How come the new Ford rides so smooth and solid?

It's the new inner Ford that gives you a big-car ride at low Ford prices

- Folks just naturally love Ford's lower, sleeker silhouette. And they love Ford's new Thunderbird V-8 and Mileage Maker Six. But the thing that's really got 'em buzzing is Ford's new ride. In the new kind of Ford, vital riding features team up to give you the smoothest going in the whole ride world. For example:
- More weight and length
Head for the roughest road in the new kind of Ford. Notice how the biggest bumps lose their "thump"! One reason is that this biggest, longest, heaviest Ford has the extra "beef" to give a smooth, road-hugging ride.
- Better balance
One of Ford's nicest back-road habits is to make better the rough spots aren't there. Proper weight distribution and precise balancing let Ford iron out bumps for better than many of the higher-priced cars.
- New automatic variable-rate rear springs
Going from a highway to a byway in a Ford, is like going from milk to milk. New design allows Ford's rear springs to "soften" or "stiffen" depending on road conditions. You get a smooth ride all the way!
- New swept-back Ball-Joint front suspension
Ford's new, stronger front suspension is designed to soak up the shock of rough roads. The new swept-back design lets wheels "roll" with the bump and absorb it going away... for far smoother, steadier sailing.
- New lower-pressure tires
Even Ford's tires are new for a better ride! Although they require less air pressure, they hold about 17% more air for cushioning the car. This means a softer ride—without sacrifice of Ford's good handling characteristics.
- More comfortable seating
There's no sag when you sit in a Ford... even on long trips. Comfort-contoured seats, rigidly anchored, have advanced springing for greater comfort and longer life.
- More body insulation
Ford has more body insulation—protection against weather, dust, and noise—than any car in the low-price field. You ride through city traffic in library-like quiet.
- No metal-to-metal chassis and body contact
Only Ford in its field uses 20 Cushion Quiet rubber body mounts... more than any other low-priced car. It adds up to a smoother, quieter riding car.

Try the new kind of ride in the new kind of FORD were posters depicting the story of cotton from farm to mill to consumer; and there were swatches of beautiful finished fabrics. Even the tea table was centered with an unusual dry arrangement, featuring the cotton plant. Tiny cotton sacks served as mint cups and favors.

Mrs. Nelson Porter was leader for the program titled, "Let's Talk Cotton." An impromptu roll call and style show was held. Each lady was allowed one guess as to how many products made from cotton were on the market and was asked to model her cotton dress as her estimate was given. Mrs. W. L. Williams won the contest with her estimate of 10,000 products, and was awarded a miniature bale of cotton. On closer examination the bale of cotton was found to be a white terry cloth towel, cleverly wrapped with bur-lap and bound with black braid.

Mrs. Porter was assisted by Mesdames Cora Hyatt, H. E. Nicholson, Sr., and W. W. Wiley. Mrs. Hyatt gave a comical skit called "Cotton Takes a Holiday." Mrs. Nicholson spoke on, "The World's Most Versatile Fiber." Mrs. Wiley's subject was "Cotton—The Miracle Fabric of Performance."

Homemaking I Girls Prepare Breakfast

Do you like a good breakfast? If so you should have happened by the homemaking department one morning this last week, as the homemaking I girls were having their class. Under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Gordon Whitehead, each of the four girls prepared breakfast for teen-age girls, purchased their groceries, prepared their food, and served this food to four members of the class.

The first breakfast was prepared by Carolyn Laycock, Barbara Kidwell, Georgia Pond and Katherine Underwood. It was a family type breakfast and served on a table in the kitchen.

The second breakfast prepared by Elaine McCasland, Zinna Cole, Donna Caswell, and Ella Richerson, was served in the dining room, carrying out a red and white color scheme.

The third breakfast was to be served to a guest, Mr. Lewis Lancaster, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was chosen as the guest. Four girls, Shirley Hamilton, Patricia Pierce, Phyllis Callan, and Nancy Whitener, prepared and served the breakfast, using family type service.

