

Posses Seek Slayer Of 11-Year-Old Girl

HOME TOWN TALK By BEDDY Howard county having twice in the past few months voted against the paving of highway 9 and highway 1 a concerted effort now is under way in neighboring counties, principally Mitchell, to attempt having No. 9 re-routed so as to lead from Sterling City to Colorado, thence to Lubbock rather than over its present route.

Looking at it from one standpoint one would be constrained to say Howard county has no right to kick at such an action. The fact is the distance from San Angelo to Lubbock would be shorter, via Colorado. The fact is, also, that Howard county consistently has refused to help improve No. 9.

Many of us feel any effort at re-surfacing the highway is in vain and that nothing of the sort can happen. But, it can, and if sufficient work is done by those wishing to change it we might lose it.

Now we cannot, we absolutely must not allow this highway to be lost. What we must do to prevent it for all time to come is another matter.

Glasscock county has been offered paying on the short strip of No. 9 that crosses its extreme northeastern corner, provided the right-of-way in obtained without cost to the state.

The highway department has adopted a policy of footing the entire paving bill in cases where a county has but one state highway, which is far removed from the county seat.

No. 9 is being paved from the northern edge of Sterling City to the Coke county line. A short Coke county strip is paved. The Tom Green county section is paved. Concho county recently voted bands to pave it. McCulloch county has it surfaced.

The contract for paving the section between Sterling City and Glasscock county line soon will be awarded.

A NEWS ITEM

A few years ago Couden Oil Co. built a very modern refinery in Big Spring, Texas, and commenced manufacturing Couden Liquid Gas, a natural anti-knock, clean burning gasoline, pure, peppy and powerful and, account of its exceptionally high quality, has brought a premium in the open market in Texas and Louisiana. Couden Refinery maintains a payroll of over $30,000 per month, employing only local Big Spring citizens where possible. They spend on an average $10,000 each month in Big Spring for supplies. This modern refinery takes from our local oil field daily approximately 8000 barrels of crude oil, and ships over the T. & P. Ry. 1400 cars of premium performance gasoline and other products each month.

Approximately 175,000 gallons of Couden Liquid Gas each month is consumed by towns adjacent to Big Spring, while quite a few additional thousand gallons are purchased each month by opinion that the Couden Refinery means much to our town, and have found Couden Liquid Gas to be in truth premium performance gasoline.

It is believed by some that when Big Spring business interests get tired of dragging along in the tune of "The Depression Blues" and start to throwing their feet out to the rap-a-tap of constructive effort, Couden Liquid Gas will be the favorite of Big Spring autoists.

German Dancer Acclaimed 'Liberator' Of Art

NEW YORK, April 21. (AP)—Seldom has a foreign artist come over the horizon to arouse so much critical discussion as Mary Wigman, the German dancer, in her first visit to this country.

Recognized as a leader of the modern dance, Miss Wigman has freed her art from its dependence upon music. It is on this theory that she has built her school—that the dance is an art in itself, and should not be merely a physical interpretation of music.

As a student of Dalcroze and Rudolph von Laban, she subjected herself to absolute body discipline for four years. Because of this mastery of her body, she can execute dance movements which have been constant problems to other dancers for years.

One of the features of several of her dances comes when she spins around like a whirling dervish for seven minutes without a pause. Few dancers can do this for more than three minutes.

She has created about 100 solo dances and 50 group dances. She was believed in abstract dancing, but soon abandoned this for her own form, which required that the dance expressing an emotion be created first, and that the accompanying music then be composed to fit the dance.

She is a dark, muscular woman and much of her art is so intricate that it is confusing to the ordinary spectator. Dancers themselves, who comprehend the finer points of their art, are unanimous in admitting that she has carried on from where Isadora Duncan left off.

She was 27 before she had a chance to give a recital of her own theories. This new form was not understood then, and the public rejected her. Four years later she appeared again, and this time she was a sensation.

Her schools were started all over Germany, and the government recommended that all teachers study under her. She came to this country with the minister of culture as one of her sponsors. She has never been married.

