

Accomplishments Of ACP Pointed Out By Secretary

Bill Rushing, secretary of the Wheeler County Agricultural Conservation Program, this week pointed out the accomplishments of the ACP for Wheeler County for the year just drawing to a close and gave a full and thorough explanation of the working of the program and urged that more and more farmers and land owners in the county participate in the benefits of the program in the coming year.

Rushing explained that more than 700 Wheeler County farmers participated in the 1948 Agricultural Conservation Program by completing soil and water conservation and soil improvement practices. These cooperating farmers operate more than 100,000 acres of Wheeler County cropland. Approximately 140 miles of terraces have been built, protecting 3,285 acres of land. About 30 dams have been built for better distribution of water for livestock and erosion control. Field strip-cropping was carried out on 18,000 acres; phosphate was used to promote more vigorous growth of legumes and grasses and was applied on about 800 acres. Eradication of sagebrush by spraying with a solution of 2-4D was practiced on about 4,000 acres, and weed control by mowing carried out on 1,500 acres. These are the more needed conservation practices, however many others were carried out to the advantage to the whole country.

MILLER FAMILY KILLED IN CRASH

A former Wheeler County man, a cousin of Mrs. A. B. Crump of Wheeler, and Mrs. George L. Stanley of Shamrock, perished with his family of four Wednesday night of last week when his plane crashed near Alice, Texas.

The Agricultural Conservation Program provides financial assistance to cooperating farmers for carrying out approved land, water conservation practices. The program is based on the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act of 1936 and the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. Congress appropriates funds each year to assist farmers to carry out conservation practices under the program.

Conserving the Land to Produce

Essentially the program assists farmers to improve and maintain their soil at the same time that they are producing currently needed supplies of food and fiber. Its basic aim is to assure continued adequate production. Payments covering a part of the cost makes it possible to center conservation efforts on most needed practices.

Conservation Depends On Income

The support of farm prices at a near-parity level gives farmers the income-insurance needed to encourage ample production and to permit them to plan and carry out necessary long-range conservation practices. Even with the assistance of some financial assistance under the Agricultural Conservation Program—it averages about half of the out-of-pocket cost—there can be little progress in conservation if farm prices fail to provide a return to the farmer sufficient to meet his operating costs. For this reason, price-support loans and purchases, marketing agreement programs, crop insurance, aid in the storage and marketing of farm crops, and, when necessary, acreage allotments and marketing quotas are essential to a successful conservation effort.

Problems Go Beyond Fence Lines

Progress in conservation also depends upon coordinated action by farmers to meet the most essential conservation needs in broad watersheds, climatic belts, rainfall areas, and soil zones. Since these areas are not confined to farm boundaries or to counties and state lines, a national program is essential.

Farmers Run the Program

Since all program activities must fit into the varying efforts of farmers to make a living, the programs are administered in all agricultural counties by farmer committees elected by farmers. County committee operations are supported and aided by farmer community committees elected by the farmers in each agricultural township or community. The elections (Continued on Last Page)

Noted Speakers Hold Conference At Baptist Church

ALLEN WILLIAMS SERIOUSLY HURT

The condition of Allen Williams, seriously injured early last Thursday evening when he was struck by an automobile on the main street in Shamrock, was reported as improved this morning by attendants at the Shamrock General Hospital.

Mr. Williams, 51 years old, was struck by a car driven by Troy Fuller as he crossed Main Street at Ninth en route to his home from the Southard Grocery store. The accident occurred at 6:15 o'clock during a dense fog, and young Fuller, driving north in his 1940 Ford, stated that he did not see the pedestrian until it was too late to stop.

Both of Mr. Williams' legs were badly broken below the knees and he was placed in a cast today. He has been unconscious most of the time since the accident occurred.

The Williams family moved to Shamrock a few months ago from Mobettie.

The Williams formerly lived at Mobettie for about 30 years and he is the son of Mrs. Mary E. Williams of Wheeler and a brother of Aaron Williams also of this city.

