The signal, if you want to give, will be a lighted porch-

Thursday evening between 7 and 8, the "Mothers March on Polio" will be conducted, block by block, by members of the local P-TA units.

For the third consecutive year the mothers will make a concerted effort to add substantially to the collection of funds for the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Bill Seals, vice president of the City Council of P-TA, has announced that each unit will be responsible for the collection in its school area, and there will be one woman assigned to each one or two blocks in the area.

The volunteer workers will be identified by small, white plastic banks pinned to their coats and they will stop only where porchlights are burning.

"We hope everyone will make some contribution," Mrs. Seals said, "no matter how small it may be."

Troy Harrell, March of Dimes chairman, said blasts on the fire sirens would signal the start of the "Mothers March."

Many other clubs and individuals are planning benefits and solicitations to aid the drive. Trailers will be shown at all theatres, and at intermissions just before the features, members of various service clubs will make solicitations, according to Cecil Bowles, chairman of that phase of the drive.

Monday night at 7:30 Dr. P. D. O'Brien will show his pictures of the Holy Land with commentary and a collection will be taken, all going to the MOD.

The National Federation of Federal Employees chapter at the VA Hospital will sponsor a benefit bingo party Friday night under the direction of Tolford Durham.

Through the courtesy of R&R Theatres and Dr. M. H. Bennett, Movie Actor Preston Foster and his wife will make a personal appearance Friday night with all proceeds going to the MOD. This probably will be at the old Texan Theatre, but the place will be announced definitely later in the week.

Texas polio toll last year was 3,984 reported cases, greatest in the state's history and almost twice the 1951 toll of 2,060. Of the 254 counties, 201 reported at least one case, according to official State Health Department records.

RECOVERY—The March of Dimes has made it possible for bright-eyed Rosalita Arista, right, to climb trees, play ball and romp with her brother and three sisters. The 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom C. Arista, 404 NW 6th, Rosalita was stricken with polio in the summer of 1951.

HOPE—Ninfa, left, 4-year-old daughter of Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Gabriel D. Yanez of the Elbow community, has come a long way since she was struck down with polio when only 10 months old. Her father then was stationed at Goodfellow AFB in San Angelo, and the Air Force flew her to the Gonzales Warm Springs hospital, where she stayed for 15 months until she learned to walk. She returns there every three months for checkups and treatment. She now walks unaided with her braces and crutches and doctors think she will recover completely by the time she is 17. Her father, who attended Big Spring High School until 1939 and was a Golden Gloves boxer, says the Foundation has spent more than $6,000 on her treatment.

Putting Water On Fire Is Vital, But Fire Prevention Still Wiser

City commissioners have taken action to provide more protective service for the northwest part of the city.

By adding a policeman and making another car available for patrol purposes, it is planned to give the area fairly constant service. The steps were taken in response to appeals from Nigro and Latin-American citizens appearing before the commission and to a knowledge that violence trespass has been increasing in that

This undoubtedly will serve as somewhat of a damper in diminishing those things which violate the peace. This will not, however, get to the roots of the cause, for after all it is like water on

The good people of the area in question realize better than anyone that they face a grave social problem. Perhaps an underlying cause is economic. Contributing are those of race, meagre education, exploitation, insanitation, unemployment of talent or hands, and many others.

Putting water on the fire is important when fire threatens to get out of hand. But this is a costly and not permanently satisfactory means of dealing with the problem. The answers lie deeper. That is one reason that we have felt that increased support of a recreational program, which would serve on a far greater basis than ever dreamed before for that part of our citizenry, would be a good investment.

