Bogey—Uncle Sam has long been scared some smart-guy would come along and snitch Muscle Shoals out from under him.

This was the thought that pushed over the Norris plan for government operation of the big power and atomic plant.

Now officials are seeing bogey men all over again.

A proposal has been made to the Tennessee Valley Authority to use Muscle Shoals power for the manufacture of aluminum. A large amount of power is being sought at a very low rate.

The interest back of this project are making a twin drive on the Public Works Administration for money to finance the aluminum manufacture once they get the power.

The scheme is simply a good business idea with the government in the middle both ways. But the government isn't taking any chances on surface indications. It's investigating carefully.

Whispers—Outside interests are responsible to some extent for this investigation. It has been whispered in official ears that it might just be possible the power trust was seeking in this way to paralyze a large amount of power that would otherwise be sold to municipalities at cheap rates.

Or again, conjecture the nervous outsiders, could the aluminum trust be trying to tie up this power and then not use it, thus eliminating serious competition?

Those who have thought up these possibilities, and they admit frankly they have no evidence of them, are stalling to have the government meet the situation with aluminum manufacture. Then the power plants would be available for the use they needed.

It is a fact that efforts have been made recently to stamper Dr. Harned's (Continued On Page Seven)

Administration Raises Gold Price 18 Cents Per Ounce Second Day Of Buying In Price-Boosting Campaign

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The administration sought increased impetus for its price-boosting campaign Thursday by increasing the price it will pay for newly mined gold by 18 cents per ounce over Wednesday. The White House asserted the increase does not mean necessarily that there will be a daily increase and indicated that so long as the American price keeps ahead of the foreign market level, the point may be reached when it will not be felt necessary to increase the quotation.

Drug Firm Finishes 14th Year

C. W. CUNNINGHAM

SHINE PHILIPS

Shine Phillips began his acquaintance with the drug business thirty years ago, when he had considerably more hair on his head and wore his pants shorter than now.

Throughout those years he has seen more changes in the business than probably occurred in 300 years previously. He recalled them recently in a reminiscence mood while thinking of the fourteenth anniversary of the partnership of C. W. Cunningham and himself.

Here are some of them: Thirty years ago . . . The appendix was a popular pastime.

Women had babies without "Twilight Sleep."

Every unknown disease was congestion of whatever part of the body hurt.

Milk got everybody grown without being pasteurized.

Hay fever was unknown.

Sale Is Announced—With a 1-cent sale introduced through the largest advertising campaign in its history, the widely-known Big Spring drug firm of Cunningham and Phillips begins observance of its 14th Anniversary Friday in all three stores.

The Cunningham and Phillips stores are located in the Settles hotel, the Petroleum building and a 217 Main street, the old No. 1 store in which C. W. Cunningham and Shine Phillips inaugurated their partnership fourteen years ago.

From assets which Shine Phillips said consisted of a 1915 model Dodge car of Cunningham's and a wife and baby girl of his own, the pair have built one of the largest retail drug concerns in West Texas.

They have filled more than 100,000 prescriptions.

Through fourteen years, marked soon after they started in business by an after-the-war depression and by the post-oil-bonanza decline of the past three years Messrs. Cunningham and Phillips have steadily strengthened their position in the drug field and have maintained well-rounded service unusually offered only in the larger cities.

Druggists made their own gas for the fountain out of marble dust and acid.

Doctors used saddle bags, gave lots of medicine and most of their patients got well.

Diphtheria antitoxin was new and shot of it were about half a pint in size, cost $50 and if the diphtheria didn't kill the kid the shot usually did.

There was no tetanus antitoxin. Drug stores smelled like drugs. Druggists rolled their own pills. Druggists made all prescriptions. (Continued On Page Seven)

Chemical Process Company Quarters Unit In Big Spring

Chemical Process company, with home offices in Breckenridge, has established headquarters in Big Spring, at the Crawford hotel, with D. B. Stripling in charge of the local unit.

The concern is engaged in treating oil wells producing from lime formations with chemicals to increase porosity, open up additional channels and thus increase production.

Mr. Stripling said that of 11 wells treated in two weeks since he established headquarters here production of nine had been increased and faults in the wells had a effect upon failure of the other two to show better output. One well increased from nine barrels daily to 51 barrels per hour initial production following the treatment.

Stripling said indications were that demand for treatment of West Texas lime production wells would soon call for two or three more units of 3 to 4 men to work out of Big Spring.

Bruce was sentenced to five years for robbery with firearms. His bride of two weeks, whom he married in jail here the day he accepted his sentence, had gone to McCamey the day after the ceremony, after bidding him goodbye the morning after the wedding.

Thomas Bolt was given five years for robbery of K. Matthes, Odie Hicks was assessed two years for burglary of a railroad caboose.

Facts About Your Chamber Of Commerce

It offers opportunity to business and professional men to discharge debt to community.

The city of Big Spring owes me nothing. If accounts were balanced at this date, I would be the debtor. Haven't I, all these years, lived within the limits of the city and shared all its benefits? Haven't I had the benefit of its schools, churches, and hospitals? Haven't I had the use of its library, parks and public places? Haven't I had the protection of its fire, police and health departments?

Haven't its people, during all this time, been gathering for me, from the four corners of the earth, food for my table, clothing for my body and material for my home? Haven't the city furnished the patronage by which I have succeeded in my profession (or business)? Haven't it been my inspiration, whose kind words have been my cheer and whose helplessness has carried me over my greatest difficulties?

What shall I give in return? Not simply the taxes which cover so small a part of what I have received. I want to give more. I want of my own free will, to give enough so that I can rightfully say "This is my city."

I can do this only by becoming a part of the city, by giving to it generously of myself. In this way only can I, even in small part, pay the great debt I owe to Big Spring, in the Chamber of Commerce. I have my chance, I believe in its work. I am going to keep it—which means helping my town and helping myself.

OIL PRICE-FIXING.

The government has launched upon its first major price-setting experiment since the world war, with announcement of a schedule of crude oil and gasoline prices by Administrator Ickes. During the war the government set a top price on wheat; the new schedule sets a bottom price.

The base of the new government price is $1.10 a barrel, about ten cents above the current open price. Gasoline consumers are expected to pay a cent or two more than current prices when the new schedule goes into effect.

The government, however, has not forgotten the consumer in this new deal. There is a definite price spread between the raw and the finished product. In other words, the ratio of gasoline to crude oil price is fixed. The refiner can exact a higher toll from the consumer only by paying the producer more for his crude. That may be small consolation to the consumer, but the fact that he has the protection of a fixed ratio is something he hasn't enjoyed before.