CLARK ENTERS STEER IN SHOW

James Clark of Wheeler has entered a Hereford steer in the Boys Fat Steer Show at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, to be held at Fort Worth January 28 through February 6.

Friends and neighbors visiting Clark's exhibit will find a number of "firsts", including a new department for Brahman cattle, Guernseys replacing Holsteins in the dairy cattle department, resumption of poultry, turkey and rabbit exhibits, a new Shetland Pony division in the Horse Show, and to highlight F.F.A. and 4-H Club Day, January 29, a special rodeo at a special low price for the boys and a grass judging contest for F.F.A. and 4-H members—first of its kind in the South-west.

In addition to the livestock exhibits, Wheeler visitors will be welcomed at the annual rodeo, again produced by Verne Elliott twice daily in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum. In adjoining Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium, Olcott and Johnson of "Hellzapoppin'" fame will appear in person in a brand-new, laugh-packed comedy show, "Laffacade of 1949" every night during the ten day Exposition and at five matinees.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Robison and daughter, Terri, returned home Sunday from Morton, Texas where they spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Tharp, and other relatives.

BASKETBALLERS RESUME PLAY TUESDAY

The membership of the First Baptist Church are looking forward to the beginning of the first Bible Conference to be held in this church. The speakers for the conference are men of world-wide recognition, and a cordial invitation is extended to all the people of Wheeler and surrounding communities to come into the services from January 2-9. Dr. Louis S. Bauman of Washington, D. C. will be the speaker in two services on Sunday, January 2. People who have heard this great preacher are agreed that he has a message that the world needs to hear.

On Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock Rev. A. B. Machlin will give a demonstration of the Jewish Passover. Bro. Machlin is a Hebrew Christian, and he knows the practices of the orthodox Jew. Don't miss this service. Rev. M. B. Smith pastor urges. Dr. Hyman J. Appelman, noted evangelist, will be the speaker on Monday night, January 3. If you miss hearing this great preacher, you will regret it. Dr. Appelman has recently spent six months in Australia in an evangelistic campaign, and he is accustomed to preaching to more people in one crowd than there are living in the entire town of Wheeler. Hear him.

Other speakers through the week are Dr. Palmer Muntz of Buffalo, New York; Dr. Nathan Stone of Chicago; Rev. Eddie Liberman of Greenville, South Carolina.

Three of the speakers are Hebrew Christians, and you will miss hearing great men with great messages if you fail to hear them. Often people have to drive from 1,000 to 1,500 miles to hear men like these. You will be able to hear them right here in Wheeler. A number of people who live here in Wheeler have already had the privilege of hearing some of these speakers in days passed, and it is their belief that if you hear any of the speakers you will want to hear the others—Come and Hear the Word of God, Rev. Smith insists.

INVENTORY TIME

The current and continuing world situation call for courageous and enlightened leadership that is ready, willing and able to challenge or defend the human motives and moral principals that underlie the theme and concept of our free enterprise system.

As reported by the Galveston News a few days ago, Dr. George A. Schenewerk of Dallas, called for all businesses and professions to put their own houses in order or suffer the consequences of socialism. "No business or profession is above reproach," he said. "The medical profession admits that unfortunately there have been occasions when criticism was justified. However, it has always made honest and sincere attempts to correct these situations as quickly as they are brought to its attention by those in or outside the profession." The State Medical Association is to be commended for this sound and forthright position.

The Dallas physician admitted that inequities and bad practices have been brought out in the past and that most of them have been corrected by the doctors themselves. "The medical profession is still one which believes that, despite the fact mistakes are made, they can and should be corrected, and finally that the decisions in a democracy are made by the public; that the public is still the court of last resort—that the public must understand a situation before it can expect its approval and support. Give the public the true facts about medical care here in America and they will draw proper conclusion on the issue of government medicine."