We recognize that even this will not solve many of the situations, but it is a start. Ultimate progress is going to be dependent upon people of that city-all areas of the city-joining together to dig out the real facts. When symptoms have been pondered and the diagnosis made perhaps we could begin some practical and helpful treatment. We venture that there would be none so eager to put their shoulder to the wheel as the hundreds of solid citizens who live in that area and whose heart bleeds for their

Russians Seek To Destroy U.S. Without Need For Shooting War

The course of events waits upon neither Presidential elections nor inaugurations. The Russians have again seized the initiative in international relations, stirring up troubles for the United States, almost on the very day that President Eisenhower took office. It is characteristic of their maudlin hatred for their benefactor, the United States, that they are today not only conducting a campaign of violence against us in Europe and Asia, but that they should be teasing the new administration into an immediate declaration of

The Eisenhower administration would have preferred to devote its early months. a period that is often called a honeymoon for a new President, to important domestie problems, to the reorganization and streamlining of the executive branch of the government; to adjustments and amendments to the Taft-Hartley law; to a study and a correction of the inflationary economy of the Truman administration; to a consideration of the problem of restoration of sound money; to a reanalysis of the immigration law; to a rectification of the relations between the federal government and the states. All these and other matters require considerable legislative

These are but a few items on the agenda which need urgent Congressional and executive action after 20 years of the New Deal and the Fair Deal. A large number of "emergency" measures, adopted to solve some particular problem in a period of a falling economy, have been continued permanently and have established a creeping Socialism that has burdened our peowith high and inequitable taxation.

In the present mood of our people, the new administration is expected to approach these problems with a new look and a new answer. Eisenhower's Cabinet has been greeted with a marked degree ferent type of personality into government from what we have witnessed during the past 20 years.

But across it all, like a deepening shadow, is the figure of Stalin who wants not war but chaos; whose policy it is to keep our government preoccupied with international relations and the preparation for war. The permanent Russian policy is out a shooting war. In every country on earth, Stalin is now conducting a violent anti-American campaign which is producing a fear psychology that undoes the constructive work that has been accomplished since the end of World War II. This fear psychology develops a political response in "neutralism," in the desire of peoples in nearly all countries, including our closest allies to establish international relations that will not require them to choose between the United States and Soviet Russia, Stalin's immediate objective is to leave us without allies or even friends. His ultimate objective is to destroy the American econo-

Thus far, the Russian has been successful in many phases of this program. Neutralism is growing rapidly. At the recent conference of Socialists in Rangoon, at which many important persons were present from countries which we have aided. opinion was favorable for a "third force."

In these days, ambiguous terms are employed by statesmen to fool the people. What do they mean by a "third force"? It is a phrase that has been milling around for a long time and means, in effect, neutrality between the United States and Soviet Russia. But it means something more than that. It means opposition to both Capitalism and Socialism, to the American way of life and to the Russian way of life. Americans have to recognize the

'third force' concept as anti-American. This is the picture that President Eisenhower faces and it is not too seemly. It involves him in the mazes of international relations which keep our taxes high and our money unstable. It gives him no freedom to reconstruct the federal government, which has fallen into the habit of solving all public questions by Socialistic devices that give the impression of great activity on behalf of the people and end in limiting the opportunities of the people by taxing away their earnings.

The immediate task is to take the initiative away from Stalin. He gained it at Teheran in 1943 and has held it since then. Neither Roosevelt nor Truman nor their Secretaries of State found any means to wrest the initiative from the Russian. If Eisenhower and Dulles can do that, they will have strengthened this country beyond anything else they could do.

Sunday Talk: Warfare In Korea

A reader, Mrs. Josephine Greziak, asks me to write about the Korean war. With her letter she encloses a copy of a letter which an American soldier, Paul F. Schnur Jr., sent to his parents in San Francisco. Private Schnur, a prisoner of the Communists in Korea, made a plea for a quick end to the fighting. He said, in part:

Air battles are being fought over our camp, and we are filled with fear every time the alert is sounded."

It seems to me that almost everyone wants the Korean warfare to be ended. No one likes to think of prisoners having to go through airplane raids.

The fears of United Nations soldiers in the hands of the Communists must have grown after events in camps where our side holds Communist prisoners. Trouble broke out last May on Koje Island when the prisoners seized an American brigameral and kept him captive for days. One month after he was set free, the Koje Island guards shot and 38 of the prisoners. This was followed later in the year by the shooting of

We should keep in mind that the nations on our side of the war in Korea have taken a stand, time and again, against the idea of shooting prisoners. Those in charge of the prison camps have stated that the prisoners were shot because they rebelled, or refused to obey orders.