Meantime, encouraging signs have been visible in the petroleum industry for some weeks. There is every reason to hope that the government's price fixing policy will work satisfactorily to all concern.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
 Washington and Wall Street

Of course it remains to be seen whether the government will be able to make the plan work but it will have the hearty cooperation of a majority in the industry and the sympathetic well-wishes of the general public, which all too often in the past has held the bag.

The comeback of this gigantic industry holds much promise for Texas, the nation's premier oil producer, and for West Texas, which for years has depended largely on petroleum for a large share of its prosperity.

THE TIME ELEMENT.

At this juncture of the recovery effort, the watchword should be patience.

Writing under the heading of "The Element of Time," Charles Benedict says in the Magazine of Wall Street that the failure of prices to maintain their first recovery levels has made people forget the time element. He points out that between March and September prices regained their pre-war level. This was a spectacular advance, but since prices did not go on up 80 per cent higher to the exalted heights of 1928, people have been disappointed and discouraged.

"It must be plain that price movements of magnitude can not be effected overnight and on the upside—or even on the downside," writes Mr. Benedict. He then shows that it took three and one-half years to take the high prices of the boom period. "Therefore," he argues, "an upward climb with its attendant adjustments might be even slower without occasioning surprise nor justifying harsh criticism of the constructive efforts of the present administration, regardless of mistakes."

This impatience is a hangover from the pessimism engendered by three bitter years of disillusionment. We had reached such a depth of pessimism that nothing short of a miracle can shake us out of it. Well, we have had a major miracle in the last few months, but we have been so eager to see results that we have paid little attention to it. We have forgotten the time element. It takes time to get over a broken leg. It takes time to heat back from the pit of depression to the serene level of recovery. Doubtless the broken leg will be mended a good while before we can muster the courage to put our full weight upon it.

Preservation of Southwestern U. To Be Fought For

Members of the school's board of trustees in extraordinary session urged the university's continuance and in a lengthy statement declared its maintenance is the best investment that can be made by

Methodism in Texas

"We trust," the statement continued, "that the annual conferences will unequivocally approve the continuance of the college and take such steps as may be necessary to keep this central institution operating in an increasingly successful way."

The board demanded that "the conferences of Texas really give right of way to Southwestern University for a statewide presentation of the situation in every church of the state."

William E. Orgain of Beaumont was elected chairman of the board to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Sen. W. L. Dean.

Southwestern was established by the Methodist church in 1872 as a co-educational school.

cases? We shall find it, I believe, in one of the characteristic dilemmas of the effort to combine recovery with the New Deal. Broadly speaking it is a fact that American capital investment is largely directed by the Wall Street community. There is no evidence that there is an organized monopoly, but it can hardly be doubted that the main investment market is decisively influenced by the state of mind in Wall Street. This influence is particularly strong at a time like this on the bearish side. When the captains of finance are discouraged or apprehensive their sentiments infect investors, bankers and speculators in all financial centers of the country. Now the captains of finance are discouraged and apprehensive and this, I should suppose, the principal immediate cause of that "emotional paralysis" which the Wall Street Journal describes. But why are they discouraged and apprehensive? Is it because of the NRA or the Securities Act or some of the other measures? My guess is that if the truth were bluntly stated it would be that it is not so much because of any particular measure, but because they feel in Washington a general sense of hostility and distrust which may produce they know not what.

Still speaking bluntly, it is evident that this hostility and distrust do prevail in Washington. Now, the state of mind in Washington also has its causes. They may be summed up by saying that the exposure of certain of the financial practices of the boom, and in conspicuous cases, even of the depression, has caused the hostility and that the lack of adequate financial leadership has caused the distrust. Take, for example, the case of Mr. Wiggin. Surely the head of so great a bank occupies a position of public trust. Yet there is the list of his salaries, bonuses and his pension; if a public official arranged matters for himself in this fashion what would be the general verdict of the community? Can the performance be defended except on the cynical assumption that the standards which must be applied to a great banker who handles the people's money are lower than those which must be applied to a politician?

Now it can be said that ample as was Mr. Wiggin's compensation, the sums involved are relatively small compared with the magnitude of the operations of his bank. Perhaps. But we are examining states of mind. And such disclosures as these, precisely because they are so personal and so dramatic, create hostility and distrust in Congress and in the country toward Wall Street. A government responsible to public opinion is bound not only to offer remedies for such abuses, but, what is more immediately important, to dissociate itself in the public mind from Wall Street.

Therefore, we have had, since March 4, what might be described as a rupture of diplomatic intercourse between Washington and Wall Street.

But while this rupture is maintained, Washington ardently desires to have Wall Street resume the investment business. It is absolutely essential to recovery. This brings us to the real difficulty of the present position. As an essential part of Recovery it must reform finance. As an essential part of Recovery it must reform finance. But how do you reform and revive a financial community with which you will not have anything to do?

It is a stalemate, and I do not see how it can be broken until both Washington and Wall Street make up their minds on matters of fundamental principle, and then act upon their decisions. It is for Washington to decide whether it means to reform private finance or to supplant it. If it means to supplant it, then its present program for the use of government credit is ridiculously inadequate. I do not myself believe that it could be made adequate without an intervening period of suffering too frightful to contemplate, and I do not believe that the Administration either desires a resolution of this sort, or has any mandate for it. But if it is to reform, and not to supplant, private finance, then it becomes of vital importance to disclose the whole scope of the reform and to fix clearly its limits. Private initiative can revive under definite restrictions; it can not revive in an atmosphere of indefinite apprehension. If private finance is to be used as one of the major forces of recovery, the Administration would be cutting off its nose to spite its own face if it failed to say exactly where the New Deal in finance begins and ends.

It is for Wall Street to decide whether, in principle, it will accept the New Deal or resist it. I say in principle, and by acceptance I do not mean signing on the dotted line. I mean loyal determination to attain the objects of the reforms, sincere resolution to maintain the new standards of financial practice. There are ways of testifying to such an attitude of mind.

With a clarification from Washington of what the New Deal means in finance and with a willingness to accept it in principle by Wall Street, one might hope for resumption of diplomatic intercourse and of practical co-operation. That is clearly necessary to overcome the emotional paralysis which has closed ed the capital markets. In the resulting stagnation of investment it is to be found the greatest immediate obstacle to recovery. This brings us to the most dangerous threat not only to Recovery, but in the longer view, to the orderly setting up of the New Deal.

Junior Club Wins Another

Cubby Gardner's Charges Trim Colorado Juniors, 19 To 7

Big Spring may not have a winning Steer club, but her Junior griders are lacing the neighboring elevens in a convincing manner.

Wednesday Coach Cubby Gardner took his Junior High Devils to Colorado against another Junior pack and emerged 19 to 7 victor.

All of the local team looked good in the fray. The initial count came on a 23-yard sprint around right end in the first stanza by Johnny McGeer. Miles Woods converted.

