ranchers attended the 11th Annual Wheeler County Livestock, Crops and Orchard Demonstration Tour Day on Thursday, September 19 1968. A free noon meal prepared by the Kelton PTA and sponsored by the Wheeler and Shamrock Chamber of Commerce and the Farm Bureau was served to those attending. The tour is held annually as a part of the Northwest Texas Demonstration Program through which on-thefarm research is channeled to county farmers and ranch-

The first stop was to see an experimental planting of Kenaf, a plant which is a member of the mallow family of which okra and cotton are members. It grows well where the climate and soil are suitable for cotton. This crop is being evaluated and developed as a source of material for paper pulp in a joint program by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station with the Agricultural Research Service of the USDA. Some six paper companies are actively engaged in Kenaf research at this time. An annual type crop is attractive to the paper industry since it would require less land and could be mechanized. that benefits of the new Housing and Urban Development Act will be channeled into Texas rural areas through the 138 local county offices of the Farmers Home Administration, and through the rural system of Technical Action Panels.

The Farmers Home Administration, a Department of Agriculture supervised credit agency for housing, farming and community facilities, carries on rural housing programs, established by the new act and previous legislation for farmers and for other people in the countryside and in rural towns of up to 5,500 population.

New housing services under the act will include:

*Housing loan interest supplement payments for families with incomes too low to meet in full the amortized loan payments on individual rural housing loans.

*Interest supplements on loans to develop nonprofit rental and cooperative housing for low-income people. *Financial support for "self-help" housing projects for low-income families including grants to nonprofit organizations for the development and supervision of "self-help" housing projects and loans to nonprofit organizations to buy and develop land to be used as building sites.

*Housing and training facilities for rural job trainees and their families. *Expanded housing credit for city people who work in rural areas.

*Loans for the purchase of building sites for farm-labor Mr. Freeman announced that the interest-supplement program for individual borrowers under the Farmers Home Administration authority (Title X of the Act) will be placed in effect immediately. Individual loans may be made for up to 33 years, loans for rental and cooperative housing may be made payable over periods up to 50 years.

program for rural nonprofit rental housing organizations and cooperatives of low-income families will take effect when administrative arrangements are completed. The new provisions for job-trainee and self-help housing assistance will not take effect until funds are appropriated.

The interest-supplement

The interest-supplement plan seeks to put adequate housing within reach of lower income families by reducing their loan or rent payments. The supplement payments will be made by the Federal Government.

A minimum requirement is that a home-ownership borrow er who does not have enough income to pay his loan installemtns in full will pay at least the amount that would be due if the interest rate were one percent. The actual amount that a low-income family will need to pay will depend on its income and the size of the fam-

Freeman said the new Act will facilitate a back-to-the country movement by city dwellers who work in rural areas. They no longer will be required to own rural homesites in order to be eligible for Farmers Home Administration rural housing loans to build hames where they work. They also will now be able to buy an existing home in a rural area.

The Act also eliminates an old provision that any tenant admitted to a Farmers Home Administration-financed rental unit or any new member or a rural housing co-op must already be a rural resident. In the future, low-income city dwellers who work in rural localities may move directly from the city into Farmers Home Administration financed rental or co-op units.

Technical Action Panels, which include top local representatives of USDA agencies that have local offices in rural areas, will help rural communities gain access to all provisions of the new housing legislation that can be adapted for use in small towns

For further information regarding the new housing authorizations of the Farmers Home Administration, please contact Mr. John L. New Marquis. The most dramatically styled car since the Continental Mark III.

You won't see a medium-priced car like this in any other showroom. Marquis has a dramatic elegance, a majestic beauty that only the creators of the Continental Mark III could make. With this styling and the surprising price, you have no excuse to settle for a dull little car.

New Marauder X-100. Now you don't have to sacrifice comfort if you want a sporty road car.

A full-size road car with more thrills per inch than anything that has ever been in our showroom. You get a choice of bench, Twin-Comfort, or bucket seats; styled aluminum wheels, a horn that blows by squeezing the steering wheel rim, a 429-cu. in., 4-barrel V-8 and rakish fender skirts—all standard.