The modern dance is given new interpretation by Mary Wigman, the German dancer who does not depend on music in many dances. The dance, she contends, is an art in itself.

with the minister of culture as one of her sponsors. She has never been married.

Club Girls Are Making Yards Both Attractive And Convenient

Dear Club Members: The club girls of the county are improving their yards. Demonstrations on making diagrams of the yards have been given by second and third year girls. All of the girls will draw a diagram of their yards as they were before and another diagram as they are after they have been improved.

The South girls' club reported one hundred per cent on cleaning their yards since the demonstration was given two weeks ago. Geraldine Lauderdale disposed of a box in the yard which had been used for soiled clothes and is using a laundry bag instead. The bag is kept in a closet in the house. She moved the trash can outside the yard and put all tin cans scattered around the yard into the box. She moved the wash pot near the windmill to make it convenient and moved tubs and bench near. She has rocks and bricks which her father will use for a walk. She will plant a border of flowers near the house and on either side of the walk.

Gladys and Maggie Pierce are making similar improvements. They dug up a flower bed from one side of the yard, placing the plants near the walk, and near the house. They set out some trees. They are building a walk.

Ada, Ida, and Lois Hannah gave their yard a general cleaning, moving their garbage can and trash can outside the yard. They moved all their washing equipment together.

Sixteen Delegates Expected to Attend Conference on May 6; President Appoints Committees for Homes and Reception

The members of the local W. C. T. U. organization met at the Methodist Church Wednesday afternoon and perfected plans for the meeting of the Sixteenth district to be held in Big Spring on May 6.

Mrs. L. S. Patterson, president, appointed on the homes committee, Mrs. J. M. Manuel, Mrs. Travis Reed, Mrs. O. E. Talbot, and Mrs. A. R. Kavanaugh; on the reception committee, Mrs. W. A. Miller, Mrs. C. S. Holmes and Mrs. J. O. Tamsitt.

There are eight organized W. C. T. U.'s in the sixteenth district, which is the largest district in the state of Texas and contains 38 counties, says Mrs. George W. Davis, publicity chairman of the union. The towns which are expected to send two delegates each are Perry, El Paso, Balmorhea, Colorado, Conhoma, San Angelo, Midland and Big Spring.

Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy of Midland, president of the district, has not yet announced who will be the chief speaker of the meeting but she says that a prominent West Texan will be on the program. The meetings will be held in the Presbyterian church. There was a good attendance at the Methodist church yesterday. Read Flowerlin's ad page 2—adv.

Bloodless Revolution

THE bloodless revolution which Mahatma Gandhi is leading in India advanced another long step the other day when he swung the all-India national congress in favor of his creed of non-resistance and made it probable that India's struggle for freedom will continue to go forward without resort to violence.

It is hard to understand just how amazing an achievement this is unless the revolution in India is compared with other great revolutions.

When the American colonies broke away from Great Britain there was an instant appeal to arms. Beginning with the skirmishes at Lexington and Concord, a costly and bloody war progressed for seven years, and American, English, French and German soldiers died by the hundreds before a decision could be obtained.

A little bit later came the French revolution. Wise leadership according to most historians, could have made this a peaceful affair; but wise leadership was not forthcoming, and months of wrangling finally led to the September massacres, the reign of terror and the repeated foreign invasions that finally brought Napoleon to the top. To this day no one knows how many lives were lost. The number was appallingly high.

In more recent times the unforgettable example is the Russian revolution—the bloodiest of all revolutions, perhaps, since the first slave revolted against his master. For years the fighting dragged on. It has been said that more Russians were killed in the revolution than in the World War; and it is just possible that the end is not yet.

But Gandhi has handled things differently in India. He has had, luckily, the advantage of dealing with rulers who were far more intelligent than those involved in these other revolutions; but the tension has been quite as high, and the possibilities for prolonged and desperate fighting have been quite as good.

India contains more than 300,000,000 people. The demand for freedom is probably quite as widespread and intense there as it was in the American colonies in 1776; at the same time the retention of India within the empire is more important to England today than the retention of the American colonies was in 1776. All the "makings" of a frightful catastrophe are present in full measure.

