CWE CHAT WITH EDITOR

By Louis C. Stas

A very wet snow began falling at around 8 a.m. in Wheeler Tuesday morning ending at noon.

— cwe —

The moisture received last week, Friday, was certainly appreciated. The amount measured for Wheeler was 0.83"

— cwe —

We were fortunate in not having received any hail.

— cwe —

Ronal Wayne sent pictures of the hail received at Sherman Friday afternoon after we had left for Huntsville. Piles of hail were washed into the gutters; some stones egg size or larger.

A REMINDER: Your nominations are needed for "Outstanding Man, Woman and Employee for 2011" These individuals will be recognized at the Annual Chamber Banquet on Saturday, February 25.

STORM REPORT

As Reported by...
Stormie Meriwether,
Second Grade Student

Dear Friends,

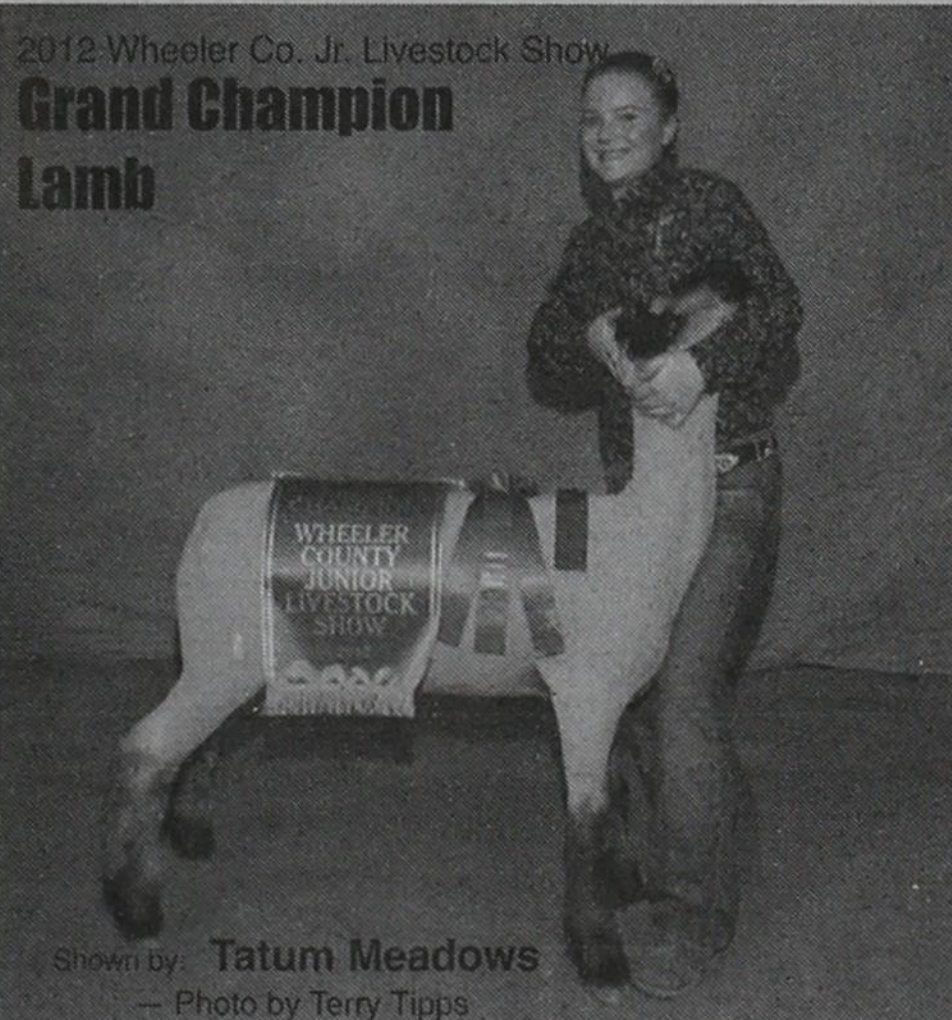

Finally it is a full moon. For my science class I am making a journal of the moon. For some nights it was cloudy, snowy or rainy. You can't see the moon on a cloudy night. Every night the moon gets a little fatter. Now it is so beautiful!

I told my teacher about Alan Bean. He walked on the moon and he was born in Wheeler. I told her we are making a museum for Alan Bean and all the heroes from Wheeler. She said that is very good. I am so happy we will have a museum!

Musical Theatre is great! Our "Annie" show is looking good. We are also working on a skit called "The Lemon Sisters". It is so fun! I am Eloise. I love my part!

