Wheeler county voters rejected the proposed college building amendment in last Saturday's special election but derived little satisfaction from their 175 to 129 vote count when a majority of Texas voters favored the amendment.

As the Texas Election Bureau prepared to wind up final tabulations of Saturday's elections, there remained little doubt of the passage of the $60,000,000 college building amendment.

The latest figures included returns from 229 of 254 counties and favored the amendment 95,248 to 82,742 with 81 counties complete. The vote count then was 53.1 per cent in favor of the amendment.

The Wheeler county vote by boxes was as follows:

WHAT CHILDREN READ
We call attention to what seems to be a commonsense viewpoint on the part of Mrs. Josette Frank of the Child Study Association, who says that "a book can be fast-paced, contemporary and easy to read and still be entitled to the designation of good literature."
There is little reason to doubt the correctness of this assertion. The so-called "bestsellers" were not

NAVAL RESERVE CALLS WORLEY

Representative Eugene Worley of Wheeler County wound up the "odds and ends" left over from the exciting days of the recent Congress and left recently for Norfolk, Va., for a Naval Reserve training cruise which will last several weeks.

Worley is a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve and was on active duty for a time in World War II. He has retained his commission and the cruise is part of his required training.

The Panhandle congressman had a conference with President Truman at noon just before leaving. One matter discussed was the progress of the program for fighting hoof-and-mouth disease in Mexico.

Worley, a member of the Congressional subcommittee which drew up legislation to inaugurate the eradication program, has been particularly interested in its operation.

Congressman Worley will return to his district after he completes the Naval Reserve Cruise.

The lady thinks that it is high time for adults to examine their ideas on the subject of what books and what kind of reading children ought to like. We call attention to the phrase, "ought to like," because no individual can be expected to confine his, or her, reading to what some self-appointed educational authorities conclude that they "should like."

If adults are included to be among the fact that little boys and girls like to read the comics, then the task before them is to present other reading that will successfully compete with the comics. Certainly, the answer to the problem, if it exists, is not to ban the comics or to attempt to stifle the natural reading of children.

Peace of mind is largely a matter of not wanting what others alone can give you.

It is really remarkable what some people think is satisfactory collateral for a loan.

Hoods Are Ahead

Green woolen topper.

By VERA WINSTON

THE HOOD SEEMS to be an indispensable part of the topper this season, whether it is a full-length affair or a shortie. Out with an eye to college credits is this jaunty topper of diagonal weave woolen in green with a blue cast. Three large buttons close the coat which has a flared back. The lining is brown and the hood is detachable. It is nice over suits or worn with a skirt and sweater. The model is shown here with a slim, peg-top skirt.

Visitors to national forests totaled 55 million in 1946, compared with only 24 million in 1945, according to U. S. Forest Service records.

About 56 per cent of accidents to farm people last year resulted from farm work. Only 8 per cent in connection with housework; recreation and other activities accounted for the rest.

DUTCH 'VIGIL GIRL' REACHES U. S.

EN ROUTE TO CALIFORNIA to a new home and "mother," Miss Elizabeth Schoites, 21, of Allargraten, Holland, arrives at Hoboken, N. J., on the motorship Westerdam. When Mrs. Pearl Caligari, of San Francisco, learned that Miss Schoites had for many months taken care of the grave of her son, Cpl. James Currier, who was buried near Elizabeth's home, she invited the Dutch girl to live with her. (International)

LAST QUESTION

"Is this the speedometer?" asked the pretty girl, tapping the glass with her finger.

"Yes, dear," he replied.

"And that's the clutch?"

"That's the clutch, darling," he said, jamming on his brakes to avoid a fast approaching truck.

"But wait on earth is this," she inquired, at the same time giving the accelerator a vigorous push with her foot.

"This, dear," he said in a soft, celestial voice, "is Heaven." And picking up a harp he flew away.