But Gandhi sticks to his doctrine of peace, and it begins to look as if he would carry the day. The importance of this achievement can hardly be overestimated. In a world that has almost invariably used force to gain its ends, Gandhi has demonstrated that other means can be more effective. A revolution without an appeal to arms is, indeed, something new under the sun.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS
Running Backwards For Efficiency

San Angelo Times:
HENRY FORD evidently is attempting to obviate the day when the public would become saturated with his automobiles.

paper crusher, in which it is crumpled into a compact mass about the width and length of the original car but only about two feet thick. This mass now passes on to the end of the line and into the mouth of a 400-ton open hearth furnace, from which pours on the other side a stream of molten metal. The entire process requires about thirty minutes.

It has been estimated that about $11 worth of metal is salvaged from each car. Since $15 to $20 is paid for the car it would not seem to be a very profitable business. It is expected, however, that mass "destruction" methods will eventually make it a paying proposition in itself, besides the good that will come from ridding the country of automobile wrecks. Certainly it would seem worth while paying $5 to destroy an old car if that meant the creation of a market for a new car to sell for $500.

Other manufacturers, including Buick, Chevrolet and Chrysler, buy up old cars from the dealers at a set price and then after rendering them useless by wrecking the motor and axle turn them over to commercial junk dealers.

The salvage value of $11 is based on the following: There are about 1,500 pounds of cast iron and steel in each car which is worth $8 to $8.50 a ton in Detroit, making that part of each car worth close to $6. Sixty pounds of tires at $10 a ton means about 35 cents, twenty-five pounds of lead from the battery at 2 cents a pound, ten square feet of glass at 5 cents a square foot, copper tubing, cotton, felt, and other items all make up about another $5 a car.

While the cars junked now come mostly from the Detroit zone it is expected that they will be shipped from all over the country to Detroit eventually. Truckers who now deliver new cars to dealers are only too glad to haul junked cars back to Detroit for about $2 to $3 a car. It helps to solve one of the trucker's biggest problems. Ford also plans to establish concentration points where his boat lines can pick up old cars for return trips.

The machine brought to us economically and big scale production. Now we run it backwards and it gives us economical and big scale destruction.

HOW'S your HEALTH

SICK CHILDREN—I
When a child sickens, not only his health but his personality is affected. Hence, while caring for the sick child, his psychology as well as physical needs must be considered.

Illness and good health have their associated psychological states. Not infrequently the oncoming of sickness is foreshadowed by a change in "feeling."

A sense of psychologic depression, and less frequently one of elation, may precede the development of even the earliest physical symptoms of disease. Particularly is this true in the case of children.

Illnesses of long duration are bound to influence and alter personality. The ennobling effects of such long-lasting diseases as tuberculosis have been witnessed in many of its famous victims. But chronic illness may also have the contrary effect, and make the individual "sour on the world."

In a less dramatic way, illness during childhood constitutes a threat to the development of sound personality. A stage of serious illness, an accident, or a surgical operation of some danger may affect for the worse the child's entire attitude toward life.

This is not entirely due to the illness, the accident, or the operation. Much of the undesirable effects upon the child's psychologic state is the result of the parents' attitude toward the event.

It is not easy for parents to maintain a rational or cold-blooded attitude when their child's life is in danger. Nor is it easy for them to differentiate between those demands of the sick child which ought to be granted and those that mark the development of undesirable traits.

And yet it is the obligation of parents to be both rational and intelligent in their dealings with sick children, for a relaxation in discipline may make out of the sick child a self-pitying, winning, or tyrannical individual.

By Percival Christopher Wren Author of BEAU GESTE BEAU IDEAL
MYSTERIOUS WAYE

SYNOPSIS: Mr. James dies from a drink of the poison he had prepared to kill Marjorie Lauderdale, and, in the ensuing confusion at Dr. Charters' nursing home, John Waye, with Sister Weldon's help, confronts the girl out of the place. Confronted with the tragic development, Charters admits James is his son, as ominously Waye tells him that Schlitz, Dorson and James have gone and that he, Charters, is being saved for the last. Waye decides to accompany Marjorie to India, where she is to wed her fiancé, Captain Lauderdale. But when, at his request, Sister Weldon hunts his passport in the coat he had worn on the day he first came to the home, it is missing. He obtains another and sets out for India with Marjorie.