I have to tell you this! Sometimes I love to sing songs with my dad. When my mom goes shopping and my dad and I stay in the car, we play the radio on the old songs. We sing and sing. I love to do that! The old songs are very good and I very love to sing them with my dad! That's it.

MOBEETIE NEWS

By Melba Corcoran

Those working Monday at the museum were Suzanne Lohberger, on exhibits and cataloging, Maurita Stribling worked on cataloging and filing, Louise Hogan typed on index cards. Melba Corcoran typed on Cataloging and Donor Cards. Dale Corcoran set up a table for the Black History display. Tuesday, those working were Ada Lester and Suzanne Lohberger on the Black History Exhibit. Louise Hogan worked on typing index cards. Melba Corcoran worked on typing Cataloging and Donor cards. Maurita Stribling filed the Cataloging and Donor cards. Dale Corcoran put a table in storage for the group. Those working Wednesday were Louise Hogan, Maurita Stribling, Suzanne Lohberger and Melba Corcoran. Thursday, Louise Hogan, Maurita Stribling and Melba Corcoran worked. Working at the museum Friday afternoon were Louise Hogan, Maurita Stribling and Melba Corcoran. Several jobs were finished. Working Saturday were Louise Hogan, Gina Seitz and Melba Corcoran.

Maurita Stribling went to Pampa Tuesday to the doctor. She also took the typewriter for the museum to the repairman.

Harry Sims left Wednesday for Phoenix for a roping. Ty was already there.

The museum needs your help. Mobeetie made the Top Ten of places for Channel 10 to visit in 2012. We were trying to get them for the music festival. We need everyone to go to www.newschannel10.com then go to home page to read about us. Vote for Old Mobeetie. Where you vote is under "Contest". Thanks for your help.

Our sympathy goes out to the family of Pat Miller Johnston Stephens who died Wednesday and was buried Thursday. She was one of the first women to join the Navy in World War II. She is survived by her son, Jim Johnston, of Amarillo.

Thursday it was cloudy and sprinkled some. We got over an inch of rain Thursday night.

Dale and Melba Corcoran went to Pampa Friday morning. They tended to several business items. They ran into Kevin and granddaughter, Jessica, at Wal-Mart and got to wish Kevin a belated Happy Birthday. His birthday was Thursday.

Well, last week's news is somewhere in outer space. It was emailed to the news at 8:30 Monday.

Roy Lynn Stribling had laser surgery Tuesday in Florida. He couldn't have it in Oklahoma City because of his insurance. It wouldn't pay in Oklahoma City because they had not done enough of the surgeries, so they are still classifying it as experimental. In Florida, they would pay on it. He is doing fine. He said it was great not to have the pain in his legs.

Suzanne Lohberger called Friday and said she had a little over 3 inches of rain and her roads were bad, so she didn't come to work. We missed her, but didn't think she should drive on the roads.

Joe Darnell has been under the weather all week. He is some better, but is going to a specialist Monday for his breathing.

It was good to see Kade Wilson at church Sunday. I miss seeing him since he graduated and moved to Pampa.

Earl Riley of McLean Nursing Home was in the Parkview Hospital in Wheeler. They are talking about sending him back to McLean and put him under Hospice. Dale went over there Monday to see him. Remember him in your prayers. He is the uncle of Arica Lancaster, Bill Ridgway and Dale Corcoran.

Remember Lillian Chesher of Pampa. She has been diagnosed with cancer and is under treatment now. She is the sister of Virginia Ridgway and grandmother of the Chesher's who live on the old Johnston place north of town.

This is the week for the monthly meeting of the Old Mobeetie Texas Association. Everyone is welcome. It starts at 6:30 p.m. at the Visitor's Center.

Parkview Artery February is Women's Heart Disease Month

Heart Disease in Women

A lot of people think that women do not get heart disease. More women die from heart disease than from anything else. Any woman can get heart disease.

When you think about heart disease, you probably think about chest pain. Women might not have chest pain. If they do, they might call it an achy, tight or "heavy" feeling instead of pain. The pain might even be in the back between the shoulder blades, instead of the chest.

Women might think these signs are no big deal because they don't "sound" like a heart attack. Don't ignore these signs. Go to your doctor or clinic right away.

What are the signs of heart disease in women?

The most important sign is feeling really tired—even if after enough sleep. Other signs of heart disease in women are:

- Trouble breathing
- Trouble sleeping
- Feeling sick to the stomach
- Feeling scared or nervous
- New or worse headaches
- An ache in the chest
- Feeling "heavy" or "tight" in the chest
- A burning feeling in the chest

• Pain in the back, between the shoulders

• Pain or tightness in the chest that spreads to the jaw, neck, shoulders, ear, or the inside of the arms

• Pain in the belly, above the belly button

There is good news: You can take steps to keep your heart healthy.

