her. The worst thing is the snake dropped down into the cellar before she could get the door shut and slithered right on down right under the couch where she usually sleeps when she goes to the cellar. Yep, you guessed it, NO MORE CELLAR for this reporter. Not to retrieve anything or anything else. Thank the Lord the snake didn't bite her and she was safe and didn't fall and break anything. PRAISE GOD!! HE IS GOOD!! He takes care of his own.

God Bless and Keep ya'll, till next time!!

Sharing The Road With Bicyclists

"Sharing the road with bicyclists is very important, especially when commuting on busy city streets," writes security guru Ken Bower, Vice President and General Manager for Allied Barton Security Services, the industry's premier provider of highly trained security personnel. Day, bicycling has become popular as an environmentally friendly and cost effective transportation alternative as well as a fun and healthy recreational activity. Novice and experienced cyclists need to make safety a top priority. Ken Bower offers Wheeler Times the following tips on Bicycle Safety:

1. Cyclists must obey traffic laws - Do you think that riding on the sidewalk is safer than riding in the street? Cycling on the sidewalk means having to dodge pedestrians, pets, garbage cans, parking meters and signs. Bicycles are considered vehicles and cyclists should obey the same traffic laws as motorists. Travel on the right side of the road with traffic, and do not ride on the sidewalk. Obey all stop signs, traffic lights and lane markings. Use proper hand signals before making any lane changes or turns.

2. Choose a route that is safe for cyclists - When considering your route, don't think like a motorist. Think like a cyclist. Pick the most pleasant route. Consult Google Earth or Bikely.com to research your trip. Ask your local department of transportation if they have a bike route map. Talk to a professional at your local bike shop or bike club to find out what routes are the safest. Additionally, many cities have implemented bike lanes specific for bicycle commuters. Be aware of other users on bike paths, such as folks with strollers or dogs. Announce that you are passing on the left when overtaking someone on the bike path.

3. Maintenance and repair make for a safer commute - Make sure all parts are in good repair, and check your brakes, tires and gears often. Have a bike expert teach you the basics so that you can continue routine maintenance. Your bicycle should be equipped with reflectors and lights. The most common repair you will encounter as a bike commuter will be a flat tire. You should also monitor brake wear. Many bicycle shops, community colleges, adult education programs or bicycle organizations offer workshops or classes in bike repair. Check for classes in your area. Replace your chain every 2,000 miles or so. Clean and oil your chain frequently, especially after riding in the rain, and replace it regularly.

4. Parking your bike securely - Where do you leave your bike once you get to where you are going? More than half of the one million bikes stolen every year weren't locked. Find a solid object, a street sign or post and secure your bike onto it with a good lock (or more than one, to further discourage theft). Make sure that the pole has something on top that will prevent your bike from being slid over it. The safest object to lock your bike onto is a bike rack. You could also ask your manager or supervisor for a storage area where they'll let you leave your bike for the day if you are commuting to work.

5. Safety equipment - Safety equipment begins with the helmet. Wearing an approved helmet can reduce the risk of a head injury by up to 85-percent in the event of an accident. Modern helmets protect better and are well ventilated.

6. To avoid riding your bike at night - However, if you must commute in the dark, you will need effective lighting and reflective equipment. Most states require some kind of front illumination, and it is safer to have a headlight and rear flashers. There are a variety of inexpensive flashers available. Additionally, your clothing should be bright and have reflective strips.

It is also important to carry small repair and first aid kits with you. For the minor repairs you might expect with everyday bike commuting carry a patch kit, a spare inner tube, an air pump and a multitool.

"This scholarship program is unique because it allows young people from Farm Bureau families to showcase how they have given back to their communities, as well as Farm Bureau," said Mark Elmore, president of the Wheeler County Farm Bureau. "Plus, these scholarships are awarded on a district by district basis, so students compete against others from their local areas."

Josh Hardcastle & Nick Hardcastle received scholarships. Each winner's scholarship is worth $1,000, awarded $500 per semester. The scholarships were made available in 10 of the 13 TFB districts beginning this year.

"The cost of higher education continues to go up and students and their families can use every bit of help these days to cover those expenses," Mark Elmore said. "Farm Bureau is committed to the education of our future and we hope this program will continue to grow."