In the second period, McGeer intercepted a pass and galloped 85 yards to again cross the pay-off stripe. In the third frame Chuck Jones went through right guard for 12 yards to score.

The opponent's count came in the final period when a Colorado Arrow went 60 yards on a lateral.

Six Million Homes Aided By Red Cross

Unemployment Relief Added To Disaster Work; Roll Call Here Soon

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief, Chairman John Barto Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic stress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 4,098 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 88 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquakes, floods, hurricanes, fires and other cataclysms visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks 46 disasters occurred in 23 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

The annual Roll Call of the Howard County Chapter of the Red Cross will be held here November 11 to November 30.

Diplomat Of Russia Is Ready For U. S. Trip

MOSCOW (UP).—Maxim Litvinoff, soviet Russia's ace diplomat, is preparing secretly for an early departure for the United States to conduct negotiations for American recognition of the bolshevik government.

News that he and a small staff of secretaries were enroute for France or England to board a United States bound liner was expected at any hour.

Litvinoff, it was learned, had reservations on the liners Ile De France, sailing from Cherbourg Wednesday; the Manhattan, sailing Saturday, and the Bremen and Berengaria sailing November 1.

It appeared likely he would take the Manhattan.

Well informed sources reported that President Roosevelt's letter to President Mikhail Kalinin of the soviet union inviting him to send a negotiator was cabled only last Thursday, though it was dated October 10.

The reason for the specification of the earlier date, it was said, was a desire to avoid creating the impression that his action was due to the subsequent tension in Russian-Japanese relations.

News of prospective approachment between the United States and Russia continued to dominate Wednesday's private discussion. Popular reaction was extraordinarily enthusiastic.

Plans are being made to exchange wild resistant alfalfa seed from Turkestan for high quality American wheat to be planted here.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Ricker and family left Wednesday for San Antonio after a visit with Mrs. W. A. Ricker.

Aggie Football Fate Lies In Scrap Against Baylor Bears On Saturday

COLLEGE STATION—Can they take it? In the reply to this quaint phrase probably lies the answer to the Texas Aggie's football fate during the remainder of the season in general and in their tilt here Saturday with Baylor's Bears in particular. Whether the Aggies can react with their traditionally famous fight after having been "kicked over" by the Texas Christian Frogs, is thus a question that probably will remain unanswered to coaches and fans alike until the Aggie-Bruin tilt is started.

Paper comparisons, seasonal records, player strength and the like indicate that the Aggies and Bears are fairly evenly matched, but such comparisons cannot calculate the mental attitude of the teams concerned, attitude which seemingly means more in Southwest Conference football than physical advantages or disadvantages.

The Aggies supposedly were primed to the tilt for the Horned Frog engagement, and the strain of this, coupled with remembrances of their dismal showing in that game, probably won't do them any good during their preparations for the Bear tilt, unless—and here is the big question mark—they get fighting mad over the result of that tilt and vow vengeance on other teams. The Bears, on the other hand, took the rest cure route the past week-end, winning easily by a 21 to 0 count over the Simmons Cowboys, and should be fresh in mind and body for the game.

Baylor scouts were in the stands for the Aggie-T.C.U. game, and their reports to Coach Morley Jennings, of the Bears, probably carried recommendations to fill the air with passes. But it also is probable that the Cadets in training this week will spend long periods on pass defense—just as they did preceding the T.C.U. contest.

The Aggies came through the Frog tilt with no major injuries so far as is known now, and should be ready with their full strength for the Bears. Odel (Muggins) Fowler, fullback and star punter who did not get into the T.C.U. game, should have recovered sufficiently from a "charley horse" to be ready for service in the Baylor game.

Horned Frog Mentors Faced With Task Of Polishing Club For Foe

FORT WORTH—Coaches Francis Schmidt and Raymond Wolf this week are faced with the difficult task of keeping the Horned Frogs from "letting down" and suffering defeat at the hands of the Centenary Gentlemen in Shreveport.

The Frogs played an inspired game against the Aggies last Saturday. What the coaches want to find out is whether their charges played away over their heads, or whether they merely at last found themselves.

Big Paul Hill, who has been out for three weeks with a broken ankle, appeared Monday without his crutches. He probably will not be in shape to go against Centenary, but he will be back in a uniform for some of the later conference games.

Lee Bauminger, out for two weeks with a bad ankle, will be in shape to play against the Gentlemen. Cy Perkins, who broke his finger in the A. & M. game, will be able to play in spite of that injury.

"I wish they'd all break a finger if it would help them to play like Bud Taylor played against the Aggies," Coach Schmidt observed.

Taylor, the only man to play the full 60 minutes against A. & M., had his left hand in a cast because of a broken finger, but was the outstanding man in the line.

The Frogs and the Gentlemen have not met since 1929 when the Fort Worth boys visited Shreveport and returned home on the long end of a 28-to-0 score. The two teams have not met a single opponent in common this season so there is no material on which to base a comparison of the two squads.

The Gentlemen are generally conceded, on the basis of their record this season, to have a strong team. The Frogs, judged by their showing against A. & M. Saturday, are capable of playing up to the best in the Southwest. In other words, Saturday's tilt ought to be a real battle between two strong teams.

The entire T.C.U. student body, accompanied by the 50-piece Horned Frog Band, will follow the team to Shreveport. Special trains will leave Fort Worth at 6:30 a. m. Saturday. Probably 1200 students and fans will make the trip.

Tech Vies With State University In Attracting Big Spring Students

Texas Tech vies with Texas University in attracting Big Spring students.

Thirteen local high school graduates are now enrolled in the Lubbock school and are prominent in various departments as well as in extra-curricula activities.

J. H. Smith, who is majoring in government while taking pre-law work and who is second lieutenant in the cadet corps, has compiled a list of Big Spring students and their activities:

There is only one senior in Tech from here. He is James L. Rippe, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rippe. A chemical engineering major, he is a member of American Association for Electrical Engineers, a corporal in the Texas National Guard and prominent in young people's work of the Episcopal church.

Juniors are Miss Frances Douglass, George B. Long, Miss Elwyn Walling and Miss Catherine Lougbridge. Miss Douglass is a chemistry major and a member of the College Club. Long majors in government and business, is assistant business manager of La Ventana, member of Debating Club, Pre-Law Club and International Relations Club.

Miss Walling specializes in education and Bible and is prominent in young people's work in a Baptist church. Miss Lougbridge is a foods major.

Sophomores other than Smith are Frankie Cook, major in English and Methodist worker, W. J. Crawford, Jr., economics student, Dora Belle Crawford, major in domestic goods and Mary Gene Dlubberly, foods major, secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class and member of the College Woman's Society and Ladies' Forum.

First year students and their activities are: Jane Tinsley, business administration; Ralph Eugene Linck, business and first lieutenant in the cadet corps; R. V. Jones, architecture and a member of the Young People's Service League.