The girls declare they enjoyed this study of breakfast and realize more fully the value of a good breakfast to a teen-age boy or girl.

SPRING TONIC FOR MALE WARDROBES

Wake up there, fellow! It's "sulphur and molasses" time for your wardrobe.

Even if the spring sun hasn't yet popped through the wintry clouds in your neighborhood, you can give a lift to your winter-weary wardrobe—and your outlook—with some of the new attractive shirts and ties for spring, such as the handsome red-and-gray patterned batiste shirt and restrained red tie on the young man above. And any fellow whose thoughts take the "likely" turn with the coming of spring undoubtedly gives Dan Cupid an assist with the solid front he presents with such a combination, suggests the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Looking over the springtime selection, we find the button-down collar style more popular than ever and available in several varieties. Most are in sturdy oxford cloths that go so well with both dress-up and casual clothes. Pleated-front shirts in white and colors also offer a welcome change-of-pace for spring dress-up wear. Shorter point modified spread collars are fine for business and special occasions.

Subtlety keynotes new neckwear. Planned to coordinate with the new spring patterned suits and shirts, the ties are restrained to prevent creating too busy an effect. Under-the-knot patterns that have most of the design in the area below the knot are great companions for striped and checked shirts, and are equally good mates for whites and solid shades. Stripes in traditional reps are still hot fashion news.

Another bonus of these colorful shirts and handsome ties is the way they can create the illusion of a much larger wardrobe. The suit you've been wearing with white shirts takes on a new look when perked up with a colored or patterned shirt, a beautiful tie, a color-coordinated breast pocket handkerchief or some of the other small but important details that help to brighten up an entire outfit.

Try some of these shirts and ties as a spring tonic for your wardrobe—and your outlook.

KIWANIS NOTES

Joe McGee of Pampa, Bill Eller of Wellington, and Frank Walker local farmer and rancher were the guests at this week's meeting of the Kiwanis Club. This month's inter-club is scheduled for this Friday with the South Amarillo Club. All members who can attend are asked to meet at the north entrance of the courthouse at 10 a.m. Friday.

Frank and Harry Wofford were elected as delegates; Earl Brown and Tom Britt, as alternates to the International Kiwanis Convention at Atlantic City.

Membership drive of the Wheeler Chamber of Commerce to start Monday, March 18, was announced.

Workers were invited to attend the kick-off breakfast at Nora's Cafe at 7:00 a.m.

Thomas Lawrence, principal of Samnorwood Schools, brought a very interesting program on Juvenile vs. Parent Delinquency. He pointed out that the old axiom "Spare the rod and spoil the child" was still true. That the fault was not with the juvenile but with the adult whose footsteps the child followed. In every case of trouble with juveniles he pointed out a corresponding defect with the adult population vitally effecting the youngster. Listing Spiritual neglect, Broken Homes, and Drinking Parents as some of the major causes of delinquency.

NEW SAVINGS BONDS ON SALE

The Treasury announced it has requested Congress to enact to increase the interest rate on new sales of United States Savings Bonds.

The Treasury's request called attention to the role that the Savings Bonds program has played in our national life over the last 22 years, serving to encourage thrift and to place the Government's finances on a sound basis.

The Treasury proposes to increase to 3 1/4 percent the interest rate on new E bonds held to maturity, in place of the present 3 percent. The issue price and face value of the new E bond will be unchanged but present 9 yrs. and 8 months maturity will be shortened to 8 years and 11 months.

Present owners of bonds will find it advantageous to continue holding them. For example, a $100 E bond had a redemption value of $79.20 when held two and a half years. That bond will earn $20.80 more to reach its full $100 value at first maturity, and this $20.80 is slightly more than 3 1/4 percent.

The Treasury offers a revised 10-year Series H bond with yields generally comparable to the new E bond and returning 3 1/4 percent of held to maturity. The new H bond, like the present bond, would pay interest by check each six months.