New American Cougar with a continental accent.

Cougar owners will tell you how much fun they are to drive. That hasn't changed. But the looks have. Compare it to the foreign sports cars. Anything the Europeans can do we can do better. Cougar is now available as a convertible. And Cougar continues to be the best-equipped luxury sports car in its class. A big 351-cubic inch V-8 is standard. So are concealed headlamps, sequential rear turn signals and bucket seats.

This is a picture made of a stop on the Farm Demonstration Tour held annually and sponsored by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service in Wheeler County. This stop is on the Morris Pillers farm northwest of Twitty, Texas and is in celebration of the final acre being mapped for completion of the Wheeler county soil survey. Jerald O. Crump, Soil Scientist with the Soil Conservation Service and in charge of the survey is shown near the center of the picture describing the various properties of the soil and how a survey is conducted. Mr. Crump said, "The soil survey will benefit all people in the county." He further stated, "It is an accurate record of where the different kinds of soil are located in the county and tells about the relation of these soils to farming, ranching and engineering. Chemical and physical properties are included that will greatly help in determing solutions for permanent developments such as housing units, pipelines,

CROP RESIDUE

There is an open season for mourning dove in Wheeler county from September 1 through October 30, 1968. This is the season that dealers in shotgun shells delight in. This elusive bird is a real challenge to hunters, especially later in the season when they are coming over "high and fast." There is excellent habitat for dove in Wheeler county this year. There has been excellent weed growth for food and nesting cover. The principal foods for dove are Croton, or dove weed, sunflower, ragweed and grain crops. Forplanning suitable habitat for dove, contact the Soil Conservation Service in Wheeler.

COM BINING AL FAL FA: Bob Taylor is shown as he watched Bill Atherton combine his Alfalfa for seed on his farm just north of Wheeler, Texas. The seed yield was about 300 pounds of clean seed per acre. It was a six year stand of Alfalfa. It has been hayed twice this year with good yields. It is irrigated regularly in accordance with a designed irrigation system. Bob Taylor says "the stand is thinning out but I believe there is at least two years pasture left for hogs."

An arrangement of white gladioli, white mums and greenery interspersed with pink and blue carnations enhanced the altar with two double cut crystal candelabra holding lighted candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, ware a formal gown, empire-styled, of white peau de soie and Alencon lace, designed with a lace bodice featuring a scalloped scooped neckline and long fitted sleeves with petal points over her hands. A small peau de soie bow marked the empire line at the front of the bodice and the floor-length skirt was A-line. A full-blown silk rose and sprays of orange blossoms held her should length veil of English illusion in place and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and white carnations mingled with loops of white satin ribbon and English lvy.

The bride's twin sister, Miss Bonnie Faye Johnston, was her only attendant. She wore a formal turquoise peau de soie gown styled identically to the bridal gown except the sleeves were short and bellshaped. She wore a turquoise veil held in place by a tiny matching color peau de soie pillbox style headpiece and she carried a single long stem American Beauty rose.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Franklin Jaycee Home.

Mrs. Johnston wore for her daughter's wedding, a knit dress styled on simple lines in varying shades of blue to green, a blending blue headveil trimmed in small shaded blue flowers. Black accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage completed her ensemble. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, the bride's parents, received guests with the bridal couple and their attendants. The bride-groom's parents were unable to attend the wedding.

leather, pulverized to a fine

By Brenda Hofmann, CHDA One of the most dramatic elements of the current fashion scene is "the leather look." Everybody - - from babes in bassinets to Golden Agers - - is being offered leather-look garments made of anything from high-grade hides to ground-up leather leftovers to various blends of vinyls and plastics. All they have in common is the leather look: supple, lustrous, opulent and rugged.

warm suds. Since this pro-More than ever, the shopper must depend on informative hangtags and informed sales people to indivate what she men's made of genuine milled is buying and how she should care for it.