Chapter 27
TWO CONCLUSIONS
"You absolutely insist on going back at once?" said Marjorie, studying the face of her dear friend, sympathetically, a little sadly.

"Yes, Marjorie, I'm going back," he said.

Around them was the shrill turmoil of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway terminus at Bombay, a noise unheard by John Waye as he held Marjorie's hand and said good-bye.

He had refused to take his farewell of her elsewhere than in this most public place, after having given her away, before the altar of Bombay Cathedral.

"You do like Reggie, don't you?" asked Marjorie, glancing to where her husband of an hour was super-screen or stage experience, others a little, and some have none at all. They come from homes, from high schools, from society, from convents, from vaudeville, and from the stage.

Samuel Goldwyn has signed two for United Artists. One is Shirley Gray, young stage actress, the other Betty Grable, 16, who had done only two screen bits when signed.

M.G.M., with Madge Evans, former child star; Dorothy Appleby, Lillian Bond, Janet Currie, and Karen Morley, and Universal, with Sidney Fox and Bette Davis, have gone to the stage for their new blood, but Radio, with Anita Louise, Ruth Weston, Rochelle Hudson, Arline Judge, Roberta Gale and Katya Sorin, has a varied assortment of experienced players and novices.

SCHOOLGIRLS SIGNED
Warners-First National took Gladys Ford from a Beverly Hills high school, which she still attends, when the isn't working and Mae Madison, a Los Angeles girl of Hungarian descent, from an acting school.

At Fox there is blond Peggy Ross, who was born in Canada, but lives in exclusive Flintridge, a society girl with no acting experience.

She was discovered by Frank Borzage three years ago on a Catalina beach, where he made a test of her with a pocket movie camera. That old test was unearched recently, and she won a contract.

"Mr. Waye?" inquired one of them pleasantly.

"Sure, John Waye of this little bright burr."

The men eyed him narrowly.

"Clean-shaven . . . gray eyes . . . Would you mind removing your hat a moment?" continued the man who had accosted Dr. Charters. "Gray hair," he continued. "Nick, probably made by a bullet, in cartilage of right ear."

"Quite right," agreed Dr. Charters, coming to a halt and smilingly touching his right ear, where indeed was the mark in question—self-inflicted some months earlier.

"Scar across back of right hand?" inquired the big man.

Promptly Dr. Charters withdrew his glove.

"There you are," he said, and displayed the necessary scar, also self-inflicted some months earlier.

"Got any letters addressed to yourself?"

"Plenty," replied Charters, diving into the pocket of his overcoat and producing several addressed to Mr. John Waye, at a Chicago hotel.

"That's all right. . . . Passport?" inquired the man, adding:

"You landed from England on September 30th."

"Certainly. But I don't carry my passport about with me, naturally."

"Where is it?"

"At my hotel."

"I'd like to have a peek at it."

"Why, certainly. We'll go along right now."

"We will," said the man.

"And how, what in hell's your name?" inquired Charters, as the four turned about, and marched in the direction whence they had come.

"Just wanted to be sure that you're John Waye," was the non-committal reply.

"Of course I am," replied Charters impatiently. "Who else d'you think I am?"

"I don't think you're anybody else," was the answer.

From his dispatch-case, Dr. Charters produced John Waye's passport.

"Photo's a bad one," he said, "and taken a good many years ago at that."

"Good enough," replied the detective. "Quite O. K. Fine. You're John Waye, all right. . . . And now, John, if you'll come along with us, we'll soon put you right where you can finish that life-sentence you walked away from. Coming quietly?"

Dr. Theodore Charters went quietly and indeed from him no sound has since been heard out of the shadows of the prison-house across the gulf that separates the head from the free.