On passage of the legislation all bonds dated February, 1957 or thereafter would bear the new terms automatically. Since the issue on the bond would determine its terms, no purchaser who received on old form of bond dated February, 1957, or thereafter need feel that he should exchange it for a new bond when it is available.

The E and H Saving Bonds rank among the best investments in the world and offer complete freedom from market fluctuations, guaranteed interest rate over a period of years, the unusual protection of safety against the physical loss or destruction securities.

That mail box on the city corner . . . that post office at the country crossroads . . . what would we do without them?

Life is too complex for us to live by ourselves. Man's interests and his welfare reach far beyond the boundaries of his community. Communication with people and corporations hundreds of miles away is a part of modern living that we take for granted. We have to "keep in touch."

But long before life became so complex, men discovered their need for another kind of communication—prayer. The courage and faith and hope which steel men for the challenge of each day come from God. The deep spiritual needs of the soul can be supplied only by keeping in touch with God.

We think our mail-boxes are indispensable! Even so, one church means more to a community than all its postal facilities. For not so long ago men lived very happily without a postal system. But men have never lived happily without God!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

ERS TAKE PRESS CHECK

of increased efficiency operations during the year are showing up on the County farms as a result of systematic check-ups of operations, Farmers Home Administration supervisors, re-vice in connection with loan funds advanced by the agency are part of each family's agreement with the Farmers Home Administration. The service is known as the year-end analysis.

To enable the farm families to make full and efficient use of their labor and increase their income, careful consideration is given to the adequacy and full utilization of their land, livestock and equipment. When necessary loan funds are provided to attain or develop the needed resources.

Among the improvements planned as a result of farm records recently analyzed in the Wheeler County Farmers Home Administration office are improved systems of farming, soil and water conservation measures, better cropping practices, improved herd management, weed control, and other improved farm and home management practices. A better balance between cash crops and livestock operations is needed in many instances.

Mr. Manning said he and all other county supervisors keep in close touch with the local county agricultural agents, the State College of Agriculture, experiment farms, and the work of other agencies to equip themselves to assist borrowers in taking advantage of the latest developments in agriculture.

ROAD SIGNS IMPORTANT

Ever think of yourself as a foreigner? Well you are, as far as traffic engineers are concerned most of the time you're driving your car. Highway engineers, coldly logical fellows, say a "foreigner" is a motorist traveling on roads or streets with which he is not familiar.

And highway engineers, suspecting that foreigners are causing a lot of automobile accidents, are trying to figure out what to do about it.

For example they reason, a man driving on a road for the first time, has no way of knowing all the dangers of the road as local people do, especially at night. Therefore, the foreigner is more likely to get into an accident than the local folk.

Remember that bad curve on the road you drive on the way to and from work? You know about it, but the motorist who has never traveled your roads doesn't. There is a good chance that he'll be into the curve, off the road and dead before he never knew what happened to him.

Many states are taking a second look at the signs on their roads, because they realize that people driving their roads for the first time are completely dependent on the road signs for warnings of danger. Oregon, for example, has started to make its signs bigger and easier to read, so foreigners won't go speeding along, see too late a turn they wanted to take, jam on their brakes and cause an accident when the car behind can't stop in time.

Some cities are making it easier for motorist to find their way around. They've been putting up big, reflective street name signs that can be seen at night. Motorists driving into Detroit and Chicago at night for the first time will find a lot of these street name signs. So they won't have to crawl along at a few miles an hour, searching for a strange street name, while faster-moving traffic behind them rides practically radiator-to-trunk.

Some states are providing big map-signs of local areas. There are parking spaces in front of the signs, and foreigners—like you and I—can pull off the roads, read the map-signs and find out how to get safely—where we want to go. Discussion of aid for foreigners often leads to heated expressions of opinion, but the kind of foreign aid highway engineers are talking about seems to be something that nobody will quarrel with.