Fortunately, today the medical profession belongs to the people and they determine what the medical profession shall be. If they support it and help to improve it in their community it will be good and they will benefit proportionately. If they fail to support it and attempt to tear it down they will have poor medical care and from a health standpoint will suffer proportionately.

Under a socialistic form of government the bureaucrats will dominate the professions, utilities, railroads, banks, and many other businesses, and the people will have to accept the regimentation as they have in other countries where freedom as we know it does not exist.

This is inventory time. It is important that every profession and business examine itself with the beginning of the new year, take stock, and devote itself to the American way of life that is better than any other system or substitute.

NOT 600,000 PERFECT

Lieutenant-General Leslie R. Groves, head of the Army's atomic bomb development during the war, says that it is possible that there have been leaks of its secrets to Russia.

The retired General pointed out that the vast Manhattan Project employed more than 600,000 persons and observed that "you cannot assemble 600,000 perfect people."

Go this is HOUSEKEEPING
By CHARLEY STUART

As it must to all newlyweds, came the time in the life of the Sturges when the budget first reared its homely head. We worked out an arrangement which included a set sum for running the house and (the best part) a personal allowance for me. For a while everything went fine until house-keeping began borrowing from allowance. I discovered that food was the bugaboo in the scheme of things.

With my ears out like antennae, I went back to mother and asked for a repeat of her performance of all the good advice she had given me. She stressed two pearls of wisdom: first, food economy starts with wise buying and goes through storing, and second, getting the best quality usually means getting the most for your money.

One smart, important step is to choose foods that come well packaged and thus protected from any contamination. That means savings. Take butter, for instance. The best butter is packed in paraffined cartons which keep out odors of other foods and protect the product from the damaging effects of light and air both in the store and at home. Recent tests will prove what I mean about protective paraffin containers.

Two batches of top quality 93 score butter were compared. One batch was protected only by vegetable parchment. The second batch was packed in parchment plus a paraffined carton. At the end of five days the butter in the parchment—without the carton—had dropped its score to 89.3 while the cartoned butter went down only half a point to 92.5! That kind of protection against loss of quality and flavor adds up to wise buying in my book of figures. So I not only buy butter packed in a paraffined carton—I keep it in the carton till it's all to the last speck!

I've a few more economy tricks like the paraffin carton guide up my sleeve and it begins to look as if I'll be able to call my allowance my very own!

ROOM FOR ALL SIZE FARMS

Is there going to be room for all size farms? That's a question many folks are thinking about when they view with alarm the general trend toward larger farms.

For years these folks have been wondering how long large, medium and small scale family farms can keep on providing a good living for their operators, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist of Texas A. and M. College.

A recent survey made by the USDA Bureau of Agricultural Economics, groups farms together according to the gross income they bring in from the sale of their products. This survey also gives quite a bit of other information on the broad classes of farms that are alike in size and other characteristics.

Bates says that the medium and large commercial family farms are providing a good living, and in some parts of the country these farms are getting even bigger. As they do increase, they begin competing successfully with the large scale units.

As for the nearly one million small-scale farms, Bates is not so certain. These farms raise from $500 to 1,200 worth of products a year, but they don't make enough to provide these same farm families with telephones, automobiles, electricity and running water.

With industries springing up all over the state, there are more opportunities for part-time jobs off the farm. Quite a few folks that have jobs in town build homes on small acreages outside the city limits. Such locations permit them to have chickens, a few pigs or sheep, a cow and a vegetable patch. Ever since REA lines and butane gas have taken to the country, this trend has become more general.

Texas families want more elbow room; they want more ground area than they'd have in the city. So, as the economists see it, there's a big need for training farm people in other trades whose best income lie outside farming. And others need help in further developing more profitable farms where they are, says Bates.