HAILE TO THE CONQUERING LION
ETHIOPIA, which is a half-pint patch of orange tucked away in a corner of the map of East Africa, is rapidly becoming one of our favorite little countries, because it does so often what doesn't come naturally. ! ! !
The Ethiopians are small people but they run big on courage and they've a heart as large and soft as a summer cloud. ! ! !
Though flattened by war the Ethiopians refuse to hop a free ride on any international gravy train. ! ! !
"Take care of more needy nations before us," Ethiopia has told the United Nations. If that isn't big league behavior control should be returned to normal to keep the motor from overworking.

Test for leaks by closing the door on a piece of ordinary wrapping paper about the size and thickness of a dollar bill. If the paper pulls out easily, the gasket is not tight enough to keep warm air from passing into the refrigerator. This may be because the rubber in the gasket has become brittle and hard. Or it may be the fault of the door. Try tightening hinges or latch to make the door fit more snugly. Test again with paper. If the door still is not tight, get a new gasket.
If the temperature is normal and the door does not leak, but the refrigerator still runs too much, call in a serviceman.

"Cotton Insects" Is Subject New Bulletin

COLLEGE STATION—a new bulletin, entitled "Cotton Insects", has just been published by the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service and has been distributed to county Extension Service offices for use in cotton insect control.

The bulletin, No. B-154, is authored by Charles A. King, Jr., associate Extension entomologist, and gives the life history, description and control measures for the major cotton insect—leaf-worm, boll weevil, bollworm, red spider, flea hopper and aphid. The publication contains color illustrations showing exactly what the insects look like in different stages of development, and how the damage of the insects show up on the cotton plant.

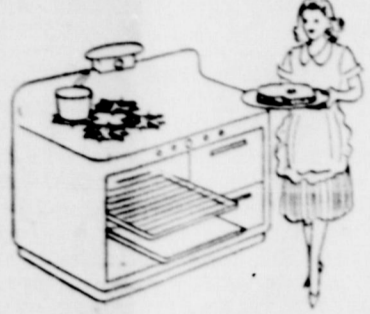

Due to the limited quantities available, the publication is aimed at the present time at county agricultural agents, vocational agriculture teachers and farm workers who are attempting to do cotton insect control work says the author. However, he urges all cotton farmers who are interested to contact their local county agent to get the benefit of the information in the bulletin.

FIXING UP the HOME

How About Steak Tonight?

THERE'S really nothing quite as good as a well broiled steak. This method of dry heat cooking brings out the finest taste. The results should be enough to whet the dull appetite.

Broiling, while considered by many to be a fine art, is really very simple. There are many schools of thought; some say salt of fat; others produce fine steaks by making a paste of salt and smearing it over the steak so thick the crust has to be broken off.

Whatever your method, be sure you have a good hot flame, with the steak resting about two or three inches under it. If your broiler is connected to a thermostatically controlled oven, leave the oven door open so that the flame will not burn down.

A gas flame does the best job of broiling if you don't have the coals of an open campfire. The gas consumes the broiling smoke, keeps the kitchen cleaner and provides the quick, sharp heat needed. You can have a modern gas range wherever you plan to live. Outside the city you can use LP-Gas, the modern gas fuel that is delivered in bottle-like steel cylinders or by tank truck. Consult the dealer in your community.

Life After 40 Is Complicated

From a health standpoint, life after forty generally begins to be more complicated for the average individual than it was in his earlier years. According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, the principal health foes confronting people in middle life are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, apoplexy, diabetes, and arthritis.

Middle aged people of today are healthier than were those of preceding generations, and the present generation, when they reach middle age, should enjoy even better health than their parents of today.

"Medical care in middle life has two important phases," Dr. Cox asserts. "The first is going to the doctor at regular intervals for a complete checkup, whether or not there have been symptoms that suggest the need for medical attention. The second is prompt attention to any illness, since this may mean the difference between complete recovery and prolonged invalidism. It is difficult to say which of these phases is the more important."

It has been found that men and women who faithfully pursue the habit of regular health examinations and who follow their physician's advice arising from them, tend to live longer, more satisfactorily and freer from disease than those who simply take a chance and go to the doctor only when pain or disability forces them to give up their normal activities.

It is also a fact according to the State Health Officer, that many diseases of middle age respond to treatment in early stages where as if neglected until later, they often cause chronic invalidism or even death.