Mrs. Emma Rogers Hostess To H. D. Club

On Tuesday, March 5th, the Briscoe H.D. Club met for the first meeting of the month. Mrs. Emma Rogers was hostess to fourteen members and Miss Crippen.

In the business meeting motion was made and carried, that the club give $5.00 to the co. council for the 4-H round up expense. Motion lost to help sponsor a Bill Mack Show in Shamrock for County H.D. Council treasury.

Another work day was set to work on Briscoe club house, to get it ready for the stucco job. Plans were discussed to take a car load of members to Amarillo, to the District 1, THDA meeting.

Miss Crippen gave a demonstration on building an adequate "clothes line" and its proper location, on the home grounds. Fresh washed clothes sometimes look very pretty, they don't really add to the landscaping. A screening hedge will not only add to the attractiveness of the landscape but will give great protection to the clothes on the lines against wind and dust, she said.

Next meeting will be March 19, when Anna Zybach will be hostess. The Briscoe 4-H girls will give the program.

Those present were: Irene Zybach, Berniece Ramsey, Josie Lee, Lou Dean Douthit, Willeen Walters, Katy Finsterwald, Lajuana Puryear, Effie Renfro, Ruby Zybach, Essie Finsterwald, Vitola Parker, Jane Kiker, Mrs. Leon Fillingim, Miss Crippen and the hostess Emma Rogers.

AREA CAGED LAYER BUSINESS EXPANDING

Two Hereford Poultrymen Grow Cage Layer Replacements

Development of the caged layer business is creating a demand and developing a related phase of the chicken business that is extending the poultry industry of this area.

Two Hereford men are engaged in raising replacement layers and providing local caged layer poultrymen with an available supply. D. W. Maddox and Sylvester Slagle have found great promise in this angle of making this area self-sufficient in egg production.

Presently, Maddox has birds ranging in age from chicks to hens. He sells about 250 cage layers per week. Slagle's installation can care for 1200 birds.

The basis of Maddox's caged layer raising is three electric battery brooders with a capacity for 3000 chicks. In addition, he has six brooding rooms and one caged layer house. The bright future of raising replacement caged layers has caused Maddox to plan an expansion program which will double his present establishment. This program calls for five more brooding houses and additional caged layer space.

Slagle and Maddox started their replacement layer business about a year ago. Slagle's initial installation was one 1200 capacity electric battery brooder. His facilities permit him to market 1200 layers every 14 weeks. Both replacement growers feel that electric power is necessary for profitable brooding.

Maddox cages all layers before they sell and keeps a complete record on the egg production of each hen. These records aid poultrymen in their selection of replacement layers.

Both men agree that there is great promise for raising replacement layers, and that an establishment such as theirs can meet a demand and add much to the local poultry industry.

Maddox aids poultrymen in their selection of replacement layers by maintaining production records which indicates the bird's laying pattern.

Levenson Has Rules For TV Viewing

In the mood for an evening of undisturbed TV entertainment in the relaxing atmosphere of your own home? Well good! Because over 50 million people will be joining you in this favorite American pastime including such illustrious personalities as TV comedian Sam Levenson, currently starring in CBS TV's "Three for the Money". With the jovial humorist TV watching is a ritual and a few rules of preparation are always carefully observed before settling down to the serious business of enjoying TV.

First, appropriate dress . . . that means loose, comfortable clothes, even bedroom slippers for maximum relaxation. Secondly, the "comfort" chair in the house can't be soft enough for the long sit. And thirdly, and perhaps most important, easy-on-the-eyes lighting so the orbs do not become tired and itchy.

"In our house we have become push-button living addicts because we look at TV so much and as a result proper lighting has become almost a fetish," says Sam. "We discovered a wonderful new light control device called Luxtrol and has it been a godsend! Without ever dragging my carcass out of the afore-mentioned softest chair, I dial the amount of light I want from any lamp in the room from full brightness reading, way, way down to the dim atmosphere best suited for TV viewing.

"Frankly, it's kind of fun and like I said we Levensons love that push-button living."