Whatever the background, our men who are prisoners of the Communists may be in special danger. They had nothing to do with the shootings, but cases are on record of innocent men suffering because events elsewhere.

If another outbreak takes place in a prison camp, perhaps the guards will be directed to use tear gas to suppress the prisoners. Tear gas makes the eyes smart and tears flow, but policemen and prison guards have proved many times that the gas can stop an outbreak without bringing death. If this is done, it may save the lives of Americans and others in Commu nist prison camps.

Bible Words to Live by

JOHN 3:16-"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

I hesitate to suggest my favorite Bible verse. It is a bit as if some one, asked me to name my favorite son or daughter. There are four of them and each has an equal place in my affections. Bible verses are a bit like that to me.

Perhaps John 3:16 stands at the top of the list. No other verse seems to embody so much of the evangel. This verse, sometimes called, 'The Gospel in a Nutshell" certainly is at the heart of the gospel message. God's infinite love His supreme gift to man, His inclusive invitation to eternal life, and His promise of our redemption through Christ, are the basic foundations on which our salvation rests.

It is for these and other reasons that I cherish John 3:16, as containing a gold nugget of spiritual truth of par excellent value.

up a subject for a column:

Wouldn't it surprise the heck out of some people if you took them up on one of those casual phrases of departure, acquaintance you meet in the drug store or chat with on the street. They say "come to see us" when they take leave. Suppose you and the family bundled up, went over there the same night, rang the doorbell rnd announced, "You said come to see us. Here we are." There would be consternation in the ranks.

Speaking of consternation, foreigners are going to be looking for same in Texas, just because a few of those charming Kilgore College Rangerettes reportedly sufferexhaustion up at Ike's inaugural. Shucks, these Rangerettes, as well as all Texans, are tougher than that. That wasn't exhaustion, Those Kilgore kids enjoyed the change in atmosphere in Washington so much that they just dreamed up an excuse to stay a little longer. Texas girls are smarter than anybody.

Why don't we bring this inaugural celebration stuff down to the local level? The hat men should take this up, just after receiving a goodly shipment of Homburgs. No reason why city commissioners and county officials shouldn't parade around town in an open car, Homburgs well perched atop their domes. This would add dignity to the local offices.

> People have been hollering about their gas bills. I asked Mr. Empire Southern about this. He said (a) a rate increase went in the same month the temperature dived, which could have been bad timing; and (b) December had more d.d.d.'s than the average person would think. Upon closer examination, I find that the d.d.d's are not what the average person would think they are, either. They mean degree deficiency days. These are days when the degrees drop to that level when you need to turn on the gas. You can say that December was a warm month because you didn't get congealed by 10-degree weather; but you might have overlooked the fact that on nearly every day, the temperatures dipped to such levels that the gas was burning. Mr. Empire Southern says this is what eats up your fuel while you are all unaware. Personally, I thought the d.d.d's meant this damned dust is driving

Washington Calling-Marguis Childs

What Is Good For GM Is Not Necessarily Good For The Govt.

WASHINGTON-By general agreement one of the ablest men nominated by President Eisenhower to the Defense Department is Robert Ten Broeck Stevens to be secretary of the Army. A successful businessman, Stevens had governmental experience in the early days of the New Deal in Washington and later during Yet, when his nomination came before the Senate Armed Services Committee there appeared to be an insuperable obstacle to his confirmation. He owned, the committee was informed, one-third of the family corporation and that corporation had approximately $125,000,000 in defense contracts.

Stevens made a good impression on the committee. He seemed much more aware of the need of the senators to inquire into his financial relationships than did Charles E. Wilson, designated secretary of Defense, or Roger M. Keyes, to be deputy

A way may be found to confirm these men that will at the same time erase the doubt cast over their fitness to administer the vast spending of the Defense Department, But the controversy illustrates once again the difficulty of finding men sufficiently neuter-neuter in ideas, neuter in career and ownership-to be entrusted with the vast responsibility that the exshoulder. One may see here a reason why increasingly military men, whose careers have been prescribed from the day their higher education begins, are named to touchy top positions.