Midland Town Lot Sale Set Record For Texas & Pacific Says Pioneer Merchant; Early Settlers Recalled

The townsite sale at Midland put on by the Texas & Pacific railway in 1884 was the record sale of the road, according to Addison Wadley of Midland. He says the railroad ran an excursion and sold $40,000 worth of lots at the opening. Midland at that time was a part of Tarr Green county.

"Already Colorado had been boomed," Mr. Wadley is quoted as saying in the Midland Reporter-Telegram, "and a year or two later had something like 25,000 people—and was the largest city in West Texas. The people who had seen the price of lots enhance in value in Colorado expected similar results from their purchases in Midland. I suspect that the records will show that some of the original purchasers of these lots still own them."

Woman County Clerk

"At the time we came here there was no station; the section house was called Midway, later changed to Midland when the county was organized. The first county officers were Bruce Lancaster, county judge; A. B. Rountree, father of Paul and Ed Rountree and Mrs. Marvin Ulmer, was the county clerk; Theo Ray, father of Mrs. A. B. Coleman and Virgil Ray was the first sheriff and my father was the first county treasurer. At that time the nearest bank was in Colorado and all funds had to be handled through that place.

"It will no doubt be of interest to know that Midland county's first courthouse did not cost the county anything. When the first election came up, which among many other things was to decide just where the town would be located, there was quite a bit of rivalry between the townsite company and Mr. Moody, who owned the section just east of town and what has always been known since the Moody addition, as to which section the town would be built on. J. C. Curtis, who lived on what is still known as the Curtis place north of town, and my father framed it up to tell the townsite company that they would guarantee the results of the election if the townsite company would donate $5,000 with which to build the courthouse. This the townsite company agreed to do, and it was rumored that a similar offer was made to Mr. Moody. The result of the election decided that the town would be built on the townsite company's location, and they fulfilled their agreement and donated $5,000 for the first courthouse.

A Sheep Country First

"We think of this section as having always been a cattle country when in reality in its early days it was a sheep country exclusively. I believe that Uncle Tom Martin started the first cow ranch, an old cross the ranch south of here, and it was not long before cattle began pushing the sheep men farther and farther south each year until in 1859 there was hardly a head of sheep to be found within a hundred miles of Midland.

"The Five Wells ranch was among the first ranches in this country, and as it is popularly supposed it was not named on account of that number of wells being on the ranch. A man by the name of Wells started the ranch who had five daughters, therefore it was called Five Wells.

"The story is told that the Queen Sabo ranch south of town got its name from a stranger asking a Mexican on the ranch what the brand was and the Mexican replied 'Queen Sabo,' meaning 'don't know,' and from then on the ranch was known as the Queen Sabo.

Ed Rountree First Midland Child

"Ed Rountree was the first child born in Midland county of which there is any record. Mamie Ray, now Mrs. John Howard of El Paso, was the first girl born in the community. Harry Tolbert, Newbie Ellis and Lum Daugherty were among the early births in Midland.

"I do know that Newbie Ellis is still living on the same plot where he was born—just too lazy to move, I guess. Lum Daugherty is living in the same house in which he was born and says that he has never been away from Midland longer than nine months at any time and would not have stayed away that long if Uncle Sam had not insisted.

"Among the early settlers still living in Midland are the Tolberts, Rountrees, Rays, Holts, Phillipses, Esteses, Barrons, C. A. Taylors, Klapproths, Wadleys, Edwardeses, Aycocks, Goldsmiths, some of the Cowdens, Arthur Johnson, Mary Lizzie Quinn, Norman Lawrence, Ellis, Colemans, Mrs. Sholto, Wadells, Mrs. Smart, J. V. Stokes and the Youngbloods, and possibly one or two others that I have overlooked.

Cowdens and Scharbauers '85-90

"While the Cowdens and Dublins and some others were pioneer cattlemen they really did not live in the town until along in the '90's. The Scharbauers came to Midland in 1883, but I think that Uncle John Scharbauer had sheep in the section in the earlier days, possibly before almost anyone else lived here, and while he may deny it he was at one time a sheep man.