RESEARCH ON ANTIBIOTICS FOR LAYING HENS

An interesting point of scientific study in animal nutrition is the different effects that antibiotics have on different species of livestock and poultry.

The era of "wonder drugs" in feeding was introduced several years ago when it was discovered that the inclusion of antibiotics in balanced rations for hogs, broilers and turkeys brought remarkable increases in production efficiency. Researchers have devoted much study since then to learn if antibiotics will produce similar results with other species of livestock and poultry.

Poultry specialists in the Ralston Company's research department have recently compiled a review of extensive work in colleges and commercial laboratories designed to study the effects of antibiotics on the performance of laying hens. The work studied was carried on in 15 different State Experiment Stations and at the Purina Research Farms. The levels of antibiotics fed in these tests ranged from 10 grams to 200 grams per ton of feed. Results show that laying hens responded in only two out of 13 trials to low level antibiotic feeding, as compared to 12 out of 15 trials where high levels were used.

In one college tests, egg production was increased about 5 per cent by the inclusion of 100 grams of an antibiotic per ton of ration. On the other hand, high level antibiotic feeding in another college test showed little or no advantage in egg production, but mortality was decreased. Results of the Purina tests have followed the general pattern of the college work, showing that in some cases antibiotics resulted in an advantage, while in others it did not.

The principal conclusion emerging from all this work to date is that antibiotics for layers cannot be recommended at this time, except where a disease or stress problem is evident. Then, rations with high level antibiotics may be fed for a short time to help control the disease or stress problem.

Briscoe Students Buy Registered Gilts

Jimmie Haston, the Ag. teacher of Briscoe, and Jack Helton went to Nebraska and Iowa last Tuesday night to buy some registered hogs.

They attended the Iowa Breeders show and sale at Boone, Iowa, March 9th and visited some Nebraska breeders also. Jack purchased two bred Berkshire gilts from Kermit Hougren, of Rathliff, Iowa. One of these gilts was the Reserve Champion gilt of the Breeders show, which they attended and the other placed 4th, in the show.

Jack also bought two more Berkshire bred gilts from Elmer Monson, of Honey "B" Farms in Blair, Nebraska.

They purchased a registered Poland China bred gilt from Walter Busse, of Oakland, Iowa, who is known throughout the north, for his line of breeding. This gilt is for John Abbott of Briscoe.

They arrived back home Sunday night with the hogs.

Oval Pail + Paint = Plantholder

Indoor gardeners who enjoy a touch of greenery about the house like to put their plants in an attractive holder. Here's one made of an Oval Pail that's not only pretty but practical and inexpensive too. Sturdily constructed of Wheeling Steel, it is hand-dipped in pure zinc to prevent leakage and resist rust. Its unique shape fits snugly on narrow windowsills and provides plenty of room to accommodate two or three plants. A coat of paint and a floral design are simple tricks for any do-it-yourselfer. Oval pails are available at hardware and department stores, and retail at approximately $1.50.

a Thursday and a Saturday evening.

Henry and George Breckenridge, cousins who are equally good at spending their allowance, get behind in the rent on their apartment. They are able to make a part payment on their rent to the insistent landlady, Mrs. Lennox, by accepting a telegraphed money order on condition they provide quarters for four days for the two daughters of a friend of Henry's father who was called away unexpectedly.

The young men know they must have a chaperon besides the girls' negro maid; to do this, George must dress up as "Grandma" by borrowing some women's clothes off the clothesline belong to Mrs. Lennox. The girls arrive and are most attractive. Mrs. Lennox misses her clothes and calls in two policemen who are not blessed with a surplus of brains; complications begin, explanations start, and "Grandma" is almost cornered, wearing the stolen goods.

The negro house-boy, not too "brainless" either, brings on plenty of confusion about everything except his need of "Delishus" as his helper and mate. Things finally work out satisfactorily with the prospect of three sets of wedding bells ringing out—or three sets of necks being wrung!