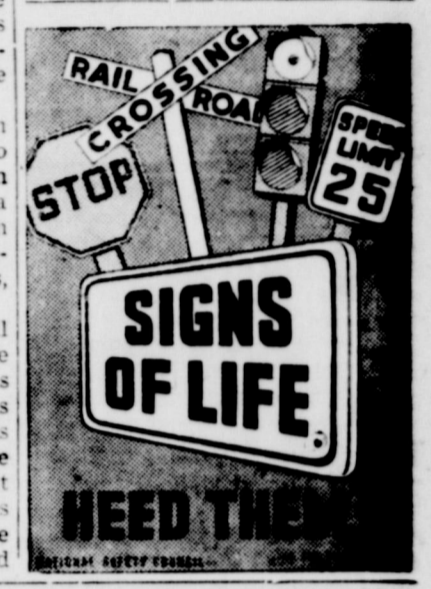

But, in many ways, this farm management specialist thinks the small-scale farm is one of our toughest present day problems.

PLACING SHRUBS IS IMPORTANT

There's a big difference in many of the shrubs commonly used for landscaping the home grounds. That's why the placing of shrubs is pretty important.

Some of the shrubs grow tall, and some grow wide, so you'll have to be careful how close to the house and to each other you plant the wide growing ones, says Sadie Hatfield, extension landscape gardening specialist of Texas A. and M. College.

When the shrubs are given plenty of space, they don't have to be pruned so often. They will be easier to spray and dust when it comes to the job of controlling diseases and killing insects, too.

Grouping shrubs of the same kind makes it easier to fertilize them and keep them attended to, says Miss Hatfield. Sometimes you run into trouble when you don't group like shrubs together. For example, ceniza and gardenias will not grow together at all. The ceniza needs an alkaline soil, while the gardenia grows best in the acid soils of East Texas. If the landscape gardener puts lime on the soil for the ceniza, the gardenia roots are injured. And, if he adds acid on the gardenia, the ceniza will die.

Another big reason the placing of shrubs is so important is the fact that some plants have to have sunlight all the time, while others—such as the Christmas poinsettia—will not last long in the bright light. They are strictly shade plants. On the other hand, crape myrtle needs full sunshine, and

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Writer

NORWEGIANS have perfected the making of wool from mackerel skin and herring scales. The finished cloth will be marketed, no doubt, under some such trade name as Atlantic Lamb.

There's nothing that convinces a college president that football is overemphasized as much as the loss of the first couple games.

A Canadian family complains it is being haunted by a "ghost in striped pants." As far as we know this is the first two-toned spectre on record.

The president's oratory has so improved a Southeastern university speech specialist says it has a "New Look." Hoyt King hopes that doesn't mean Truman is skirting the issues.

Jet mail has been flown from London to Paris in 47 minutes. Passing by how many cablegrams en route?

A 35,000-year-old female skull, found in England, has five holes in it. Just another gal who blew her top?

New York university now has a course in "basic jazz music." The man at the next desk opines that you can get a high "A" in the course—provided you can swing it.

will have only a few flowers and will mildew if it is shaded too much.

Some folks don't find out until the flowers bloom that the bright colors in some plants clash with those nearby. So be sure you know what color the blossoms are going to be before planting shrubbery around the house.

So, in summing up this shrubbery idea, Miss Hatfield suggests choosing plants that are hardy to cold, heat, drought, insects, diseases, sun, shade and soil. Don't crowd them too close together, and take time to study your design.

"Good time management is not valued for the sake of possible time saved, but in order that the person who plans may live more fully."

ROOT-ROT LOSS BEING REDUCED

Losses from root-rot disease are markedly reduced following rotation of cotton with certain legume crops, according to research results just released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Findings of a 5-year study conducted at the Temple substation are given in Bulletin 699 entitled "Control of Cotton Root Rot by Sweetclover in Rotation."

Sweetclover best adapted to growing conditions in the central Blacklands of Texas are Melilotus indica and hubam. Both were used in the rotation experiments reported in this bulletin as winter and combined winter-summer increased soil fertility, hubam provides additional farm income when used as pasture for livestock or when harvested as hay or seed.