"Theo. Ray ran the first store and Lizzie Davis was the first post-mistress. J. H. Barron had the first dry goods store and the Grammar house was the first hotel and my father ran the first lumber yard, which was later the Burton-Lingo Lumber Company. C. A. Taylor was possibly the first druggist and Mr. Klapproth was connected with the first saddlery and boot making shop, although I believe this was owned by a man named Goetz who sold it to Mr. Klapproth in the early days. The Lane hotel is almost as old an institution as the town itself and I believe has been housed in four different structures prior to the present one, due to fires.

"Mr. W. W. Dunn, Mrs. Lizzie Quinn's father, was the first hotel man. A. Mr. Worley ran the City hotel, which burned about 1880. He started to rebuild and the old cement foundation down the street toward the depot was as far as the construction ever went. The old foundation has been standing there 35 years or more without anything further having been done on it.

"The first school house was a two-room building located about where Ben Whitefield's home now stands and was later moved to the site of the old brick school building in the north part of town now used as a ward school. It is interesting to know that this building also was built by public subscription; in fact, it seems that the earlier citizens knew very little about bond issues and taxation; however, we of later years have adequately made up for this deficiency on the part of the earlier citizenship.

Baptist Built First Church

"The first church was the Baptist church, located where the Laura Rankin home now stands, and the present inhabitants know and Brother Millican, whom many of the present inhabitants know and love, preached twice a month. The first Methodist church stood about where Perry Bros. Variety Store or Clarence Saunders Grocery now stands.

"For many years Midland was the supply point for a vast territory a hundred or more miles north and south, there being no such towns as Lubbock and Amarillo at that time.

"Although Midland has had its full quota of saloons and gambling establishments in its day it was never as wild and woolly as some of the other western towns. It is true that occasionally a cowboy felt his oats and perhaps what he washed them down with, would attempt to shoot out the lights and shoot down a sign but the law would usually get him corralled, and they all had respect and abided by what Dave Allison said. The first killing in Midland was when George McKenzie killed Ollie Carr. McKenzie was tried and cleared on a self-defense plea.

Fire Called for Fireworks

"I want to say something about the efficiency of the fire department of the early days. This organization consisted of every male citizen over 15 years of age and when a fire broke out every member proceeded to empty his six shooter or shot gun into the air, and it was a small fire indeed that had but a hundred or two shots fired for it.

"The original main street of Midland was a block east of the present business section. One of my earliest recollections is the enormous stock of bones along the right-of-way. These were shipped out of here by the carload and while there may have been buffalo bones among these for the most part they were cattle that had drifted down from the north plain and died of starvation for water there being practically no water this side of the Pecos river. What a fire broke there were had to be dug by hand and belonged to the sheep camps and were carefully guarded.

Drift Fence Came First

"The first wire fence built in this county was a string some 40 or 50 miles long running east and west somewhere to the north, and was built to stop the drift of cattle in the winter, and is what is known as the drift fence. To the Scharbauers, Aycocks, Esteses and Watts and others is the credit due for breeding and building up cattle so to say you never find a longhorn this side of Austin."

After Savings Deflected By New Products He Says

According to H. S. Faw, local Frigidaire dealer, electrical refrigeration engineers have produced products this year that will effect greater savings in the home than ever before.

Electrical refrigeration is now said to be in the investment class. A national slogan of "Invest In An Electrical Refrigerator" is being publicized throughout the United States. The slogan is based on the savings which are said to be accomplished with electrical refrigeration by means of the buying of foods in larger quantities, the elimination of waste by spoilage and the possibility of the American housewife selecting her foodstuffs at the "special" prices offered by many grocers.

The line handled by Mr. Faw is produced by General Motors and is featuring this spring an electrical refrigerator of porcelain-on-steel and bearing a three-year guarantee.

ADVANCED REFRIGERATION

The TOP of every Frigidaire is a porcelain-topped table!

