June 1.20 is the planting date for soybeans if you want to try some this year. They make good hog feed and net profits where water is available is comparable to dryland maize returns.

Etter Field Day: John Shipley tells us they'll have their Experiment Station Field Day at 1 p.m. on May 28. Looks like an interesting program. Folks attending will see plots on weed control, irrigation of wheat, maize and soybeans and wheat variety plots. Those interested in attending, let us know. We plan to make it.

Wheat: We've been a little disappointed in growth of dryland wheat. Some of our wheat varieties seem a little susceptible to rust. Others took a little frost damage resulting in blasted heads. Of course, our greenbugs didn't do us a lot of good. However, our irrigated wheat looks like it's going to turn out real well.