One thing, however, should be unmistakably clear. Wilson is reported to have said that whatever is good for General Motors is good for the country and vice versa. Now if he meant this in respect to the prosperity of the largest corporation in the country reflecting a general prosperity, it may be true.

But it cannot be said that what is good for General Motors is inevitably good for government. Rightly and properly the ex-ecutives of General Motors are concerned

Stomachs On Hand

NEW YORK US-False stomachs for actors playing paunch, Faistaff-type roles have been developed by a British firm (G. W. Scott & Sons), reports the British Information Service here. The same firm invented the picnic basket in 1852, says with profits for the stockholders of the company. Rightly and properly the men who spend the billions appropriated to the Defense Department must be concerned with getting the most defense that can be bought for each dollar of the taxpayers' money.

These are two quite different functions and to confuse them is to invite a confusion jeopardizing the independence both of government and of business. Extensive documentation of how the interest of profit can conflict with the interest economy in government as provided in extensive hearings conducted by a House subcommittee under the chairmanship of Representative Porter Hardy Jr. of Virginia. Hardy's committee was investigating reports that government methods of purchasing automotive spare parts were resulting in excessive costs of hundreds of millions of dollars. Much of this excess, committee investigators alleged, went as profits to the companies supplying the spare parts.

The group came up with some findings on favors passed out to government procurement officers. These made headlines at the time. But they were not nearly so important as the study of the profit relationship in the spending of government billions. On this score the committee failed to come up with any definite recommendations.

Nevertheless, the 937 pages of printed hearings and documents going into contracts with General Motors, Chrysler, the other big automotive firms and their subsidiaries and suppliers is a revealing textbook on how decisions by government can affect the profit pattern. Committee investigators reported, for example, that in some instances the government was buying spare parts that had been passed along through a chain of three or four companies. Each of these companies was making its profit on the transaction, whereas purchase from the original supplier would eliminate a considerable share of this cumulative profit. In reply others both in industry and government declared that even if some of this profit were unjustified, it would be recovered by the government either through renegotiation or through the excess-profits tax. But the staff experts of the Hardy committee pointed out in rejoinder that in renegotiation of contracts each firm involved in a transaction is allowed a "reasonable profit." "The result," they said in a staff report, "is that all the unnecessary costs and profits are retained by the individual companies and the government does not recover them through renegotiation." This is a small example of the power of decision at the top. It could be multiplied many times over. And each instance illustrates how private and public interests may often be in confict.

--- Where to shop

A HINT TO THE WISE . . . Is sufficient, they say, and for you, my wise readers, I've found some fine buys that I'm sure your better judgment won't let you pess up. We're already looking to a new season, although Old Man Winter probably still has some tricks up his sleeve for us, but with a new season in sight it means a complete turnover in sight it means a complete turnover in the shops and the arrival of bright new merchandise to thrill, the heart of any woman. It's time to start planning a new wardrobe for your home and yourself to meet the Spring in gay attire.

"TASTE MAKES WAIST" . . . when you choose from the smartly styled selection of belts from MI-LADY'S ACCESSORIES. There's no denying they're belts of the finest taste, styled in the finest leathers and fabrics. You'll find wide contour belts in butter smooth leathers of all colors and accented with bold brass buckles and dashing crests . . . luxurious lizard belts, and waist belitting cinch belts . . . fabric stretch belts tri with sparkling jewels and brilliants, for special dress-up occasions . . . all handsome accessories that know no season . . . to ring your waist with flattery.

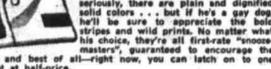

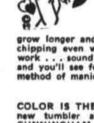

THAT NASTY LITTLE BUG . . . called Flu has certainly been making the rounds lately and letting his presence be known only too well. The lack of hospitality doesn't seem to bother him a bit, and the fact that it just makes you "sick" to be around him hasn't stopped his all too frequent visiting. As a result many people are laid up at home or in the dumps, and a fresh bouquet of bright flowers or a gay potted plant would certainly be a dose of good cheer. Why not send your wishes for a speedy recovery from FAYE'S FLOWERS' complete selection in every floral line . . . It's just what the doctor ordered to mend a morale.