One type of fake leather is made entirely of nylon fibers knit into a medium-heavy tricot fabric and is used for trimming as well as for entire garmets. It drapes smoothly, is exceptionally pliable, and had good breathing characteristics that allow air to circulate. Although the fabric itself can take machine laundering, the embossing will suffer from agitation, so washing by hand in warm suds is recommended. The producer refrains from providing labels for consumer use, since washability will depend on its combination with other materials. Hangtags are presumably expected to be supplied by the garmet maker. A second type of fake leather is made of a three-ply sandwich: cotton fabric with a thin foam center and vinyl topping, for a total recipe of 64/36% cotton. This fabric has an unusually leather-like hand, comes in all shades of leather-browns with an antiques, well-cured finish. Since the n an-porous vinyl face does not breathe, it is not comfortable for garments such as slacks or jump suits, but looks handsome in skirts and coats. Suds and water is the cleaning treatment recommended: hand sponging for garments with detailing or gentle machine machine washing for simple garments such as a little girl's A-line jumper. Spots and stains will naturally whisk off of non-porus surfaces easily. This producer provides hangtags that give specific washing instructions. A third type of fake leather consists of a cotton base with polyurethane topping. It will respond to almost any keep-clean technique, though the manufacturer recommends hand-sponging with a sudsy cloth. White vinyl is apt to crack or to loosen from its backing in extreme temperatures of heat and cold, the permanently-attached polyurethane is not affected by temperature changes. The spongy feeling of this material comes from the polyurethane itself, rather than from a separate foam layer and this same sponginess gives it a degree of porosity so that it breathes almost as well as natural leather. It is relatively inexpensive, stain and spot resistant, very pliable - used for mens and womens outerwear, including rainwear, as well as for dresses and skirts. This material is being clearly labeled with characteristics and care instructions. A fourth type of fake leather isn't fake at all: It's made of leftover scraps of real

But do wear at least some fake leather - and get it for your kids. It's tough and it's attractive, it's new and it's fun - andmost of all, it's great fashion.

By Max Hatter, CAA

Cool weather the past week seemed to get the cotton boll weevils on the move. Several farmers have gotten good control with insecticides this year.

Folks over in the Allison vicinity who are zone 5 residents of the State's 185 soil conservation districts have an election date to keep on October 3, 1968. The voters will elect a farmer or ranchman who will serve as their supervisor and representative on the Soil Conservation District Board for the next five years. Time and place for the October 3 balloting is the Allison School at 8 P. M.

A qualified voter is a zone 5 landowner who is over 21 years of age or older. Wives of eligible landowners can vote and should do so since they have an interest in their soil conservation district. Soil Conservation Districts are sub-divisions of the State of Texas and by law are charged with the responsibility of carrying out a soil and wat- ity, color of seed and other er conservation program in their district. Through them such items as technical service, equipment, leadership in small watershed projects and many other services are provided to cooperating land-

If you are a qualified voter we urge you to participate in the October 3rd election because of the great importance of the districts and the supervisors who direct our conservation programs.

There's an old saying that cow men never retire. They seldom get fed up but if they do they just plain quit or settle with their creditors by holding a dispersion sale. A dispersion sale is where the cattle are auctioned off and get disbursed into a lot of other herds. And if they live long enough they may get a chance to go through two or three dispersions as the average life of the average purebred herd is seven years.

Grady Harris dispersal sale at Elk City was quite a success, we understand.

five states. The 152 lots sold averaged $416.00 each and receipts totaled nearly $64,000. Grady was the type of cowman who believed in knowing about weaning weights of gainability, carcass cuttability, rib eye size and performance testing. Fall planting of small grains is now full-steam ahead The importance of using high quality seed of adapted varieties should receive maior attention.

Although the cash outlay for seed is a relatively small part of the total production cost in most crops, decisions on variety selection and source of seed can greatly affect returns. Since certified seed are our principal source of varietal purity in fall seeded crops, you should use the best possible seed of suggested varieties.

There are many varieties of each crop and they differ greatly in their yielding ability, height, disease and insect resistance, date of maturcharactistics. For any individual farm in any particular year there is a variety that will do better than other var-