Women with only two hands find the broad, unencumbered top of the Frigidaire a very real blessing a dozen times every day... Food on its way into a Frigidaire and food on its way out need not be juggled, or tipped, or inconveniently parked on the distant kitchen table... the flat expanse of snowy porcelain atop the Frigidaire makes such a perfect serving shelf!... It is an ideal place to put piping-hot things that should be cooled off before they are exposed to low temperatures... a splendid permanent place to keep the few foods that need not be refrigerated... And nothing—hot or cold, smooth or scratchy—can in any way mar the life long lustre of its diamond-hard Porcelain-on-steel finish.

A conveniently flat, unencumbered serving table top is one of the very real advantages of Frigidaire Advanced Refrigeration. There are many others. It is these major improvements, developed by Frigidaire, that have made household refrigeration so healthful, convenient and economical. We invite you to come in and learn all about them.

Cosden Beats Coahoma 1-0

Extra Frame Decides Fray

Mahoney's Twirling of High Type-Potter's Single Ends It

Brand of baseball Big Spring fans are to be afforded by the four City League clubs continued to appear far more interesting than the exhibitions of last year as the Cosden-Flawellen aggregation scrapper through eight frames Wednesday to take the measure of Coahoma 1 to 0.

An extra frame was necessary to decide the case, after the agreed seven innings passed scoreless.
Earnest of Cosden and Mahoney of Coahoma clinched in a mound duel that afforded what cash customers there were plenty for their money.

It was a hard one for Mahoney to lose. He allowed but four hits and only 28 men faced him in seven 2-3 innings. But three men faced him in the first, fourth, fifth and sixth innings and four came up in each of the other four frames.

Mahoney, however, opened the gate for the lone run of the game when he walked Henninger, first up in the eighth. Earnest laid down a sacrifice bunt, advancing Spike Steelman's grounder advanced Henninger. With two down Potter cracked out a single that sent the runner home with the game.

First Inning
Coahoma: Walker grounded out,
Earnest to Potter. Reid and N.
Walker fanned.

Second Inning
Coahoma: Gressett was out, Paul to Potter. Rotten fanned, Mahoney walked and four came up. J. Walker flied out to Martin.

Third Inning
Coahoma: Neel got on when Steelman erred. L. Walker flied to Cran-field. An error by Baker let E. Reid on base. N. Walker struck out and Gressett grounded to Paul.

Fourth Inning
Coahoma: Henninger singled. An error by E. Reid let Earnest on but Henninger was thrown out, N.
Walker to Rotten when Steelman

Fifth Inning
Coahoma: J. Walker and Niel went out. Earnest to Potter. L.
Walker struck out.

Sixth Inning
Coahoma: E. Reid flied to Baker.
N. Walker singled. Gressett flied to Henninger in right field, who threw N. Walker out at first base.

Seventh Inning
Coahoma: Rotten singled. Mahoney sacrificed to Earnest. H.
Reid flied out to Potter. J. Walker walked. Neel flied to Baker.

Eighth Inning
Coahoma: L. Walker flied to Martin. E. Reid singled. N. Walker went out, Baker to Martin. Gressett doubled but Rotten flied out to West.

Ninth Inning
Coahoma: Henninger walked. Earnest's bunt sent him to second. He advanced on Steelman's grounder to Mahoney and scored on Potter's single.

Lady Mary Heath Forfeits Bond On Drunk Charges

WINDSOR, Ont., April 23 (UP)—Lady Mary Heath, famous British aviatrix, failed to appear in magistrate's court here today to face trial on a charge of drunkenness and her bail was declared forfeited. Booked as Mary Heath, she spent six hours in the jail before she was released on bail of $16.50. When she failed to appear Magistrate D. M. Broditt took brief testimony. "She was in a very drunken condition," Constable Alfred Carter, who with another constable made the arrest, testified. That concluded the testimony and the fine and costs were entered against her. Reginald G. Williams, New York, her secretary, who was with her, was arrested too, but subsequently was released without charges being filed. At her hotel room Lady Heath was informed of the forfeiture of her bond. "Honor bright," she said, "I wasn't drunk. Why I wasn't even cheery. It is just a mean dirty old trick."