Members of the Kiwanis club are reminded by Carl Blomshield that they are to meet with Boy Scout Troop No. 3 at the Methodist church this afternoon at 6 o'clock to take the boys on a Halloween Jamboree at the City Park. Kiwanis Club sponsors Troop No. 3.

Chesty Cats Expect Easy Going Here

Kittens Be Chagrined If They Fail In Three Touchdown Margin

SAN ANGELO—It looks like Tom Gregg might be a tackle. Anyhow, Coach Harry Taylor contemplates starting the burly end at tackle against Big Spring at Big Spring in the district 3 football game Saturday with Eakew plugging in at Gregg's wing position.

The Bobcats, rated by many of the dopsters as top dogs but declared not so long ago by Obie Bristow, Big Spring coach, the under-dogs, regardless of recent statements, go into the fray in comparatively fair condition. The fair condition description is given as covering the fact that Jack Springer, tackle out last week in the Winters game, and Alonzo Turn, guard injured in an auto turnover, are not in the best of shape. Both are expected to be ready to function Saturday, but it is doubtful Taylor will start either. It is likely Shots will open at Turn's guard slot. If that likely it is possible. As said, Gregg probably will start at tackle, the tackle job originally claimed by Springer.

The Bobcats burst through a rough scrimmage session Monday. The going was somewhat easier Tuesday. They are looking somewhat alive. There are no better hustlers, for instance, than Reid, Tucker and Waggon in the backfield along with fellows like Smith and Castello in the line. Fact of the matter, this week it looks like the whole club is a pretty good set of hustlers.

The Bobcats will feel chagrined if they don't beat Bristow (Bristow is the guy there after, more so than the Big Spring team) by three touchdowns.

Taylor is taking the boys to Big Spring Friday morning. They are to work out in Big Spring Friday afternoon.

San Angelo's starting array probably will be Smith and Eakew, ends; Raiborn and Gregg, tackles; Shots and Unger, guards; Castello, center; Reid, quarterback; Waggon and Tucker, halfbacks; Hays, fullback.

Steers Prime For Battle With Bobcats

First Title Wrangle Due

Coaches Shift Players As Time Draws To Battle

Big Spring's young grid hopefuls have buckled down to serious business the past few days and are giving their utmost in practice each evening for a long wanted victory over the San Angelo Bobcats.

For months the Steer mentors have laid plans to give the Concho team a trouncing, only to have the injury jinx spike the hopes to a certain extent just a short time before the battle. Last year's aggregation of gridlers probably played one of the best seasons for the Steers considering material available, yet the '33 team ranks on top in fight and determination.

In any game of life, fight and determination to win often brings the least favored to top position. That's the picture of the local team, just a group of youngsters hustling to win a starting berth and beat Angelo. Every player is anxious to see duty Saturday, and each boy is willing to give the best in him.

Several juggling acts were performed Wednesday to fill in weak spots caused by injuries and make a better balanced squad. Bobby Mills, a recruit from last year's Devil team, was shifted from an end slot to halfback on offense. The veteran Bob Flowers will play offensive end and defensive half. James Vines, a brother of the stellar Charley, was lifted from the second team to a first string guard berth.

Bristow and Brown will make use of a fairly strong line to keep the lightning-like and shifty Reid as well as the hefty Curly Hays. The backfield won't be any too good but may surprise the coaches. Hays, who has displayed some fair tactics this season, will handle the fullback post. Cauble and Mills will do halfback duty with Satterwhite at quarter. None of the aforementioned gentls have any too much experience on their records.

Bristow's flashy, but light-weight back, George Neel, may be worked into the line-up during the game. Neel has been on the bench most of the season with a weak leg that gives trouble on the least jolt.

The Bovine's offense won't likely be anything to brag about. It'll take a lucky break to give the locals a chance to count against the Concho foe. But Brown will have a line that should stop Taylor's rushing backs. Spectators will probably see the Steers launch a passing attack coupled with plenty of laterals.

Mr. Hoover is a smart man, indeed. School authorities have foreseen the hundreds or rather thousands of fans that will try to see the scrap Saturday and are having extra bleachers erected around the field. Seats to accommodate about five hundred are being constructed under the supervision of Bill Olsen and will remain up the remainder of the current season.

It remained for Supt. Blankenship to give out the latest dope on golfing. Blankenship was struck with the golfing fever rather suddenly and has progressed at a very slow rate. For game after game the rotund, jovial prof. shot way above par. Tuesday he made the rounds with nothing but a driver and made his best score. He played several holes with the driver and tabbed only one above par.

Several in-door baseball fans have broached the subject of a city league. The game is popular here and should be a success. Let's have your opinions.

upon legal questions involved. "The purpose of the tax is detrimental to the general public welfare," observed Judge H. B. Short, presiding over section B of the commission of appeals.

Referring to the San Antonio case, he said municipal advertising was "calculated to create in the minds of the people living outside the city of San Antonio . . . dissatisfaction with their present home and environment and to lead them into the mistaken idea that their condition would be bettered by leaving their former home and going to San Antonio.

"The people ought not to be disturbed in their mental attitude toward their home by misleading and flaming statements that some other part of the earth is to be preferred as a residence or place of business."

tax, for municipal advertising. Both cities had acted under home rule charters, neither of which specifically authorized the tax levy.

The San Antonio district court held the tax invalid, while the Taylor district judge held it valid. Appellate courts in San Antonio and Austin upheld the taxes. The supreme court's commission of appeals differed in opinions and requested the court proper to pass

The Daily Sport Mill

By Tom Beasley

Some gent signing himself C. U. Atgate, has mailed in one of the world's best cracks at Blondy Cross of San Angelo. Just who this Atgate fellow is, we aren't sure, but he doesn't seem to think so much of the Concho scribe.

His letter:

Dear Tom:

"I see where that guy Blondy Cross, the big toreador over San Angelo way, is in the sycopathic ward for observation. They caught him trying to re-tail cats down on the Concho.

"Don't let that name 'Blondy' mislead you, Tom, as he is decidedly brunette, deep in his heart, over the outcome of his fallow Kittens when they meet the Steer second string over here in our own cow lot Saturday.

"Anything you say about him will be O. K. He won't be over here even if they turn him loose, as he wrenched his hitch-hiking thumb opening a jar of giggle soup after their victory over some anemic 'E' outfit last week. Altho some say it was caused by thumbing his nose at an old lady who was cheering for her grandson on the Winter's team.

"Your old friend,

"C. U. ATGATE."

We can credit the writer of the missile with a marvelous sense of humor. And the letter reminds us of some very humorous attacks floating around referring to the coming tussle. The stickers read: "Tame Taylor's Tailless Tommie."