Authors of the bulletin are E. W. Lyle, formerly plant pathologist of the Temple station; A. A. Dunlap, head of Texas A. and M.'s Department of Plant Physiology and Pathology; H. O. Hill, now superintendent of the Station's Bluebonnet Farm, and J. R. Johnston, superintendent of the Temple station.

MOTHER UNDERSTANDS

"George," said Mrs. M. in her letter from mother, "I have not accepting our visit us, and saying we mean by that? I am write and tell her to own convenience. You you?"

"Yes," said George, "couldn't spell the word, 'entirely,' so I made it 'I'."

Have you heard about the large Washington (D.C.) food store which sends out a cruising wagon to central shoppers? All you have to do is to hail it and be picked up.

If your youngsters' overalls are too long, cut off excess and use to reinforce knees and seat. Apply "patches" with bright red thread for a touch of color.

For that special "has to be good" dinner party, here's a first course to meet every requirement. Serve a piping hot cream of tomato soup, the last minute spoon on a generous serving of real mayonnaise blended with whipped, heavy cream.

Believe it or not, but they say if higher freight rates are granted, the style of women's hats may be influenced. Millinery, you see, is among the items for which they're asking freight increases. Smaller hats may be the answer to manufacturers' problems.

Lend color to your meals with paprika. A dash of it on white potatoes, creamed cauliflower, onions or macaroni gives that eye appeal, so necessary for food.

Children will certainly be thrilled over the new Christmas toys. Hens that lay eggs and walk away, dolls that eat crackers and a mechanical man which can be built and electrically operated are among the selection.

Rotation with hubam that is grown to maturity at least once every third or fourth year was found the best means yet known for the control of root rot in the central Blacklands.

In addition to a larger yield of cotton through disease control and Watch eyes pop wide open at Sunday brunch as hot, crusty brown popovers move straight from oven to table.

Hot, buttered-popovers are wonderful eating. Though not an American breakfast custom, they deserve to be. These crisp shells are more than a delicious bread, for they make excellent containers for creamed foods. Cut the tops of the popovers almost off with a sharp knife, and fill the split cases with creamed turkey, chicken, scrambled eggs, creamed ham, or chipped beef. Because popovers are a quick bread, you can get them into the oven in about fifteen minutes. Taking a few precautions will help make sure they "pop".
Precaution No. 1: beat the latter with a rotary egg beater until shiny smooth and no lumps show.
Precaution No. 2: heat either greased iron pans or glass custard or pottery cups sizzling hot. Take them from the oven and pour in the cold batter. This contrast in temperature helps popovers go high-hat. Set individual cups on a tray so they will be easy to take out of the oven. There are also wire racks that come with some kinds of custard cups. If your oven has sliding shelves, pour the cold batter into the hot cups as they sit on the oven shelf. This saves fingers and spills.
Precaution No. 3: bake popovers first at a high temperature and pop them, then at a low temperature to dry them out and finish to a golden brown.
As soon as you take popovers from the oven, make a small slit in the side of each to let steam escape. Serve at once with butter, jam, and coffee, and your family will take over from there.

POPOVERS
1 cup sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1/4 to 1 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted shortening
Sift together flour and salt. Beat eggs and add milk. Add to flour mixture and beat to a smooth batter. Add shortening. Beat three minutes. Fill hot greased iron muffin cups or greased glass

the BETTER we produce

the BETTER we live

Sure! We can boast the best standard of living of any nation in this world. But we didn't get it by sitting back in a comfortable rut. We got it by working together in an atmosphere of freedom where the best is considered only something to be improved. To this principle, we pledge ourselves, as a New Year dawn for all.

McCasland Home Site Of Reunion Christmas

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McCasland was the scene of a family reunion over Christmas when all of their children were home except one, Mrs. Gus Ware of Clovis, N. M. This was the first Christmas in twenty-nine years that Jim McCasland had been home.