Don't wait to get help! Go to your doctor or clinic if you have any warning signs. Lower Your Risk of Heart Disease

- Find out if heart disease runs in your family.
- Visit your doctor or clinic often. Find out if you are at risk.
- Don't smoke. Stay away from other people who are smoking.
- Get your blood pressure checked often. You might need medicine to keep it at the right level.
- Control your diabetes.
- Get your cholesterol checked often.
- Stay active. Walking every day can lower your chances of a heart attack.
- Eat right and keep a healthy weight.
- Eat less salt.
- If you take birth control pills, don't smoke.
- Hormones for menopause should not be used to prevent heart attacks.
- Being stressed, angry or sad a lot may add to your risk of heart attack.
- If you've had a heart attack, talk to your doctor about medicine. Some medicines can help cut down the risk of having another heart attack.
- High Blood Pressure
- High blood pressure adds to the chance of having heart disease.
- High blood pressure is called the "silent killer". Most people who have it do not feel sick and don't know that they have it.
- Have your blood pressure checked each time you go to the doctor or clinic.

"Wheeler, town of friendship and pride."

DIRECTORS: Chantelle and Charmayne Hampton served as members of the Wheeler County Jr. Livestock Show Jr. Directors for the 2012 Wheeler Jr. County Livestock Show. Both girls assisted at the county show by passing out ribbons, assisting Livestock Superintendents, and serving at the BBQ and Premium Sale. The twins are members of the Kelton FFA Chapter and both are very active in FFA activities.

Buckus of Wheeler Care Center included her son, Gary Albus, of San Antonio, TX; sister-in-law, Christine Mandrell of Dill City, OK.; and niece, Cindy Smith of Hennessey, OK.

Friday night family visitors to Ovella Young were family members, Levi Fullbright, Riley Fullbright, Kresley Fullbright, Deanna Fullbright, Ovella Fullbright and Denam Fullbright of Shamrock.

Sue Chandler traveled to Oklahoma City for a few days to visit with her mother Mary Dreiling, Uncle John Klyce and Cousin Nancy Shockley. They all had a wonderful time visiting and shopping. Sue then went by the rig to take Brad some supplies he needed before heading home on Monday. Friday she traveled to Amarillo for a visit with daughter Jana and children Janessa and Austin. Saturday Sue's sister Sharon Cook joined them to watch Janessa play a soccer game. They enjoyed eating at Cheddars and then doing a little shopping before heading home.

Sunday at First Baptist Church there was large crowd there for the morning service by Pastor Larry Mitchell. There was a noon meal served in the fellowship hall after the morning service and then after the meal everyone was asked to return to the sanctuary for an early evening service by a guest speaker which was the First Baptist Youth Pastor Marty Field this made it possible for those who wanted to watch the super bowl football game Sunday evening and not have to miss the evening service. The noon meals meat was cooked by Mr. BBQ (Steve Walker) with side dishes and desserts being brought in by everyone for a wonderful potluck meal.

Sunday afternoon on February 5 the Wheeler Care Center 19 residents came out for special music and message provided by the First Baptist Church in Wheeler, TX. Music was provided by Wesley Steen & Leona Coats with Wesley singing a special then a bible study was shared to the residents and a few others in attendance by Buddy Sparks. Also there joining in for the afternoon service were Martha Meek, Claudia Marion, and Sue Chandler. Sunday afternoon I enjoyed getting to visit with Beth Alvey and Sue Chandler.

Audra Weatherly and Reese Forman enjoyed the afternoon baking at Audra's Grandma Sue Chandler's home. Audra was making the cupcakes for a contest between her and her science teacher Mr. Leisher. The girls had lots of fun decorating cupcakes into sunflowers with lady bugs on them as well as making some mini brownie bites for them to take to Audra's home for anyone to enjoy there at the super bowl football game at their home. Reese told Sue that she was so happy she was there because it was fun and learned something new she had not done before. Sunday evening everyone there enjoyed several kinds of meats that had been cooked on the grill, gumbo, salads of all kinds and deserts brought in by different ones that evening for the super bowl football game at the home of Shea and Bridget Weatherly. Shea and a few others were glad the team they had wanted to win won so ended up a great evening for everyone.

A Chat with The Editor

It's time again to vote for the man, woman and teenager who in our opinion has contributed the most for the betterment of the Wheeler Community during 1961. The ballot appears elsewhere in the Times.