Characters Are Named For "Funny Forty-Two" Party

Men are such flatterers that women seldom know exactly what they do think. The Birdie Bailey M. S. of the First Methodist church has decided to find out the truth. The society is giving the men a chance Friday evening to give their honest opinions of the women they know well, when they put on the funny womanless 42 party in the church basement at 7:30.

It is being rumored that the men are taking to this with great enthusiasm. It is an opportunity of a life-time and they intend to make the most of it.

The Birdie Baileys invited the women of the town to come out and see what the Methodist brethren think of their Methodist sisters.

The list of men taking part has been somewhat revised since the beginning. It will include: Slim O'Neal Jr. and Lane Hudson as daughters of the hostesses; Horace Penn, Jr. Tilman Crane, John Vantage and Pele Butt who will be the three hostesses and Alice Joy in a quartet; and the following who will take off the women: Messrs. Ray Cantrill, Horace Penn, Sr., S. P. Jones, G. S. True, H. C. Porter, Harry Lester, Slim O'Neal, Sr., O. R. Bolinger, Garland Woodward, J. L. East Ward Carnival To Be Staged Friday

The East Ward P. T. A. has completed its plans for a Halloween Carnival to be given Friday evening in the large building previously used as a Baptist tabernacle at 207 Goliad street.

No admission into the building will be charged. A stringless orchestra will furnish the music throughout the entire evening.

Many interesting booths are being arranged. Among them will be: "Kiddies' Playground", which includes many games and contests for children; "Kisses for Sale", "For Men Only", "Paradise on Earth", and "Fishing Pond."

Other interesting features will be a bean-guessing contest and an old-time Gypsy fortune-teller.

His tables will be arranged for 42 and five cents charged to play. Every twenty minutes there will be a floor show which will include many capable artists.

Cake, pie, hot chocolate, peanuts and popcorn will be for sale at a charge of five cents each. All the booths and contests will be a nickel.

There is very urgent need for playground equipment at the East Ward school. The proceeds from this carnival will be used to buy the equipment.

The honoree was under the impression she was to spend a quiet afternoon at the home of the hostess and was surprised when led into a room where all the guests were seated around a beautiful snow white stork, standing guard over a lovely pink and blue basket piled high with gifts for the honoree.

Clever entertainment followed. Color scheme of pink and blue was carried out in all details. Favors were blue mints bundled in the familiar "triangle" supported by safety pins.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, and nuts and coffee were served to Mmes. Mac McCrary, E. A. Young, J. H. Stewart, J. R. Luton, Jack Nall, H. C. State-Wide Theft Ring Uncovered By Rangers May Cause Indictment Of Men With Official Connections

More Than Twenty-Five Placed In Widely Separated North Texas Jails As Result Of Quiet Investigation By Five Men Of State Force

DALLAS, (UP)—A quiet investigation started in North Texas more than a month ago, by five close-knit and relentless state Rangers appeared likely to result in grand jury indictments and the sensational expose of a state-wide ring of merchandise hi-jackers and fences with political and official ramifications.

More than 25 men have been placed in widely separated North Texas jails, it was revealed, to prevent knowledge of the investigation leaking out to leaders of the ring, whose headquarters, Rangers said, are in Dallas and Fort Worth.

Ranger Sergeant Joe Osoba, in charge of the investigation, said North Texas "seems to be a little Chicago in merchandise hi-jacking" and added that "in Dallas alone more than $100,000 worth of merchandise either has been stolen or handled in the past year."

With Osoba in the investigation, ordered by Adjt. Gen. Henry Hutcheson following requests from North Texas business leaders, are Rangers Joe Branon, F. A. Craven, W. R. Todd and H. Graves.

"Most of the thefts were of general merchandise taken from railway cars and goods stolen from hi-jacked freight trucks or taken from stores," Osoba said.

The ring operated with Dallas and Fort Worth as headquarters and extended its operations as far south as Houston, and North to Kansas City and East St. Louis to dispose of stolen merchandise.

"Most of the persons, among them gangsters and fences, are in jail at Dallas, Waxahachie, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Hillsboro, Austin and other cities, Osoba said. Their separation was to keep cooperating attorneys from effecting their release and to prevent the alarm from spreading to others in the ring, the Ranger said.

News of the Rangers' activities did leak out, however, and immediately "attorneys, politicians and wire pullers" went to Austin to demand the removal of the officers from North Texas, Osoba said.

The investigation was started when a truck stolen at Houston, containing $8,800 in merchandise, was hi-jacked from the thieves by members of the ring. The Rangers said the truck was stored on a farm near Dallas who had rented an outbuilding for the purpose. Later men posing as officers held the farm family up and removed the goods from the truck.

Since then the investigation was broadened until the ring's activities, concentrated in North Texas, were discovered to extend over most of the state, the officers disclosed.

Prominently mentioned in some of the statements taken by assistant District Attorney Henry Tiry, working with the Rangers, was Dago Seay, recently sent to prison from Liberty county for hi-jacking merchandise shipments, a man recently released from jail here under $10,000 bond in connection with a robbery with firearms charge, and other characters well known in Dallas and Fort Worth.

Her husband, with whom she had fallen in love at the university, immediately appealed the case and she was sent back for another trial. The court was unable to get a jury for the second trial and the case was re-transferred to New Braunfels. That trial resulted in a hung jury, 10 to 2 for acquittal.

An arson charge filed against her at Round Rock previously had been dropped. The state had charged she set fire to a building there to distract attention before a bank robbery attempt there. She was never identified in the case and her name eventually was cleared.

Mrs. Rogers left school when she was accused and became a housewife. She and her husband returned here in 1929 on a dreary here.

Her trial was set for February, 1927. Meanwhile, Otis Rogers came to Austin from Lubbock and announced he and Miss Bradley had been married secretly. He took over the defense.

The first trial at Austin was transferred to LaGrange after it was impossible to select a jury at Austin. In the LaGrange trial she was given a 14 year sentence.

The game will determine which team holds on to a mathematical chance at the Texas Conference title. Both have been defeated by the league-leading St. Edwards Tigers.

A travel-weary Cowboy team returned to Abilene Sunday after the Baylor game in fair condition. The Waco trip was the fifth of the year for the Simmons lads. For The Love of Eve by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XLV

With new energy Eve plunged into her work after she learned that she was to take charge of the department when Barnes left for Chicago. She put more enthusiasm into all her tasks, driving herself relentlessly.

Easter Sunday arrived and Eve had Mrs. Penney as her guest for the day. She found the little widow's companionship restful. Mrs. Penney was always poised and untroubled, no matter what happened. Eve felt that she drew strength from this friendship.

They attended church together, dined at an attractive restaurant, and then strolled along the avenue in the afternoon sunshine. They watched the Easter promenade and it was to them more than a popular diversion. They looked at the smartly dressed men and women not because they admired their attractive costumes but because this parade of new finery was a measure of the success of Bixby's advertising campaign as well as the advertising of other stores.