Little as the economists think the freedom of thought that belongs to Americans goes a long way toward explaining our great economic growth and development.

ALL SET FOR LABOR DAY

Well, here we are, folks! The greatest group in America—the family! Along with millions of other families, we constitute the backbone of American life. We are America—America at her best!

We are all set to celebrate Labor Day—a holiday set aside by our government to emphasize the dignity and importance of labor as the basis of our national and individual prosperity.

We till the soil, man the shops and factories and offices, build the homes, support the schools and churches, and aim to have the best government and greatest freedom of any nation on earth. And that is just what we have.

In any period of national crisis, in war or peace, the government turns to us—the homes of America—the families and workers of America—and we never fail.

For our homes and our families are built on faith—faith in God's power and providence in human life. Our churches inspire us to live uprightly, to be happy and hopeful, and to build that most blessed of all institutions—the American home.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
 ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

 sixth and two in the eighth. Most of the runs came in on well hit balls. Only in the sixth did they score without the benefit of a hit, when Lobban on third threw wild to J. Mills at first.

KILLED IN EIGHTH

Childress made a determined rally in the eighth inning to score four runs. Five batters singled in succession, Risenhoover, Lobban, Butler, James and J. Mills. Then S. Mills hit into a fielder's choice and Nelson struck out. Griffin was hit by a pitched ball, and Loter, pinchhitting, singled James home. Risenhoover lined out to Robinson at second to end the rally.

There were no bases of balls issued in the entire game. Each Mobeetie player batted five times with the top four men getting 12 of the 16 hits.

Childress failed to get an extra base hit and the singles were well divided among the players.

FARM FACTS WORTH KNOWING

Q. Is there any treatment that is effective against Newcastle disease?

A. At the present time there is no specific medicinal treatment which can be recommended. Affected birds should be isolated or quarantined, and birds that are paralyzed or dead should be disposed of either by burning or burying. As a control measure, dispose of those birds which may survive an outbreak of the disease.

Q. May ducks be raised on dry ground?

A. Yes. At the Research Farm of the Ralston Purina Company it was found that ducks may be successfully raised on dry ground. When it is convenient, however, a small concrete pool should be provided for swimming so the ducks may wash themselves and keep clean and comfortable.

Q. What percentage of pigs that are farrowed reach market age?

A. The death rate of pigs is much higher than with other kinds of livestock. Normally not more than 60% of the pigs farrowed are raised to marketable weights. Figures based on five-year records on typical farms by the United States Department of Agriculture show that each dead pig represents a loss of 140 lbs. of feed at farrowing time, 260 lbs. of feed at 10 weeks, and 800 lbs. of feed at 6 months.

Q. What causes some of my eggs when candled to show spots all over the inside of the shell although the outside is smooth?

A. This condition is caused by a drying out of the moisture in the shell of the egg, and while it does not hurt the quality of the egg, it does injure the marketability of the egg. This condition can be prevented by holding eggs in a room where there is at least 75% relative humidity.

BANGS DISEASE LAW IN FORCE

A new law passed by the last session of the Texas Legislature makes it the responsibility of the owner of Bangs-infested cattle as well as the veterinarian, to see that they are branded. W. R. Ritter, Wheeler county sanitarian, said last week.

It will be easier to control Bangs disease as a result of the law, Ritter said. It becomes the duty of the veterinarian doing the Bangs testing to brand each reactor on the left jaw with the letter "B" and to report all reactors to the State Livestock Sanitary Commission.

Penalty is fixed upon the owner who fails or refuses to allow the branding of such cattle.

The new law will enable better control over reactors and will also afford an opportunity to the veterinarian to make a second visit to the premises for the purpose of branding reactors and to advise with the owner regarding additional control methods which may be needed.

From September 1, 1944, to August 31, 1945, there were 133,981 head of cattle tested for Bang's disease and 9,435 were reactors. During this period the branding and disposal of reactors found their way into other hands. The new law will go a long way toward stopping this practice.

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Riley were: Mrs. James W. Leitch, Jr., Baltimore, Maryland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Riley; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Coffee and sons, Jon and David of Borger, Mrs. W. H. Hale, Westover, Miss Florence Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. O. V.