MAKIN THE SQUARE: Pete and Bud at the Vanpool-Burton Motor Company have plans to add a showroom onto their building. Construction should start in the next week or so... 3125 bales of cotton have been ginned so far this year...

Girls Win; Boys Lose

Wheeler Mustangettes added another notch in their victory belt Tuesday night as they fumbled their way past McLean 48-37 after they had whipped Canadian 71-56 in the local gym Friday night.

Bill Green racked up eighteen points in a losing cause as the Mustangs bowed to a tall McLean outfit 66-54.

Group Will Sponsor Cotton Day To Be Held January 18 At Allison

The Allison-Briscoe Young Farmers Organization will sponsor a "Cotton Day" January 18. Among other prominent speakers, Quentin Adams of the Paymaster Seed Arms will discuss Cotton Breeding and Cotton Varieties. Other topics to be discussed are Grading of Cotton, New Tests on Cotton Lint and practically every phase of cotton production.

All cotton farmers in Wheeler County are urged to attend the event and help make it one of the most successful 'Cotton Days' for farmers in the state.

Grand Champion Stock Selected At Allison

A large crowd was on hand at Allison January 1 to attend the first Fat Stock Show of the year to be held in Texas. Competition was keen in all classes and there were plenty of entries as members of the Allison and Briscoe F.F.A. chapters and 4-H Clubs exhibited their livestock. More than sixty head of swine were entered and although the entries were down in the calf show, the high quality of the calves was outstanding.

Grand Champion in the swine division went to Lonnie Richardson.

Kelley Miller received Grand Champion in the calf division with his Angus.

"Protecting our rural way of life"

By Mac Thornberry
(R - Clarendon)

Growing up on a family ranch in the Texas Panhandle meant that my brothers and I were expected to help out as best we could. Our father and grandfather worked long hours six days a week, yet there was never enough time to get everything done. From the time we could sit on a horse, we had to pitch in.

We rode horseback to help move cattle. We helped work cattle—branding in the Spring, shipping calves in the Fall. We built and repaired fence. We put out feed. We hoed the weeds out of the cotton field, drove the tractor, and had chores we were responsible for at the house. Much of time, I was probably more trouble than help, but with more experience and maturity, I was able to do more. All of that taught me much more than just how to do the job at hand. In the process I learned something about the value of work.

Of course, the Thornberrys are not unique. Many young men and women growing up in rural America work on farms and ranches and other businesses run by family or by neighbors. They learn how to work, and perhaps gain some useful skills, while earning some money. The farm, ranch, or business gets the benefit of their efforts. But that mutual benefit for many is threatened by—you guessed it—the federal government.

The Department of Labor proposed new regulations last year for farms and other rural businesses that could, among other things, prevent a high school freshman from earning extra money on a farm or helping a neighbor work cattle. The Administration stated that the new proposals were issued to protect teenagers from potentially hazardous work on a farm or ranch. It's true that one needs to be alert and cautious around livestock and machinery. But these regulations will do far more harm than good to rural America.

Among other things, the new rule would prohibit those under age 18 from working at certain businesses, such as grain elevators, feedlots, and livestock auctions. Those under age 16 could not operate power-driven equipment. There is a limited exemption for working on a parent's farm or ranch, but not for grandparents, uncles, neighbors, or others.

The result, of course, will be fewer opportunities for young people, less help for agricultural producers and businesses, and damage to our rural economy. Its consequences will be more than economic, they will be cultural as well. I frequently hear from businesses that move to our area how impressed they are by the work ethic of our people. Fewer opportunities to work mean fewer kids learn how to work.

Of course, I have written to the Department of Labor opposing the regulations. I have cosponsored legislation to stop them. And I will work to prevent any federal funds from being used to enforce them. There are signs recently that the Department of Labor may reconsider some elements. Hopefully one way or another, this rule will be reversed.

But this effort to extend the federal government's control further into agriculture and rural America is yet another instance of government arrogance — the view that Washington bureaucrats know better than we do about how we should lead our lives. We have seen it in health care, in the work place — even with our shower heads and light bulbs.

It must be stopped. Or the America we have all been privileged to grow up in will be altered forever.

There are three extremely happy Wheeler people spending the week in Amarillo at the Fat Stock Show. Richard Sechrist and Terry McCasland, 4-H members, and their sponsor, Bryan Swain. . . as sweet history is being made for Wheeler County! Never before has Wheeler County been able to boast of both Grand Champion and Reserve Champion honors at the Amarillo Show.

Richard Sechrist and Terry McCasland walked away with the top four awards at the Junior Steer Show. Their animals were competing against 250 entries from throughout the golden Spread. The grand champion steer for the entire show was "Poncho", exhibited.