At last it was twilight and they were having tea in Eve's apartment. The telephone bell rang and the voice of Marya's mother came over the wire to Eve.

She turned to Mrs. Penney with the announcement, "Marya has a baby! Marya is the lovely little artist who was the store before her name. How like her to have a baby girl on Easter Sunday! Somehow I believe Madonna illness would always make me think of Marya even if she had not been an Easter bride."

Marya's friends at Bixby's were delighted with the news. One of the girls exclaimed, "Now she has everything!" And so it seemed to Arlene and Eve when they went to see Marya and her little daughter. The baby's name was to be Carol. Marya regarded the tiny infant with pride and tenderness and then smiled serenely at her old friends.

"Yes, Marya does seem to have everything now!" Arlene said on the way home. "But she is so sweet and unselfish that you want her to have all the good things in life—a lovely home, a devoted husband and a beautiful child. And she still keeps up her interests in art. She managed to accomplish quite a lot last year. You consider a career very important, don't you, Eve?"

"Yes," answered Eve simply. "Well, Arlene came back unexpectedly, 'I don't. Not for a woman after marriage, I mean. Before that, yes. Haven't help a girl if the monopoly sets in too soon! Figure it's good for all of us to learn how the almighty dollar is earned. Then it seems to me that a girl who has worked several years before marriage is inclined to take things in their natural order. I mean she's not so likely to make a fool of herself trying to do the teen-age things in her thirties. I know that when I marry I'm going to enjoy my home, jars of jam on the cellar shelves and little boys to eat it!"

That was a long speech for Arlene but she had not yet finished. "No, Eve," she went on, "when I am married Bixby can just call up some business school and give another beginner a chance. That's how they found me, you know. Barnes said he preferred a beginner he could train to someone with more experience who might have methods. And I was the shining light the school sent him!"

They had reached the transfer point and Eve rose to leave the car. "Goodbye" called Arlene gaily. "See you in the morning."

Spring was once more working her magic on a dreary world but Eve failed to respond to the new season. Tired when she awakened in the morning, she dragged herself through each day until, at an early hour, she went weary to bed. But even long nights of rest failed to refresh her and at last, after constant urging, she permitted Arlene to take her to consult Dr. Sharpe. The doctor, after lengthy questioning, gave Eve a light tonic and a heavy dose of advice.

"You are pining away for that husband of yours," he told her. "The sacrifice you are making is scarcely worth while. Long after you are gone Bixby's store will still be in existence for no one person is ever indispensable to a business. If you really care for your future health and happiness I think you should make a trip to Pine Forest now. That's a most attractive place at any time of the year but in the spring it should be nothing short of paradise."

That day Eve asked to have her vacation the last week of April instead of late in the summer. Barnes, whose capable mind adjusted itself quickly to emergencies, gave this consent. His decision made, he notified Mr. Bixby that Eve would be ready to take charge of the advertising department June first with no break in the summer's program. This plan seemed to please Mr. Bixby who was secretly a little worried over Barnes' impending departure.

But later when Eve was alone in her apartment away from those who were trying to influence her to go to Dick she lost her courage. Almost four months had elapsed since she had received a letter from him. If she wrote now, might he not ignore it? There was no other place she wanted to go for her vacation. She felt also that before she took charge of the department she would have some definite understanding with Dick about the future. She decided at last to tell no one but her mother and Arlene where she was going. If she changed her mind before she arrived at Pine Forest no one would be the wiser. If she acted on Dr. Sharpe's advice she would surprise Dick. How long she should remain would depend on her reception.

Arlene and Sam took Eve to the train Saturday evening and Sam congratulated her on her promotion. "To become advertising manager of Bixby's would be quite a feather in anyone's cap," he declared. "Barnes has done a fine piece of work there and has attracted wide attention by it. It's no wonder he has his new offer but really it's a fine break for anyone to take up his work here."

Eve felt the importance of her promotion too but just then she was nervous-sick and weary. Two weeks at Pine Forest with Dick should set her up and give her fresh enthusiasm with which to undertake the responsibilities ahead.

Usually she rested well in a Pullman but that night Eve tossed and turned for hours. Finally, toward morning, she dropped off into sleep. In the meantime the car in which she rode was detached from the eastbound train and coupled to the mail train going north. Eve awakened suddenly as hastily-applied airbrakes brought the train to an abrupt and groaning halt.

"Hey! What's the matter?" yelled a fellow passenger. "Nothing" at all, said the porter. "Jen" a tee that fell across the track and the engineer had to stop kinda sudden-like."

"Sudden is right!" growled the man across the aisle. "Thought the whole damned train had stumbled and fallen down."

After that Eve remained awake and watched the day break in the mountains. She had noticed immediately the invigorating air which filtered through the window opening.

There was little to indicate that they were approaching the village of Pine Forest. Seemingly endless woods were broken only by clear lakes. Here and there Eve caught a glimpse of summer cottages with windows and doors boarded up. Almost without warning the conductor was calling out "Pine Forest" and Eve found herself being helped down into a little frame station. There were five or six men loitering about. Eve waited for the agent stationmaster to finish exchanging gossip and disposing of the Sunday papers. Then she asked for a taxi to take her to Mrs. Williams' boarding house.

Sitting in the quivering old touring car, Eve grew more nervous with every moment that brought her nearer her destination. How would Dick greet her?

Under The Dome

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN, (UP)—When Will Rogers brought the Governors Ferguson and Amon Carter, Fort Worth publisher, to amity, he healed a breach that far antedated the snub received by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson when she went to Dallas to greet Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and was not invited to the breakfast arranged by Carter.

The enmity dates back to Thanksgiving Day, 1925, when Texas A & M College cadets defeated the University of Texas, 28 to 0, at Kyle field.

The Fergusons occupied a box at the game with President T. O. Walton of Texas A & M. Carter had a seat near the governor.

At that time there was much turmoil over highway contracts let by the highway commission appointed by Mrs. Ferguson. Attorney General Dan Moody, who had attacked the contracts in court, was being mentioned as a possible candidate against Mrs. Ferguson.

As Carter's enthusiasm at the game rose, he cheered for Dan Moody and unctuously mentioned highway contracts.

President Walton cautioned Carter. The upshot was Carter was escorted from proximity of the governor's box by a colonel on her staff.

Carter explained he had meant no discourtesy to the governor. She called his conduct disgraceful and sought his resignation from presidency of the board of Texas Technological College. Carter declined and defied her to remove him.

He became one of the chief supporters of Dan Moody in the campaign in which Mrs. Ferguson was defeated. When he broke later with Moody, he did not align himself with the Fergusons.