Those enjoying the Christmas celebration were: Messers and Mesdames Jim McCasland and John McKinsey and son, Ronnie, of Atlanta, Texas; Sam Morris and children, Gene and Colleen, Clarence Holt and sons, Larry, Dennis and Darry, all of Berger; Marshal Adams and sons, Robert, David and Micky, Shamrock; Aubrey Greenhouse and children, Doyle and Virginia, of Mobeetie; Chester Hampton, Lindsey McCasland and children, Elaine, Kenneth and Terry, Dorsey Hutchison and children, Annett and Johnny, and Mrs. J. W. Barr.

Shamrock Parsonage Is Scene Double Wedding

Miss Betty Jo McCray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McCray, became the bride of Max Baird, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baird, and Miss Bessie Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Anderson, in a double ring wedding ceremony performed at the First Baptist Church parsonage in Shamrock, Sunday, December 26. Rev. Edward C. Derr, pastor, officiated.

Betty Jo and Max attended the Kelton schools and will make their home in the Kelton community where he is engaged in farming.

Bessie and C. C. also attended the Kelton schools with the groom graduating from Wheeler. They plan to make their home in Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cole of Frederick, Okla., visited in the home of his sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robison, Sunday and Monday.

Accomplishments

(Continued from Page 1) are held at the end of each year. State committees of farmers, appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Production and Marketing Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture complete the administrative organization.

Committees Select Practices
Agricultural conservation practices which make up the national program are suggested, reviewed, amended and approved each year by county and state committees with the aid of technical committees. Each state selects and adapts the most needed practices from the national list. States and counties also may add special practices not in the national list to meet local problems.

Farmer Committees
The members of the Texas State committee are: B. F. Vance, Chairman; Howard T. Kingbery, Coleman County farmer-rancher; Vice-Chairman; Victor L. Cade, Lubbock County farmer; W. L. David, Navarro County farmer; and J. R. Adams, Cameron County farmer and citrus fruit grower.

The following are members of the Wheeler County Agricultural Conservation Committee, elected recently by farmers participating in the program: Charles F. Waters, Chairman, Wheeler; George L. Close, Vice-Chairman, Shamrock; Jesse R. Patterson, member, Mobeetie; M. C. Watson, alternate, Twitty; and Albert Zybach, alternate, Briscoe and Allison.

HEAVY RESPONSIBILITY

Two nurse maids were wheeling their infant charges in the park when one asked the other: "Are you going to the dance tomorrow night?"

"I'm afraid not," she replied. "What!" exclaimed the other. "I thought you were so fond of dancing?"

"I'd love to go," explained the conscientious maid, "but to tell you the truth, I'm afraid to leave the baby with its mother."

Most shrubs like sunshine. There are some that will grow only in the shade. And some plants need certain types of soil. So the landscape gardening specialists say to be careful when choosing shrubs for the yard.

'MISS AMERICA' LIKES HER FOOD

PLEASE NOTICE

WHEELER TIMES READERS

Postal laws and regulations require that a newspaper, to maintain its mailing privileges, keep its subscriptions paid up in advance.

The Times has been a little lax at times about collecting subscriptions promptly and consequently some of our readers have fallen a few months behind with theirs. We would greatly appreciate it if you would check the yellow label on your paper and see if you are one of these, if you have fallen behind with your subscription, we would appreciate it very much if you would either pay up or let us know whether you wish us to continue sending the paper or not.

Many of our reader's subscriptions expire around the first of the year and we would appreciate it very much if those of you whose subscriptions do expire at this time would drop by the office and pay up.

The management of the Times wishes to serve the people of this trade territory with the kind of paper the people want, and invites the criticisms and suggestions of any and all our readers at any time. We would like to know what you think we could do to make THE WHEELER TIMES a better newspaper for this trade territory.

Thanks,