At Austin

Frank Scofield of Hillsboro and Frank Bushick, finance commissioner of San Antonio, have also been mentioned in connection with the post vacated by Collector Walker's death.

Scofield originally was the chief sineer of the Traylor-for-president campaign in Texas. They had once been fellow townsmen. This Traylor advocacy is not likely to hurt Scofield's chances for he worked just as assiduously for Roosevelt and Garner after the ticket was named at Chicago. He was an active leader in the campaign for finance.

Senator Tom Connally may find it advisable to put in a good word for Bushick. With his own senatorial race coming up soon, Connally wants to cement his peace recently made with Bexar county party leaders. They had been offended at what they thought was Connally's unwarranted interference in the selection of the United States District Attorney for their district.

Securities

The latest on the Securities Act is that it will be used to further industrial planning. This could be done by a policy of not allowing flotations, even though sound in the security sense, if they tended to over-expand production facilities. Landis is known to be sympathetic to this development.

Wall Street says they better make it possible to float issues before they start talking about blocking them. Neither side has yielded an inch yet in that debate. The old-timers still think they can get some where.

There is some agitation to bring municipal bonds within the scope of the Act. They have caused investors as much grief as any other type. But congressional opposition may be too strong.

Squeeze Play

It now appears that Mr. Roosevelt not only has come around to the Kingfish's line of reasoning but has left him trailing.

Very drastic taxes on the higher brackets are going to be recommended to the next session. Movie stars and executives whose terrific wages were brought under the microscope in the NRA code hearings, and big business men of Wall Street, whose $100,000 pittance were disclosed by the Pecora investigation, will feel the squeeze-along with others.

The Federal Trade Commission questionnaire to 2,000 corporations was designed to get the boys and girls on record so there won't be any phengaling with the tax forms are filled out.

Coal

Washington hears that when the anthracite industry finally gets around to submitting a code a new deputy administrator for NRA will be introduced to handle it.

It is reported on good authority that General Johnson will ask Stephen Raushenbush to deal with the hard coal boys.

Raushenbush at present is Director of Industrial Relations for Pennsylvania where all the big anthracite mines are located. Formerly he was secretary of Senator Norris' committee that dipped into coal and power.

With such a background he should know the ropes.

Baruch

Barney Baruch's sudden evaporation into thin air is giving the politically-minded a choice topic for small talk these days.

You may remember how the financier came down to Washington while the President was away and installed himself in Prof. Ray Moley's office as king for a day.

The cry "unofficial President" promptly drove him back to New York. From there he sailed for Europe.

Baruch returned from aboard without so much as a ship-news interview.

Then he dropped completely from the public eye until the other day when Will Rogers disclosed he was in California.

Is he dodging the increasingly acute situation in Washington? Or is it the New York Mayorality fight? Purely incidental table conversation but very active.

Notes

Since Secretary Ickes invoked his regulations fixing oil prices and controlling production, western papers in certain sections have been filled with rather uncomplimentary headlines. One read: "Acts of God to Continue Despite Ickes"; another said, "Mountain (apparently) bursting with oil! Refuses to Obey Ickes"; George F. Getz, Chicago coal man just named Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, supported Al Smith in 1928 with a large slice of his personal funds. He explains politics did not enter into this. After the Harding landslide of 1920 when Smith was defeated for Governor, Al entered Getz's employ and in two years the Chicagoan learned to love him like a brother.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

Trade Commission

Local insiders hear of a reorganization of the Federal Trade Commission such that its own parents won't know it.

The plan involves a possible reduction of personnel and separation of the commission's functions into three parts. One would be the administration of the Securities Act, another regulation of trade practices and the third might team up with the Department of Agriculture to work out price-fixing policies. Each of these functions would have a commissioner in charge with full responsibility.

Split-Up

It's an important angle that this setup would make it simple for the Trade Commission to take over part of NRA functions when that organization is disbanded in favor of more permanent administrative machinery.

If insiders are correct this split-up will come within three months. By then code enforcement and price questions will be the only NRA problems left. The enforcement end is likely to be assigned

Dr. Hart introduced the first rubber-tired buggy and it was a ten days wonder.

Picture shows were undreamed of.

Wolf was still in Scotland.

"Wolf over the River" was the same as football now.

Two-bits worth of rose or violet was the limit on perfume.

Only "bad" women bobbed their hair and wore rouge.

Men follow their own and ladies didn't smoke.

Ice cream wasn't served every Sunday.

Coca Cola was just coming on the market. Dr. Hall was the soda jerker who introduced it in Big Spring.

Flashlights were unknown.

Everybody had a swell parlor coal oil lamp.

There were no street lights, no electric lights, no telephones. The first telephone to be installed was in the drug store and was No. 1—still is No. 1.

There were "no draft ventilation" houses and buggies.

Girls had to be at home by dark and chaperones were in vogue.

Bob Sanderson was still single.

Still in the habit of going to the Quilting parties and hay rides were the hot stuff.

Took all day to go to Moss Springs and back.

Mail was carried on stages and the trip to Gall took 12 hours.

All patent medicines were labeled Catarrh was the most popular disease.

There was a saloon next to the drug store, then on lower main street.

Everybody shot "Anvils" waved the flag mouchly and had lots of what is now called "bull", on holidays.

Women's legs were unseen.

Drug stores sold lots of drugs and people swallowed them.

Three-Four Bridge Club At Mrs. Diltz

Mrs. C. S. Diltz was hostess to the members of the Three-Four Bridge Club Wednesday afternoon for a very pretty Halloween party. She used the black and yellow color scheme effectively in her table covers and accessories. On the refreshment plate were black and yellow candies wrapped in cellophane and tied with black ribbon.

Guests of the afternoon were: Mrs. W. D. McDonald, J. B. Hodges, Sr., Alton Underwood, Morris Burns, O. R. Bolinger, Mrs. Underwood made high score and was presented with a pretty handkerchief. Mrs. G. H. Neely was a tea guest.

Mrs. Shirley Robbins made high for the club and received two novelty handkerchiefs.

Other members were: Mrs. Jake Bishop, C. C. Carter, V. W. Latson, Harry Lester, J. H. Kirkpatrick, Clyde Waitz, Jr., R. L. Carpenter, P. W. Malone, Joe Ernest and M. E. Tatum.

Mrs. Ernest will be the next hostess.

Objections

Not all of the local banks are out of the woods yet on the preferred stock proposition. Some of the national banks think they have to get permission from their stockholders before they can act. That promises to be a sweet job of salesmanship.

Several large holders of bank stocks have privately expressed their intention of saying it with war-whoops if they get the chance.

Berie

The banks are beginning to wonder if they backed the wrong horse when they picked brain-truster Berie to help them with their own reform plan. At the time they thought his seat was close to the throne. It isn't any more. They learn besides that Berie has rubbed a lot of Congressmen the wrong way to the point where there will be stiff opposition to anything he favors.

Bruere

The well informed whisper that Henry Bruere's job as credit coordinator turns out to be anything but a bed of roses.

Some of the credit agencies he has been asked to co-ordinate have only the foggiest notion of how credit machinery operates. Comment runs that they are even more ignorant than the average banker. But it is understood that Bruere will be given full authority to use the mailed fist wherever necessary.

Capital

American capital has started to put on the prodigal son act in a big way since the European crisis began to get important. Foreign capital has begun to follow suit. If this continues it may cause serious dislocations in the world capital market but it would make devaluation much simpler.

Shrine

A well known New Yorker just returned from Europe visited in Berlin the exhibition of the long-range gun which bombarded Paris. It was a shock to find it a special shrine for school children who are urged to remember that the dead demand revenge.

Dr. Hart and Dr. McIntire were the only physicians.

The only paper was "The Pantograph."

J. and W. Fisher's general store was the "Big" store.

Cecil Smith Buys Midland Polo Horses

Ranking Polo Player Of World Gets Three West Texas Ponies

MIDLAND—Cecil Smith, ranking polo player of the world who led the West team to win over the East in the recent tournament at Chicago, bought three horses from Tom Nance, Midland ranchman and horse breeder, on his visit here recently.

Nance said the visit of Smith came as a complete surprise to him. Without any previous correspondence the ten goal polo player called the ranchman, introduced himself by telephone and said, "I'm here to see a certain bay horse you have."

With Smith was George Miller, well known San Antonio polo horse dealer. The two were invited to drive out to the Nance ranch where the "certain" horse, Bobby, a six year old bay gelding by Anti-Pro, was with a trail herd, having stood up the previous night as a night horse. K. M. A., a six-year-old chestnut gelding also by Anti-Pro, and Junior, a five-year-old black gelding by Fresno.

Smith took his polo saddle, bridle, dress and other equipment from his car, "rode out" the three horses, expressed satisfaction with their handling and asked the price. Nance quoted a price, $400 for the bay, Bobby, and $200 each K. M. A. and Junior.

"You wouldn't shave the price of the three horses $75, would you?" asked Miller. Nance replied that he felt he had priced them reasonably, asking $100 less for the bay than he had intended doing. Result—the three horses were bought.

It developed that Smith's visit to the Nance ranch resulted from a tip about the Bobby horse from Cecil Childers, who recently bought Anti-Pro, who had bought the four year old dun pony which he took to Chicago and on which Eric Pedley played in the final match of the West-East tournament.

Cecil Smith will use the local ponies in the tournament at San Antonio this winter, planning to develop them for next year's West-East tournament.

Anti-Pro was the stallion bought by Nance from the Woody ranch when he first came to this section. Fresno, sire of the other horse, was brought here from the Matador ranch, a gift from Murdo McKenzie, former manager. All three of the horses bought by Smith were out of Five-Weils mares which Nance bought from Clarence Schaubauer when he first started his horse breeding business. Bobby and Junior were out of the same mare.

Local Rotary Will Fete Sweetwater And Midland Clubs

A joint ladies' night meeting of Rotary clubs from Sweetwater and Midland, with the Big Spring club acting as host, will be staged in the Settler hotel ballroom, November 2, beginning at 7:30 p. m. E. J. Mary, president of the local club announced Thursday.

R. T. Piner, chairman of arrangements committee of the local club, is working on final details for the meeting, and he stated Thursday that Andy Anderson, past governor of the forty-first Rotary district, Ranger, will be principal speaker.

Charlie Paxton, president of the Sweetwater club, in a telephone conversation with Mr. Mary Wednesday evening, said the Sweetwater club would attend the joint meeting 100 per cent, and would supply their part in the program for the evening.

John Howe, president of Midland club, was enthusiastic about the meeting, saying the Midland club would attend in a body.

Much enthusiasm is being shown by local members and the joint meeting promises to be one of the biggest events staged by Rotarians of this district in some time. Approximately 100 Rotarians and their guests will attend, it was said.

Federal Crime Curbers Move On Mid-West

Subcommittee Opens Hearing Where Racketeers Fear Only Federals

CHICAGO (UP)—The United States senate subcommittee seeking means of curbing crime, has brought its investigation into the midwest, where racketeers and kidnapers fear only the federal government.

Hundreds of officials and law enforcement officers of five states—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin—were called by Senator Royal S. Copeland, chairman, to testify before the committee hearings opening yesterday.

Before opening of the hearing Senator Copeland expressed the opinion the full power of the federal government soon would be directed toward stamping out all forms of racketeering.

Police officials, judges, prosecuting attorneys, criminologists and business men were called to testify at the first hearing of the committee in the midwest. Previous sessions were held in Detroit and eastern cities.

Hundreds Of Witnesses

From the hundreds of witnesses the committee hopes to learn what steps should be taken to deal with the two most menacing forms of modern crime—racketeering and kidnaping. Recommendations for federal legislation are to be made at the next session of congress.

Senator Copeland has invited the public to attend the hearings and has announced anyone with information of value to the committee will be heard. Business men and merchants have promised to tell how racketeers prey upon them, collecting tribute under threat of murder, arson and sabotage.

Startling Evidence

Evidence obtained here will be of the most startling nature yet revealed to the committee. Senator Copeland predicted. He hopes to conclude the hearing Tuesday of Wednesday.

Besides Senator Copeland the committee is composed of senators Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Louis T. Murphy of Iowa.

Senator Copeland, commenting on the purposes of the committee, said he believed the federal government "can and will stamped out racketeering in the United States."

'Phantom' Ship Is Held Cause Of Collision

Captain Tells Of Crash In Mid Sea, Fatal To Three Men

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A "phantom" ship drove the U. S. cruiser Chicago off its course and into the path of the British freighter Silver Palm, officers of the warship said in describing the mid-sea collision which killed three men and injured another.

The bodies of Lieut. F. S. Chappelle, Waterloo, N. Y., Lt. H. A. MacFarlane, Haverhill, Mass., and Chief Pay Clerk John W. Troy, Newport, R. I., were carried on the cruiser which reached port here despite a gaping hole in its portside. The opening extended from the waterline to the top deck. Machinist Joseph O. Oehlers, Camden, N. J., had an arm amputated in the collision.

Capt. H. E. Kays, commander of the Chicago, said a "large brown ship" appeared suddenly out of the fog on the starboard side of the cruiser, cutting across the bow. He did not know its identity.

"We slackened speed and sheared off to port to avoid a crash," he said. "Just then the Silver Palm loomed on the other side."

He and Admiral Harris Lansing, commander of the cruiser force, told how the men on the Chicago stood by awaiting an inevitable collision. They explained the cruiser, a 10,000-ton craft of the newest type, was traveling too slow to avoid the British ship.
